Waterbury, Conn.—With their backs against the wall and their clubs flying like flails, Chauncey Wheeler and Wheeler's colored helper fought their lives with a thousand big gray granary rats. The men had planned a slaughter of the rats, but when the animals were cornered they came precious near devouring the men. Wheeler and Wess killed 300 rats in the brief but deadly combat, which ended only when other men went to the rescue.

A horde of greedy rats infested H. R. Stone & Co.'s grain warehouse at Woodbury and devoured much grain. Wheeler and Wess, clerks there, determined to exterminate the pests. For days they plugged various rat holes, then by sprinkling grain temptingly they lured the rats into a small room where bran is stored. While the big drove ran here and there the men plugged the rat holes in the little room and attacked the rats with clubs.

But the rats, cornered, did not wait *to be clubbed. No sooner had Wheel*er and Wess slammed the door behind them than a great lean rat, squealing, jumped at Wheeler's face, behind it came the rest of the drove. They writhed about the men's feet, swarmed up their legs, bit savagely at their shoes and sprang high in the air in an effort to get at their unprotected hands and faces.

The men wielded their clubs like mad and yelled for help, but the squealing animals only attacked them the more furiously. One worked his way inside Wess's trouser leg and tore his flesh with his teeth. Another bit his teeth into Wheeler's hand. The two might have been eaten alive had not other employes heard their shouts and thrown open the door. The rats scurried out, but Wheeler and the two executioners dropped exhausted.

STICKERS FOR PUPILS' LIPS.

Teachers of Lynn, Mass., Accused of Using Court Plaster.

Lynn, Mass.—Dissatisfaction on the part of parents in the eastern sections of this city with the methods of teachers in the Eastern Avenue training school manifested itself at a hearing before the school committee the other evening, when W. R. Felter stated that there was "a strong objection to permitting teachers to lick sticking plaster and place it on the lips of whispering pupils."

The meeting was attended by 100 parents, and nearly a score of mothers intimated that they would make charges of a serious character to the members of the school committee in private.

Among the forms of punishment which various persons allege to have been used were forcing a quantity of green soap into the mouth of a boy and tying of stockings about the faces of pupils for whispering.

These reports will be investigated thoroughly by the school committee, and James M. Blaisdell, a member, said he would recommend the dismissal of any teacher convicted of such practices.

Women Plow Like Horses.

Kansas City, Mo.—Julian Fustrade, a Belgian, who conducts a truck farm within the city limits, has been utilizing his wife and 15-year-old daughter as plow horses. Both women made this acknowledgment to a Humane society officer to-day.

"It is no more than we were accustomed to in the old country," they declared.

Fustrade has been warned that women are not permitted to do such work in Kansas City, and that he would be locked up if it is attempted again.

Suicide Names Grave Diggers.

Stroudsburg, Pa.—George S. Felker, a resident of Kellerville, committed suicide by drinking carbolic acid. Felker, who lived alone, dressed himself in new clothing, carefully combed his hair and wrote a note giving directions concerning his affairs, even naming his grave diggers. He also wrote a judgment note for $101 to an acquaintance and tied a handkerchief about his neck to prevent the aid from staining his clothes. About two days ago Felker had some words with his wife and she went to live with a sister.

ICE AND COAL INSPECTOR.

Governor Stokes' signature having been attached to Phillip Heath's bill providing for an inspector is now enabled to take action for the protection of the local public. Under the provisions of the law, an inspector appointed by that body would be empowered to inspect the weight of coal, ice and any wares and merchandise offered for sale wherever they may be found. In case he finds the weight less than represented, it is his duty to prosecute the fraudulent individual, firm or corporation. The salary of such inspector not to be fixed at the pleasure of the Common Council, but it must not exceed $1,800 a year.

It is suggested that the city fathers might delegate such duties to the overseer of the poor. If this were done $5,000 a year would be an ample salary and would be money well spent in the interests of the householder.

IT WAS COLD LIKE THIS IN APRIL '74

THE MONTH SO FAR BEATS ALL THE RECORDS IT IS SAID.

Levi A. Judkins, section director of the United States Weather Service for New Jersey, in a statement made Monday, says:

"The cold weather that has prevailed in New Jersey constantly since April 1 while very unusual, is not without exception. It is necessary, however, to go back to April, 1874, to find a similar condition. Meteorological records for New Jersey, covering a period of 40 to 60 years, indicate that the coldest April was that of the year just mentioned—1874. At Newark (record dating from 1844) the average temperature for April, 1874, was 41.5 degrees; at New Brunswick (record dating from 1857) 42.4 degrees; at Vineland, 52.6 degrees; at Morristown, 41.7 degrees; at South Orange, 42.2 degrees, and at Atlantic City, 42 degrees; at the four last named stations the records extend over periods of 24 to 30 years.

"At Atlantic City the temperature for the first 20 days of the current April has averaged 40.8 degrees, or nine-tenths of a degree lower than the average for a like period in April, 1874. The total daily deficiency in mean temperature at Atlantic City from April 1 to 20, 1907, inclusive, is 5 degrees, while for the whole month, in 1874, the temperature was 5.6 degrees below the normal.

"At the other stations mentioned, the average temperature for the portion of the month that has past is slightly lower than the mean temperature for April, 1874.

"Thus it will be seen that the current April, so far, is averaging slightly colder than the same month in 1874. Whether it will continue its present character for the remaining days is still to be determined. A few days with temperatures above the seasonal average during the latter portion of the month, would tend to overcome some of the present marked deficiency in the temperature.

"Although snow has been of frequent occurrence during the month, the falls in some of the northern counties having ranged from 4 to about 6 inches, no records of April snowstorms have been exceeded."

CLEVELAND AS GUEST OF CORRESPONDENTS.

Speaks at Banquet of Princeton University Press Club.

A banquet was given at the Inn at Princeton Monday by the Princeton University Press Club, at which former President Grover Cleveland was the guest of honor. Mr. Cleveland made an after-dinner speech which sparkled with wit and good words. He spoke about the relation of the Press Club to the university and congratulated the members on their work. Other speakers were President Woodrow Wilson, Professor Stockton Axson, Dean Andrew F. West and Professor C. F. Brackett.

The Princeton Press Club was started several years ago by students who were corresponding for the big New York, Philadelphia, Boston and Chicago dailies. The purpose of the organization is to share the news and protect Princeton from scandal and yellow stories. The faculty works in close harmony with the club, as does Mr. Cleveland, who is an ardent admirer of the system.

VAIL SAYS "NOT GUILTY"

West Portal Postmaster, Miss Gillen, of this City and Hummell Plead to Indictments.

HELD IN HEAVY BAIL AS TO LIQUOR SELLING

Trial to Take Place On May 7—Hummell's Bail $4,000, While Others $2,000 Each.

Charles T. Vail, postmaster at West Portal; Joseph Hummell, his assistant, and a mail-carrier, and Miss Ellen Gillen, of Plainfield, were arraigned before Judge John L. Connet at Flemington Monday, upon indictments growing out of the fire which destroyed the old Cornish store property at West Portal on Sunday morning, February 24. The fire started about 5 o'clock in the morning. Postmaster Vail was absent and Hummell went to the store, it is said, to fix the fires.

Hummell claims, it is asserted, that in raking the stove it upset, setting the building on fire. The building was totally destroyed with its contents. There was about six thousand dollars insurance on the stock and building.

Vail came into possession of the property about two years ago, and sold it to Miss Gillen, on February 19 last.

The insurance companies refused to pay the claims, and demanded an investigation, which resulted in the arrest of the trio. Postmaster Vail, who is a former resident of Plainfield and whose wife still lives here, was released on $2,000 bail. The bail of Miss Gillen and Hummell was fixed at $10,000, and later reduced to $2,000, which was subsequently furnished.

Hummell was the first to be called to plead yesterday. Two indictments were found against him, one for burning the store of Miss Gillen and the other for burning the store to defraud the Westchester Fire Insurance Company. To each indictment he pleaded not guilty, and bail was fixed at $2,000 for each indictment.

Similar indictments were presented against Postmaster Vail. Mr. Vail pleaded not guilty to both indictments, and bail was fixed the same as Hummell's. The indictment against Miss Gillen was for complicity in the burning of the store to defraud the Westchester Insurance Company. She pleaded not guilty and promptly furnished bail in the sum of $2,000.

Hummell had expected that his bail of $2,000, which had been given to await the action of the grand jury, would hold good, but Judge Connet refused to accept it, and the $2,000 additional made it impossible for him to secure a bondsman, and he was led, weeping, to prison.

Postmaster Vail was also committed to jail, but he was released later on bail. The cases have been set down for trial on May 7.

OVERHEATED STOVE SET FIRE TO HOUSE

DEPARTMENT'S QUICK ARRIVAL SAVES CHARLES MAURER'S HOME.

An overheated stove at the home of Charles Maurer at 1,336 West Front street, started a blaze at 7:40 Sunday night that gave the fire department an hour's fight. The stove set fire to the floor and the flames crept between the partitions into a lot of inaccessible places.

A still alarm was sent to headquarters and the chemical engine and two horse wagons responded. The men found it necessary to cut away part of the flooring after which they were able to cope with the blaze with only the use of the chemical engine. The flames had gotten to the second story before they were finally extinguished.

The loss to the house is estimated by Chief Doane at $300, covered by insurance. The property is owned by Louis H. Morgan, who is at present living in the south. There was no loss to Maurer's furniture.

CO. K BOYS MAY GO TO JAMESTOWN EXPOSITION.

Reported That They Will Not Be Sent to Sea Girt This Year.

Instead of spending a week in camp at Sea Girt, this summer, it is more than probable that the members of Company K will be chosen among the State military organizations to visit the Jamestown Exposition. It was originally expected that the local company would be selected to make the trip to Washington to attend the unveiling of the McClellan manument, but other companies were picked and, it is said, that it was with the understanding that Company K should go to Jamestown.

The trip to the expisition will be for ten days and in many respects will be preferable to the one to Sea Girt which only lasts a week. The members of Company K are quite jubilant over the prospects of visiting Jamestown and are perfectly willing to forego the Washington trip in consequence.

North Plainfield Officials take Exception to Statements Made by City Judge.

It Is Generally Admitted That Custom Has Been for Lessees of Saengerbund Hall to Conduct a Bar.

City Judge Runyon's observation in passing sentence on two offenders who had imbibed too freely at Saengerbund Hall during a dance and then wandered across the city line for a scrap, that "it seemed like a sloppy way to run a municipal government," has met with a vigorous resentment on the part of the borough authorities.

It was asserted by one of the official Sunday morning that everything possible has been done to abate the practice of selling liquor at the hall during dances but the promotors of the various affairs have always found some way to get around the legal technicalities. The Gesang and Turn Verein has the customary club license for the benefit of its members but the interpretation has always been that it does not permit the open sale of liquor during a social affair. The committee has therefore notified local organizations to hire the hall for a dance and conduct the bar as a side issue.

The official took exception to Judge Runyon's criticism that no one seemed to show interest enough to stop the practice and asserted, that the Somerset county authorities, who have jurisdiction in the matter, have been appealed to on numerous occasions but they have seemingly taken no notice. As long as the county people permit the club license to be broadened out to the extent of leasing the bar privilege to whoever hires the hall for a dance, it was said, the borough people can take no action.

Judge Runyon's remarks were occasioned by the arraignment before him of Harry Molleson and William Mullen, young men both of whom had gotten intoxicated at the hall during a dance held there Friday night. They had been arraigned on the same charge only three weeks before and on that occasion it was also a dance of that had led to their undoing. The judge was upset by their relation of the occurrence, especially after Mullen had told him that there was "plenty of stuff" sold and he gave his opinion of the methods that allowed it to be done.

ACCUSE TWO MEN OF BEING FIRE BUGS

MORRISTOWN RESIDENTS ARE HELD IN $10,000 BAIL EACH.

Roundsman Michael Naughton, of the Morristown police force, preferred charges of incendiarism against Frederick Schwickhardt, Jr., and Thomas Fitzgerald on Friday night, and they were committed to the county jail by Justice of the Peace John Condon, who, upon Schwickhardt's request for bail, fixed it at $1,000. Later this was raised to $10,000 each. The authorities have been satisfied that several recent fires were of incendiary origin and the police have suspected Schwickhardt and Fitzgerald of being concerned in them and have kept them under surveillance.

Late Friday night Naughton says he saw Schwickhardt, who is a member of Washington Engine Company, go into the house on Market street and shortly after come out and after walking a short block and a half stop at Bank street and the Park. A few moments later there was an alarm of fire from Market street and Naughton, stepping up to Schwickhardt, placed him under arrest and took him to the scene of the fire, which was the engine house. Flames had started under the stairway in the rear of the building, but after a brisk fight were extinguished, the damage to building and furniture, the latter belonging to the company, being $300.

When Schwickhardt was taken to police headquarters he denied knowledge of the fire, but in the meantime the police had also arrested Fitzgerold, who when charged with the crimes, confessed, the police say, that he and Schwickhardt had been concerned in the fire of March 4 that destroyed the Mansion House stables, and also that in the rear of the Trimmer property on South street. He asserted, says the police, that in each instance Schwickhardt "touched them off."

Fitzgerald, is the steward of the Morristown Field Club, and Schwickhardt is a butcher employed in his father's place on Washington street. Both are young married men.

EXPECT A LIFE SENTENCE

Mayor Fisk Hopes that Kidnapping Charge Can be Sustained Against Negro.

TO EXPEDITE CASE

Prisoner Is Taken to County Jail—Mr. Fisk Says He'll Work For a Conviction.

Charles Hopes, the nineteen-year-old negro, held by Judge Runyon Monday without bail to await the action of the grand jury on the charge of attempting to assault and to kidnap three-year-old Martha Mead, a white child, was taken to the county jail yesterday by Detective Berger. It is said that short work will be made of the case as a warning to others. The police believe that they can sustain the kidnapping charge and if they succeed Hopes will spend the rest of his life at hard labor in the penitentiary.

In speaking of the charge of kidnapping on which the negro is held, Mayor Fisk said today:

"I feel very strongly on this matter. We must put an effective stop to the practice of any rascals, be they white or black, luring your children to their ruin. Particularly should this be the case regarding such an atrocious crime as that perpetrated by Hopes. In my opinion, I believe that we have a good case against the prisoner. He took this little child into the theatre and secreted it. In fact he hid it away where nobody could see where it was. For all we know he might have intended to steal it away for good. The law does not state how long the kidnapper must hold his prey."

"In this case," continued the Mayor, "the child was so young that he in fact carried it off by force. Had he taken the little girl to North Plainfield for instance there would be no question about his crime and therefore I am led to believe that the fact that he took it into a building and hid it away will enable us to make out a case against him. For my part I intend to do all I can to have the prisoner convicted of kidnapping. It will be fit punishment for him and will be a warning to men of his type that New Jersey is no place for them to commit their dastardly deeds."

"BILLY" LEE'S HOTEL DAMAGED BY FIRE

BLAZE STARTING IN BOWLING ALLEYS CAUSED $500 DAMAGES.

The throwing of a lighted cigarette or cigar into a box of sawdust in the bowling alleys of "Billy" Lee's hotel at Scotch Plains, threatened the destruction of the entire hotel Sunday morning, and resulted in at least $500 damage. The fire smouldered all Saturday night and worked its way through the base-boards, the floor and the ceiling into the bar-room, gaining considerable headway when discovered by Mr. Lee's daughter, Miss Sadie Lee, Sunday morning.

The bowling alleys were closed at 11:30 o'clock Saturday night, and it was 7 o'clock yesterday morning, when Miss Lee detected the odor of burning wood. She awakened her father, who immediately summoned the fire department to his place. By the time the department arrived the *fire was eating itself into the bed-*ding and timbers below. The firemen worked for over a half-hour before the fire was finally extinguished. The property is fully covered by insurance.

CONDIT—COGER NUPTIALS.

Ceremony at Former Mayor's Home in Westfield.

Miss Ethel L. Coger, only daughter of John J. Coger, district clerk, and Frederick F. Condit, of Westfield avenue, were married at the home of former Mayor Asaph W. Grant, in Westfield avenue, on Saturday afternoon. The Rev. C. J. Greenwood, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated, assisted by the Rev. Dr. W. H. Steese, pastor of the First Presbyterian church.

Miss Grace M. Harden and Miss Sophie M. Condit, a sister of the bridegroom, were bridesmaids, and Miss Winifred Grant, a neice of the bride, was flower girl. Harry F. Haddon, of Trenton, was best man. The ushers were Arthur D. Tuttle and Aubrey B. Smith, of Westfield. After a wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Condit will reside at 12 Summit avenue, Westfield.

"The Weeping Prophet."

"The Weeping Prophet," reflections on The Prophecy and Lamentations of Jeremiah, by H. A. Ironside, the evangelist, who is now conducting special meetings in this city, is attracting considerable attention. It is published by Loizeaux Brothers. It is not so much a commentary upon the books of Jeremiah and Lamentations, as of a series of meditative studies, which have been jotted down at various intervals during the past few years. As a help to Bible students the book is considered invaluable.

Former Supreme Court Justice is Picked as the Likely Republican Candidate.

PROSPECT ARE BRIGHT

Hudson County Lawyer Well Qualified For the Honor—Popular Throughout State.

The gubernatorial campaign is expected to open soon, and continue with increasing interest and warmth throughout the summer. The conventions will be held early in the fall. Owing to the factional rows among the Democrats during the Legislature, the Republicans regard the outlook for landing a man of their political faith in the gubernatorial chair as most encouraging. Since the disgraceful scenes in the House of Assembly during its closing hours, when a rough and tumble fight among the Democratic members was threatened, and which was averted by the cool-headedness of the Republican Assemblymen, the chances of Democratic gubernatorial success have been greatly diminished.

The Republicans have been casting about for a candidate who will be looked upon with favor by the independent voters of North Jersey, where the Democrats made their gains last fall. At the same time the prospective candidate must be known and somewhat popular in the southern section of the State.

Such a man, it is believed in many quarters, will be found in former Supreme Court Justice Gilbert Collins, of Hudson county. He is an eminent lawyer, and popular throughout the State. He is well qualified for the honor.

Admitted to the bar in 1869, he practiced his profession in Jersey City, and became mayor of that city. Governor Griggs recognized his ability, and appointed him associate justice of the Supreme Court in March 3, 1897. He resigned several years later to resume the practice of law. His preceptor in law was the late Justice Jonathan Dixon.

SUBURBANS DEFEAT SAFE WORKS' TEAM

WON BY SCORE OF 15 TO 8 ON CLINTON AVENUE GROUNDS.

The Suburban A. C. played its first game of the season on the Clinton Avenue grounds Saturday afternoon, when it defeated the Safe Works' team by a score of 15 to 8 in an interesting contest. VanArsdale and Romand occupied the points for the victorious team, while Dwyer and Conole were the battery for the opposing nine. In the sixth inning VanArsdale went to left field and Bolmer occupied the box for the rest of the contest. The Suburban nine showed up strong in the field and at the bat and not once through the game was there any danger of the team losing.

The Safe Works' team excelled in the error department, making eight to two for the Suburbans. The lineup follows:

Suburbans—Davy Gordon, cf; Randolph, 2b; Beekman, 1b; Arrow, 3b; Halard, ss; Bolmer, lf-p; Romand, c; Weaner, cf; VanArsdale, p-lf.

MRAVLAG IS THREATENED

Prominent Physician of Elizabeth Receives Warning Him that He Must Die.

A DEMAND FOR $500

Two "Black Hand" Communications Received By Doctor, Who is Not Alarmed—Detective Investigating.

Dr. Victor Mravlag, of No. 1,062 East Jersey street, Elizabeth, has received two letters signed "Black Hand," one demanding money and the other predicting the doctor's death within the next three months. Both letters are now in the hands of the police.

Dr. Mravlag is chief consulting physician at the General Hospital at Elizabeth and is a leading surgeon in Union county. He has served as member of the City Council and has been spoken of as a candidate for the Mayoralty. He is about fifty-five years old and has a wife and several children. One of his sons is a lawyer and is employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company.

Dr. Mravlag said yesterday that he received in his mail two weeks ago the following letter:

"Dr. Victor Mravlag—Be prepared to turn over $500 to a person who will meet you at the corner of High street and First avenue on the night of April 10.

"BLACK HAND."

Dr. Mravlag showed his courage by going unaccompanied to the place designated in the letter on the night named by the writer of it. He never carried a revolver, but he took with him a pair of forceps with a heavy handle for use in case of an emergency. He says that he stayed at the corner of the streets named for at least two hours, but no one approached him for money and he saw no suspicious looking person in the neighborhood. About five days later he gave the letter to the police, but they were unable to find a clew to the sender. The letter was mailed at Elizabeth.

The doctor had almost forgotten the matter when he received another Black Hand letter yesterday. This read:

"Dr. Mravlag.—You will die before July 17. BLACK HAND."

At the top of the note was a rudely drawn hand. Dr. Mravlag took the letter to the police and they have renewed their investigation. Dr. Mravlag says that while he may have some enemies he hardly thinks that any of them would seek his life. He is a member of various organizations and when it was suggested that some fellow members may have been playing a practical joke on him he remarked that if that were the case he thought it a pretty poor kind of "joke," as it was calculated to cause his family serious alarm. As for himself, he says he does not fear that an attempt will be made on his life, but thought it his duty to hand the letter to the police.

MONO FIELD CLUB 2, CLINTON AVENUE 0

NEITHER TEAM MAKES AN ERROR IN FIRST GAME OF SEASON.

Greatly to the surprise of the friends of the Clinton Avenue team, the recently organized Mono Field Club won Saturday's contest on Cressent park, by a score of 2 to 0. The game was close throughout and the hits were few and well scattered. Craft and Norton, last year's Somerville battery, and Jack Enright covered second base for the Monos, and assisted largely to win the game. Craft was in fine condition, striking out eleven men, while Norton caught him in fine style.

Randolph and Squires divided the honors pitching for Clinton Avenue, the former striking out three men and the latter four. Features of the game were the playing of Hub Conover at short and Trotter at third. Neither team made an error.

Plainfielder Weds Newark Girl.

Chester Hurlbert Guinn, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Guinn, of Carleton avenue, and Miss Cora May Crosby, of Newark, were married at the home of the latter's parents on Halsey street, Newark, Saturday morning. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Hunter, of Newark, and was witnessed by a large gathering of friends. Following a reception, Mr. and Mrs. Guinn left on a wedding trip and on returning will make their home in Newark. Those from this city who attended the wedding were Mr. and Mrs. George H. Guinn and Raymond M. Guinn.

P.H.S. PUPILS' CONCERT

Musical Clubs Presented Fine Programme to the Delight of Large Audience.

MYGRANT A FEATURE

Trained Dogs Introduced As a Vaudeville Stunt—List of Those Taking Part in the Affair.

The concert given by the Plainfield High School musical clubs at the High School auditorium Saturday evening was exceptionally fine. The feature was the cornet playing by the assisting artist, W. S. Mygrant, of Fanwood, who is leader of the Thirteenth Regiment Band of Brooklyn. The audience showed its appreciation by enthusiastic applause and Mr. Mygrant responded generously to the hearty encores. The solos by Mr. Mygrant were, "Erinnerung au Prague," "Gounod's Serenade," "Vaise Brilliante" and "Bonny Sweet Bessy." Particularly good were the cornet duets by W. S. Mygrant and Percy L. Mygrant. They responded to the encore with "Hear 'Dem Bells," the solo part of which is composed by Mr. Mygrant. They were accompanied on the piano by Miss S. Louise Mygrant.

Two numbers were given by the High School orchestra: "La Fiance Waltz," and "Sing Me to Sleep," a two-step. The solo parts in the Glee Club were taken by Miss Quenna Tillotson and Guion Fountain. The pieces were, "Forward, Gally Together," "Marching," "Sing Me a Song of the Sea," "Tom, the Piper's Son," "When You'll Remember Me," and "Rocked in the Cradle of the Deep." A surprise awaited the audience and the conductor, S. B. Howe, Jr., for, at the conclusion of one number, Guion Fountain presented Mr. Howe, in the name of the musical clubs, with a baton as a token of appreciation. He replied with a few words of thanks.

"The Four Leaf Clover," a soprano solo by Miss Queena Tillotson, and "Sing Me to Sleep," as an encore, were followed by the Mandolin and Banjo Club: "Angels Serenade" and "Miss Rinnie Waltz" and "Summer Secrets" given for an encore. Other selections by the Mandolin Club during the evening were "Wonderland," a waltz song, and "Katie," the words of both pieces being sung by the Boys' Glee Club. A violin solo entitled "Cavatina" was played by Miss Arline Brown, accompanied on the piano by Miss Elsie Knowlton.

The members of the male quartette, which gained considerable popularity in the High School last year, were present as spectators Saturday but their absence was noticed in the part in the programme. The quartette was composed of the Messrs. Malcolm Davis, Gideon Fountain, Guion Fountain and William Flanders. They sang some of the old-time favorites.

The novel feature of the programme was that furnished by Monsieur le "Professeur" Guillaume Briggs and his two well-trained fox terriers. With all the ease and grace of a typical ring master the "Professeur" made the dogs do clever tricks.

The entertainment concluded with the High School song by the Glee Club.

The accompanists—Miss Mabel Maxson, Miss S. Louise Mygrant, Miss Elsie Knowlton, Miss Frances Rittenhouse, Miss Margaret Leggett; Manolin and Banjo Club—Miss VanNorden, Miss Leggett; Messrs. Howe, Leggett, Williams, Smith, Gavett, Bond, Leland, Linabury, de Brigard. The Orchestra—Misses Brouwer, A. Brown, M. Brown, Knowlton; Messrs. Doane, J. Dutcher, Dutcher, Taylor, Rice, Mygrant, Briggs.

The Glee Club—Misses Randall, Collins, Jones, Eckert, Pound, Radford, Brown, Jewett, VanTuyl, C. Kanen, F. Kanen, M. Carman, Tillotson, Carr, Cuming, Brouwer, FitzGerald, Smalley, Stutsman, H. Rogers, DeLaney, Dunham, Wyns, Andrews, Smith, Brousse, Messrs. Leggett, J. Dutcher, R. Dutcher, Briggs, H. de Brigard, Bond, Linabury, Doane, Fountain, Reed, Thickstun, Caldwell, Hardcastle, Bogardus, S. Fisher. Conductor —S. B. Howe, Jr.

Makes Wet Ashes Burn.

New York, April 23.—Before reporters and others in the boiler room of the Park Avenue Hotel James W. Geyer, a cigar manufacturer in Tenth avenue, yesterday afternoon gave a demonstration of his process of burning anthracite coal ashes. Three boilers are used for generating steam for the hotel. With his process yesterday Mr. Geyer made one boiler do the work of the three for one hour and with a smaller quantity of fuel than would ordinarily have been used in one furnace. He mixed three parts of ashes and one part of coal and then saturated the heap with the liquid from the bottom of the furnace. This liquid was made by putting a tablespoonful of a yellowish powder into a gallon of water. Between four and five gallons were used to saturate a hundred pounds of ashes and coal. At precisely 9 o'clock the wet mass was shoveled into the furnace, where there was a small bed of coal fire. Seven minutes the entire mass was at white heat and the ... was doing the work of three. The steam gauge stood at seventy-six pounds for a whole hour, when the other furnaces were opened again.

HOLD NEGRO YOUTH FOR FIENDISH CRIME

Dastard Committed to Jail Without Bail—He May Get Life Sentence.

POLICE RESCUE CHILD

19-Year-Old Charles Hopes Said Enticed a 3-Year-Old White Child

—Kidnapping Charged.

Added.

Charles Edward Hopes, colored, 19 years old, was arraigned before Judge Runyon, sitting as a State magistrate, Monday, on a charge of attempting to kidnap, and assault Martha Mead, a three-year-old tot. She was captured redhanded at the New Plainfield theatre, Sunday afternoon.

Hopes has been hanging around the theatre for some time. Martha Mead, with her brothers, Warren Mead, six years old, and Jocelyn Mead, eight years old, was playing near the theatre shortly before 6 o'clock. Hopes called Martha and Warren to him, and took them into the theatre.

Jocelyn Mead, who had heard of the Martin and other kidnapping cases, became frightened at the act. He ran to his home at 145 West Second street, and told his father, George W. Mead. The latter ran from the house and to the theatre.

He found the door locked. The discovery awakened terrible suspicions and he ran with all haste to the police station. Detective-Sergeant John Flynn hustled out with his car as soon as his story was told. Patrolmen Kelly and Payne joined him.

Flynn and Payne forced in the theatre door, and the officers rapped aside door, and the officers ran inside. They found Hopes and the little girl in the smoke room. The worst suspicions as to Hopes' intentions were substantiated. The girl was unharmed, but the officers had arrived only in the nick of time.

The little boy was not in the place. It was learned afterwards that the negro had sent him out to buy some candy as soon as he got the children indoors.

Hopes took his arrest coolly, even manifesting something of bravado. He did not attempt to deny his crime, and made a full confession to Chief Kiely.

Hopes was still unruffled when he faced Judge Runyon Monday morning. Answering the court's formal inquiries, he reaffirmed his confession in level tones, acknowledging that his statement was correct in full, that it was voluntarily given, and that he appreciated the gravity of its contents.

In ordering Hopes held for the grand jury, without bail, Judge Runyon said to the prisoner:

"If the grand jury knows its business, and I think it does, you will be indicted on these charges. If the court trial knows its business, and I think it does, you will be a middle-aged man before you leave prison.

"You can thank your God you live in a law-abiding community. If you had committed this crime in your native state, you would be dead now. When a community like this is brought face to face with the act of this sort, wonder at lynching grows less.

"It is men like you that make the colored race down. You have one, by this act of yours, as much as one man can do, to set back the advancement of the colored people in the faith and trust by whites."

The little girl is too young to appreciate her escape from a terrible outrage, and Dr. J. S. Lufburrow, the city physician, who was called into the case by Chief Kiely immediately after the arrest, has made formal report in declaration to the effect that she was not harmed.

Hopes has a mother in New Plainfield. She visited him at the station house Monday morning.

Hopes will be imprisoned for life, if the charge of kidnapping is sustained. A law passed at the last session of the Legislature fixed that penalty. If the jury finds the charge falls to the ground, Hopes will be guilty of only a misdemeanor, his attempt having failed. The maximum penalty for it is $1,000 fine and three years in prison. A prominent lawyer said this morning that the kidnaping charge, although the court would probably go a good way to sustain it in a case of this sort, was debatable.

In addition to the other charges, Hopes will have to face a complaint of breaking and entering the theatre. W. J. Counsell, the manager, indignant beyond words over the occurrence, hastened to make the charge when he came downtown Monday morning.

NEW JERSEY TROOPS AT THE UNVEILING

ARRANGEMENT MADE FOR THE QUARTERING AND FEEDING OF MILTIA.

All arrangements have been completed for housing and feeding the New Jersey militiamen at the unveiling of the McClellan monument at Washington, D. C., May 2.

Major Harry B. Salter, together with Captain Field, commander of Troop B; Captain Paul Konges, quartermaster of the Third Regiment, and Lieutnant Lauterman, of Battery A, N. G. N. J., made the arrangements.

The New Jersey companies commanded to attend the ceremonies are the Third Regiment provisional brigade, under command of General Collins, 850 men; Battery A, 66 men and four officers, and Troop B, 60 men.

In the parade there will be four companies of coast artillery, one regiment of infantry, one battery of field artillery, one squadron of the fourth cavalry, six companies of United States marines and one hospital corps of the regular army, under command of Colonel Charles A. P. Hatfield, of the Thirteenth Cavalry, U. S. A.

Governor Stokes' staff, consisting of Colonel Frelinghuysen, Lieutenant Colonel Bryant, Captain Vickers, Captain Edge and Captain Margerum, will act as escort, and in addition his party will probably number General Brinetnall, General Murray, General Condon, General Spencer, General Meany and General Campbell.

General Collins' staff will consist of Lieutenant Colonels Gilgyson, Broadway, Murray, Patterson, Majors Salter and Walker, Captains Margerum and Clark and non-commissioned staff, Hospital Steward G. D. Laird, Standard Bearer Newkirk and Buglar Rowley.

WHY GREEN GOODS ARE SO HIGH NOW

WEEKLY MARKET LETTER EXPLAINS CONDITIONS IN THE SOUTH.

The present high prices of fresh vegetables and green goods is explained from one standpoint in a weekly market letter received by local grocers. It is:

We have had freezing cold weather all through the South. At Savannah, tomatoes, cucumbers, and probably fifty per cent. of the potato crop have been killed. At Savannah, the vegetable crop is in the same condition. The peach crop in Georgia is fully fifty per cent. destroyed, if no more. Whole sections will not have any peaches for shipment this year, and Florida, in many sections, beans, cucumbers and tender vegetables have been frozen, so that there will be no shipments from there. Of course, there will be a limited supply of such articles until Norfolk and North Carolina shall begin to market their crops, which means that, for some time to come, string beans, cucumbers, etc., will be no lower and probably higher. The bulk of the spinach from Norfolk, Va., has been marketed and we look for higher prices in the immediate future.

"Old potatoes have also advanced in price, owing to these conditions. We looked for a large quantity of Bermuda onions on the steamer due this week, but she has very light receipts. Very little real, first-class Southern lettuce coming to market at present, and Boston lettuce is bringing from $5 to $6 per barrel of four dozen. Most of the lettuce being handled is of the hot-house variety, which is selling at from $.25 to $1.50 per dozen. Charleston asparagus owing to cold weather, has more than doubled in price, the price asked being from $11 to $12 per dozen for the fancy kind, and the other stock averaging from $1.25 to $9 per dozen."

ELK TEETH AS EMBLEMS.

President Asks the Order of Elks to Discontinue Their Use.

The Butte, Mont., lodge of Elks is in receipt of a letter from Grand Exalted Ruler Melvin, enclosing a copy of a letter from President Roosevelt relative to the reported destruction of elk by men gathering elk teeth. President Roosevelt says that it has been reported to him that many elk have been slaughtered for no other purpose than to obtain their teeth. He expresses the hope that the lodge of Elks will take measures to discourage the use of elk teeth as emblems of membership and as ornaments.

Grand Exalted Ruler Melvin has taken the matter up with the order throughout the country and is urging the discontinuance of the use of the teeth. Many lodges have already taken action, and the Butte lodge has adopted a resolution declaring against a continuance of the use of the teeth.

For several years hunters in the West have been making collections of elk teeth and holding them for an advance in prices because of the growing scarcity. One man at Billings has a collection of many thousands. The declaration of Elk lodges against their continued use will likely cause a severe drop in market prices.

UNCLE SAM'S PRINT SHOP

It is the Biggest Establishment of Its Kind Anywhere in the World.

PAY $50,000 WEEKLY

Has An Invested Capital of Ten Million Dollars and Can Produce An Entire Book In a Night.

Working on a stupendous scale, and with resources beyond the control of any similar establishment in the world, the United States Printing Office today represents a public institution of the highest type, and holds an enviable place in nation achievement. The official nature of its operation is really of an exclusive sort, and the public is but slightly acquainted with its methods and output.

A glance at the great range of subjects handled by the department—aided by its carefully organized and equipped bureaus for research, reveals sufficiently the part the institution plays in the educational life of the nation. The list includes history, diplomacy, military and naval operations in the United States and elsewhere, statistics of all kinds, laws, finance and the tariff; education, mineral resources, fisheries and agriculture in all its branches, and the farmer's bulletins, reading, welfare and prospects, the crops, insects, animals and soil, the trees and plants of the United States and those of other countries adapted to growth here; medicine, ethnology, zoology, astronomy; coast and inland surveys, geographical research, and the progress of foreign nations in industries, art and science. An idea of the volume of work this implies may be gathered from the fact that the Department of Agriculture alone prints approximately 400 different topics annually.

Millions Invested.

The equipment with which this work is done and which enables office books to be produced in a night, is the result of years of slow and continuous growth, and represents $10,000,000 of invested capital as against the $125,000 which, in 1860, purchased a small building, 23 Adams presses, 3 rotary presses, and about twenty tons of type to do the Federal printing of the newly created department. The job department was stated to consist of 32 cases of job type and 19 "spittoons."

Three years ago the principal building in which the great office is housed was completed at a cost of $2,500,000, and its dimensions are 405 feet long, 175 feet wide, and seven stories high. It is equipped with 15 elevators, a refrigerator plant, a filtration plant, 8-300 horse-power boilers, and 3 engines. The plant contains nearly 16 acres of floor space, and does its work with 600 cases of type, 60 type-setting machines, nearly 150 printing presses of all sizes, 600 individual electric motors, and ruling, folding and binding machinery of bewildering variety and vast capacity. Connected with the establishment is an electrotype foundry said to have no equal in size in the world. It is capable of turning out 2,000 electrotypes daily. Under the sidewalk is located a large storage vault for plates, with a capacity of 2,000,000 electrotypes.

An Enormous Pay Roll.

Wages to the amount of $100,000 are dis bursed fortnightly of the 4,000 employes, of whom there are 1,200 compositors, these being divided into *eight divisions, each of which by it-*self would be considered a large composing force. A distinct line of work is assigned to each of these divisions. Congressional bills, special catalogue and library work, statistics and directory work, legal composition, technical composition, Congressional Record, specifications and job printing.

The job printing of this office requires a separate department employing about 150 compositors and including nearly 40 presses. Finally, the printing office has seven branch *offices located in the Government de*partments. Each branch is fully equipped with type and presses; and in two of these branches there are complete binderies.

The immense quantity of material of all kinds consumed by the Government Printing Office in the course of a year can be indicated by a few of the large items (given in round numbers). During the last fiscal year there were purchased 7,000,000 pounds of machine book paper, costing $250,000; 41,000 reams of supercalendered paper of varying sizes, and 5,000 reams of coated or "cut" paper, together costing about $106,000; 40,000 pounds of writing and ledger paper, costing about $106,000; 40,000 pounds of printing ink, costing $24,000; 22,000 feet of leather, and 10,000 dozen skins, costing $47,000; 6,000 packs and rolls of gold leaf, costing $40,000; 1,400,000 pounds of binders' board, costing $42,000; while the lithographs, engravings and cuts purchased by the Public Printer from private con*tractors for use in publications print*ed and bound in the Government plant cost $273,000.

A Monopoly In Its Field.

Within his field the Public Printer has a complete monopoly, for the law compels every official who requires printing, and has an appropriation to pay for it, to patronize him. He supplies estimates on work as a matter of information, but finally charges for each job whatever his records show it to have cost.

It is doubtful if there can be found in the United States a manufacturing plant employing one-tenth of the number of persons employed in the Government Printing Office, in which the two highest officials are paid as little as the Government pays the Public Printer and his chief clerk. The salary of the first is $4,500 a year; that of the chief clerk, $2,750, and the figures have not been changed in 20 years.

With the exception of compositors and binding operators the wage-earners employed in the Printing Office receive in actual compensation little more than the average wages paid in commercial offices; but the additional expense of annual leave and liberality in the number of workers results in a higher rate of pay. At the present time there is no piece-work composition; every compositor in the Government Printing Office is paid 50 cents per hour for an eight-hour day.

Uncle Sam's liberality in allowing the annual leave with pay, although not a definite asset to the recipient, *is a definite liability to the Govern*ment; and when this item is included, it raises the cost of composition approximately to $26 a week.

A FEW DONTS FOR WARM WEATHER.

"The following don'ts for warm weather should be borne in the mind of every housekeeper during the summer," says a well-known New York physician, "and one of the most important of those I don't carry. For once a woman begins to fret and fume she exhausts nervous and physical energy and reduces her vitality until she is a prey to both mental and physical ailments.

"In the matter of summer undergarments, those of stockinette, I think, are the best, for the reason that they absorb the perspiration and are so sheer that they retain but little of the heat of the body.

"I tell my patients to be late in keeping an engagement rather than hurry, and to take time in doing their housework during the hot days of summer. Another dangerous practice in summer is the drinking of many iced drinks, which chill the stomach, and along the same lines *I say, don't overeat, for an overload*ed stomach means an attack of indigestion and a subsequent illness. Dispense with meats as much as possible.

"I firmly believe if women would go to bed early on hot nights and lie there with their eyes closed, even though they cannot sleep, that fewer of them would be tattered during the day, and they would certainly have more strength to withstand the enervating effect of hot weather. Sitting up late at night is one of the worst ways of exhausting nervous energy, and the pernicious results are plainly apparent every day in evidence in summer by the dull, weary eyes and the lack of ambition and interest noticed among women in every-day affairs. Lying down in the middle of the afternoon is also a habit to be shunned.

"After removing the clothing preparatory to a nap, rub the body off with a coarse towel to dry it, and if it is not too expensive an alcohol bath would be of benefit at such a time. If this is not desired, one may be taken in tepid water, just a trifle warmer than the body—never in cold when perspiring, for, like the iced drinks, it checks the natural perspiration and is a shock to the body that might result in congestion.

"Never sit in a draught, for there is no easier or surer way of contracting cold, catarrh and even pneumonia. Sitting beside a window or in front of an electric fan is all right so long as there is no wind blowing from the opposite direction. During hot weather particular care should be taken of the eyes, for perspiration is bad for them, and the glare of the sun has a tendency to weaken and cause the minute veins to become congested."

REV. DR. J. S. ZELIE WILL BE THE ORATOR.

Programme for Memorial Day Observance Is About Completed By the Detail.

Col. Mason W. Tyler, chairman from the Memorial Detail to secure a speaker for the public exercises to be held in Reform Hall Decoration Day afternoon, announces that Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will be the orator of the day. All the other details in connection with the annual observance are being arranged in a satisfactory manner and the customary programme will be carried out.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 72, G. A. R., has accepted the invitation to attend divine services the Sunday night previous to Memorial Day in the Presbyterian church, Westfield. The Post will be accompanied by the Women's Relief Corps and friends of the two organizations.

The People's Bank Opens.

The People's Bank, the new institution started at Westfield, was opened on Wednesday. The apparent need for this institution in that town is shown by the fact that there are now one hundred depositors and $50,000 has been deposited in the bank. It is the intention of the company in the near future to erect a building suited to the purposes of the company.

PTOMAINES KILL A CHILD

Infant's Death is Attributed to the Condensed Milk It Was Fed On.

R. E. HUMPSTON'S CHILD

Dr. Endicott and Drs. J. B. and Norman Probasco Worked Hard to Save the Little One's Life.

Ptomaine poisoning caused the death, Monday morning, of the ten-months-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Humpston, of Dunellen avenue. It is supposed the ptomaines entered the baby's system in a mixture of condensed milk and water given to it by Mrs. Humpston.

Mrs. Humpston had been feeding the child on a brand of condensed milk, and prepared the usual quantity shortly after 8 o'clock Monday morning. At 10 o'clock the baby was taken ill. Its condition became worse rapidly, and Mrs. Humpston called up Dr. G. W. Endicott's office. Dr. Endicott was out, and the office of Drs. J. B. and Norman H. Probasco was called. Dr. Norman Probasco responded to an urgent appeal and hurried to the baby.

He found the child in a dying state. That was at 12 o'clock. Mrs. Humpston had had no idea of the serious condition of the baby, and when Dr. Probasco told her what was impending she was almost prostrated. Dr. Probasco diagnosed the case as one of ptomaine poisoning after examination, and administered all the antidotes. Dr. Endicott reached the house shortly after Dr. Probasco's arrival, and confirmed the diagnosis. Both physicians did all that was possible for the child, but the heart action failed steadily and the infant died at about 1 o'clock.

The milk is held responsible for the child's death. It is said to be the only thing so far as is known through which the poison could have entered the untue one's system.

It is believed that the poisoning was caused by the can being opened sometime before the milk was fed to the child.

CUSTOMS AND DOINGS HUNDRED YEARS AGO.

Those of Today Are Much Different.

Every gentleman wore a queue and powdered his hair.

A gentleman bowing to a lady always scraped his foot on the ground.

All the population of a village assembled at the inn on "post day" to hear the news.

The church collection was taken in a hat at the end of a pole with a bell attached to arouse sleepy contributors.

An old copper mine in Connecticut was used as a prison.

Imprisonment for debt was a common practice.

There was only one hat factory, and that made cocked hats.

Virginia contained a fifth of the whole population of the country.

Tw stage coaches bore all the travel between New York and Boston.

The Susquehanna Valley was not so well known as the heart of Africa now is.

Quinine was unknown. When a ma had ague fits he took Peruvian bark and whiskey.

There was not a public library in the United States.

Books were very expensive. "The Lives of the Poets" cost $15.

*A day laborer received two shill*ings a day.

A horseman who galloped on a city street was fined four shillings.

Crockery plates were objected to because they dulled the knives.

A man who jeered at the preacher or criticised the sermon was fined.

Dry goods were designated as "men's stuff" or "women's stuffs."

Stoves were unknown.

Six days were rejuired for a journey between New York and Boston.

Many of the streets were not named and the houses were not numbered.

The parquet of a theatre was called the pit, and was filled with the rabble.

The whipping post and pillory were still standing in New York and Boston.

Three fourths of the books in every library came from beyond the Atlantic.

Twenty days were required for a letter to go from New York to Charleston by land.

A New England girl was not allowed to marry until she could bake a loaf of bread and cuit it in smooth, even slices while it was still warm.

When a Virginian started on a journey to New York he made his will and bade farewell to his friends as though he never expected to see them again.

When a man had enough tea he placed his spoon across his cup to indicate that he wanted no more.

The favorite novels or worldly young women were Victoria, Lady Mandeville and Malvern Dole.

Dances in Philadelphia were given every two weeks, but young men under 20 and girls under 18 were not admitted.

At the Christmas quilting parties games were fashionable, with kissing penalties.

BRYAN TO INVADE STATE

Promises Martine that He will Address People's Lobby at Newark on May 1.

AT DOLLAR DINNER

The Commoner's Editor and Democracy's Trustee Promises to Discuss the Initiative and Referendum.

As on a previous occasion when his influence was sought to induce William Jennings Bryan to speak in this State, James E. Martine was signally successful in his trip to Boston after the Democratic leader. After a chase from New York city to midway between Springfield and Pittsfield, Mass., Mr. Martine bagged Mr. Bryan's consent to speak in Newark.

With Herman B. Walker, a journalist and reformer, and Edward A. Whittier, of Orange, Mr. Martine started after Mr. Bryan Saturday afternoon. The desires of the trio to have Mr. Bryan consent to speak before the People's Lobby, a non-partisan body dedicated to the purity of elections and legislation, on the initiative and referendum, which is being advocated by the Lobby, Mr. Walker drew up an initiative and referendum bill that was introduced at the last session of the Legislature, Mr. Bryan is an advocate of the initiative and referendum.

In New York the Martine party went to the Hotel Imperial, where *Mr. Bryan stays when in the metro*polis, and learned that Mr. Bryan had proceeded to Boston. Reaching Boston Sunday morning, they heard that Mr. Bryan was there and a telephone message to George Fred Williams placed them in possession of the information that the leader had gone to Springfield.

Mr. Bryan was located in Springfield. He was to speak there at a big Y. M. C. A. meeting. Mr. Martine sat with him on the platform at the meeting, which packed the house.

By appointment, Mr. Martine and his companions had a conference with Mr. Bryan at lunch at the Nayhaset Club. The Nebraskan was surrounded by a group of influential Massachusetts Democrats. When the request to speak in Newark was placed before him, he held out no hope of granting it. He was too busy, he said. He had engagements to speak every night in New England on until May 1, and on the latter day he was to address the New York Legislature.

Mr. Walker and Mr. Whittier were downcast, but Mr. Martine did not lose hope. "Wait," he said; "we won't give up yet." With his companions he boarded the same train with Mr. Bryan, who was travelling to Pittsfield to spend the night, and in the car continued to the attack.

He pleaded and argued, and the burden of his statements was "Colonel, you must come."

Mr. Bryan finally succumbed to the persuasions of his friend. He said he would speak before the People's Lobby in Newark, on the evening of May 1, if Mr. Martine could arrange the affair.

As soon as Mr. Martine returned to New Jersey Monday he started arrangements for the Bryan appearance. The Democratic leader will speak at a dollar dinner. Plans for the affair are rapidly forming.

MANY FRIENDS ATTEND FUNERAL OF JOHN H. TIER.

Service at His Late Home on Bank Place Conducted by Two Clergymen.

With a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance, the funeral of former Freeholder John H. Tier was held at his late home on Bank place Tuesday afternoon. It was conducted jointly by Rev. Mr. Koechli, of Somerville, former pastor of the German Reformed church, Craig place, and Rev. E. P. Johnson, acting pastor of Trinity Reformed church.

At the opening of the service, Psalms were read by Mr. Koechli, after which scripture lessons from the New Testament were read by Mr. Johnson. He also told of a letter of sympathy to the bereaved family from Mrs. Grover Cleveland, which he was privileged to read. He was followed by Mr. Koechli who gave an account of several visits he had made to Mr. Tier during his long illness. The clergyman told of the patience he had displayed during his long illness and of his desire to be at peace with God. Mr. Tier's seventy-sixth birthday would have occurred yesterday and Mr. Koechli added that he was spending it at his home in Heaven. A tender prayer was offered by Dr. Johnson in closing.

There were a large number of floral tributes from friends, several of them being handsome set pieces.

Interment was made in Evergreen cemetery, the pall bearers being Edward Drake, Harry Coddington, Worth Coddington, James Tilby, William Gaddis and L. E. Barkalew.

Play Begins on May 4.

It was planned to begin regular play on the course of the Westfield Golf Club, Saturday afternoon, but owing to the poor condition of the greens and the course, it was found impossible. The play has therefore been postponed until Saturday, May 4.

SPORTS HERE AND THERE

DIAMOND DUST

The Laurel Athletic Club of Bound Brook, members of the Inter-City Amateur League, will have a strong team on the diamond this season. It will be composed of practically the same players as last year, with a few exceptions. Harvey Moynihan will do the catching again and Norman Harney and Joe Hayes, the latter of Raritan, will do the pitching. The rest of the infield will be composed of Hawk on second, Shaw at short and Ruger at third. The outfield will be the same as last year. It is doubtful whether Capital Hopperson will play, as he has shown made good with Steven's Institute team. The club will only pick players from its membership. Hugh C. Pierce, of North Plainfield, has given the club the use of his grounds at Bound Brook for another year.

It is doubtful whether Leal's School will have much of a team this season. There is a woeful lack of material and it seems impossible to pick a nine that can make a good showing, and besides the boys have not devoted much time to practice.

Chauncey Murphy, who is doing the pitching for the Plainfield High School, this year, is making good. His work on Saturday against the Adelphia Academy team, of Brooklyn, was most creditable. The P. H. S. boys are now putting in a fast game.

Walter Nelson, of New Market, who is catcher and captain of the Rutgers College team, this year, has been signed to catch for the Y. M. C. A. nine, and this will be welcome news to the followers of the team. Nelson and Davis are expected to do the receiving-end work.

"Jimmie" Montross is quite sure to land with the Newark Atlantic League team. He is in good condition and capable of making a fine showing.

Phil. Smith's work with the Elizabeth Club will be watched with unusual interest this season. It will be a severe test for the young twirler, but his friends predict success for him.

The Lackawanna League officials will meet at Newark Wednesday night to adopt its schedule.

The Atlantic (outlaw) League has been the means of taking many good players away from the Lackawanna League, yet the latter organization appears to be getting in good shape.

GOLF.

Charles B. Morse, chairman of the golf committee, of the Park Golf Club, is busily engaged on the season's schedule which he hopes to have ready this week. The course will be opened for regular play on Saturday, May 4.

A strong feature at the Park Golf Club this season will be the competition for new cup every month. Several individuals, as well as the club, have offered these trophies and it is believed that these contests will bring out a large field.

The Plainfield Country Club schedule is delayed a little this season owing to a change in the golf committee, but J. Whitney Bacon, the new chairman, will send them out this week.

The present indications are that the coming season will be the most prosperous in the history of golf. There are a great many new players and every club is offering handsome prizes and attractive schedules.

The season's competitive schedule of the Arsdale Golf Club has been announced. Beginning with the kickers' handicap, which was run off Saturday, there will be something going on every week until the end of October. Several innovations are to be tried. On August 15 a team match has been arranged—Chasers vs Fooolers. Just what qualifies a person to make one or both of these teams has not been announced. On June 15 there will be another team match between the married and single men. The members will begin play for the club championship on September 14. Mixed foursomes have also been scheduled. Recently the officers voted to admit ministers and women to honorary membership.

The Wilmington Country Club has announced an open tournament for June 13, 14 and 15. An effort will be made to get a representative entry from the New York, Philadelphia and Washington districts. The Wilmington club has one of the best eighteen hole courses in the East.

The competitive season of the St. Andrew's Golf Club began with a handicap. Walter Stern has been re-elected captain for another year.

There is a chance that the Yale team will have a match with the Dyker Meadow Golf Club sometime next month. James L. Taylor, the Dyker Meadow captain, is in communication with Dwight Partridge, who is trying to arrange a date.

Mrs. T. S. Wheeler, of Park avenue, is much improved from a recent illness.

Miss Anna Stevens, of Jersey City, has been spending a few days with friends in town.

FOOLISH DEFINITIONS.

Grafter—One who reaches the pile before we do.

Social Science—The art of keeping friendly with one's mother-in-law.

Fiancee—Pronounced with a broad "say," because she talks so much.

Head—A bulbous excrescence used by many simply as a place to rest a hat on.

Bridge—A means of crossing from affluence to poverty. See whist, gambling, etc.

Hero—A lucky chap who happens to be Johnny on the spot when his chance comes.

Proposal—An overture (Webster's Dic.). An overture by a gold band, not a brass one.

Palm—A chocolate colored growth frequently seen in swell restaurants. See also Pullman cars, etc.

Rain—A meteorological condition consequent upon the weather man's prediction of a fine day.—Chicago American.

KINDLY THOUGHTS AND WAYS.

The spoiled woman is never youthful. She is invariably selfish, and selfishness is aging.

If you would keep young at heart, and that means young outside, in spite of the years, banish petulant moods, combat irritability.

Sometimes we wonder why it is that so many old persons become disagreeable. Sometimes it is ill-nature that has made them old, says Home Chat.

Kindly feeling may be cultivated, and this cultivation begins when the child is first taught to be gentle in its play with companions, civil to servants, respectful to the aged and kind to helpless animals.

As the child grows from girlhood to womanhood this habit of courtesy and thoughtfulness for others has become part of her character—a part that will tend to the eternal youthful spirit if the cares and the flatteries of life are met in the right way.

HOW TO LIVE WITH MICROBES.

Drink wine—gout.

Drink whisky and get d. t.

Eat dessert and get paresis.

Drink water and get typhoid.

Eat meat and meet apoplexy.

Eat oysters and get toxaemia.

Drink milk and get tuberculosis.

Drink coffee—nervous prostration.

Eat vegetables and weaken the strength.

So the true system of proper living is to eat and drink nothing and thus become, early in life, an angel.—Exchange.

TO LAND HIM IN A WEEK.

Monday—Be pretty; smile once.

Tuesday—Beprettier; frown at him.

Wednesday—Be pensive; sigh once.

Thursday—Laugh at him.

Friday—Confess your regard for him.

Saturday—Be out.

Sunday—Name the wedding day.—From the Delineator.

NEW CLASSIS PRESIDENT

Rev. C.H. Schuegas New Head of Newark Classis of the Reformed Church.

AN IMPORTANT SESSION

To Install Rev. A. Peter Tulp On May 8—Editor Asks to Become a Minister.

At the afternoon session of the Newark Classis of the Reformed church Wednesday, in the Ryde Park Reformed church, East Orange, delegates to the Particular Synod, to be held in May, and to the General Synod, to be held in June, were elected. Robert Clark, Sr., and P. Smith were elected as delegates from Trinity Reformed church. The pastor, Rev. Dr. Schenck, is recuperating at Atlantic City, was therefore unable to attend. Rev. C. H. Schneegas, pastor of the German Reformed church, represented that congregation.

Arrangements were made for the installation of the Rev. A. Peter Tulp, pastor-elect of the New York Avenue Reformed church, and the Rev. Ernest Soure, pastor-elect of the Reformed church of Linden.

Elaborate preparations are being made for the installation of Mr. Tulp at the New York Avenue church on Wednesday night, May 8. The Rev. Dr. Daniel H. Martin, pastor of the Clinton Avenue Reformed church, has been engaged to preach the sermon, and the Rev. Henry Merle Mellen, pastor of Christ Reformed church, will conduct the devotional services. The Rev. C. H. Schneegas, pastor of the German Reformed church, the new president of Classis, will preside.

The installation of Mr. Soure at Linden will be another elaborate affair. It will take place Monday night, May 6. The Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, pastor of the North Reformed church, will preach the sermon. The Rev. Henry Merle Mellen, pastor of Christ Reformed church, will deliver the charge to the pastor, and the Rev. W. W. Comer the charge to the people. President Schneegas will also preside at this service.

At the morning session the Rev. C. H. Schneegas, pastor of the German Reformed church, was chosen president, succeeding the Rev. E. M. Sherwood, of Linden. The Rev. Albert von Schlider, of Montclair Heights, was elected temporary clerk.

A call extended to the Rev. Charles B. Condit, of Liberty Corners, was approved. A special meeting of the classis will be held on May 8 to receive Mr. Condit into membership.

George H. Donovan, religious editor of the Advertiser, appeared before the classis and asked to be taken under its care. Mr. Donovan will enter the theological seminary at New Brunswick in September.

In the report of Rev. Charles H. Schneegas for the German Reformed church, there was a gratifying surprise, when he stated that during the past year $600 had been raised toward the mortgage indebtedness. Trinity Reformed church presented an excellent report, showing that it stands as before third on the list for benevolent gifts. There were many kind expression regarding Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck.

NURSERY NOTES.

Don't pick the baby up every time it cries.

Never force a baby to sit up. It will sit up of its own accord when its spine and muscles are strong enough.

The baby's stomach is intended for food and drink. Avoid physic before giving medicines unless they are actually needed.

Never lift a baby by its arms, but under the arms. A child's arm is very easily dislocated, and a long injury may result from the dislocation.

A prominent physician claims that there will be no diptheria or scarlet fever for children if they eat plentiful of onions every day, especially when there is a scarcity of fresh fruit.

Among the various causes for crossness of children are some very common ones, such as hunger or thirst, improper sleep, overheating, uncomfortable clothing and the pernicious feeding of sweets.

FIXING FEES FOR ADVICE

President Reed Appoints Committee of Bar Association to Arrange Minimum Charge.

OFFICERS ARE CHOSEN

Constitution and By-laws Adopted—Members Assessed—Some Lawyers Not in Organization.

The Plainfield Bar Association met in the offices of Reed and Coddington, Wednesday, for the purpose of perfecting the details of organization and to listen to the report of the committee on certificate of incorporation and by-laws. Eleven years ago the association was partially formed, but has not functioned to any extent. Last summer a meeting for reorganization was held and arrangements made to incorporate. At that time the officers were elected: President, Chas. A. Reed; vice-president, John H. Van Winkle, Sr.; secretary, William M. Stillman; treasurer, William R. Codington; trustees, Craig A. Marsh, John H. VanWinkle, Sr., and Nelson Runyon.

At Wednesday's meeting these officers were endorsed to serve for the coming year and a motion adopted that the certificate of incorporation be properly executed, filed and recorded. The committee which had charge of the details comprised Isaac P. Runyon, Clarence L. Murphy and Chas. A. Coddington. It was voted that the annual meeting of the association be held on the third Wednesday in April.

An important action taken Wednesday was that authorizing the appointment of a committee of three to investigate and report at the next meeting of the association, on the question of fixing minimum charges for work and services performed by the members for their clients. This has been agitated more or less in the past, no fixed rule being in force as to what a lawyer might charge a client. The committee as appointed by President Reed consists of District Court Judge William Newcorn, J. H. VanWinkle, Sr., and Carlos C. Gallup.

These lawyers have not yet identified themselves with the association: William N. Runyon, Winfield S. Anderman, F. J. Huff, V. W. Nash, Jr., Charles McNabb, Louis Clement, Geo. Ball, William G. DeMeza, John P. Owens, Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., and H. C. Suydam.

The association is organized for the purpose of maintaining the honor and dignity of the profession of the law; to cultivate social relations among its members; to suggest and urge reforms in the law and to aid in the administration of justice. Any attorney at law of the State practicing in Plainfield is qualified for membership and may be admitted in accordance with the by-laws.

OPPOSE MR. HASTINGS FOR ANOTHER TERM

FRIENDS OF PROF. OSGOOD PRESENT HIS NAME TO GOV. HUGHES.

Much surprised was aroused at Albany yesterday, when it became known that a systematic campaign had been mapping on the part of Hugh Hastings, of this city, as New York State historian, a position which he has held for twelve years. His term of office will expire on Thursday, April 25, and it is said that the opponents of Mr. Hastings want Prof. Osgood, of Columbia, appointed. Much correspondence has been sent to Governor Hughes advocating a change in the office, and in the letters and petitions, according to the current story, Prof. Osgood's name was suggested.

Legislators and politicians generally are not inclined to look with favor on any prospective new candidate. Mr. Hastings personally is well liked by every man at the capitol. His conduct of the work of his office has been praised officially many times, and the town office under Governor Morton, and most of the people who heard the story are asking why the Governor is considering any change in the place. Governor Hughes has not given any indication of whether he will reappoint Mr. Hastings or give the place to a new man, but there is a feeling that he will make no change, which it is said would please a majority of those who are associated with Mr. Hastings in State work.

TO BE ERECTED AT SOUTH AVENUE AND BERCKMAN STREET.

WORK ON IT COMMENCED

Plant Has Grown Rapidly Since Its Removal Here From Jersey City—New Factory for Concrete.

Plans have been filed with Building Inspector Doane by S. W. Rushmore for a large new factory building that is to be erected at South avenue and Berckman street for the business of the Rushmore Dynamo Works. The concern's present plant just west of the Scott factory has been outgrown in its capacity for many months past and larger quarters have been made imperative.

Actual work of construction has already commenced and the building will be one of the largest of its kind in the East End. The new style reinforced concrete method is to be used throughout and all modern improvements will be installed. The main building will face on South avenue and will be 226 feet long by forty-seven in width. It will be two stories in height and will have several ornamentations that will do away with the severe appearance so often noted in structures of this kind.

There is also to be a power house that will be a good-sized building. It will be one story high and will measure forty by twenty-seven feet. It will be equipped with an electric crane and other needs of an up-to-date shop.

The plans for the structures were prepared by Tucker & Vinton, a New York concern which makes a specialty of reinforced concrete buildings. They have the contract for the work and have made rapid progress within the past week. They are keeping a large force of men employed constantly in order to complete the job as soon as possible.

The Rushmore plant was originally brought from Jersey City to Plainfield and since entering the local field has grown rapidly. At the present time every bit of available space at the plant now occupied is kept in use in order to keep up with orders. The concern makes a specialty of dynamos and electric searchlights.

MISS STEWART A BRIDE

Charming Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Stewart Becomes Mrs. Talliaferro.

A SOCIETY EVENT

Rev. Dr. Zelie Officiates—Mrs. Percy H. Stewart Matron-of-Honor—Handsome Gowns Add Brilliancy to the Occasion.

Miss Elizabeth Stewart, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Stewart, of West Seventh street, and William Fleet Talliaferro, also of this city, were married last Wednesday at 4 o'clock, at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of two hundred society folk, from this city and distant points. Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelie, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, officiated.

The bride, gowned in white satin, trimmed with old point applique lace, an heirloom, carried a bouquet of bride roses and her ornaments were a diamond crescent and a diamond and ruby ring, gifts of the groom. She was attended by her sister-in-law, Mrs. Percy H. Stewart, as matron-of-honor. She wore a white embroidered satin gown, trimmed with lace, and carried a bouquet of pink carnations. Eva Stewart, a niece of the bride, and Master Ned Lewis, dressed in white, acted as flower bearers. The best man was Robert Talliaferro, brother of the groom, and the ushers were Percy H. Stewart and Edward Geer.

It was a white wedding and this scheme was effectively carried out through the various rooms. In the hall, on the piano and dining room rooms palms and white roses and carnations were used extensively. In the hall behind a large bank of palms, an orchestra was seated and after the wedding march an attractive programme was rendered during the reception, which last until after 6 o'clock.

Early in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Talliaferro left for a wedding trip. They will be away a month and upon their return will reside at 502 West Seventh street.

The bride Talliaferro received a wealth of gifts, including rare imported china, cut-glass and silverware and many other things both useful and ornamental. The display was considered one of the most attractive ever seen in Plainfield.

The groom is a member of one of the oldest families in Virginia, and he formerly resided in Gloucester county. He is now engaged in business in New York as a cotton broker, being a member of the firm of Talliaferro & Sherwood.

Mrs. Charles Moore, of West Front street, has been detained at home several days by illness.

WATER PROBERS ACTIVE

Likely that an Engineer will Be Engaged Next Friday to Assist in Investigation.

APPROPRIATION SURE

Common Council Will Provide for Expenses When Called Upon—Report to Be a Thorough One.

The water investing commission got down to real business at its meeting in Mayor Fisk's office, Friday, and as a result more was accomplished than at any previous meeting when preliminary matters were discussed. Those present were Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Henry L. Hall, Joseph O. Osgood, J. B. Dumont, William Jones, R. T. Torbert, W. S. Tyler, W. A. Coddington, George P. Melfick and Secretary Leon R. Thurlow.

The commission mapped out its line of action and definitely decided what it hopes to accomplish. In the first place it will determine the cost of installing an independent water plant in the city and its maintenance. Then the conditions and rights of the Plainfield-Union Water Company and lastly what proposition the Plainfield-Union Water Company desires to make to the city.

The engineering committee, of which Joseph O. Osgood is the chairman, proposes to go ahead and secure this information and also the present value of the local water company's plant, as well as such other data as it thinks it may need to arrive at a satisfactory conclusion of the whole matter. The committee will meet on Friday night, April 26, when it is possible that the selection of a competent engineer may be made to assist in conducting the investigation. It may be necessary for the engineer to make a few independent borings.

The question of expense in making the investigation will be met through an appropriation by the Common Council. This matter has been reported to the Council, referred to the finance committee, and at the request of Mayor Fisk has been held back until more definite information is obtained upon the amount which will be necessary. There is no doubt but that the appropriation will be granted. It is the purpose of the engineering committee to make a very thorough investigation so that every fact obtainable will be incorporated in the report, and the question will be settled for good.

The commission realizes that it is under obligations to the citizens of Plainfield and North Plainfield to give them all possible information and the investigation will probably take all summer. Many important matters were thrashed out last night and every member of the commission now knows where he stands in relation to the work to be undertaken.

HE WINS HIS FIGHT FOR $20,500 FEE.

Lawyer Gets Verdict Against an Elizabeth Railroad Magnate.

After sixteen minutes' deliberation, the jury in the case of James W. M. Newlin, of Philadelphia, against Samuel P. Langdon, of Elizabeth, in the United States Circuit Court at Trenton, Thursday afternoon, returned with a verdict of $20,500 in favor of the plaintiff. This was the amount sued for. The case was tried before Judge William M. Lanning.

Newlin is a lawyer and Langdon a railroad magnate. Newlin was retained by Langdon to defend him in a suit brought in the Pennsylvania courts. A judgment of $372,000 had already been obtained against Langdon, and Newlin claims that an agreement was made whereby he was to appeal the case to the higher courts and was to receive twenty-five per cent. of the amount he was able to have shaved off the verdict.

A verdict was returned for $106,000, a saving of $266,000. Newlin claimed he was entitled to over $50,000, but brought suit for only $20,500. Langdon is at the present time traveling in Europe. He was represented by J. A. Kiernan, of Elizabeth. Newlin took care of his own case.

Newlin is the man who several years ago tried to have the late Judge Kirkpatrick impeached on the ground that he had been influenced by the corporations in the famous asphalt litigation.

FOURTEEN YEARS PASTOR

Rev. William H. Miller Honored by Children of Mary of St. Joseph's Parish.

GETS A PURSE OF GOLD

Also a Bouquet For the Priest, Presentation Speech Made By Miss Jacot—The Programme.

In honor of the completion of fourteen years as pastor of St. Joseph's church, the Children of Mary of that parish gave an entertainment and reception to Rev. William H. Miller, Wednesday. The affair was held in the Sunday-school room and was largely attended. A feature of the affair was the presentation of a gold purse and a handsome bouquet of flowers to the pastor by Miss Louise Jacot, on behalf of the Children of Mary.

Miss Jacot spoke as follows:

"Rev. and Dear Pastor: Regarding the fourteen years which you have spent among us from a retrospective point, we cannot help realizing that the mysterious hand which moves the universe seems to hold in reserve for every crisis of society those who in particular are best suited for works which the Almighty has destined to accomplish, and it is in this light that we view you.

"We have been silent observers of your energetic labors among us. Your influence over your rapidly increasing flock is unbounded and we cannot help admiring how eminently qualified you have proved yourself to gratify the pride of a people who count you among the successful champions in the race for Catholicity and its interests in the Trenton Diocese. And I who have the honor of addressing you on this occasion rejoice with all who are present in offering our heartiest congratulations as an evidence of our good will and future loyalty and as a mark of our appreciation of your untiring efforts in the cause of religion. We wish you happiness and many long and well spent years among your devoted people."

The presentation followed the opening song, "Our Greeting," by the Children of Mary. Miss Josephine Smith sang two solos, "Sometime" and "Love Me and the World Is Mine." Miss Katherine Egan gave several recitations, and the Children of Mary sang its anniversary song. Other features of the programme were piano solos by Father Miller, and phonograph selections. A social time followed the entertainment, during which congratulations were extended to Father Miller.

STOKES SIGNS THE REFERENDUM BILL

ALSO APPROVES $500,000 YEARLY APPROPRIATION FOR STATE ROADS.

Governor Edward C. Stokes Wednesday signed several bills which will have a direct bearing upon Newark and other first class cities in this State. The most important of these is Assemblyman Tumulty's bill establishing initiative and referendum in this and every city, town, borough and village in the State.

The new law provides that upon the presentation of a petition signed by 10 per cent. of the voters of any municipality or county in the State, to the legislative body, such as the Common Council, township committee, or Board of Freeholders, such body shall consider any ordinance, resolution, or other statement of public policy which the petitioning voters may ask.

Measures so proposed must be given consideration by the body or board to which they are presented and will take precedence over all other measures except such as are immediately necessary for the preservation of the public peace, health or safety.

Unless such measures shall be passed by the municipal body without change or amendment and shall be approved by the Mayor or other chief executive within ninety days after the petition is presented, it shall be the duty of the chief executive officer to issue a proclamation submitting the proposed measures to the people at the next succeeding or regular election or at a special election.

This law will make it possible to put up to the Common Council of Newark any measure that is favored by 6,000 voters. It is probable that many of the reformers who have been fathers of the initiative and referendum law will begin the circulation of petitions calling for new taxation, excise and local legislation.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Stiglitz, of the borough, are entertaining relatives from Newark.

—Commencing Saturday, May 4, and continuing for the rest of the summer all the principal blacksmith shops in the city will close at noon on Saturday.

—T. J. Mumford, of Ninth street, is preparing to build a cottage on his land near the grounds of the Plainfield Country Club, where he expects to reside during the summer months. He will also make a number of improvements about the grounds.

EX-FREEHOLDER TIER DIES

After Long a Illness, Well-Known Citizen Succumbs to Complication of Diseases.

AGED SEVENTY-SIX

Had Served Six Terms As Member of County Board and Had Been a Member of the Common Council.

Former Freeholder John H. Tier, one of Plainfield's best known citizens and one who was closely identified with its early business life, died at his home on Bank place Wednesday morning, after an illness that extended over two years. He was affected originally by pleuro-pneumonia and though his life was despaired of then, he eventually rallied and was able to walk about. Last October he was again taken with a heavy cold and heart trouble and dropsy developed, these troubles causing his death. The end had been expected for the past week but he was conscious almost to the last minute.

John H. Tier was born in New York city seventy-six years ago and as a boy learned the butcher's trade in Washington market. He remained there until a young man, first coming to Plainfield for a rest after a long spell of hard work. He intended to stay for but thirty days but he was so well pleased with the town that he decided to remain. He first worked for Alvah Gardner on East Front street and within a short time was taken into partnership by him. They were together thirteen years in a small building recently removed from the site now occupied by the Woodbull & Martin structure.

Mr. Tier afterward took full possession of the business and moved to Park avenue, near Front street, thence to Park avenue, where the Jeffery building is now. He sold out twenty years ago to I. and G. Lewis and went to Elizabeth, but only remained a short time. Since then he had been living quietly at his home.

When he first began the butcher business on his own account, Mr. Tier saw the possibilities there were in the sale of ice and he was the first man to peddle the commodity in Plainfield. He made a good deal at his market and noting that a good trade could be built up he secured the property on Bank place and the rights to the pond which bears his name and harvested the crop each winter. It was only a comparatively few years ago that he was the leading ice dealer in the city.

While the meat and ice business would have been enough to occupy the full attention of the ordinary man, Mr. Tier was always for reaching out and the manufacture of ice cream attracted him. He enjoyed the distinction of being the first man to make and sell it in the town and Tier's cream became famous throughout the county. The business is still conducted by his sons.

Though kept very busy by his various enterprises, Mr. Tier found time to take municipal office and served three terms as Councilman during the seventies. In 1893 he was elected to the Union county Board of Freeholders and remained for six terms, being succeeded by William A. Westphal. He was also a member of the Gazelle Engine Company in the volunteer fire department days and once served as foreman.

Mr. Tier was married on February 6, 1856, to Miss Gertrude Voorhees, of Plainfield, who survives him, together with two sons, John H. Tier, Jr., and William N. Tier, both of Plainfield. There are also three brothers, Jeremiah Tier, of Rochester, N. Y.; J. E. Tier and Daniel Tier, of Rahway, and one sister, Mrs. L. V. Martin, of Chautauqua, N. Y. Another brother, Washington I. Tier, of Rahway, died two years ago. There are seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild.

MAYOR FISK ACTS TO PROTECT CHILDREN

Issues Instructions to Chief That All Under 14 Years of Age Must Be Home at 8 P. M.

LIKELY CURFEW LAW

Radical Move Takes to Save Little Ones From the Dangers of the Street After Night fall.

A curfew order was issued by Mayor Charles J. Fisk Tuesday. It directs the police to send all children under 14 years of age, unless accompanied by older people, home when found on the streets after 8 o'clock at night.

The order reads as follows:

"SPECIAL POLICE ORDER.

"Mayor's Office.

Plainfield, N. J.,

"April 30, 1907.

"P. S. Kiely, Chief of Police,

"Plainfield, N. J.

"You are hereby directed to issue an order to all member of the police force to direct all children under 14 years of age, found on the streets after 8 o'clock in the evening unless accompanied by parents or guardian, to go immediately to their homes. This order must be read to members of the force both at morning and evening roll call.

"CHARLES J. FISK,

"Mayor."

Mayor Fisk said this afternoon that as soon as Senate Bill No. 290 was passed he would take further action. The bill is directed against the evil of young boys and girls about dances, poolrooms, bowling alleys and the like.

The W. C. T. U. recently asked the mayor to take action regarding curfew regulations. The chief of the Negro Hopes, who tried to outrage a little girl on Sunday afternoon, moved the mayor to action.

FOR THE TOILET.

The size of the hips and abdomen may be reduced by certain general exercises, but the very best and most interesting way to go about such a reform would be to join a gymnasium class where, so many times a week, one would be obliged to go through the various forms. Such exercises are made really fascinating and you will not find them burdensome at all, but quite the reverse. For home treatment, it may be suggested that night and morning one stand up very straight, head back, chest erect, and without actually touch the floor with the finger tips and without bending the knees. Jumping the rope is also good. After the exercise take a quick cold bath. One can reduce the fleshy neck by twisting the head from side to side with muscular effort, then up and down. The idea is to break down the fat cells to make the muscles firm.

The best in hair tonic is an excellent and unusual dandruff cure. If the dandruff is very, very bad, you should shampoo your hair frequently. Never destroy the dandruff by using a fine comb for the growth will increase as the flesh of the scalp is inclined to be irritated. You should be careful about your shampoo. Never rub a lump of soap over the hair. Use the soap melted or shampoo your glory hair with eggs.

You can cleanse your finger nails by dipping the orange wood stick in peroxide, then in finely powdered pumice stone, and rubbing the mixture under the edges of the nails. This treatment will not prove injurious at all.

When shampooing the hair, it is not necessary to beat the egg. Break them into a small bowl. Apply some to the hair allowing them to drain into the washbowl, which has previously been filled with hot water. The last spray, then apply the rest of the eggs, rubbing them in with sufficient friction to cause them to foam up and distribute themselves thoroughly all through the hair. Rinse once more, and always very thoroughly.

Permits for Additions Granted.

The fire and building committee from the Common Council has given the auto firm of Morris Brothers permission to erect an addition to their garage on East Fourth street. It is being built in the rear, next to the railroad and concrete stock is used. Similar permit has been given to U. S. Crane to erect an addition in the rear of his store on West Front street.

ACKERMAN BILL SIGNED

New Law Will Prevent Public Utility Corporations Disfiguring Borough Streets.

CONSENT NECESSARY

Mayor Fisks Regrets That Measure Does Not Apply to Cities—Provisions of the Bill.

Senate Bill No. 10, introduced by Senator Ernest R. Ackerman on January 14, was signed Monday by Governor Stokes and is now a law. It is an act relating to telephone, electric light, heat and power companies, making it unlawful for any such concerns to erect poles, or string wires thereon for telephone service or for the distribution of electricity for electric lights, heat or power, in any of the public roads, highways, streets, avenues or alleys in any township or borough in the State, without first obtaining from the township committee, common council or other legislative body of the township or borough, permission to do so.

The law also provides that before erecting posts or poles the company or corporation must first obtain the consent of the owner of the land in writing, and it is also unlawful for any company to extend its lines without getting the required consent.

When a copy of the bill was shown to Mayor Charles J. Fisk, today, by a reporter of The Daily Press, His Honor said that for some reason he had failed to notice the bill, but he considered it most unfortunate that it did not include the cities so that Plainfield could take advantage of its provisions. The bill does, however, affect North Plainfield and no doubt the council of that borough will take some action on it.

PRINTERS' LEAGUE MEETS.

Delegates Report No Strike Troubles Outside of Newark.

The New Jersey Union Printers' League met Sunday in quarterly session at Elizabeth at Pfuzer's Hall, corner of South Broad street and Washington avenue. The delegates were welcomed by George J. Reiss, president of the Typographical Union, and R. Elmer Throssell, of Newark, presided as chairman of the meeting.

Representatives from nearly all of the printers' unions in the State attended, as well as from Typograph, local Union No. 6, of New York. John W. Hays, vice president of the International Union, and Secretary Phillips, of the Wilmington (Del.) Typographical Union, were present as guests and made addresses.

Resolutions were adopted on the death recently of Samuel T. Woodrow, of Camden, late State organizer for New Jersey of the International Typographical Union. All the delegates reported conditions in the trades excellent and no strike troubles outside of Newark.

After the business session the visitors were entertained at a banquet by the Elizabeth union. Newark was represented by R. Elmer Throssell, H. F. Gottlob and John T. Hudson.

CHURCH AND CLERGY.

Several London churches receive incomes of $7,500 to $10,000 from pew rents.

The Church of St. Magnus the Martyr in London and nine other old English churches have streets running through them.

YOUNG BRIDE RISKS LIFE FOR HUSBAND

MRS. PETRA LIEN RIDES THREE MILES IN NIGHT ROBE TO SUMMON AID.

BITER COLD HAS NO TERROR

Woman First Carries Injured Man from Burning Home—Is Now Near Death Because of Her Awful Experience.

Harrold, S. D.—South Dakota's new heroine is Mrs. Petra Lien, the bravest girl in the west, who is hovering between life and death at the home of her sister, Mrs. John Eiseman of this place, and the title of heroine will remain with her whether she lives or dies.

Petra Peterson, aged 23, married Andrew H. Lien three months ago, and their honeymoon was scarcely over when the tragedy occurred. They lived on a farm ten miles south of this town and their home was a favorite place for the young people of the community to gather. When the young couple retired a few nights ago, the fire in the sitting room above was quite low. About midnight the husband arose to look after it. Fearing it would go out he threw in some kerosene, or, possibly, as some of the neighbors think, gasoline. An explosion followed, enveloping the man in flames. He was terribly burned, his thin attire being consumed instantly. His screams brought his young wife from her bed.

With a skirt which she had grabbed as she ran, she fought the flames and managed to drag her husband from their midst. The whole room was ablaze and she realized the useleness of trying to extinguish the fast growing fire.

Although much smaller than her sturdy husband, she practically carried him, herself barefoot, through the snow to the barn. She laid his quivering form in a pile of hay and returned to the house for clothing. The whole building was in flames. She could neither enter to get wearing apparel nor to telephone to neighbors. She knew she must, herself, go for aid.

Returning to the barn the brave young bride took the scorched skirt with which she had fought the flames, and wrapping it about her now semi-conscious husband, prepared for the terrible ordeal of riding through snow and bitter cold with, almost, no aid.

A bridle was hastily put on their fleetest horse, but no saddle, the wife realizing that the warm body of the animal must be relied upon to supply needed heat to keep her own tender flesh from freezing. And so she began the notable ride which will be related for years to come to the children of this community and state.

Through the dark, moonless night she urged her horse, her stiffening fingers and limbs from the biting cold being forgotten in the mental anxiety for her suffering husband. The thin night gown offered but meager protection from the near-zero weather and the snow driven by the howling gale from the south of the running horse struck her continually.

But she conquered, where failure would have been more logical. Three miles were traversed and a wail from *the freezing wife brought quick re*sponse from neighbors. When helped from her horse she seemed on the verge of collapse, but rallied quickly and insisted upon going back to her husband at once. She would wait for nothing but to be hurriedly dressed in clothing of her neighbor, and then astride her panting horse she again covered the three miles at top speed.

Friends came and medical aid. All effort to save the life of Mr. Lien was futile, however, and he died at daybreak, in the barn where his young wife had placed him. Knowledge of his death was the signal for Mrs. Lien to collapse and she was taken to the home of a friend.

Burned and frozen and suffering from nervous shock the bereaved bride is still in a precarious state at her sister's home here. Her hands and face were scorched terribly by the fire. Their home and all its contents were destroyed. The funeral of Mr. Lien was one of the largest ever held in this (Hughes) county.

FORTUNES IN SABLE SKINS.

With Skins at $450 Each, Prices Soar Into Thousands.

The two most expensive Sable coats in the world are worn by the empress of Russia and Queen Maud of Norway.

The empress' coat is made from pure sables, the best which could be obtained in Europe, and its valued by an expert in furs at something between $250,000 and $400,000, while that which Queen Maud wears would be worth nearly half as much.

The manager of a London firm said that within the last two years the price of sable had increased by 75 per cent, and was still going up.

"The price is practically prohibitive," he said, "and we have to find a substitute in top Russian sable, smart sets of which cost as much as $1,000. If the same were made in real sable the price would be about $7,500 or more.

"There is as much gambling in sables as there is on the stock exchange. The furriers have all sold out, and the demand is still great. People are beginning to pass sables down as heirlooms—and valuable they are, too, at $450 a skin."

WAS WILLING TO PAY.

Judge Lawrence Evidently Appreciated His Own Importance.

During his early days as a public speaker, and while he was yet judge of a district court, Congressman George P. Lawrence was invited to make one of his first public addresses before a large body—the board of trade and invited guests. The event was one which brought together all of the principal business and professional men of the section, and plates were $2 each.

On the night of the banquet the judge appeared at the door, and the ticket seller, not noticing who it was that tendered a $2 bill for a ticket, handed Mr. Lawrence one, and pocketed the money. Then he recognized him and said, with an apology, that it was not necessary for him to pay to enter.

The judge threw out his chest and remarked with dignity:

"I will have you understand sir, that I am willing to pay $2 any time to hear Judge Lawrence speak."

And he didn't take back his money.

Sermons by Time.

"I have attended church in a good many different places," said the southern man, "but I had to come to New York to see a man preach holding his watch in his hand. Down in our part of the country the pulpit orator is usually long-winded. He has a certain subject in mind and has certain things to say concerning it, and he holds forth until he has said them all if it takes till bedtime to do it.

"Up here the time that can be devoted to the delivery of a sermon appears to be limited. In order not to overstep the bounds several clergymen that I have heard talked literally by the watch. They did not lay it down or stick it into a convenient pocket to be consulted occasionally, but held it out face up as a constant reminder that time was fleeting and that other pressing engagements awaited them. That may be an excellent preventive of weariness in the congregation, but I must say it makes me uncomfortable to have spiritual advice measured by the minute and second."—N. Y. Press.

Not the Kind He Wanted.

Professed politicians who have reduced public office to an exact science find the independent voter a sad stumbling block—a fact which is amusingly disclosed by a story found in the recent life of the late George Monro Grant, once eminent Canadian educator and and clergyman, says the Youth's Companion.

Toward the end of Sir John Macdonald's life he and Principal Grant, then the head of Queen's college, met at dinner at the house of the premier's brother-in-law, Prof. Williamson.

"How I wish," the premier said to the principal, "that you would be a steady friend of mine."

"My dear Sir John," the principal replied, "I have always supported you when you were right."

The premier's eyes twinkled, and he laid his hand upon the shoulder of the principal.

"My dear man," said he, "I have no use for that species of friendship!"

Priest Too Studious.

When Rev. Fr. Coyle assumed charge of St. Mary's church in Boston a gentleman of the city, who had an employe, a very devout Catholic, inquired of him how he liked his new pastor.

"Why, sir, I like him pretty well."

"Pretty well! Why, what fault have you to find with him?"

"To tell the truth, sir, I should have preferred a man who had finished his vacations; for several times when I have waited upon him I have been told that he was at his studies."

Not Enough.

A case was to be tried on the charge of selling impure whisky. The night before the case came off the defendant went round to the judge's house.

To the man at the door he said: "Here's a bottle of whisky, I want your master to try."

"My master never tries anything but a case," pompously replied the butler. —Lippincott's.

HOT WEATHER AHEAD.

How to Keep the Kitchen Cool and Comfortable in Mid-Summer.

Many a housekeeper is wondering how she will pass through the coming summer months with the stove she well knows will make the kitchen unbearably hot—to say nothing of the dirt, dust and ashes that will add to the discomfort.

There is a way out of it all—a way that not only lessens the work and keeps the kitchen cool, but that also reduces fuel expense. This convenience, comfort and economy is all effected by the New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove, an oil stove so superior to other makes that it is fast replacing the coal and wood range, the old-fashioned oil-stove, and in many cases the gas stove.

On washing and ironing days the comfort and convenience of the New Perfection will be greatly appreciated. It gives best results in the least time, and does away with all coal and wood carrying and the many other disagreeable jobs that have to be done with other stoves. The New Perfection is made in three sizes, with one, two, and three burners, *and is warranted to give full satis*faction.

Another home comfort is the Rayo Lamp, which produces a light of unusual brightness, yet soft and mellow —a light that will not hurt the eyes. Every lamp is warranted and makes a valuable and handsome addition to any home.

The New Perfection Wick Blue Flame Oil Cook-Stove and the Rayo Lamp are two real essentials to home comfort. Their easy operation, absolute safety and handsome appearance commend them wherever stoves and lamps are used.

THE ROYAL BOX.

Queen Elizabeth is said to have possessed no fewer than eighty outfits of fond hats.

Hereditary Prince Vinzenz von Windischgraetz of Germany has entered the Dresden bank as a temporary unpaid clerk for the purpose of familiarizing himself with financial affairs.

King Edward has to affix his autograph to at least 50,000 official documents every year, an average of about 160 for each working day, and this is in addition to all his private signatures.

The king of Portugal, who is one of the most expert shots in Europe, exercises his skill in a remarkable way. Rifle in hand, he takes up a position by a lake in the palace grounds, and as the fish rise to the *surface he fires at them, rarely miss*ing.

THE COOKBOOK.

Fried tomatoes are delicious served with white sauce into which curry has been stirred.

An onion for soup should be stuck with six cloves and added after the stock has been skimmed.

Before placing a roast of beef in the oven dip in boiling water. It prevents the juices from escaping.

Fish scales can be easily removed by pouring hot water slowly over the fish until the scales curl, then scrape quickly. Wash in several waters, having the last water cold and well salted, so that there will be no slime left.

Worlds for Explorers.

Notwithstanding the rapid advance of exploration in the various parts of the globe, a recent estimate by a member of the American Geographical Society shows that no less than 200,000,000 square miles of the earth's surface yet remains unexplored. The largest unexplored area is in Africa, 65,000,000 square miles, but even North America contains 1,500,000 square miles of virgin territory. It is surprising to learn that there is three times as much land awaiting the foot of the pioneer in North America as in South America. —Philadelphia Record.

FAILS IN $20,000 SUIT

Peter Ryan's Action Against A. L. and N. B. Smalley Falls Very Flat.

ACTS FOR REALTY FIRM

Which Claims Smalleys Failed to Keep a Macadamizing Contract—Case Non Suited.

Without going to the trouble of putting in a defense N. B. and A. L. Smalley, owners of the Smalley cracked stone business, secured a non-suit of an action for $20,000, yesterday, brought against them by Peter Ryan, acting for Appleton & Sons, New York realty operators, in the Supreme Court. Charles A. Reed was counsel for the Smalleys, and Warren Dickinson appeared for the plaintiff.

The plaintiff claimed damages on the ground that the Smalleys had failed to execute a contract for the macadamizing of streets on through the Fields property, Central avenue. The agreement was made over six years ago, and the work under it was finished by the stone dealers in 1901. The agreement was to the effect that the real estate men, who were developing the Fields tract, grade the streets to be macadamized. A clause in the contract provided that where the realty firm failed to grade, part of the money paid over for macadamizing work be applied to grading. In several instances this was done. The work, as far as the Smalleys could do it, was done, and they regarded the matter as completed.

The suit came as a surprise. The plaintiff claimed the Smalleys had not kept their agreement, leaving part of the work undone. When Judge Parker had heard the plaintiff's case, Counsel Reed moved a non-suit and it was promptly granted. The plaintiff did not produce a surveyor's certificate to show that any grading was done by the real estate firm, as agreed.

"There was no occasion to bring the suit," said Mayor N. B. Smalley this morning. "The other side had no chance whatever to win."

FORMED NEW ASSOCIATION.

Master Sheet Metal Workers Organize for Mutual Benefit.

The master sheet metal workers of the city met at the Iroquois hotel, last night, and formed a new association to be known as the Master Sheet Metal Workers Association of Plainfield. The following officers were elected: President, Philip John; vice-president, D. S. Dunavan; recording secretary, Philip John; financial secretary, John Case; treasurer, C. W. Krausse.

The association was formed for mutual benefit and it is the intention of the organizers to join the State association within the near future. At the next meeting, which is set for May 16, a committee composed of D. S. Dunavan, John Case and Philip John will present a constitution and by-laws.

Plans for 11th's Reunion.

Formal notification of the reunion of the 11th N. J. regiment, to be held in this city on May 11 has been issued by the secretary and the programme outlined shows that a good time has been arranged for the veterans. A business session is to be held first in the Y. M. C. A. rooms from 11 to 1 o'clock, after which the guests will adjourn to Truell Hall to enjoy an entertainment and dance. The guests of Captain and Mrs. William Hand, whose fiftieth wedding anniversary occurs on that day. It is hoped to have Arthur Brisbane, editor of the New York Journal, included in the attendance and at the close of the affair at the hall, the entire gathering will visit the Jackson school house where Captain and Mrs. Hand and Mr. Brisbane were pupils.

Bosses Will Probably Concede.

As yet neither the Master Plumbers' Association nor the Journeymen's Association has given any intimation as to what will be done by May 6, the time fixed when the request for more money and less hours goes into effect. The bosses do not say that they will give in, neither do the journeymen say that they will compromise. It is the general opinion that the bosses will grant the request, rather than have any trouble.

Talked On Mexico.

Alexander Van Oss, who has made a recent trip to Mexico, spoke to the sophomore class of the Plainfield High School this morning. He told many things of interest in Mexico, including a vivid and entertaining description of a bull fight.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Heath, formerly of Plainfield, have been up farm life in the upper part of New York State and returned to the city, where they will remain during the summer with relatives.

FLAG DAY OBSERVANCE IN SCHOOLS ON JUNE 14

SPECIAL EXERCISES IN THE LOCAL SCHOOLS ON THAT DAY.

For the first time any Legislative mandate, Flag Day will be observed in the city and borough schools, and for that matter throughout the State, on Friday, April 14. An act passed by the recent Legislature and now signed by Governor Stokes makes the observance on that day compulsory. Special exercises will be held and of course there will be the customary addresses on the origin and history of the National emblem.

The new law, a question, follows: "It shall be the duty of the principals and teachers in the public schools in this state to make suitable arrangements for the celebration, by appropriate exercises among the pupils in said schools, on the fourteenth day of June in each year, as the day of the adoption of the American flag by the Continental Congress."

WOMEN SUFFRAGISTS HEAR FAMOUS SPEECH

PLEA OF ENGLAND'S PRIME MINISTER READ TO LOCAL SOCIETY.

On the invitation of Mrs. William H. Riley, of North Plainfield, the members of the Equal Suffrage League of Plainfield and North Plainfield held an informal meeting at her home yesterday afternoon, for the purpose of discussing current events. At the annual meeting last week the time was taken up so much with other things that this part of the programme was not possible at that time.

Although the attendance was not large yesterday, those present were enthusiastic concerning the excellent reports. Mrs. Riley read the speech of the Prime Minister of England in favor of women's suffrage in that country. Reports were also read referring to the progress of women's suffrage in Colorado and other western States and showing the many alleged false statements that have been circulated throughout that part of the country. These papers were read by Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, county president of the W. C. T. U.; Mrs. David Thompson, of North Plainfield, and Mrs. C. L. Riley.

Following the presentation of the various papers there was general discussion of them by all present. The meeting proved to be a profitable, as well as interesting one.

Funeral of Cornelius Ackerman.

With a large gathering of relatives and friends in attendance, the funeral of Cornelius J. Ackerman, who died Sunday morning, was held at his late home on Clinton avenue, yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. Roberson, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church. There were numerous floral tributes, among them a set piece from the bank in New York, where Mr. Ackerman was employed for many years. Interment was made in the Methodist cemetery, those who acted as pall bearers being the following sons and sons-in-law: Archibald Ackerman, William Ackerman, Frank Martin, Edward Vail, Walter Manning and John Thompson.

Acquires More Property.

George J. Finger, of West Front street, has purchased of Charles H. Hand, the owner, one store and two-flat property at Watchung avenue and Second street, and is now in possession of the property. John A. Koch, the butcher, who occupies the store, will remain, as will also the tenants in the two flats. The deal was made for investment purposes. Mr. Finger is also building a one-story store on East Front street, which has been leased to a Plainfielder who will conduct a dry goods business there.

A Fine Performance of "Pinafore."

The dress rehearsal of "Pinafore" at the Casino, last night, by the Plainfield Operatic Association, was satisfactory in every particular. William Holmes, who has been associated with similar productions for the past fifteen years, says that the cast is one of the best and the chorus the strongest he has had anything to do with, and he assures the public of a finished performance. There will be two performances, Thursday and Friday nights. After the last performance there will be a dance.

Bondsman Surrenders Him.

Albert Conway, the young man held for the grand jury last week, on a charge of stealing bicycle wheels belonging to Rafael Kase, was surrendered by his bondsman, Robert Armstrong, this morning. The bond was for $50. Armstrong is the prisoner's uncle.

ALLEGED FORGER'S TRIAL

Pathetic Scene when Aged William H. Skillman Faces the Jury at Somerville.

A BITTER WILL CASE

Skillman Accused of Being the Author of Fraudulent Document Purporting to Be Will of Lanehart.

There was a pathetic scene in the Somerset Court House at Somerville yesterday when William H. Skillman, bent with age and weak from illness, was placed on trial for forging the will of his late friend and neighbor, William Lanehart, a retired New York business man who resided at Bluewenberg.

Skillman was formerly the president of the New Jersey State Horticultural Society, and prominent in the affairs of Montgomery Township. When William Lanehart died two years ago, two wills were produced, one drawn by J. A. Race, cashier of the Hopewell National Bank, and one purporting to be a later will, drawn by William H. Skillman.

By the terms of the Race will Lanehart made a number of small bequests to his distant relatives, and left the residue of his $19,000 estate to his brother and two sisters. By the terms of the Skillman will Lanehart's near relatives were disinherited and the estate was equally divided between Miss Laura Kellogg, a niece of Lanehart, who resided with him for ten years, and his neighbor, William Skillman. No member of the Lanehart family had had any knowledge of the Skillman will until it was produced by Skillman shortly after Lanehart's death. The will was witnessed by Skillman's children and one of his neighbors. When it was filed for probate it was bitterly contested by Lanehart's relatives, and, after a legal battle, lasting for two months, Judge Schenck, in the Orphans' Court, decided that it was a forgery and it was not probated.

Skillman, in turn, was indicted by the Somerset Grand Jury for forgery. Judge Schenck, who adjudged the will a forgery in the Orphans' Court, refused to sit in the criminal action against Skillman, and remained in court yesterday a spectator, while Judge Booream, of New Brunswick, occupied the bench. In the Skillman will the alleged signature of Lanehart is first written with a lead pencil and then traced over with pen and ink. Before the Orphans' Court counsel for Skillman admitted that the signature had been made in this manner and produced witnesses to prove that Lanehart, from force of habit, had written his signature with a pencil and traced it over with ink.

Miss Laura Kellogg, who testified in behalf of Skillman in the Orphans' Court, was the only important witness called for the State yesterday. She said that her uncle used a stub pen during the last years of his life, with the penholder pointing away from his shoulder and held between his thumb and forefinger. She had never known him to use a pencil in making his signature and then write it over with a pen.

The will in dispute was presented to the witness and she was asked if she thought the signature was that of her uncle.

"I do not think my uncle ever wrote over that," was her reply.

The trial was resumed this morning and several witnesses for the prosecution gave their testimony. At 2 o'clock this afternoon the prosecution had not finished presenting its case.

D. A. R. Offers Prize.

As has been the custom for a number of years the Daughters of the American Revolution have offered a prize of $5 to the pupil of the Plainfield High School who writes the best essay on a historical subject in connection with New Jersey. The offer came too late to be included in the regular essay competition, but the matter was referred to S. B. Howe, Jr., instructor in history, who will select the subjects and arrange all details. This offer is open to students in the U. S. history class and others who have studied American history.

Anniversary of Day Nursery.

The eleventh annual birthday party of The Little Missionary's Day Nursery, 93 St. Mark's place, New York, Miss Sara Curry, manager, will be held at the Second Street church, New York, Thursday night, May 16, at 8 o'clock. The Plainfield friends of the nursery and Miss Curry have received invitations to the affair, together with a small bag in which to place their contributions for the support of the charity.

STILL TALKING STRIKE

Truck Drivers Said to be Ready to Go Out Monday.

MORE PAY, LESS WORK

That Is What They Want—Strike-Breaker Offers Bosses His Services in Combatting Men.

Strike talk continues to be heard among the truck drivers of this city. It was rumored this morning that the men are to present a demand for increased pay and fewer working hours on Monday, and will go out if it is refused. The drivers formed a union about a year ago, and seem to have a compact organization.

The bosses have received no formal demand yet, but the men have talked pretty freely of the plans discussed and they know what is desired and impending. The men are receiving $10 a week for sixty hours of work. They want $12 and a schedule of fifty-four hours.

There is no inclination among the bosses to give what is asked. They have not organized and have held no meetings, it is said, but they are expected to get together as soon as the men make a definite move.

One of the bosses said this morning that the whole question was still, apparently, an open one among the men; that they had not determined on action of any kind.

News of the threatened strike reached a strike-breaking agency in New York this week, and a representative of the concern came here to see A. E. Hoagland, of Park avenue, one of the bosses, this morning. The agent said his principals would take hold of the situation on call and engage to break the strike.

BASEBALL GAME BRINGS PARENTS TO POLICE COURT

ANGRY FATHER PAYS $3 FOR TAKING HAND IN A SQUABBLE.

A bum decision given by the umpire or some other cause equally justifiable for inciting riot in a baseball game, resulted in a pitched battle between two juvenile teams on upper Manning avenue, Monday afternoon. After fists had been swung hrough the air for some times, stones were used in the fracas and a goodsized rumpus ensued. Willis Thorn, of First Baseman Thorn, of the "Stars." He claimed that it had been hurled by Catcher Ruttledge, of the "Crescents" and beat it home to tell his father of the fact in order to secure his assistance.

The parent, Willis Thorn, made haste to avenge the injury to his son and arriving at the scene of action, grabbed young Ruttledge. What happened after that nobody seems quite sure of but the boy is positive that he was thrown bodily and was thrown thirty feet more or less. The members of his team claim it was fifty or perhaps a hundred, but at any rate it was enough to stir up Thomas Ruttledge, the catcher's father, and he hurried himself to police headquarters. He secured a warrant for the elder Thorn's arrest and he was arraigned in the borough court last night.

The specific charge against the defendant was disorderly conduct and the testimony warranted Recorder Hollis imposing a $3 fine. No mention was made of the trouble that broke up the game and the teams will probably settle the matter in some secluded spot later on.

Quietly Wedded at Rectory.

John J. Curran, who is employed as driver by a local liveryman, and Bertha C. Mellman, of West Fourth street, were quietly married at the rectory of St. Mary's church last evening. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Father Scilola and was witnessed by Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Higgins. The couple will make their home on West Fourth street.

Mrs. John Cashman's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. John Cashman was held at her late home on West Third street, yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. L. R. Howard, pastor of Hope chapel, of which she was a member. Interment was made at Hillside cemetery, members of Miantanomoh Tribe of Red Men, of which Mr. Cashman belongs, acting as pall bearers.

Mr. Billet's Successor.

Wilbur E. Andrews, of Brooklyn, a young man who has been engaged in Y. M. C. A. work, will temporarily fill the position of office secretary at the Y. M. C. A., left vacant by the resignation of F. E. Billet. He will take hold next week.

PLAN HARMONY DINNER

Smith, Gourley, Davis and Other Leaders to be Invited in Martine's Honor.

A PARTY LOVE FEAST

Farmer Orator Wants to Restore Good Feeling—Dinner at Elizabeth On May 29.

Brigadier General D. F. Collins and Charles K. Moore, both of Elizabeth, waited on "Farmer Orator" James E. Martine yesterday afternoon to notify him on behalf of the Democratic County Committee that it was the desire of the party leaders in Union county to give a dinner in his honor. They had been appointed at a recent meeting of the County Committee which had decided that some fitting recognition be taken of the many valuable services Mr. Martine has rendered the cause of Democracy during the last forty years. In accepting the invitation, the "farmer orator" requested that the affair not be turned into a demonstration for the boom started for him for the gubernatorial nomination.

"What I would like," said the veteran stump speaker to the committee, "is to cement a friendly feeling among all the party leaders in New Jersey. I would like to bring together every man who has worked for the party welfare. Former United States Senator James Smith, Robert Davis, William J. Gourley, Johnston Cornish and several others I would particularly desire to be present. We don't want any friction in the party. What we do desire is to all work in harmony. Another request I have to make is that the price of the dinner be within reach of the masses, to whom we owe so much. I don't care a rap about the governorship but I'll be pretty much on hand to be no strife within the ranks of the party."

At a meeting of the committee last night at Elizabeth the following were appointed to make arrangements for the dinner, to be held on May 29, Charles Moore, chairman; LeRoy Gibby, W. E. Tuttle, J. F. Kenno, R. McAdams, G. C. Clatek, Owen Farrelly, B. R. Wade and J. P. Owens. A sub-committee composed of Moore, McAdams and Farrelly will secure the hall.

"ARM RIGHTS" ON THE JOB.

Turn the Tables on Their Opponents, the Prancing "Ponies."

The "Arm Rights" turned the tables on the "Ponies" at McLaughlin's alleys, last night, and three games played in the second match of a series arranged between the teams. The first and third games were excitingly close but in the second the "Arm Rights" had everything their own way, winning out by 114 pins. There were lots of surprises in the game, one of which was furnished by "Doc" Voehl. He led off with 202 and ended with a 113, the lowest score for the night.

The scores:

Somerville Town Meeting.

The annual town meeting was held in Somerville Monday night, County Clerk A. G. Anderson was made chairman and C. T. Hoagland secretary. The financial statement of Treasurer M. H. Johnson, showing that the total expenditures had been nearly $1,000 less than the previous year, was read. Nominations were then made for seven commissioners, and the ballot resulted as follows: Walter Durling, Charles Schwed, E. E. Houston, Charles C. Kenyon and Joseph Barras. The election will take place next Monday afternoon.

Slight Fire Causes $50 Damage.

An alarm from box 36 called the city fire department to the home of M. Zinkeisen at 414 West Eighth street, last night. A servant in lighting a gas stove threw the burning match in a basket filled with waste paper and a brisk blaze sprang up. An attempt was made to extinguish it without calling the department but without success. The damage is placed at $50, most of it caused by smoke.

Mrs. George Whitley, of Beverly, Mass., is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Whitley, of Essex street.

CONDUCTOR INJURED BY AUTO IS RECOVERING

HARTMAN NOT DANGEROUSLY HURT: TO BE TRIED MAY 11.

The automobile which ran down Irving Hartman, the Public Service Corporation conductor at Clinton avenue and West Front street yesterday afternoon is owned by W. S. Fanning, of Montclair. Mr. Fanning drove it.

After taking the injured conductor to the hospital, Fanning drove his car, under arrest, with Sergeant Overbaugh in the tonneau, to the police station. He was arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court a few minutes later. He was released, on his own recognizance, to appear for a hearing on Saturday, May 11.

Hartman's condition, it was said at the hospital this morning, was not serious. So far as examination had disclosed, he was suffering only from two broken ribs and general contusions. It was reported yesterday that his injuries were serious and threatening.

L. T. L. CHILDREN IN "MOTHER GOOSE" SHOW

ENTERTAINMENT GIVEN UNDER DIRECTION OF MISS AIMEE LOUISE EMMONS.

Under the auspices of the Loyal Temperance Legion, and under the direction of Miss Aimee Louise Emmons, assisted by Miss Myra Emmons, a "Mother Goose" entertainment was given in the Y. M. C. A. hall, last night, before a large and appreciative audience. The children who participated acquitted themselves splendidly and shared with Miss Emmons in congratulations for the fine programme.

Part first of the programme was devoted to varied selections, beginning with a fan drill, well executed by the Misses Helen Wiley, Madeline Strader, Helen Roberts, Clara Weber, Ethel Vail and Thelma Curtis. Two recitations, "My Sister's Big Fellow," by Raymond Stevens, and "Little Girl's Lament," by Elsie VanDenburgh, were amusing and a feature was a character song, "Poor John," by Miss Hazel Walters. She was exceedingly clever. This part closed with two recitations, "I'm Tired," by Wilbur Hoffman, and "Naughty Zell," by Miss Helen Woolley.

"Mother Goose and Her Temperance Family," was the title of part second, and the different members of the family, as "Yankee Doodle," and "Columbia," to "Baby Blue," all declared their allegiance to the cause of temperance and promised to work with all their might for it. Each one had a part in presenting the claims for temperance and there were several pretty solos and choruses. The cast follows:

"Yankee Doodle," Benjamin Berce; "Columbia," Miss Ellen Doughty; "Mother Goose," Miss Pearl Ryder; "Jack," Edward Ryder; "Jill," Miss Grace VanDenburgh; "Red Riding Hood," Miss Helen Ryder; "Old Woman Who Lives in the Shoe," Miss Emma Heidlof; children in the shoe, Elsie VanDenburgh, May Heidlof, May Howell, Grace Wakefield, Mary Roth, Ruth Hoffman, Grace Vail, Theodosia Vail, Daisy Terry and Marion Doughty; "Goody Two Shoes," Miss Anna Vail; "Mother Hubbard," Miss Dorothy Gaston; "Bo Peep," Miss Bessie Carson; "Jack Horner," Harry Mouton; "Blue Beard," Ernest Stevens; "King Cole," Elmer Hunting; "Jack Giant Killer," Earl Moran; "Humpty Dumpty," Leopold Berce; "Boy Blue," David Berce; "Goody Two Shoe Girls," the Misses Helen Woolley, Helen Roberts, Madoline Strader, Thelma Curtis, Anna Vail and Ethel Vail.

Mrs. Alvah TenEyck is the superintendent of the Loyal Temperance Legion, and she assisted in making last night's affair the success it was.

Objected to Method of Payment.

It is said that one of the chief reasons why the gang of Italians at work on the Southside sanitary sewer went on a strike yesterday was because their money has been held back to the 15th of each month. The men do not like to wait so long for their money. On the other hand the contractor believes that in holding back on the payment he is more likely to keep the men, for they are not apt to leave under such circumstances. A conference was held yesterday afternoon, with the result that probably all of the men will return to work. There has not been total cessation of work, a few men remaining when the others went out. The contractor will probably make other arrangements about paying the men.

MAY ERECT FIRE HOUSE

New Law Gives City Fathers the Right to Afford Better Protection in East End.

ABLE TO ISSUE BONDS

Richmond Street Picked As a Desirable Location for Proposed Structure—The Law Quoted.

Through the provisions of an act passed by the recent Legislature and signed by Governor Stokes, Plainfield's Common Council is empowered to erect a fire house in the East End, if it chooses so to do, and to issue bonds to meet the expense of construction. Whether it will do so or not, cannot be learned but it is quite certain that the matter will be brought to the attention of the city fathers in the near future. In his first annual message, Mayor Fisk drew attention to the need of a fire house in the East End and suggested that the Common Council consider the proposition.

The enabling act in question provides:

"Whenever any city has purchased land for the purpose of erecting a fire house thereon, it shall be lawful for the governing body or other body in control of the finances of said city to issue bonds for the purpose of erecting a fire house upon such land and of equipping the same with horses, fire engines and other necessaries for fire purposes, to the amount of not more than $20,000.

"The said bonds shall be issued after due advertisement and sold at a public sale to the highest bidder therefor; shall run for a period of not less than ten nor more than thirty years from date of issue; shall bear interest at a rate of not more than five per cent., and shall pledge the faith and credit and property of said city for the payment thereof, with interest.

"The proceeds of said bonds shall be issued exclusively by the governing board or body of the finances of the said city respectively, for the purpose of erecting said fire house and fully equipping the same for fire purpose as aforesaid; said bonds shall be retired by establishing a sinking fund for the purpose, and there shall be disposed each year to the credit of said fund, to be produced and collected by assessment upon ratables of said city, a sum sufficient to retire the principal of said bonds at maturity."

One of the city authorities today said that there is urgent need for a fire house in the East End and that personally he favored the erection of such a structure in Richmond street.

SHOCK FOR QUINN.

Judge Runyon Cuts Off Mercy from Court "Regular."

Peter Quinn, who has been arrested several times recently for drunkenness and disorder, was again arraigned in court on the old charge this morning. He was arrested on Plainfield avenue yesterday afternoon.

He denied being drunk, but the testimony of Doorman McCue, who received him at the station house, knocked the bottom from his denial.

"We have been treating you too kindly, Quinn," said Judge Runyon; "forty days."

Quinn was aghast at the sentence. He turned to Chief Kiely with an appeal, but Doorman McCue broke it off and shooed him to his cell.

Republican View of Martine.

The Democratic county committee of Union county is to give a dinner and reception early next month to James E. Martine, and it is believed to be a step in the direction of launching a boom for Mr. Martine as a gubernatorial possibility. If a Democrat must be elected governor of New Jersey, the people could make a greater mistake than they would if they should choose Mr. Martine for their chief executive officer. But Martine's chances for being nominated for governor by the State convention are not especially bright. He has always been an enthusiastic admirer of William Jennings Bryan and his policies. The people of the State haven't yet reached the point where they will set their seal of approval on anything that savors of Bryanism. —Trenton State-Gazette, Republican.

Harry Lude Injured.

Harry Lude, of DeKalb avenue, employed at the Quincy-Manchester Machine Works, as an apprentice, received painful injuries of the left hand yesterday afternoon by allowing a heavy piece of iron to fall on it. He was taken to the hospital, and after the hand was dressed, he returned home.

THIRTEEN BRIDGES TO COST A HALF-MILLION

Jersey Central Railroad Company Spending Big Sum on Structural Work in Plainfield.

NEW SWITCH TOWER

All Improvements Being Made Under the Direction of Chief Engineer Joseph O. Osgood.

—Work Progressing.

While it is generally known that the New Jersey Central is making extensive repairs to its bridges in this city, the work having been in progress for several months, little is known of the details, particularly as to the lavish expenditure of money to say nothing of the great amount of labor and material necessary to complete the improvements. The bridge work which has and will be under contract between Westfield and Bound Brook, will represent an outlay in round figures of a half million dollars, which is considered a pretty large sum for but one small section of a large system.

In this city there are thirteen bridges to be replaced by the most experienced and improved sort of structures, including the structures at Leland avenue and Berckman street, which are now under completion. The bridges to be rebuilt include those at Leland avenue, Berckman, Richmond, Washington streets, Watchung, Park, Madison and Central avenues, Second and Liberty streets, Plainfield, Grant and Clinton avenues.

By May 1 all tracks will be restored at Leland avenue and by the last of the month the work at Berckman and Richmond streets will be finished. It will be the duty of the city to clean up and repair the sidewalks, etc. The re-building of the bridge at Clinton avenue is now to be taken up. One abutment will be replaced and the other one strengthened. Then the bridges at Madison and Park avenues will be taken up in order. The difficulty in doing this work can be realized when it is known that it is necessary to cut two tracks out of an exceedingly busy service. At Leland avenue, where a sufficient room and an extra track was built which materially helped to prevent delays in the running of trains. But in the case of the other bridges it will be necessary to put in switches, properly signal them and operate them so that an engineer will not mistake the signals. Bulletins are issued to engineers and men are stationed at these switches as extra precautions.

The method of reconstruction is an interesting one. All of this work has been planned and is under the personal direction of Joseph O. Osgood, of North Plainfield, the chief engineer of the New Jersey Central. Other experts say that his wide experience and extensive knowledge will insure the building of structures modern in every respect.

The flooring of each bridge will be of steel, perfectly tight, upon which will be placed four or five layers of felt. This will be followed with a coating of coal tar in which bricks will be imbedded. Another coating of coal tar will be put on top of the brick and then comes the heavy rock ballast will be filled in to correspond with the roadbed. Thus it will be seen that there will be absolutely no wood in the construction and the bridges will be as near water-proof and sound-proof as possible to make them. Drains will be located so as to carry off any water that may gather in the vicinity of the bridges. At the Leland avenue bridge a clear span is left beneath the structure, but at the other bridges this is not possible. However, much improvement will be made in the supports.

The present bridges were built about twenty-three years ago and Mr. Osgood says that they have stood the wear and tear remarkably well. The only reason for making the changes is that the loading and traffic has about doubled since the old bridges were installed. In the new work, as the old the engineering department allows a large margin for increased traffic. The new bridges, including material, labor, etc., will approximately cost $30,000 each.

The improvements will necessitate the raising of the tracks in front of the North Avenue station about eight inches, so that it will correspond with the heavier bridges to be built at Park and Watchung avenues. This will also call for some means of draining surface water from the tracks in addition to the one now in the installation of gutters.

In connection with these improvements, a switch tower of the latest type and equipment is being built near Berckman street. It will be the first one on the road to be operated by the electro-pneumatic system. The operator by the simple pressing of a button will throw a signal and a switch and the system is such that it will not permit the operator to interfere with it and change it from its intended purpose. The power for operating this tower will be obtained from the air signal pipe, which carries a ninety pound pressure. With the installation of this interlocking switch tower, all the hand switches will be removed. It will cost about $30,000 to build this interlocking plant at Berckman street. It is expected that the bridge work in Plainfield will be completed within the next twelve months.

YALE MEN MAKE MERRY

Old Eli's Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs Delights Large and Select Audience.

A DANCE AFTERWARDS

Society Folk as Patronesses—Sixty Undergraduates in Several Clubs at the Casino.

The Yale Glee, Banjo and Mandolin Clubs, sixty strong, delighted a select audience at the Casino, Friday night, and the reception given the musical organization from "Old Eli" was a flattering one, indeed. The true college spirit was shown in the programme presented and the frequent bursts of applause on the part of the audience. The clubs are exceptionally strong this year and there was not a disappointing number on the programme. Special mention is due the mandolin and banjo clubs. The selections and execution were of the highest order. They were repeatedly re-called and generously responded.

The vocal numbers aroused the audience to great enthusiasm. While the programme was of the popular order, including many new and original numbers, there was a noticeable absence of the time-worn college songs. The glee club is exceptionally well balanced and the members sang in perfect harmony. Perhaps, the greatest hit of the evening was by the quartette composed of Messrs. Bull, Fowler, Howard and Carter. They introduced several specialties which produced a storm of applause. The special numbers by Mr. Carter, Mr. Fowler and Mr. Collins, accompanied by the glee, banjo and mandolin clubs, were also features of the concert.

Following the concert, which lasted until 10:30, an informal dance was held which proved to be an enjoyable windup to the affair.

The programme follows:

"Alma Mater," Shepard, glee club; "Razzazza Mazzazza," Pryor, banjo club; "Under Verdant Green," Mason Bartholomew, glee club; "Bells of Yale," Ives, P. H. Collins, glee and banjo clubs; "Stars of the Summer Night," Goodale, glee club; "Eternelle Ivresse," Ganne, mandolin club; "Under the Double Moon," Trevathan, Cowles, W. L. Carter and glee club; "Guardmont Patrol," Ellenberg, banjo club; "College Medley," Carmina Yalensis, glee club; quartette, L. S. Bull, T. C. Fowler, J. M. Howard, W. L. Carter; "Tutti Frutti," glee and banjo clubs; "Interrupted Vilae," "Matin Bells," Carmen Yalensis, glee club yodel by M. L. Mitchell; "Punchinello," Herbert, mandolin club; "A Long Way Down," R. Hoskins, '02, C. Fowler and glee club; "Bright College Years," Durand, 1881, glee club.

These were the patronesses for the concert and dance: Mrs. Charles P. Abbott, Mrs. Albert H. Atterbury, Mrs. Philip H. Bailey, Mrs. Howard W. Blake, Mrs. Samuel R. Blake, Mrs. Henry E. Butler, Mrs. Leighton Calkins, Mrs. Edward V. Cox, Mrs. Geo. P. Dupee, Mrs. George W. English, Mrs. Charles J. Fisk, Mrs. Howard Fleming, Mrs. Henry Hall, Mrs. B. Wood Hedges, Mrs. Lemuel R. CHILD LABOR CAMPAIGN

Hugh F. Fox Presiding Maps Out Children's Protective Alliance Work.

OFFICERS ARE NAMED

Plainfield Is Represented at the Annual Meeting By Dr. Groszman, H. F. Fox and J. A. Lane.

At the annual meeting of the Children's Protective Alliance of New Jersey held at the residence of Mrs. Emily E. Williamson in Elizabeth, Hugh F. Fox, of this city, presided. There were present besides Mrs. Williamson, Mrs. Cushing, of the Consumer's League, the Rev. Francis A. Foy, the Rev. Father Moran, Dr. Laban Dennis, of Newark, Charles McCall, of Newark, Mrs. Brice Collard, of Jersey City, Dr. Maximilian Groszmann, of this city, James B. Williams, of Orange, J. A. Lane, of this city, and the Rev. J. R. Atkinson, of Elizabeth.

Mr. Fox suggested that the work that seemed cut out especially for the alliance this year was the complete organization of all the resources and forces in the State for all the children of the State. The alliance could keep twenty-five speakers busy.

Mrs. Williamson, before proceeding the names of those selected by the nominating committee for the various offices, urged upon those present the necessity of working up a vigorous campaign during the coming year against the evils of child labor.

"During the coming summer and fall," said she, "there has got to be an expression of public sentiment on this subject that will impress upon the minds of our Legislators the fact that the best public sentiment is back of the bills the organizations of this order, including those in behalf of the children, and if this work is properly done the measures we have been endeavoring to secure for the last four or five years will be carried through the next Legislature."

The following officers were then elected for the coming year: President, Mrs. Brice Collard; treasurer, J. A. Lane; recording secretary, James B. Williams; corresponding secretary, Charles McCall.

Answering a question by Dr. Dennis, Mr. Williamson said that the People's Lobby had given a rather vague promise to help the work in behalf of children, but when it came to business they seemed to be wholly taken up with railroad, civil service and reform legislation.

The report of the New Jersey child labor committee reviewing the work done in the Legislature during the past session was then presented by Mr. Fox. The report said that the efforts of the committee had been chiefly directed toward securing the passage of Assembly bill No. 90, introduced by Assemblyman Alexander early in the session. The object of the bill was to prevent the employment of children between the hours of 6 o'clock in the evening and 6 o'clock in the morning. The child labor committee was represented by its chairman, Mrs. C. B. Alexander, Miss Cornelia Bradford, Miss E. B. Butler, Mrs. Emily E. Williamson, the Rev. Francis A. Foy, Professor Walter Wyckoff, of Princeton, and a number of representatives of the New Jersey Federation of Labor, including Messrs. Ford, Gottlob and Falcey. The opposition was made up of the glassblowers of Millville and Millville. The bill went through the Assembly with the entire Democratic vote and thirteen Republican votes.

The President of the Senate opposed the bill and sent it to the committee on revision of laws instead of the committee on labor and industry, where it belonged. Three hearings followed, and in spite of the efforts of a strong representation of citizens the report says that the bill was smothered in committee.

Mrs. Cushing presented a report from the Consumers' League, detailing the work of the league in securing the passage of a bill for the protection of children in mercantile establishments, giving them shorter hours and providing seats for them, both of which are now awaiting the Governor's signature.

WANTS $5,000 DAMAGES.

Fred Peterson Asks That Amount to Pay For Three Fingers.

Fred Peterson, a former employe of the Quinecy-Manchester-Sergeant Company, West Front street, seeks $5,000 as compensation for the loss of three fingers in an accident at the company's plant.

He was hurt on December 24. The thumb and two fingers of his right hand were crushed. The hand has been left so crippled as to be practically useless. He has retained Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., to look after his interests, and the claim has been presented to the insurance company that handles the accident cases of the Quincey - Manchester - Sergeant Company. If the company does not settle at a figure satisfactory to his client, Mr. Hetfield will bring suit.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement of Dwight Van-Doren, of Roselle Park, to Miss Jennie Addis, daughter of Health Inspector and Mrs. William Addis, of Orange street, has been announced.

ALBERT CONWAY IS HELD

Young Man Charged With Theft of Bicycle Wheels Must Answer.

HIS TESTIMONY UPSET

Complainant Proves He Could Not Have Purchased Tires On the Date He Claimed to Have Done So.

After several adjournments, the preliminary hearing of Albert Conway, 28 years old, a machinist, charged with stealing two bicycle wheels by Rafael Kase, a fellow employe at the Rushmore Dynamo Works, was concluded before Judge Runyon, sitting as a State magistrate, in the city court Thursday. The defendant was held in $100 bail for the grand jury.

Conway was arrested on April 9. Kase alleged that he took the wheels from his bicycle at the Rushmore works, and put them on his own bicycle. Kase said he recognized the markings on the rims.

Conway testified apparently frank and straightforward story, alleging that the wheels were his, and that he bought the tires on them in a New York store in February, 1906. To enable both sides to bring forward some substantial evidence to sustain the contentions of each, the hearing was adjourned four times.

A week ago W. M. Quackenbush, a Westfield bicycle dealer of whom Kase bought the bicycle, brought into court a letter from the Fisk Rubber Company, one of the largest manufacturers of the tires, in which it was stated that the tires in question were not made at the time Conway declared he had bought them. Counsellor S. S. Swackhamer, for defense, objected that the testimony was not competent. Mr. Quackenbush said he could arrange for the appearance of a representative of the Fisk Rubber Company in court, and the case was laid over until today.

L. N. Mansuy, representing the tire company, appeared in court this morning, and his testimony alone established a prima facie case against the defendant. He testified that the company put marks on every tire made in its factory to show the month and the year of manufacture. These marks, he explained to the court, and then showed Judge Runyon others on the front tire that fixed the date of its manufacture as April, 1906, two months later than Conway had sworn he purchased them. Mr. Swackhamer did not cross examine and no other witness was sworn.

Mr. Swackhamer asked the court to suspend action and save his client from the stigma attached to being held for the grand jury, stating that Conway had told him he could not in some of the tires which he purchased the tires, and arguing that the evidence was too frail on which to base action that would affect the defendant's reputation. Counsellor Francis J. Blatz, for the prosecution, opposed the motion. Judge Runyon said he felt he could do nothing else, in view of the testimony, but hold the defendant for the grand jury.

NEW BRUNSWICK BOYS DEFEATED BY N.P.H.S

The North Plainfield High School team defeated the New Brunswick High School nine on Hope Common, Saturday, by a score of 9 to 5. While the visiting players showed strength in some departments they were not evenly matched with the borough aggregation. The local team enjoyed a hitting bee in the fourth and eighth innings when eight runs in all were tallied.

Smith, who occupied the box for the borough team, held his opponents safe at all stages. In the fifth inning they succeeded in scoring three runs, but the brakes were quickly applied and this was stopped. The lineup of the borough nine follows:

Blatz, cf; Hamilton, 1b; B. McClintock, rf; E. McClintock, ss-c; Powitson, 3b; Nash, 2b; Hartley, 2b; Overton, ss-c; H. Smith, lf; E. Smith, p.

The score by innings:

MR. SWACKHAMER GIVES SOME THOUGHTS ON LIFE.

Former Legislator Addresses Monroe Avenue Men's Association.

"Some Passing Thoughts," was the subject of the highly interesting address given by S. S. Swackhamer before the Men's Association, of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church Thursday. His chief thought was a plea to men to practice helping each other. He deplored the fact that some men are so selfish that give little heed or thought to their fellow-men in the constant rush for position and wealth.

Mr. Swackhamer emphasized the importance of men of the church being helpful to each other and than by example attract others to the church and its helpful influences. He had a good word for men's associations in the church and said he believed that they are an excellent means to right living.

EPISCOPAL WOMEN MEET

Plainfielders Elected Officers of Auxiliary to Diocesan Board of Missions.

200 DELEGATES PRESENT

72 Parishes Represented, Including Grace Church, Of This City—Reports Encouraging.

The annual meeting of the Women's Auxiliary to the Board of Missions of the Episcopal diocese of New Jersey was held Wednesday in St. Michael's P. E. church, Trenton. Addresses of welcome were made by the rector, the Rev. Dr. W. Strother Jones, and by Bishop John Scarborough.

The following officers were elected:

President, Mrs. S. A. Clark, of Elizabeth; secretary, Mrs. Charles J. Taggart, of Plainfield; treasurer, Miss Isabelle Tweedy, of Plainfield; treasurer of United Offering, Mrs. John N. Carpenter, of New Brunswick; vice presidents, Mrs. Thomas R. White, Miss Harriet Townsend, Miss Lucile E. Caplin, all of Elizabeth; Mrs. S. K. Monroe, of Plainfield; Miss E. T. Brunk, of Lambertville; Mrs. William B. Abbey, of Mount Holly; Mrs. Charles N. Perkins, of Vineland; Mrs. W. Strother Jones, of Trenton; Miss Elsie Edwards, of Atlantic City; Miss H. B. Driggs and Miss Mary T. Kingdom, of Burlington.

It was reported that the mission cause was flourishing in all parts of the diocese.

The 200 delegates in attendance, representing 72 New Jersey parishes, listened with pleasure to the reports of each branch, as they told of the increased financial stability of the organization.

The united offering thus far amounts to $2,200, which will be taken, together with whatever other sums are raised to the general convention to be held in the fall. It is hoped to make the sum $4,000 before that date.

One hundred and seventy dollars was also reported from the babies' fund. This unique institution, which is in charge of Vice-President Mrs. W. Strother Jones, presents each baby in the congregation with a box, in which they store their pennies, the whole amount afterwards being turned into the general fund. The children belong to this department until they become 5 years old, when they enter the Sunday-school.

Mrs. William B. Abbey, of Mt. Holly, in charge of the Mexican mission, showed that affairs in her department were progressing finely. She read a letter written in English by a Mexican girl, a student for two years in the school in Mexico City, and the members were surprised at the correctness with which it was written. Mrs. Cooke's school in the vicinity of the City of Mexico was also shown to be in good condition.

Because of the good work shown in the management of the Mexican missions, there were added to Mrs. Abbey's department the mission in Puerto Rico, Cuba and the Philippines.

Reports were also read from the missions of China and Japan, and from the negro, Indian and diocesan departments.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Board of Missions was founded in 1876 and during the thirty-one years of its existence has had but one president, Mrs. S. A. Clark, of Elizabeth.

PLAINFIELDERS FORM A $100,000 CONCERN.

Articles of Incorporation Filed by Brock Construction Co. With County Clerk This Morning.

Articles of incorporation were filed with the county clerk at Elizabeth Thursday by the Brock Construction Company, of this city. The incorporators named are William E. Brock, Josephine Brock and Frederick W. Hand, all of Plainfield. The object of the company are set forth in the following statement: To purchase, lease or otherwise acquire land and buildings in Plainfield or elsewhere for the erection and establishment of the manufactury or manufacturing and workshops with suitable plans, engines, machinery, etc., with a view to manufacturing, purchasing and otherwise dealing in woodworking; and the cutting and dressing of lumber for the manufacture of house and structures; and also to manufacture a special kind of lath, plaster board and veneer.

The capital stock is placed at $100,000, divided into shares of $100 each.

Bridge Site Inspected.

A visit was made to the new Church street crossing Railway, Thursday by several members of the Board of Freeholders and Engineer Bauer to inspect the property and take measurements for the new bridge across the Robinson branch of the Rahway River. The general opinion seemed to be that a structure sixty feet wide and seventy-five feet long, of concrete, will fill the bill. Reports and figures are to be submitted at the next meeting of the board. Councilman James Mershon was chairman of the committee, representing the City Council of Rahway.

INSTITUTE ELKS' LODGE

Plainfield's Antlered Host had Charge of Elaborate Ceremonies at Somerville.

30 CHARTER MEMBERS

300 Elks In Attendance—District Deputy Supervises Work—A "Spread" Follows.

Plainfield Elks stood out prominently in the institution of the new lodge of the order at Somerville, last Thursday. The officers from the lodge in this city had full charge of the ceremonies and conducted them in a manner that elicited unstinted praise from the big gathering on hand. There were fully 300 of the antlered host in attendance from all parts of the State, while more than a few came from New York city and Pennsylvania towns.

The new branch of the order will be known as Somerville Lodge, No. 1068, and it was cradled in Somerset Hall. The officers from Plainfield Lodge who assumed stations during the work of institution were, Exalted Ruler George D. Stevens; Esteemed *Leading Knight Clarence E. Teel; Es*teemed Loyal Knight A. D. Findlay. Esteemed Lecturing Knight Joseph Noonan, Secretary William Townsend, Treasurer L. A. Bellis, Inner Guard John Bowman and Tyler E. C. Searing. Mr. Findlay and Mr. Bellis acted respectively in the places of John Edwards and Charles MacDonald, who were unable to be present.

The Plainfield degree team also conferred the initiation on the thirty charter members, the work being supervised by District Deputy Thomas Fay and staff, of Long Branch. Following the ceremonies, the Somerville Elks served lunch to the guests and a social time was en*joyed. Most of the Plainfielders* returned home on the 11:28 train.

The following members were initiated: H. W. Rounsavig, Chester A. Cawley, A. M. Beekman, A. W. Mack, J. H. Woodruff, W. P. Snyder, F. Wink, William S. Stryker, E. F. Brown, Charles Wink, C. D. McMurtry, James A. Mets, Jr., J. B. Parmelee, B. F. Conkling, Edwin I. Lane, John A. Buswell, H. E. Hoagland, J. W. Baldwin, N. Y. Dungan, J. F. Reger, J. G. Gaston, W. E. Maxwell, William D. Nolan, A. Rindskopf, Walter Durling, John Zulauf, Fred A. Pope, W. H. Cawley, Sr.

These officers were installed: Ex*alted ruler, F. Wink*; esteemed leading knight, A. W. Mack; esteemed loyal knight, F. A. Pope; esteemed lecturing knight, B. T. Conkling; secretary, A. M. Beekman; treasurer, C. D. McMurtry; esquire, Charles Wink; chaplain, William S. Stryker; tyler, James A. Mets, Jr.; trustees, N. Y. Dungan, C. A. Cawley, J. W. Baldwin.

PLAINFIELD STOCKHOLDERS WANT REPRESENTATION.

W. A. Woodruff Their Candidate for Trustee For B. and L. Association.

In the matter of the appointment of trustees to wind-up the affairs of the State Mutual and Loan Association, of Camden, it was hoped by the Plainfield share-holders that William A. Woodruff, of this city, would receive appointment as a member of the body, on account of his large experience in real estate matters and also from the fact that he has acted as treasurer for the Plainfield branch for many years gratuitously. Should there be any changes in the trustees the local stockholders say they trust Mr. Woodruff will be appointed, as he is particularly well qualified, and it is believed he would get all possible out of the concern for the policyholders.

The fifteenth annual statement of the association was presented by President E. A. Armstrong at the meeting on Wednesday. This showed the assets to be $1,202,065.54 and the liabilities to be about $150,000 in excess of the assets. The total disbursements for the past year amounted to $645,814.69 and the total amount repaid to members by matured shares, withdrawals, etc., to date is $3,798,919.

A Rare Chance to See Europe.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss has had submitted to him a very attractive programme for a European tour this summer at a remarkably low cost. It is somewhat on the co-operative plan, the older members of the party being chiefly professional men and women, not seeking gain but enjoyment and instruction. Dr. Chambliss has consented to take charge of a small group, of not more than ten, who will do all sight-seeing with him apart from the others who may take the same tour. Care of baggage, hotels and transportation accommodations will be arranged throughout by the general manager of the tour. If a few young people or others in Plainfield would like to go in his charge, a line addressed to Dr. Chambliss will bring full particulars.

Local Contractors Are Busy.

Local contractors all report great activity in the building line, both in the matter of new construction work and in repairing. Several carpenters are rushed with repairs in various parts of the city, and a majority of the contractors have enough work to keep them busy all summer.

LINZER AND ROSS PLACED ON PAROLE

Pardon Board Releases From Prison Two Men Serving Time For Assault on Little Girls.

GALBRAITH REFUSED

His Application Laid Over—Conviction Obtained Through Evidence Gathered By Father Bogan.

Aftr serving one year and nearly two months of a two year sentence, William Ross and Peter Linzer, of Plainfield, were paroled at the State prison, Trenton, Wednesday by the *Court of Pardons. Repeated at*tempts have been made to secure the pardon not only of Linzer and Ross, but the application of John Galbraith, who received a three year sentence at the same time the other two Plainfielders were sentenced, was denied, his application being laid over for the present.

The arrest and conviction of the three Plainfielders on a charge of assault on young girls created a sensa*tion at the time and heavy sentences* were predicted. Their conviction was secured largely through the confessions of the girls, which was obtained by Father Bogan, of St. Mary's church, to which parish the girls belonged, and Chief Kiely, who was at work on the case with the pastor.

Ross, Linzer and Galbraith were sentenced in February, 1906, and immediately began serving time. Since then several petitions have *been circulated in behalf of the pris*oners, and special effort was made to secure the release of Ross. It is said that during their confinement at Trenton all three prisoners have conducted themselves in an exemplary manner.

It is probable that further efforts will be made in behalf of Galbraith, as he is an old man.

SWINDLER GETS $10

FROM PARK PLACE WOMAN.

Tells the Borough Police About it But Shrinks From Getting Her Name in Print.

A Park place woman informed Chief Marshal Weiss, of the borough police force, Thursday, that she had been swindled out of $10 by a man who had called at her home yesterday afternoon. She stated that the fellow represented himself as "T. Kelly," a coal dealer, and said that her husband had placed an order with him in the morning. It amounted to $16, he said, but as he needed some money immediately he asked if she could let him have $10 on account. The money was given him and when the husband came home last night, it was learned he had given no order for coal.

The woman, who asked the chief to be sure and not give her name to the newspapermen, described the swindler as a short, stout fellow, with smooth face and about five feet eight inches in height. He wore a black suit and a black derby hat. The chief and his men, together with the description of the unknown victim, are after the man and the ten spot.

FIREMEN NET $250.

Benefit Performance of "A Lucky Dog" Proves a Big Success.

The benefit performance given by Nat Wills and his company in the New Plainfield theatre, Friday night, for the local firemen's benefical association, went way beyond the expectations of Chief Doane and his men. The house was sold out long before the curtain went up but several hundred people who came late preferred standing room to going back home. As a result of the heavy sale of tickets in advance, the firemen will net about $250 for their treasury. It is twice the amount Chief Doane had looked for and when spoken to about the result this morning, was profuse in his thanks to all who assisted in making the benefit such a big success.

The audience was well pleased with the show and Wills added to his local laurels by his work in "A Lucky Dog." His parodies and tramp monologue took better than ever before and in one act he responded to five encores, even then having to make a speech before he could get away.

Fred J. Leary Resigns.

Fred J. Leary, who has been instructor in leather at John Leal's School during the past few years, will sever his connection with the Institution in June. He has not decided upon his plans, but it is likely that he will take up a special line of study. During his stay in Plainfield he has made many friends and has been successful as a teacher. He has also taken an active part in Y. M. C. A. athletics being one of the strongest players on the basketball team.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

May 5: "Counting the Cost." "Whosoever he be of you that forsaketh not all that he hath, he cannot be My disciple."

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Passages for reference—Matt. iv. 18-22; Luke v. 1-11; ix. 57-62; Matt. vi. 19-24; Mark viii. 34-38.

"A new broom sweeps clean" is an old saying which has an application to personal life, as well as to matters of household interest. Many people are attracted by whatever is new; if it is put in striking form and urged with some degree of eloquence, almost any cause will gather followers. We have the ability to closely examine a question and decide accurately as to its reasonableness. its truth or error. Most are not convinced by good logic. In fact, few are skilled to follow processes of reasoning unless of the simplest nature. We are all influenced more by feeling than by argument. So a speaker who puts the gospel message in a persuasive and pathetic way often wins disciples who have little idea of all that is involved in the Christian life.

It is likely that the personal presence of Jesus, His mode of speech and the sympathy He showed with suffering and the relief He gave to the sick often gave Him a multitude of followers who sought Him for the material gain they hoped to get through Him. Some, like Judas Iscariot, seem to have clung to Him with its idea in mind almost unto the last.

But Jesus was careful to purge all such wrong expectation. The passages given as for study this week set forth this matter in the clearest manner. We need to make it plain to all just what Christ offers and what He does not bestow. Those who would come into the church with the thought of obtaining power, position and advancement in honors, wealth and influence, who hope for any sort of betterment of their worldly condition, should be shown at once that almost none of these things are promised. Beyond question there are such things that men do gain who are Christians or at least who are members of the church, but these are not the durable riches of Christ.

The demand of exclusive devotion to Himself made by Christ in all His followers is not unreasonable. A divided allegiance is treason in any cause. In no other realm is this more true than in the matter of religion. True holiness is in God, from the very nature of the case, must be shared before any and all other considerations. If one deep in his soul cares more for what people say or think of him than for the way God regards him, it is useless to talk of his ever being perfect. He may have a lot of other things, but he has no religion worth speaking of.

To get on with God one must throw himself upon God with utter self abandon. This is more than self denial. It is the passion of self sacrifice. It is the constant demand of self mastering love. It requires all God is to exchange it gives all.

It is best to count the cost as fully as possible. Not a few begin the Christian life with no adequate idea of the demands of Christ. They have more or less desire to be better, to be good or to get some good. Some unwise leader for some cause wishes to get as many names of converts as possible and overurges such half ready ones into the profession and then leaves them there. No wonder at the first temptation they are overcome.

Let us be honest and plain in this matter. Better a few true disciples than a multitude of those who are afraid of every cross and also seeking selfish ends instead of a pure heart and the love of God.

If you would follow Jesus, understand at the very start He demands all the life and all the heart and will have nothing less. Have you made the full surrender? If not, where do you stand and what do you expect? Begin only with His conditions at once!

Do Only Your Part.

"Mrs. Hall," I said, "did it ever occur to you that you tried to do your part and God's part too?" Why, that moment by moment simply does the next thing? Only so much is required of humanity. Don't you think God knows? He speaks to His people. Why, yes, you do, of course. You have always thought that. Well, suppose you begin and for just a minute act upon that supposition—nay, more, act upon that fact, for it is no supposition. Let us just now and here cast your cares on this rock. With the daylight comes trooping into your mind every burden to be carried for the day. Lay it off quietly, casing it on your cares upon One who careth for you. Trust Him and see Him bring it to pass. Drop absolutely out of your mind thoughts about things that trouble you. You cannot do it? You can do it; you must do it. But, remember, you are to do this just a minute at a time. Let the clock slide off. Do not assume responsibilities that belong to God. You cannot keep your children. You cannot make a revival. You cannot force people to accept Christ. But the blessed Master keep your little ones. Oh, do get the habit of casting your burdens flow in like a river upon the "little ones and cares" are known to God. Zion's Herald.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning May 5.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—The power of a contented life.—Phil. iv. 10-20.

In the last few years we have heard much about certain kinds of life, particularly "the strenuous life" and "the simple life." Each has had distinguished advocates. The strenuous life has been preached by no less a personage than the president of the United States, and Pastor Wagner of Berlin has distinguished himself by publishing the doctrine of the simple life. It is certainly "a consummation devoutly to be wished" that the life might be characterized by more simplicity and that the minds of men might not be so absolutely absorbed with the one idea of amassing wealth, but that they might realize that while "life is real, life is earnest," yet their Creator did not make it that it should become one mad rush to heap up riches or to do anything else that may even in some way help along that end. God made man to enjoy this life as well as the life to come, and when it is so strenuous that anxiety to be chief characteristic or so simple as to be useless to mankind and unprofitable to God, the aim of life is not as it should. Paul advocates the true ideal of life—the contented life. His life was most strenuous in one sense, for no man was more active or accomplished more in one lifetime. In another sense it was a simple life, for it had but one supreme object—his own salvation and the salvation of others. From a worldly standpoint it was not always successful. He was often hungry, often in peril by land and by sea, often persecuted, and, on the other hand, he often abounded in plenty, had times of peace and security and the blessings of the dearest friends, too. But, whether his lot was one of joy or sorrow, pleasure or pain, prosperity or adversity, it mattered not, for in all of these he had learned in whatever state he was therewith to be content. And no life is so blessed as the contented life. Would that all of us enjoyed a larger share of it.

I. The contented life as defined by Paul was not contentment with his personal spiritual attainments. He was disgusted not with himself, for in the third chapter of this letter to the Philippians he declares that he had not attained perfection, but was ever reaching forward toward it, "pressing toward the mark for the prize of the high calling of God in Christ Jesus." We needs guard against any spiritual self complacency. This is usually the contentment of spiritual death rather than a sign of advanced spiritual life. The Pharisees possessed this kind of contentment. They were so certain of their spiritual condition that they thanked God that they were not as other men, and Christ called them "whited sepulchers" and declared that to His disciples unless their righteousness exceeded that of the scribes and the Pharisees they were not fit for the kingdom of God.

II. The contented life as defined by Paul refers to contentment with the external conditions of life, with the lot that God has apportioned to us in life. This is the contentment that all men seek. But this is true regardless of the conditions of our lives socially or financially. Many of us imagine that contentment is possible with the possession of wealth and high social and political position; that if we could only gratify our desires we would be contented. But this is a gross mistake. The wealthy are often the most discontented and unhappy of people. The more we have the more we crave. Pleasure palls. Prosperity wearies. No, the rich as well as the poor need the science of contentment. To many their wealth is a burden. Without Christ it is always a dissatisfaction. "If I had only my millions," said a dying rich man, "I would be most miserable, but I have Christ, and He is worth more than all!"

3. The secret of the contented life is to be learned; and Christ alone can teach it. Paul says "I have learned" to be content. He was probably not always so, but Christ must have taught it to him. Christ gave his students to bear fortune or misfortune. "I can do all things through Him that strengtheneth me." Christ taught him to live by faith instead of carrying the world's wealth to live by. Christ taught him that the spiritual should be emphasized above the physical and the eternal in preference to the temporal, and contentment came. Christ can teach us these same things, and through Him we can learn the secret of contentment.

An Echo From St. Pierre Cathedral.

A man never grows great without storm and stress and struggle any more than the giant oak grows tough with only gentle breezes playing in its branches. What young man is there among Christian Endeavorers who has unusual gifts, a superior education, great mental alertness, indomitable industry? The Lord has need of them, young man. Your endowment with unusual gifts is a call to unusual services.—Rev. Francis E. Clark, D. D., Preaching in John Calvin's Pulpit, Geneva, Switzerland.

Christian Endeavor Hall in Porto Rico.

A most interesting scheme has been inaugurated to erect a Christian Endeavor hall at Blanche Kellogg Institute, Santurce, Porto Rico. The scheme was launched with the cordial approval of President Francis E. Clark D. D. Treasurer William Shaw and other leaders in the Christian Endeavor movement.

THE NEWSPAPER MAN.

He seldom is handsome or natty,
And has none of the charms of the dude;
Is oft more abstracted than chatty,
And sometimes unbearably rude.

He courts us, then slights us and grieves us,
As much as he possibly can;
He kisses us, loves us and leaves us,
This perfidious newspaper man.

Our mothers won't have him come calling,
He's no earthly good as a "catch;"
His morals (they say) are appalling,
His finances usually match.

He's rollicking, reckless, uncaring,
Lives but for the hour, the day;
He's dangerous, dubious, daring,
Not fit for a husband, they say.

But somehow we girls are forgiving,
Perhaps he but needs us the more
Because he goes wrong in the living
And knows the old world to the core.

So we pass up the dude and the schemer,
Who holds in society's van,
And cherish the thinker and dreamer
Enshrined in the newspaper man.
—Marie M. Hemstreet, in the Blue Magazine.

WOMEN PREFER "PULL" TO "PUSH."

An observer who stands near the swinging doors of a big store in the shopping district will observe an interesting little incident that is repeated again and again until the frequency of its occurrence furnishes basis for a general deduction.

Men women often ten pull the doors open, where choice is offered, while the same proportion of men push their way through.

Now, why do women do one thing by preference or instinct and men the other?

Is it because women are used to answering the doorbell, and, therefore, to opening their own street doors from the inside, while someone usually lets them in when they return to the house?

Is man, on the other hand, more conscious familiar with the latchkey side of his street door than with the other, and, therefore, with pushing the barrier open?

Is the matter one of strength, coupled with avoirdupois, the man finding that he helps himself by throwing his bulk against the door, while the woman's lesser weight is not equally effectual?

Is it a question of clothes, the women seeking to protect their dainty garments by standing back, a precaution which men, more serviceably clad, do not feel it necessary to observe?

MOLLYISMS.

There may be as good fish in the sea as ever was caught, but what's the use of knowing they're there unless you are sure you can catch them?

We make friends of some people because we like them, and we make friends of others because we would not care to have them for enemies.

A girl does not wear a heavy chiffon veil on a rainy day for the fun of it; probably there is a pimple or blotch which she does not care to have you notice.

The devotee of the rainy day skirt is generally the girl with the pretty foot. The "others" consider it immodest.

Be nice to a girl and you'll bore her to death. Be nice to some other girl and the first will do her utmost to gain your attention, and then, when she has gained it, good-by to you. A woman could "die" getting even.

MOLLIE.

Mr. and Mrs. B. D. Newell, of Sandford avenue, were recent visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. R. Thatcher, of Bound Brook.

REST CURE FOR CLOTHES.

It has been discerned that a woman's clothes also require rest, and the careful, up-to-date woman has taken to resting her clothes. Nothing induces shabbiness in coats and gowns more than the lines and wrinkles which show that they have been worn for a season. Walking creases and sitting creases make a garment old before it has done its duty.

Men know this better than women and this is why a man is well dressed with a small wardrobe because every week or so he makes a change of suits, sends the suit he has been wearing to the tailor and never by any chance allows a wrinkle to become fixed in his garments.

Not all of a woman's frocks can go to the tailor, but she can manage to change her clothes often enough to give them an entire rest, says the Philadelphia Press.

Many sermons have been preached on this point concerning shoes.

Here is a plan that has been tried with success for cleaning and pressing skirts: Brush them first, then while on the skirt a clean brush dampened in ammonia and warm water. Any stain can be removed if rubbed out at once with a mixture of equal parts of ammonia, alcohol and water. After the skirt is thoroughly cleaned, brushed and dried, lay it on the pressing table or board, pin each pleat down in its proper fold, cover the skirt with a piece of dark woolen goods which has been previously dampened and then press.

After it is pressed, hang it up carefully and leave the pleats pinned down until used.

To remove dust from silk skirts, do not use a brush, but wipe them with a piece of velveteen, which will not scratch and will remove the dust much better than a brush.

Silk or ruffled skirts should be fitted out with tapes sewn on the lower ruffles, by which they can be hung upside down; this prevents the skirt from sagging and the ruffle from drooping.

Gowns of delicate material should be put away in long boxes or bureau drawers, each skirt being folded in the pleats into which it should fall when worn. The bodices should be stuffed with tissue paper, that sleeves and trimmings filled out with tissue paper also.

Wash frocks should always be put away in trunks, boxes or drawers, whether they have been worn or not, for so hanging they grow stringy, are more easily affected by dampness and lose their freshness before they are worn.

Suits and frocks should be carefully gone over and mended and repaired before they are put away for a rest.

A clever girl with more taste than money always puts away her ribbons and laces to rest. This is not so much to freshen them, though they are improved by it, as to have something which is apparently new to her friends when she reweara them after their "rest cure."

STOKES AND FOWLER ADDRESS BANKERS

BECK ALSO A SPEAKER AT SESSIONS HELD AT ATLANTIC CITY.

Governor Stokes and former Assistant U. S. Attorney-General Beck were the principal speakers at a banquet given by the New Jersey Bankers' Association, at the Chelsea, Atlantic City, Friday, in connection with the two days' convention of the association. Several hundred bankers from all over the State attended the business session yesterday afternoon at which Representative Fowler delivered an address on currency expansion. He declares that bank reserves and credits must be changed to allow a more elastic credit with which to do banking business.

Today's session will be devoted largely to a discussion of the tax on bank stocks. Delegates will also be chosen to attend the National Bankers' convention. President B. H. Minch, of the New Jersey Association, was among those who spoke at yesterday's session.

Carlton Godfrey, head of the Guarantee Trust Company, of Atlantic City, spoke on "Business Succession. Mayor Francis P. Stoy delivered the address of welcome, and the response was made by Senator Bloomfield H. Minch, of the Bridgeton National Bank.

"Taxation of National Bank Stock in New Jersey," was the subject of an address by State Senator George E. Silzer.

Miss Crosson in Grand Opera.

Miss Lou Crosson, formerly of Plainfield, but now of New York, just completed a successful season in grand opera at Hammerstein's Opera House, where she has had one of the minor parts. Prior to singing in grand opera, she was a soloist at one of the metropolitan churches, where her voice attracted considerable attention.

Rev. Francis E. Whiteside and family, who have been visiting relatives in town, have returned to East Quogue, L. I.

Girth Williams, who has been home from college for several days, returned yesterday.

Miss Tupper, of Buffalo, is visiting her sister, Mrs. William A. Connor, of Hillside avenue.

NO AMERICAN GOLF CODE NEEDED, HE SAYS

MR. CALKINS BELIEVES THIS COUNTRY SHOULD HAVE REPRESENTATION.

Leighton Calkins, chairman of the golf committee of the Plainfield Country Club, who is a member of the executive committee of the United States Golf Association, a close student of the game of golf, says that one of the greatest dangers which has ever assailed golf, is the present cry for an American golf code. He believes that the movement should be met with courtesy and consideration; also, that its dangers must be pointed out. In speaking on the subject, Mr. Calkins says:

"An American code has been drawn and presented to the golfers in this country. The maker has done this modestly, and he frankly states that his rules are meant as suggestions. He does not claim that his code is perfect, but he does show that he believes the time has come for an American set of rules.

"There is such well-merited dissatisfaction with the existing rules that there is danger than we shall be hurried or backed up in the warmth of our reception of this code. The work has been well done. The author has gone too far; he has made too far-reaching, too strained a departure from existing rules and penalties, and he has loaded with this rule a great many things which have absolutely no place there, such as the definition of professionalism and the classification of links according to their length. But he has shown intelligence and care in his work.

"Sooner or later the rules must be pruned—at least, rearranged. Sooner or later they must be written by some one who knows at least something of the principals of rhetoric. The 'English' of existing rules is abominable. The arrangement is horrible. Nobody knows them. There are a hundred loopholes for 'construction,' 'interpretation.' In fact, at best all one can do is to 'interpret' the existing rules, for they are 'laid down' and expressed that one realizes far more often what they do not mean than what they do mean.

"I will concede everything which has been said, or which can be said against the authorities in rules of the game, and yet I firmly believe that we should continue to stand by them. One bad code is a hundred-fold better than three or four codes; one for us, one for England, another for France, and so on. As a game, golf is unique. The rules are unique. It is a game where much depends, regardless of rules, on personal honor and sportsmanship. If different countries or localities start to adopt rules of play for themselves, the game will not be worth playing in ten years. The American players a dozen years from now will decline to try for the title abroad, and no British players will be tempted to make an American trip, because the game here and the game there will be wide apart in all fundamental elements.

"Let us, then, work heartily for an improvement in the rules, and savagely against any separate American code. Let our energy of thought and of expression be aimed at the real evil, to wit: the American representation on the authoritative rules committee abroad. The whole matter should receive the immediate serious consideration of the United States Golf Association. That association should instruct its executive committee to work to secure representation on the committee abroad, which frames and amends the rules of the game. Our representation should be proportionate to our standing in golf in this country. I am confident us, it will be time enough for us to makes rules for ourselves."

SESAME CLUB OBSERVES SHAKESPEAR'S BIRTHDAY.

"The Merchant of Venice" the Programme for Annual Celebration.

The Sesame Club Thursday afternoon celebrated Shakespeare's birthday at the home of Mrs. Louis Ross on Seventh street. This is the third year the club has given a Shakespearean play. "The Merchant of Venice" was selected this time, as the programme for this year has been "A Winter in Italy." The guests of honor were received by Mrs. Ross and Mrs. Tennant, president of the club.

Mrs. J. Hervey Doane read a paper giving the synopsis and venetian setting of the play. A comprehensive article on one of the actors who have become famous in portraying the characters of Portia and Shylock was given by Mrs. Chase.

The different characters in the play were taken by members of the club, and the reading ended with a dramatic rendering of the trial scene given by Mrs. Stuart Simons, who has made a special study of Shakespearean plays.

A feature of the afternoon was music by Mrs. Frank Clark, Mrs. Harry Johnson, Miss Bigler and Mrs. Gates. The selections were nearly all Italian in character, and were rendered in a charming manner.

At the close of the entertainment refreshments were served. Those presiding at the table were Mrs. Rose, Mrs. Voorhees, Mrs. Cone and Mrs. Foster.

P.C.C. TENNIS SCHEDULE

Thomas M. Day Announces Complete List of Season's Events on the Courts.

TROPHIES ARE OFFERED

Tournaments For Men and Women and Mixed Doubles—Special Contests For Boys.

The tennis committee of the Plainfield Country Club, of which Thomas M. Day is the chairman, issued the season schedule of events in tennis today, and a full list of competitions has been arranged. In addition to the regular events a continuous tournament to extend throughout the season has been planned. This is to stimulate play among tennis enthusiasts.

Entries should be made not later than 6 p. m., on the day preceding each tournament, to Miss Schuyler, 319 East Seventh street, in the women's and girls' events, and to Thomas M. Day, 740 Carlton avenue, in the men's and boys' mixed doubles events. The ranking established by last year's continuous tournament revised as may be necessary by the tennis committee, will furnish the basis of the original ranking. Players not ranked should communicate at once with the committee.

The tennis committee is composed of the following persons: Thomas M. Day, chairman; Henry J. Cochran, vice chairman; Frederick W. Goddard, Owen K. Fleming, Wylie Brown, Miss Sarah E. Schuyler and Miss Elsie Burke.

The schedule of events follow:

May 4, 10 a. m., Boys' Handicap singles. Boys under 16 years eligible. May 11, 10 a. m., Women's Handicap singles; 2:30 p. m., Men's doubles. May 18, 10 a. m., Girls' singles. URGE COLBY TO STAND

New Idea People Believe He Should be a Candidate for Gubernatorial Nomination.

FAGAN BOOMING HIM

Jersey City Dollar Dinner Furnished An Exhibition of the Great Zeal and Ardor of the Colbyites.

Senator Everett Colby may be the nominee of the New Idea party for Governor, despite his opinion that they should not organize as a political party, but as minute men to be at call to fight for good government. Mayor Fagan entertains a different view. He believes the only practical way to accomplish the desired reforms is through political activity and the election of men identified with the New Idea, especially those who have taken an active interest and brought about the development of the movement. Mayor Fagan maintains that they must keep up their activity and be aggressive and the leaders must assume their share of responsibility in the cause, and when called on to act in their interest of the people, even to accept a nomination, it is their duty to accept. What they must do, however, by way of legislation for the people he says has been grudgingly given through fear; that if the New Idea movement becomes of the passive sort the old machine men will continue their methods and work for the reformations, halting only when the reformers rally to wage war openly on them.

Mayor Fagan has no confidence in the machine politicians and says the only way to secure the rights of the people is to fight on until the machine politicians are retired to private life, and that the ultimate success of the New Idea movement is assured. He was emphatic on that point at the close of the dollar dinner in Jersey City, which did not end until long after 1 o'clock yesterday morning. He told Senator Colby he had no right to consult his own wishes in the matter; that when the people demanded that he run he should be a candidate for the nomination. Senator Colby announced that he would be a candidate again for State Senator, but Mayor Fagan was persistent in his contention that Senator Colby should step forth as the nominee.

Senator Colby is sure of twelve hundred votes in Hudson, for every man at the dinner is an enthusiastic admirer of the Essex Senator and would work zealously for his nomination. The dinner has infused the New Idea men with a new ardor. The committee in charge had made a careful calculation based on the reports and had supposed they had made a liberal provision when they ordered six hundred places. The outpouring of those interested in the movement had exceeded the most sanguine expectations, but when the unexpected participants came to the door of the hall they could not be let in and turned away, and many had to take pot luck. But the situation was understood. They had come to hear and cheer the speakers, and no fault was found with the service, as they had ample opportunity to unloosen their enthusiasm and did it. The leaders of the New Idea movement are jubilant and they are inspired to keep up the battle with increased confidence. No political dinner ever given in the State of New Jersey has equalled in attendance that of the Faganites nor has any similar gathering approximated it in zeal and ardor.

PLAINFIELD LEGION, N. P. L.,
HOLDS ENTERTAINMENT.

The Misses Emmons and Moore and Four H Quartette Furnish Programme.

Plainfield Legion, No. 1495, National Protective Legion, celebrated its first anniversary, Thursday, by giving an entertainment to members and their friends in Coward's hall on Park avenue. The attendance was large and the affair was thoroughly enjoyed, marking in a fitting way the close of the organization's initial year.

Attorney J. Martin, who is worthy president of the legion, was master of ceremonies and delivered an opening address in which he referred to the success of the organization since it was started. He was followed by the Four H Quartette, in songs, readings and character work; Miss Amy Emmons, who delighted everyone with her character readings and recitations, and Miss Ethel Moore, of Cranford, a soloist of note. An address dealing with the aims and objects of the National Protective Legion was given by District Deputy S. A. Meeker, of Paterson. The Plainfield legion started with a membership of forty and has more than doubled in the first twelve months. It is open to both men and women.

Last night's anniversary was arranged by a committee of which Horace J. Martin was chairman.

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue, are entertaining two of their grandchildren from East Orange.

FOR A PUBLICITY FUND

Board of Trade Committee to Call Some Business Center Thoroughly.

WANTS AT LEAST $1,500

Could Use $5,000 and Make Every Cent Of It Tell in Results—What One Town Did.

The subscription committee of the Board of Trade met Monday to arrange details of its plan to amass a good-sized fund for a campaign of publicity. These ten men were divided into five sub-committees of two each: Herman Schwed, Moses Roth, L. B. Wooston, J. J. Kenney, Elsten M. French, J. Fred McDonald, Charles Connover, John Johnston, A. B. Laing and H. A. Todd.

They will divide the business center into five sections, and each section will be thoroughly canvassed. The committee is aiming to secure at least $1,500. Every business man and every professional man in business in Plainfield will be seen. While $1,500 is the minimum amount at which the committee aimed, it will not strive for that amount only. The committee could use $4,000 or $5,000 to advantage, making every dollar of it tell.

Plans for the publicity work will be discussed at the meeting of the Board of Trade Monday night. The general scheme for publicity is not, at present, in any definite shape.

Speaking of the possibilities of publicity funds, this morning, President Harry M. Marshall referred to the money amassed by the Williamsport, Pa., Board of Trade. In 1900 it secured subscriptions amounting to $250,000, to be paid up in five years. In 1905 subscriptions amounting to $400,000 more, to be paid up by 1909 were secured. While great things were used money to purchase sites for desirable factories.

BOROUGH SCHOOL MEETING.

Little Beyond Routine Business Transacted at Monthly Meeting.

The Borough Board of Education held its monthly meeting Monday, but transacted little beyond ordinary business. Dr. Fred J. Hughes was appointed school physician, and another year and Messrs. Cooley and Woodruff were named as a committee to complete all arrangements for the annual commencement exercises in June. Contractor Ullsinger reported that the grading of the Somerset school grounds had been graded and placed in condition according to his agreement.

Superintendent Krebs reported that a Chicago firm had made him an offer to place six lathes in the manual training department at a cost of $250; also that the Public Service Corporation had offered to install a motor to run them provided the board would pay all power charges. The matter was left in the hands of Mr. Lowe. At Mr. Krebs' request 77 was appropriated for immediate use in this department. Claims amounting to $3,456.23 were ordered paid.

TO INTEREST CHILDREN.

S. P. C. A. Want Young People to Join in Its Work.

Effort is to be made by the S. P. C. A. to interest children in its aims and to show them into membership. Future strength of the humane doctrine is assured by awakening interest in S. P. C. A. work among children, and for that reason the society will welcome young people to membership.

That interest is increasing in the society's work was made plain, at a meeting held in W. A. Coddington's office Monday, by the report of steady growth in the number of annual and life members. Those desirous of becoming members of the society, or of obtaining information regarding its aims, may apply to Mrs. George W. Bunnell, the treasurer, or Mrs. D. Rapalje, the secretary.

JR. O. U. A. M. CELEBRATION

Plainfield Council Appropriately Observes Its First Anniversary.

HIGH OFFICERS SPEAK

Addresses By State Councilor Frank Sharpe and Others—W. S. Angleman Presides.

The first anniversary of Plainfield Council, No. 292, Jr. O. A. U. M., celebrated in Junior Hall, Monday, was marked by many pleasing features. There was a large representation of members from Franklin, Somerset and Benevolent Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M. In addition there were present State Councilor Frank Sharpe, of Newark; State Treasurer J. Morgan Reed, of Sea Bright and State Council Secretary W. H. Miers. W. Winfield S. Angleman, the first councilor of Plainfield Council, occupied the chair and acted as toastmaster. Excellent addresses of a patriotic nature were made by the State officers and Rev. E. E. Robertson, pastor of the Monroe Avenue M. E. Church, a prominent member of the order. The member of Plainfield Council were congratulated for the fine showing made during its first year, there being an increase of 171 per cent.

The council was organized by Daniel VanWinkle and instituted on April 30, by State Council Secretary W. H. Miers with thirty-five members. Last night it was reported that the membership had reached an even 100 and the financial status is first class. The present officers are: Councilor, R. D. Tomlinson; vice councilor, E. Gibson Smith; past councilor, George B. Cratsley; warden, Samuel Cratsley; conductor, Isaac Peck; recording secretary, F. E. Sebrins; assistant, W. Ely; financial secretary, Joel Pangborn; treasurer, Julius Williams.

A feature of the celebration was the presentation of a gold watch charm to Senior Past Councilor P. H. Bennett. Mr. Angleman presented the charm on behalf of the council for faithful services performed by Mr. Bennett.

During the evening there were patriotic selections by Martin A. Korff's orchestra, and a clever exhibition of sleight-of-hand by Henry W. Rankin, of this city. Afterward a collation was served by the good and welfare committee of Plainfield Council and a smoker was enjoyed.

To Manage Health Resort.

N. Douglass Drake, who spent nearly a year in the Adirondacks for the purpose of regaining his health, is now interested with Mrs. W. E. D. Scott, formerly of this city, in the work of establishing an industrial settlement near Saranac Lake. The idea is to furnish a suitable place where people suffering from tuberculosis and consumption may go and regain their health at a moderate expense. The plan is to erect cottages and other buildings whereby industries may be carried on by the members of the settlement who are able to work. Mrs. Scott was formerly Miss Shetter. Her father built the Netherwood Hotel, now Truell Hall, and her husband is at present a professor at Princeton. Associated with Mrs. Scott are a number of well-known philanthropists, who will lend their support to the scheme. Mr. Drake was so greatly benefited by his stay in the Adirondacks that he conceived the idea of establishing a settlement there.

Macadamizing in Netherwood Park.

Denmark road, Dixie Land and Ravine road, principal streets in that beautiful tract of the Netherwood section of Plainfield, known as Netherwood Park, are now being macadamized by C. M. Meeker, in accordance with an ordinance passed by the Common Council. This attractive site is owned by the Plainfield Loan and Building Company and contains many choice building lots. The property has already been sewered and when the macadamizing is finished everything will be in readiness for the building boom which is soon to follow. This land is high and the surroundings are attractive, making it a desirable place for a home.

RIVER STEAMER SINKS BIG FREIGHT BARGE

FRED BIRD ABOARD C.W. MORSE WHEN THE CRASH OCCURED.

With a crash that could be heard far up and down the river, the steamboat C. W. Morse, of the People's Line, rammed the propeller barge No. 4, of the New York Central Railroad, off the foot of West Thirty-third street, New York, shortly before 7 a. m. Tuesday. The barge sank within a few minutes and one man lost his life. He was John Keyes, the engineer. Fred Bird, of Plainfield, was one of the passengers aboard the Morse. Bird was on his way from New Orleans to his home in Plainfield. He was uninjured.

In the dense fog that hung over the river the Morse was making only a little better than half speed on her way from Albany to her pier at the foot of Canal street. She was hugging the Jersey shore, and Capt. Keller was on the bridge.

Many of the passengers were on deck and their shouts were the first warning of the approach of the lighter, which was close on the bow of the big river boat before she could be seen in the fog.

The lighter was cutting diagonally across the river from the west shore.

Before either the Morse or the lighter could swerve from their course they were in collision. The lighter struck into the Central boat, her bow cutting a wide gap in her side just forward of the smokestack.

As the crash came Capt. Holmes, of the Central boat, knew that his craft was certain to go down within a few minutes, and he ran to the forward companion and called to the engineer and fireman to come on deck.

Engineer Keyes stuck to his post and ordered the fireman, Mannie Anderson, to hurry up the companion and see what had happened.

Mr. Green was an active member of the Republican party of Morris county, having at one time been chairman of the county executive committee. He was clerk of the Board of Aldermen of Morristown for a number of years and the time of his death he was secretary of the Board of Managers of the State Hospital for the Insane at Morris Plains. Mr. Green was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church. He leaves a widow and four children.

A Successful Demonstration.

The pleasure of practicing medicine comes in when the family sow-tow to the doctor and call his name blassed. If Aunt Susie bobs up, with "Science and Health," under arm, there's small joy left. With allopaths the pecuniary detriment rarely amounts to much; Eddyism gets its recruits, chiefly from homeopathists; but even orthodox physicians get cross when you speak of it. They take revenge by yarn spinning, and here is their latest achievement:

"I've just had a triumph," cried the Scientist, "for Eddyism brought me five tiny kittens, every one of them born blind. I demonstrated over them, and in less than a week the poor dears received their sight!"—Boston Transcript.

Consolidation Report Ready.

Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, as chairman of the Bi-municipal Consolidation Commission, announces that the commission has finished its investigations and will submit its report to the governing bodies of the two municipalities on Monday night. The Plainfield Common Council holds its regular monthly meeting on that night, and Mayor Smalley, of North Plainfield, has been requested to hold an adjourned meeting of the Borough Council at the same time. This he has consented to do and therefore the report will be received simultaneously in the two places.

Local Rig Stolen at Elizabeth.

A rig belonging to Michael Kennedy, of Watching avenue, and which had been hired from him by a local young man, was stolen on Morris avenue, Elizabeth, Sunday night. The animal had been left in the street and was tied to a post but had disappeared when the young man returned for it after a call. The horse is described as a bay cob while the vehicle was a runabout with red running gear.

Thomas Jefferson Memorial Association Plans Patriotic Celebration.

A REUNION ARRANGED

Descendants of Signers to Hold Reunion—Ex-President Endorses the Idea.

The Fourth of July celebration at the Jamestown Exposition promises well as one of the most unique, as well as one of the most impressive, that has ever been held anywhere in the United States.

The Thomas Jefferson Memorial Association of the United States recently submitted, through its secretary, William H. McKean, its plan for the celebration of the day to the officers of the exposition. The association plans a grand reunion of the descendants of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, and to have the declaration read by a lineal descendant of Thomas Jefferson, author of the famous document. In addition to these features of the day, it is proposed to have addresses and patriotic music by a specially-organized chorus of 500 voices.

The board of governors of the exposition has shown its approval of the plan by adopting the proposal of the association. The celebration will be conducted under the joint auspices of the exposition officials and the association.

The following letter of approval of the movement has been received by Mr. McKean from former President Cleveland:

"My Dear Sir—I unreservedly approve of the project which the Thomas Jefferson Memorial Association of the United States has in hand. It seems to me that a reunion of the descendants of the signers of the Declaration of Independence on or about the date when this immortal document was signed would be a most impressive incident in connection with the Jamestown Exposition.

"Such a reunion should certainly have a tendency to stimulate patriotic sentiment and arouse among those who are within its influence a better appreciation of the initial efforts of the fathers of the republic to establish a new nation, and impress upon it the best ideals of a free government.

"Yours very sincerely,
"GROVER CLEVELAND."

Women Discuss the Home.

Interesting papers on "The House and the Home" were presented at the informal meeting of the Monday Afternoon Club held Monday in the Casino. "Decoration and Furnishings" were treated in a paper written by Mrs. F. W. Wallace and read by Miss Emily Tracy. "The Sanitary Care of the House" was the subject of a paper by Mrs. James W. De Graff. General discussion followed. With the consent of the executive board, Miss Mabel Phillips, of this city, spent a few minutes in presenting the claims of the New Jersey Public Health Defense League, recently organized.

IN ORGANIST'S HONOR

Special Services at Trinity Marks Silver Jubilee of A. L. Titsworth.

FINE MUSIC A FEATURE

Gift of Gold Moves Mr. Titsworth to Tears—Women Decorate Church in His Honor With Flowers.

Marking the twenty-fifth anniversary of Arthur L. Titsworth's connection with the church as organist, Trinity Reformed church held a praise service Sunday night. The celebration was largely attended, after the service, Mr. Titsworth was presented with a purse of gold on behalf of a few friends among the older members of the church.

The musical numbers of the service were beautiful and splendidly rendered. The choir, consisting of Miss Ethel M. Moore, soprano; Miss Winifred C. Carroll, contralto; Edmund D. Young, tenor; and Fred S. Cutter, bass, sang at its best.

The order of service was as follows:

Organ prelude—"At Evening," (by request), Dudley Buck; ascription—(Congregation standing); invocation; anthem—"Bonum Est Confiteri," George William Warren; Psalter—Psalm XCVIII; Gloria Patri, Juan Altamora; duet—"The Lord is My Light," Dudley Buck, Miss Carroll, Mr. Cutter; Scripture lesson—Ephesians 5:8-21; hymn 838—"Mid Evening Shadows," Palmer-Mendelssohn; solo—"O Lord, Be Merciful," Homer N. Barnett, Miss Moore; prayer; quartette—"The Lord's Prayer," Charles Heft; announcements; hymn 61—"Now May He Who From the Dead," Newton-Gottschalk, 1st and 3d verses; offertory solo—"Fear Not Ye, O Israel," Dudley Buck, Miss Carroll; address—"Music in the Church," Rev. Dr. P. Johnson; trio—"Praise Ye," Verdi, Miss Moore, Mr. Young, Mr. Cutter; prayer; anthem—"The Day is Past and Over," J. Christopher Marks; doxology—"Praise God from Whom all Blessing Flow," Ken-Bourgeois; benediction; organ postlude—"Festal March in C," J. Baptiste Calkin.

The platform was handsomely decorated with flowers and plants. On the organ were two wreaths, surrounding the figures "1842" and "1907." Mr. Titsworth was surprised to see the decorations when he came to the church yesterday morning, and last night, Deacon Edgar F. Sheppard, clerk of the consistory, thanked the members of the Ladies' Church Work Society in his behalf, before the congregation. Mr. Titsworth's thanks for all those who helped to make the service a success were also expressed.

Dr. Johnson said, among many beautiful allusions to the power and sweetness of melody, that music enabled one to feel great emotions. He spoke of the sacred beauty of psalm-singing and of the antiquity and prominence of music in the Church. Sacred music, he said, sung with the spirit and the understanding, was the most effective of all.

Dr. Johnson said he had found much help and inspiring in his pastoral work. He thanked God for what measure of appreciation of music had been vouchsafed to him.

He urged all the congregation to join in the singing of hymns and tunes. One of the best services ever made by the consistory of Trinity was that at least three hymns congregational singing be incorporated in the services. All congregational singing was good. The audience had no fear of discords or strained singing. Like the wind blowing through the forest, no matter how discordant the notes that entered into it the volume of sound always made harmony.

When Mr. Titsworth had reached the postlude, he was called to the organ, and surrounded by a large group of church members, who waited to congratulate him. He was presented with the purse. The presentation was made by Robert Clark, Jr.

Mr. Clark referred to Titsworth's long service, and to the pleasant recollections that entwined the retrospect. He said the organist must have heard a message many griefs, uplifted many, and, may-hap, brought numbers into the church. The speaker closed with an earnest hope that Mr. Titsworth continue to serve the church for many years.

The presentation was a complete surprise to Mr. Titsworth and it affected him deeply. He was moved to tears, and it was only by an effort that he was able to speak with a steady voice.

He expressed his appreciation of the manifestation of friendship and regard that had prompted the day. In his service, he said, he had endeavored to interpret the thought in the quiet music, and not to create florid effects had been his aim, but an expression of the worship. In keeping with this thought, it had been his constant aim to put the blessings that sometimes appear the musical side of a church service. He was glad that no shadow of discord had ever darkened Trinity's choral work during his service.

Mr. Titsworth became organist of Trinity in May, '82. Before that, for five years, he was organist of the Park Avenue Baptist church. From 1877 until 1885 he was organist of the Seventh-Day Baptist church. He succeeded Joseph P. Hewatt, who was organist there when it was the Congregational church. Before the organization of Trinity church, Mrs. W. A. Freeman and Harry Lindsley were organists there. The period of Mr. Titsworth's service covers the pastorate of Rev. Dr. J. V. V. Raymond, president of Union College, and Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, the present incumbent.

Among the singers who served in the choir under Mr. Titsworth are: Thomas B. Brown, Mrs. Nora Abel Lent, Mrs. Ella Stead Bird, Frank S. Lockwood, Mrs. Sheppard Stewart, Miss Gaston, Charles Naylor, Miss Blackman, Mr. Green, Miss Emma Ward, D. J. Randel, Robert Gorton, George O. Stevens, Mrs. Ryder, Miss *Mattison, Mrs. J. P.G.C. GOLF OPENING POSTPONED A WEEK

THE GREENS NOT READY ON SATURDAY FOR REGULAR PLAY.

It was a great disappointmen to many enthusiasts that the regular schedule of golf events could not be started at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday. The committee decided however, that because of the condition of the greens it would be unwise to begin the regular play. In another week they will be in fine shape and in fact the whole course will be much improved. After a short conference on Saturday it was decided to postpone the initial competition for one week and a notice to that effect was posted.

During the past few weeks, Leighton Calkins, chairman of the greens committee, has put in much time with a large gang of laborers, making the necessary improvements and repairs to the course, and it is predicted that when completed it will be equal to any in the Metropolitan district.

Although there was no regular play on the course, the social features at the clubhouse were enjoyed. A large number of members and guests visited the house Saturday afternoon and several luncheons and dinners were served. Among the informal luncheons was one given for a small party of friends by Mrs. Francis Dodsley Hyde. All the improvements about the house are about completed and everything is in readiness for a busy season. It is hoped that during the summer the hot water heating system will be installed so that the house will have every modern convenience for the comfort of the members. On Saturday there will be the first play for the opening days, golf committee and greens committee cups.

The active season will begin at the Park Club and the Westfield Golf Club on Saturday, the opening being deferred because the greens were not in suitable condition before.

TRAIN AND TRACK.

The rails of the belt line road in Philadelphia are the heaviest in the world.

New South Wales railways have made large reductions in passenger fares and freight rates.

The Kansas City Terminal Railway Company, representing the leading railways entering Kansas City, proposes to build a new joint passenger and freight terminal. The city has agreed to give the railways a fifty year grant for the terminal.

The work of elevating the railroad tracks of the city of Chicago is proceeding rapidly, and when the entire 1,600 miles are placed overhead it is estimated that the improvement will be the means of saving 600 lives every year. This work will cost $15,000,000, and the expense will be borne entirely by the railroads.

Miss Ethel Moore Scores.

"The Court of Hearts," a clever comic opera, was given in the Cranford Casino, Friday night, Saturday afternoon and night, and Miss Ethel Moore, a member of the Plainfield Operatic Association, who took a leading part in The Pirates of Penzance," scored a hit as "Jack of Hearts." Several Plainfielders witnessed the performance Saturday night.

BISHOP AT HOLY CROSS

Confirms a Class and Tells the Parishoners He Favors Higher Salary for Clergy.

COMPLIMENTS FLOCK

The Prelate Pleased With Progress of the Church Under Mr. Warner's Rectorship.

In the presence of a large congregation, Rt. Rev. Dr. John Scarborough, bishop of the diocese of New Jersey, administered the rite of confirmation to a class of twenty-two candidates at the morning service in the church of the Holy Cross Sunday. It was crowded mostly of men and boys who are members of the parish. One candidate was presented by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace church, and another came from New Brunswick. In connection with the ceremony there was special music and a service of more than ordinary interest.

After administering the rite, Bishop Scarborough gave a stirring address on the Resurrection that was in reality an Easter sermon. He also took occasion to congratulate the members of the parish on the good work they have accomplished in the past year and expressed great satisfaction at hearing the report that they have cleared the church of every penny of indebtedness.

While speaking of this line of thought, the bishop called the attention of his hearers to the fact that in the past ten years, according to statistics furnished from Washington, the cost of living had increased forty-two cents on the dollar and that it should be borne in mind when fixing the rector's salary. The bishop declared that he had given it serious consideration for some time and that he proposed bringing the question of increases before the next Diocesan convention. Before concluding, he addressed the class, speaking first to the women, then the men and finally the boys.

In the afternoon at 4 o'clock, the bishop held his annual visit to the Church of the Heavenly Rest, assumed charge of the service but there was no class for confirmation. The bishop preached a sermon and in honor of his visit special anthems were rendered by the choir. At night he visited St. Paul's church, Westfield.

The Bishop was the guest of Rev. and Mrs. George A. Warner over Sunday.

CORNELIUS J. ACKERMAN SUCCUMBS TO ILLNESS

PASSED AWAY AT HIS HOME ON CLINTON AVE EARLY YESTERDAY.

Following an illness of three weeks with a complication of troubles, Cornelius J. Ackerman, who lived over the city line on Clinton avenue, died at his home at 2 o'clock Sunday morning. The original ailment was followed by heart trouble and also hiccoughs, from which he suffered constantly for eleven days previous to his death.

Mr. Ackerman was born in New York State seventy-four years ago, but he had lived in or near Plainfield the greater part of his life. He was chief of the city's police in the early seventies and twenty-four years ago he assumed the position of night watchman in the Market and Fulton bank, New York, of which former Mayor Alexander Gilbert, of this city, is president. He held the position until three years ago, when the condition of his health induced him to resign. Since then he had lived quietly at his place on Clinton avenue, just above the Maple Grove school.

Mr. Ackerman was a member of the First M. E. church for many years and attended regularly as long as his health permitted. He is survived by four daughters and two sons. They are Mrs. Walter Manning, Mrs. John Thompson and Mrs. Edward Vail, of this city; Mrs. Frank Martin, who resides at the home; Archibald Ackerman, of Long Island, and William Ackerman, of New Market. He also leaves one brother, John Ackerman, of East Second street.

The funeral will be held at his late home tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock and interment will be in the Methodist cemetery on Plainfield avenue.

William Kolyer's Funeral.

The funeral of William E. Koeyer, who died at his home on East Third street, was held in the Christian church on Grove street Saturday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Phil. A. Parsons in the presence of a large gathering of friends. Interment followed in St. Mary's cemetery. Members of the Junior Order United American Mechanics acted as pall bearers.

A May Tea.

Mrs. James Clarence Peck has sent out invitations for a tea in honor of Miss Kahle, to be given at her home, No. 46 Myrtle avenue, on Saturday, May 4, from 4 to 6 o'clock.

SCOTCH PLAINS WINS FROM BAYONNE A. C.

VISITORS IN LEAD AT START—FINAL SCORE WAS 9 TO 4.

The Bayonne A. C. went down to defeat Saturday afternoon at Scotch Plains, when the latter's team scored a victory by the score of 9 to 4. The home aggregation found Snyder's delivery in the third inning and before being retired brought in seven runs. Up to the third inning the visitors were in the lead, the score being 3 to 0, due to loose infield playing, together with a two base hit off Johnston's delivery. After that both teams settled down and the fans enjoyed a good contest. The visitors were given another run in the seventh inning, when a wild throw by Perry assisted by a Texas leaguer brought a man across the plate. The locals scored two more runs in their half of this inning.

The game afforded Captain Frentz an opportunity to try out his pitching staff. Johnston occupied the box by the first three innings, after which Perry, of last year's Gillette team, finished the contest. His work was fine, only two hits being made off his delivery.

SHE TAUGHT SCHOOL FOR FORTY-EIGHT YEARS

MISS MULLISON HAS BEEN RETIRED AND WILL LIVE HERE.

Miss Harriet W. Mullison, clerk in the Seventh Avenue School, Newark, and who has taught forty-eight consecutive years in that city, is one of two veteran teachers retired last week by the Board of Education of Newark. Miss Mullison intends making her home in Plainfield after the present school year.

Miss Mullison has been in school since she was four years old, when she went to a kindergarten, has never had a furlough, and has not been assent for illness more than two months in all. She went to the primary and grammar schools of this city, graduated from a private academy in this city, and from the Normal and Training School.

While still at the Normal School, and a girl of seventeen, Miss Mullison taught in the Webster Street School, Newark, in the third grade grammar. From there she was promoted to the second grade grammar in the Market Street School, Newark, and upon her own request was put in charge of the female department of the Clover Street Industrial School, now out of existence. She has never had any but the grammar grades. After this she was made principal of the Clover Street School, where she remained for seven years, and until Miss Young, and then went to the Monmouth and Commerce Street schools in that city.

For the last five years Miss Mullison has been a special assistant in the Seventh Avenue School.

MONO AGGREGATION WON IN AN 11 INNING GAME

LOCAL NINE DEFEATED DUNNELLEN BY SCORE OF 6 TO 5.

In a close and exciting game, the Mono Field Club, of this city, defeated the Dunellen nine at Dunellen, Saturday afternoon by the score of 6 to 5, eleven innings. Eugene MacLaughlin, Hub Conover and Mumford formed the battery for the winning side, while VanArsdale and G. Herman were the points for the home team. Loose playing in the field lost the game for Dunellen, while the Plainfield boys put up an almost errorless contest.

The playing of Russell Randolph, the utility man, and first, Jack Hallard, C. Monfross in center field, and the battery, VanArsdale and Herman, were features. Every member of the Plainfield team played in mid-season form. Next Saturday the Dunellen team will play the Dunellen Field Club, at home, and several of the old St. Mary's players will be given a try-out.

MONSTER PYTHIAN INITIATION.

Plainfielders Will Assist In Conferring Degree On 1,000 Candidates.

The lodges of the Knights of Pythias in Philadelphia have combined their forces to hold a monster initiation of 1,000 candidates in the Academy of Music on May 20 and have invited lodges from all parts of New Jersey to participate. Perseverance Lodge, of this city, has been asked to assist in the work and twenty members have signified their willingness to do so. They will make the trip in charge of a committee composed of D. D. Pope, Philip Jahn and Elmer D. Cutting.

In connection with the initiation, the knights will hold a monster parade, headed by the Uniformed Rank delegations. The Philadelphia lodges are making preparations to entertain at least 3,000 guests.

F. H. SMITH THEIR GUEST

Republican Leaders Toast the Silent One on the Eve of His Departure.

MAYOR FISK PRESIDES

Banquet at Get-together Club's Room—County Chairman Receive an Umbrella.

As a mark of esteem, the local Republican leaders on Saturday night gave a dinner in honor of County Chairman Frank H. Smith, who plans to leave with his wife on Wednesday for a 6 weeks trip through the West. The affair took place in the Get-together Club parlors at the Hotel Waldorf on Front street and was attended by thirty of the more prominent party workers. During the festivities a fine umbrella was presented to the guest of honor.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk acted as toastmaster and what he had to say about "Silent" Smith and his services to the party made the modest county chairman blush. The toastmaster declared that *their guest en*joyed the reputation of always being true to his friends and of standing by them through thick and thin. Mr. Smith, he said, had done much to promote the interests of the party and to restore harmony within its ranks. He was a man of his word and could always be found on the firing line during the heat of a political campaign and there was no mistaking his color.

Others had some nice things to say about the county chairman, among them being former Mayor James F. Buckle, former Sheriff B. Frank Coriell, Councilman Frank deK. Randolph, Councilman William Gloak, Councilman Herbert F. Buxton, Councilman Francis Montgomery, County Election Board Member Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., District Court Judge William Newcorn and Chief MacDuff.

On behalf of the club, Mayor Fisk presented the umbrella in a happily worded little speech. Mr. Smith responded, thanking his fellow-workers for their kind words and deeds, adding that he did not know what a great man he was until he listened to the speeches. The menu prepared by Henry Windham, the proprietor of the hotel, was exceptionally fine.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith expect to spend their time principally on the Pacific slope and will be home again the latter part of June.

FINED FOR FIGHTING ON A TROLLEY CAR

THREE DISTURBERS OF THE PEACE PAY A TOTAL OF $32.

James Caulfield, his son, Thomas Caulfield, and James Horan were arraigned before Judge Runyon in the city court Monday, for fighting on a main line trolley car at Berckman and Second streets at 6:30 o'clock Sunday night. The row grew out of a dispute with the conductor and, the motorman and blows were exchanged.

The dispute started after Caulfield and his companions had passed Johnston avenue, where he desired to get off. Horan rang the bell repeatedly, and drew the motorman's attention to the row. Thomas O'Connell, the motorman, swore that young Caulfield strucg him, and although the prisoners and James Muldowney, who was with them, endeavored to make it appear as if O'Connell was the aggressor, Judge Runyon decided that the affair was one of the old-time trolley rows born of Sunday drinking.

Thomas Caulfield was fined $15, James Caulfied $12 and Horan $5. Judge Runyon scored the prisoners severely in passing sentence. The *prisoners were represented by coun*sel and Claim Agent Church appeared for the P. S. C.

ODDFELLOWS VISIT RAHWAY.

Assist Lodge at That Place In Observing Anniversary of the Order.

A big delegation of members from Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., journeyed to Rahway by special trolley Friday to present the three links, the emblem of the order, to Essex lodge, of that place. The trip was in the nature of a fraternal visit, and also to assist the Rahwegians in celebrating the eighty-eighth anniversary of Oddfellowship, which occurred yesterday. A number of members from Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, were also in attendance.

The Plainfield end of the affair was in charge of Noble Grand William H. Harper and the links were presented in behalf of Queen City by David Crowell. Vocal and instrumental music and speeches were features of the programme and in conclusion supper was served. The return to this city was made at 1 o'clock.

RARITAN SHUT OUT BY CLINTON AVENUE

RANDOLPH WELL SUPPORTED AND GAME IS CLINCHED FROM START.

The Clinton Avenue team defeated the Raritan nine, at Raritan, Saturday afternoon by a score of 8 to 0. The home team did not have a look in from start to finish, and was only able to secure three hits off Randolph, who pitched a strong game. The Clinton Avenues also showed up well with the stick. They piled up a total of ten singles off Hayle. Jack Martin at third made the only error for his team.

In the seventh inning Clinton Ave*nue touched Hayle in lively fashion*, scoring four runs. Both teams fielded brilliantly and the contest was marked by sharp work all around. Only twenty-nine men faced Randolph throughout the game. The score:

THE MAN WHO HAS THE "SWAT."

This baseball is a curious game;
The catcher must be fine,
The pitcher first-class and the men
Who back him—all the nine—
Be "on their jobs" each instant from
The Spring until the Fall—
But he who gets my money is
The man who soaks the ball.

Base running is a feature of
A properly-played game;
The fellow who can second steal
Has many claims on fame;
But in this one opinion
I know you'll join me, all—
The man who scores the tallies
Is the man who soaks the ball.

Fine fielding is a dainty thing
Which every "fan" enjoys,
And clean-cut pick-ups always make
The bleachers ring with noise;
As each spectator shouts in glee;
But if you will recall
Who wins the games you'll say it is
The man who soaks the ball.

It thrills the heart to se old "Mid."
A three-base hit cut down;
It makes the rooters shout with joy
To see "Red" strike out Brown.
But if we need a run to tie
You bet that we must call
Upon the Old Reliable,
The man who soaks the ball.

It's fine to watch a fielder scoop
A hit out of the dust;
It fills my heart with happiness
To see it, but I must Confess I think the player who
Is king-pin of them all
Is he who wields the willow—
The man who soaks the ball.

So let us carve a statue
And set it in the park;
Of our fond approbation
Then let it be a mark.
We'd love to "sculp" a pitcher
Or catcher, but they pall
Beside the mighty prowess
Of the man who soaks the ball.

WHEN ABE LINCOLN RODE IN AN ENGINE CAB.

How President Was Conveyed to Scene of Dress Parade.

Jack Wheeler is probably the only engineer living who has had the honor of having a President of the United States as an almost daily passenger with him in his engine cab, says the Erie Railroad Employes' Magazine.

It was while the Army of the Potomac was forming that Wheeler had his first meeting with President Lincoln. Day after day "Honest Abe" would come to Aquia Creek and take a trip in the old locomotive down to Falmouth, Va.

There were no passenger cars on the trains that hauled the President back and forth, and so Lincoln and his two boys used the seat on the fireman's side during his run to the front. The trip was one of about ten miles, and President Lincoln's journey's were to see the dress parades that were held on the hillsides.

Under such circumstances it was natural that Mr. Wheeler became quite intimately acquainted with the great President, and yet his principal impression of the famous man was that he wore "a shockingly bad hat that always looked to be a long time out of date."

President Lincoln always greeted Wheeler with a warm handclasp and a few cheery words regarding the proposed trip of the day, and then he usually subsided into silence, save that he chatted with his two sons. With his long frock coat, his tall straight hat, and his gaunt figure, Wheeler remembers him as one of the most awkward men he ever saw.

But once in a while the President's face would light up when something pleased him, and this was the signal for a short story or a joke of some kind that Lincoln would fire across the cab at Wheeler.

"I did not think that any great honor was being conferred on me in those times by having the President ride in the cab with me," said Mr. Wheeler, as he sat in his handsome home in Meadville, and recalled the experience of his early railroading. "On the contrary, I thought I was doing 'Old Abe' a favor to let him ride in the cab with me."

LAW POINTS.

A quietaim deed is held in Hall versus Waterson (Ill.), 4 L. R. A. (N. S.) 776, to be good color of title for adverse possession.

A dissatchers' record of the arrival and departure of trains is held in Louisville and N. R. company versus Daniel (Ky.), 3 L. R. A. (N. S.), 1190, to be admissible to show the location of a train at the time of an alleged accident.

The "real heirs" of a member of a benefit society to whom the benefit is payable are held in Thomas versus Supreme Lodge, K. of H. (Wis.), 3 L. R. A. (N. S.), 904, to be the persons designated as distributees by the statute for the distribution of personal property of intestates.

Postal Rates.

A parcel can be mailed from this country to the British colony of Bermuda for three-fourths the postage charged between any two postoffices in the United States, and the parcel to Bermuda may weigh as high as eleven pounds, while to domestic parcel is restricted to six pounds. Some queer things are found in the postal management of the United States.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

WORK OF SNEAK THIEF

Jewelry Valued at $300 taken From Ivamy's Flat in Broad Daylight.

ONLY A SLIGHT CLUE

Strange Man Seen On Porch Of Flat About Noon Time By Wife of a Clerk.

Jewelry valued at $300 was stolen from the flat of Fred Ivamy, on East Second street, Friday afternoon. The thief worked swiftly and escaped without leaving much more than a trace of his identity.

The robbery was discovered by Mrs. Ivamy at 3 o'clock, when she went upstairs from Ivamy's store, over which their flat is situated. All the pieces of jewelry in the couple's bedroom, most of which were in an antique silver jewel case in a bureau drawer, were missing. The room and the drawers were not upset, the thief evidently having looked merely for jewelry in plain sight and not spending any time in search. The list of missing articles furished to the police includes gold cuff buttons, gold-filled watch, watch chain, gold pencil, two pearl stickpins, opal and diamond ring, diamond and sapphire ring, turquoise ring, sunburst breastpin, pearl breastpin, diamond ring and a pocketbook containing keepsakes.

Mrs. Walter Kettenring, wife of one of Ivamy's clerks, saw a man, wearing a light spring overcoat, on the back porch of the flat at 12 o'clock, when she brought her husband's lunch. At about that time, Miss Leona Walters, Ivamy's bookkeeper, who had gone upstairs to prepare her lunch, was in the bathroom arranging her hair. She was in the bathroom only five minutes, and during that time the rest of the flat was unguarded, with the door open. Mrs. Ivamy was in the store. That is the only clue the po*lice have to the thief and they are* working on it.

Fishing Line Worth $2,000.

"A fishing line worth $2,000?"

"Yes, sir."

"I don't believe it."

"It's the truth. It's a codfish line. It's one of those lines to which you owe your Sunday morning codfish balls and your less appetizing but equally helpful cod liver oil. These codfish lines, yo see, are frequently eight miles long and they have 4,600 hooks. They'll often land 2,500 cod. No wonder they cost $2,000, eh?"—Cincinnati Enquirer.

BREAKS THREE RECORDS

More Noteworthy Performances by Lawrence in Athletic Meet.

GREAT BROAD JUMPING

He Betters Interscholastic Record by More Than a Foot—Viebrock Wins Y. M. C. A. Gymnastic Championship.

Three Y. M. C. A. athletic records, and, incidentally, an interscholastic record, were broken at the Y. M. C. A., Thursday, when the gymnastic competition for the association championship and handicap athletic events were conducted. Lawrence, the Leal's school boy, did all the smashing, as usual.

In the jumps for records in the three standing broad jumps event, Lawrence covered 30 feet 11 inches, passing the Y. M. C. A. mark set by F. G. Bristol in 1898 by 17 inches. The interscholastic record for three standing broad jumps is 30 feet 10 inches. Lawrence's jump will not knock it down, because the event was not part of a regularly conducted school athletic.

In the jump for records in the standing broad jump Lawrence made 10 feet 1¼ inches, passing the Y. M. C. A. mark made by Banks in 1906 by 7⅝ inches. Banks and Lueder, in the try, jumped 9 feet 7 inches. Lawrence's jump equals the record for the Eastern A. A. U. Lawrence's distance in the standing hop, step and jump, 27 feet 11 inches, bettered the Y. M. C. A. mark, made by Harry Scull, in 1905, by 8 inches.

The competition for the gymnastic championship of the association, which included moves on the horizontal bar, parallel bars and horse, was won by Viebrock, with a score of 77.1-10. Charles Line was second, 75.7½. Stryker Hoagland was third, 75.5 2-3.

First, second and third in each of the gymnastic events were as follows:

Horizontal bar—Line, 25; Hoagland, 24-7 1-3; Banks, 24.6 2-3.

Parallel bars—Viebrock, 26.6 2-3; Line, 25.8 2-3; Hoagland, 24.6 2-3.

Horse—Viebrock, 25.7 2-3; Rum*sey, 25.2; Line, 24.8 2-3.*

The handicap athletic events were won as follows:

Standing broad jump—Won by Lueder, 11 feet 2¼ inches; actual, 9 feet 7 8-4 inches; second, Banks, 10 feet ½ inch; actual, 9 feet 4½ inches; third, Lawrence, scratch, 9 feet 10½ inches.

Three standing broad jumps—Won by Banks, 26 feet, 11 inches; actual, 28 feet 4 inches; second, Lueder, 26 feet 7 inches; actual, 27 feet 8 inches; third, Lawrence, scratch, 30 feet 2½ inches.

Standing hop-step-and-jump—Won by Lawrence, 28 feet 1 inch; actual, 27 feet 11 inches; second, Lueder, Runge, 27 feet 8 inches; jump off won by Lueder.

Standing high jump—Won by Rumsey, 4 feet 6 inches; actual jump, 4 feet 2 inches; second, Lawrence, scratch, 4 feet 5 inches; third, Lueder, scratch, odell, tie; actual jumps, Lueder, 4 feet 4 inches; Steiner, 4 feet 1 inch; Odell, 3 feet 10 inches.

Gold, silver and bronze medals were up, in the gymnastic competition. Bronze buttons rewarded the winners in the athletic events.

ODD RELIC OF WAR TIMES TO BE SHOWN

CANNON BALL IMBEDDED IN PINE TREE TO BE EXHIBITED HERE.

When the veterans of the 11th Regiment, N. J. Vols., hold their reunion at Truell Hall, on Saturday, May 11, there will be exhibited a relic of the Civil War of more than usual interest. It is a portion of the trunk of a Southern pine tree, three feet long and two feet round, im*bedded in which is a cannon ball* weighing about twelve pounds.

It came from the battlefield at Spotsylvania, and is in the possession of Captain William Hand. The relic is owned by J. Frank Lindsley, formerly of Summit, but now of Compton avenue. His father, Ira J. Lindsley, was a captain in Co. C, 15th Regiment, N. J. Vols., and was killed at Fredericksburg, Va., the year before. Some years later the son was visiting the battlefield and he discovered the tree with the ball in it. He immediately hunted up the owner of the land and secured permission to chop down and bring it home, and it has been in his possession ever since.

When Mr. Lindsley came to Plainfield, Captain Hand was engaged to move his funiture. In this way he saw the war relic and he asked Mr. Lindsley to loan it to him for the reunion to be held here. He willingly consented and Captain Hand is guarding the treasure. From the known position of the soldiers on the battlefield it is practically a certainty that the ball was fired from the Union side.

Robert Abbott, of Central avenue, who has been spending a few days at home, has returned to Yale.

AGREE ON TRUSTEE PLAN

The Stockholders of Wabbling Building and Loan Association Meet.

THREE ARE SELECTED

Vice Chancellor Leaming Will Decide On Monday Whether Receiver Shall Be Appointed.

More than 600 stockholders of the State Mutual and Loan Association of New Jersey, from all parts of the State, met at Camden, Thursday, to decide the question of winding up its affairs or allowing the application of the attorney-general in behalf of the State Banking Department, for the appointment of a receiver, to go through unopposed.

Of the 27,000 stockholders in the State, there are about fifty in Plainfield, Scotch Plains and Fanwood. It is said that there are about twenty in this city. W. W. Nash, Jr., attended the meeting, representing about fifteen of these stockholders.

The plan to appoint three trustees to wind up the affairs was adopted, those appointed being Addison D. Mulford, of Elizabeth; B. F. Fowler and S. Stanger Izzard, of Woodbury. Each furnished a bond for $25,000.

E. A. Embury, president of the association, presented a report, showing the assets to be $1,202.65 and the liabilities $150,000 in excess of the assets.

The trustee plan was strongly opposed, but subsequently the vote was almost unanimous for it. On Monday next Vice Chancellor Leaming will decide whether the trustee plan shall stand or a receiver be appointed to wind up the affairs of the company. The bonds of the trustees were suggested at anywhere from $7,000 to $50,000 each, but finally decided upon at $25,000 each. There seemed to be general satisfaction over the selection.

Will Leave Plainfield May 1.

Miss Edith B. Little, who has received the appointment of hostess at the New Jersey building at the Jamestown Exposition, will not leave for Jamestown until May 1. At first she thought she would be obliged to leave Plainfield yesterday, but some correspondence arranged the matter satisfactorily and she has been able to defer the trip, thus giving her time for preparation.

SEEK TO RAISE $19,000

Rev. A. C. McCrea Chairman of Newark Conference Committee for Seminary Fund.

TOTAL TO BE $400,000

130 Alumni In Conference and Friends of Institution Are Asked to Contribute to the Fund.

In an effort to secure $100,000 which has been promised Drew Theological Seminary, provided the alumni and friends of the seminary raise an additional $400,000, the alumni of the Newark Conference has undertaken to get $16,000 of the amount. Plans have been formulated and active steps are being taken at once with Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, of this city, acting as chairman of the Newark conference general committee. He and his associates will co-operate with the general committee as they proceed and they have hopes of great success.

Drew Seminary has 130 alumni in the Newark Conference, the largest number in any conference in the Methodist connection. Of the $16,000 which they are to raise, several thousand have already been pledged and Dr. McCrea has every assurance that the entire sum will be forthcoming in proper time.

The effort to raise the $400,000 among the alumni and friends of the seminary came about through the offer of Samuel W. Bowne, president of the Board of Trustees, to give $100,000 for endowment, provided the former amount was forthcoming. No particular time limit has been set for the completion of the task but the alumni are trying to have it in hand by November 1 this year, when the seminary completes its fortieth year. The fund will be known as the "Henry A. Buttz Professorship" in honor of the man who has given his entire life to the work of the institution. To plan to get the $100,000 among the alumni is to apportion the amount equally among the annual conferences in which there are alumni, and on the basis of the number of alumni in each conference.

Since its establishment at Madison forty years ago, Drew Seminary has been steadily growing and at the present time it stands among the foremost of American theological in*stitutions. The work has been con*tinually enlarged and at times the income has been severely taxed. The securing of Mr. Bowne's $100,000 and the Buttz Professorship fund will provide for the work for years to come.

M. A. C. ENTERTAINMENT

Annual Reception of Monday Afternoon Club a Delightful Affair.

A COMEDY PRESENTED

Miss Katharine Everts Impersonating Eight Different Characters, Wins Applause.

One of the most brilliant entertainments of the season was given Thursday at the Casino, when the Monday Afternoon Club held its annual merry-making under most favorable auspices. The Casino itself was a charming setting for the beautiful entertainment, the hall being seated with many grace of a large salon, and a profusion of rugs giving the effect of luxurious furnishings. The stage was beautifully decorated with a setting of spring-time green, made rich with the darker tints of palms and ferns. Baskets of green were suspended from the lights, shaded with flower like coverings of green and white. Into this beautiful hall about 300 guests were received by the club president, Mrs. Robert Lowry, the former president, Mrs. Frank O. Herring, whose unexpired term of office Mrs. Lowry is filling, and two of the vice presidents, Mrs. James R. Joy and Mrs. Gates Willard.

The entertainment of the evening was a three act play written by Miss Alice Brown for Miss Katharine Jewett Everts, who was introduced by the president in a few graceful words.

*Miss Everts' personality is charm*ing, and her skill in impersonating eight different characters without change of costume, was remarkable. The comedy, "My Lady's Ring," was an interesting story of a jealous husband and a jealous lover, who imagined all sorts of female transgression when a turquoise ring belonging to the heroine was put by her on the finger of a sleeping peasant girl which led to a variety of unexplainable complications. With many amusing situations, the play interpreted by Miss Everts held the audience until the closing act, when the lost ring is found and the estranged husband and wife as well as the parted lovers are all made happy with a general promise of better behavior in the future.

An hour of pleasant chat followed, when refreshments were served. Much praise is due the entertainment committee which worked so assiduously and with such marked success to make the ball a scene of beauty. The chairman of the committee was Mrs. J. P. Stevens and her assistants were Mrs. Edward V. Cox, Mrs. Maybury B. Mellor, Mrs. Eugene Hatch, Mrs. Olaf Sangstad, Mrs. Charles H. Tomkins, Mrs. William M. Wherry, Mrs. George S. Ring and Mrs. Fred W. Yates.

RUTGERS PREP. WINS IN GAME WITH P.H.S.

PLAINFIELD LADS EASY VICTIMS, THE SCORE BEING 7 TO 1.

The Plainfield High School baseball team was defeated by Rutgers "Prep.," at Crescent Oval, Saturday, by a score of 7 to 1. The local team was not up to its usual standard in hitting or fielding. The only run made for P. H. S. was by Wilcox, who went to second on a sacrifice hit by Murphy, and came home on Loizeaux's drive. The visiting team showed up strong with the stick and in the field.

DEMOCRATS FORM CLUB

City Committee Outlines Plan For an Organization for Party Workers.

TO INFUSE NEW LIFE

Committee Chooses Officers and Arranges For Another Meeting—Charter Members Wanted.

Plans for the organization of a permanent Democratic Club were outlined by the Democratic City Committee, Thursday, when the body met for the election of officers. The club is to be formed early next fall, and will have a prominent part in the campaign for governor.

Club rooms will be provided. One of them will be a reading room, completely and attractively equipped. Pool tables, games and other features of club social life will be provided. A committee made up of J. V. Dilts, Edward J. McCue and Joseph M. Sheppard, was appointed to secure permanent quarters for the organization.

The leaders of the Democracy here feel that the party never had a better chance to rehabilitate itself, and wrest back its old-time power from the Republicans, and every effort is to be made to accomplish the resuscitation. It is in accord with this feeling that the plans for the club are made. The organization is counted upon to do much to weld the party together and boom its doctrines and membership. The club will not be merely an incorporated combination of hurrahs and "literature," but will be conducted on lines that will draw the best elements of Plainfield Democracy into its fold, and keep them interested in its welfare all the year 'round.

The committee met in the law offices of Walter L. Hetfield, Sr. Seven of the nine members were present. After Temporary Chairman Joseph M. Sheppard called the meeting to order, the following permanent officers were elected:

Chairman, Walter L. Hetfield, Sr.; secretary, George E. Firstbrook; treasurer, Stephen Schlicht.

*Those desirous of joining the pro*posed club may send their names to any of these officers. The committee will meet again Saturday, June 1.

TAFT BOOM IS LAUNCHED

Amid Roars of Cheers, Burton Mentions His Name for the Presidency.

AT TRENTON DINNER

Three Hundred Republicans Wildly Applaud When Secretary's Name Is Announced.

Congressman Theodore E. Burton, of Ohio, launched Secretary William H. Taft's boom for President in New Jersey at the annual dinner of the Republican Club at Trenton Friday night and it started off with a shout.

There were 300 Republicans from all parts of the State, around the banquet board. Burton was the chief speaker. He dealt with the issues of the day as laid down by President Roosevelt and paid Secretary Taft a glowing tribute without mentioning his name until the close, when he declared:

"My choice for President in 1908 is a son of Ohio, William H. Taft."

The assembled multitude took the word out of his mouth, and the roar of "Taft" was heard blocks away from Masonic Temple, where the dinner was being served.

When order was again restored Mr. Burton was allowed to conclude: "I recognize in him an official officer who has been proficient in any position he has held. It will hardly be necessary to count in the convention the minority votes."

Prolonged cheers rent the air, and New Jersey's first step into the Taft column was officially taken.

The nomination was seconded by Congressman J. Hampton Moore, of Philadelphia.

Burton's references to Senator Foraker were mild, his greatest severity being a characterization of him as "a man who is frequently said to be of the fire-eating brand."

Mr. Burton was expected to speak on the political situation in Ohio, but failed to do so, except in a general way touching the situation there was common in all the States. He pleaded for participation in politics by the better class of American men, declaring that without this there could be no real political reform. He urged that political events of all kinds be carefully watched and every last unwarranted crusades be made against honest wealth or corporations doing a legitimate business without oppressing the people.

Mr. Burton was enthusiastically received on his own account because of his work as chairman of the House committee on rivers and harbors in securing a $50,000 appropriation for the improvement of the Delaware river at this point.

The Constitutionalist.

A DEMOCRATIC WEEKLY.

Published a...

PLAINFIELD, N. ...

Terms: $2.00 per year.

A. L. FORCE, Editor and Proprietor.

THURSDAY, MAY 2, 1907.

Health Report at the Carnegie castle, Fifth avenue, New York, following tidings of Roosevelt's speech—Chills and More Chills.

There is nothing superstitious about Governor Stokes. May 13 has been designated by him as Jersey day at the Jamestown Exposition.

The Trenton True American is making a desperate effort to stir up some sort of sentiment in favor of Judge Vroom for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination.

The boom for Joseph Fielinghuysen seems to have been well received in all parts of the State. The Somerset chairman is a man of attractive personality, exceptional ability, and is every inch a man.

Are you going to Herman Walker's show? He has the greatest combination of large-lunged and allwinged political magicians ever seen about the same board, and it only costs one dollar to get within range of their oratorical thunder.

The Democrats are determined to separate "Jim" Martine from his money. Probably if some of his loudest shouters had to bear a part of his campaign expenses they would not be so anxious for him to run for Governor.

The Newark yellow has made the important discovery that United States Senator Kean is one of the anti-Roosevelt plotters. That dispatch must have been received by direct wireless route from some abnormally developed brain-storm centre.

Mr. Taft's boom has been launched in this State following the programme mapped out by his chief at Washington, but New Jersey will not be satisfied for it wants no imitation. Only the real article, Theodore Roosevelt, the greatest executive of modern times, will be accepted by the people of this Republican State when it comes time to nominate the winning candidate for the Presidency.

A negro in Plainfield has almost certainly made himself an opportunity to be tried for a crime whose the sentence of life imprisonment for kidnapping may be pronounced. It is to be seriously hoped that he will be given the distinction.—Westfield Standard.

And if he does not spend the remainder of his days behind the bars, it won't be through any fault of the local authorities.

It may be remarked here that South Plainfield has still been balked from becoming a borough, and the Democratic Assembly seems to be responsible. Assemblyman Drake's bill incorporating the borough was smothered. The substitute bill offered by Assemblyman Baker was also sidetracked.—New Brunswick Home-News.

It might also be added that when the Republicans had control of the House a year ago, the same thing happened. Why not be fair?

The expense of running our State government under the last Democratic administration was under $1,700,000 a year. This year the expenses are $4,550,000. Reform comes high, remarks a state exchange.—Rahway Democrat.

But even at that it comes dirt cheap.

No significance can be attached to the fact that the Republican leaders have given County Chairman Smith an umbrella. "Silent" never did have to be told to come in out of the rain.

THE FRANCHISE TAX.

The tables compiled by the State Board of Assessors on the electric, cable and horse car companies reveal some interesting information concerning public utilities of that class in New Jersey. For instance it is shown that the total trackage is 1,000,962 miles. This is divided among sixty-three companies whose combined capitalization is $48,377,240. Very few of them, indeed only nine, paid any dividend during last year. In this way less than $15,000,000 was expended, yet their aggregate gross receipts amounted to more than $13,000,000.

These concerns represent an enormous investment. Their original capitalization was above $48,000,000. The cost of roads and equipment figure up to more than $178,000,000, while the cost of repairs and operation for the year fell up to $7,200,000.

All these statistics have been gathered to serve as a basis for levying the annual franchise tax under the Act of 1906. This new law requires the companies to pay not only the two per cent. assessment on the gross receipts for the year as provided by the Voorhees franchise measure, but an additional one-half of one per cent. each year until the rate reaches five per cent. in 1912. Consequently the concerns must pay two and one-half per cent. this year. This tax will bring in a revenue of $305,342.47. The assessment, of course, is made by the State Board, but it is subsequently credited to the various municipalities, which are empowered to collect the amounts for their own benefits.

HIGH PRICE OF MEAT.

Never again will beef and other meats be quoted at the figures that they have in the past, if what men who study the conditions of the live stock market and the stockyards may be depended upon, for a new situation has been brought about largely through the attitude of the Government's new policy though more directly because of the unscrupulous machinations of the men who control the market. Beef, lamb, mutton and pork have all taken the upward course in prices where they will remain indefinitely. That is certain.

It is not a question of scarcity of beef or any other meat, it is explained. This country produces more and better cattle than any other country on the face of the globe. There is always enough live stock at the great yards at Chicago and other big cities to amply supply the needs of the entire country and that too at low prices. The great concerns that handle these cattle know that and it is because of this condition that they have successfully cornered the great people by unscrupulous methods.

The scheme that they have agreed upon to make the demand greater than the supply, regardless of how many thousand head of cattle they may have on hand at one time, is to keep shipping the stock around the water. It is an acknowledged fact that cattle transported from America by these concerns are sold abroad at considerably lower figures than they would command right here in America. They are more than willing to lose on this venture in order to produce a condition which will make the demand here greater than the supply. To show to what extent these companies go to shove up the prices of meat, one has only to consider the number of cattle sold every day at the great shipping ports. On last Tuesday, for instance, 42,000 cattle were sent out of the country, leaving 8,000 at the great beef centres in this country to supply all domestic demands. This is the way a market is manipulated here, by which the stockyard people reap ill-gotten profits and by which the consumer is made to suffer.

Another thing that has forced up the price of meat, it is reliably reported, is the attitude of the Government as shown by the enactment of the pure food law and other similar legislation. Fully thirty per cent. of a single head of cattle is by-product, which in the form of glue, soaps, tallow, tripe and the like which were formerly used for profit. The by-product, before the passage of the pure food law, was put in preservatives and shipped to dealers throughout the country but now all this stuff is a loss. Today, it is said, the by-product is sold as fertilizer. Consequently, the stockyard men make up for this loss in another way. This they do by adding on to the price of cattle. Here again, the "dear people" are made to pay for the meat and assume the entire burden in the end.

These are the reasons, says a practical student of the cattle market, why the public can never expect to purchase beef, lamb, mutton or pork at the prices they have in the past, at least as long as these conditions are allowed to exist.

STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

Seven-year-old George Karth, of Westville, was drowned in Timber Creek, Wednesday, but the body was not discovered until late that night, after the tide had gone down.

The announcement of the resignation of Captain L. W. Harris as postmaster at Newfield has brought out two early candidates for the job —Frank Morrell and Fenton Loudon.

Vice-Chancellor Garrison has handed down an opinion in the suit brought by Albert Fogg against the Ocean City Sewer Company sustaining the company's rates, which Fogg had contested.

The Bridgeton authorities have received information from the government engineers that the dredging and improvement of the Cohansey river will be done during the present summer. The appropriation is $65,500.

The Jersey City public school teachers have decided to demand an increase of pay, and have appointed a committee and instructed it to persistently press at the city officials who have the authority and not desist until a new salary schedule is adopted.

Gustanti Garadski, of 20 Spring street, Paterson, was hit in the face by a falling body in the Passaic Steel Works yesterday and was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital suering with a compound fracture of the nose and a deep wound in his forehead.

Hundreds of persons watched the first haul of the big shad seine last Thursday at the Washington Park fishery, Gloucester. The result follows: One hundred shad, 100 herring and about 100 fish of other varieties. The shad were sold to Philadelphians at an average price of $1 each.

D. A. R. Tea, May 14.

Continental chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, will hold a tea at the Park Club on Tuesday afternoon, May 14, at 3:30 o'clock. Recitations and music will be the features.

BANKERS HEAR FOWLER

Congressman Explains a Method of Expanding the Nation's Currency.

FAVORS CREDIT PLAN

Union County Man Declares Credit System Is Necessary If U. S. Would Compete With Europe.

As a method of expanding the currency Representative Charles N. Fowler, who was the principal speaker at the annual convention of the New Jersey Bankers' Association, at the Hotel Chelsea, Atlantic City, Saturday, said that it was necessary for the banks and financial institutions of the country to induce the deposit of enormous sums now withheld from the banks.

Continuing he said:

"The banks of the country must have some system of credits which will permit of the use of currency for exchange instead of forcing them to draw on their reserves.

"Such a system would be necessary before the financial system of the United States would be in a position to compete with the financial system of Europe.

"The present banking power of the United States is sixteen thousand millions of dollars of credits, while that of the rest of the world is twenty-one thousand millions and while the banks outside of this country have four thousand millions of credits in the shape of bank notes, the banks of the United States have not a single form of currrent credit with which to do daily business.

"If this country with a constant increase of banking power should adopt some regular form of currency system that would direct more of a flow of the public money into the banks in exchange for bank notes, the United States would have a medium of exchange that would in a short time make it the financial centre of the world and bills of exchange issued by American banks would come to be regarded as the best on earth."

Upwards of two hundred bankers, representing every financial institution in the State, were present at the opening session.

Changes in bank stock taxations were also discussed.

Over a year ago a law was passed to relieve the banks from what they consider too heavy and unjust State taxation. It was recently nullified by the courts. At the last session of the Legislature a bill passed the House, but failed to pass the Senate, to give the banks relief. It is now admitted that this bill was defective in that it gave banks that might be considered to take advantage of certain of its provisions opportunity to swear off nearly all taxes.

What the bankers desire is a fair measure, one to place them on the same footing with individuals with reference to taxation, and to provide that the value of non-taxable securities, or securities otherwise taxed, can be deducted from the value of bank stock. The State and National banks in New Jersey now feel they are taxed in undue and unjust proportions, although the trust companies do not make the complaint.

SEVEN YOUNG WOMEN TO BE GIVEN DIPLOMAS.

Annual Exercises of Muhlenberg Training School on May 23.

The annual graduation exercises of the Muhlenberg Hospital Training School will be held Thursday night, May 23, at the Casino, with the usual attractive programme, which is now being arranged by a joint committee of the Board of Governors and the Women's Auxiliary.

There will be seven graduates, the Misses H. M. Hewlett and M. L. Cranswick, of Toronto, Can.; C. A. Griffin, of Loudon, Can.; C. A. Griggs, of Belle Mead; F. L. Jadwin, of Carbondale, Pa.; E. B. Quipp, of Cranford, and E. T. Wilson, of this city.

While the graduates have not announced their plans for the future, it is believed that most of them will return to their home and take up private nursing, as a majority have done heretofore.

Funeral of Benjamin Sutton.

The funeral of Benjamin Sutton, colored, who died suddenly last week, was held at his home on Webster place Monday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. F. D. Tildon, pastor of Bethel chapel, and was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends. Interment was made in Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers being Abram Brown, Albert Brinkley, William Jeter, Hans Mitchell, Albert Shipley and George Van Blake.

Reception for Rector and Wife.

The entertainment committee of the Women's Guild of the parish is arranging a reception to be given in honor of Rev. and Mrs. George A. Warner, who recently returned from the wedding trip. The affair will take place in Holy Cross parish house on Monday night.

Y. W. C. A. CLASSES WILL BEGIN MAY 13

COMPETENT TEACHERS WILL CONDUCT A FIVE WEEKS' SESSION..

The educational classes of the Young Women's Christian Association will begin work for a short term, during the week of May 12 and continue five weeks. Competent teachers have been engaged to teach these classes and make the work interesting and profitable.

Miss Tapping, the secretary, will be at the office, 212 East Front street, tonight and tomorrow night from 7:30 until 9 and from 11 to 1 o'clock to receive registration. Those who desire to become members of the classes should register as early as possible. These classes will be formed and meet one evening each week: German, French, millinery, dressmaking for which a nominal charge will be made. The Bible, travel, plain sewing classes, walking club and basketball team will be free with membership.

CROSSING THE OCEAN FOR HER WEDDING HERE

ROMANCE OF CHILDHOOD TO CULTIMATE IN CEREMONY ON MONDAY.

Announcement is made of the approaching marriage of Robert Baillie, of this city, and Miss Agnes Lindsay Nell, who is due to arrive in New York on Sunday from her home in Scotland. The couple were playmates in Scotland, Mr. Baillie coming to this country several years ago, securing a position at the Pond Machine Tool Works.

Ever since the couple has continued the correspond. Finally the date for the wedding was set for Monday night, May 13, at 7:30 o'clock, at the home of the groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Galley, 619 John street, Keaney, N. J. A number of friends from this city will attend.

Mr. Baillie received word of the sailing of the steamer upon which his prospective bride is a passenger, and he is anxiously awaiting her arrival in New York on Sunday. After the wedding the couple will reside in Plainfield.

HINTS OF VALUE.

Sugar of lead dissolved in water will "set" the color in dress goods.

Save pieces of matting to be placed under the carpet when cleaning house. It makes it last much longer.

If grease is spilled on dress goods it can be cleaned by covering with pure alcohol. Place a blotter over the place and iron with a moderately warm iron.

If you cannot afford a new oilcloth or linoleum for the kitchen floor and it is not broken in places, paint with inside paint, making the centre mat of dark green with a cream border. The broken pieces can be cut out, any kind of good oilcloth placed beneath, the seams filled in with glue and when painted the patch is not noticeable.

THE ROYAL BOX.

Kaiser Wilhelm is said to be a quick eater, as are most impetuous people.

The only colored stone that Queen Alexandra really likes is the amethyst.

The Hapsburg of Austria is the oldest dynasty in Europe. It began in A. D. 1276.

A Japanese paper announces that the king of Siam is about to undertake a journey around the world. He will first visit Japan, sailing from thence to this country and proceeding home by way of Europe.

The emperor of Austria belongs to that category of persons who throughout their lives never even suffer from headache. The approach of age is not visible. The emperor, who formerly smoked ten to fifteen strong Virginia cigars daily, now contents himself with two light ones.

SHAPING MARTINE'S BOOM.

Elizabeth Democrats to Launch It at Dinner Next Month.

General D. F. Collins, chairman of the Union County Democratic Committee, has appointed the following members to serve as a committee to make arrangements for a reception and dinner some time next month to James E. Martine, of this city:

Charles H. Moore, John F.Kenah, Robert H. McAdams and Owen Farrelly, of Elizabeth; Leroy A. Gibby, of Summit; W. E. Tuttle, of Westfield; George W. Cladek, of Rahway; B. F. Wade, of Union, and John P. Owens, of Plainfield.

Prominent speakers from all parts of the State will be invited. It will result, it is said, in the launching of a well-defined Gubernatorial boom for Mr. Martine.

Mrs. Benedict's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. Lacy A. Benedict was held at her late home on Summit avenue, Monday afternoon. The service was private and was conducted by Rev. George A. Warner, rector of the Church of the Holy Cross. Interment was in Hillside, the pall bearers being Thomas H. Snape, Corra Ryno, George A. Mellick and David N. Force.

GEORGE W. FENNO DEAD IN HIS 80TH YEAR

WELL PAPER MANUFACTURER PASSED AWAY AT SON'S HOME.

George W. Fenno, aged seventy-nine years, a resident of Plainfield for twenty years, died suddenly last Monday at the home of his son, R. F. Fenno, on Watchung avenue. He had been in failing health for six months and death was due to a general breakdown in health.

Mr. Fenno was born at Milton, Mass., and was a member of an old Massachusetts family. His business career in New York extended over a period of many years, having been engaged in the manufacture of wallpaper. He was the son of Jarvis Fenno and Susan Criston. He married Miss Clara M. Male, a niece of the late Mayor Job Male. She died in 1900.

There are surviving two sons, G. M. Fenno, of New York, and R. F. Fenno, of this city; also one daughter, Miss Gertrude M. Fenno, and three grandchildren, Harold C. and Fred L. Fenno, of this city, and George F. Fenno, of New York.

PREMIERE PERFORMANCE OF "THE PEASANT PRINCE."

Mr. MacClymont's Comic Opera Booked for Thursday, May 16.

"The Peasant Prince," a comic opera in three acts, will be the attraction at the New Plainfield theatre on Thursday night, May 16. For the first time Plainfield is to have the opportunity of witnessing an opera composed by one of her own townsmen. William M. MacClymont, the organist and choirmaster, has written the entire score. The libretto is from the pen of Dr. Chas. A. Clinton, of New York city. Together they have produced a charming work, which will be rendered for the first time in this city, in a manner befitting its work.

The soloists will be Mrs. Theodore Mantz, Miss Etta Yaeger, Mrs. William J. Counihan and William J. Tallamy, Bayard Hawthorne, Joseph C. Hill, Jr., Lewis J. Geary, George O. Stevens and William N. Runyon, who will be supported by a chorus of sixty and full orchestral accompaniment. Together with Mr. MacClymont in the drilling of the company is associated H. Fletcher Rivers, the well known New York stage director, and no further assurance for a finished performance is needed.

Tickets will be placed on sale at the box office on Saturday morning next, at 9 o'clock.

CLUB IN NEW HOME.

Dunellen's Lively Institution For Young Men Is Well Situated.

The Dunellen Athletic Club is installed in its rooms in the Dunellen bank building. The rooms run the entire length of the building and are divided in half; in the rear is a full sized pool table, with benches and chairs. In the front room is a long table on which may be found all the latest magazines, popular novels, and daily newspapers. In this room also there are several card tables for members enjoying games. Adjoining the front room is a spacious locker. The goat is kept there.

The moral code of the club is what the members have wished for all along and the rules which have been made should improve the character of the young men interested. Citizens of the town may visit the rooms and see what it has been done toward making it a place where young men can congregate and at the same time improve themselves in many ways.

The club expects to carry on the social work started, and intends to hold smokers and other affairs of that nature often in the future. When it is settled, a ladies' day will be set aside for friends of the members, and if the first day is a success, the club may make it a permanent feature.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

Dr. R. J. James has been re-elected president of the University of Illinois for a term of two years.

Williams college has already received eighty-seven applications for rooms from men intending to enter in the class of 1911.

Morgan Park academy, maintained by the University of Chicago for preparatory instruction, has been forced to close its doors because of the general excellence of public schools.

Ground has been broken for the new building of Radcliffe college. The building will be occupied by a colonnade with Elizabeth Cary Agassiz House, and it will correspond to the gymnasium in external appearance.

Miss Galvin in Benefit Performances.

Stage Manager Fred Bennett and Janitor David Bush, of the New Plainfield theatre, are to have a benefit at the house on May 20 and 21. The attraction will be Miss Ella Galvin, daughter of J. A. Galvin, of this city, in her success, "The Little Outcast." The Galvin company has been on tour in repertoire for the past two years and the young actress will undoubtedly draw a large house in her home town, aside from the fact that Mr. Bennett and Mr. Bush are popular with the patrons of the theatre.

SLEEPING, NOT DEAD, BUT CROWD WOULDN'T BELIEVE

SHOE MAN MAKES EXCITEMENT BY TAKING MOB IN STORE.

F. A. Duttenhofer went into his shoe store on East Front street Sunday afternoon, to look over the stock. He sat on a chair to rest himself after a bit, and fell to nodding. His eyes closed and well into a deep sleep. Swaying in his slumber, he slipped from the chair to the floor, and lay stretched there.

The chair from which he slipped was one of a hollow square formed by a number of seats. All of his body excepting one hand was hidden from the passersby on the street. That hand showed pallidly from under a chair.

A passerby saw it and stopped. Others stopped and stared and shuddered, and in a few minutes a crowd began to form. The people who saw the hand were sure Duttenhofer was dead, and as the rumor spread the crowd grew. In short while there were 200 people before the store.

Chief Kiely and Patrolman Kelly went to the rear of the store, and heard sounds that exploded the death rumor. Mr. Duttenhofer was snoring peacefully. The chief tried to tell the crowd about it, but they wouldn't be reassured. Seeing that there was no other way to quiet them, the chief broke in the rear door and woke the sleeper. Mr. Duttenhofer blinked sheepishly when the chief showed him the crowd.

LOOKING FOR WIFE.

Demented Man's Explanation of His Presence In Strange House.

An unidentified man, supposed to be demented, wandered into the home of Oscar Thorn, South Plainfield, Monday afternoon to look for his wife, he said. He said he was certain she was in the house.

Detective O'Reilly took him into custody. He acted queerly, and made odd motions with his hands and feet. He was taken before Judge Smith for examination, where he insisted he was all right, and said he knew people in Plainfield. He was put in a carriage and taken to this city, but none of his supposed friends could be located. He said he came from Glenfield, Pa., and he was allowed to start for there.

His name was not learned. He was well-dressed and wore a Masonic pin and a gold watch.

IN THE INDUSTRIAL WORLD.

It is estimated that the production of gold in the Goldfield district, Manchuria, next year will exceed $50,000,000.

Nearly one-half of the fishes caught in the Indian Ocean belong to a species not heretofore described in any book.

The number of tourists to Victoria from the United States during the summer months of 1906 was about 50,000.

A blue garden, every plant bearing a blue flower, has been laid out at South Lytchett manor, Dorsetshire, England.

The railroads of the United States in the last eleven years, have killed 82,244 persons and injured half a million more.

Chemists say that all records written with the ordinary ink now in use will be completely faded out in seventy years.

Workmen digging a drain near the city hall at Bendigo, Australia, found a large lump of quartz thickly studded with gold.

Fishes with two pairs of eyes, one pair for use above water and the other below, have been discovered in Gautemala.

ENGLISH ITCHINGS.

How do Americans pronounce the name of their country? The head master of a school in England says it is "Ummurruckugh."

In the east end of London it is now the fashion of men to wear an engagement button in the coat lapel bearing a portrait of the lady. It is called a "love button."

A sea captain named Wenlock has been elected mayor of Brightlingsea, Essex, England, the ceremony taking place in the church belfry, according to immemorial custom.

Since 1830 Liberal governments have been in office forty-two years and have created 232 peers. Conservative ministries have been in power thirty-four years and have created 137 peers.

A woman applied to the Eton union guardians in England recently for the wooden leg which was worn for years by her uncle, who died in the workhouse. Her request was granted, and the woman took the leg home with her.

The London Jewish Chronicle, the most influential of all the English publications of its class, has been acquired by L. J. Greenberg, a well known barrister of London. Mr. Greenberg is a prominent leader in the Zionist movement, and it is believed that the Chronicle will become the organ of English Zionism.

Will Give "Twelfth Night."

The pupils of the Senior Class of the Plainfield High School are planning to give a performance of "Twelfth Night" at the Casino, on Wednesday night, May 29. Weekly rehearsals are now being held in preparation for the event.

FEATURES OF PLAINFIELD

Attractions that Combine to Make Queen City an Ideal Place of Residence.

UP-TO-DATE COMMUNITY

All Modern Improvements and Fully Abreast of the Times—What It Has to Offer.

Inaugurating its campaign of publicity, the Board of Trade has issued a neat folder setting forth in a nutshell the attractive features of the community as an ideal city of homes. Combined with it are a number of handsome reproductions of scenes in and about the place.

In outlining the striking features of the city, the pamphlet states:

Plainfield, and under this head is included North Plainfield which adjoins it, at the base of the Watchung Mountains, twenty-four miles from New York, one the Central Railroad of New Jersey, is an ideal city of homes for those seeking life in the suburbs, affording all the conveniences and advantages of the city, with none of its inconveniences and disadvantages.

Plainfield is not a community that has sprung up in a night. On the contrary, it has been incorporated as a city for thirty-nine years. Its age is attested by the fine old shade trees that line the streets everywhere, standing as monuments to the thought of those who, in years gone by, caused them to be planted.

Plainfield has a population of twenty-five thousand; its homes are supplied with both gas and electric light; it has a complete sewer system; it has 43 miles of macadamized streets, with flagged side walks; excellent water; nine schools and two high schools, valued at $547,000, beside a number of private schools; a public library, standing fourth in size in the State; a splendid hospital; churches of all denominations; a paid fire department equipped with apparatus of the most modern type; an efficient police department; a country club and at own club; a theatre An which the leading New York attractions appear during the season; a casino, etc.

Plainfield has a Trust Company, two National banks and a Savings Bank, with combined deposits of more than six million of dollars. Two daily newspapers and department stores that compare favorably with those of New York.

Plainfield has four railway stations within its corporate limits and enjoys a splendid train service, upwards of one hundred trains stopping daily. The commutation rate to New York is $7.60 a month, about 25 cents for the round trip. Commuters' trains bring one to Plainfield in forty-five minutes. This includes the time spent on the ferry from Liberty street to the New Jersey terminus.

Upon going about Plainfield, one is impressed by the appearance of the lawns and well-kept grounds that meet the eye everywhere. It is truly a garden spot and one must visit it to appreciate its many beauties and advantages. To one who appreciates life in the country, Plainfield, with its urban conveniences, must commend itself.

Copies of the folder may be obtained free by applying to Edward F. Feickert at the Plainfield Trust Company building.

AFTER EXCISE VIOLATORS

Judge Swayzey in His Charge Refers to Elizabeth's Disregard of Bishops' Law.

GRAND JURY AT WORK

Large Lists in Supreme and Circuit Courts of Interest to Plainfield-ers—Members of Petit Jury.

The Supreme Court and Circuit Court list of causes for the May term of the Union County Court, announced yesterday, show that the term will be a busy one. Included in the causes are no less than twenty-one against the Public Service Corporation, the damages asked for being from $5,000 to $20,000.

The Supreme Court causes of interest to Plainfielders are as follows:

Charles C. Geer against the Somerset, Union and Middlesex Electric Company, and Harrison Construction Company, in tort; Craig A. Marsh for the plaintiff and John A. Bernhard and Scott German for the defendants. Alexander Vallaro against the Public Service Corporation, in tort, Craig A. Marsh for the plaintiff and John A. Bernhard for the defendant. Rafaele Pizzo against the New Jersey Central, in tort, Craig A. Marsh for the plaintiff and George Holmes for the defendant. Arthur McCardell against the Courier-News Publishing Company, and Robert L. Lee, in tort, Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., for the plaintiff, and George W. C. Moy for the defendants, called for May 13.

In the Circuit Court these causes are of interest to Plainfielders:

Frederick L. Lancaster against Sarah A. Bready, on contract, George Ball for the plaintiff and V. W. Nash, Jr., for the defendants. There is only one case in the Justice appeal causes of local interest and that is Thomas Cogan, appellant, against Aaron D. Thompson, appellee, on contract, Craig A. Marsh for the plaintiff and Charles A. Reed for the defendant.

The following Plainfielders are members of the petit jury: Albert T. Baker, Edward H. Bowman, William H. Brokaw, Edward H. Clevely, Asa Collier, John Cory, John H. Cone, James H. Craig, Uzal B. Crane, Charles W. Eoff, Charles A. Hazelton, Albert Hedden, J. Stephen Higham, Henry D. Hibbard, Frank J. Hubbard, Frank L. C. Martin and Joseph T. Vail.

In his charge, Judge Swayzey said:

"Gentlemen of the Grand Jury:

"I have learned that there are likely to be complaints before you of the violation of what is called the Sunday law, those violations principally consisting in the illegal sale of liquor upon Sunday. If no such complaints are made the information which comes to me is such that I think it would be your duty to investigate for yourselves. There can be no difficulty, I think, with reference to the law upon the subject, and I say nothing at present about that. Of course, at any time you desire any instruction upon that subject and will let me know, I shall be glad to give you any information in my power.

"A statute passed in 1906 enacts that no intoxicating liquor shall be sold or served under a license except in a bar or business room, so that a clear interior view of the same shall be in no way obstructed; that the authority having power to grant licenses shall require that the entire interior of the room shall be open to full view from the public street upon which the door of the room opens, and the licensing body may also require the room to be open to full view at all times.

"Inns, taverns and hotels having at least ten spare rooms and beds for the accommodation of boarders, transients and travelers, are excepted from this provision of the statute. It becomes important, therefore, to determine what is meant by the words inn, tavern, hotel. The three words, at least as far as we are now concerned with them, mean the same thing, inn and tavern are the older words; hotel is a more modern word.

The "Inns and Taverns."

"An inn, tavern or hotel is a place the keeper of which publicly professes that he will receive all travelers who pay an adequate price and come in a condition in which they are fit to be received. As long ago as 1739 the Legislature of the colony of New Jersey decreed that the true and original design of taverns, inns and ordinaries was the accommodation of strangers, travelers and other persons, for the benefit of men's meeting together for the dispatch of business, and for the entertaining and refreshing of mankind in a reasonable manner. Our present statute contains similar language, and in order that there may be no doubt that the entertainment of travelers is an essential part of the duties of the keeper of an inn or tavern, requires him to have at least two good beds and sufficient bed clothes for the same, and to keep good, wholesome

GEO. D. HALLOCK HEAD OF THE PARK CLUB

ANNUAL REPORT HAS 221 MEMBERS AND GOOD FINANCIAL STANDING.

Three governors were elected, the officers chosen and reports presented at the annual meeting of the Park Club, last night. The past year has been the most successful in the history of the club, there being an increase in membership, finances and general interest in affairs. The present membership is 221. The financial statement presented by the treasurer, J. Brainard Betts, showed the club to have met practically all of its obligations, with a balance in the treasury. The bonds issued by the club are being taken care of as they mature.

Edward T. Wilson, Clifford W. McGee and Andrew McClean Parker were elected governors to succeed those whose terms of office expired. After the annual meeting the Board of Governors met and organized by electing these officers: President, George D. Hallock; secretary, H. C. White; treasurer, Clifford W. McGee. Mr. Hallock succeeds Henry A. McGee, who was president last year.

George T. Rogers, Charles L. Nichols and Harry D. Hibbard were chosen as a nominating committee for the next annual meeting.

CORPORATION COUNSEL TELLS CITY FATHERS OF WORK DONE.

Mr. Marsh Reports on Matters Pertaining to the City Business.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh presented a report on several legal matters at the May meeting of the Common Council Monday night. As to the application of Elston M. French for a reduction of 1906 taxes, which appeal was not sustained by the County Board of Taxation and is now before the State Board of Taxation, Mr. Marsh reported that a hearing would be held the latter part of the month.

In the case of Stephen McCormick against the city treasurer in which the latter sought to recover damages for the sale of his property for taxes, Mr. Marsh stated that the bill against the city had been dismissed without costs.

Regarding the long-standing suit of the American Sewage Disposal Company, of Boston, against the city for alleged infringements, Mr. Marsh reported that as the complainants had made no move since the court denied its injunction, he had decided to take no further action for the present.

Mr. Marsh also reported that for the purpose of permitting Plainfield to issue bonds for the laying of permanent pavement, such as brick or any other material of a similar character, he had had a bill passed at the last session of the Legislature. This question has never come up before, but now that the city contemplates permanent pavement in its business section legislative authority is necessary to permit the issuance of bonds and an ordinance will be drafted accordingly.

Aid Society Officers.

Officers were elected and reports presented at the annual meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of Faith chapel, yesterday afternoon. The reports of the secretary and treasurer showed a large increase in members and finances during the past year. A feature of each meeting during the year has been a missionary talk and an offering received for missions. These officers were elected: President, Mrs. J. W. Musson; vice president, Mrs. John Mackey; secretary, Mrs. Edward Baker, Jr.; treasurer, Mrs. Valentine Utzinger; chairman missionary work committee, Mrs. F. W. Conger; secretary and treasurer of mission work committee, Mrs. D. Patterson.

Sewer Contract Awarded.

Bids were received and contract awarded for the construction of the sanitary and storm sewer at Bound Brook, last night. Mr. McNabb, of Bound Brook, was the successful bidder, his price being $16,000. Arthur E. Smith and Frank J. Hubbard, of this city, bid $23,500; Richards & Gaston, of Somerville, $23,000, and Jelin, of New Brunswick, $22,000. The sewer is to be built under the New Jersey Central at the creek, through meadows, a pond, under the the Lehigh Valley Railroad and extend to the centre of the Raritan river, and is intended to sewer the greater part of Bound Brook.

Mothers' Association Meeting.

The Plainfield Mothers' Association will meet in the Library of the High School on Friday evening at 8 o'clock. L. N. Lovell will speak on "Going to College." This meeting is held in the evening with the express purpose of interesting the fathers as well as the mothers. All are welcome, members or not.

HEALTH BOARD'S WORK

Dairies Inspected by Health Officer; Permits Granted to Milkmen and Plumbers.

SOME VITAL STATISTICS

Eighteen Marriages, Thirty-three Births and Thirty-six Deaths During April.

In all sixteen cases of communicable disease were reported at the May meeting of the Board of Health, yesterday, there being seven scarlet fever, five diphtheria, one typhoid fever and three tuberculosis. There were four deaths from tuberculosis and one from diphtheria. Each one of these cases was thoroughly investigated with a view to discovering the source of contagion, but no connection could be found between them. They were scattered over the entire city.

During the past month considerable work was done on dairy inspection and milk analysis. Seventy-nine dairies were inspected and fifty-six samples of milk analyzed. All dairies, creameries, bottling places and stores supplying milk in Plainfield have now been inspected and the samples of milk analyzed. The condition of the stables and cattle found at the seventy-nine dairies was as follows:

Excellent, two; good, seventeen; fair, thirty-four; dirty, twenty; very dirty, six. The milk from the dairies of John McGrath, State Brothers and Sydney Williams was excluded from the city. Permits to sell milk were granted to the following:

Lindsay Dairy, Charles Johnson, E. P. Gavin, C. O. Smith, Mrs. Kate Schuck, R. H. Krog, William H. Moffett, D. S. Briggs, J. I. Finley, J. H. Knight, Elsa Schanz, Plainfield Milk and Cream Co., L. C. Meeker, B. R. Wood, Thomas Kline, F. P. Bardam, G. W. Henry, A. R. Phillips, C. F. Debele, I. W. Fisher, Claus Peterson, J. A. Smith & Bro., George R. Wooden, K. Rottberg, John Hummel, T. J. Regan, George Vlebrock, Mrs. Gordon, Diedrich Meyer, J. A. Herbermann, J. I. Brokaw, William Olsen, Chris Kelly, Willswood Farms Dairy Co., J. L. Love, A. J. Carey, Edward Coughlan, J. Voehl, Jr., M. Sorensen, Soloman Mann, William S. Brook, Joseph C. Blimm, P. Zimmerman, Bernhard Mann, Samuel Cline, G. Matlas, T. Callahan & Son, Peter Rose.

The following applications for permits to sell milk were laid on the table for one month, and the applicants given an opportunity to make certain improvement, such as brick or any other material of a similar character, he had had a bill passed at the last session of the Legislature. This question has never come up before, but now that the city contemplates permanent pavement in its business section legislative authority is necessary to permit the issuance of bonds and an ordinance will be drafted accordingly.

Permits were granted to the following: To collect garbage, Mrs. M. A. Terry; to collect offal, Fred Endress; to sell ice, The People's Ice Company.

The following plumbers' bonds were ordered filed: M. Armstrong, C. W. Krausse, J. J. Heidelolf, D. W. Litteli & Sons, George Kuldoshes, F. M. Masker, Herman Moosebrugger, John J. Leahy, Louis Moral, Jr., D. N. Pound & Bro., D. Donavan, Jacob Motley, James Harper.

The health officer was instructed to notify all milkmen that the time at which their permits expired would be extended to May 15 and that after that date, the necessary action would be taken to prevent all persons from selling milk without the proper permit.

The health officer was instructed to allow no plans to be filed, or fees to be paid by those plumbers who have failed to renew their plumbing bonds.

During the month, the eighteenth annual report of the Board of Health was delivered and the report is now ready for distribution among the citizens of Plainfield. Copies may be obtained at the office of the Board.

The following returns were made to this office during April: Marriages, 18; births, 33; still-births, 3; deaths, 36.

Approaching Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick R. Stevens, of East Sixth street, have issued invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Jessie Katherine Stevens, and Walter Eaton Cahoone, of Watchung avenue. The wedding will be celebrated at Grace church, Tuesday night, May 28, at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, the rector, will officiate.

DEADLY OVERHEAD WIRES

Board of Health Calls Upon Common Council to Have Menace Removed.

CURRENT 13,000 VOLTS

P. S. C. Wires Strung Above City Streets but Corporation Pays No Heed to City Fathers Demands.

Believing that certain overhead electric wires of a high tension, which are strung through some of the principal streets of the city, to be a menace and dangerous to life, the Board of Health at its May meeting, yesterday, adopted resolution, urging that the Common Council be petitioned by the Board to take such necessary action to have these wires removed or placed underground at the earliest possible date.

This matter has been under consideration at conferences held by city officials and officials of the Public Service Corporation, but without definite result thus far.

These resolutions were adopted at the meeting yesterday:

Whereas, the attention of this Board has been called to certain overhead wires of the Public Service Corporation on Clinton avenue and West Second street, used for the purpose of conducting electric current from the power station in Metuchen to the power station in Plainfield, for distribution for light and power in this city, and

Whereas, these wires carry a current of from 12,000 to 15,000 volts, and being under certain conditions, very dangerous and a great menace to life, be it therefore

Resolved, that the Common Council be petitioned by this Board to take the necessary action to have these wires removed or placed underground at the earliest date.

SONS OF VETERANS HAVE REORGANIZED

COUNCILMAN E.P.T. SMITH IS CHOSEN COMMANDER.

John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, reorganized in G. A. R. Hall, last night, under the direction of Department Commander Lawrence, of Trenton, and other department officers. The charter will be left open until Monday night. The organization started off under favorable auspices and promises to be as active as ever

These officers were elected:

Commander, Edward T. Smith; senior vice commander, Oliver Pearson; junior vice commander, James Stryker; secretary, F. Clarkson, treasurer, Victor Lorton; sergeant of the guard, Ray McVoy; chaplain, James Clarkson; camp guard, Charles Graves; principal musician, Edward Connelly; picket guard, Albert Naylor; camp council, Charles Graves, Ray McVoy and Albert Naylor; representative to Department Encampment, James Stryker. The encampment will meet in Newark today and tomorrow.

AUTO CASES HELD OVER.

Hearings Will Not Be Held Until Next Saturday Morning.

The automobilists arrested Sunday for exceeding the speed limit and who were ordered at the time to appear in the City Court this morning, were notified by Chief Kiely yesterday to present themselves next Saturday morning. The postponement of the hearings was thought advisable inasmuch as the meeting of officials and auto owners called by Mayor Fisk will be held Thursday night, and some agreement regarding speed will probably be reached at the time. It is the Mayor's idea to have a thorough understanding of the ordinance governing autos and the owners can state their position, the chief having been set up that the majority of arrests that have been made were unjust.

There were nine auto drivers arrested Sunday and of this number three pleaded guilty and were fined. The others disputed the arresting officers' estimate of their speed and it is these cases that are held in abeyance.

Handsome Posters Displayed.

The Watchung Hunt Club is displaying handsome and attractive posters about the city and vicinity announcing the third annual steeplechase meet of the club to be held at the Gentlemen's Driving Park on May 30 and June 1. This will be one of the red letter day events for local and state horsemen and judging by the way entries are being received it will be even more successful than previous ones.

ASH DRIVER HORSE SHOW

At the Hour of Going to Press. Result of Their Exhibition is Not Announced.

SOME GREAT TURNOUTS

Plainfield Riding and Driving Club Beat a Mile—Conway and Yettman Favorites.

Without any previous announcement of the fact other than an order from Mayor Charles A. Fisk, the first annual spring horse show of the Plainfield Ash Carters' Association took place on North avenue, this morning. As an exhibition of a certain class of equines it had anything the Riding and Driving Association ever conducted beat to a frazzle and it is improbable that any such conglomeration of rigs and nags was ever seen in the city before. No ribbons were awarded, either blue, red, yellow or white, but the Board of Health cup and the Municipal silver plate will be passed out later in the week.

The show was brought about through Mayor Fisk, who has received so many complaints about the dilapidated appearance of the carts used in the local ash service that he decided to get them all together and look them over. The owners were ordered to appear with their rigs in front of the "City Hall" at 9 o'clock and fifteen of them were present promptly on time. The mayor was unable to act in the role of judge, however, as his presence was demanded at the session of the Grand Jury so he turned the job over to Health Inspector Thurlow, Chief Kiely and a couple of assistants.

Thurlow bossed the job as he has attended nine horse shows against the chief's seven and in addition he assisted Aleck Ayers in looking over the two circuses that have appeared here early this month. The stand directly opposite the mayor's office and the two large front windows were used as private boxes. Hackmen from the North avenue station had a monopoly on the parking spaces while fifty cent seats overlooked from the sidewalk and neighboring roofs. The newspaper correspondents were on hand ten minutes ahead of time but out of deference to the superasensitiveness of some of the citizens they refrained from taking snapshots.

Deacon Spencer Conway, the dean of Plainfield's carters, was the first of the exhibitors to come before the judges and he was greeted with cheers by the onlookers. He had a prancing steed that had evidently been in the polo pony class about the time of the Johnstown flood and a wagon with the Studebaker name but the only part that came from that factory was the board that held it. Fernando Brown dashed up with a pacer that was a pippin for manners but was sadly off in its knee action. His wagon was a cross between a surrey and a brake of the Colonial type. William Campbell outshone his competitors with a vehicle that had been newly tied together with wire and appeared to be as sound as a Plainfield bond. Someone told him ribbons were to be awarded for general good appearance and he sat as stiff as a poker for the best part of a half hour before Thurlow told him he could go. When nothing was handed him he drove off in the same kind of a high dudgeon that Mrs. Gerkan displayed when "Newsboy" and "Shop Girl" were defeated at Durling's.

Christopher Maden, or as he is better known, "Chris Columbus," attended the exhibition on foot, explaining to the inspectors that his doctor had informed him it would not be policy to drive down town because of his health. His excuse was accepted and he was made an assistant judge, being in a position to designate good points that might otherwise be passed over. The show occupied the best part of half an hour but the general result would not be made known by either Chief Kiely or the health officer.

Kiely or the health officer. "Doc" Maden tipped the reporters off on Prime Yettman's exhibit as a blue ribbon "come on." Moses Roth, another witness, picked Conway.

It was hinted around the city offices that Mayor Fisk, who called for the exhibition, purposely sought a place on the Grand Jury in order to escape acting as judge. For this reason no one can blame him if there is any argument or dispute about awards or recommendations to be made later on as that action be takes will be based solely on the report of Messrs. Kiely and Thurlow.

Will Make Western Trip.

Superintendent Amos Andrews, of the Plainfield Water Works, will leave tomorrow on an extended western trip, combining business with pleasure. He will go as far as California and will also visit Arizona and other southwestern states.

FATHER OF CONSOLIDATION PLEASED WITH REPORT

Greatest Victory That the Cause Has Achieved Says William L. Saunders.

THE OUTLOOK IS BRIGHT

No Politics In Question or In Complexion of Commission, Whose Influence Will Be Felt At Trenton.

As no one man in either the city or the borough has done so much to bring about the proposed union of Plainfield and North Plainfield as has former Mayor William L. Saunders, president of the Ingersoll-Rand Drill Company of New York, his views on the report of the Bi-municipal Consolidation Commission should be of timely interest. Believing this to be the case, The Daily Press has obtained from that public spirited and whole-souled resident of the borough this comment on the report:

(By William L. Saunders.)

"The report is the strongest consolidation argument that has ever been presented to the people. The Daily Press is the only paper which understood it correctly. Instead of being an "Adverse report on merger" it is a report in favor of the most complete merger possible—consolidation with annexation. The report is only adverse to consolidation without annexation. It bears evidence of investigation, study and thought and disinterested effort to get at the truth and all the facts in this important matter. It must not be forgotten that the men composing this commission are not only in the best sense representative citizens of both city and borough but they were chosen from among those who had either been antagonistic to consolidation or have not given the matter much attention. In other words it was expected that they would look at the whole subject de novo and without bias prejudice or a superabundance of enthusiasm in any direction. Everybody knows that consolidation has never been a political question and this is not a political commission, the report in favor of the most different parties and are men of independence of thought on all questions.

"That such a commission as this should unanimously favor consolidation is the greatest victory the cause has achieved since the subject was first agitated by the Board of Trade. Great credit is due the Board of Trade for the consistent manner in which they have always stood for consolidation. We are also greatly indebted to that incomparable Mayor, Mr. Fisk, who with such admirable tact and ability has taken hold of the wheel with a determination to steer the ship to the harbors of peace and prosperity.

"The commission could not do otherwise than weigh both the pros and the cons of the subject but it is plain that the reasons for greatly outweigh the reasons against, the latter being largely academic and general. It is hoped that this commission will continue its organization and its labors until the work has been completed. The influence of such a body of men cannot but be felt at Trenton, even in so difficult a matter as the change of a county line. Fortunately no political arguments can weigh against this measure because both Union and Somerset counties are largely Republican, this is especially true of Somerset county, the fourth Congressional district of which gave in 1906 a Republican majority of 2,598. During this election Somerset county gave a Republican majority of 1,138, North Plainfield furnished of this majority 262, so that taking out North Plainfield's majority, Somerset county would still be Republican by 875.

"Those who have favored consolidation without annexation are not disappointed because one could only be a step to the other and all consolidationists favors the union of these two places by all fair and reasonable means and in most thorough manner possible. After consolidation, which is now sure to come, we may look for a new era of prosperity in North Plainfield. Property values there will undoubtedly be benefited and the best part of the borough is likely to become the most desirable place of residence in the city of Plainfield. The borough will be the west end of the greater city."

DARING THIEF STEALS A GROCERY WAGON

ABANDONS IT NEAR SAMPTOWN AS PURSUING CITIZEN DRAWS NEAR.

While a boy employed by Charles O. Smith, of Liberty street, was delivering groceries in a house on Sherman avenue at 10 o'clock this morning, a man sprang to the seat of the wagon left in front of the house and drove off. He urged the horse to its best speed and disappeared in the direction of South Plainfield.

The boy informed police headquarters by telephone and the authorities at South Plainfield were asked to be on the lookout for the rig. Jacob Rubenstein, a resident of the latter place, decided to go in search of it on his own account and located it near Samptown. The thief noticed him approaching and jumping out of the wagon ran through the alds. Rubenstein was not near enough to get a good description of the fellow and did not pursue him. The rig was turned over to City Physician Lufburrow and Overseer Alex Ayers, who chanced to pass, and they returned it to the owner. The police are unable to account for the thief's action as it would have been impossible for him to have gone any great distance with a wagon bearing the owner's name.

MARTINE BOOM DINNER AT ELIZABETH MAY 29.

Banquet in Honor of Farmer Orator to Be Held in Turn Hall In That City.

Arrangements were partially completed at a meeting of the Union County Democratic Committee, in Elizabeth, last night, for the dinner to be given to James E. Martine, of "Cedar Brook Farm," who is prominently mentioned as the Gubernatorial candidate. It was decided to hold the dinner in Turn Hall, Elizabeth, on Wednesday night, May 29, and the guests will be limited to 300. At that time it is the intention of the county Democracy to launch Mr. Martine's candidacy for the Governorship.

The special committee appointed to arrange for the dinner has not yet completed its list of speakers, but it is expected that some of the biggest guns in the party will be heard. John P. Owens, of this city, has been appointed chairman of the reception committee, and the other two members are Bradley Jones, of New Providence, and W. E. Tuttle, of Westfield.

Among those who attended the meeting from Plainfield were Walter L. Hetfield, Jr., and J. V. F. Dilts.

MEN'S CLUB ENTERTAINS.

Programme Enjoyed at Congregational Church.

The entertainment given by the Men's Club, of the Congregational church, last night, which was a "ladies' night" affair and the last one of the season, was undoubtedly the best in the series. The programme was one of exceptional merit and every number was a success.

James S. Vail, a youth who has unusual talent as a pianist, delighted all with several selections. His rendition's aroused great enthusiasm and he was obliged to respond to encores.

The greater part of the programme was furnished by professional talent, DeWitt Paxton, a humorist, and Miss Edna Kimball, a soprano soloist, being the artists. Both were clever and Mr. Paxton, who was down for "Just a few stories," and he was kept busy throughout the evening responding to encores, as was also Miss Kimball. Herbert Harold, of this city, was the accompanist. After the programme the members of the club served ice cream and cake.

Miss Melville Returns.

Miss Rose Melville returned to Plainfield, last night, after an absence of six years and delighted a large audience at the local playhouse in her quaint impersonation of "Sis Hopkins." Her acting has improved greatly since she was here before and those who saw her were much impressed by her versatility in changing from the part she has made famous to a vivacious young woman just home from Paris. She was surrounded by a capable company.

Funeral of Alfred L. Randolph.

The funeral of Alfred L. Randolph was held at his late home on Liberty street yesterday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss and was attended by a large gathering. Interment was made at Hillside, the pall bearers being Howard Randolph, Lewis Henry, C. O. Smith, George Harris, John Dunn and Fred Smith.

600 REFORMERS SIT UP ALL NIGHT TO HEAR BRYAN

Colby and Martine Precede "Commoner" in Making Ringing Speeches At Dollar Dinner

GREAT DEMONSTRATION

Bryan Wildly Cheered by Crowd Booms Martine For Governor —Colby Makes Fine Address.

Fully 600 wildly cheering reformers gave William Jennings Bryan a great reception as he entered Krueger's auditorium at Newark near midnight Wednesday to speak at the "Dollar Dinner" of the People's Lobby. It was a great night and among the enthusiastic assemblage were a number of Plainfielders and North Plainfielders.

Seated at the speakers' table were Senator Everett Colby, Sheriff Sommer and Mrs. Sommer, Mayor Fagan of Jersey City; George L. Record, Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Farrand, Alexander R. Fordyce, James E. Martine, Mrs. Hengroin, Mr. and Mrs. William Thayer Brown, the Rev. and Mrs. Adolph Roeder and Frederick W. Keisel.

There was an enthusiastic mention of Mr. Martine's name as a candidate for Governor, and a small boom was started for him.

Others who spoke were James Martine, of Plainfield; Sheriff Frank H. Sommer, of Essex county; Mayor Mark Fagan, of Jersey City; Corporation Counsel George L. Record, of Jersey City; Alden Freeman, of Orange, chairman of the dinner committee, and Herman H. Walker.

Mr. Bryan began his speech, at 12:45, by saying that if he started out by making a non-partisan speech President Roosevelt immediately made the same kind of a speech, so whenever he made a speech immediately became a partisan.

He referred to the President as putting Democratic policies in force and said he was glad to see what he had advocated for years at last put in force.

He was glad to join with Democrats and Republicans who were more interested in carrying out an idea than in winning a barren victory. He thought it was a good sign that a man could step out into the Republican party between the standpatters and the reformers. He had gained a good idea of the value of harmony through the lack of it in his own party.

Both radical and conservative parties were necessary, he said. The radical to propose, the conservative to investigate. Finally the radical dragged the conservative on.

Progress is between two extremes. The radicals in the Republican party would win. There was only one place for a stand-patter, and that was in the grave. If the Republican party dared to stand still for ten years it would stop everything out in New Jersey. He had thought New Jersey hopeless, so far as the Democrats were concerned.

He was in favor of election of Senators by direct vote of the people. In the last fifteen years the House of Congress had passed five times an act for the election of Senators by direct vote of the people. Now, three Republican Congresses and twenty-one of the States of the Union had passed similar acts. The Democratic sentiment in this country," he said, "is too large for any party to monopolize. The man who trusted the people is willing to have what the people want in government. The election of Senators by the people will come. We are going to go on applying fundamental principles until the people control the government absolutely."

He then took up the initiative and referendum. This was in the Democratic national platform six years ago. It was in the Democratic platform in Nebraska four years before that. He couldn't see why New Yorkers thought in speaking of this at the present time that he was trying to smuggle in a new idea without paying duty on it.

State after State had adopted the idea. If a man believed in the right of the people to govern themselves how could they oppose the initiative and referendum? Representatives were not elected to think for the people. The people did the thinking. The representatives were elected to act. The idea of leadership in this country developed the boss. It was not the duty of the leader to think for the people, but to think with the people. The leader must be ahead of the people or he would not be leading them. The mouthpiece of public opinion did not make opinion. He simply gave it form to make it more effective.

The power came from the people up to those for whom he spoke. He said only what they wanted him to say.

If the people had the initiative they would act. If the representatives knew the people could veto their laws they would not pass laws they knew the people would veto. If one man could veto the act of a legislature, why could not the people who elected that man and the legislature as well.

No matter what mistakes in the Constitution, if the people had the power to correct the mistakes they would correct them. The initiative and the referendum were the best things found so far to bring the government near to the people. When the people had the power to correct mistakes, abuses would be corrected quickly.

If the people had their way there was no danger in any country. When predatory wealth dammed the stream so high that it broke there was disaster below. If you give the people a method of government they can control they will reform every abuse as soon as they find them out. But if you dare to obstruct the people you will find a cry for more radical reform.

James E. Martine, "an exponent of popular government," was greeted with the waving of napkins. Mr. Martine said he came not as a stranger.

"I read that the People's Lobby was composed of long-haired men and short-haired women. This was an untruth, as is demonstrated by this audience," he said. "I have no excuse. I am here as a Democrat. I am here as I love my life. My politics is a religion with me, but I claim that the man aids his party most who loves his country most. And I think the initiative and referendum is a veritable quintessence of Democracy. Anything that brings the government close to the people is an aid to Democracy."

Mr. Martine referred to the "infamous contrivance, the voting machine." Taking up the initiative and referendum, he referred to its adoption in Switzerland, although it had been called into use only four or five times in the last fifty years.

"Somebody said to me the other day: 'Aren't your tired of being a dreamer, hunting for ideals?' You people have to vote for office all your life, and you have never been elected.' That is true, but we have obtained a victory. Victories have not been estimated by majorities."

Mr. Martine referred to the difficulty any Democrat would have to be elected in Plainfield.

"What we want is your aid—and we want that of you women, kind, gentle, sweet woman, to help make the burdens bear more lightly on all. While we give you no votes, your moral aid is of great effect. What I want is that our communities stand for civic righteousness. We in this commonwealth are blessed with fortunate conditions, which is materialism as well as in history. We want the public to understand that we stand for equal justice to all—for the election of United States Senators, for a railroad commission, not appointed by the Governor but elected by the people.

This sentiment brought out applause. Mr. Martine referred to the power of the ballot, and closed with a poetical quotation, which he learned at school, but the author of which he forgot.

The Senator from Essex, Everett Colby, was given a fine ovation.

Senator Colby said:

"I deem it, Mr. Chairman, a very great privilege to be invited by your committee to speak to this gathering on this anniversary of the day of independence,' and were I to take a text it would be a statement once made by the distinguished guest who will be with us this evening: 'No convention can rob me of my convictions, nor can any party organization drive me to conspire against the prosperity and liberty of my country. A man's duty to his country is higher than his duty to his party.' To my mind in these few words is clearly expressed the conflict between the theory of party regularity and the duty of a conscientious citizen, and it is of that conflict that I wish to speak."

After referring briefly to various reform movements and sketching their downfall, Senator Colby continued:

"In studying the independent movements to which we have briefly referred, there are two facts that necessarily force themselves upon the attention of the student. First, that in spite of these deflections from both political parties and in spite of the spasmodic upheavals that have taken place, there are still the two dominant political parties in the country. Second, that no independent movement has ever been able on West Front street. His experiences as a seaman were exceptionally varied and interesting and there is hardly a port in the world that he had not visited at some time or other in his career. His services were much sought after by the large trading companies which had taken vessels on tramp voyages that frequently lasted more than a year.

He leaves a wife, one daughter, Mrs. Frank Moffett, formerly Miss Inez Stuart, whose home is in Georgia, and one son, Kenneth Stuart, the well-known musician.

Treble Clef Club Soloists.

The Treble Clef Club, composed entirely of women, has engaged as soloists for the concert to be given at the Casino on Tuesday night, May 21, Mrs. Anna Louise David, of New York, harpist; Horatio Rench, tenor, and Miss Bertha vanNuis Willis, soprano.

comes the evil day, and the party voters find their organization in the hands of those who are pillaging it for the benefit of the few and in full command of the field. Then an independent movement is started, generally without a clearly defined issue. It is inaugurated with great pomp, a lot of dust is kicked up, a few scoundrels go behind prison bars, and then the brain storm of reform quiets down.

"Then what happens? Now, remember, I am drawing my conclusions directly from history. The leaders of the movement quarrel among themselves, the people tire of their protestations and cry, 'Who made thee ruler and judge over us!' We become tired of hearing Aristides called the Just. Then some of the reformers quite properly seek office and are called 'office seekers,' while others refuse office and are called 'quitters.' The reformers often refuse to accept criticism, believing they should be immune, and they fail to acknowledge their mistakes. Again they compromise with the machine, thereby losing the confidence of the public, which they accuse of ingratitude. At the next election we find the independent voter, because of ignorance, prejudice, indifference, sentiment, or force of habit, drifting back to the party fold, and it because the reformers did not have a definite policy and lacked ordinary common sense.

"Now, what is the answer to the other question: Why have results not, as a rule, been permanent? Again, I think it is simply a lack of patience on the part of the public. It wants to do too much at a time and fails to appreciate the fact that a few men working spasmodically cannot beat the men who devote their whole life to the task of building up a machine out of which they make their living. Self interest will defeat occasional reform every time until reform adopts a definite policy and proceeds to carry that policy out in a bulldog, persistent and day-in-day-out fashion. Reformers use themselves up. They become tired because of their superhuman exertion. They lack steadiness and staying power.

"What, then, should be our policy in New Jersey? To fix upon a plan we must first discover what is wrong, and do we not find the trouble in the insurmountable difficulty of getting the great masses of the people to think independently? The question of mind. The public mind, although aroused at times, clings still to the dogma of party. Experience teaches us this fact, and it is in many respects a wholesome and natural tendency. It is natural for people to seek affiliations with those who think as they do as it is for them to breathe. It is natural for people to work together; therefore, why not use that tendency? Why not direct its force for the public good?

"And the way to do that is to destroy the means now employed by the boss and machine to capitalize for the benefit of special interests that human quality, that state and condition of the public mind. If you cannot lead the people away from a party, lead the party to a principle.

"Lead the voters to a belief in Civil Service; lead the voters to a belief in the direct primary; force those issues by steady effort, and you have made them safe. There is no salvation without attempting to destroy their faith in the efficacy of their party. If you cannot do this after a fair trial, and you believe further affiliation with your party will only result in conspiracy against the prosperity and liberty of your country,' then and not till then bolt your party."

Among the Plainfielders present were Samuel S. Swackhamer, former Mayor Clemmenson, Rev. and Mrs. R. Henry Depew, president of the Plainfield Protective Association; Howard C. Tracy, formerly president of the "New Idea" Central Committee; James E. Martine, probable Democratic gubernatorial candidate; Walter Linabarger, member of the executive committee of the People's Lobby; George E. Firstbrook, of the Plainfield Democratic City Committee, and D. M. Martine.

CAPTAIN STUART DEAD.

Well-Known Seafaring Man Passed Away This Morning.

Following an illness of several weeks with a complication of troubles, Captain Peter E. Stuart died Saturday at his home on Grove street. He was about fifty years old and though he had followed the sea nearly all his life he had made his permanent home in Plainfield a long time. He retired from the captaincy of a vessel three years ago and since then had been engaged in the shoe trade on West Front street. His experiences as a seaman were exceptionally varied and interesting and there is hardly a port in the world that he had not visited at some time or other in his career. His services were much sought after by the large trading companies which had taken vessels on tramp voyages that frequently lasted more than a year.

He leaves a wife, one daughter, Mrs. Frank Moffett, formerly Miss Inez Stuart, whose home is in Georgia, and one son, Kenneth Stuart, the well-known musician.

ENDEAVORERS' PROGRAM

New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union's Annual Convention on Oct. 9 and 10.

GOVERNOR TO SPEAK

Sessions to Be Held at Peddie Memorial Church In Newark—The Programme In Detail.

Rev. Adelbert Chapman, of Hackensack, outlined the programme for the State convention of the New Jersey Christian Endeavor Union, which starts October 9, at the spring session of the executive committee in the Y. M. C. A. building at Newark. The convention will be held in the Peddie Memorial church, Newark, and among those who are scheduled to speak are Governor Stokes and Mayor Haussling. There will be sessions each morning, afternoon and evening during the convention, and arrangements are being made to include open air meetings at night in Military and Washington parks in Newark.

The convention will open Wednesday afternoon, when Mrs. Ida Dukes will hold a conference for junior workers and the State executive board will hold its final meeting. At the night session, Rev. Dr. John F. Patterson, of Philadelphia, will speak. Thursday morning the session will include the addresses of welcome by Governor Stokes and Mayor Haussling, of Newark, with a response by John T. Sproull, president of the union.

At the afternoon session Percy R. Nuessle, of Newark, will report for the correspondence committee, while the fresh air work will be presented by J. K. Harriman, of Jersey City. Miss Jane R. Morrow, of Westfield, will tell of the missionary department work, and Robert E. Speer, of Englewood, will speak on missions.

At night the report of the secretary, Miss Ida B. Stephens, and the treasurer, A. W. Abbott, will be given, followed by an address by the general secretary, William Shaw, of Boston. The usual reception and reunion will take place at the end of this session.

Friday a service will be held at 6:45 a. m. At the regular morning session Rev. Dr. F. W. Johnson, of Washington, will report on the Sabbath observance work, followed by an address on "Christian Citizenship" by Rev. Dr. Charles F. Stanley, secretary of the Sabbath Observance Society. Rev. Dr. Albert Erdman, of Morristown, will present the report on State Bible study, followed by an address by Rev. Dr. S. D. Gordon. Rev. Dr. Burgess, of Cherry Hill, will tell of the evangelistic work, and Rev. Dr. Wilton Merle Smith, of New York, will speak on "Endeavor Evangelism." At the afternoon session, Mrs. Dukes will conduct a junior exercise, and Rev. Dr. C. H. Tindall will address the junior societies.

At the closing session at night the committee on resolutions will report and officers for the ensuing year will be elected. Rev. Dr. Kerr Boyce Tupper, of Philadelphia, will deliver the convention sermon.

PARK COMEDY CLUB TO GIVE THREE PLAYS

AMATEURS TO PRESENT FREE DRAMATIC PERFORMANCES THIS MONTH.

According to its usual custom the Park Comedy Club will close its season with a dramatic performance to which the public will be invited. Instead of one play, which has been the custom in previous years, the club will present three short comedies, all very entertaining but differing widely from each other. Probably the most important of these is a clever sketch from the pen of Richard Harding Davis, entitled "Miss Civilization." This promises more thrills in its short career than anything yet presented by the club.

"Our Aunt from California," which was presented at the Floral Fete at the Casino last month and scored a decided hit, will be repeated. A well written English one-act comedy entitled "The Old Master," will complete the programme.

In the cast for these plays there are several new members of the Comedy Club, who will make their debut before a Plainfield audience. Those who will take part in the plays are: Mrs. Charles F. Muller, Mr. and Mrs. S. Fullerton Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. White, Miss Helen Phillips, Miss Kathryn Ball, Miss Elsie Suffern, Mrs. William R. Faber, Clifford W. McCree, Alson M. Abbott.

The date for the performance has not yet been fixed, but it will be sometime about the middle of May, and as usual will be held in the hall of the Park Club.

Plainfield Pamphlets.

Copies of the pamphlet advertising Plainfield, issued by the Board of Trade, are in the hands of E. F. Feickert, of the Plainfield Trust Company, in large numbers. Business men who desire to send them out with their mail may obtain supplies from him.

CENTENNIAL OF ORANGES

One Hundred Years Since They Were Set Off From the City of Newark.

CELEBRATION IN JUNE

Carnivals, Parades and Dedication of Monument to Take Place in June.

Just 100 years ago the town of Orange, comprising "all the Oranges," was set off from Newark. This event is to be celebrated during the week June 9 to 15. The purpose is to make the occasion an Old Home Week affair, and the committee is trying to get back home for the celebration all those who have lived in the Oranges.

The celebration begins on Sunday, June 9, when the programme will consist of services of patriotic spirit in all the churches and a patriotic meeting at 4 p. m. in a place to be designated later.

Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, June 10, 11, 12 and 13, will be Carnival Day, Grand Army Day, Labor Day and New England Day.

On Friday, June 14 (130th anniversary of the adoption of the American Flag) there will be dedication of a statue, "The Dispatch Rider of the American Revolution," in the old burying ground.

This statue, designed by Frank Edwin Elwell, is a massive creation in bronze, standing on a granite base, exemplifying for all time the deeds of men who carried the dispatches from army to army during the War of the Revolution and typifying a sturdy youth who carried messages to Washington at Morristown, passing through the Oranges. A gallant and civic parade will start from the Parkway, in East Orange, and march to St. Mark's church, in which will participate the First Brigade, N. G. N. J., Old Guard, of New York; fraternal and civic organizations, floats depicting the progress and advancement of the community, etc. At the cemetery there will be patriotic orations and addresses. A dinner in the Woman's Club will close the events of the day.

On Saturday, June 15, an athletic carnival will be held on the new Ashland School oval. A fireworks display on a large scale in the evening will end the celebration.

MISS ENID M-B. FONDA WEDS OTTO MULLER.

Ceremony is Performed at the Home of the Bride in Somerville by Rev. Frank Fletcher.

Miss Enid Ma-Belle Fonda, daughter of Mrs. John Lance, and the late A. P. Fonda, of Kansas City, and Otto Muller, of Elizabeth, were married Tuesday night at the home of the bride, Rev. Frank Fletcher, formerly of the New Market Baptist church, who also married the bride's parents, officiated.

The bride wore a gown of chiffon organdie, trimmed with point de venice lace. Her only adornment was a pair of bracelets, the gift of her father to her mother on their wedding day thirty-two years ago.

The color scheme throughout the house was green and white and where the couple stood was filled in with palms and aspedestras. A large marriage bell of Easter lilies was suspended over the bride's table.

The bride's maid-of-honor was her step-sister, Miss Cornelia Lance, of Passaic, and Freeman Decker, of Staten Island, was the best man. Among the guests were the bride's only brother, A. P. Fonda, of Kansas City, whom she had not seen in twelve years; also a great aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd B. Nelson, of Roselle. The bride received many handsome presents. Mr. Muller is connected with the Singer Manufacturing Company. Both the bride and groom are talented musicians. They will be at home after June 1 in Elizabeth.

MISS EMMA DAVIDSON WEDDED TO PHYSICIAN.

Plainfielder Becomes the Wife of Dr. Paul Richard Oeser, of Lawrence, Mass.

Miss Emma E. Davidson, a sister of Mrs. William Camp, of 923 West Fifth street, and Dr. Paul Richard Oeser, of Lawrence, Mass., were quietly married on Tuesday by Rev. Dr. Holloway, a Baptist clergyman, of New York. The ceremony took place at the home of the officiating minister. Following the couple was given a reception at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Camp in this city, which was attended by guests from New York and Brooklyn, including many physicians and graduate nurses.

The bride is a graduate of the Cumberland Street Hospital, Brooklyn, and during the past two months made her home with her sister here. The groom is a practicing physician at Lawrence, in which city the couple will reside after a honeymoon.

A Preference.

"Would you prefer to have your son a rhetorician or an athlete?"

"A rhetorician," answered Farmer Corntossel. "A good one can make the average person look like a molly-coodle without running any risk whatever of physical punishment."—Washington Star.

INVENTION SAVES FUEL TO CONSECRATE CHURCH

W. T. Griffin's Compressing Machine Makes Peat Bricks For Heating Purposes.

CHEAPER THAN COAL

Plainfielder Builds Hundred Thousand Dollar Plant, With Capacity of Many Tons of Fuel a Day.

Through the invention of a Plainfielder, peat has been made commercially valuable as a fuel, and a rival of coal wherever that can be used. Walter T. Griffen, of East Seventh street, has perfected a machine that prepares the peat for burning perfectly.

The machine and the product it turns out have been subjected to exhaustive tests, and both have proved completely successful. A big company has been partly formed to make and sell the fuel, and a plant has just started up at Ogdensburg, N. Y. Griffen is largely interested in the company.

Peat, which is a form through which all coal has passed, is to be found in large quanities practically all over the country. It burns readily when dried out, but the problem has been to dry it properly, in an economical way, to make it valuable. After working eighteen years, and studying peat thoroughly, Mr. Griffen perfected a machine that automatically cuts, dries and forms the peat into bricks.

The product burns with an intense heat, even better than coal. It gives off very little smoke, leaves but little ash and no clinkers. It is an ideal fuel for grates, and its superiority to coal in engines and furnaces has been demonstrated to a certainty. It will be sold much more cheaply than coal. Peat bricks will be obtainable, when the company gets under full way, at the price given for coal at the pit's mouth. Moreover, the ashes of peat are valuable, being very rich in potash.

Peat will make a splended illuminating gas, and the manufacture of fuel gas will be easy for the company. It is claimed that fuel gas can be made to sell as cheaply as it does in Pittsburg.

The Ogdensburg plant has been going for about a month. It is turning out between 200 and 300 tons a day, with a force of only five men. Plans have been made for the erection of another plant there, with a capacity of 5,000 tons a day, working twenty-four hours. The company has secured $250,000 for the prosecution of its plans so far, and as much more as it wants is in sight. Big financial powers are interested in it. The erection of five more plants, in different parts of the world, has been decided upon as soon as the plant is in operation.

Peat is found in practically every State in this country. There are two big deposits in New Jersey, and Mr. Griffen intends to work on them. The deposit at Ogdensburg is thirty-five miles in extent. The people who have seen the trenches and breaks in the Newark meadows know what peat looks like. The dark soil is just about as peaty looking as peat itself.

TEETOTALERS TO CELEBRATE.

Thirty-fifth Anniversary of Society to Be Observed May 19.

The thirty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the T. A. B. Society of St. Mary's church will be observed on Sunday, May 19, by solemn vesper services. Very Rev. Dean Cody, of St. James' church, Newark, who administered the pledge to the charter members, Mrs. Charles F. Leggett, Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, Mrs. John Gray Foster, Mrs. Stephen R. Struthers, Mrs. Henry A. McGee, Mrs. Chas. E. Rocap; printing, Mrs. David F. Hall. Bertram Leggett will be at the door and the officers and board of management will have charge of the programme.

SEEDTIME PLEASURES.

I've just received a catalogue
Fresh from the seedman's store,
A gorgeous book of fruits and flowers
And vegetables galore,
And I can hardly wait until
The winter's ice and snow
Melt from my well loved garden plot
To spade and rake and hoe.

For in this catalogue I find
New radishes and peas,
Six kinds of lettuce, eight of corn—
I want to try all these—
Cucumbers slim, cucumbers fat,
And limas short and tall,
And melons, cabbage beets and greens—
I want to try them all.

Tomatoes, ten varieties,
And onions white and red,
Asparagus and celery—
I want of each a bed.
And turnips early, turnips late,
Potatoes by the score,
And squashes—my, don't say a word,
A dozen kind or more!

I herewith thank the seedsman kind
For sending me this book,
When all these things are coming on,
How pretty the will look!
And when the frost has left the ground,
Amidst the robin's song,
I'm going to plant my tots plot—
Twelve feet by twenty long!

GOVERNOR'S DAY ON ALL SAINTS' DAY

Mortgage of $7,000 Paid Off This Week—First Services Held in Present Structure in 1872.

A mortgage of approximately $7,000 resting on the Grace Episcopal church edifice at Sixth and Sycamore streets has been paid off in full this week by the rector, wardens and vestrymen and the structure is now clear from debt. There is yet a mortgage of about $10,000 on the handsome new parish building erected under the supervision of the present rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, and an effort will be made to discharge it at an early date.

Plans are now being made for the formal consecration of the church edifice and it is likely that the ceremony will take place on All Saints' Day which falls on November 1. Under the laws of the Episcopal church, a church building cannot be consecrated to the worship of God until it is free from debt and for that reason the ceremony has been long delayed. Rt. Rev. Dr. John Scarborough, bishop of New Jersey, will consecrate the church and it is probable that a large number of the clergy will take part in the service.

The first service was held in the present edifice in 1892, just forty years after the first service in the church was held in Plainfield. Rev. P. E. Coe, of Westfield, conducted a service in the old village school house on January 11, 1852, and on June 9, a public meeting was held to take steps to organize a parish. In the following September, Bishop Doane consecrated the building, the ground for which was given by Mahlon Vail and David Rockwell. On March 21, 1872, a larger and more commodious edifice was erected and was consecrated by Bishop Odenheimer. Dr. Rodman took charge of the parish in the following November. Later services were held in the hall at Laing's hotel, but after this services were held on the old site until 1876, when the erection of the present site was taken possession of during the same year. The present church and parish houses are two of the most attractive buildings in the city.

COMMITTEES APPOINTED FOR D. A. R. ENTERTAINMENT.

Continental Chapter Selects Members to Take Charge of Its Coming Tea.

Announcement is made of the committees to be in charge of the colonial tea, to be given at the Park Club, Tuesday afternoon, May 14, under the auspices of the Continental Chapter, D. A. R., in commemoration of the settlement of Jamestown. Those appointed are:

Stage and decorations, Mrs. Chas. W. McCutchen, the Misses Hartell and Sarah Manning, Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman; distribution of tickets and circulars, Mrs. George H. Campbell, Mrs. Norman W. Currie; reception of guests, Mrs. David P. Hall, regent; Mrs. David Hall Rowland and Miss Mary E. Brown, vice-regents; Mrs. George H. Campbell, secretary; Mrs. Norman W. Reflections by Donn Piatt.

A wild goose will travel due north 500 miles. Man after a deal of labor makes the compass and rivals the goose.

Many a statesman honored in his grave owed his success in life to the length of his legs and the solemnity of his countenance.

The Fourth of July is a day set apart by the citizens of this blessed country to glorify themselves and mutilate their offspring.

CONCRETE AGAINST BRICK

New Factor Entered Into Paving Question By the Board of Trade.

HEARS CONCRETE AGENT

Who Is Supported In His Claims By Mayor N. B. Smalley—Lively Meeting of the Rejuvenated Body.

Possibility of concrete paving in place of the brick that the street committee is supposed to have decided upon, was introduced in the pavement pavement question, Thursday night, by the Board of Trade. After listening to a representative of a concrete pavement company, and to Mayor N. B. Smalley's favorable report on examples of its work, the Board members, some of whom spoke decidedly against brick, expressed an opinion that the concrete deserved investigation, and a committee of three was appointed to go before the Common Council at the pavement hearing to report on its ideas as to the character of the material to be laid.

The board meeting was largely attended. Complete rejuvenation was in evidence. Fifty members were present, and for the first time in record a regular meeting developed a scarcity of chairs. Twenty-seven new members added to the roll, bringing the roster up to 155.

The rules were suspended to permit the immediate election of the following: A. S. Herr, F. C. Langhorne, F. J. Blatz, Greer & Greenwood, C. W. Leonard, F. A. Dutenhofer, Clarence L. Murphy, Fred Becker, C. L. Stanley, J. Van Nostrand Vail & Gardner, P. B. Hodge, J. I. Brokaw, Wyman & Haberle, Kennett Robbie, E. H. Clevely, Fred Tyamy, Powlison & Jones, Henry Wadham, M. Hertz, Dr. F. W. Cornwell, W. H. Pope, F. W. Dunn, William Newcorn, W. D. Thickstun, C. D. Manning, John F. McIntyre.

The committee on collection of a publicity fund reported a total of $585 secured this week in its two days' canvass. Four districts are still to be heard from, and a total of at least $600 is the aim of the week.

Among the communications was a letter from President Thomas S. McCarter, of the P. S. C., relative to the overcrowding of the Fourth street and Arlington avenue cars. He said the retiring second superintendent of the company had said the traffic would not warrant larger cars, but that the question was still open and would be taken up with the new engineer, who took office May 3.

L. J. Wing Manufacturing Company and the Industrial Bureau, New York, setting for an unnamed concern, presented stock-selling and site-seeking propositions. The communications were filed, with sophisticated smiles.

J. V. E. Vanderhoef, reporting for the arc light committee, stated that petitions for the lights had been signed by the business men, and would be presented at the next meeting of the Council. The committee has accepted Mayor Fisk's invitation to attend the next conference with the P. S. C. on city lighting.

Robert T. Keenan, a representative of the Hassam Paving Company, Worcester, Mass., explained the concrete pavement to the Board. The pavement is composed of trap, cement and sand, in proper proportions, the patent being on the method of laying. Sewer connections are made to a depth of six inches and rest on the dirt heavily; broken stone is then laid and grouting mixture is forced into all the voids until it flushes up. A cement top dressing is then laid on, rolled, and allowed to set for a week. It is claimed that the mixture becomes one stone, with no joint anywhere; that the pavement is good looking, durable, impervious to frost action, easy to clean, wears evenly, gives a good foothold, holds even under the slipperiest conditions, is ideal for automobiles, and finally is alleged to be not nearly as noisy as brick. Mr. Keenan read testimonials from various city engineers and other officials, and referred to examples of the paving work in cities in all parts of the country, from Maine to Texas, heavy as well as in southern sections. The pavement, he said, was 25 per cent. cheaper than other kinds under the most expensive conditions, and, on account of the base of roadways being the cost of laying it in Plainfield would be materially reduced. The difference between the cost of Hassam pavement and other systems, he said, would yield interest enough to pay for all repairs. Mr. Keenan said 370,000 square yards of the pavement was laid last year.

Mayor Smalley, he, with Councilman Herbert Burton, of this city, spent two days last week looking over Hassam paving work in New England cities. He spoke in favor of it. He referred to its natural interest in the system, to his connection with the street business, but emphasized the security of his conviction that the concrete idea in paving was the best. Other workers, he said, knew that the mixture such as entered into the Hassam pavement, should make a quick and handsome roadway. He said pavement was good and cheap. He was so convinced of it that he would ask the Borough Council to block of it for test, with the rest of them.

OUTLINE THE

County May Get [illegible] of the Late Julian Scott at a Nominal Figure.

ONLY $1,000 FOR THREE

"Charge of Union Troops At Antietam," "All Quiet Along the Potomac" and "General Winfield Scott."

Three masterpieces, "Charge of the Union Troops at Antietam," "Winfield Scott" and "All Quiet Along the Potomac," from the brush of the late Col. Julian Scott, of this city, and now the property of the Drake Veteran Zouaves, Elizabeth, were offered to the Board of Freeholders at the May meeting Thursday for the sum of $1,000. The offer was made through a communication from Gen. J. Madison Drake. He said that the first named painting was valued at $10,000 and the last named one at $500. He recommended that the paintings be purchased by the freeholders for the county to be hung in the Court House. A committee comprising Freeholders C. A. Smith, Westfield, chairman; J. Hervey Doane, of Plainfield, and Adams, of Elizabeth, were appointed to consider the matter and report at the June meeting.

The Consumers' Aqueduct Company communicated with the board, stating that it had purchased 150 acres of land along the Rahway river near Rahway, for the purpose of building a reservoir, and it desired permission from the board to make the improvement, as it will necessitate the raising of the county bridge at that point. The matter was referred.

Upon the recommendation of the committee it was voted to appropriate $225 for the building of walks on the Division avenue bridge, Summit. Dr. Martin A. Shangle, of Elizabeth, was appointed prison physician at a salary of $1,200 a year. The report of the committee on roads was laid over for one month. The auditing committee reported that the books of the collector, Nathan R. Leavitt, had been examined and were found correct.

Upon the motion of Freeholder Jones a committee of three was appointed with power to consider the building of a new county line bridge at Berkeley Heights, Union and Somerset counties to stand the whole expense. Freeholder Krausse's motion that a committee of three be appointed to consider the building of a new bridge over Linden avenue, Roselle Borough, was adopted, as was also the motion of Freeholder Meisel that a committee of three be appointed to inspect the bridge at Springfield, with a view to covering it with stone arches. A similar motion by Freeholder Woodruff, which was adopted, called for the appointment of a committee of three to consider the building of a new bridge on Grant avenue, Roselle Park.

After the meeting the members of the Board were entertained at a plank shad dinner at the Burkeley Hotel, by Freeholder J. Logan Fay.

HOLD UP P.S.C'S BILL

Borough Council Not Satisfied that it Got Service Equivalent to Lighting Bill.

WON'T PAY CHARGES

Councilman Smith Wanted Fellow Members to Refuse to Honor Bill at All but Compromise Is Made.

The Public Service Corporation poor street lighting service in North Plainfield, came in for a severe hauling over the coals at the Borough Council meeting, Friday, and steps were taken to remind the McCarter concern that it must do better. A bill of $466 for street illumination last month was submitted but it brought a bunch of protests from the councilmen who declared that the lights had been unusually bad during April, especially in the Washington Park section.

"For an honest fact," said Mr. McGee, who lives over that way, "it has been so dark in my neighborhood recently I've been afraid to go out nights."

Mayor Smalley remarked that the trouble didn't affect him that way but he was positive the borough wasn't getting the service it was asked to pay for and he suggested taking $50 off the $466 bill to see if the P. S. C. wouldn't pay a little more attention to business.

"If a bill came to this council for any article or supplies," remarked the Mayor, "we would certainly hold it up if we found we were not getting what we ordered."

Councilman Smith, who is chairman of the light committee, asked that the whole bill be kept back in order that the lights out could be specified in notifying the Public Service. He stated that he had consulted with the local superintendent regarding the poor service and was informed that accidents at the power house the past month had been responsible for some of the trouble and that more of it was due to tree limbs short circuiting the wires. In behalf of this official, Mr. Smith asked permission to do some trimming of trees but the question was raised as to whether this would be advisable. Mayor Smalley remarked that if the company was allowed to do it, the borough would have to employ someone to follow the men around and see that they did it right.

Councilman Smith continued to argue for holding up the entire bill, however, and finally won out. The committee was directed to be notified to cut off $50 and at the same time will frame up something to show the Public Service that the borough is little but can wave the "big stick" with the rest of them.

STEEL MATERIAL BIDS

Watchung Stone Co.'s Figures Lowest For Crushed Stone, Crosswalks and Curbing.

MUCH RIVALRY SHOWN

J. Y. Wilson and N. B. Smalley Also Compete for Work—The Bids In Detail As Submitted.

Bids were received at a meeting of the Councilmanic street committee Thursday for furnishing crushed stone, crosswalks and curbing, and the Watchung Stone Company submitted the lowest figures for crushed stone, as well as crosswalks and curbing, their bid being even lower than when they were first received a few weeks ago. At that time the company was $1,000 lower than the bid submitted by Smalley Brothers, the other chief bidder. In presenting his bid last night, N. B. Smalley submitted one for weathered stone. It is said that this kind of material will not be considered.

Three bids were received for crushed stone and two for crosswalks and curbing. The figures for crushed stone are as follows:

J. Y. Wilson, fine screenings, $1.20; ½ inch, $1.20; 1½ inch, $1.10; 2½ inch, $1.10.

N. B. Smalley, blue stone, fine screenings, $1.04; ¾ inch, $1.04; 1½ inch, $1.04; 2 inch, 94 cents; 2½ inch, 94 cents. Weathered stone, fine screenings, 90 cents; 3 1-3 inch, 90 cents; 1½ inch, 90 cents; 2 inch, 90 cents; 2½ inch, 80 cents.

Watchung Stone Company, fine screenings, 99 cents; ½ inch, 97 cents; 1½ inch, 85 cents; 2½ inch, 80 cents.

The bids for the other materials follow:

Andrew Roach, Hudson River stone, crosswalk stone, 24 inches, 82 cents; cover stone, 29 cents; curb 4x16 inches, 48 cents; 4x20, 55 cents; Pennsylvania gray stone, crosswalk stone, 24 inches, 68 cents; cover stone, 29 cents; curb 4x16 inches, 40 cents; 4x20, 47 cents. Watchung Stone Company, crosswalk stone, 24 inches, 75 cents; cover stone, 28 cents; curb 4x16 inches, 48 cents; 4x20 inches, 56 cents; crosswalk stone, 30 inches, 90 cents.

At the meeting of the Common Council the chairman of the street committee will make a report and the contract will be awarded, presumably to the lowest bidder, provided everything is found to be in accordance with the regulations governing such matters.

The committee has instructed Street Commissioner Gavett to look after the serving of notices upon property-owners, asking them to repair sidewalks and curbing and other minor details concerning street work were discussed.

S. I. FERRY CO. REFUSES TO REDUCE ITS FARES

FREEHOLDERS' COMMITTEE MEETS WITH NO SUCCESS AT CONFERENCE.

A special committee of the Union County Board of Freeholders reported Thursday that it had been unable to induce the officials of the New Jersey and Staten Island Ferry Company to reduce its rates for ferriage across the Staten Island Sound, from the foot of Livingston street, in Elizabeth. The chairman of the committee informed the board that F. H. Innes, counsel for the company, and its superintendent, J. H. Sims, had positively declared that the company was about to enlarge its slips and ferryhouse in Elizabeth and Staten Island. Mr. Sims also informed the committee that, although the regular fare was five cents, the company six months ago made concessions to daily patrons in the form of a fifteen-trip ticket, sold for fifty cents.

To the surprise of the freeholders, Mr. Innes insisted that the business had never paid. When it was suggested that a larger boat be used, Mr. Innes urged the fact that the sound was so narrow at this point that it would be difficult to manage a vessel larger.

The freeholders still favor a flat rate of three cents, and will hold another conference with the company's representatives.

A Fine Monument.

The Ithaca Daily Journal says: "A very handsome as well as durable monument is being placed on the family plot of Frank and George Hartz in Lake View cemetery, by L. L. Manning & Son, of Plainfield, N. J. It is a sarcophagus of Quincy granite and is seven feet high. It has two bases, with a cap and weighs twelve tons. A fine ivy leaf is carved on the four sides and on the second base in relief, is carved the name "Hartz" with the inscriptions on the other. On the cap is engraved the family monogram and when completed it will be one of the most attractive yet turned out by Manning & Son." Mr. Harty is a brother-in-law of S. T. Barson, of Watchung avenue, Plainfield.

STEEPLECHASE PROGRAM

About four miles over a fair hunting country.

The race committee is comprised of C. E. S. Bellows, Dr. M. O'Malley Knott and Lewis E. Waring. The stewards of the meeting are Charles Pfizer, Lewis G. Young, H. L. Herbert, P. F. Collier and Julian M. Gerard.

VIEWS OF ROAD BUILDER

David Bowden Says That Brick is Preferable to Concrete For Paving.

HE GIVES HIS REASONS

Street Foreman Points Out Advantages and Defects of Both, Based on Experience.

A side to the record of concrete paving not brought out at the meeting of the Board of Trade Thursday night was added to the permanent pavement question this morning by David Bowden, head of Street Commissioner Gavett's roadway force. Mr. Bowden has been a road builder all his life, and he is regarded as the most thoroughly trained and experienced road builder in the city.

Concrete pavement, Mr. Bowden said in a statement to The Daily Press, was not a new thing. It had been tried a score and more years ago in Europe, and found wanting. Three streets on which it was laid in Edinburgh, where he came from, were in his mind's eye particularly. Concrete was laid on them twenty-eight years ago, and the pavement was found wanting.

The mixture and method of laying were practically the same as in the pavement laid for the Board of Trade. The street was graded and rolled, and a base of 2½ inch whinstone, which is the same as trap rock, was laid and rolled on it. A 20-ton roller was used. The stone base was filled flush with a cement mixture of two parts sand and one part English Portland cement, the rolling going on all the time until every void was full. A top dressing of inch stone and grouting was rolled until the material was laid at a uniform grade and curvature. All the surplus grout was removed and a light coating of clean, gritty whinstone was rolled until the surface was perfectly smooth. The street was then shut off to traffic for six weeks.

The roadway presented a beautiful surface, and in looks it was all that could be asked. It was quite sanitary, and its good looks continued for a considerable time. But its weakness was demonstrated after a time where heavy traffic went over it. Wherever the traffic was heavy it wore into deep ruts. Composed of small particles in unyielding formation, the surface of the road gave out under the friction of vehicle tires. This, Mr. Bowden said, would occur with any cement roadway.

The Edinburgh streets were rutted in three years. When the repairs were made, the surface was cut down fifteen inches and the same mixture was filled down. The streets were shut off from traffic for six weeks. For all that careful proceedure, there was a general breaking up and pulverizing within six months. Within eighteen months the ruts were as bad as ever.

Cement roads, Mr. Bowden said, could not be practically repaired to become durable. It was utterly impossible to make old and new cement to adhere in perfect bond.

LAWSON OFFERS A CUP

Noisy Boston Financier Adds to List of Prizes for the Plainfield Horse Show.

STILL ANOTHER PRIZE

Official Blue Book Challenge Cup Valued at $250—Complete Prize List About Ready.

In addition to the many valuable prizes to be awarded at the annual horse show of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club at the handsome show grounds, Woodland avenue and Randolph road, June 6, 7 and 8, unusual interest will be manifested in the announcement that Thomas W. Lawson, the well-known Boston financier, has offered a challenge cup, valued at $250, for pairs, shown to demi-mail or Stanhope phaeton. This will be what is known as the amateur class for horses to be driven and not driven. Dealers and professionals will be barred. The cup must be won twice before becoming the property of the winner.

Another event which will be of equal interest will be the competition for the Official Blue Book Show Horse Book challenge cup, valued at $250, for single horses shown to an appropriate two or four wheeled vehicle, owners to drive. This is also for the amateur class and dealers and professionals will be barred. The cup must be won twice before it becomes the property of the winner.

The horse show committee is busily at work arranging the details for the show, which promises to exceed previous ones. It is expected that the prize list will be out within the next two weeks. The entry list it is believed will be fully as large if not larger than that of last year.

Miss Ella Serrell, of Plainfield avenue, has recovered from a recent illness.

GARBAGE DISPOSAL COST

Estimated That at Trifling Addition to Tax Budget Improvement Can be Made.

ENTIRE EXPENSE $12,000

This Will Include Removal of Ashes —Tax Only Three-quarters of a Mill On the Hundred.

Pursuing the investigation of a sanitary garbage disposal system, which has been going on for some months, several of the city authorities will pay a visit to New Bedford, Mass., next Saturday for the purpose of inspecting the plant in operation in that place. The system in the Down East city is somewhat similar to the one in operation at Atlantic City in so far as the utilization process is concerned but it varies widely in other respects and is claimed to be vastly superior to them throughout the country.

A communication has been received by the authorities from the Board of Trade urging that a sanitary system of garbage and ash collection and disposal be inaugurated at the earliest feasible time. In the communication received from Secretary Edward F. Feickert the statement is made that the Board of Trade considers that the present unsanitary method is a reproach to the city and a menace to public health. To this the Board of Health seems to agree for it has biven its attention for a long time to have the present conditions remedied by Councilmanic action. The delay has been occasioned by a desire on the part of the authorities to make a complete investigation of the various methods throughout the country in regulating this work and not until the authorities are satisfied that they have hit upon the most economical and satisfactory scheme will the Common Council be called upon to act.

At the present time there are two general methods in vogue in disposing of garbage, one being the moderating process and the other and more preferable being the utilization plan. In both Atlantic City, where the proper authorities have investigated the conditions, and in New Bedford the latter system prevails in use, but there is a marked difference in the workings. In Atlantic City the garbage is utilized by obtaining oil from it while at New Bedford soap grease is gotten out of the waste stuff. The latter moderating system is somewhat antiquated.

It is estimated that the addition to the tax rate by the introduction of municipal collection of both garbage and ashes will be trifling here. Reliable statistics gathered by the proper authorities show that approximately three-quarters of a mill on the hundred will be necessary to do the work in a completely satisfactory manner. The figures gathered by the city reveal that the work can be done for about $12,000 a year and those by independent estimators at about $12,500. As can be readily seen this would mean a great saving as the present unsanitary method costs the residents a vastly greater sum all told. In Atlantic City, whose population is many times that of Plainfield, the cost of disposing of garbage alone is $39,000, which sum goes to the contractor.

It is more than probable that before the end of the year some very satisfactory proposition will be hit upon by the city authorities, and in the meantime the investigation will go on apace.

MEETING IN INTEREST OF MISS CURRY'S WORK.

At the Home of Mrs. George A. Chapman She Tells of Her Labors.

An enthusiastic, but not largely attended parlor meeting was held at the home of Mrs. George A. Chapman, of Stelle avenue, Thursday afternoon in the interest of The Little Missionary Day Nursery, New York, and the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, of which Miss Sara Curry is the manager. Miss Curry was accompanied by four children from the nursery, who sang and recited for the audience.

Miss Curry also spoke, telling briefly of the increasing interest and attendance and far-reaching influence of the New York nursery. She then told the method of conducting it, which is similar to that employed at the local day nursery on West Fourth street under the auspices of the City Union, of the King's Daughters. Reference was made also to the Neckar Orphan Home, where a new addition has been built to permit the admission of many additional New York children this summer. The meeting was planned for by Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, who is president of the fresh air association, and it aroused substantial support for the work. Other similar meetings will probably be held soon.

There are some points which are essential in the nursery. It should be light and cheerful, with plenty of sun and well ventilated. The floor should be a hardwood one, and if that is too expensive have the floor painted. Rugs are better than carpet, because they can be taken up often and thoroughly cleaned.

ST. GABRIEL'S PUPILS HOLD ANNUAL RECITAL.

Large Gathering of Parents and Friends Enjoy Programme of Merit.

The pupils of St. Gabriel's Academy gave their annual piano recital and accompanying exercises before a large audience of parents and friends at the Park Club, Thursday afternoon. The programme was lengthy but every number was cleverly given and was greatly enjoyed by the attendance. A feature was a recitation by little Miss Valentine Coombs, barely more than five years old, who recited perfectly a little piece, "Don't." The majority of the instrumental numbers showed no small degree of skill while the vocal solos and duets were greatly appreciated.

Those who took part in various ways were the Misses Anna Pedefous, Mary McCullough, Jennie Dineen, Anna Horan, Henrietta Pedefous, Marie Tobin, Valentina Coombs, Marjorie Burtis, Marguerite Wilbee, Katherine Moynihan, Adelaide Stiglitz, Clara Smith, Nora Meany, Marguerite Windham, Mary Christine Texier, Sadie Lee, Helen Leitheusser, Marcella Vooz, Irene Hearn, Adelaide Stiglitz, Dorothy Smith, Frances LaPorte, Marguerite Walsh and Marie Sullivan; Masters Edmund Keaney, Charles Hannis, Frederick Coombs and Alfred Seidel. Miss Anna Pedefous, Miss Mary McCullough and Miss Marcella Vooz acted as accompanists for the songs and choruses.

His Specialty.

"Do you find it difficult to pursue a train of thought?" quizzed an inquisitive party.

"I never had occasion to try it," replied the newspaper humorist. "You see, I'm a commuter, and it keeps me busy pursuing railway trains."—Detroit Tribune.

PERMANENT PAVE TALK

Borough Mayor Gives His Views at City Council's Public Hearing.

WOOLSTON APPEARS TOO

Representatives of Plainfield Board of Trade Hear Ideas of Citizens on Plan to Use Vitrified Brick.

There was not the expression of opinion for or against the proposed plan to pave the business streets with vitrified brick, at the May meeting of the Common Council, Monday, as was expected. Mr. Gingo, chairman of the street committee, that the regular order of business was suspended to allow any one an opportunity to speak on the subject.

Mayor Newton B. Smalley of North Plainfield, who was appointed a member of the committee from the Board of Trade, to attend the meeting, was the principal speaker. He said that personally has was no interested to any great extent in Plainfield property, but from an distant view he believed that the sum of $50,000 a year one to start with on particular kind of pavement, such as brick, and he thought it to be against the best interest of the citizens of the city to do so. There are other pavements just as good and less expensive than brick.

The Mayor said that some of the streets proposed in the ordinance have a good telford foundation and it would be unnecessary to place a brick pavement on top of it. The use of one kind of pavement he declared to be a mistake. Referring to Park avenue as a narrow thoroughfare, he declared that the noise from brick pavement there would be as much of a detriment as dust. North avenue could be fixed more easily as not over four inches would have to come off the top. He added that many large cities are adopting various kinds of pavement and Plainfield should be able to profit by it.

In referring to the brick pavement on Watchung avenue, Mr. Smalley said that there is not a street in town where the traffic is as slow as on that avenue, between North avenue and Second street, and that while the brick had been in there only a year the brick had shown considerable wear at that. In his opinion the adoption of brick exclusively would be a serious mistake.

L. W. Woolston, also a member of the Board of Trade committee, chosen to attend the meeting, said that he favored no special pavement, but urged that some system be adopted. He was perfectly willing to leave the matter to the judgment of the Common Council. F. A. Dubois, a third member of the committee, was present, but did not speak.

In connection with this public hearing on the permanent pavement ordinance another one was granted on the ordinance to macadamize certain streets, but no one appeared to speak for or against this matter.

CONTINENTAL CHAPTER, D. A. R., RAISING FUND.

Programme for Entertainment on Next Tuesday an Unusually Good One.

The committee in charge is arranging an attractive programme for the colonial tea to be held Tuesday afternoon, May 14, at the Park Club, under the auspices of Continental Chapter, D. A. R. The affair will be held for the purpose of completing the fund for a monument at Washington Rock, which will appeal to all patriotic citizens of Plainfield and North Plainfield.

Among those who will take part in the entertainment are Miss Lemuel W. Serrell, who will give a monologue. Miss Serrell has won laurels in New York as a member of the Comedy Club. Miss Caroline Minturn Hall will contribute a French recitation and it is expected that Mrs. Donald McLean, national president of the D. A. R., and Miss Ellen Mecum, State Regent, will be present and make brief addresses. Miss Susan Hubbell will sing and Mrs. Albert Hoffman Atterbury and Miss Susan Corey will give a duet on the piano. Miss Anna May Campbell will give whistling solos, with piano accompaniment by Miss Margaret Leal. An especially interesting feature will be three solos by Miss Helen Stevens, accompanied by Miss Davis.

As the entertainment is in commemoration of the Settlement of Jamestown, this fact will be emphasized in the programme and it is expected that Pocahontas will appear on the platform. The women of the chapter will wear colonial costume. Tea will be served.

Editorial Association Convention.

The members of the New Jersey Editorial Association and their friends will hold their first annual meeting June 13-17 at the Hotel Passaic, Long Branch, which will be by special invitation of the Board of Trade of that city. The committee of arrangements comprises Charles L. Edwards, Alex. E. Morse, W. H. R. Mason and O. S. Freeman.

Miss Soper Surprised.

In honor of Miss Mildred Soper, of South Plainfield, a surprise party was given at her home Friday night, it being the nineteenth anniversary of her birthday.

DR. VANCE TO BE ORATOR

Board of Education Selects Noted Newark Divine for Commencement Day.

ORCHESTRA ENGAGED

Common Council Will Have to Appropriate $71,000 for School Expenses for the Current Year.

Details relating to the annual commencement exercises of the Plainfield Public High School to be held in June, occupied the attention of the Board of Education at the May meeting Monday. Dr. J. B. Probasco, president of the board, reported that the First Baptist church will be available, as usual, and it was also stated that the speaker for the occasion will be Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, pastor of the North Reformed church, Newark. He is a scholarly divine and possesses exceptional ability as an orator. Clerk F. B. Clark stated that the usual orchestra had been engaged for the occasion.

L. N. Lovell, for the finance committee, offered a resolution, which was adopted, authorizing the secretary to inform the board of School Estimate that the public schools will require $71,000 for the coming year, exclusive of State school tax. The specified amount, together with the State school tax available, already assured, will cover every expense, including teachers' increase in salary. It was stated that the Board of Education has nothing dependent on the decision of the court as to the railroad tax, $71,000 is $2,000 less than last year's demands, the State tax available by the board to reduce the amount. The local school tax rate will be 34 points.

Medical Inspectors VanHorn and Tomlinson reported that during the past month they had examined 561 pupils, and in this connection Dr. Probasco asked Dr. Maxson if any scarlet fever cases among the children had been reported. He replied that there were a number of cases of the disease during the past two months. Dr. Maxson stated that he had received only eight contagious disease cards since September, indicating that all cases had not been reported as required by law.

RECEPTION TENDERED REV. AND MRS. WARNER

CHARMING AFFAIR ARRANGED AND CONDUCTED BY WOMEN'S GUILD.

The members of the Church of the Holy Cross tendered a reception to Rector and Mrs. George A. Warner, whose marriage was recently celebrated at Orange, in the parish house, Monday. It was conducted by The Ladies' Guild and was attended by from 150 to 200 friends of Rev. the Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, and Dr. E. M. Rodman, rector-emeritus, were among those present.

The main room of the house was made cosy and inviting by the tasteful arrangement of cherry blossoms, palms and other decorations in the corners and on tables. Mr. and Mrs. Warner were assisted in receiving by Senior Warden Dr. Carman and Junior Warden Charles L. Nichols. For the first hour of the gathering the time was passed in an informal way, after which refreshments were served by the Women's Guild. During this period several vocal solos were rendered by Frederick J. Pope, a member of the church choir, Mrs. Frederick Harrington acting as accompanist.

The reception was arranged and directly in charge of the executive committee of the Guild, composed of Mrs. J. O. Stevens, chairman; Mrs. Samuel Townsend, Mrs. Frederick Harrington, Mrs. Irene Murray, Miss Nettie Davis and Miss Florence Stevens.

MODES OF THE MOMENT.

Ecru and silver, with a line of dark blue running through it, is one of the new wool voile designs.

The question of the neck ruff has been until recently a debatable one, but now it is certain that they will be even more in fashion than they were last year.

The fashionable colors for gloves are tan, champagne, gray, all the leather shades. Black and white are never really "out," so they will be worn but are not the rigueur even for evening, in which the palest of champagne tints is reserved.

Jabots are strong features of the neckwear styles and come in many attractive forms, the prevailing length being about five inches. Some of these are slashed up the center with a contrasting material inserted, others are pointed in the center, and still others are fan shaped.—New York Post.

NUGGETS.

COMMISSIONERS NAMED

Mayor Appoints Messrs. Meeker, Wilburn and Macdonald as Sewer Commissioners.

There was an almost endless number of petitions at the May meeting of the Common Council, Monday, taking up a large part of the members' time. Residents of Martine, Edgewood and Kensington avenues asked for four electric lights and a fire hydrant. F. W. Gray, of Hillside avenue, asked for permission to move a building on his farm 250 feet. Residents of Randolph road asked for two fire hydrants on that thoroughfare, and 35 property petitioned for permission to remove an iron pipe awning from North avenue to the front of his property at 226 Richmond street. The Town Improvement Association of Plainfield and North Plainfield offered to keep the city park in a clean and good condition until November 30 for the sum of $200. All of these petitions were referred to the fire and building committee, and later upon a resolution offered by Mr. Tolles the last named request was granted.

A communication from Thomas Burke and Michael Walsh, teamsters, stating that owing to the increased license fee they would be obliged to charge the city fifty cents more a day for their teams, was referred to the street committee. The request of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., for an appropriation for Memorial Day, was referred to the finance committee. Later Mr. Tolles offered a resolution, which was adopted, appropriating the sum of $100.

V. W. Nash, Sr., of Prospect avenue, petitioned the Common Council for permission to purchase certain properties on that avenue upon the payment of the amount due in taxes, provided secured equity in the same. The matter was referred to the street committee with power.

A petition for two electric lights on Randolph road was referred to the light and treet committee, and another petition from Muhlenberg Hospital and others asking that the property at Randolph road and Park avenue be rounded off and laid out in a park, the owners to donate the land and the city to do the work without any assessment on the owners, and another petition from the same parties asking that Randolph road, between Park and Woodland avenues, be widened, were referred to the street committee.

The Board of Trade in a communication asked the Common Council to erect an arc light on West Front street, between Park and Central avenues, one on Watchung avenue, between East Front street and North avenue, and another on Park avenue, between Front street and North avenue. The matter was referred to the light committee.

The Public Service Corporation informed the Common Council that two electric lights, as ordered, have been located on West Eighth street.

Mayor Fisk appointed R. A. Meeker, S. P. T. Wilbur and Harry B. MacDonald sewer commissioners to assess benefits and damages, Mr. MacDonald taking the place of John W. Murray, Jr., resigned. Mr. Ginna offered a resolution, which was adopted, confirming the appointments. Mr. Tyler interposed an objection on the ground that it had not been considered by the street committee and he wanted it referred back to the committee. His motion was not seconded.

Later in the evening the matter of levying assessments for benefits and damages by reason of the sewer work performed by Callahan & Chamberlain was referred to the commission. The cost of this work is $10,867.29 and is to be met in the usual way.

Mayor Fisk presented the request of the Board of Trade that the city take up the question of the disposal of ashes and garbage and urged that the investigation of the subject be completed. The matter was referred to the public affairs committee.

The bond of Tax Collector J. W. Murray, Jr., referred back for correction, was returned to the Common Council by Corporation Counsel Marsh and filed. Building Inspector T. O. Doane reported the granting of thirty-four permits during the month and Street Commissioner Gavett reported that thirty-four sewer permits were granted from February 1 to April 30. Horace G. Adams, clerk of the district court, reported receipts for the past month to be $142.74, disbursements $56.09 and a balance of $86.65.

Mr. Tolles moved that when Council adjourn it be to meet on Wednesday night, May 15, and the motion was adopted. He also offered a resolution, which was adopted, transferring $2,000 from the general fund to the light fund.

Mr. Hibbard, chairman of the light committee, presented a resolution that the Public Service Corporation be requested to submit a corrected bill, allowing for lights out and reduced candle power, for action at the adjourned meeting on May 15, and the same was adopted.

On motion of Mr. Tolles the tax ordinance was adopted on third reading, a similar motion by Mr. Glosk... amendment to the ordinance fixing the salary of the city physician at $500 was adopted on third reading, Mr. Tyler voting against the amendment.

and sufficient diet for travelers, and to give bond to find and provide good, wholesome and sufficient lodging, diet and entertainment.

Must Be Properly Equipped.

"These provisions of our statute indicate clearly that when the Legislature exempted inns, taverns and hotels with ten spare bedrooms from the regulation of the act of 1906, it meant only such places as were properly equipped for the entertainment of the traveling public. The keeper of an inn, tavern or hotel is not exempt merely because he has a license to keep an inn or tavern. He must, in fact, keep a place for the entertainment of travelers, to which they may go with a reasonable expectation of being furnished with sufficient food and lodging, and instead of the ordinary requirement of ten beds required for license, the place, to be exempt from the provisions of the act of 1906, must have at least ten spare rooms and beds for the accommodation of boarders, transients and travelers. The Legislature probably thought that an inn and tavern or hotel having ten spare rooms, might properly be served with drinks in their own rooms, and therefore did not limit the right to sell to a single room exposed to view from the public street.

Elizabeth's Tippling Places.

"I am told that there are many places in the city of Elizabeth licensed as inns and taverns not kept as such, but as mere tippling places. Such places are not exempt from the provisions of the act. If the Board of Excise has not directed that they be open to full view from the public street on Sundays, Election Day and other days when liquor is prohibited to be sold, it should do so at once. If the Board of Excise has given the direction required by the statute, and anyone not exempted has failed to comply with the order, he should be indicted for keeping a disorderly house. I assume that if the Board of Excise has failed to give the direction required by the statute, it has done so innocently through misunderstanding of the law and not wilfully. If it has failed wilfully the members are liable to indictment for failure to perform a public duty.

The Thorn Case.

"There is another matter of such a serious nature as to require special mention. In March last James Thorn was shot and killed by George Hollins. Thorn was at the time assisting Christian Hollins, who was employed by Hollins' mother to care for her furnace and removing ashes. The time was between 5 and 6 o'clock in the morning, and therefore, at that season of the year, in the night time. Hollins' excuse is that he thought the two men were engaged in a burglary. If they had actually been engaged in a burglary Hollins would have been justified, and no crime would have been committed. In fact, however, his act in shooting was unlawful, and the crime of homicide was a crime. Whether it was murder or manslaughter depends on whether the situation would have led a reasonable man exercising due caution to believe that the two men, Thorn and Buckley, were engaged in a burglary, and to act on a sudden impulse and without reflection. If so, the crime is manslaughter only.

Shooting of Bennett.

"There is still another matter to which I must direct your attention. "One J. A. Bennett was shot in the back and dangerously wounded. The shot is said to have been fired by one Joseph Buckley. Bennett, I am informed, is likely to recover. If the facts appear before you as I have stated them, Buckley is indictable for an atrocious assault and battery. Before finding an indictment for that offense, it would be well for you to be assured that Bennett will recover, for if death results the indictment must be for a more serious offense.

"Buckley may, however, be guilty of another offense for which an immediate indictment would be proper. By an act of 1905 any person who carries a revolver, pistol or other deadly weapon of the form concealed in or about his clothes or person is guilty of misdemeanor, unless he has a permit from the Mayor of the city in which he resides or the governing body of a municipality not having a mayor, if he resides in such a municipality. If the evidence leads you to believe that Buckley was carrying a dangerous weapon concealed in or about his clothes or person without a permit, he is liable to indictment. The language of the statute is so broad that it seems plain enough, and but for a suggestion made to me in another county, I should think it unnecessary to say more, but in view of that suggestion I ought to say that you would be justified in believing the weapon to have been concealed if shortly before its use the accused did not appear openly to have such a weapon. Whether it had been concealed in an interference which you may draw from the facts of the case. This statute is obviously one of great importance, and its strict enforcement will do much to preserve the public peace and prevent crimes of violence."

PAPER IN THE STREET

ORDINANCE TO PREVENT NUISANCE PASSED ON 2D READING.

Following up the efforts of the Mayor in the matter, as well as the request of the Plainfield Mothers' Association in which the members asked that action be taken to prohibit the distribution of circulars, papers, cards, etc., other than those subscribed for by residents, about the streets, in yards and alley-ways, Mr. Tyler offered an ordinance at the May meeting of the Common Council, Monday, which imposes a penalty for violations of the same. The ordinance was drafted at the request of Mayor Fisk and sent to the meeting for the purpose of immediate adoption.

The ordinance provides for a fine not to exceed $20 in each of three violations—the distributing and strewing of cards, papers and pamphlets in the streets and yards, for dumping refuse and other matter liable to decay in vacant lots and for sweeping papers, boxes, etc., on the street or sidewalk. The ordinance was adopted on first and second readings and ordered advertised.

Only a few days ago the Mayor issued a circular letter which was sent to each house in the city, as well as the public schools, requesting that extra care be exercised in this matter, and he stated that the response had been quite general in favor of the movement.

DEATH CALLS AGED ACTOR

Curtain Falls on Life of Edwin Phillips, Known to the Stage as Edwin Varrey.

ILLNESS WAS BRIEF

Professional People Regarded Him As One of the Most Finished Players of the Old School.

Edwin Phillips, who was known in the theatrical world as "Edwin Varrey," and considered one of the most talented actors of the old school, died Saturday afternoon at his home in Washington Valley, following an illness of two days. During the summer of 1905, just after his last engagement at the Lyric theatre, New York, with Ada Rehan and Otis Skinner, in a revival of Shakespearean plays, he was taken seriously ill and his life was despaired of for a long time. However, he partially recovered and was able to go about, enjoying fairly good health, until last Thursday, when he was suddenly taken ill. Death was due to Bright's disease, from which he suffered for years.

Mr. Phillips was born in New York city eighty-one years ago and was graduated from Columbia College in the class of '42. Early in life he displayed exceptional talent in acting and after leaving college decided upon following a theatrical career. He was particularly bright as a student of the languages and stood high as a Greek, French and Italian scholar, and he maintained his interest in these studies until his demise.

One of his early appearances of note was with Laura Keene, who played "The American Cousin," at the old Chatham theatre, New York. An incident in his life which he never forgot to mention to friends was when he appeared in this play at Ford's theatre, Washington, the night Lincoln was shot.

During his career of fifty-seven years on the stage he played all over this country and Europe, appearing with such well-known stars as Edwin Booth, Edwin Forest, Wilson Barrett and Lester Wallack, and in more recent years with Joseph Jefferson in "Rip VanWinkle," in which play he took the part of "Nicholas Vedder." He was with Jefferson in all just twenty-five years. His last public appearance with Ada Rehan at the Lyric theatre, New York, was notable for the great success in the revival of Shakespearean plays. The comments of the Metropolitan press at that time regarding Mr. Phillips were very flattering.

In 1895 he went to England with Ada Rehan and appeared with her in "As You Like It," in the Shakespearian theatre at Stratford-on-Avon. Following his last appearance on the stage he fully intended to return to it the next fall, having made arrangements to join E. H. Sothern's company in a leading part, but the death of his wife in April 1905, together with his illness, changed his plans. Later he received a flattering offer to join Mrs. Gilbert's company in "Granny," but this he had to decline also.

Mr. Phillips resided at the place where he died for forty-five years, and although away from home much of the time, he was always glad to spend his summers on his farm.

He is survived by four sons, Leo, Henry S., Hubert P. and Arthur R. Phillips, and five daughters, the Misses Mary S., Lucy, Celia, Perth and Edna Phillips.

TRINITY'S FINANCES.

Annual Statement Shows Church to Be In Excellent Condition.

Robert M. Clark, Jr., as chairman of the finance committee of Trinity Reformed church, presented the annual statement of finances at the morning services Sunday. It showed the church to be in excellent financial condition, which is very gratifying to all. The report is up to April 1, last, and the balance at that time was $1,962.10 with all bills paid.

The receipts for the year were $5,224.87 and the expenditures $5,180.37. The contributions for benevolent purposes amounted to $383.30.

A summary of the financial reports of all societies of the church shows that $1,962.75 was raised for denominational benevolence, $653.15 for other benevolences and $5,899.60 for congregational purposes. These figures include the contributions from Marcontier chapel.

The total amount raised for all purposes during 1907 was $8,559.48 and that raised for all purposes during 1906 was $7,870.23, an increase of $789.25.

UNWRITTEN LAW SCORED BY LOCAL PASTOR

FLAYS SO-CALLED "HONOR CODE" IN SERMON AT ORANGE.

Rev. A. C. Nickerson, pastor of All Soul's church, this city, preached Sunday morning on "The Unwritten Law," in the First Unitarian church, Orange, and also had something to say regarding the recent Thaw trial.

"We are living in a time," said Mr. Nickerson, "when individualism is running riot in the assertion that every man has a right which the individual is bound to respect. But, respect for the rights of others is the initial beginning of all society. The other way soon ran fast toward chaos and the dark. A man cannot take a partner in any business; a man cannot marry a wife, unless he is ready to consider the running mate, to abridge something of his own pretensions in adherence of mutual purpose or yield will. The law of co-operation, of deference, of consultation, would not exist if it were permissible for a man to think only of himself, to act unrestrainedly, to defy others.

"Many men feel called upon in our day to justify themselves, and so talk about the 'unwritten law.' There is no such thing! Law always takes to itself a body. Until it is outlined for the people's reading, no principle or sentiment has become a law. Our land needs, and all other ages its strife today to legal traitors, men who know the law, and defy it, with the weak excuse of 'the unwritten law.'

"What so them is 'the unwritten law?' Is it one which they hope to see later on our statute books, like the proposed legislation in behalf of minors, or abused children, or sweat-shop slaves, or sanitary regulations, or educational safeguards? If there were any unwritten law it would be something like this."

The minister also referred in his sermon to the arrest of many brigands who take the law into their own hands, and also denounced Thaw without citing him by name. The men who make an alleged "wounded personal honor" an excuse for murder were also denounced.

PARK CLUB COTILLION ENJOYED BY MANY GUESTS.

Saturday Night's Affair Proved to Be One of the Most Delightful of the Season.

More than one hundred guests attended the cotillion given at the Park Club, Saturday night, and it proved to be one of the most delightful social functions of the season. The decorations were perhaps the most elaborate yet seen at the club. The entire stage was banked with flowers, an effective arrangement being the use of a cherry tree loaded with blossoms, placed in the centre of the stage, behind which numberless incandescent lights were to be seen.

Harry L. McGee led the cotillion alone. There were three favor figures, each one being original. Dancing was enjoyed from 8:30 until 12, with an intermission during which refreshments were served. The affair was under the direction of the entertainment committee of the club, of which Mrs. Charles A. Reed is the chairman.

MISS KAHLE INTRODUCED.

Meets Plainfield Society at Delightful Tea Saturday Afternoon.

In honor of Miss Kahle, of Staten Island, the fiancee of Clarence Peck, formerly of the borough, but now of Washington, his mother, Mrs. James Clarence Peck, gave a delightful tea at her home on Myrtle avenue, Saturday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock, for the purpose of introducing Miss Kahle to Plainfield society. The home was simply, but effectively decorated for the occasion.

Mrs. Peck, Miss Kahle and the latter's mother, Mrs. Kahle, received, assisted by Mrs. George T. Rogers and Mrs. Robert W. McCutcheon. A large number of young society women of the city and borough assisted in the dining room. The tea was largely attended, including a number of out-of-town guests.

COUNTRY CLUB

Active Season Opened Course Was Inaugurated Saturday Afternoon.

A LARGE FIELD OUT

Competition Play at the Park Club Links Again Postponed One Week.

The Plainfield Country Club had an auspicious opening of the active season on Saturday, and there was a large field out during the day. The clearing weather in the afternoon attracted a host of members and friends to the course. A brisk wind blowing over the course prevented low scoring, and besides it was the first time a number had played this season. The course was in excellent condition, the greens being especially good considering the bad weather.

The social features at the clubhouse were greatly enjoyed, although no special programme was prepared. The first tea of the season, which will mark the opening of the social season, will be held on Saturday afternoon, May 18. After that social functions will follow each week.

In the commencement of play on the course, Saturday, there were competitions for the Opening Day, Golf Committee and Green Committee cups, Classes A and B. Those in Class A are for players with handicaps of 14 and under, and those in Class B for players with handicaps of 15 and over.

In Class A Howard W. Beebe won the Opening Day cup, besides scoring three points for the Golf Committee trophy, weekly competition. W. Lester Gilkyney and L. A. Chase divided the remaining honors, each receiving 1½ points. In Class B C. C. Burke, Sr., won the Opening Day cup with an 80; also scoring three points for the Green Committee cup, weekly competition. G. E. Cathcart won two points and C. C. Burke, Jr., 1 point, the all three qualified for the May Cup competition.

These scores were returned:

Class A—Howard W. Beebee, 92, 10—82; W. L. Gleuney, 85, 0—85; L. A. Chase, 94, 9—85; J. Whitney Baker, 96, 10—86; Frank O. Reinhart, 86, 6—86; C. B. Morgan, 89, 2—87; J. A. Lane, 101, 12—89; Charles A. Stover, 98, 8—90; Henry D. Hibbard, 104, 6—98.

Class B—C. C. Burke, Sr., 96, 16—80; E. N. Cathcart, 97, 17—92; C. C. Burke, Jr., 101, 18—93.

While the course and clubhouse at the Park Golf Club were open on Saturday, the active season was deferred one week, when there will be the initial play for the various cups. However a number of players were on the course Saturday and enjoyed general play.

Once more the Westfield Golf Club was obliged to postpone its opening on Saturday because of the condition of the course. In places it was almost inundated with water, making play impossible. Another attempt will be made on Saturday to start the competitions as scheduled.

AUTOMOBILE HITS AND WRECKS BUTCHER WAGON.

Boy Driver Left in State of Nervous Collapse by the Accident.

A delivery wagon owned by Herman Theis, a butcher, of Muhlenberg place, was struck and badly damaged by an automobile on West Fourth street, near Grant avenue, Saturday morning. Mr. Theis' son, Herman, who drove the wagon, was too excited to give the name of the auto driver, but the police say the car is owned by Edward M. VanBuren, Central avenue.

The chauffeur drove the car against the rear wheel of the wagon, in turning from the tracks to avoid a trolley car. The wagon was turned over on its side, and young Theis was pitched out. He was not hurt, beyond shock, but the accident has left him in a nervous state that may develop into serious illness.

The wagon was badly damaged. The horse was held by the wreck and could not run away. Mr. Theis telephoned an account of the accident to the police.

Additional Pensions Granted.

Congressman Ira W. Wood has received notice from the Hon. V. Warner, commissioner of pensions, Washington, D. C., that the following additional pensions have been granted in his district: John W. Weaver, Somerville, increase, $15 per month, under act of February 6, 1907; Peter L. Melick, Somerville, increase, $12 per month, under act of February 6, 1907; James H. Melick, Somerville, increase, $12 per month, under act of February 6, 1907; Job Coddington, Somerville, increase, $12 per month, under act of February 6, 1907; Enoch Streeter, Somerville, increase, $15 per month, under act of February 6, 1907; John D. Cranston, North Plainfield, original, $6 per month, under act of June 27, 1890.

Lecture on Lumber Camps.

Rev. Alexander T. Irvine, of New York, who has spoken here a number of times, will deliver a lecture on "Lumber Camps of the South," at the Y. M. C. A. next Sunday afternoon. The talk will be illustrated.

Y. M. C. A. EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE MEETING

CHANGE IN ORGANIZATION'S NAME SUGGESTED.

The executive committee of the Plainfield Protective Association held a meeting at the Casino Saturday night. Mayor Flak was present.

Plans for the year were discussed. It was generally agreed that the association could rest so far as lighting contracts for the municipality were concerned, and trust to the Council for settlement of this matter. The lighting committee reported that, conference being over, there was nothing further to do.

It was suggested that the name of the organization be changed to the Plainfield Protective and Improvement Association. It is the idea to have the body suggest improvements in local conditions, general as well as specific, in addition to protecting the people from abuses.

The question of permanent pavement was briefly discussed. It was decided to leave that matter entirely with the Council, which was in a position to choose and work for the best solution of the problem.

The secretary, G. J. Herbert Case, who finds it impossible to continue as treasurer, was discussed. It was decided to leave the choice to Presi*dent Depew.*

CELEBRATION FOR MRS. HOWE.

Mrs. Julia Ward Howe will celebrate her eighty-eighth birthday on May 27 in her home in Beacon street, Boston. There will be a large family gathering in honor of the event. Her daughter, Mrs. Maude Howe Elliott, and the latter's husband, John Elliott, will not be present as they have been in Italy for some months, where Mr. Elliott is working on his mural painting for the Smithsonian Institution of Washington. Mrs. Florence Howe Hall and family, of this city, have planned to attend.

F. Marion Crawford, the novelist, who is a nephew of Mrs. Howe, arrived in New York from Italy several weeks ago. He will go to Boston to attend the anniversary celebration, and will also visit his son, Harold Marion Crawford, who is soon to take his final examinations for Harvard.

John T. Pattinson's Funeral.

The funeral of John T. Pattinson, who died at Morristown, Wednesday, was held in All Saints' Episcopal church, Scotch Plains, Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock. It was conducted by Rev. William Milford, rector of the church, assisted by Rev. A. S. Phelps, of Bound Brook, and was attended by a large gathering of friends. Interment was made in the family plot in the Baptist cemetery.

Timbo Club Arranges Junket.

At a special meeting Saturday night, the Timbo Social Club voted to make Atlantic City the destination of its annual junket this year. The members and their friends will make the trip by special train on Sunday, June 23. For the past two years the club has had its outing at Lake Hopatcong.

C. E.'S SUMMER SCHOOL

Big Conference on Junior and Intermediate Methods to Be Held.

ASBURY PARK, AUG. 5-10

Splendid Programme Prepared by Mrs. L. Ida Dukes, of Camden—Her Corps of Assistants.

Junior and Intermediate Christian Endeavor work in New Jersey will receive much impetus through the *Summer School of Methods for Jun*ior and Intermediate Workers to be held at Asbury Park August 5-10 inclusive. The State superintendent of Junior work in the New Jersey C. E. Union, Mrs. L. Ida Dukes, of Camden, has arranged a programme the mere reading of which will arouse in workers for children's religious culture a desire to attend. Mrs. Dukes is a woman of rare ability in this field to which she devotes so much of her time. Not only has she that executive ability which makes a good leader, but she is a close student of the child. Giving much attention to phychology and environment, she at the same time keeps always to the fore the spiritual development of the boy and girl. She believes most heartily in the Christian Endeavor society as an adequate training school for those who are later to become the workers and leaders in the churches.

In her labors as State superintendent, Mrs. Duke has already done much to arouse enthusiasm for the Junior and intermediate work. The department has grown so rapidly under her direction that recently the executive committee of the State C. E. Union provided her with four associate workers. These, also, are women who have had experience in endeavor for the children, and Mrs. Dukes finds them able assistants. They are Mrs. A. R. Baxter, Trenton; Mrs. F. W. Miller, Newton; Miss Mae Hice, Fleminton; Mrs. G. D. Baker, Jersey City. The first three work particularly in the Junior field, while Mrs. Baker has charge of the Intermediate work.

Mrs. M. G. Kennedy, of Philadelphia, known all over the United States as a leader in Sunday-school work, will be the principal speaker at the summer school. Though she has passed "the three score years and ten," Mrs. Kennedy is no less helpful and inspiriting than in her younger days. She is a personal friend of Mrs. Dukes, and it is felt that her coming to New Jersey will be of practical value to the New Jersey Christian Endeavor workers. She will conduct a superintendents' training course, giving two lectures each day on "Fitting the Bible to the Child." Another important speaker will be Miss Katherine H. Dunn, the author of the Stanton books. She will lead in many Junior societies.

The tuition fee for the school of methods will be $2, and special rates will be obtained for board. It is hoped that every church in which there is a Junior society will send its Junior superintendent to this important gathering.

Amusing Oneself.

General Ogle, a member of the Pennsylvania Assembly, had been deputed to compose an address to the newly elected president, Andrew Jackson. When the old warrior submitted his document to the house, a fellow member, a short man of light build, from Philadelphia, observed:

"Pardon me, general, I hesitate about making any suggestion to so distinguished an individual, but I cannot refrain from saying that it is customary with cultured letter writers to write the first personal pronoun with a capital 'I' instead of a small 'i.'"

General Ogle returned a look of scorn. "Sir," said he, "when I write to so great a man as General Andrew Jackson, Democratic President of the United States, I abase myself—I abase myself, sir. I use as small an 'i' as I can put upon paper. But, sir, if ever I should have to write to a little snipe like you I would use an 'I,' sir, that would fill two pages of foolscap."

PITH AND POINT.

Never take any one's word when you can get it in contract.

Too many men when asked for an opinion try to decide in favor of all parties concerned.

Even the bartender has a poor opinion of the man who plays cards in the middle of the day.

CITY TREE COMMISSION

APPOINTMENT OF BARROWS, GAVETT AND ROBERTS IS CONFIRMED.

Mayor Charles J. Flak communicated with the Common Council at its May meeting, Monday, regarding the question of raising the salaries of the policemen and firemen. He stated that he had conferred with Corporation Counsel Marsh and the latter informed him that according to the law not more than one change during the year can be made in such salaries and that the Common Council is restrained from taking any further action until January 1, 1908. This disposes of a much-discussed question for this year at least.

The Mayor stated at this meeting took occasion to appoint a tree commission with full power to super*intend the setting out and care of* shade trees. Elliot T. Barrows is appointed for five years, Street Commissioner Andrew J. Gavett for two years and Miles Roberts for one year. The commissioners are to serve without compensation.

In moving that the appointments be confirmed, Mr. Montgomery remarked that the Mayor had made happy selections and that the city was to be congratulated upon securing the services of such men. The appointments were confirmed by a unanimous vote.

Mr. Roberts is the expert of the commission, having a thorough practical knowledge of trees. He is the author of a recent article in "Country Life in America" on the "Abandoned Farm Club," of which he is a member. Mr. Roberts is also in touch with the tree commission of New Haven and has followed the work for the preservation of the famous elms in that city.

HOTEL THIEF TAKES SWEENEY'S BEST CLOTHES.

Former Plainfielder Loses His London Made Outfit at Trenton.

William Rallston Sweeney, a former well known resident of this city, at present one of the members of the Trenton Battoir company, was the victim of a hotel thief a few days ago when one of those individuals secured a room next Mr. Sweeney in the Trenton House at Trenton and took advantage of Sweeney's absence and helped himself to one of the best suit of clothing in Sweeney's wardrobe, afterward departed without paying his hotel bill.

He registered at the Trenton House as Jules Rosenkrans and was given a room on the second floor. There was a communicating door to Sweeney's room and the fellow climbed out the window and into Sweeney's room, and when he had selected the desired suit, which was made in London, he went back the same way, the communicating door and fastened it on his own side and departed.

The man was evidently of Sweeney's build, for he left a suit of well worn clothing behind in place of the one selected. He also selected another coat and vest of London made clothing belonging to his neighbor, but he left no clothing in place of these. There were several other suits and clothing of all description in the room, but the fellow seemed to have a special attraction for London made clothing, for this is all that he took and left a cheap bowery New York suit in their stead.

Sweeney reported the loss Saturday when he returned from New York, where he has been for a few days. This was the first that the hotel employes had missed the man, and when the detectives were called in they discovered how easy it would be for a man to rob Sweeney's room in the manner in which it was done. The fellow was evidently a professional crook and was well on his way when the theft was discovered.

FACTS FROM FRANCE.

The Grand Opera House of Paris has a regular orchestra of 170 performers. This is the largest orchestra belonging to any theatre.

There are very few millionaires in France. Outside of Paris no one has died worth as much as $2,000,000 during the past two years.

There is now pending in the French chamber of deputies a bill abolishing courts martial in time of peace and providing that French soldiers and sailors accused of offenses shall be tried by civil tribunals like other citizens.

Often in France a man servant is employed to do housework, which in America generally is regarded as woman's work. He makes the beds, sweeps and cleans the rooms, goes to market, cooks and sometimes even does the washing.

France to clarify her wines uses 80,000,000 eggs a year.

France's importations of coal for 1906 exceeded those for 1905 by $16,000,000.

A French professor is the owner of a collection of 920 skin heads, representing every known race of people on the globe.

A Parisian newspaper usually has a director as well as an editor. The director lays down the political line which the organ is to follow.

In France the servant question has reached a very acute stage. In ten years the supply of women domestic servants has decreased by almost 200,000 individuals. "But," says a Frenchman, "though now fewer in numbers than formerly, those that remain to us are certainly greater in efficiency."

A SEARCHLIGHT.

Some Questions for Women to Ask Themselves.

Ask yourself these:

Am I too negative, too compliant? Do I not need to cultivate positiveness in my character?

Do I confuse foolish sentimentality with a strong, self respecting, ennobling affection?

Are my ideals so impracticable that they never enter into my actual life and beautify the real things around me?

Do I belittle myself with the petty idea that housework is degrading? Am I so blind that I cannot see that it is the character an dnot the scrubbing brush that sets the standard?

Have I tried to make my voice as musical as possible, and is my desire to look well a sincere wish to give pleasure to others?

Am I strong and courageous enough to remain single, rather than compromise in marriage by giving my trust to a man I cannot honestly admire and respect?

Do I try to keep myself alert and interesting by keeping in touch with the movements of the day and understanding them?

Not Too Long.

The chapel of a fishing village in Newfoundland used to depend for its services on the occasional help of the clergy of the nearest town. One wet Sunday the clergyman who volunteered to do the duty drove over in a hack.

Tolling the chapel bell himself, he announced his arrival to the natives, but for a long time no one appeared.

At last one solitary person came in and took a seat at the very back of the chapel. The clergyman then found his surplice and conducted the service. That ended, he remarked to his audience of one that perhaps a sermon was superfluous.

"Oh, please go on sir," was the flattering reply, and the clergyman mounted the pulpit.

In the course of his address he expressed the fear that he was wearying his hearer and was gratified to be told that he could not be too long. The sermon, consequently, was lengthened out to some forty minutes.

When it was ended the preacher expressed a desire to shake hands with a man who had listened to him with such evident appreciation. On a nearer view (for he was somewhat short sighted) he discovered that he had been preaching to the driver of his hack, who was all the while charging overdime!

Farragut's Way.

Stanch old Admiral Farragut—he of the true heart and the iron will—said to another officer of the navy:

"Dupont, do you know why you didn't get into Charleston with your ironclads?"

"Oh, it was because the channel was so crooked."

"No, Dupont, it was not that."

"Well, the rebel fire was perfectly horrible."

"Yes, but it w[illegible] them!"

"What was it, [illegible]?"

"It was because [illegible] didn't believe you could go in."

NURSERY NOTES.

The firstborn is fortunately born if his young mother has wisely resolved to go slowly while all her theories and feel her way carefully and never go to extremes.

For the first week or two the child requires but slight attention. He must be bathed, dressed, fed and kept warm. Otherwise, for the most part, he is best when left alone, gradually to learn that he is alive and make use of his organs and senses.

He requires no handling save that which is necessary during the process of bathing and dressing, with an occasional turning from side to side. More than this is not good for him.

Then he must be kept warm. To do this it is not necessary to overburden him with wraps or keep the room at a hothouse temperature. If you do, you will have a baby as tender as a forced plant.

Select the clothing with a view to combine lightness and warmth. If the weather is at all cool, be certain that each little garment is warm before putting it on the body. Do not put the socks on while the feet are cool. First warm the little members with your own warm hands or by an open fire. Warm the hands in the same way and, if necessary, draw over them a pair of worsted mittens and let them remain for awhile until entirely warm.

A RHETORICAL TRIUMPH.

Sheridan's Speech In Connection With the Hastings Trial.

Answering a correspondent who asked about the speech of Sheridan in connection with the Warren Hastings trial, the London News says:

"That immense oratorical triumph was certainly not reported in the notes in question, for the Ode speech was not delivered during the trial. Sheridan pronounced it in the house of commons in the year before the trial in moving that the Ode charge should be one of the articles of the impeachment.

"No speech recorded in our history ever had such a reception. The entire house and all in the galleries violated the traditions of parliament and set a precedent that remains unfollowed by clapping furiously and continuously. Pitt, fully conscious of the extraordinary state of excitement disclosed by this breach of decorum, moved the adjournment on the unparalleled ground that 'the minds of members were too agitated to discuss the question with coolness and judicially.' Sheridan had spoken for five hours and forty minutes. No full report of the speech exists. The best appeared in the London Chronicle for February 8, 1787.

"The fame of the speech was such that when the trial came on 450 was gladly paid for a seat in the hall on the day of Sheridan's speech as a manager of the impeachment. Macaulay's account of that speech, which is both misleading and inaccurate in several respects, at least permits us to know the fact that the speaker was publicly embraced by Burke on resuming his seat. At a later stage in the trial—six years later, in fact—Sheridan delivered another speech which was described by one of the auditors as an extraordinary rhetorical triumph."

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning May 12.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—Lessons from the patriarchs. Joseph—Ps. cv. 16-28.

Joseph was the eleventh son of Jacob and the firstborn son of his favored wife Rachel. He was born in Mesopotamia about 1746 B. C. His name is first mentioned in sacred history when he was a youth seventeen years of age. He brought evil reports of his brothers to Jacob, their father, and thus aroused their enmity. This enmity was increased by the fact that he was the favorite son of his father and that this partiality had been shown by giving to Joseph a "coat of many colors," or long tunic with sleeves, worn by princes and maidens of the richer class." Joseph's dreams, in which this future power over his brethren was foreshadowed, added new fervor to their hatred. Being sent on an errand to them by their father when they were in the fields, they determined to kill him, but instead they sold him to a band of Ishmaelites going to Egypt. There he was sold to Potiphar and came into power; but, being falsely accused by Potiphar's wife, he was thrown into prison, where he remained for at least two years and then was released and placed in high position for interpreting a dream of Pharaoh foretelling seven years of plenty and seven years of famine. Joseph was given entire charge of preparation against the famine and proved a great success. He saved Egypt and even his own family. Through the famine all of his brethren and finally his father came to Egypt. Jacob died in Egypt but at his own request was sent back to Canaan for burial. Joseph lived 110 years, spending ninety in Egypt. But his last days also exhibited God carried back by Moses to Canaan and buried at Shechem. Joseph's life is thus seen to have been a most remarkable one, and from it lessons of value come, especially to the young.

1. Joseph's life teaches a lesson for the mothers of parental partiality. Some children are undoubtedly more lovable than others, and parents may be excusable for even preferring one to another. Joseph was Rachel's firstborn son, and it was natural perhaps that for this reason and also because of his especially to his heart; but, whether we may excuse a partial feeling or not, we cannot excuse the manifestation of partiality. No parent should show a marked preference for one child over another, and as nearly as possible each one should be treated alike to avoid any feeling of enmity or hatred among the children or a resentment toward parents.

2. Joseph's life teaches that, under God, trials may be turned into blessings. The trial of being sold into a strange country resulted in the attainment of a position of power in that land. The trial of being basely and falsely accused ended in the attainment of the highest position of honor only to the king himself, but also in the opportunity of being of great service to humanity. Better than being in high position was the opportunity of saving thousands from starving to death, and we find Joseph doing both. And why did God thus overrule evil for good in Joseph's life? Because Joseph took God with him into the strange land and was ever faithful to Him. Too many leave God behind when they go far away from home. Such a course cannot bring God's blessing and success.

3. Joseph had no resentment against his enemies. His treatment of his brethren was most magnanimous. In this he typified Christ himself. "Though reviled, he reviled not again." Human nature usually seeks vengeance upon enemies. "I'll pay you back!" is a very familiar expression, but God has said, "Vengeance is mine; I will repay." Like Joseph, the Master left to God the matter of vengeance and punishment to Him, and we have only to live with no feelings of revenge against our enemies.

The Junior pledge as it is used by Mr. William Harvey's church, in India, is called "Pratijna Mala," or "Necklace of Promises," a beautiful name. A translation of the pledge will be interesting and suggestive, so all Junior superintendents:

"I love the Lord Jesus and will try every day to keep near Him and to walk according to His will.

"I will try to do all those things which I may learn His will, such as reading the Bible, attending Sunday school and the services of the church.

"When I get up in the morning and lie down at night, I will pray that I may be able to keep this promise.

"If I possibly can, I will be present at all the meetings of the Junior society and will in some way help in some other way to further the Lord's business and help the meeting."

WORTH

May 12.—"Accounting For Our Time." (Epworth League Anniversary Day.) "Let your loins be girded about and your lamps burning."

By REV. M. A. DIX.

Passages for reference: Job ix. 4; Gal vi. 5-10; Col. iv. 5; II Peter iii. 11.

If is well that we have a day set aside as an anniversary days and reviews all the way in which we have lived. It is wise to rejoice in the growth and prosperity which have been given us in these years since our beginning in that little church in Cleveland. It has been a path marked by great mercies and rich providences in which God has directed our footsteps.

If we do not do it in a spirit of boastfulness, it is a good thing to mark the growth of our churches and take a world survey of the membership of our league fellowship. It gives us a new insight of our obligations. Each of our bonds of kinship, our opportunities for usefulness and our prayers and needs.

By all means let this anniversary mean as much as possible to the local chapter. Look over the ground you have been over during the year and note the condition of each department of work. If either one is lacking in energy or deficient in wise planning, give immediate attention to the lack and bring up the work to the proper level, remembering that the weakest part must bear the strain and no chain is stronger than its weakest link. Do not try to do the easiest thing at hand. This will lead some chapters to run only the social work and others to be nothing but the spiritual department and still others to hold nothing but meetings for literary culture. Those who do only one of these will be likely to despise those who do anything else. All of them are at fault. All departments are needed in every place, and in all except the most unusual circumstances the whole work can be better carried forward than merely a part.

Do the very best work possible. It will require time, patience, devotion and indomitable perseverance. It will drag at times in spite of all your efforts. Keep at it. If you cannot get through one way, try another. If you cannot get over or through a difficulty, go around. In some way get there. If you find no way, either make a new one or trust God until He opens one.

We are to keep the lamps lighted—not a few, but all of them.

In some places those who did the learning work ten years ago are the ones who carry it now. They are not as young as they used to be. Of course they know a great many things and can do much in better fashion than the younger ones can, but nevertheless it is almost time that the more youthful ones were worked in and shown how to do some things and the responsibility put upon them. In some places there are none of the older ones left and the work has to be started under the whole field, see what you are and what you are doing and then study the conditions closely and find how you can improve matters. When you see clearly where the advance can be made, then talk it up and get at work and accomplish the desirable task.

We have no business to do less than our very best. Search out the retiring ones, bring them to be brought out and developed. Cultivate the things that lag. It is a serious mistake to neglect any line because it is not liked so much as another. Do not push those who push themselves.

Make some discoveries. There are plenty lying right at your door looking up into your face trying to catch your eye and be found out. Open your eyes and find them. Make the most of all your material and time.

God Understands.

No room for a discouraged or depressed feeling is left you. If your sphere is outwardly humble, if it even appears to be quite insignificant, God understands it better than you do, and it is a part of His plan. He is trying to test sentiments in humble conditions, great principles in works that are outwardly trivial, great characters under great adversities and by all kinds of incumbrances. Let it fill you with cheering and grateful feeling, however deep and discouraging your lot may be, that God is leading you on, girding you for a work, preparing you for a good that is worthy of His divine magnificence. If God is really preparing us all to become that which is the best possible, if He is really making things possible, there ought never to be a discouraged or uncheerful being in the world.—Horace Bushnell.

AL STAMPS OF PHILIPPINES

DISTINCTIVE SERIES, ADOPTED BY GOVERNMENT HONORS NATIVE.

The Philippine Government has recently adopted for the use of its postal service a distinctive series of postage stamps, which were prepared by the bureau of engraving and printing. The values and colors of these stamps correspond to those of the United States postal service, and there are the same number of stamps in the series, but the denominations are expressed in pesos and centavos to conform to the new currency system of the islands.

The designs are also different. The portraits of Rizal, McKinley, Magellan, Legaspi, Lawton, Lincoln, Samoan, Washington, Carriedo and Franklin appear on the stamps of less than one peso, and those of one peso or more bear the coat-of-arms of the Philippines. Rizal, a Filipino patriot and author, became a martyr for his country; Magellan discovered the islands; Legaspi was the first Governor-General, and Carriedo, a Spanish philanthropist, gave an endowment which resulted in the construction of a water works system for Manila. The special delivery stamp has a Filipino messenger boy, dressed in white, on one end, and Mt. Mayon, the most prominent volcanic peak and an old landmark of the islands, on the other.

The Philippine Government has also in circulation a series of silver certificates which were authorized by an act of Congress. The face of these certificates bear the portraits of Rizal, McKinley, Washington, Lawton, Magellan and legaspi, and one of them a scene of Mt. Mayon in active eruption. They are of two, five, ten, twenty, fifty, 100 and 500 peso denominations, and they show that their face value is covered by a deposit of Philippine silver coin, or United States gold coin, in the insular treasury. They bear the signature of the Governor-General and treasurer of the islands, and also the seal of the Philippine Government. They are about the same as the Panama-ters inches wide and six and one-half inches long, and are smaller than the United States silver certificates.

CARE OF SEWING MACHINE.

What To Do When Things Don't Work Together For Good.

There are but three important parts to the common double thread machine—the needle, the shuttle and the feed.

In cleaning a sewing machine use a small screwdriver on a stick about the size of a lead pencil, with a long slender point, a piece of cotton cloth and some machine oil.

In taking a machine apart do not go at it in a haphazard way, but commence at one side and work toward the other side, taking off everything as you go that needs cleaning.

Have a table with plenty of room, and as fast as the pieces are removed lay them there in the order in which they were removed.

Be particularly careful not to lose any of the small screws, for they are frequently of such a thread that you cannot get a duplicate.

After you have taken off the small parts carefully clean the body of the machine.

Kerosene will act like magic in taking off the hardened oil and dirt, and the sharpened stick will be very serviceable in reaching every crevice.

In oiling the machine use none but the very best oil. It is a good idea once in awhile to use a little kerosene. This will keep it free from gum.

COLD BATHS.

We seldom pick up the magazines nowadays without reading of the wonderfully beneficial effect of cold bathing. It is mighty good, and really a splendid for the woman in excellent physical condition, serving to make her brighter and even more hardy; but let the nervous, slightly delicate woman try it and she is sure to finish with a good "spending" headache, some other affliction caused by nerve strain.

If she would begin by taking warm baths, not hot, she would find them most helpful, without unpleasant after-effects. The shower should be of water just a trifle cooler than the plunge.

She should lead up to the cold baths by having the water a little cooler each day, and in a short time would find her plunge a daily luxury, and not a necessary horror.

One woman is delicate and very susceptible to shock, and it is our duty to protect and guard them always as best we can.

Rev. E. S. Booth Tells of Civilization at Trinity Church.

TO THE MISSION LAND

Good Thing Missionaries Do Not Know the Language, He Says, Because It Makes Them Study Customs.

Interesting facts and incidents were presented before the Young Women's Mission Band, of Trinity Reformed church, Friday afternoon, by Rev. Eugene S. Booth, a returned missionary from Yokohoma, Japan. Mr. Booth has been engaged in mission work for many years under the direction of the Board of Foreign Missions of the Reformed Church in America.

He has been engaged at Ferris Seminary, Yokohoma, supported by the Reformed church, and in his talk he dwelt particularly on conditions in that country. His subject was "The Needs of Japan." The Japanese, he said, would say the needs are a larger navy, others would say it was more and better business men, while the missionaries' constant request is for more missionaries and money to carry on the work of the Gospel.

The speaker said that Americans in referring to Japan as a heathen nation make a mistake, for the people of that country were civilized long before those in this country and they lived in ease, luxury and comfort, while many in this country existed in an exceedingly primitive way. In the matter of education Mr. Booth said that Japan is second to none, yet such a position has been achieved during the last thirty years. The education of that country he described as being unique in that it has a women's university, and he exhibited pictures of Ferris Seminary, showing the many improvements made there.

Showing the increased value of property, Mr. Booth said that when Ferris Seminary was started land was rented and a small building was erected. Since that time $25,000 has been expended on the seminary in new buildings and improvements and today if the land should be put up at public auction it would bring, exclusive of the buildings, the sum of $30,000.

Referring to the work of the missionaries, the speaker said, that it is a good thing for them not to know the Japanese language before engaging in the work there, for in acquiring it they learn the habits and customs of the people. He devoted considerable time to a discussion of the educational work, explaining the compulsory school law, which compels children eleven years of age and upward to attend school. Efforts are now being made to extend the age limit to fourteen years. It is hoped by those interested in Ferris Seminary to make that institution self-supporting and thus be in a position to do even better work than in the past.

Reference was also made to the culture and politeness of the Japanese, especially the women. He declared that the mothers never speak cross to their children and they grow up learning to love their parents, their country, and the boys grow to become fine soldiers, while the fire of patriotism always burns in the breast of the people.

At the close of the meeting an appeal was made for useful articles to be placed in a barrel to be sent to McKee, Kentucky. This barrel is to be sent away May 7.

The School of Adversity.

At a banquet in Lyons nearly a century and a half ago a discussion arose in regard to the meaning of a painting representing some scene in the mythology or history of Greece. Seeing that the discussion was growing warm, the host turned to one of the waiters and asked him to explain the picture. Greatly to the surprise of the company, the servant gave a clear and concise account of the whole subject, in plain and convincing that it at once settled the dispute.

"In what school have you studied, monsieur?" asked one of the guests, addressing the waiter with great respect. "I have studied in many schools, monseigneur," replied the young servant, "but the school in which I studied longest and learned most is the school of adversity." Well had he profited by poverty's lessons, for, although he was only a waiter, all Europe soon rang with the fame of the writing of the greatest genius of his age and country, Jean Jacques Rousseau.—"Pushing to the Front."

JAPAN NOT HEATHENISH STARTLED BEFORE GETTING PERMIT

AND BOROUGH COUNCIL TALKS SHARPLY ABOUT HOTEL MAN'S ACTION.

In the regular order of business at the meeting of the Borough Council, Friday, a communication was received from R. A. Boyce, proprietor of the Somerset Hotel, in which he stated that he had commenced the erection of a shed in the rear of his premises but had stopped when he was informed that it was necessary to have a permit. He outlined the structure and asked for the permit in order that he might proceed. His action led to a breezy discussion, the general impression being that the building ordinance had been given enough prominence for every resident of the borough to know what he should and what he shouldn't do. The permit was finally granted with the stipulation that certain changes in the plans should be made. There was also some talk that in the future a fine should be imposed upon people starting buildings without a permit but nothing came of it.

At the request of Winfield Scott Post, $25 was appropriated as a donation to the Memorial Day celebration, this being the customary amount. The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company was given permission to open a part of Sycamore avenue to lay conduits and on motion of Mr. Shoemaker the committee was empowered to secure a new horse for the fire department at a cost not to exceed $300. The formal resignation of Peter Dooley, tillerman in the department, was received and accepted. In connection with the fire department persiflage, Mayor Smalley made the suggestion that in the future the salaries of the men be so regulated that they buy their own uniforms as is done in the police department. The matter was allowed to rest at that longer than when the borough buys them and that there is no expense through men leaving the positions.

Recorder Dolliver reported the collection of $32.50 in fines during the month of April. The treasurer stated the balance on hand is $565.66. The Council adjourned until next Monday night when it meets with the city fathers to hear the Consolidation Commission's report.

SOMERSET STREET PAVING

Mayor F. B. Smalley Brings the Question Before the Borough Council.

FAVORS CONCRETE TEST

Hassam Paving Company Representative Repeats His Talk on the Concrete Pavement to Borough Fathers.

The question of permanent paving, which has been agitating the city officials for some time, has made its way over to the borough and at the regular monthly council meeting, Friday, the matter was brought before the members with a view to having something done with Somerset street in the near future. Mayor Smalley brought the subject up and asserted that something should be done in the way of putting down a more durable pavement than macadam on the borough's main thoroughfare. At his request, Robert Keenan, of the Hassam Concrete Paving Company, who appeared before the Board of Trade Thursday night, was in attendance at the session and told of this new form of road making. The councilmen were much impressed with his talk and it is probable that the street committee will look over some of the work that the company has done in nearby cities.

In bringing the subject before the meeting, Mayor Smalley called attention to the fact that Somerset street, especially in the section from the bridge to Jackson avenue, is generally in a bad condition despite the amount of care that is given it. He said he had been considering a permanent pavement for a long time and that he had figured out that by dividing the expense between the properly owners through assessment and the Public Service Corporation, the expense would not fall heavily on anyone in particular. What form of pavement should be adopted, the Mayor said, is still a matter of conjecture but he expressed the belief it would be a good idea to have the Hassam company put down a stretch of concrete from the bridge to the place as an experiment. He said the concern would do it on favorable terms and guarantee it for five years, which is as long as any pavement is guaranteed.

In introducing Mr. Keenan, the Mayor stated that the expenditure of money for public pavements should be done intelligently but councilmen as a rule have little time to get around to investigate conditions, accordingly the information that could be brought to them should prove of benefit. Mr. Keenan's talk was similar to the one he gave before the Board of Trade and explained in detail just what the new concrete pavement is, how it differs from other methods, the cost and other features. No action was taken but since the matter has been broached it will probably be taken up again within a short time.

CAN YOU WINK YOUR EYE?

Professor Stirling, in his lecture on eyes at the Royal Institution, recently, gave some instruction in the art of winking. "It requires a veritable education to wink," he remarked, "although blinking is very simple."

He told the audience many strange things about their eyes. The eyelashes, for instance, contain from 100 to 150 hairs on the upper and eighty to ninety on the lower lid; these hairs are replaced about every 100 days. "Rub your finger outward along your eyebrows," he advised, "and you will experience a most pleasant sensation; rub in the opposite direction, and you will have a most painful one; the exquisite sensitiveness of your eyes."

Tears are of three kinds, he continued:

1. Natural tears, the little flood which nature secretes in the eye to wash away all the dust particles.

2. Psychic tears, which flow when minds are for the moment unbalanced, and

3. Alcoholic tears.

Tears do not always overflow, because there is just a little oily secretion along the rim of our eyelids which keeps the fluid back.

"The Japanese have a peculiar overlapping fold, which obscures the real edge of the eyelid. That is why their eyes look slanting." And babies'—the mother in the room bent forward—"have just the same fold on their eyes, if you look for it."

Comfort For Missy.

A young lady of Macon, Ga., visited the home of her fiance in New Orleans. On her return home an old colored woman, long in the service of the family and consequently privileged to put the questions, asked:

"Honey, when is you goin' to git married?"

The engagement not having been announced, the Macon girl smilingly replied:

"Indeed, I can't say, auntie. Perhaps I shall never marry."

The old woman's jaw fell. "Ain't dat a pity now!" she said. After reflection she added, "Dey do say dat ole maids is the happiest critters dere is once dey wits struggle."—Lippincott's.

THURSDAY, MAY 9, 1907.

MR. ACKERMAN AS SENATOR.

Union county has reason to be proud of the record of its representatives in the Legislature and more particularly that of State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman. He occupied a most conspicuous position than did the others with the probable exception of Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, and throughout the sessions his course was most commendable. Though some of the Plainfielder's constituents may have disagreed with him on one or two occasions, they realized that he was capable of exercising wise judgment and was guided solely by a desire to carry out the obligations of his oath of office and act only for what he considered, after mature deliberation, to be best not only for Union county but for the whole State.

Much was accomplished by Mr. Ackerman, not alone in obtaining the passage of bills he introduced but by giving his support to others that he deemed to be essential for the general welfare. His advice was sought generally by older heads in the Senate and his opinions were always considered of great value. Indeed, in the last hours of the session the Senator loomed up as a power that had to be reckoned with by his colleagues. He had become one of the big men of the State, and this notwithstanding that it was his first appearance as a legislator.

It is gratifying, therefore, to know that at the adjourned session in June and at the regular term next year, Union county will be represented in the Senate by a man tried and true.

FRELINGHUYSEN HUSTLES.

State Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen would be a worthy successor to Governor Edward C. Stokes and unless there is an unexpected change in the situation in the Republican ramp between now and next fall, the Senator from Somerset will be the party's candidate. His friends, and he has many influential ones about the State, are working ardently in his behalf stirring up a sentiment that is already having telling effect.

At the present time, Mr. Frelinghuysen has the field all to himself, and he is not letting any grass grow under his feet. As for the others whose names are mentioned in connection with the nomination no real booms have been launched. True it is that Justice J. Franklin Fort, former Judge Gilbert Collins, and former State Senator William F. Johnson have their friends out and about for the nomination, but with the possible exception of Johnson they are all staying under cover watching the trend of events. But Frelinghuysen knows that a man has got to get out and hustle if he wants anything, especially in politics, and he is making a chase after that "plum" that is surprising the old leaders. Good luck to "Papa" Joe.

JAPANESE JOTTINGS.

Japan's six sardine factories are to be increased to thirty during 1907.

Japan's exports of porcelain ware to the United States are increasing rapidly. They were about $2,800,000 worth in 1906 against $1,900,000 worth in 1905 and three and one-half times as much as in 1902.

The Kawasaki Dockyard company of Japan has increased its capital from $2,000,000 to $5,000,000 to engage also in the construction of locomotives, railway carriages, cast steel castings, wire steel and dynamos. The capital is to be further increased to $10,000,000.

Wagon Damages Runabout.

Starting quickly, before its driver, Marcus Beekman, who had just jumped into the seat from the roadway, could get hold of the reins, a horse attached to a United States Express Company wagon swung the heavy vehicle against a runabout driven by James Carron, of the East End, on Park avenue, near Second street, Saturday afternoon. One of the rear wheels and the axle of the runabout were broken.

JUDGE RUNYON RECOMPENSED

Common Council at Last Fittingly Recognizes Services of William N. Runyon.

HE WILL RECEIVE $1,000

Pay of Office Has Only Been $600 Despite Great Amount of Work Required to Be Done.

An effort on the part of Chairman Tolles, of the finance committee, to secure an increase in City Judge W. N. Runyon's salary from $600 to $1,000, in which he was successful, resulted in a strong protest from Mr. Tyler at the May meeting of the Common Council, Monday. Mr. Tolles stated that he believed that Judge Runyon is being paid too little for the services required of him and his resolution provided that the increase date from January 1, 1907.

Mr. Tyler said that he disliked to oppose the resolution, but in view of the many increases made this year in different departments, together with the new work to be undertaken, he believed that the resolution should not be adopted. He recognized the faithful services that Judge Runyon, but under present conditions thought it unwise to raise his salary. It was only fair in his opinion, he said, to request him to wait until next year.

He thought that many serious problems confront the Common Council of this city at the present time and he was fearful of the result. "Why, just think of what we propose to do this year?" said he. "There is the garbage disposal question, which means an expense of at least $12,000 a year; an increase in street sprinkling, street paving, a new public school building, a fifty per cent. increase in the library appropriation, an appropriation for the water investigation commission and the consolidation commission. Only the chairman of the finance committee and the president of the Common Council can tell where we are coming out.

"Why wasn't this increase put in with the other amounts at the beginning of the year, instead of waiting until this late day. We should have all the increases at once."

Mr. Tolles replied that he had previously opposed increases in salary, but here was a position where the salary had never been raised and he believed it to be due to Judge Runyon.

Mr. Montgomery favored the increase, and because it comes late he thought it to be none the less necessary. He said that Judge Runyon is deserving of more than that clearly entitles him to the raise.

At this point Mr. Tolles said that he proposed to ask for an appropriation for the water investigating commission, whereupon Mr. Tyler replied that he was not present at first and maybe it will assist you in getting a raise for Judge Runyon?"

Mr. Mellick took exception to the position of Mr. Tyler, saying that he was not alarmed over the city's financial condition. He regretted that the finance committee did not raise Judge Runyon's salary on January 1 last, and as he remembered it the matter was discussed at a meeting of the Common Council when it met last week as a committee of the whole, and favorably considered.

When the vote was taken on the resolution, it was adopted by a vote of eight to two, Councilmen Buxton, Glosk, Hibbard, Mellick, Tolles, Montgomery, O. and Randolph, President Daniel voting in favor and Councilmen Ginna and Tyler against it.

Mr. Tolles then offered a resolution appropriating $2,000 for the water investigating commission; it being understood that this amount is to be used solely for the work of the commission, while later another appropriation is to be made for the expenses of employing competent engineers. This resolution was adopted unanimously.

TRINITY SOCIETY ELECTS.

Ladies' Christian Work Society Chooses Officers.

Officers were elected and reports presented at the annual meeting of the Ladies' Christian Work Society of Trinity Reformed church, held in the parlor of the church, Monday. These officers were chosen:

President, Mrs. A. L. Force; first vice president, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck; second vice president, Mrs. Elizabeth A. Furse; third vice president, Mrs. Reformed Clark, Jr.; secretary, Mrs. William A. Woodruff; treasurer, Mrs. L. M. Dunavan.

The secretary, Mrs. A. L. Force, read her annual report to the society and the treasurer, Mrs. Robert Clark, Jr., presented a financial statement for the year. The society will celebrate its twenty-sixth anniversary on Sunday night, at which time both the secretary and treasurer will present their annual reports and Rev. Dr. Johnson will speak to the society.

Spoiled Her Pleasure.

"Did you enjoy the play last night? I saw that you had a box."

"No; my husband's watch was twenty minutes fast, and as it was very hot in the theatre I had to take off my beautiful new wrap before half of the people I wanted to see me in it had arrived."—Ohio State Journal.

"Before and After" was played for more than one hundred and fifty nights at the Manhattan theatre, New York, and was received as a laughing success in which there was not a single dull moment. The story of "Before and After" runs like this: Dr. Pagg, a fashionable New York physician, laughs at the claims of his fellow practitioner, Dr. Philip Latham, that his newly discovered drug, "Sunny Jim," can make the softer sex young again. Pagg introduces to the man who partakes of it. Latham drops a powder into Pagg's glass of water and the mischief is done. Pagg introduces Latham to Mrs. Pagg, appears with her at Saratoga, and the fun grows fast and furious to the end, when everything is straightened out.

CLINTON AVENUE TEAM IN OLD-TIME FORM.

Shut Out Raritan A. C. By a Score of 7 to 0.

The Clinton Avenue team showed its old-time form on Saturday, when it defeated the Raritan A. C., on Crescent Oval by a score of 7 to 0. Clifford Randolph, who has been pitching such good ball for the local nine, was in great form and but twenty-eight men faced him during the contest. Gilman in center field also distinguished himself by clever fielding and good stick work.

THE CARE OF A CUT.

A dirty cut or a suppurating wound must be cleaned of all dirt and carefully bathed in carbolic solution (strength one dram to four ounces of water). If carbolic acid be kept in the medicine chest, this lotion can be made up at any time with a measure glass.

After bathing cut a piece of white lint of size to overlap the cut, soak it in clean carbolic lotion and apply. Cover the lint with gutta-percha tissue cut to size, leave a margin of one inch all around the lint, which is just kept moist.

No ragged edge of the lint must show, or the moisture will evaporate. Cover with cotton wool and apply bandage to keep all in place.

The dressing may be removed in twenty-four hours and the wound will be found clean. This treatment also removes pain and the only after treatment necessary is to cover with a piece of dry, clean cotton. A little boracic ointment on the cotton will prevent it from sticking.

REFLECTIONS OF A BACHELOR.

A woman calls it news if she tells it and scandal if anybody else does.

The best way to get excused for not being able to earn your living is to be a poet.

A nice thing about sending telegrams is that men shift the blame for the bad spelling.

If a woman could talk in three languages she would have to be able to do it all the same time to believe that she was having a good time.

When a man walks away from his office to go to the races he pretends he doesn't know what horse won so his family will think he went to the funeral of a relative.

Elizabeth's New Theatre.

With a statement given out by George W. Jacobs at Elizabeth on Saturday confirming the story recently printed in The Daily Press that Keith & Proctor had taken over his playhouse in that city, it became known that the new owners would come into control on June 1, and that the house would thereafter be known as the Orpheum theatre.

Funeral of James Williams.

The funeral of James Williams, the former Plainfielder who died at Flatbush, L. I., was held at the undertaking parlors of A. M. Runyon & Son, Saturday afternoon. Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church, conducted the service. The burial was at Hillside cemetery.

Assemblyman Swackhamer Draws Lessons from the Lives of World's Great.

THE EFFORT THAT PAYS

Lawyer Address at Meeting of Educational Society of Somerville Instructive to Young Men of Body.

Former Assemblyman Samuel S. Swackhamer addressed the Educational Society of Somerville at that place Monday night. His subject was "The Effort That Pays."

Mr. Swackhamer said:

"The twentieth century quivers and throbs with vitality and is distinguished for the rapid, breathless march of events.

"In an age and country where the possibilities of a cycle have been compressed within the compass of a half century' it is of first importance to single out with mathematical exactness The Effort that Pays, and I would lay it down as a maxim, that: "An effort to pay must be well directed, and the first essential of success is to select that vocation which is most congenial to the individual taste.

"Obey the fiat of nature. Many a born mechanic has been forced into the law; many a born trader has been forced into the pulpit; many a born farmer has been forced into medicine and surgery. And there is a misfit—a square peg in a round hole.

"Locked up in the mind of the child may be the will of a Napoleon; the understanding of a Newton; the memory of a MaCaulay; the imagination of a Milton or the ingenuity of an Edison, but they will not all be there.

"There is always one inborn, dominant faculty. Where did Bossuet get his eloquence? Where did Raphael get his colors? Where did Blind Tom get his music? Direct from heaven by Divine gift.

"Isaac Watts, who lisped in numbers, was told by his father that if he wrote another verse he would flog him. The boy soon incurred the penalty and the father prepared to inflict the punishment. As he raised the whip, Isaac burst into tears and cried.

"O, dear father, pity take,
And I will no more verses make.'

"Pascal was designed by his father for civil history, but he was born to be a mathematician. At nine years of age he was shut in a room, by his father, with nothing but religious books to read. When his father returned at night he found the floor of the room decorated with demonstrations of the propositions of Euclid done in chalk.

"The favorite toy of Napoleon Bonaparte was a little cannon.

"Florence Nightingale was a nurse by nature, and when a little girl, her dolls were always sick and delicate in health and she nursed them with the tenderest care, putting them to bed in a dark room and giving strict orders that their slumbers should not be disturbed. During the Crimean War, she was a ministering angel to the sick and wounded soldiers. Nor from their beds of pain and suffering, would extend their nerveless hands only to touch the hem of her garment.

"A New England minister was asked what his intentions were for the future of his son. 'Well,' said he, 'My wife and I believe in natural selection, and letting a boy follow the bent of his own mind. To find out what that was, we left him in the sitting room alone for a while with a Bible, a silver dollar and an apple. I said, 'If, when we came back, he is reading the Bible, I shall train him to follow me as a preacher; if he has pocketed the dollar, I shall make a banker of him; if he is playing with the apple, I will put him on a farm.' When we returned, he was sitting on the Bible, eating the apple from one hand and clutching the dollar in the other, and I said, 'Wife, this boy is a hog; we must make a politician out of him.'

"Let the boy do what he likes to do; let the girl do what she likes to do; if your son can draw a straight furrow across the field and raise cauliflower where you could raise only cabbage, for cauliflower is cabbage with a college education, make a farmer of him; if he can drive a nail and not split the board and cut away the upper and lower lines with the saw, make a carpenter and builder of him. If he can set the dog's broken leg and cure the chickens of the roup, make a doctor of him.

"If your daughter can trim an old hat that it looks like a new one, make a milliner of her. If she can drive the fever from your forehead with the gentle pressure of her hand and beguile your pain and anguish by the healing of her presence, make a trained nurse of her.

"If she steals away from the broom and the oven and the dish pan to the piano, make a musician of her.

"To insure high attainment, one must proceed along the line of least resistance. When a young man thoroughly enjoys his work it is not long'er labor, but recreation, and he then can surmount all obstacles and success is sure.

"But an effort to pay must be sustained and persistent, kept up with untiring energy and an enthusiasm cient orators ... cave, shaved one side of ... and face so that he could not appear in society, and remained underground till he had copied the twelve books of Thucidides nine times over in order to master the historian's matchless style.

"An indefatigable Dutchman spent forty years of incessant labor digging out the cuneiform language, whereby we read inscriptions that were cut into stone centuries before the Ark rested on Ararat.

"Bernard Palissy, the great discoverer of glazed pottery, followed the object of his pursuit with such determination and abandon, that everything was sacrificed to its attainment. He began life himself and his family to collect the fuel that should produce the necessary heat, and when he threw on the last bundle of wood and found the material did not melt, he rushed into the house with an ax and crowbar, broke the table and chairs into pieces, burned the floors, and out of the burning wreckage of his home, gave to the world an article of universal use and beauty.

"Hugo Grotius, the 'Father of International Jurisprudence,' was surrounded in youth by poverty and squalor. Cast out at the age of 24, he was sentenced, as a partisan of Barneveldt, to perpetual imprisonment in the fortress of Louvenstein. After a year and a half of close confinement, he made his escape by a most perilous expedient. He was packed in a box, sent out as a bundle of merchandise, and so suspicious were the guards that a sword was thrust into the bundle, inflicting a dangerous wound. Yet through all this adversity, poverty and peril, he struggled on and produced 'The Rights of War and Peace,' which is the only book ever officially honored by the United States Government. At the Hague, in 1899, during the Peace Conference, by command of President McKinley, Andrew D. White, then ambassador to Germany, laid a silver wreath on the tomb of Grotius, (at Delft), and had it placed in the name of the Peace delegates. 'Of all books, not claiming divine inspiration, this book has done most to promote peace and prevent suffering among mankind.'

"We are told that Michael Angelo, while engaged in painting a picture of the Crucifixion for the Conventual Church of the Holy Spirit at Florence, in order that the features might be as lifelike, or rather as death-like as possible, obtained permission of the Prior to have the coffins of the newly buried opened and placed beside him during the night, thus enabling him to produce with terrible effect, not only the mortal pallor, but the anatomy of death itself, that is, the relaxation and repose of muscle exhibited by the corpse.

"It is related of Edmund Kean, that being called to act the part of the Genelteman Villain, he refused to appear in public for the period of a year and a half during which time he privately studied before a large mirror, studying minutely every gesture and expression until the very soul of villainy looked through his eyes. When he came upon the stage, Bryon, who with Moore was there to hear him, and who had been looked upon so fearful and kicked a countenance. As the great actor proceeded to delineate the terrible consequences of sin, Bryon swooned away and before the play was half over the audience had fled in horror from the dreadful spectable. Until it ought was time to localize and study at close range the proposition that nothing is impossible to industry, courage and high resolve, take three living examples from Somerset County's Roll of Fame and study the environment, the character and careers of Richard V. Lindabury, Vice Chancellor Bergen and ex-Senator Childs.

"Finally, the effort that pays must be an honest one. The sentiment expressed in the maxim, 'Honesty is the best policy,' is not lofty enough. It makes expedience the foundation of right.

"I like the honesty that drove Abraham Lincoln from his home at night four miles across the country to return to a customer two cents of overcharge.

"That merchant is worthy of success who will fail in business rather than adulterate his goods.

"But there is no such word as failure for the man who builds upon the sure foundation of Righteousness and Truth."

GERMAN GLEANINGS.

Germany during its entire history never before had such a prosperous year as that of 1906.

Partly because of the high price of meat the German fish catch has nearly trebled in quantity and value within the last five years.

Since the foundation of the German empire its population has increased in 20,100,000. The birth rate is at present six per thousand higher in Germany than in England.

The German statistical bureau has issued a summary of the average prices of food products in the empire during the past year, which shows clearly that the general increase of cost in the United States for the necessities of life is simply part of a world-wide movement.

Baptists to Meet at the 'Plains.

The members of the Scotch Plains Baptist church are making extensive arrangements for entertaining the East New Jersey Baptist Association at its annual meeting to be held in the church early in June. The programme for the meeting is nearly completed.

PREVENTS MISCEGENATION

Policeman Blocks Colored Gallant's Plan to Marry White Woman.

TALE OF INTIMIDATION

Woman Tells It, But Police and City Judge Receive It With Skepticism—Would-be Bridegroom Sent to Jail.

Willard Gibson, colored, and Ida Ottenberg, white, 33 years old, both employed as servants by Allan Cole, of Linden, came to this city late Saturday night to get married. They were arrested instead, and Monday the prospective bridegroom went to the county jail under sentence of sixty days and a fine of $100. When the pair were arrested it was thought the negro had been guilty of a heinous crime, but investigation did not bear out the charges made by the woman.

Patrolman Cornelius McCarthy saw the couple leave a main line car at Plainfield avenue and Front street, with a white man closely following. The policeman's suspicions were aroused, and he stopped the negro and his companion. Gibson said the woman was his wife and when the officer turned to question her he tried to prompt her in answering. McCarthy ordered him to be still and the woman said they were not married. Frank S. Palmer, the white man who followed the pair from the car, told the officer that the woman had made charges against the negro to him, and McCarthy placed Gibson and his companion under arrest. He found a huge revolver, unloaded, in Gibson's pocket.

At the station house the woman made a statement in which she accused Gibson of having assaulted her five months ago at the point of the revolver found on him, and that he had continued to force his attentions on her. Still using the revolver, she alleged, he compelled her to come to this city Saturday night to be married by Rev. Griffen W. Bailey, pastor of Calvary Baptist church, colored, who lives at Plainfield avenue and Fourth street.

She repeated the story to City Judge Runyon in court this morning. Palmer said he was riding on the trolley car the pair boarded at Railway Junction, and his attention was attracted to the apparent unwillingness of the woman to go along. He had intended to get off at Westfield, but he thought it might be worth a dollar to him to keep an eye on the white woman. When he left the car with them Gibson asked him where Rev. Mr. Bailey lived, and Palmer seized the chance to question the negro. Gibson said the woman was his wife. Palmer turned to her and asked her if she was married.

"Will I tell him the truth?" she asked Gibson.

"You tell me the truth, and never mind him," said Palmer sharply.

Then the woman told her story of enforced intimacy. Palmer was preparing to hold the negro when McCarthy came up.

Gibson acknowledged the truth of Palmer's statement, and admitted that he thought that if he went to Lindenwold and married a white woman here to marry her, but denied her story of intimidation from first to last. She was pointed out to him as a woman of bad character, he said, and she had offered no objections to his advancements. It was at her own suggestion that he brought her here to be married, he said, and asked the court to telephone a young man who lived near the Cole home who knew he and the woman were to be married Saturday, and who had wished him luck as he started on their way. He said the fact that they went together was known all about their neighborhood in Linden. The woman had frequently stayed at his home over night. The revolver, he said, he carried in Linden because he frequently travelled a lonely way home after dark.

By her own confession the woman had made no charges against the negro in Linden, and acknowledged that she was the mother of an illegitimate child born in Europe. Judge Runyon decided that she was not an outraged innocent, but he scored Gibson as a type of colored man that must be held in check.

COLONIAL TEA A SUCCESS

Large Attendance at Affair of Continental Chapter, Daughters of American Revolution.

STATE REGENT PRESENT

Personal Greeting Extended By Mrs. Donald McLean, President General of D. A. R.

The colonial tea and entertainment given at the Park Club, yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of the Continental Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was largely attended and a great success. The affair was held chiefly for the purpose of stimulating interest in the movement to raise funds for erecting a suitable monument at Washington Rock, and a considerable sum was added to the fund. The clubhouse was appropriately decorated with flowers and flags.

The programme, which was an attractive one, was in charge of the officers and board of management. There was a brief address of welcome by Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, regent of Continental Chapter, in which she explained the object of the affair and in a few words told of the work of the local chapter.

Miss Ellen Mecum, State regent of the D. A. R., gave a short address, telling of the work being accomplished throughout the country by the D. A. R. She said that memorials have been built, landmarks and relics preserved, history enriched and interesting incidents of the Revolutionary period found and added to history and now efforts are being directed toward the erection of a building in Philadelphia, which is to be a memorial to every man, woman and child of the Revolutionary period, who had anything to do with the events of that war. All the historic relics are to be kept in this building, when completed.

In speaking of New Jersey's part in this building, Miss Mecum said that the State had subscribed $1,000 to be used in finishing a room, and oak taken from the frigate Augusta, of which Lord Howe was killed off Red Bank in the Delaware river, was used for that purpose. She said that the oak was found to be in an excellent state of preservation. The portieres were furnished by the State which were included in the thirteen colonies. The building is being completed as the funds are obtained, it being the intention of the D. A. R. not to incur any debt.

Mrs. Kearfritt, of Montclair, vice president general of the D. A. R., spoke especially of the educational work being accomplished. She said that an effort is being made to educate the mountain whites, who crave education. In Montclair the order maintains a public playground and vacation school and much progress is being made in educating the various foreign element with the idea of making them patriotic citizens.

Following the addresses, the programme of entertainment was enjoyed. There was a piano duet, selection from Rubenstein, by Mrs. R. H. Atterbury and Miss Susan Cross, after which Miss Caroline Mint Hall gave French recitations. Miss Mary Hubbell gave contralto solo, "What is Love?" and "Mistress Mine" accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Atterbury.

It being impossible for Mrs. Donald McLean, the president general of the D. A. R., to be present, she sent a personal greeting, which she extended her best wishes and expressed regret that other duties prevented her attendance.

A feature of the programme was a monologue, "An Afternoon Tea at the Waldorf—Astoria," or Hurry-up Hysteria," as she called it. The sketch was amusing and provoked much laughter. The programme was concluded with fancy dances by Miss Helen Stevens, accompanied on the piano by Miss Anna Davis.

After the entertainment refreshments were served and social time enjoyed. Those in charge of the affair were as follows:

Stage and decorations, Mrs. Chas. W. McCutchen, the Misses Sarah and Harriet Manning, Mrs. A. V. D. Honeyman; reception committee, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Mrs. David Hall Rowland, Mrs. Mary R. Brown, vice regent; Mrs. H. Campbell, secretary; Mrs. Currie, treasurer; Mrs. McCutchen, Mrs. C. Manning, the Misses Manning; refreshment committee, Mrs. Charles E. Large, Mrs. Edward G. Mead, Mrs. John C. Stephen R. Crittenden, Mrs. McGee, Mrs. Cowperthwait. Among those who assisted were Miss Katherine Bishop, Miss Mildred and other young ladies. Mrs. George Hall had charge of the tea table, which were so artistically arranged.

MRS. CLYMONT-CLINTON OPERA TOMORROW NIGHT

UNUSUALLY INTEREST MANIFESTED IN THE COMING PRODUCTION.

"The Peasant Prince," a comic opera in three acts, music and lyrics by William E. Mac[illegible]mont; book by Charles A. Clinton, will be given at the New Plainfield theatre, tomorrow night at 8:15. The principals and chorus have attained a high state of efficiency and a finished production is assured.

The opera will be produced under the personal direction of the following: Musical director, William E. MacClymont; stage manager, Charles A. Clinton; chorus and ensemble work, H. Fletcher Rivers. As this will be the first performance of the opera, unusual interest is being shown. The principals and chorus are all local people. The patronesses for the opera are as follows:

Meadames A. U. Atterbury, M. S. Ackerman, C. R. Ackerman, Harry C. Adams, Charles P. Abbott, William Barlow, H. E. Butler, George A. Beaton, F. W. Butler, R. H. Booth, George H. Babcock, H. B. Lester Glenney.

While there has been a great demand for seats there are a number of good ones left.

THIEF'S VICTIM FINDS THREE STOLEN BIKES.

Sees Man Riding a Wheel Composed of Parts of the Missing Three.

A conglomerate bicycle and a mess of bicycle parts were awarded to Frank Ganunzi, Charles Spaluti and Frank Spallata, by Justice Clark Mundy, in the borough court last night. They were found in the possession of Michael Ricardo and Salvo Vananzi, when an officer visited the house jointly occupied by them, with a search warrant sworn out by the trio.

Ganunzi Spaluti and Spallata went to a christening party in October of last year, riding bicycles. The wheels were stolen, and they got no trace of them until last week, when Ganunzo saw Vananzi riding a bicycle that had parts of all three in its make up. He swore out a search warrant with Detective Richard Sayre. Many of the stolen property followed. The wheel Vananzi rode was the only whole one found. There was a lot of parts, that looked as if they would make up into two other wheels. The court merely awarded the wheel and the parts to the three claimants. The story of the defendants that they bought the wheels from a man in Brooklyn was accepted as true, and their discharge followed. W. W. Nash, Jr., appeared for the claimants, and F. J. Blatz defended Ricardo and Vananzi.

All-Day Sewing Meeting.

Miss Sara Curry, matron of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, has asked for 25 garments, including aprons, aprons, little skirts, etc., for the children who will spend the summer at the Home, and the Christian Endeavorers will hold an all-day sewing meeting in the lecture room of Trinity Reformed church, tomorrow, beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning. Each one is asked to bring her own lunch; tea and coffee will be served at the church. Those attending are also requested to bring scissors.

C. E. Anniversary.

The Christian Endeavor Society of Garwes chapel will celebrate its anniversary in the chapel, tomorrow night, with a special programme arranged by Mrs. Joseph O. McKelvey, consisting of shadow pictures, illustrating "The Story of the Three Bears," and "The Ballad of Mary Jane." Refreshments will be served. An offering will be received for the enlarging fund of the new chapel.

Y. M. C. A. WILL HOLD SUMMER TENT MEETINGS

CANVAS TABERNACLE TO BE SET UP IN CONCERT PARK NEXT MONTH.

There will be no summer lull in the religious work of the Y. M. C. A. Plans for activity as great, if not greater than in the other seasons, were made by the Religious Work committee last night for the three months beginning June 15.

For one thing, tent meetings will be held at Concert Park every Sunday afternoon. The committee voted to buy a fifty-foot tent, and this will be set up at the park in time to start the meetings on June 15. They will be held weekly until September 15. The committee will secure strong speakers, and attractive music will be a feature.

Open-air meetings were held at the park last summer. They were successful to a high degree, and the measure of success attending them led to the plan for the tent meetings.

DR. PAULINE MOVES TO THE CASINO TEMPORARILY.

Will Appear There for Two Nights Because of Opera Engagement at the Theatre.

Because of the New Plainfield theatre being taken tonight and tomorrow night by the "Peasant Prince" company, Dr. Pauline will move to the Casino. The doctor will continue his demonstrations of hypnotism and mind reading and has prepared a programme unlike that of Monday and last nights. At the Casino, the same prices and conditions as at the theatre will prevail and seats may be had at the box office now. Pauline will conclude his engagement in this city at the theatre on Friday and Saturday nights.

Pauline succeeded yesterday in giving a public demonstration of his wonderful mind-reading powers. A letter addressed to the Daily Press office was placed in a box at the post office by a committee of local men and the letter, which was placed on top of a chandelier in the store of Marcus Hoyt & Co. Pauline took one member of the committee and by reading his thoughts, first located the box key, then the proper box and finally delivered the letter to the Daily Press office. His trips backward and forward attracted a large crowd and he was cheered enthusiastically when he concluded.

MILK WILL SOON COST MORE.

Dealers Expect Rise in Price Will Come This Summer.

Elizabeth, May 15.—Local milk dealers, when interviewed today, stated that while there would be no concerted action on their part, an increase in the price of milk in this city this summer was likely.

With respect to the Ridgeway law which goes into effect July 1, and which provides that all milk be bought and sold by liquid measure, it was declared that the change, such as it was, would have no effect, and that it was simply because of the increase in the cost of supplies and of living in general that the farmers and the dealers in turn would be compelled to ask more for milk before the close of the present year.

Seeking a Saloon License.

A New York man was in town yesterday soliciting signers for a saloon license for the vacant store on North avenue, next door to The Monarch Printing office, which is owned by Charles Runyon. In one of the two days by Recorder Dolliver last night. Not having the money she is the guest of the borough while a friend is trying to get it. Edward Kiely, who was arrested with her and later released on bail, will be arraigned tonight.

Clark Committed to Somerville.

Colonel Clark, the negro charged by his wife with abducting his sixteen-year-old stepdaughter, was taken to Somerville by Chief Marshal Weiss, of the borough police force, yesterday. He will be held for the Grand Jury on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon, while the other matter is looked into.

BRICK LOSING GROUND?

Some Councilmen Said to Have Changed Their Ideas of Paving.

MAYOR LOOKS FOR BRICK

Doesn't Think Opposition To It Will Develop Strength Enough to Cause Change of Ordinance at Meeting Tonight.

An adjourned meeting of the Common Council will be held tonight when among other things to be disposed of will be that in reference to the permanent pavement ordinance which will come up for final reading and adoption. This ordinance calls for the use of vitrified brick in certain streets selected by the street committee, but it is understood that since its introduction, some of the members of the Common Council have had a change of heart and desire that some other kind of pavement be used, notably the Hassam concrete, and that there is likely to be some opposition to the adoption of the ordinance in its present form. Mayor Fisk in speaking of the matter today, said that he understood some opposition had sprung up against the use of vitrified brick, but he hardly believed that it would be strong enough to defeat the ordinance.

"The great trouble," said the Mayor, "is that everyone is agreed that permanent pavement should be laid, but all have their own ideas as to the kind of material to be used. It is impossible to agree on one kind of pavement. This will always be so. Some prefer wood, others brick, while still others favor concrete, asphalt and bitulithic. I believe that the citizens should express their opinions, but at the same time the Common Council I think can be depended upon to do that which is for the best interests of the city."

Evidence of the confidence that a majority of the people have in the street committee and the Common Council to do the best thing, was shown a week ago at the public hearing granted to give all an opportunity to speak concerning permanent pavement. Mayor Fisk, Councilor and L. B. Woolston, both residents of North Plainfield, were the only persons present who had anything to say, and Mr. Woolston said that he was willing to let the Common Council decide the question as to what kind of pavement to adopt.

Another matter that will probably be decided tonight will be that of awarding the contract for crushed stone, six sidewalks and culverts for the borough. It is understood that the Watchung Stone Company has submitted the lowest bid, and it is said that that concern will get the contract.

FIREMEN MAY STRIKE.

Asbury Park Department Objects to Negro Company and Will Fight.

Asbury Park, May 15.—A general strike of Asbury Park's efficient volunteer fire department is threatened unless the Common Council enacts the pending ordinance calling for a reorganization of the department. The reorganization scheme is opposed by three of the councilmen and Mayor Atkins, because the Eureka Company, composed of negroes, would be eliminated. The ordinance was approved Monday evening on first reading by a vote of 5 to 3, but Mayor Atkins has publicly declared that he will veto it when it is presented to him for his signature, and the reorganization advocates in the Common Council lack one vote of the number required to pass the ordinance over the Mayor's veto.

The white firemen object to the negro company and threaten to quit if it is officially recognized any longer. There are twelve companies in the department. Several of the companies own their horses and hose wagons. These will be sold, they say, unless the Eureka Company is disbanded. A meeting of the protestants will be held this week, when an ultimatum to the Common Council will be promulgated. In case the white firemen go on strike the Common Council will in all probability organize a paid department. The Eureka company is in Springwood avenue, on the west side of the city, and has performed efficient fire service in the past. The taxpayers are about evenly divided over the proposition to drop it.

Exempt Firemen in Session.

The New Jersey State Exempt Firemen's Association is holding its annual convention at Bergen, today. D. W. Littell, of this city, is the president, and V. V. Nash, Sr., is a member of the executive committee. Among the other Plainfielders present as representatives are Eugene M. Laing, Edward T. VanWinkle, Thomas Carty, William A. Woodruff and F. O. Cranston.

AMATEURS TO HAVE NIGHT AT THEATRE

UNDISCOVERED TALENT WILL HAVE CHANCE TO SHINE NEXT TUESDAY.

Amateur theatrical talent will be given a chance to sprout and bud next Tuesday night at the New Plainfield theatre. Following the second presentation of "The Little Outcast," the Galvin production to be brought here for a benefit to Fred Bennett and David Bush, of the theatre staff, an "amateur night" programme will be given.

A prize of $5 will be given the performer who comes nearest to stellar excellence. The competition is open to all pure amateurs, and they may ring in any specialty, from buck-and-wing dancing to Shakespearean recital.

Nets will be on hand for the faint-hearted competitors who desire them. For further encouragement, of the inspiring, it was said by Johnny Galvin this morning that not a hook would be allowed near the stage.

SUFFRAGETTES LOSE.

Their Candidates for Parliament Defeated by Big Vote.

London, May 15.—It would seem that the efforts of the suffragettes to secure the election of the Hon. Bertrand Russell to Parliament from Wimbledon turned public support to his opponent, Henry Chaplin. The election results show that Chaplin has been elected by a majority of 6,964, although less than 14,000 votes were cast, as against 17,000 in 1906, when the Unionist majority was 3,114. Chaplin is a Conservative and Russell is a Liberal Free Trader who has espoused the woman suffrage cause.

As a matter of fact, Chaplin's election was so well assured from the moment he was nominated that the Liberals decided not to contest the constituency. But the leaders of the suffragettes stepped into the breach and decided to run a candidate of their own. Suffragettes poured into Wimbledon from all quarters, accordingly, and an energetic war was in canvassing on Russell's behalf that they made themselves a nuisance. In many parts of the district notices were displayed in the windows of houses requesting them not to call.

PUT UP JOB ON MINISTER.

Someone Telephoned His Witnesses Not to Appear in Court.

New Brunswick, May 15.—The trial of Henry and Peter Klein, proprietors of the Raritan House, charged with selling liquor on Sunday, was adjourned yesterday until July 7, to enable the court to investigate charges made by the Rev. Samuel H. Hahn, of Camden, superintendent of the Law and Order League.

The superintendent says that a telephone message was sent to his detectives, notifying them that they would not be wanted in court and that the sender of the message gave the name of Dr. Hahn. As a result the detectives did not appear at the trial and the prosecutor and Dr. Haha believes that the message was sent with an idea of handicapping the State in the prosecution of the defendants, but that it will be made to run down the person who telephoned and thus fix the responsibility.

Against Divorces.

The Episcopal convention of the Diocese of New Jersey at Trenton last night adopted unanimously a resolution placing it on record as opposed to sanctioning the marriage of divorced persons. The resolution was introduced by the Rev. W. Strother Jones, of Trenton, who declared that the canon of the Church which permits the marriage of the innocent person in a divorce suit after a lapse of one year of the decree to any white firemen go on strike the Common Council will in all probability organize a paid department. The Eureka company is in Springwood avenue, on the west side of the city, and has performed efficient fire service in the past. The taxpayers are about evenly divided over the proposition to drop it.

TWO QUESTIONS FOR LEAGUE TO SETTLE

BOUND BROOK AND SCOTCH PLAINS HAVE ENTRY LIST KINKS.

The Inter-City Baseball league will hold the last meeting before the opening of the league season on Friday night, at the office of Secretary G. L. Listman, Y. M. C. A. building. Final plans for the opening in this city, which will take place at Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon with a game between Y. M. C. A. and Bound Brook, will be made.

Among the things to be conducted at the meeting are an application from Scotch Plains for permission to change one or two names in the entry list and the matter of Bound Brook's delay in filing names of players. Bound Brook broke the rule requiring names to be filed fifteen days before the opening date, holding back the list for several days, and speculation as to what the league would do about it has been rife among the clubs.

Scotch Plains wants to change to correct what is said to be an error of the old management. It is claimed that one or two names were entered wrongly, and the omission is asked to straighten out the tangle. It was said by one of the "magnates" yesterday that both Bound Brook and Scotch Plains would be allowed to clear themselves as defects. The league will probably waive discipline in Bound Brook's case, with a warning, and to be consistent, if for no other reason, Scotch Plains will be allowed to get the new names in. It would not be logical to allow Bound Brook to pass in fifteen names after the time limit and deny Scotch Plains the right to get two names in.

ELECTED DYING MAN.

Fatal Illness of Mr. Barrett Did Not Deter K. of C. Delegates.

The annual state convention of the Knights of Columbus of New Jersey was held yesterday in Columbia Hall, a clubhouse owned by the Jersey City knights. Forty-six councils were represented. State Deputy Charles J. Barrett, who is seriously ill with typhoid fever at his home in South Orange, and Past Day Deputy Thomas J. Fay, of Long Branch, presided. He died last night. The convention despite the illness of the state deputy re-elected him for the year to come. The Plainfield council was represented by A. A. Cannon, A. E. LaPorte and J. J. Hines.

C. A. Gough, of Trenton, was re-elected as secretary after a close contest with P. H. McGehan, of Kearny. The vote was 47 to 43. Another exciting contest was for state advocate. P. J. Dolan, of Newark, won with 46 votes to 43 for John J. Cone, of South Amboy. James P. Lynch, of Jersey City, was unanimously elected treasurer. The delegates to the national convention at Jamestown, in August, are: James J. Hopkins, Jersey City; John J. Hickey, Bayonne; Thomas J. McLaughlin, Newark. The reports show that the organization has had a prosperous year. The next annual convention will be held in Lakewood on the second Tuesday of May, 1908.

Noted Soloist Will Assist.

William N. Searles, Jr., who will be the assisting artist at Miss Whitney's musicale at the Park Club, Tuesday evening, May 28, is the popular and successful soloist at St. Paul's church, Newark. He holds the position of precentor to the delight and satisfaction of all. Miss Whitney is considered fortunate in securing Mr. Searles for this occasion and music lovers will enjoy a treat. Another feature of the evening will be the Grand Duo, "Hommage a Handel" by Moscheles, performed on two pianos, by Misses Frances Rittenhouse and Muriel Collins, two young pupils who have already made remarkable progress in the art of piano playing. Admission to the recital will be by cards of invitation.

Y. M. C. A. Circus Party.

A circus party is being organized among the Y. M. C. A. boys by Office Secretary W. E. Andrews. The Juniors will get together at the association building at 1:15 Saturday afternoon, and go to the Forepaugh & Sells show in body. They will also have a delightful time with a huge joint stock of peanuts and pink lemonade on the side.

Peterson Sent to Reformatory.

Charles Peterson, colored youth from this city, who was charged with assault, was arraigned in the Union County Court, this morning. He entered a plea of non vult and was sent to the Rahway Reformatory.

Boat Club Holds Banquet.

Fifty members of the Triton Boat Club, of Newark, held a banquet at Pedestown, last night. A stringed orchestra provided music and other entertainment features were contributed by talent from the club.

ARRESTED FOR FORGERY

Man From Boston Charged With Using W. M. Stillman's Name Fraudulently.

GAVE CLOTHIER CHECK

Harry Werner's Comparison of Signatures and Policeman's Opportune Appearance Lead to Capture of Suspect.

Charged with forging the name of William M. Stillman, the latter to a check for $32.87, a man who gives his name as Charles E. Fay, and says his home is in Boston, Mass., was arraigned before City Judge Runyon, sitting as a State magistrate, this morning. He gave the check to Harry Werner, a West Front street clothier, at 6 o'clock yesterday afternoon, in payment for a bill of goods amounting to $27. He was remanded for examination tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock.

The prisoner is a tall, cadaverous-looking man, partly bald, and looks the 46 years he gives as his age. He told Policeman Florence McCarthy, who arrested him, that he came here from Elizabeth yesterday afternoon. He claims a temporary residence on North Broad street, Elizabeth.

Fay bought a $26 suit of clothes and several articles of furnishings from Mr. Werner, and gave the check for $32.87. He said Mr. Stillman had drawn it in payment of commissions due him. Mr. Werner accepted it without suspicion at the time, and gave the man $5.87 in change. Fay left the store with his purchases, and walked leisurely to Edward A. Laing's stationery store on the opposite side of the street. When he customer stepped from the store Mr. Werner thought of the possibility of the check being bogus. He took the check to the store of Putnam & De-Graw, next door, and asked for rent receipts signed by Mr. Stillman, who owns the building, for a comparison of signatures.

The signatures didn't look much alike. As Mr. Werner and Mr. DeGraw were bending over the papers, near the front of the store, Policeman McCarthy looked in.

"What's the matter?" he asked.

They told him. When he learned that Fay was at Laing's store he lost no time in going there and placing the stranger under arrest.

Fay and the policeman that Mr. Stillman had given the check in payment of commissions on "some business" two or three hours before. He described Mr. Stillman accurately, and gave his address on West Seventh street correctly. Mr. Stillman was called up on the telephone at Police Headquarters, unhesitatingly denied giving anybody a check within the time cited by Fay.

Two charges were entered against the prisoner, one of forgery by Mr. Stillman and another of uttering a spurious check by Mr. Werner. Bank checks on the First National Bank were found in the man's pockets. The check given to Mr. Werner was drawn on the First National.

HARROWS MADE CHAIRMAN OF SHADE TREE COMMISSION.

Mayor Fisk Administers Oath of Office and Commissioners Organize at Once.

The new shade tree commissioners, Elliot T. Barrows, Miles Roberts and Street Commissioner Andrew J. Garrett, appointed recently by Mayor Fisk, met for the first time in Mayor's office and after taking the oath of office, administered by Mr. Fisk, organized by electing Mr. Barrows chairman and Mr. Garrett secretary.

No work was decided upon, the evening being devoted to a general discussion of plans likely to be undertaken. The commission is to take charge of all shade trees in Plainfield and direct the planting and cutting down of such trees as to the judgment of the members is thought desirable.

Luncheon to Department Heads.

Former Mayor William L. Saunders, of the borough, tendered a luncheon to the heads of departments of the Ingersoll-Rand Drill Co. at the Lawyers' Club, New York, yesterday. His main reason for giving the affair was to introduce the new head to Mr. P. Drake, of London, who represents the American capitalists of the company. Those from Plainfield in attendance were L. I. Wightman, manager of the advertising department; C. B. Morse, manager of the pattern taking department, and F. C. Iglehart, Jr., office manager.

Learning the New System.

In order to obviate any hitch when possession of the new telephone building is taken next month, the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company has arranged to have the telephone operators here go to Boston both to learn the new system. The operators are given instruction and a time and so not to cripple the local service.

The City Beautiful.

Mayor Fisk, of Plainfield, has made an earnest appeal to the people of that town to maintain the reputation of "The City Beautiful." He urges co-operation in keeping streets, business blocks and vacant lots free from refuse. Plainfielders always were proud of their beautiful city, and it should not require much urging on the part of their chief magistrate to prevent them from falling into careless if not shovenly ways in the matter of the appearance of their streets. We do not believe, however, that there is much danger from this source. At the same time, it was well for Mayor Fisk to issue a reminder for those who might become lax. His action shows that he has the best interests of the community at heart, and wants Plainfield to remain "a thing of beauty and a joy forever" to the eyes of visitors.—Elizabeth Journal.

Trinity Commandery Observes Ascension Day at the Church of the Holy Cross.

A BANQUET FOLLOWS

Rev. George A. Warner, Who Preached to the Knights, Also Addressed Them at the Feast.

Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., observed Ascension Day by attending divine services at the Church of the Holy Cross, Thursday. The sir knights were present upon the invitation of the rector, Rev. George A. Warner, who preached the sermon. The edifice was crowded to its capacity with worshippers. The regular services were held, including a special programme of music by the vested choir of the church, under the direction of H. Raymond Loder.

In addressing the sir knights, Mr. Warner said:

"It is with very real and genuine pleasure that I welcome you men here on the evening of Ascension Day—a day in the Christian year which is full of its lessons for churchman and knight in common. I shall be disappointed if your acquaintance begins and ends here in this somewhat formal manner. A common cause is ground not only for unity but a basis for personal friendship as well. No man needs to know men so much as the Christian minister. To know them on the broad ground afforded by personal friendship. That there is a broad cleavage today between the clergyman and a large number of the laymen no thinking man denies. The laymen in his heart reverences God and the things of God and in times past he has seen and heard that in the clergyman which in the pulpit or out, to him, the layman, seems twaddle and vague theorizing. From some dreadful scandal shakes the church such as the daily papers report of a clergyman gone wrong and the man decides with a man's independence to do his own thinking and act on his own counsel. The clergyman that too often on his part resents the critical attitude of his male parishoner, call him a man of little discernment or respect for authority; handles the man tactlessly and sees him drift from the cherished sea of established truth and authority out on to the bosom of that great ocean of free thought, individualism and radical disbelief of the tenets of the Christian Faith. How different it all might have been and might be could the men thus differing—the clergyman and the layman —see how much they had in common and how slight their differences often are. Had the personal equation of a real admiration and regard for one another entered in, the quaking of allowances, the patient dealing with one another's difficulties and doubts such as one friend gives to another, how much stronger and richer the lives of those men might be and the world made better for their united testimony and witness of the truth.

"It is on this common ground of personal friendship that we must meet, you as laymen and as clergymen in this community. As an order from the beginning you have stood for two things—for the preservation of the ancient creeds in defence of which during its recital your drawn sword is typical of your readiness to defend the faith; you stand also for knighthood in its truest sense. To exponents of chivalry in an age which is said to have lost it and the protection of the weak from the strong—in a time when the weak are going to the wall and the strong prevailing.

"Surely we have common ground however far our methods may differ and our conceptions of truth vary. We are both pledged to the fight to maintain the Christian Faith and to uphold in the world the weak. I believe me, I honor you in proportion as you are earnestly seeking to fulfill the ideal of your order and by any way in my power I would cooperate with you. If I demand the Christian knight, courage, I must know one another and be free of suspicion, religious bigotry and jealousy and do the work of Christian man and knight.

"The defence of the Christian faith was never more needed than at the present. What form shall it take with the Christian knight. The days of the drawn sword in defence of the faith are of the past. We live in an age where the power of moral suasion goes further and is more effective than the sword. The sword at best is purely negative, it protects from attack, but the power of moral suasion is positive, growing, defining, explaining, illumining. What do I mean by this power of moral suasion? Simply that power which was exemplified in the life of Christ, a life so lived that men were compelled to see in it the power and the truth of God in its source.

"But surely on the face of Christ's teaching and the example of His life, Christianity was not to be advanced by power of the sword or brute strength; how we heam Him say to those who would call fire down from heaven on those who had treated their master contemptuously, 'Ye know not what spirit ye are of, the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives but to save them.'

"Again, I am come to seek and to save that which is lost; I come and the whole ... was all against ... strength and arbitrary force.

"Know'st thou not, he ... could summon twelve legions ... angels, but how then could ... Scriptures—telling of his ... power and the way of peace which ... He should travel be fulfilled.

"It has taken us long to learn the lesson from our Master and even now after long centuries of enlightenment there is the spirit of religious intolerance, of bigotry and hatred which only needs sufficient rein to try the compulsion of brute strength and bodily torture.

"What then is the compelling force? For the message rings out true and clear to every one of us who are servants of Christ. It says go out into the highways and hedges and compel them to come in.

"It is not the force that shall be exerted by the servants of Christ the same which he exerted—the compelling power of moral suasion. Just what do I mean by that? Simply this to present in its purest, word and deed, the life changed like unto Christ's that it is itself the most convincing message. Sincerity, honesty, purity, gentleness, sympathy, helpfulness, unselfishness, all flowed out from Him so that life and word were one harmonious whole; think of the creed that followed Him and whose oft-repeated comment was, never man spoke like this man; He speaketh as one having authority (the authority of moral superiority) which men from the depths of their own hearts, pure and natural and following a natural and true impulse they willingly yielded to such compulsion; they forsook all that stood in the way and followed Him. That is what we mean by moral suasion, the appeal to that which is innate, sense of right and justice and goodness, an appeal so strong that it cannot be resisted.

"It is like the appeal to the plant which is made to plant life in sun and rain, and dew. It is compelled by the very nature of its being to answer to the call; a rock may bar its way the soil or environment may be poor, the weeds envelop it, but let the great Gardener rush in and then away the weeds, or transplant the new soil and the sunshine and the rain have natural and free access, and how the poor starved plant will be compelled to grow.

"We are beginning to realize, I think, the wonderful power of moral suasion; a power which works subtilly and more powerfully that any brute force could to compel men. It is a common thing to read of men, who by force of example, by a sermon, or by a tract, by a treatise, or by the power of a book, have been compelled to give up evil lives, to restore, 'conscience money,' it is called, to disgorge, to confess, to make restitution; the compelling power of truth and of a confidence has been such that men could not go on in evil doing, they must accept the invitation of Christ and come to Him and enjoy the blessings He has accumulated for those who come to Him.

"But Christ showed the difference in the spirit which we interpret compulsion let me speak briefly of its individual application to all of us who are servants of Christ, priest and laymen alike. He sent His servants (that's you and me) and said: 'Go out on the highways and hedges and compel them to come in;' not merely in the lanes and streets of the city, but in the places that reach beyond the immediate neighborhood; the places where men can be easily overlooked or hidden by the hedges.

"How easy it is to bring out the best in our friends, our neighbors, to be kindly and gentle and courteous to the well bred, those who are known to us, who belong to our own church, our own community. But to go outside of it. Ah that is hard. Our daily papers tell us in their editorials of the decline in church membership and church going among the artisans, mechanics and laborers, the rapid advantage of men seen in our churches, and all sorts of reasons are given from the results of higher criticism, down to church snobbishness and exclusiveness; and the decline it is said is the character of men and their preaching; but it seems to me rather inadequate to lay the blame at these doors; doesn't it lie deeper and isn't the blame to be divided among us individually? Out into the byways and the hedges we have gone, as servants of Christ, we stand marked men and bearing the message, and that message is the whole tone and tenor of our lives.

"If the men whom we would fain see members of Christ and attendants at His church are not there it is because the messengers have not made the message so compelling and beautiful that men are stirred out of their carelessness and their wickedness and are ready to hear the Prodigal son was, back to His Father's home.

"Christ treated every soul with the profoundest respect; rich and poor alike were attracted by Him and His life. Ought it not to be so with your life and mine?

"Tomorrow, if through ignorance or necessity, a man should come you the best service in his power what would be your method? Would you look upon it as a rare business opportunity, or get a man at a small wage, or would you give the man a fair and just and generous wage according to his capability even though you made a few dollars less. There is your choice between a business opportunity according to business standards and a Christian's

THEODORE B. STARR IS STRICKEN BY APOPLEXY

NOTED NEW YORK JEWELER DIES AT OF HOME E.S. HYATT.

Theodore B. Starr, a well known jeweler, of New York, died on Wednesday night at the residence of his cousin, Edgar S. Hyatt, in East Ninth street, from apoplexy. As he had been in his usual good health his death was entirely unexpected.

Mr. Starr was the son of Colonel Elias Starr and Harriet Howard White, and was born in New Rochelle on August 6, 1837, where his father kept the Priory School.

On his father's death he went with the jewelry house of Reed & Taylor. In 1862 he started a small commission business at No. 18 John street, New York. In 1864 he took in Mr. Hermann Marcus as a partner and the firm of Starr & Marcus was well known until 1901, when Mr. Marcus bought out Mr. Marcus' interest and moved up to Madison square, New York, being the first of the jewelers to move uptown.

In his private charities, which included the Gordon House for boys in Seventh avenue, New York, no worthy cause ever appealed to him in vain.

Mr. Starr leaves two sons, Louis M. Starr and Haword W. Starr, who is manager of the Mohawk Gas Company, of Schenectady. He was married in 1862 to Miss Caroline Morris, daughter of the late Lewis Henry Morris, of Boston.

Mr. Starr was a member of the Union League, Lawyers' Club, Constitutional of London and a life member of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, and of the American Geographical Society, all of New York.

WAITERS GIVE MINSTREL SHOW AT TRUELL COURT.

The first annual minstrel concert and cake walk by the waiters of Truell Court was enjoyed by a large audience at the court, Thursday. The entire programme was given by local talent and it afforded an evening of genuine fund for all.

The affair was arranged by W. H. Ballard, assisted by Will Tobias and among those taking part were Will Cheshire, tenor; Miss Anna Fields, prima donna; Miss Etta Webster, soprano soloist, and William Tobias, sentimentalist. Besides there were instrumental selections on the mandolin, violin and guitar by Toney Brothers.

The programme was made up of old-time Southern medleys, up-to-date songs and many of the popular vocal selections of the day, concluding with a cake walk in which three couples contested for a large cake. Will Cheshire and his lady were declared to be the winner. Miss Lulu Fields was accompanist. There was also buck and wing dancing.

WAR OVER PROPERTY

Husband and Wife Arrayed Against Each Other in District Court Case.

WOMAN IS VICTORIOUS

Hickings Had Lease From Houston But Latter's Better Half, Who Holds Title, Gets Possession.

The first climax to what is probably the most important landlord and tenant case that has ever engaged the attention of the District Court occurred Wednesday, when acting upon instructions from Judge Newcorn, Sergeant-at-Arms Hezekiah Hand served a warrant of removal, issued April 12, upon William Hickings, who occupied the premises at 935 West Front street, in the rear, owned by Mrs. Frederica Houston, wife of Isaac Houston.

Following the issue of the warrant, by consent of counsel, it was not served immediately, the understanding being that a new amicable agreement could be reached. This was found to be impossible and last Friday Sergeant Hand notified the defendant that possession would be demanded. He was given until the first of this week to move. Mr. Hickings said that he would not move, and that his position was supported by Isaac Houston, who claimed an equity in the property.

Yesterday Mr. Hand visited the place, where he was met by Mr. Houston. He demanded the former's authority for proceeding against the tenant. This was shown, whereupon Mr. Houston said that he would not allow the officer to cross his property to reach the house occupied by Mr. Hickings as he considered it trespassing. A heated argument and a lively tussle followed, in which Mr. Hand came out on top. He then proceeded to the house, where he found Mr. Hickings awaiting him.

"I'll not leave the place," declared the tenant, whereupon Mr. Hand replied: "You will have to get out of here if I have to use force to accomplish my purpose." Mr. Hickings declared that he was acting upon the advice of his counsel, William G. Decker.

Just then Mr. Houston put in an appearance and it looked as though there would be more trouble, but by moral persuasion Mr. Hand induced Mr. Hickings to vacate the premises. Both the tenant and Mr. Houston have entered suits against Mr. Hand and Mrs. Houston.

Mrs. Frederica Houston, who is the second wife of Isaac Houston, claims that the property at 935 West Front street, belongs to her. On December 31, last, she served a notice on William Hickings, the tenant, that she would demand the premises on April 1 He claimed to hold a lease given by Isaac Houston and refused to move. She then brought action in the district court for possession of the premises and accordingly summons were issued April 1 returnable on April 9. On the latter date Mrs. Houston proved that dispossess notice had been served and that the property was in her name.

At the time, Mrs. Houston's lawyer appeared as a witness against her. The lease given by Mr. Houston, dated October 1, 1905, was offered in evidence, but later was thrown out, because the wife had proved the right of property. Mr. Hickings offered his receipts book showing that the rent was paid to date. *At the conclusion of the hear*ing judgment was rendered for the plaintiff and against the defendant, O. April 12 the warrant of removal was issued at the request of Mrs. Houston.

Some sympathy is expressed among the neighbors, it is said, for Mr. Houston. They say that he worked hard for many years to accumulate a sufficient amount of money to purchase the property at 935 West Front street and erect a new dwelling on the land. It is alleged that during a period of financial trouble Mr. Houston placed the property in his wife's name and that now she is using her rights in an alleged arbitrary manner. Mr. Houston has been ill for some time and only recently was discharged from the hospital.

W. S. Appleman has been engaged as counsel by Mr. Houston, while Francis J. Blatz represents Mr. Hickings. He is employed W. G. Decker as his lawyer.

Little faults that spoil our li... of Solomon. S. H. (Union meeting with the Juniors.)

The song of Solomon is a poem... human love in which the mortal love... between Christ and the church is ... poetically set forth. The topical refer... suggested above consists of but a single verse—"Take us the foxes, the ... foxes that spoil the vines, for our ... vines are tender" or are blossoming. The exact meaning of this verse is very much disputed. The most probable explanation is that it is the call of the maiden to her lover to go with him to the vineyard and catch the little foxes that destroyed the blossoms of the vines. The foxes, or little jackals, were very numerous in Palestine. They were seldom more than fifteen inches in height, yet they could do considerable damage, for, because of their size, they could enter the vineyards when the larger ones could not, and the destruction of the blossoms was as great as the destruction of the clusters of grapes later on. The little foxes, therefore, needed to be carefully guarded against lest unawares they should do great damage to the vineyards.

The little foxes in all times have been used figuratively to illustrate little sins. They are so small as to do no harm, and yet how many lives, freed from great evils, are spoiled by petty faults and faults. The little foxes did not cut down the vines or tear away the branches, but they spoiled the fruit, which was the important thing after all. So our little sins and faults may not wreck our entire lives, they may not reduce us to poverty and rags or cause us to be cast out of the church of Christ on earth, and yet they do spoil our lives to a great extent and greatly cripple our influence for good. How many things that may seem trifling and unimportant impair our usefulness in life. Personal conceit, the tendency to exaggeration, little "white lies," an unpleasant disposition, an air of superiority—these and many other like attributes may make our entire lives barren and unfruitful. Eve in life where luscious fruit should abound the blossoms have been eaten away and the life is spoiled.

Little sins and little defects, if allowed, grow to larger sins and larger faults. Little foxes grow into great ones. So a little sin, if tolerated, may grow into a large one. Moderate drinking, which at first may seem so harmless, may lead to a drunkard's grave. Self conceit may develop into the worst form of hypocrisy. Little deceits and white lies may lead one to become a great liar. The only thing, therefore, to do is to destroy them while they are little. The cub may be easily handled; the grown animal becomes the master. Take the foxes, the little foxes, that spoil the vine."

And how little sins multiply! Great sins are rare. In a lifetime we may not commit one of the greater sins, and yet the little ones may so multiply that ruin and misery may come to us. Let us be constantly on our guard and save ourselves from all sins, little and great.

"This One Thing I Do."

"This one thing I do" is a good motto for every Christian Endeavor society. This leads me to ask:

What is your purpose? Have you made any plans for the future, or are you living upon past achievements? God forbid that we should rest on the past and be content to dwell through a winter of privilege and opportunity in the Master's work. Are you satisfied with Christian Endeavor in your church, or should we should wholly for the prayer meeting, or are you reaching out to something more? What shall be our Lord conditions must govern the answer. It may be the Lord has a definite work in connection with the midweek meeting, the Sunday school service, the Sunday school, the Junior Endeavor institute, visitation, evangelistic effort, sending a representative to the foreign field and ... to support them. I cannot answer this question for your society; you alone can do it. Determine the sphere to which God calls you. But of this one thing I am highly convinced—to wit, that unless we spend our energies toward the accomplishment of some definite purpose we shall lose one of the essentials which make for fervor and enthusiasm in the work of our society. God has a mission for you. Find it! Then address yourself to the appointed task. Let drop all the baneful former aches and pains and get to work. Let's plan and plan large things. And then—I do. And in the accomplishment of some power and spiritual ... —H. A. Kimports, President State Union.

"Watching Unto Prayer."

By REV. WALTER J. TATE, D. D.

Passages for reference—Neh. vi, 9; II Cor. i, 8-11.

In nothing is the teaching of Jesus plainer than in the matter of the use of the advantages which God gives us in our possessions in some things. We are not equally nor similarly endowed. No two of us are exactly alike in nature or ability. We cannot do things in the same way even if we desire so to do. To complete the community and develop society every man with his peculiar equipment is needed. This is particularly true of the church of Jesus Christ. This truth was clearly seen by Paul, and his favorite way of declaring it was under the figure of the human body. All parts of the body are needed for the well being. None is superfluous. So among ones. All are needed to co-ordinate their particular effects to reach the final result.

This teaching is not peculiar to the New Testament. It is clearly set forth in the teaching of the great prophets of the Old Testament. So convinced are they that all must work together that they see coming but disaster to the nation unless each man stands in his proper place and does his appointed work. Jesus simply carries out and makes plain these declarations of the old time messengers of Jehovah. The thought may be summarized like this:

Jehovah is lord of all things and gives to each man what he sees is best. Every one is accountable to Jehovah for the use of the things put in his possession. All and is Jehovah's, and every family have a proper share in the divine plan. They are to have special consideration, for they are under Jehovah's particular protection. They are not to be oppressed, but to be given the use in the fields and olive yards as stewards to glean what they may need. The rich are to use their wealth not for their own selfish advantage, but to act as stewards and rulers under Jehovah to benefit all the people by administering the riches for God. The man who has wisdom is to use it for the benefit of his fellows. So all people of the community are to be united by the bonds of brotherly consideration and mutual helpfulness.

It is not to be expected that in modern society the land schemes of ancient Israel could successfully be carried out, nor can all the minute provisions of the law be put in operation now under altered conditions of society. But the great eternal principles of right and justice and mercy have not changed. Our task is the same that Israel had—to find the feasible way to embody in law and action these same unchangeable and fundamental principles.

In some respects great advancement has been made in recent times in these matters. The relief of the poor and diseased and unfortunate is now given attention as never before in the world's history. The duties of morality are recognized as never before. But where is the place that business is conducted on principles of righteousness, freedom and brotherly kindness?

The duty of every Christian man is clear. We are to use all our ability and possessions as God's stewards. We shall account to Him for the manner in which we gather as well as for the way in which we distribute our gain. Not enough to give liberally when the contribution box comes around. Every day in home and in business we are doing for God. All our work is for Him. Take heed to yourself that you do your work in such manner as He will approve, for you shall surely give an account to Him of your stewardship.

Better use your stewardship here in such way as to gain friends who will stick to you hereafter.

Showing His Love.

By my very sorrows I know that God loves me; I say not whether with approbation or disapprobation, but with an infinite pity. What I need is not to feel it, to pray for that feeling; to meditate upon all that should bring that feeling into my heart; to take refuge amid my sorrow in the assurance that God loves me; that He does not willingly grieve or afflict me; that He chastens me for my profiting; that He could not show so much love for me by leaving me unchastened, untried, undisciplined.—Orville Dewey, D. D.

Keep the Sentinel on Guard.

Those who indulge fretful feelings, either of anxiety or irritation, know not what an opening they thereby give to the devil's fiery darts. Peace is the sentinel of the soul, which keeps the heart and the mind of the Christian through Christ Jesus. So long as this sentinel is on guard and doing his duty the castle of the soul is kept secure. But let the sentinel be removed and the way is opened immediately for an attack upon the fortress.—Bishop Huntington.

From whatever source bleeding arises prompt remedial measures are imperative. If from an artery or from a vein the best method is to put pressure on each side of the wound (that nearest the heart and that most remote from it), so as to prevent further access of blood to the part. THURSDAY, MAY 16, 1907.

A SATISFACTORY REPORT.

That the consolidationists have reason to rejoice over the findings of the Bi-municipal Commission cannot be gainsaid for the investigators came to the only logical conclusion, after a most thorough and exhaustive study of the problem, that a complete merger of the two municipalities is highly desirable from an economic standpoint and that the benefits would be shared not only by the borough citizens but equally by the people of the sister community. The commissioners recommended no half-way measure; they urge that the bond of union be of the most perfect sort attainable.

The result of the investigations and deliberations will be no small surprise, although the commission's conclusions were for the most part held behind closed doors and every precaution taken to have the findings kept secret. The Daily Press, however, told the public, exclusively, weeks ago, that this was the substance of the report and subsequent events of the caliber of those who had the matter in charge could not have found otherwise. Every common sense citizen knows that nothing would be gained by creating a city which would be in financial opposites. All sorts of legal entanglements would ensue and the greatest municipality would constantly be placed in an anomalous position. It is therefore a satisfaction to realize that the investigators declared unequivocally and unanimously that "consolidation without annexation is impracticable."

"The logical plan to pursue," says the report, "is to secure the passage of a bill authorizing both annexation and consolidation. It is our opinion it will be no more difficult to secure such legislation than it will be to secure satisfactory legislation to consolidate without annexation."

The recommendations of the Commission therefore is that your Honorable bodies cause to be prepared a bill for submission to the next session of the Legislature which shall provide for both consolidation and annexation, to take effect only after a majority of the legally authorized voters of both municipalities shall have voted in favor of the same at a regular or special election held for that purpose."

It must be confessed that there has been little interest taken in the commission's work. As a matter of fact the subject has been considered by many citizens as "dead," but it is undoubtedly true that interest will be revived when the proposed referendum is put before both consolidation and annexation is introduced in the Legislature. Somerset no more wants to lose its priceless treasure now than it did five or six years ago. The borough has always been a "good thing" to it and were it not for the latter's source of revenue, the county probably would be in a bad way financially. On the other hand, North Plainfield has every reason to desire to get away and become a part and parcel of Union. It has nothing in common with the rest of Somerset. Its citizens are in the main of a very different class, and by this we mean no reflection on Somerset. North Plainfield is more up-to-date and progressive in spirit; it is more like other communities in Union county.

Before dismissing the subject a word should be said regarding the valuable services rendered by the commissioners. These men represented neither party or clique and refused to allow any selfish purposes of any sort to serve. Among these number were men who held entirely different views when they first began their investigations. Some had favored the proposition five years ago and others had just as strenuously opposed it. But in the end, there was an unanimity of opinion that Plainfield and North Plainfield are one in every respect except in having that the sooner they become legally merged the better it would be for all concerned. The duty of the hour is to achieve that end.

F THE MAN OF THE HOUR.

Assuming ill health as the cause, former State Senator William M. Johnson has withdrawn from the gubernatorial race. His decision not to become a candidate for the nomination was not unexpected, but he never officially reported to the contrary at least by coming out today in a signed statement in which he says that he is out of the running. He adds that the approaching campaign will be a hot one but that the Republican party will not win.

Mr. Johnson was undoubtedly the strongest opponent with which State Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen, the only avowed candidate, had to contend and now that ex-Senator Bergen county has quit, the chances of Somerset county's nominee one have naturally increased considerable.

If Frelinghuysen's friends are only half as loyal and friends of Joseph Frankin as they say that their fa-

The death of A. D. Mulford causes a vacancy on the board of trustees in charge of the State Mutual Building and Loan Association's affairs. Local stockholders have suggested the name of W. A. Woodruff and a better choice could not be made.

LITERARY

Jack London's latest story of the Alaskan wilds appears in Success Magazine for May. The terrible sufferings of a prospector lost and at last driven to madness in the snow-heaped fastnesses of the Yukon fields gives this gifted writer opportunity for a wonderful display of his magnificent descriptive powers. This story, "Morganson's Finish," will rank as one of Jack London's greatest portrayals of character and depictions of the awful loneliness of the Arctic winter. A new presentation of Christian Science is given in Mrs. Sue Mims' "The Christianity of Christian Science." Mrs. Mims, who is a society woman and a well-known writer and lecturer on Christian Science in the South, argues for the Scriptural basis of the doctrines taught by Mrs. Eddy, and claims that the teachings of this religious order are in large measure a reversion to the purest beliefs of the primitive Christian church. Ernest Thompson Seton contributes an article on "The Merry Chipmunk," an interesting little animal of which he has made a long and careful study.

Staggering to our matter-of-course ideas on the punishment of crime is Brand Whitlock's article, "What Good Does It Do?" in the May Everybody's. The brilliant young Mayor of Toledo presents what is usually termed the idealistic view with a cogency and power of conviction that are bound to arouse discussion. The May number is full of good reading. Leroy Scott describes his recent sojourn among the Russian terrorists in an article of unusual personal and dramatic interest. The career of George Westinghouse, a fascinating narrative, is the second of the "Romances of Success." Ernest Thompson Seton completes some of his intimate animal studies, and there is an eminently readable article on "Modern Masters of Music." The fiction is of unusual excellence, including two classics in humor by O. Henry and Porter Emerson Browne. Among other writers are Lloyd Osbourne, Henry C. Rowland, Netta Syrett, Zona Gale, Edith Rickert, and Louise Morgan Sill.

Mary Fenollosa, who wrote "The Dexter" and "The Breath of the Gods," contributes to the May Smart Set one of her most delightful stories of Japan—a love-story full of delicate humor and subtle analysis. She has called it "Cupid San," and no more charming piece of fiction has recently appeared. No magazine publishes such a wide variety of stories, and the May issue is a particularly fine one. Henry Sydnor Harrison is the author of a deliciously humorous tale quite out of the ordinary run, entitled "Rhoda Gaines, M. A.;" Elizabeth Jordan, in quite another vein, writes "The Perfect Lady," which is distinctly unusual; "The Guide and the Guerdon," by Beatrice Hanscom, is purely a love-story, the scene of which is laid in the summer woods. Charles Battell Loomis, who is always amusing, writes "The Lady of the Museum Steps," and Howard Yorke Hoke's fascinating story whimsically called "The Ultimate Hannah."

The poet Lowell asked "What is so rare as a day in June?" And the answer is: a right down good detective story. Lippincott's Magazine is therefore lucky to secure for the complete novelette in its May issue one that is up to the top-notch. "The Moyett Mystery," by Nevil Monroe Hopkins, is superlatively original in scheme, yet quite within the realm of reason. A satisfying conclusion is reached through rapid-acting scenes of thrilling obscurity. While love is not the primary interest in this captivating tale there are glimpses of the tender passion, between a niece of the victim and one of the men who essays to unravel the mystery, which relieve the high tension in which the whole is involved. There are eight short-stories up to the standard which this Magazine has established—and endeavors to raise a peg with every number. Bertha M. Sinclair contributes one of her best stories of the far West, "The Deputy," which is humorous and pointed. A charming love-story of artistic trend is "The Real Thing," by Katherine Metcalf Roof. "The Firebrand, a tale of South Russia by George Allan England presents a powerful picture of present-day priesterait in the land of the Czar.

READING OF REPORTS

Robert Clark, Jr., Recounts the Year's Efforts—Total Receipts Were $800.

The twenty-sixth anniversary of the Ladies' Christian Work Society was observed at the service of Trinity Reformed church Sunday. The pulpit front was decorated with flowers, and the acting-pastor, Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, delivered a sermon to the members of the society.

Nearly one-half of the members of the society, adorned with their society badges, were present and occupied seats in front, on either side of the centre aisle. The choir rendered special music, which was highly appreciated by all. At the close of the service, Rev. Dr. Johnson was heartily congratulated by members of the society for his able and helpful address.

Before the sermon, Robert Clark, Jr., read the reports of the secretary and the treasurer. From the former it was learned that the society has 33 members, 51 active and 12 honorary. Seven active members and three honorary were added during the year. The meetings have drawn an average attendance of 12 members. The society has sent out a missionary box valued at $137, and three barrels of clothing, besides many articles of different kinds to various places. It gave $250 to the consistory for special work. Total receipts of $809 were reported by the treasurer. Of this $616 was given to various denominational causes, and $150 was set aside for the carpet fund. In the missionary fund a total of $126 was collected. It was all disbursed, the chief items being equal amounts to foreign and domestic missions: each received $48.

Dr. Johnson spoke, in part, as follows:

"I give, first of all, thanks for the story of self denial you have lived. Next I offer you congratulations. What would the officers and this church have done without your services? Your acts are registered on high, and I am persuaded the Savior smiles on you tonight.

"I know the kind of Christians you are, and I am sure you would rather hear a word of appeal, for the attainment of higher things, than to listen to words of praise. There can be no better motto for a society like yours than Christ's word, 'Ye have done what ye could.' You know when you have done your best. Whatever praise may be given you, however much you may help the church, unless you hear the Master's words in your soul that you have done what ye could,' you have not reached the highest standard.

"I wish to emphasize individuality. The only perfect faith is individual faith. You have done and service in your Master's cause this past year, that He calls you tonight to higher, nobler service. What Jesus says He says to you personally and whatever other men or women may do in worship and service their actions should not dim your sense of direct accountability. Everyone must give account.' The Lord expects you to do your duty, and your duty is to do what you can.

"Enlarged opportunities come from co-operation. Combination in spiritual things cannot fail to be effective and useful. Jesus confederated His disciples and inspired His disciples to confederate their church work. Church worship and work is a thousand times better than seclusion in one's closet.

"My sisters, by your co-operation in this society you become, not only more womanly, more sisterly, your faithful service has furnished a gem for the coronation of your Divine Master. But however good is co-operation, the impulse of Divine power must be felt in it to bring out its best. Oh, my sisters, if you desire to be remembered by your influence long after you are gone, if you wish your influence to be fragrant with your memory, remember that the immortal love of Jesus must constrain you in your service to the Blessed Master and His church."

North Plainfield Fire Veterans Renew Activity of Their Association.

The North Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association held a revival meeting Monday night. Not a religious air, but a meeting to mark a revival of activity. The organization has been somewhat dormant for a year.

It was decided to continue, and to advance, last night. The regular monthly meetings will be resumed. It is expected that forty-five of the seventy-two men eligible to membership will be in the organization by next month.

Delegates to the State meeting to be held tomorrow at North Bergen were elected. They are Horace G. Adams, F. G. Kesselring, and George Hummer.

SOME CHARMING OIL

Landscapes Also Shown—Description of Her Splendid Pictures.

So many of the friends of Miss Caroline Minturn Hall have expressed a desire to see her work, that she held two informal receptions in her studioin the Babcock building, on Friday and Saturday last, assisted by her mother, Mrs. David P. Hall.

Miss Hall's studio is charmingly arranged, bits of old brass and pottery, together with embroideries furnishing an artistic background for the pictures and drawings displayed. The portrait in oils, of her grandmother, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, attracted especial interest and attention. The color scheme is very pleasing. The distinguished lady is represented sitting in a white Windsor chair, and dressed in creamy white. The background of the picture is of a brownish green of subdued tone. The figure is life size and three quarter length. The likeness is excellent, and Miss Hall received many compliments on her success in painting so difficult a subject. Dignity and power characterize face and figure alike. The portrait was painted to order, for Mrs. Howe's son, Professor Henry Marion Howe, of Columbia University.

Miss Hall's specialty is landscape however. Her most recent piece of work shows a group of oakes, with the russet tints of autumn outlined against a sky of the loveliest turquoise blue, in which rise great goldon clouds. The coloring and composition of this picture were much admired.

Another painting exhibited is a wind-swept lanscape, the onward rush of clouds showing the artist's power of reproducing striking atmospheric effects.

A number of scenes in Brittany, Fountainebleau, Paris and Rhode Island showed a wide range of subjects and great variety of color and treatment. Miss Hall's life is busy and in this country have declared Miss Hall's work to be distinguished by poetic feeling and excellence of composition, as well as by the large way in which she looks at nature.

Especial interest was shown in her three large landscape drawings, that were exhibited in the New Salon in Paris, Miss Hall having taken the first prize for drawing, a silver medal, at the Delecluse Academy. Two of her most important paintings are now on exhibition elsewhere.

A moonlight in Brittany is at the Macbeth Galleries in New York and a Wooded Vale (which has been at the exhibition of the National Academy in New York, just closed) will be shown by invitation at the coming autumn exhibition of the Worcester Art Museum. This picture was also at the New Salon in Paris, and at Angers, France (also by invitation), and elsewhere. Miss Hall's friends declared her mornings in a studio to be very agreeable novelties, while Mrs. Hall was much congratulated on her daughter's success.

SCENES OF PRINCETON GIFT TO THE P. H.S.

EDWARD I. PATTERSON MAKES PRESENTATION SPEECH.

Edward J. Patterson, a graduate of the Plainfield High School and a member of the class of '84, Princeton, addressed the students of the local school, Monday morning. In the name of the Alumni Association he presented to the school a picture which shows the buildings and campus of Princeton.

He spoke of the value of a college education and referred to the advantages offered at Princeton. Of the latter he mentioned the open air, unconventional life of this college; the gymnasium which he said is second to no other of the American colleges; and the honor system introduced by President Woodrow Wilson, which leaves the matter of conducting examinations entirely with the students. During examination the students have their freedom and are not watched by professors, but at the conclusion they sign a pledge of honor.

Ball Player May Go to Asylum.

Washington, May 15.—Augustus Geager, a catcher, who has played in a large number of semi-professional and also several league baseball teams in this State and Pennsylvania, will probably be taken to the Morris Plains Hospital. Geager came here with his wife Friday, and Monday, it is said, he became violent and steps were taken to have him removed to the hospital, where he was once an attendant. There also he was catcher for the hospital team. Lately Geager has been making his home in Somerville.

Miss Carrie Egel, of Somerset street, has recovered from a two months' illness.

...IERSEY'S TALK

Editor of Epworth Herald Addresses First M. E. Church Congregation in the Morning.

"Supreme Strength" was the subject of a scholarly sermon delivered at the First M. E. church, Sunday, by Rev. Dr. Frank Moore, president of Pennington Seminary, the occasion being the anniversary of Chapter No. 1, of the Epworth League. The first one organized by the young people of that denomination in this country.

The speaker divided his subject into three parts—the strength of the body, that of the mind and thirdly that of the spirit. Under the first heading he dwelt on the importance of physical strength, so necessary in fighting the battles of life. He then spoke of the necessity of having mental strength and lastly spiritual strength, which he considered the most important of all.

Dr. Moore proved conclusively the advantages a college-bred man has over a High School graduate as the latter class has the advantage over Grammar School pupils, and quoted many statistics to show that history proves the statement. He urged the importance of a college education which he said would help to develop a student physically, mentally and spiritually and by attaining those things are developed in a way that makes them valuable and useful citizens in all walks of life.

Dr. Moore was a classmate of Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea at Dickinson College, and has held several pastorates in the New Jersey Conference. He was appointed dean of Pennington Seminary, which position he held but a short time, when he was elected president three years ago, succeeding Rev. Dr. O'Hanlon. Although but forty years old, he has exceptional talent and executive ability and has had great success in his present position.

Rev. Dr. F. J. Herben, editor of the Epworth Herald, who was the guest of James R. Joy, of the borough, Sunday, spoke at the First M. E. church, Sunday morning, taking for his subject "Be Strong." His remarks had a bearing on the Epworth League anniversary of Chapter No. 1, which was celebrated last night, when Rev. Dr. Moore, president of Pennington Seminary, made an address. Dr. Herben, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Joy, was the guest of Rev. Dr. Noble, presiding of Hackettstown Institute, and Mrs. Noble, at their summer cottage in the Adirondacks, last week, returning home on Saturday.

UNIFORMED DEMONS WERE IN THE HALL

SO DANCING DEVOTEE OF APOSTOLIC CHURCH DRRGGED HER OUT.

"They are raising the Old Harry at a religious meeting in the Smith & Jackson Building," was the message telephoned to Police Headquarters, Paterson, about midnight, Saturday, by the janitor of the building, who asked for the reserves. Policeman Cooke investigated, and this is what he found:

The Apostolic Church, a new sect in Paterson, had been holding a Saturday night meeting on the third floor, with the Rev. P. J. Blackledge in charge. Members of the Salvation Army had heard of the enthusiasm of previous meetings, and Capt. Walker, a young woman, and Envoy Susi decided to attend. They had been present but a short time when a middle-aged woman unpinned her hair and, as one of the Salvationists subsequently described it, "proceeded to dance from one end of the hall to the other and shout that there were uniformed demons in the hall and that she had been authorized by the Lord to drive them out."

As the Salvationists were the only uniformed persons in the hall they were a bit unemfortable, but kept their seats until the dancing one approached and seized Capt. Walker and attempted to drag her to the floor. Envoy Susi then interfered. Then it was that the attention of the janitor was attracted by the row and he decided to call the police.

"It was merely a case of outsiders scoming at our meeting. We ordered them out and they would not go," said the Rev. Mr. Blackledge.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Corlett, of South avenue, who are abroad, are now in Spain. They will return home the latter part of the summer.

...FOR COMMITTEE CUP

Morse Wins First Honors at Park Club With Net Score of 93, Dr. Carroll Being Second.

Despite the high wind and chilly atmosphere there was a large field out at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday to engage in play. While the wind conditions were such as to prevent good work, many excellent scores were returned. A somewhat remarkable feature was that there were five contestants who were the for first honors for the Golf Committee cup, each returning an 84. This will give each one of the five 1 1-6 of a point. The result speaks well for the excellent handicapping system, showing that the committee was pretty accurate in its rating of the players.

These scores were returned for the Golf Committee cup:

Frank O. Reinhart, 84, 0-84; W. Lester Glenney, 84, 0-84; C. B. Morgan, 86, 2-84; Arthur Murphy, 91, 7-84; D. H. Rowland, 98, 14-84; Roger F. Murray, 91, 6-85; Julius E. Erickson, 97, 12-85; Frank H. Talmadge, 86, 0-86; Henry D. Hibbard, 97, 6-91; Stuart H. Patterson, 107, 10-97.

In addition there was play for the Green Committee cup, weekly competition for those with handicaps of fifteen or over. These scores were returned:

Herbert Rogers, 99, 18-81; George F. Earl, 111, 21-90; Hugh F. Fox, 107, 17-90. Mr. Rogers receives three points and the other two players 1 1-2 points each.

The active season began at the Park Golf Club on Saturday with the initial play for the President's cup, scratch competition. Owing to the heavy rain, the course was in many places almost inundated with water, making good scores impossible. There was a large field, but a number did not post their scores for the first day's play. Charles B. Morse won the first honors for the trophy with a net score of 95, Rev. Dr. Carroll finished second with a 98, while Charles A. Reed and Leon R. Thurlow were tied for the remaining points with a net 102. The scores:

Charles B. Morse, 113, 18-95; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 112, 14-98; Charles A. Reed, 107, 5-102; Leon R. Thurlow, 112, 10-102.

METUCHEN BEATEN BY CLINTON AVENUE

PLAINFIELD TEAM WELL PLAYED GAME BY SCORE OF 5 TO 2.

The Clinton Avenue team journeyed to Metuchen, Saturday afternoon and defeated the nine of that place in a well-played and exciting contest, the score being 5 to 2. Features of the game were the pitching of Clifford Randolph, who struck out sixteen men, and the stick work of Brit. Martin, who secured three hits, including a clean home run. The Plainfield boys showed up strong, and gave evidence of being in championship form. That the team will be a factor in the Inter-City Amateur League race goes without saying, as every man fills his position well.

Next Saturday, when the league opens, Clinton Avenue will play Scotch Plains at the latter place.

...ISH-RITE TEMPLE

...r, Glenny, Morgan, One of the Finest Structures ...s and Rowland of Masonry in America to ... be Ready by May 28.

BUILDING DESCRIBED

Complete In Every Detail—An Auditorium One Of Its Features—The Officers.

The new temple which is being erected for the bodies of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry in the Valley of Jersey City, at Nos. 15-21 Park street, in Jersey City, is rapidly nearing completion. In fact, it is so nearly ready for occupancy that notices have been mailed to the members that a special meeting will be held in the building on May 28. The picture of the temple printed in this issue can give no adequate idea of the beauty and statelisness of the structure, and when the members are admitted they will find that they will have a home of which they may well be proud. A reporter of The Daily Press was permitted a view of the building recently and found a small army of workmen straining every nerve to finish it in time for the special meeting.

The temple stands upon a high terrace, with a fine stone approach and esplanade, ornamented with two bronze columns with three electric light globes on each. When once the building is entered the entire scheme of architecture is apparent. It is severely classic and gains much of its impressiveness from its beautiful simple lines. The contractors and architects have grasped the idea of the trustees, who have had entire charge of the construction, and have given the members a structure which for beauty of workmanship, adaptability for their every need and completeness of detail is not approached by any Scottish Rite Temple in the United States.

The first floor is devoted to the secretary's office, cloak rooms, kitchen and a banquet room, of which the beamed ceiling is twenty feet above the floor, and which is but five hundred people. The main staircase is double and leads from the right and left of the lobby to the mezzanine floor, where are found the library and candidates' parlor. One short flight up are the members' parlors and the main auditorium with vaulted ceiling twenty-five feet high, a most commodious stage to the east, and to the west the organ balcony a harmony of red and gold, the feature being the great organ with twenty-seven ranks of pipes, built by Hilborne L. Roosevelt, and one of the finest instruments ever turned out by them. The stage has been most completely equipped by Toomey & Volland Scenic Co., of St. Louis, Mo., with some fifty drops and their accessories, notably a beautiful one of velvet and plush with gold embroidery. The dressing rooms —which are very large and fully equipped—are under the stage. The second mezzanine floor is devoted to a lodge room, with proper parlors, etc., which the trustees have granted to Masonic bodies, now meeting in various halls in Jersey City, and for which they have a great many applications. The building is most tastefully furnished in hand bossed leather and massive oak, with rich and beautiful hangings. It is most accessible from all directions, being only twelve minutes from the Pennsylvania Railroad ferry, and five minutes from the Newark branch of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and the trolley cars from Newark, Elizabeth, Bayonne and elsewhere, etc., pass within one hundred and fifty feet of the door.

The building is erected by the Scottish Rite Association of New Jersey, a corporation formed by the trustees of the several bodies of the Rite in the Valley of Jersey City, and of which John W. R. Crawford, of Elizabeth, is the founder and president, with Steven Smith, T. F. Watson, R. D. Sears, M. G. Perkins and J. C. Cassidy as directors.

The presiding officers of the four bodies are:

Walter B. Ward, 32d degree, of Elizabeth, commander in chief of N. J. consistory; William H. Jones, of Newark, W. Master of the Lafayette R. C. of H.; A. Burritt, of Bayonne, S. P. C. of the R. of J.; Henry C. Cadmus, of Jersey City, T. P. Master, Lodge of Perfection.

A SATISFACTORY REPORT.

That the commissioners have reason to rejoice over the findings of the bi-sectional Commission cannot be gainsaid for the investigators came to the only logical conclusion after a most thorough and exhaustive study of the problem, that a complete merger of the two municipalities is highly desirable from a economic standpoint and that the benefits would be shared not only by the boroughites but equally so by the people of the sister community. The commissioners recommend as a half-way merger; they argue that the bond of union be of the most perfect sort attainable.

The result of the investigations and deliberations has in no sense a surprise, although the commission's meetings were for the most part held behind closed doors and every precaution taken to save the findings from the secret. The Daily Press, however, told the public, exclusively, weeks ago; what the sum and substance of the report would be. Men of the calibre of those who had the matter in charge could not have found otherwise. Every common sense citizen knows that nothing would be gained by creating a city which would be in two counties. All sorts of legal entanglements would ensue and the greater municipality would constantly be placed in an anomalous position. It is therefore a satisfaction to realize that the investigators declared unequivocally and unanimously that "consolidation without annexation is impracticable."

"The logical plan to pursue," says the report, "is to secure the passage of a bill authorizing both annexation and consolidation in our opinion it will be so much difficult to secure such legislation that it will be to secure satisfactory legislation to consolidate without annexation.

"The recommendation of the Commission, therefore, is that your Honorable bodies cause to be prepared a bill for submission to the next session of the legislature, which shall provide for both consolidation and annexation, to take effect only after a majority of the legally authorized voters of both municipalities shall have cast of in favor of the same at a regular or special election held for that purpose."

It must be confessed that there has been little interest taken in the commission's work. As a matter of fact the subject has not considered by many citizens as "dead," but it is undoubtedly true that interest will be revived when the proposed referendum law for both consolidation and annexation is introduced in the Legislature. Everybody wants to see the priceless treasure now than it did five or six years ago. The borough has always enjoyed a "good thing" to it and were it to lose its chief source of revenue, the county probably would be left as bad way financially. On the other hand, North Plainfield has every reason to desire to get away and become a part and parcel of Union. It has nothing in common with the rest of Somerset. Its citizens are in the main of a very different class, and by this we mean no reflection on Somerset. North Plainfield is more up-to-date and progressive in spirit; it is more like other communities in Union county.

Before dismissing the subject a word should be said regarding the valuable services rendered by the commissioners. These men represented neither party or clique and neither did they have any selfish purpose to serve. Being their number were men who held entirely different views when they first began their investigations. Some had favored the proposition five years ago and others had just as strenuously opposed it. But in the end, there was an unanimity of opinion that Plainfield and North Plainfield are one in every respect except in law and that the sooner they became legally merged the better it would be for all concerned. The duty of the hour is to achieve that end.

THE MAN OF THE HOUR.

Assigning ill health as the cause, former State Senator William M. Johnson has withdrawn from the gubernatorial race. His decision not to become a candidate for the nomination was not unexpected, but he has set all reports to the contrary at rest by coming out flat-footed with a statement in which he says that he is out of the running. He adds that the approaching campaign will be a hot one but that there seems no reason to believe that the Republican party will win.

Mr. Johnson has undoubtedly the strongest opposition with which State Senator Joseph Frelinghuysen, the only avowed candidate, had to contend and now that the Bergen county man has quit, the chances of Somerset county's favorite son have naturally increased to a considerable degree.

If Frelinghuysen's friends are only half as the friends of Justice and Fair Play that their fa-

The death of A. D. Mulford causes a vacancy the board of trustees in charge of the State Mutual Building and Loan Association's affairs. As a considerable portion of the much run down concern's stock is held by Plainfielders, it is but fair that one of their number be selected as a trustee. Local stockholders have suggested the name of W. A. Woodruff and a better choice could not be made.

LITERARY

Jack London's latest story of the Alaskan wilds appears in Success Magazine for May. The terrible sufferings of a prospector lost and at last driven to madness in the snow-bespread fastnesses of the Yukon fields gives this gifted writer opportunity for a wonderful display of his magnificent descriptive powers. The story, "Mormonson's Finish," will rank as one of Jack London's greatest portrayals of character and depictions of the awful loneliness of the Arctic winter. A new presentation of Christian Science is given in Mrs. Ona Smith's "The Christianity of Christian Science." Mrs. Mims, who is a society woman and a well-known writer and lecturer on Christian Science is the South, argues for the Scriptural basis of the doctrines taught by Mrs. Eddy, and claims that the teachings of this religious order are in large measure a reversion to the purest beliefs of the primitive Christian church. Ernest Thompson Seton contributes an article on "The Merry Chipmunk," of interest, the little animal of which he has made a long and careful study.

Staggering to our matter-of-course ideas on the punishment of crime is Brand Whitlock's article, "What Good Does It Do?" in the May Everybody's. The brilliant young Mayor of Toledo presents what is usually termed the idealistic view with a cogency and power of conviction that are bound to create discussion. The May number is full of good reading. Leroy Scott describes his recent sojourn among the Russian terrorists in an article of unusual personal and dramatic interest. The career of Jack Spurlock Prophet, fascinating narrative, is the second of the "Romances of Success." Ernest Thompson Seton contributes one of his intimate animal studies, and there is an eminently readable article on "Modern Masters of Music." The fiction is of unusual excellence, including two classics in humor by O. Henry and Porter Emerson Browne. Among other writers are Lloyd Osbourne, Henry C. Rowland, Netta Syrett, Zona Gale, Edith Rickert, and Louise Morgan Bill.

Mary Fenollosa, who wrote "The Dexter" and "The Breath of the Gods," contributes to the May Smart Set one of her most delightful stories of Japan—a love-story full of delicate humor and subtle analysis. She has called it "Cupid San," and no more charming piece of fiction has recently appeared. No magazine publishes such a wide variety of stories, and the May issue is a particularly fine one. Henry Sydnor Harrison is the author of a deliciously humorous tale quite out of the ordinary run, entitled "Sandy Galnes, M. A." Elizabeth Jordan, in quite another vein, writes "The Perfect Lady," which is distinctly unusual; "The Guide and the Guerdon," by Beatrice Hanscom, is purely a love-story, the scenes of which is laid in the summer woods. Charles Battell Loomis, who is always amusing, writes "The Lady of the Museum Steps," and Howard Markie Hoke a fascinating story whimsically called "The Ultimate Hannah."

The poet Lowell asked "What is so rare as a day in June?" And the answer is "A good magazine good fiction story. Lippincott's Magazine is therefore lucky to secure for the complete novelette in its May issue one that is up to the top-notch. "The Moyett Mystery," by Nevil Monroe Hopkins, is superlatively original in scheme, yet quite within the realm of reason. A satisfying conclusion is reached through rapid-acting scenes of thrilling obscurity. While love is not the primary interest in this captivating tale it plays its part in the tender passion, between a niece of the victim and one of the men who essays to unravel the mystery, which relieve the high tension in which the whole is envolved. There are eight short-stories up to the standard which this Magazine has established—and endeavors to raise a peg with every number. Bertha M. Sinclair contributes one of her best stories of the far West, "The Deputy," which is humorous and pointed. A charming love-story of artistic trend is "The Real Thing," by Katherine Metcalf Roof. "The Firebrand, a tale of South Russia by George Allan England presents a powerful picture of autocratic priestcraft in the land of the Czar.

Proceedings for possession of the store at 115 East Front street occupied by Henry Haurand as a cafe, have been started in the District Court by the Schorb estate. The action will be fought. F. J. Blatz is counsel for Mr. Haurand.

READING OF REPORTS

Robert Clark, Jr., Recounts the Year's Efforts—Total Receipts Were $9000.

The twenty-sixth anniversary of the Ladies' Christian Work Society was observed at the service of Trinity Reformed church Sunday. The pulpit front was decorated with flowers, and the acting-pastor, Rev. Dr. E. P. Johnson, delivered a sermon to the members of the society.

Nearly one-half of the members of the society, adorned with their society badges, were present and occupied seats in front, on either side of the centre aisle. The choir rendered special music, which was highly appreciated by all. At the close of the service, Rev. Dr. Johnson was congratulated by members of the society for his able and helpful address.

Before the sermon, Robert Clark, Jr., read the reports of the secretary and the treasurer. From the former it was learned that the society has 51 active and 12 honorary. Seven active members and three honorary were added during the year. The meetings have drawn an average attendance of 22 members. The society sent out a missionary box valued at $137, and three barrels of clothing. Many more articles of different kinds to various places. It gave $250 to the consistory for special work. Total receipts of $809 were reported by the treasurer. Of this $616 was given to various denominational causes, and $150 was set aside for the carpet fund. In the missionary fund a total of $126 was collected. It was all disbursed, the chief items being equal amounts to foreign and domestic missions: each received $48.

Dr. Johnson spoke, in part, as follows:

"I give, first of all, thanks for the story of self denial you have lived. Next I offer you congratulations. What would the officers and the church have done without your services? Your acts are registered on high, and I am persuaded the Savior smiles on you tonight.

"I know the kind of Christians you are, and I am sure you would rather hear a word of appeal, for the attainment of higher things, than to listen to words of praise. There can be no better motto for a society like this than Christ's word, 'Ye have done what ye could.' You know when you have done your best. Whatever praise may be given you, however much you may help the church, unless you hear the Master's words in your soul, 'Ye have done what ye could,' you have not reached the highest standard.

"I wish to emphasize individuality. The only perfect faith is individual faith. You have done such service in your Master's cause this past year, that He calls you tonight to higher, nobler service. What Jesus says He says to you personally and whatever other men or women may do in worship and service their actions should not dim your sense of direct accountability. Everyone must give account. The Lord expects you to do your duty, and your duty is to do what you can.

"Enlarged opportunities come from co-operation. Combination in spiritual things cannot fail to be effective and useful. Jesus confederated His disciples and inspired His disciples to confederate their church work. Church worship and work is a thousand times better than seclusion in a monastery.

"My sisters, by your co-operation in this society you become, not only more womanly, more sisterly, your faithful service has furnished a gem for the coronation of your Divine Master. But however good is co-operation, the impulse of Divine power must be felt in it to bring out its best. Oh, my sisters, if you desire to be remembered by your influence long after you are gone, if you wish your influence to be fragrant with self-denying, remember that the immortal love of Jesus must constrain you in your service to the Blessed Master and His church."

EXEMPTS REVIVE.

North Plainfield Fire Veterans Renew Activity of Their Association.

The North Plainfield Exempt Firemen's Association held a revival meeting Monday night. Not a religious air, but a meeting to mark a revival of activity. The organization has been somewhat dormant for a year.

It was decided to continue, and to advance, last night. The regular monthly meetings will be resumed. It is expected that forty-five of the seventy-two men eligible to membership will be in the organization by next month.

Delegates to the State meeting to be held tomorrow at North Bergen were elected. They are Horace G. Adams, F. G. Kesselring, and George Hummer.

Telephone Workers' Dance.

The telephone company employes will hold a shirtwaist dance at Saengerbund Hall on May 29.

SOME CHARMING OI

Landscapes Also Shown—Description of Her Splendid Pictures.

So many of the friends of Miss Caroline Minturn Hall have expressed a desire to see her work, that she held two informal receptions in her studioin the Babcock building, on Friday and Saturday last, assisted by her mother, Mrs. David P. Hall.

Miss Hall's studio is charmingly arranged, bits of old brass and pottery, together with embroideries furnishing an artistic background for the pictures and drawings displayed. The portrait in oils, of her grandmother, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, attracted especial interest and attention. The color scheme is very pleasing. The distinguished lady is represented sitting in a white Windsor chair, and dressed in creamy white. The background of the picture is of a brownish green of subdued tone. The figure is life size and three quarter length. The likeness is excellent, and Miss Hall received many compliments on her success in painting so difficult a subject. Dignity and power characterize face and figure alike, and the portrait was painted to order, for Mrs. Howe's son, Professor Henry Marion Howe, of Columbia University.

Miss Hall's specialty is landscape however. Her most recent piece of work shows a group of oakes, with the most tints of autumn outlined against a sky of the loveliest turquoise blue, in which rise great golden clouds. The coloring and composition of this picture were much admired.

Another painting exhibited is a wind-swept lanscape, the onward rush of clouds showing the artist's power of reproducing striking atmospheric effects.

A number of scenes in Brittany, Fountainebleau, Paris and Rhode Island showed a wide range of subjects and great variety of color and treatment. Critics both in Paris and in this country have declared Miss Hall's work to be distinguished by poetic feeling and excellence of composition, as well as by the large way in which she looks at nature.

Especial interest was shown in her three large landscape drawings, that were exhibited in the New Salon in Paris, Miss Hall having been the first person ever drawing a silver medal, at the Delecluse Academy. Two of her most important paintings are now on exhibition elsewhere.

A moonlight in Brittany is at the Macbeth Galleries in New York and a Winter Tale at Boston, having been at the exhibition of the National Academy in New York, just closed) will be shown by invitation at the coming summer exhibition of the Worcester Art Museum. This picture was also at the New Salon in Paris, and at Angers, France (also by invitation), and elsewhere. Miss Hall's friends declared her mornings in a studio to be very agreeable novelties, while Mrs. Hall was much congratulated on her daughter's success.

SCENES OF PRINCETON GIFT TO THE P. H.S

EDWARD J. PATTERSON MAKES PRESENTATION SPEECH.

Edward J. Patterson, a graduate of the Plainfield High School and a member of the class of '84, Princeton, addressed the students of the local school, Monday morning, in the name of the Alumni Association he presented to the school a picture which shows the buildings and campus of Princeton.

He spoke of the value of a college education and referred to the advantages offered at Princeton. Of the latter he mentioned the open air, unconventional life of this college; the gymnasium which he said is second to no other of the American colleges; and the honor system introduced by President Woodrow Wilson, which leaves the matter of conducting examinations entirely with the students. During examination the students have their freedom and are not watched by professors, but at the conclusion they sign a pledge of honor.

Ball Player May Go to Asylum.

Washington, May 15.—Augustus Geager, a catcher, who has played in a large number of semi-professional and also several league baseball teams in this State and Pennsylvania, will probably be taken to the Morris Plains Hospital. Geager came here with his wife Friday, and Monday, it is said, he became violent and steps were taken to have him removed to the hospital, where he was once an attendant. There also he was catcher for the hospital team. Lately Geager has been making his home in Somerville.

Miss Carrie Egel, of Somerset street, has recovered from a two months' illness.

SERMON TALK

Editor of Epworth Herald Addresses First M. E. Church Congregation in the Morning.

"Supreme Strength" was the subject of a scholarly sermon delivered at the First M. E. church, Sunday, by Dr. Frank Moore, president of Pennington Seminary, the occasion being the anniversary of Chapter No. 1, of the Epworth League, the first one organized by the young people of that denomination in this country.

The speaker divided his subject into three parts—the strength of the body, that of the mind and thirdly that of the spirit. Under the first heading he dwelt on the importance of physical strength, so necessary in fighting the battle of life. He then spoke of the necessity of having mental strength and lastly spiritual strength, which he considered the most important of all.

Dr. Moore proved conclusively the advantages a college-bred man has over one who has graduated as the latter class has the advantage over Grammar School pupils, and quoted many statistics to show that history proves the statement. He urged the importance of a college education which he said would help to develop a well-rounded growth, mentally and spiritually and by attaining these things are developed in a way that makes them valuable and useful citizens in all walks of life.

Dr. Moore was a classmate of Rev. Dr. A. C. McCrea at Dickinson College, and has held several pastorates in the New Jersey Conference. He was appointed dean of Pennington Seminary, which position he held but a short time, when he was elected president three years ago, succeeding Rev. Dr. O'Hanlon. Although but forty years old, he has exceptional talent and executive ability and has had great success in his present position.

Rev. Dr. F. J. Herben, editor of the Epworth Herald, was the guest of James R. Joy, of the Borough, Sunday, spoke at the First M. E. church, Sunday morning, taking for his subject, "Be Strong." His remarks had a bearing on the Epworth League anniversary of Chapter No. 1, which was celebrated last night, when Rev. Dr. Moore, president of Pennington Seminary, made an address. Dr. Herben, accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. Joy, was the guest of Rev. Dr. Noble, president of Hackettstown Institute, and Mrs. Noble, at their summer cottage in the Adirondacks, last week, returning home on Saturday.

UNIFORMED DEMONS WERE IN THE HALL

SO DANCING DEVOTEE OF APOSTOLIC CHURCH DRRGGED HER OUT.

"They are raising the Old Harry at a religious meeting in the Smith & Jackson Building," was the message telephoned to Police Headquarters, Paterson, about midnight, Saturday, by the janitor of the building, who asked for the reserves. Policeman Cooke investigated, and this is what he found:

The Apostolic Church, a new sect in Paterson, had been holding a Saturday night meeting on the third floor, with the Rev. P. J. Blackledge in charge. Members of the Salvation Army had heard of the enthusiasm of previous meetings, and Capt. Walker, a young woman, and Envoy Susi decided to attend. They had been present but a short time when a middle-aged woman unpinned her hair and, as one of the Salvationists subsequently described it, "proceeded to dance from one end of the hall to the other and shout that there were uniformed demons in the hall and that she had been authorized by the Lord to drive them out."

As the Salvationists were the only uniformed persons in the hall they were a bit unemorfortable, but kept their seats until the dancing one approached and seized Capt. Walker and attempted to drag her to the door. Envoy Susi interfered. Then it was that the attention of the janitor was attracted by the row and he decided to call the police.

"It was merely a case of outsiders scoffing at our meeting. We ordered them out and they would not go," said the Rev. Mr. Blackledge.

—Marshall Darragh will appear at the Casino, Wednesday night, May 29, in a reading of "The Tempest," from Shakespeare.

—The Donegan company of comedians are creating roars of laughter with "Horsepaugh and Bells Circus," circus in a ludicrous roller rink act, which is the funniest clown stunt ever conceived.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Coriell, of South avenue, who are abroad, are now in Spain. They will return home the latter part of the summer.

Glancy, Morgan, One of the Finest Structures and Rowland of Masonry in America to the Lead. be Ready by May 28.

FOR COMMITTEE CUP

Morse Wins First Honors at Park Club With Net Score of 85. Dr. Carroll Being Second.

Despite the high wind and chilly atmosphere there was a large field out at the Plainfield Country Club Saturday to engage in play. While the wind conditions were such as to prevent good work, many excellent scores were returned. A somewhat remarkable feature was that there were five contestants who were tie for first honors for the Golf Committee cup, each returning an 84. This will give each one of the five 1 1-6 of a point. The result speaks well for the excellent handicapping system, showing that the committee was pretty accurate in its rating of the players.

These scores were returned for the Golf Committee cup:

Frank O. Reinhart, 84, 0-84; W. Lester Gienney, 84, 0-84; C. B. Morgan, 86, 2-84; Arthur Murphy, 91, 7-84; D. H. Rowland, 98, 14-84; Roger F. Murray, 91, 6-85; Julius E. Erickson, 97, 12-85; Frank C. Talmadge, 88, 0-88; Henry D. Hibbard, 97, 6-91; Stuart H. Patterson, 107, 16-91.

In addition there was play for the Green Committee cup, weekly competition for those with handicaps of fifteen or over. These scores were returned:

Herbert Rogers, 99, 18-81; George F. Earl, 111, 21-90; Hugh F. Fox, 107, 17-90.

The prize for the most net scores was won by Rogers receives three points and the other two players 1 1-2 points each.

The active season began at the Park Golf Club on Saturday with the initial play for the President's cup, scratch competition. Owing to the heavy rain, the course was in many places almost inundated with water, making good scores impossible. There was a large field, but a number did not post their scores for the first day's play. Charles B. Morse won the first honors for the trophy with a net score of 95, Rev. Dr. Carroll finished second with a 98, while Charles A. Reed and Leon R. Thurlow were tie for the remaining points with a net 102. The scores:

Charles B. Morse, 112, 17-95; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 112, 17-98; Charles A. Reed, 107, 5-102; Leon R. Thurlow, 112, 10-102.

METUCHEN BEATEN BY CLINTON AVENUE

PLAINFIELD TEAM WINS WELL PLAYED GAME BY SCORE OF 5 TO 2.

The Clinton Avenue team journeyed to Metuchen, Saturday afternoon and defeated the nine of that place in a well-played and exciting contest, the score being 5 to 2. Features of the game were the pitching of Clifford Randolph, who struck out sixteen men, and the stick work of Brit. Martin, who secured three hits, including a clean home run. The Plainfield boys showed up strong, and gave evidence of being in championship form. That the team will be a factor in the Inter-City Amateur League race goes without saying, as every man fills his position well.

Next Saturday, when the league opens, Clinton Avenue will play Scotch Plains at the latter place.

BUILDING DESCRIBED

Complete In Every Detail—As Auditorium One Of Its Features—The Officers.

The new temple which is being erected for the bodies of the Ancient Accepted Scottish Rite of Freemasonry in the Valley of Jersey City, at Nos. 15-21 Park street, in Jersey City, is rapidly nearing completion. In fact, it is so nearly ready for occupancy that notice have been mailed to the members that a special meeting will be held in the building on May 28. The picture of the temple printed in this issue can give no adequate idea of the beauty and grandeur of the structure, and when the members are admitted they will find that they will have a home of which they may well be proud. A reporter of The Daily Press was permitted a view of the building recently and found a small army of workmen straining every nerve to finish it in time for the special meeting.

The temple stands upon a high terrace, with a fine stone approach and esplanade, ornamented with two bronze columns with three electric light globes on each. When once the building is entered the massive beauty of architecture is apparent. It is severely classic and gains much of its impressiveness from its beautiful simple lines. The contractors and architects have grasped the idea of the trustees, who have had entire charge of the construction, and have given the members a structure which for beauty of workmanship, adaptability for their every need and completeness of detail is not approached by any Scottish Rite Temple in the United States.

The first floor is devoted to the secretary's office, cloak rooms, kitchen and a banquet room, of which the beamed ceiling is twenty feet above the floor, and will seat over five hundred people. The main staircase is double and leads from the right and left of the lobby to the mezzanine floor, where are found the library and candidates' parlor. One short flight up are the members' parlors and the main auditorium with vaulted ceiling twenty-five feet high, a most commodious stage is in the east, and to the west the organ balcony a harmony of red and gold, the feature being the great organ with twenty-seven feet frontage, built by Midmer & Sons, and one of the finest instruments ever turned out by them. The stage has been most completely equipped by Toomey & Volland Scenic Co., of St. Louis, Mo., with some fifty drops and their accessories, notably a beautiful drop curtain of red plush with gold embroidery. The dressing rooms —which are very large and fully equipped—are under the stage. The second mezzanine floor is devoted to a lodge room, with proper parlors, etc., which the trustees intend to rent exclusively to Masonic bodies now meeting in various halls in Jersey City, and for which they have a great many applications. The building is most tastefully furnished in hand bossed leather and massive oak, with rich and beautiful hangings. Its site is most accessible from all directions, being only twelve minutes from the Pennsylvania Railroad ferry and five minutes from the Newark branch of the Central Railroad of New Jersey, and the trolley cars from Newark, Elizabeth, Bayonne and Hoboken, etc., pass within one hundred and fifty feet of the door.

The building is the property of the Scottish Rite Association of New Jersey, a corporation formed by the trustees of the several bodies of the Rite in the Valley of Jersey City, and of which John W. Crawford, of Elizabeth is the founder and president, with Steven Smith, T. F. Watdent, with Steven Smith, T. F. Watson, S. Sears, M. G. Perkins and J. C. Cassidy as directors.

The presiding officers of the four bodies are:

Walter B. Ward, 32d degree, of Elizabeth, commander in chief of N. Jersey Supreme Council, thirty-third degree; Wynn H. Jones, of Newark, W. Master of the Chapter R. C. ; A. Burritt, of Bayonne, S. P., Council; P. of J.; Henry C. Cadmus, of Elizabeth, T. P. Master, Lodge of Perfection.

Above bodies own allegiance to Supreme Council, thirty-third degree for the Northern Masonic Jurisdiction, U. S. A., of which Henry W. Rugg, of Hempstead, L. I., is grand Commander, and Charles Scott, thirty-third degree, of Boston, Mass., is deputy for the State of New Jersey.

THE CONSTITUTIONALIST

VOL. XXXIX PLAINFIELD, N. J., THURSDAY, JUNE 6, 1907. NO. 23.

"Support the Constitution, which is the Cement of the Union, as well in its Limitations as in its Authorities."—Madison.

THE HORSE SHOW ENTRIES

Complete List of Competing Animals Made Known by Secretary Blitz

COMPRISES 52 CLASSES

Nearly All of Last Year's Favorites and Many New Ones Will Pass Before the Judges.

The complete list of entries for the Plainfield horse show was made public by Secretary Blitz yesterday and it comprises an array of the finest blooded equines in the country. The exhibit has been divided into fifty-two classes for the three days but unlike last year the time of each is not specified. Keen rivalry is certain throughout the exhibition as the Vanderbilt, Harriman, Watson, Elsmore Stock and Hooley animals are in nearly all the important classes.

The entries and the classes are as follows:

Class 1—Roadsters; horse 4 years old or over (maiden class). Open only to horses that have not taken a prize. May 25, 1907. First prize at any recognized horse show. To be shown to wagon. First prize, $50; second prize, $25. Amanda Baron, E. C. Bell, Lally Bell, George Vanderbilt, Harriman, Watson, Elsmore Stock and Hooley animals are in nearly all the important classes.

The entries and the classes are as follows:

Class 1—Roadsters; horse 4 years old or over (maiden class). Open only to horses that have not taken a prize

DEMOCRATS GREET MARTINE WITH ENTHUSIASM

Dinner of County Committee Proves a Magnificent Tribute to Popularity of Former Orator.

MAKES STRONG ADDRESS

Declares Vigorously For Political Reforms—Says He Has Been Honored in Defeat As Much As He Could Have Been In Victory.

Democrats from all over Union county and from other counties of the State attended the dinner held by the Democratic County Committee in honor of James Edgar Martine at Turn Hall, Elizabeth, Wednesday night. More than 300 diners sat down to the feast, and everyone of them was an ardent partisan of Mr. Martine, and a warm admirer of his kind of Democracy. He was wildly acclaimed when he rose to speak, and he was hailed as a possible governor. General Dennis F. Collins, who was toastmaster, gave the keynote for the gubernatorial chorus.

Plainfield was well represented at the tables. Among the Plainfielders present were D. C. Ivins, Edward Van Buren, J. Y. F. Dilts, W. C. Linbarger, L. B. Wolston, W. H. Conway, W. L. Hatfield, Jr., S. H. Schlief, John Galbraith, Jr., John F. Casey, E. J. McCue, Hon. S. S. Swackhamer, D. W. Martine, D. J. Carney and Samuel Townsend.

General Collins, in opening the speechmaking in answer to the toast "Our Guest," referred to Mr. Martine as "the man always ready to answer to the bugle call of the party in the state and the nation." His mention of the name of Mr. Martine awoke sustained applause and cheers.

General Collins aroused a great demonstration by saying that he hoped the Union County Democracy would have a chance to break loose at the mention of Martine's name on next election night. In closing his speech General Collins said the party had best look over its candidates for each post to see if those who could be trusted to give the people, as well as the corporations, a square deal. The sentiment was warmly applauded.

Mr. Martine responded to General Collins. As he arose from his seat the diners broke into wild applause. They cheered and cheered again, waving napkins and hands in their overflowing enthusiasm. The demonstration lasted for almost three minutes. Mr. Martine was never accorded a more enthusiastic greeting. It was not the only moment of acclaim. All through the night every reference by the speakers to Mr. Martine evoked sustained and spontaneous applause. This was certainly, if the signs apparent at the dinner go for anything, that Union county will be solid for Mr. Martine for the gubernatorial nomination at the next convention.

"My heart is full," said Mr. Martine, "and I can scarcely say what my heart bids me. This magnificent tribute is far beyond my desserts. As a citizen of Union county and a humble member of the Democratic party I deserve no such great plaudits. I have simply done in the past thirty-five years what my conscience bade me do, and I would do it again. I cannot individualize in expressing my feelings; to individualize would be crude. I can simply say, to one and all, I thank you.

"I can hardly take this tribute to myself. Rather must I take it as a tribute to the great and glorious cause for which I stand. I ask you to keep in my memory green, not for myself, but for the glorious cause that seeks to loosen the chains of struggling humanity.

"What is to be our course in the struggle that faces us? What is bringing on the great uprising of the people? What is it that is disintegrating parties? It is simply the process of election. The people are pressing forward to the general recognition of the necessity for equal laws and justice for all men. It is not to recognize boss rule under corporate domination. (Sustained applause.)

"I hope with all the strength of my soul for the spread of the blessings of equal rights, laws and justice to struggling humanity of all the earth. The Democratic party stands for that thought, and true Democracy will ever stand for it. I want territorial conquest to go on to the ends of the earth, but not for plunder, nor for aggrandizement. I would see the conquest that our heritage of constitutional liberty be given to all the world.

"Do not sympathize with me because I have never been elected to an office. No man can be honored more than to have been your standard-bearer; no man can battle for Democracy without being dignified. Defeated? Yes; but I can bear it. Defeat never crushed a truth nor annihilated a principle."

At this point an enthusiast in the center of the hall yelled "We are going to elect you governor of New Jersey."

"I am optimistic. I would rather walk among the clouds than in the dust. I hope for a brighter day for Democracy in the future. New Jersey needs a return to simple, honest and economical administration of State affairs. The great railroad systems and the public service corporations that are interwoven with our well-being should be supervised by a railroad commission not appointed by the governor, but elected by the vote of the sovereign people."

In outlining the platform he considered best for the State Democracy, Mr. Martine spoke against the balloting machines, in favor of Wert's bill, compulsory balloting, initiative and referendum, and a system of perfectly equal taxation.

"My slogan this year," said Mr. Martine in his concluding sentences, "shall be: Clean house and put in clean men."

Former Mayor William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield, who responded to the toast, "Democracy's Hope in New Jersey," produced a marked impression. Both his humor and his serious passages were in a manner well received. He was greeted with three cheers, proposed by Mr. Martine.

The other speakers were Martin A. Conboy, of Essex county; Hon. James Baker, of Hudson; Hon. Frank S. Katzenbach, of Mercer; and Hon. Joseph Tumulty, of Hudson. They all had cordial things to say of Mr. Martine. Mr. Conboy spoke on "The Democracy of the Fathers;" Mr. Baker on "The Legislature of 1907;" Mr. Katzenbach on "A United Democracy;" and Mr. Tumulty on "Democracy's Future."

Among the letters of regret received from prominent members of the party and read at the dinner were the following: Robert Davis, R. Hudspeth, Former Senator James Smith, Jr., William B. Gourley, William J. Curtis, Judge Howard Carrow, Senator James Minturn, Former Senator Rufus Blodgett, William A. Stryker and Senator James C. Price of Sussex. The latter referred to Mr. Martine as "our next Governor."

An unexpected compliment to the guest of the evening was the appearance on the stage of the Elizabeth Mannerchor Society, which came in full force to serenade Mr. Martine. He made a speech in German to them after their songs.

Among the guests of honor at the speakers' table were E. E. Lethbridge, speaker of the House; Senator William C. Gebhardt, of Hunterdon county, and Senator Johnston Cornish, of Warren county.

EAST JERSEY TENNIS.

Mathey and West Win Men's Doubles Championship.

Two championships of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association were decided Thursday on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club after a full day of play. Dean Mathey and R. A. Engagement Announced.

Mrs. Emma L. Baldwin, of Dunellen, announced today the engagement of her daughter, Miss Mary A. Baldwin, to Thomas R. Beck, of Elizabeth. The wedding will take place next month at the home of Mrs. W. R. Hetfield, of Dunellen, aunt of the bride-to-be.

Granted Letters of Administration.

Surrogate Peter P. Daly, of Middlesex county, has granted letters of administration to William Ackerman, of New Market, for the estate of his father, the late Cornelius Ackerman, of Clinton avenue. The estate is valued at $3,000.

Yesterday's Events Among the Best Ever Held at the Driving Park.

BATJER'S GREAT FINISH

Pulls Up From Third to First in Homestretch for the Middlesex Cup—Another Card Tomorrow.

Before one of the largest crowds that has been seen at the Gentlemen's Driving Park in years, the first day's races at the Watchung Hunt Club's fourth annual steeplechase were held Thursday afternoon. There were five regular events on the card, three steeplechase and two flat, and they were all close and exciting. In addition to these the customary farmers' race was held but it was hard to tell whether the plow horses were racing or running away in fright at the unusual excitement. It was won by Scott Terry's "Gray Billy."

The best event of the day was the fifth race, a steeplechase of two and a half miles for the Middlesex cup, in which there were four starters. The lead was taken after the getaway by Miss Molly C. Maxwell's "Agio," ridden by Mr. Davis, and Rudolph Weld's "Sallie Thomanson," carrying Mr. Burden. The third horse was Batjer's "Tobosso," ridden by the owner and for two thirds of the way around he was well in the rear. In the homestretch he began to eat up the distance and passed both leaders in a typical Tod Sloan finish. All three horses were closely bunched, "Agio" getting second and the Weld entry third.

The sixth and last race was also an exciting one, through "Jimmie" O'Brien recovering from a throw and on Singleton VanSchaick's "Adjutor" crowding David Dows' "Wexford" and Charles Pfizer's "Ninnette" for the finish, the latter two getting first and second only by half a length. In the fourth race, E. C. Cowdin finished first on "Anticipation," but was disqualified on O'Brien's claim that he had fouled him on a turn.

The summary:

First Race—Five furlongs on the flat for Galloways. Netherwood cup—The Lad, E. C. Cowdin, won; Pecos Johnnie, H. Hamilton, second; Spring Beauty, Singleton VanSchaick third.

Second Race—Two and a half mile steeplechase for the Watchung cup—Strongheart, Charles D. Freeman, won; Boo Ba, H. C. Townsend, second; Mechanic, S. S. Bellowes, third.

Third Race—Farmers' event, five furlongs on the flat—Gray Billy, Scott Terry, won; Dexter, William H. Clark, second; Nancy Switchem, David Hand, third.

Fourth Race—Hack or hunters, one mile and a half on the flat—Golden Arms, Leonce Fuller, won; Wishaway, Harvey Fisk, second; Nimrod, J. E. Davis, third.

Fifth Race—Steeplechase, two and a half miles, for Middlesex cup—Tobosso, Louis Batjer, won; Agio, Miss M. C. Maxwell, second; Sallie Thomason, Rudolph Weld, third.

Sixth Race—Steeplechase, two and a half miles, for Hillside cup—Wexford, David Dows, won; Ninette, Charles Pfizer, second; Adjutor, Singleton Van Schaick, third.

$2,000,000 Cement Company.

Clarence L. Murphy, of this city, is the president of a cement concern which is to be known as the National Cement Company, now in course of organization, the plans of which are to be announced in the near future. It is said. The present capital stock is $2,000,000, but eventually it will be $25,000,000. Mr. Murphy has transferred important cement lands near Carpentersville to the new company. It is said that negotiations are underway to acquire three additional properties in Pennsylvania and New Jersey. The company's offices are at No. 1 Wall street, New York. There will be a meeting of directors tomorrow morning to decide important questions.

Young Couple Quietly Wedded.

Miss Katie Gottlick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Gottlick, of Murray Hill, and Harry E. Templin, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Templin, of East Second street, were married Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Mary Queen church rectory by Rev. Father Bogan. Cyril Gildea, the bride's brother, was best man, and Miss Louise Hess, of Newark, was bridesmaid. After the ceremony the bridal party returned to Murray Hill, where a wedding supper was served and a reception was held. Dancing was the feature. After a trip the couple will reside on Jackson avenue, the borough, where the groom has furnished a home.

Decoration Day Outings.

Ninety-one Plainfielders enjoyed the Plainfield Grocers' Association annual excursion to Coney Island Thursday. The many other attractions of the day no doubt was responsible for the limited number going on this outing, but the day was pleasantly passed at the popular resort and no accidents occurred to mar the trip. The New Jersey Central excursion to Manch Chunk took sixteen cars and about twenty Plainfielders made the trip, while a half dozen enjoyed the railroad's excursion to Lake Hopatcong.

HIS ADDRESS AT MARTINE DINNER MAKES A MARKED IMPRESSION.

At the Martine dinner in Elizabeth Wednesday night, former Mayor William L. Saunders, of the borough, was one of the speakers and made a decided impression before the big gathering. His subject was "Democracy's Hope in New Jersey" and the address was received with great enthusiasm. He said in part:

"They say that farmers (like our guest) raise corn, corn raises whiskey; whiskey raises politicians, and politicians raise most of the trouble we have in this world. Even here in Elizabeth it seems plain that there is no soil in New Jersey so poor that you cannot raise a disturbance on it. It is not clear to me why I, an obscure Jersey Democrat, should be selected by the Union County Committee to speak on so prophetic, and I may say, pathetic a subject as Democracy's Hope in New Jersey." If you too are not now equally in doubt as to the wisdom of this appointment it will not be my fault if your misgivings do not reach certainty by the time I take my seat.

"Democracy's Hope in New Jersey" does not lie in the 'New Idea.' Elizabeth always suggests to me this 'New Idea.' It was here that I was asked to go by my good friend, Senator Colby, and join a movement to reform the Republican party. I wrote the Senator thanking him cordially for the compliment and saying that I quite agreed that the Republican party in New Jersey was sadly in need of reform but that this was no 'new idea,' on the contrary it was as old as the hills itself, and that my idea, which might be to him a new idea, was to give it a dose of club cocktail and drive every bad Republican out of office, putting a good Democrat in his place. I am still awaiting an answer to my letter.

"We all love the State of New Jersey. Every man loves his native land whether he was born there or not. A state that produces such men as Jim Martine is indeed a worthy star in the flag. Such men inspire within us a hope for democracy in New Jersey. An old farmer told me the other day that he remembers when he was a boy hearing the 'farmer orator' make Democratic speeches and I can't understand, said he, how he keeps up to this day, looking so young and fresh-feature. Well, you know Jim always drinks Jersey lightning,' I said, 'and he always votes the Democratic ticket.' 'I see,' said the farmer, 'I s'pose one pizen neutralizes the other.'

"Jim Martine has moral courage. Courage, said Robert Louis Stevenson, is the footstool of the virtues upon which they stand. The soldier at Thermopylae was not a whit more brave and is no more to be honored than the man who has the moral courage to stand up for what he believes to be right even though the heavens fall! Defeat under such circumstances is indeed a victory!

"I repeat that my subject is both prophetic and pathetic! As a prophet is not without honor save in his own country you will not believe me so I must quote what great philosophers say about hope. Lord Bacon said that in adversity only the virtuous can entertain hope. What chance then is there for the Democratic party? I think it was this same Bacon who said that it is a vain hope to try to make people happy by politics. What then, who cares a fig for this philosophical chatterer! Bacon was a politician himself for he took bribes and if he wrote Shakespeare more than half the world doesn't believe it.

"Seriously, fellow Democrats, the hope of the party in New Jersey lies in giving heed to public opinion which is ever Democratic. It lies in our recognition of the supreme right of the people above the boss. It lies in not letting the party become the hand-maiden of corporations. It lies in learning the lesson Plutarch that there is no more perfect endowment in man than political virtue. No practical man doubts the great value of the machine in politics; no sensible person questions the supreme importance of the man, call him chief engineer, leader or boss, as you will, who directs the machine; but I would particularly remind you, Democrats of New Jersey, of the fact, that the machine which stays in the race is not the one which is steered to follow and not to make the road over which it runs.

"There are three classes of politicians, said Brimley in his 'Essays,' the wholly unscrupulous nature of an existing evil seek for change without the faculty of discerning to what that change will inevitably lead. As such are the Colbyites; secondly, those who, with conscious and definite aim, plant the hereafter in the now and are not terrified or driven into reaction by the results of their own acts. As such are the party leaders in this state. And thirdly, those who with clear eye discern the dependence of the hereafter upon the now, and with conscientious doing those things which render the here after inevitably certain. Let such be our aim in the future for in this lies 'Democracy's only hope in New Jersey.'"

Percy Sandford, of Englewood, has been visiting relatives in town for a few days.

GOLF COURSES THRONGED

Ideal Weather Brings Out Large Crowds For Holiday Play on Local Links.

GOOD SCORES MADE

Social Features at Plainfield Country Club Enjoyed By Many Members and Their Friends.

Ideal weather attracted an unusually large crowd of golf enthusiasts to the Plainfield Country Club, Thursday. The links were thronged all day with contestants and some of the best scores of the season were returned. Aside from the playing on the course the social features were enjoyed by a great many members and their friends. Throughout the afternoon and evening a delightful programme of music was rendered by Glockner's orchestra from Elizabeth. Many dinners and luncheons were served and a majority of those present remained for the dance in the evening.

The chief event on the course was the play for the Decoration Day cup, Classes A and B. This brought out a large field. S. D. Lounsbery won the cup for Class A with a net score of 78, while Arthur H. Chamberlain won the Class B cup with a net score of 73. These scores were returned for the two trophies:

Class A—S. D. Lounsbery, 86, 8—78; Frank O. Reinhart, 81, 0—81; W. Lester Glenney, 81, 0—81; R. F. Murray, 87, 5—82; C. B. Halsted, 89, 6—83; Arthur Murphy, 91, 5—86; W. D. Riggs, 98, 10—88; D. H. Rowland, 102, 14—88; Stuart H. Patterson, 103, 10—93.

Class B—Arthur H. Chamberlain, 100, 27—73; George E. Cathcart, 89, 13—74; A. G. Henderson, 99, 20—79; W. L. C. Glenney, 102, 20—82; W. F. Merrill, 107, 24—83; James P. Murray, 100, 15—85; D. W. Taylor, 104, 18—86; E. A. Cruikshank, 101, 15—86; C. P. Hamilton, 114, 27—87; D. H. Rowland, 102, 14—88; A. B. Alling, 109, 21—88; J. E. Tracy, 121, 27—94; E. C. Patterson, 117, 20—97.

In the finals for the May cup, Class B, C. C. Burke, Sr., beat Herbert S. Rogers, 2 up. In the morning there was the semi-final play for the May cup, Class A, when W. Lester Glenney, who won from P. C. Talmadge by default, beat Frank O. Reinhart, who won from R. Story Rowland, 1 up & 20 holes. In the final play C. B. Morgan beat W. D. Riggs, 4 up and 3 to play, both Morgan and Riggs having won from their opponents by default.

An equally large field was attracted to the Park Golf Club, yesterday, when the play for the Holiday and Hydewood Park cups made a merry approaching and putting contest the order of the day. Rev. L. R. Howard won the Holiday cup and scored the first three points for the Hydewood Park cup. The scores for both cups are as follows:

Rev. L. R. Howard, 109, 20—79; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 102, 21—81; Samuel St. John McCutchen, 100, 13—87; Charles W. McCutchen, 108, 20—88; George A. Chapman, 106, 18—88; Charles B. Morse, 106, 18—88; Walter G. McWatters, 111, 20—91; Leon R. Thurlow, 108, 15—93; Reuben Knox, 112, 19—93; Charles A. Reed, 103, 8—95; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 106, 11—95; Alexander Gilbert, 119, 23—96; J. H. Betts, 124, 28—96; A. W. Kenworthy, 111, 14—97.

Miss Lydia Lolzeaux and Charles A. Reed won the approaching and putting contest with a score of 10. The other scores:

Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Goodrich, 12; Miss Harriet Shreve and E. L. Suffern, 13; Miss Mabel VanDeventer and E. A. Lyons, 13; Mr. and Mrs. Augustus VanDeventer, 14; Rev. and Mrs. L. R. Howard, 14; E. A. Lowe and Miss May Shreve, 14; Miss Harriet Shreve and Samuel St. John McCutchen, 14; Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Betts, 15.

Funeral of August Windham.

The funeral service of August Windham was held Thursday morning from the late home on Grandview avenue, the borough, at 10:45 o'clock and was largely attended by relatives and friends, including many from New York. There were a great many floral tributes, which completely covered the casket. Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, conducted the service, reading Scripture selections, offering prayer and making a few remarks. The interment was in Hillside cemetery and the pallbearers were William Weston, John Carl, Augustus Hendricks, Jacob Herlitz, William Barge and William Droger. The last two named were from Brooklyn and the other four were relatives of Mr. Windham.

William G. DeMeza to Marry.

Mrs. William White, of Willow avenue, has issued invitations for the wedding of her granddaughter, Miss Florence Heyer White, to William Grant DeMeza, of West Second street. The ceremony will be performed at Mrs. White's home Wednesday afternoon, June 12, at 5 o'clock. Mr. DeMeza is the well known young lawyer and is prominent in practice throughout the county.

FILE SEWER PROTESTS

Greenbrook Residents Call Halt on North Plainfield Borough and Township.

THREATEN INJUNCTION

Tell Borough Authorities With Court Action to Stop the Establishment of the Proposed Sewer Beds.

Protests against the proposed sewer farm of North Plainfield, drawn by the committee appointed for that purpose, have been sent by the Greenbrook Improvement Association to the Borough Council and the North Plainfield Township Committee.

In part the protest to the Borough Council declares:

"That we take steps if necessary, to prevent the erection of this sewer bed by applying to the courts of New Jersey for an injunction, also to begin suit against the Mayor and members of the Borough of North Plainfield Common Council for all or any damages caused to our land, our families or stock, and, be it further

"Resolved, That we protect our public school from being destroyed, as it is within one thousand feet of the proposed nuisance."

The protest to the Township Committee calls on the members to keep the borough from putting a sewer farm in the township.

POLICE BOARD MEETING.

Members Decide to Put Two More Officers on the Force.

The Councilmanic Police Board met Friday night and decided to put on two more men, if suitable candidates can be found for the positions. It has been a difficult matter to get men for police duty, those who can pass the physical and mental examinations required by the board. If the men can be found they will take the places of those who have resigned from the force.

Two members of the department were before the board last night, one accused of being asleep on his post and the other charged with disobeying the orders of Captain Frederickson. Nominal fines with a warning were imposed.

The members of the board decided that hereafter they would meet every month on the Friday night preceding the regular meeting of the Common Council to dispose of any business that may come before them.

WON SPEAKING CONTEST.

Plainfield Young Man Gets the Pingry School Gold Piece.

In a large field of competitors, Sidney J. Rockwell, of East Front street, won the $5 gold piece in the annual speaking contest at Pingry school, Elizabeth, last night. His subject was Robert Ingersoll's "Blaine, the Plumed Knight," and he gave it in a manner which won him sustained applause. His energy and direct appeal to his hearers was especially commended.

Mr. Rockwell is a member of the senior class at Pingry's and will graduate this year. The commencement exercises will be held on June 10.

Plainfield Girls Graduate.

The Commencement exercises of the Normal department of the Ethical Culture school, New York city, were held Friday. Among the fifty-six young women graduating were two from this city, Miss Clara Louise Buckle, of Westerveit avenue, and Miss Mary Heft Lindsley, of Compton avenue. The diplomas were presented by Dr. Felix Alder, founder of the school.

Drunk Cost Him $3.

Edward Combs, driver of a coal wagon, was arrested yesterday morning by Patrolman Saffron, for drunkenness and disorder. It was his second appearance within eight months, and Judge Runyon fined him $3.

VETS HONOR THE DEAD

Winfield Scott Post Turns Out in Goodly Numbers for Observance of Memorial Day.

PARADE AND EXERCISES

Graves of the Departed Comrades Decked With Flags and Flowers By Special Details.

Favored with good weather, the members of Winfield Scott Post, G. A. R., turned out in goodly numbers for the observance of the day dedicated to the memory of their departed comrades. Fifty or more of the veterans, about half the membership, were in line.

The post met in its rooms on East Front street at 7:30 o'clock, and details for the decoration of the graves were made out. H. C. Smith was in charge of the detail at Hillside cemetery; John Finley at the Catholic and Friends' cemeteries; Runie Manning at Samptown, John Wagner and Frank North, Jr., at the New Market, and Edward Johnson at Scotch Plains. When the details reported back at 10 o'clock the veterans formed in line, and with Company K for escort, and headed by the Liberty band of nineteen pieces, they marched to the North Plainfield and Evergreen cemeteries, where they decorated the graves as a post. The graves in Westfield were decorated by a detail composed of Westfield members of the post. Samuel Reese was in charge there.

The line of march of the post to North Plainfield, and from there on to the line of march, to Evergreen. The marshal of the day was Capt. William Hand. The veterans were commanded by Dr. J. F. Berg, commander of the post.

The annual exercises were held at Reform Hall at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The families and friends of the veterans attended them in large numbers. The hall was prettily decorated with flags, bunting and flowers. The stage looked especially attractive.

Rev. Dr. Charles W. Parsons, of Grace M. E. church, offered the opening prayer. Dr. Berg, who was in charge of the observance, led the officers in the annual ritualistic exercises. The main speaker of the day was Rev. John Sheridan Zelie, of the Crescent Avenue church.

His main theme was the need of the same martial spirit and the mettle that carried the G. A. R. men through the war in the conflicts of everyday life. It had been asked, he said, what could take the place of war in making and keeping nations strong and virile, and what substitute there was that would prevent them getting soft. What need there enough in ordinary life, he asked, to call for the display of all the soldierly qualities? There was much to be done that would require all the spirit of devotion and sacrifice that marked the Civil War. That war's campaigns had left a heritage that now we enjoy. The harvest was plenteous, but the laborers were few.

A full day of the programme was the singing by a chorus of fifty children. The Liberty Band played a number of selections and there were recitations by Miss Try Mattox and talented young people.

CUT WITH PENKNIFE.

Colored Gallant Assailed by Common-Law Husband of His Companion.

William Parker, colored, of Manning avenue, saw Lewis Randolph, colored, with his common-law wife on West Fourth street, near Plainfield avenue, Thursday afternoon, and went after him. He had a penknife in his hand. The two men hurried ahead and left the men to settle the question between them.

Parker upbraided Randolph until Plainfield avenue and Third street was reached, where he struck at him. A mix-up followed, in which two gashes were left beneath Randolph's eye. An eyewitness told Roundsman Higgins of the fight, and the officer arrested both men.

In the city court Friday morning Judge Runyon sentenced Parker to sixty days in jail. He released Randolph on suspended sentence because he seemed to have been punished enough for his indiscretion.

OVER THE TEA CUPS.

Nearly every other person one meets these days is "home-hunting" or looking about for a new place of abode, but of all the people who are thus engaged, the majority are women. They invade the offices of all the large real estate brokers in search of suitable houses, and we find them tripping up the steps of houses that are placarded "Rooms to Let" in throngs.

There is a reason for the woman house-hunter being in such strong evidence, and this is it: Not one man in a thousand can intelligently select a home. He has absolutely no knowledge of what is required unless he sees that the roof does not leak or that the house is not too far distant from the car lines.

All the other details fall to the lot of the woman, and the men are wise if they steer clear of knowing anything about the problem of home hunting.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

June 9: "Becoming Skilled Workmen." (Christian Education.) "Give diligence to present thyself approved unto God, a workman that needeth not to be ashamed."—II Tim. ii. 15. By REV. WALTER J. TAYLOR, D. D.

Passages for reference—John xi. 21; I Cor. iii. 6-9; II Cor. ix. 8; Heb. xiii. 20, 21; Rev. xxi. 18.

The final test of a true Christian education is the ability to pass the examination of God. This seems to be Paul's idea, and he is continually emphasizing the need of being filled with all the knowledge of God.

Three things are essential to the acquirement of a real education of the Christian kind. There must be, first, acquisition; second, response; third, reproduction.

As to the first, it must be recognized that we come into a world which is fixed and unchanging in its elements and laws. Things have a certain nature and act in a certain orderly fashion. This is so in the realms of matter, mind and spirit. The state of things and the ways in which they act make up the truth in regard to them. If now we could discover the nature of God and the way in which He does and add it to His Maker we should have the complete sense of actuality. That would be the truth, full and complete.

One first task is to show things as they really are, so far as we know them at all. This is not an easy matter. Many things look alike, and it takes skill to distinguish their accurately. We come into the world with senses and all other powers untrained and inevitably make many mistakes before we acquire accuracy in the use of any faculty even when we try our best. Most of us are stupid and slumbrous and indolent and prefer easy to laborious and never train ourselves rigidly to close observation. We have eyes, but we do not see correctly, ears, but are not attentive to hear, and so of the thousand things taking place we observe but a very few, and even these we put so little attention upon that we rarely understand them correctly. The false and flawed get fastholds of us because we have not learned to observe closely and find the truth.

The second factor is important as the first. There must be insight as well as eyesight. "As a man believeth in his heart so is he." Our inner nature often makes us deaf to that things should be in a certain way and act in a particular manner. This very wish influences every sense until we seek not the knowledge of actual truth, but the confirmation of our wishes. Until this inner prejudice is removed the eyes and ears will never report accurately concerning the outer world. The blue glass of the mind will make all the world outside appear to be blue, when in fact it may be white.

No less important in Christian education than accuracy of observation and a mind receptive of the truth is the third requisite, the ability to reproduce the truth as it is observed and acquired in inner thought and feeling and choice. What one thinks clearly and feels deeply he will express earnestly to express. The outer fact has possessed him and shaped his inner life. This inner conviction he must manifest in outward act, speech and look. In a very deep sense he must become identified with the truth he has seen by outer and inner sight. He is disturbed until he can give outward expression to his inner self. He believes, therefore he must speak.

In a most real sense he has heard God speak, and he cannot rest until he has spoken God's word after Him.

Christian education means all this. We must see things as they are in reality, must see them with the soul's eye and then with the lips. We must then train all our powers to the accurate representation of them.

Enlarging Life.

I am quite clear that one of our worst faults as at present we have having resolved like angels, we drop back into the old matter of fact life and do just what we did before, because we have always done it and because everybody does it and because our fathers and mothers did it, all of which may be the very reason why we should not do it. There is no station of life and no place of one's home where, if he wants to enlarge his life in caring for people outside himself, he may not stare quite clever of enlargement which shall extend indefinitely. And the man who enters upon infinite purposes lives the infinite life. —Phillips Brooks.

Prayer in the Morning.

The morning is the gate of the day and should be well guarded with prayer. It is one of the threads on which the day's actions are strung and should be well knotted with devotion. If we fail there the whole string will slip. We should be more careful of its mornings. He who rushes from his bed to his business and waiteth not to worship is as foolish as though he had not put on his clothes or cleansed his face and as unwise as though he dashed into battle without arms or armor. He it ours to bathe in the softly flowing rivers of communion with God before the heat of the wilderness and the burden of the way begin to oppress it.—Charles H. Spurgeon.

God is Near.

God is always close by. We may act and feel as though He were a thousand miles away, but that makes no difference whatever in the fact of His close presence. As St. Paul says, God is "not far from each one of us." When we are in trouble, we have but to call our face to God and find Him there to help.

Think not then cast sigh is wa[sted]
And thy Maker is not by;
Think not time robs pain of [power]
And thy Maker lies [deaf].

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 9.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—How to help those who are younger than ourselves.—Matt. xviii. 1-6.

The attitude of the disciples of Christ toward children in their relation to Christ was that He should not be disturbed by them. It must therefore have seemed like the irony of fate when in their discussion of greatness in the kingdom of heaven the Master should have placed a little child in their midst and have said, "Except ye be converted and become as little children ye shall not enter the kingdom of heaven." They had thought children unworthy of His notice. He declares that unless they become like children they could not enter, much less be great, in the kingdom. Christ's rebuke of the disciples when they attempted to keep children from Him and His use of a child as an object lesson on what a Christian should be should deeply impress us that we should seek the proper attitude toward children, and this is certainly one of helpfulness. We should ever strive to be a help rather than a hindrance to those who are younger than ourselves, and especially to the boys and girls with whom our lives come in contact as parents, teachers or Endeavor workers.

The importance of helping the young is supported by a number of serious reasons. (1) It is the time of life when they are peculiarly influenced for good or evil. Their characters are in the stage of formation, and a word or an act may deeply impress them, even exert an influence upon them for life. Which way shall our acts influence them, upward or downward? A child even is naturally religiously inclined. That they inherit sinful dispositions cannot be denied. Let the occasion arise and it is wonderful how naturally they will develop and utter falsehoods. But at the same time how readily they will cling to Him who first real their faith in God and Christ and heaven is! They should therefore be encouraged along these lines and never be allowed to drift away from them, for it is often such a difficult matter to win them back. (2) The children of today will be the men and women of tomorrow, and the cares and burdens of the world will rest upon them. Who are the leaders in business, in state and in church today? Those who but a few years ago thew wonderfully few they seem were boys and girls, with no thought of life's seriousness, of times frivolous and sometimes almost driving parents, teachers and friends to despair. But they were busily with the perverse boy and the frivolous girl. In a few years, years that will seem like days, the burdens of life may develop that boy into the most stalwart manhood, and a deep sorrow may touch the heart of the girl which will instantly change her into a woman of strength and of blessing.

But how may we use our influence for good toward those who are younger, especially the children? (1) We must understand them and gain their confidence. We must find the key to their little hearts, whatever it is, and it is usually love. Children love to be loved, and they can appreciate true affection and respond to it. (2) We must trust them. There is honor among children. They soon know whether you are truthful or suspicious. And a suspicious person never wields a good influence upon children. It is remarkable how soon they learn to return confidence for confidence and suspicion for suspicion. (3) We must set them a good example. It is useless for you to preach to children if you do not practice as well as preach. Those who are older and whose senses have been trained by a knowledge of years may be imposed upon sometimes, but not so with children. Their alert minds soon discover inconsistencies. (4) Win them for Christ. This is the greatest thing. With them while they are young, and if the precautions and unduly pious habits can say what they may please, but win the children and young for Christ at the earliest possible moment and hold them forever to Him and to the church of God. Then, into His kingdom and by the grace of God help to keep them there, that they may never know any thing else than to love and serve God and to delight to worship in His sanctuary.

But children and young people have responsibilities as well as privileges. They should love and obey their parents, reverence and respect their elders and strive to please those who are giving time and care in training them up in the fear of the Lord. They should also respond to the efforts of others to win them for Christ and should "remember their Creator in the days of their youth."

Christian Endeavor in Panama.

How about Christian Endeavor? That, too, exists in the canal zone as well as Christian Endeavor unsophisticated. In the Wesleyan church of Colon is a society which Pastor Cook assured me was doing a good work, largely among the Jamaicans. Another society is found among the hotel employees of Christobel, the zone settlement just outside of the native city of Colon. This is in connection with the Presbyterian church, of which Rev. Mr. Fletcher is pastor. Another is conducted by Miss Johnson of Panama, and a remarkably cosmopolitan society it is, consisting of two Syrians, three Italians, one Spaniard and a number of Jamaicans and Barbadians, while the superintendent herself is an Englishwoman. I heard of an American society at Culebra, but did not get particulars. Several other societies are projected.—Dr. Francis E. Clark, Describing His Trip in the Canal Zone.

HOMEMADE SOAP.

Soap can be made at home by a trifling expenditure of time and labor, out of materials that otherwise would be thrown away, or sold below their real value.

Fat, water and an alkali are the only ingredients absolutely necessary. Others can often be added to improve the appearance of the soap, and some may slightly increase its efficiency, but these alone make an excellent compound, for cleansing purposes. This simple soap is pleasant to use and does not roughen the hands.

Every particle of fat if not fit to use in cooking should be carefully saved. If raw, it can be fried out by putting it over the fire in a clean tin saucepan, and stirring it frequently to prevent burning. When done, strain it into a clean jar. A little boiling water can be poured on the scraps, and after boiling a few minutes set aside. When cold the cake of fat can be taken from the top and put in the jar.

The remains of dripping, the fat skimmed from soup, or gravies, or any similar material, should be treated like the scraps. Stir frequently while it is melting, and the impurities will sink to the bottom, leaving a clean cake of fat on top when it is cold.

The contents of the jar should be often inspected in warm water, and heated again, without water, if there are traces of mould or an unpleasant smell. Soap grease should be as pure and sweet as suet, or butter, used for cooking.

Any good brand of concentrated potash can be used. Castic soda is equally as good, and much cheaper, but it can usually be obtained only from wholesale druggists, or at a soap manufactury. Crude potash is said to be excellent, but from this the writer cannot speak from personal experience, says the Philadelphia Inquirer.

A large pot is very desirable, as the soap froths up at one stage of its manufacture, and is apt to boil over if in too small a vessel. A tin washboiler can be used, without injury to itself or its contents.

If, after a fair trial, the soap is liked it will be worth while to have a wooden box lined with zinc to run it in. Any carpenter can make it. he, eighteen inches long, twelve inches wide and six inches deep, inside measure, will hold a batch of hard soap. Thezinc is neatly fitted to the bottom and sides, turned over the top and nailed on.

A Good Hard Soap: Five pounds of grease, three gallons of soft, hot water, one pound of concentrated potash. Let these boil together for five or six hours, adding water as it boils away to keep up the original quantity. When done it is a dark yellowish-brown, clear like jelly, almost transparent.

If the grease is touched to it the taste is smooth and not unpleasant; it is sharp and acrid if not sufficiently boiled. It should be frequently stirred while boiling. Pour it into the zinc-lined box, and leave it to harden. In forty-four hours it will be a solid mass of nearly white soap.

Turn it out on a table and cut it in thin bars lengthwise. If desired it can then be divided into squares.

Soft Soap for the Laundry: Two pounds of caustic soda, ten pounds of grease, eight gallons of water. The soda and grease may be boiled with one-third of the water, precisely as in the preceding receipt.

When done, pour it into a half barrel, or any large receptacle, and add twelve gallons of boiling water.

Stir until thoroughly blended, and it will be when cold a soft, jelly-like paste, very pleasant to use for many purposes, and particularly useful in the laundry.

In using any of these receipts, if the grease floats and is not absorbed, the alkali used is too weak, and more must be added.

DON'T NEED A SPECIAL DELIVERY AFTER JULY 1.

Under New Post Office Rule Value in Stamps When Marked Will Suffice.

The postal law relating to special delivery letters has been changed by a special order received by Postmaster Merritt today from the Postoffice Department at Washington.

The order is No. 340 and gives the new law concerning this class of mail *matters. It states "that from and af*ter July 1, 1907, when in addition to stamps required to transmit any letter or mail matter to any point through the mails (there shall be attached to the envelope or covering 10 cents worth of ordinary stamps of any denomination with the words 'special delivery,' or their equivalent, written or printed on the envelope or covering, under such regulation handled, transmitted and delivered as the Postmaster-General may prescribe, the said package shall be in all respects as though it bore a receipt for special delivery stamp."

In speaking of the new order Mr. Bird said: "It is of vital importance to bear in mind that mail bearing ten cents in stamps, in addition to the regular postage, must be marked 'special delivery' or otherwise it will be treated as ordinary mail, unless where a return is on such matter. When a return address is put on, it will be registered and thereby delayed in transit as well as failing to be specially delivered at the office of destination."

George Boisterli, formely of this city, but now a student in the Theological Seminary at New Brunswick, has been spending a few days in town with relatives.

LINES TO LITERARY MAN IN LOVE

Lover, if you would Landor now,
And my advice will Borrow,
Raleigh your courage, storm her Harte—
In other words, be Thoreau.

You'll have to Stowe away some Sand,
For doubtless you'll find later
That to secure a Maiden's hand
Hug and tackle Pater.

Then Hunt a Church to Marryatt,
An Abbott for the splice;
And as you Rideout afterward,
You both must Dodge the Rice.

Next on Heaven-Gissing Hill

Financier—I certainly do, when it comes to watering stocks.—Baltimore American.

JOHN SMITH'S LUCK DAY.

Certainly Accomplishes Much in the Twenty-Four Hours.

"The person in this town that arouses my profoundest respect," said the gray-headed New York man, "is John Smith. I admire him because he accomplishes so much. No other man that I know of performs one-half the stunts that are credited to Smith. A study of yesterday's news reports reveals how prodigious are his labors. According to the papers he began the day—say about three a. m. —by shooting a burglar. At six o'clock he scalded himself with a pot of hot coffee, and at six o'clock he fell into a coal hole in Tenth Avenue. But not even these disturbances impaired Smith's vigor. for after repairing damages he found time to figure as a principal in two weddings and one divorce. Also he appeared in a police court on a charge of arson, was a witness at two trials, attempted to cut his throat with a razor, drove a runaway team hitched to a pickle wagon, and as a wind-up to his activities was run in on a charge of disorderly conduct, one of which, it strikes me, constitutes a pretty strenuous day even for a Smith."

FUNNY ERROR OF PRINTER.

He Was Not Expecting Latin in Newspaper Copy.

William F. Waller of 3417 Harrison street, now a real estate man, but formerly a printer, newspaper man and publisher, was talking recently of amusing typographical errors. From 1881 to 1884, when Rose Field was managing editor of the old Kansas City Times, I was foreman of the composing room," he said. "One night Field wrote an editorial *paragraph poking fun at the Latin a morn*ing contemporary published. Field wound up his effort with a quotation from one of Cicero's orations. The words were 'O tempora! O mores!' meaning 'O the times, O the manners.' The paragraph went up late, and the proof-reader didn't even get a long distance look at it. The paragraph was in the paper the next morning, but the quotation read: 'O tempest, O Moses!'"—Kansas City Star.

Don't Know Right From Left.

"The thing that surprised me most when I began to lecture as an instructor of a class of adults in manual training, "was the number of people who can not tell, instinctively, the right hand from the left. Fully a third of my pupils hesitated a moment before they could point to do this thing or that thing with the right hand or the left. The thing that fixes the proper hand in their minds finally is some incident in which that hand has figured. By recalling that story they know which hand it was. One of the brightest women I know declares that the only way she can tell one hand from the other is to remember the time when, as a child, she tried to milk a cow and was sent flying heels over head. She approached the animal from the wrong side and the picture of the position of her right hand then is so vivid that it enables her to distinguish that member to this day."

Where the Gold Goes.

Egypt is having a boom, and that explains in part the mystery where all the gold goes to. There is a crazy land speculation in Cairo, the cotton crop is increasing at good prices, the area of arable land is increased by the new Nile dam, rain is more common from the same cause, and gold is being hoarded in the oriental way usual when times are good. A consular report says that nearly $20,000,000 was sent from London recently, but it has all been absorbed. The sellers of the cotton crop have the money hoarded in their houses. The gold beaters' bazaar is crowded all the time and it is estimated that each week many pounds sterling in gold coin are melted or beaten into bracelets, neck*laces and chains. That gold is always* hoarded in Egypt is proved by the fact that some George III. sovereigns are coming into circulation.

Eyes and Exercise.

It was a matter of surprise to Emerson that the following little piece of advice by De Quincey should not have attracted more attention: "The depth and subtlety of the eyes varies exceedingly with the state of the stomach, and if young ladies were aware of the magical transformation which can be wrought in the depth and sweetness of the eye by a few weeks' exercise I fancy we should see their habits of this point altered greatly for the better."—Health Record.

Only Way to Do Good.

There is only one way to make men better. The work must be done from the inside. The seed must be planted in the human heart. The individual conscience must be awakened and enlightened. No reform theory can be made which is automatic. The individual must do the reforming within himself, and all that the outside world can do is to lend him a sustaining hand, a cheering voice and an encouraging look.—Exchange.

Just One Thing.

"When we sat down to the table," said Sue Brette, "I picked up the wine list." "My!" exclaimed Fanny Footlites, "what did he do, drop dead?" "He never winced. I said: 'May I have anything on this?' He said: 'Sure. You'll find it down in the right-hand corner—beer ten cents a bottle.'"—Philadelphia Press.

RAFFLES COW TO BUY LEG.

Ingenious Scheme of a Man Disabled by a Train.

If there is more than one way to skin a cat, there is certainly more than one way in which to acquire a cork leg. The usual way is to earn money and buy it, says the New York World. The way adopted by Julius Thorne, who lives at Glens Falls, is to let a cow raise herself and then raffle her off for a leg. Thorne was hit by a railroad train about a year ago, and when the doctors cut off his left leg, a disease of the bone set in. The injured man was taken home, where, while he lay on his back waiting for the bone to heal, he cast about for some means whereby he could procure a cork leg. Being supplied with little in the way of the world's goods, Thorn was forced to use his ingenuity. From a neighbor he bought for a couple of dollars a sickly calf less than a month old. This he raised on skimmed milk provided by another neighbor who made his own butter, and in time the calf got strong enough to be turned out to pasture in Franklin around cool little, and while the calf was growing and fattening Thorne made baskets that he might have enough cash to winter the animal. By fall he had earned enough to more than do this, and received by lot started a raffle. All his friends took tickets, and when the drawing takes place Thorne will celebrate by wearing his new cork leg.

AROUSED THE COURT'S IRE.

Young Man Glad to Be Victim of the Judicial Wrath.

A certain squire of a small city in *Connecticut, who betrays his patriot*ism by presiding in a small office painted red, white and blue, had a case before him which attracted an unusual crowd to the temple of justice. A young man was up before him on a charge of stealing brass, and the prisoner's friends were out in attendance to see that he got a fair show. Before the case opened the court room became so great that his honor declared that the next man to indulge in any unusual outbreak would be ejected from the room. He had hardly ceased speaking when a young man shouted, at the same time waving his hat above his head: "Hooray for Squire Hooligan!" "Put him out," roared the court, and in another instant the interrupter was rushed to the door. His honor ordered that the prisoner be brought before the bar for trial. The court officer hurriedly glanced about through the crowd, and then a great light suddenly fell upon him. "Can't do it, your honor," he replied. "The young fellow you just put out was the prisoner."

Bells Led to Burglar's Capture.

Nocturnal clock striking and too much of it has enabled the Paris police to lay their hands upon a gang of burglars and their very valuable booty.

The inhabitants of a house in the Fanbourg du Temple quarter, complaining to the police that for some time past they had heard an extraordinary amount of what sounded like electric bells in the night time, that seemed to come from rooms in a certain direction, the police first verified the fact for themselves and then raided the rooms. Here they found two men busily engaged in testing a number of timepieces of which they had stolen 200 from a manufacturer's warehouse, and were selling as tested.

O, Pickles!

A woman writer says: "Marry a man with a good digestion and no *nerves if you want a pearl of a hus*band. All of the seven deadly sins do not make a man as hard to live with as a genuine, well-developed case of liver. Choose, therefore, as a husband a man who is hearty and husky and who can eat three square meals a day. A perfect type of this man is the one who is frankly fond of good eating and who has a welsh rarebit recipe and a special way of making salad dressing. Grab a man like that the very first opportunity you get, for as a husband he is lovely."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Derived from the French.

Persia's ruler is the "shah," which word entered the English language long ago by way of the Arabic and old French, arriving in the form of "check." "Chess" is really "checks," "kings; and the cry of "check!" means one's king is in danger. Hence the verb and substantiative "check" in all their English meanings; "check," or "cheque," which was originally the counterfoil of a bank check served to "check" fraud; "checkered," from the aspect of the chessboard, and "exchequer," from the checkered pattern of the tablecloth on which the king's accounts were kept with counters.

Of Arabic Derivation.

"Zephyr" and "cipher" and "zero" are words that come to the English from the Arabic "sifr," which meant literally "empty," and so "nothing" and the figure that represents nothing. In medieval Latin this figure was called both "ziphra" and also "zephyrum," the latter probably from association with "zephyrus," or something even lighter than air. Hence, through the Italian "zefiro," there is the word "zero" as a doublet with "cipher."

Belief.

"He believes thoroughly in himself," said the admiring friend. "Yes," answered Miss Cayenne. "Some people are so credulous."

GREAT NAMES IN DIRECTORY.

Many Namesakes of Famous Lights of Literature.

A study of the new London Directory, which this year scales 13 pounds, is extremely interesting. In the case of literature, we are accustomed to regard the names of great authors as ending with them; yet the greatest of English writers has several namesakes scattered over London. Williams Shakespeare, professor of singing, almost alone carries on the artistic tradition of the name; but there is something quite Elizabethan in the address, "Green Lanes," appertaining to Henry Shakespeare, a grocer. John Bunyan is another grocer, in what Londoners will describe as "the" Edgware road; William Blake is a beer retailer, a craft that is far removed from "songs of innocence." Chaucer is a name that seems to have absolutely dropped out. Milton, of course, is fairly common, although the only John Miltons are a ship chandler and a chiropodist, neither of them poetic avocations. Keats occurs a few times, but there is no John Keats. Curiously enough, there is not a single Keble, but there is one Defoe. The name of Bronte is owned very appropriately by a woman, but she makes clothes instead of novels.

STARS ON COINS AND FLAG.

Little Heraldry Lore Shown in the Five and Six Points.

The stars on the great seal and the seal of the president of the United States are five-pointed, while on the seal of the house of representatives they are six-pointed. The 13 stars on the obverse of the present half and quarter dollar are five-pointed. The reverse of the present half and quarter dollar is a copy of the great seal, except that the clouds are omitted. It is evident that heraldry has not taken a very strong hold in this country. In the United States, therefore it is not in the power of anyone to say without a doubt why the difference in the stars on the flag and the coins. So far as is known, with the exception of the reverse of the present half and quarter dollar, the stars on American coins are copied from the colonial coins, which were, no doubt, made after the manner of English heraldry. While the flag was made up after the design of Washington's coat of arms, containing three five-pointed stars.

Led to Humorous Error.

Capt. Amundsen, having lost several dogs in his expedition to the Arctic regions, told some of the Netchillie tribe that he would purchase one from them. The suggestion caused consternation but was promptly refused. An explanation was demanded. The man applied to returned next day with a chubby, laughing boy on his back. "Such we do not sell," he said. Amundsen was astonished. "You wished to purchase one," said the man, seeing Amundsen's perplexity. Finally it was discovered that the Greenlandic term for "dog" was equivalent to "child" in the Netchillie language.

Money in Bogus Pennies.

Strangely enough, the most profitable coins to counterfeit are pennies, because for an expenditure of 18 cents 100 of them can be made, which leaves a profit of 82 cents on the dollar. The chief difficulty is in getting them into circulation, and also in keeping expert workmen to make these pennies, because they must be made with a die. The best counterfeiters pay most of their attention to the making of quarters, half dollars and dollars. With silver at present prices a counterfeiter can make five quarters from every ounce, quarters that ring true and have every appearance of the real thing.—New York World.

Mixed His Quaker.

Former Representative Charles T. Cherry was telling some men at Springfield the other day of the baggage man in an Illinois town to which a number of influential Quakers were coming. The baggage man conceived the idea that if the visitors thought he, too, was a Quaker business might be helped thereby. Consequently, upon the arrival of the delegation at the station the leader was greeted by the baggage man, who solicitously asked: "Has thou the checks for thou baggags?" And yet he wondered why the Quakers smiled.

Wine Without Grapes.

The Bavarian winemaker who fabricated 15,000 gallons of wine in one year by means of chemicals, without a drop of grape juice, is one of many similarly engaged who deserve the punishment of imprisonment and fine which he alone gets. Within seven years 300 tons of glycerin have been used by this dealer, it seems, making wine, besides citric and tartaric acids. No wonder that, with such a beverage, the bibulous Bavarian gets extremely "tight," almost to the point of explosion.

Onto Him.

"No," said Hi Tragedy, "I never take a sleeper when I travel. I don't think the berths are sanitary and besides in case of accident—"

"Yes," interrupted Lowe Comedy, "I suppose walking is safer."

THE MARTINE DINNER.

While those who were in attendance are still talking over the good menu provided and the excellent speeches made, the State press is discussing the Martine dinner pro and con and figuring out all manner of significant things that it has revealed, politically. The opinions are as varied as the countries at the repast and as broad-minded, since the farmer orator" is more in print than he has been in years. The editorial writer of the Elizabeth Journal was on the job real early and he has expressed himself as follows:

"The Martine dinner did not clear up very much the political atmosphere. The harmony which it was prophesied would come out of the dinner was not in evidence. The discredited bosses, Smith, Davis and Gourley, did not appear. Martine is to be congratulated that they did not. They would merely have given his dinner an unpleasant taste. Though Smith, the Essex county boss, no doubt is under obligations to Martine, he could not have showed his appreciation better than by staying away. Another feature of the dinner was the absence of any attempt to put forward new issues and radical policies. Instead there was a plain attempt to return to first principles. Possibly Martine was a little chilled by the frank receptions on the part of the other speakers of party frailties, the modesty of the claims as to its accomplishments, and the unrestrained sadness over its many defeats during the last legislative session—both of which was "as striking a contrast with the attitude taken at the People's Lobby gatherings of late in which Martine has figured prominently:

"Those who read the account of the gathering in Newark on May 25, when the People's Lobby discussed its plans for the fall campaign, will easily see the radical difference between the ideals of that organization and those of this Democratic party leaders as they took shape at the Martine dinner in Wednesday evening. The dangerous policy of subjecting the constitution, the fundamental law of the State, to continual changes, the calling of a constitutional convention and the regulation of capitalization to go no further, apparently have no place among Democratic policies. The policies Martine outlined concern economy in State expenditures, the election of United States Senators by the people, equal taxation, an elected railroad commission, the Shallenberger banking machine, and the initiative and referendum, some of which ideas are approved, of course, by the People's Lobby. Whether Martine, with his desire to please everybody, would be able to cope with these perplexing problems of reform, which would severely tax the ability of any Governor elected on such a platform, there must be grave doubts in the minds of citizens generally in New Jersey without regard to party."

APROPROS TO THE HOLD-UP.

The action of the Common Council, last night, in holding up the brick pavement ordinance is a matter of mystery to the average Plainfielder and one that is puzzling to say the least. After the question had been practically decided upon at previous sessions and all of the way would be cleared for the improvement that is so much needed, the City Fathers suddenly underwent a change of sentiment that is about as variegated as the brand of weather handed out this month. Hunting for the proverbial needle hidden in the haystack would be an easy task compared with trying to decide just what the councilmen want and where they stand on the proposition. It was plainly evident that several of the members were anxious to do most anything in order to get down to actual work on the pavement proposition but the majority, judging from the way they voted, will have to do a lot of thinking to locate themselves.

The question of leaving out North avenue was again broached but as has been stated before, the merchants and property owners are not in favor of this move. A canvass of the block between Park and Watchung avenues revealed the fact that leaving the present macadam and putting brick there now would not be relished. It is up to the Council to see that the wishes of the people on the thoroughfare should be taken into consideration and if the body finds out where the kick at North avenue should be included.

With snow in the Catskills, a tornado in the Bronx and giant waves dashing over the board walks at Asbury Park and Atlantic City, yesterday, can truthfully be described as a "rare" June day.

The Minneapolis Journal is authority for the statement that the word "thousand" on the new $1,000 certificates is misspelled. Strange we hadn't noticed it.

HOSPITAL ASKS CITY FOR ANNUAL TAX

WANTS THE QUESTION DECIDED BY VOTERS AT REGULAR ELECTION.

Following a half-hour recess during which time the members considered the proposition, Mr. Mellick; at the June meeting of the Common Council, Monday, presented a communication from President W. R. Cock, of the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital, in which the board seeks to have the city contribute to the hospital through an annual tax, the question first to be decided by the voters at the regular election to be held November 5 next.

The communication set forth the fact that Muhlenberg Hospital is a private institution and is being supported almost entirely by private subscriptions and donations, and in view of the fact that the city does not own a hospital, it was suggested that by contributing a certain amount each year of the general tax money raised it would give the institution substantial support in return for which the indigent poor of the city will be cared for.

The State law regarding this matter permits the city to appropriate one-third of a mill on every dollar raised by tax for the hospital for a period of ten years.

Mr. Mellick urged favorable action on this matter, adding that he believed that a large majority of the citizens would welcome the opportunity to vote in this way in favor of a plan to support the hospital.

President Daniel took the floor and spoke on the matter before the Council, referring more especially to the law. He explained that when the act was passed Plainfield's share of tax for the hospital, based on the percentage of one-third of a mill on every dollar raised by taxation would have been $3,500. Today it would be $7,000 a year. He also called attention to the fact that on ballots to be used for the purpose of deciding the question, the law provides that where the question "for" or "against" is not voted off, it counts in favor of it, and he did not think a fair expression of opinion would be possible under these conditions. He did not know what provision was made on the voting machines for such a vote. The matter was finally referred to the finance committee and will probably come up at some future time.

LAST SAD RITES OVER FRED S. WHITTAKER.

Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman Speaks of Young Man's Devotion at the Funeral Service.

The funeral of Fred Stevens Whittaker, whose death occurred in Muhlenberg Hospital following a self-inflicted bullet wound, was held in the parlor of Runyon & Son's office Monday afternoon, services conducted by Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman and was attended by a gathering of friends. A trio composed of George O. Stevens, Judge Runyon and E. E. Runyon rendered "Lead Kindly Light" and "Abide With Me."

There were numerous floral tributes from neighbors and friends and in the course of his remarks, Dr. Rodman took occasion to speak of the young man's love for flowers, a liking that predominated all purposes and the pure in mind and body. The clergyman also remarked that in all the years of his life's work he had not been called upon to officiate at a more sorrowful occasion, the death of Fred Whittaker showing to what extent devotion and appreciation could be carried.

Interment was made in Hillside cemetery, the pall bearers being George O. Stevens, Alexander Findlay, Thomas Timbo, William Lukes, Joseph C. Blimm and Edward Steurwald.

MRS. HALL RETURNS.

Found Her Distinguished Mother in Excellent Health and Spirits.

Mrs. Florence Howe Hall has returned from her visit to Boston, where she attended the birthday celebration of her mother, Mrs. Julia Ward Howe. Mrs. Hall found her mother in excellent health and spirits. Although this venerable lady attended the banquet given in her honor, by the New England Women's Club, of which she is president, on Saturday, May 25, in addition to receiving some eighty guests at her home, on May 27, she was none the worse for the experience. The Italian vice-consul, who was present, asked leave to bring the Duke of Abruzzi to meet Mrs. Howe, when he comes to Boston.

Mrs. Hall lectured at Nybridge, Mass., before returning to Plainfield.

Quietly Wedded.

Miss Augusta C. Renwanz and Leo E. Goris, both of this city, were quietly married Saturday evening by the Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, 927 Central avenue. The wedding party included Mr. and Mrs. Romand, of Clinton avenue, and near friends of the bride and groom. The couple will reside in this city.

Seminary Commencement.

Miss Kenyon and Miss Arnold have issued invitations for the commencement exercises of the Plainfield Seminary, to be held Tuesday morning, June 11, at 10:30.

COUNCIL'S BUSY SESSION

Many Matters of More or Less Importance Transacted by City Fathers.

LIGHT BILL IS PAID

But the Claim for $34.86 for Lamps Out is Acknowledged by the Public Service Corporation.

The Public Service Corporation, through its president, Thomas N. McCarter, communicated with the Common Council at its June meeting, last Monday, acknowledging the previous claim of the city for a reduction of its electric light bills for "lamps out" and a diminution of candle power. In the letter said that the company would promptly deduct the amount, $34.86 for "lamps out," but as the twenty-five candle power lamp used, is the standard it would be impossible to allow for any reduction in the candle power. He said that this would necessitate the changing of lamps every week or so and that could not be done. The communication was received and filed and later in the evening the company's bills were paid with the amount of $34.86 deducted.

The petition of Lena Kline for permission to substitute cement block for wood in a building she is erecting at 544 West Third street, was granted as was also the petition of J. W. Hallard to erect a building on West Third street, of concrete and wood material. The petition of L. D. Harris for permission to erect a barn of cement blocks at 535 West Front street was also granted.

William Hand & Sons, who have been furnishing a team of horses for taking No. 2 engine of the fire department to fires on certain calls, informed the Common Council that about twelve additional calls have been added to the calls for the team and in their judgment the compensation should be increased. The matter was referred to the fire and building committee.

The Plainfield-Union Water Supply Company informed the Council that two new hydrants were located as directed, and the Public Service Corporation gave similar notice as to the location of additional electric lights. The communications were referred to the proper committees and later filed.

W. J. Counihan and others petitioned to have Pruden's alley, adjoining the New Plainfield theatre, macadamized, and the matter was referred to the street committee.

The Board of School Estimate informed the Council that it would require $71,000 for the public schools for the coming year from July 1, and Mr. Hibbard, acting for Mr. Tyler, chairman of the finance committee, introduced a supplemental ordinance to be incorporated in the tax ordinance, providing the raising of that amount of money for school purposes. The ordinance was adopted on two readings and ordered advertised. This amount is exclusive of that to be apportioned by the county superintendent of schools.

Horace G. Adams, clerk of the district court, reported receipts of $76.- for the past month and a balance of $480.

The contract and bond of the Watchung Stone Company were reported as having been executed and the same were filed. Building Inspector Hall's report showed that during the past month thirty-six permits were granted.

Mayor Fisk appointed Felix Chargois and J. Claassen as regular members of the fire department and the latter as driver. Special Policeman W. R. Overland tendered his resignation and it was accepted.

A resolution offered by Mr. Hibbard, which was adopted, transferred $2,000 from the general to the fire fund. Mr. Hibbard also reported on a communication received from County Superintendent of Schools W. J. Shearer, of Elizabeth, in which the latter stated that Plainfield's share of the county school money will be $80,917.17, of which $28,500, the amount from the railroad tax, is at present somewhat in doubt.

Another matter reported on by Mr. Hibbard was in reference to Plainfield's share of franchise tax paid to the Public Service Corporation. As the city receives five per cent. on the gross receipts of the company here, which amounts to $6,072.70, it will accept that sum instead of the $1,256.78, which would be the city's amount if the State treasury as determined by the State Board of Taxation.

Mr. Hibbard offered an ordinance, which was adopted on two readings and ordered advertised, which gives Building Inspector Hall the authority to grant permission to move a building from one point to another on the same tract of land, but President Daniel raised a good point of objection and the ordinance was referred back to the committee for further consideration.

Mr. Glinna presented plans and specifications for the Plainfield avenue storm sewer, also for the macadamizing of certain streets, and resolutions covering both matters were covered by resolutions, providing that two weeks' notice be given in the official papers that the Common Council will receive bids on June 20 for doing this work. The customary authority was given to the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company to continue its underground work through a resolution offered by Mr. Glinna.

POLICE HEADQUARTERS CONDITON STIRS COUNCIL.

Orders An Investigation to Place Responsibility of Annoying Water Leakage.

For the purpose of ascertaining exactly who is responsible for the deplorable condition of the police station and other rooms used by the police department in connection with headquarters is the Coward building on East Front street, through the leakage of water from the upper part of the building, Chairman Randolph, of the police committee, offered a resolution at the June meeting of the Common Council, Monday, authorizing and instructing Corporation Counsel Marsh to make an investigation.

Frequently water is allowed to run down through the building causing much annoyance to the members of the police department, and it was thought by the committee, Mr. Marsh investigate and learn whether the fault lies with the owner of the building or any of the tenants. Mr. Tyler thought it was a matter that should be attended to by the police committee, which, he said, has the necessary authority, but a majority of the members thought otherwise. Mr. Tyler voted against the resolution.

The question of revising the city's official assessment maps was introduced by Mr. Hibbard, and Assessor H. VanBurkirk was authorized to make all the necessary changes for the past year; also to locate all of the new buildings built in that time on the map. His compensation for ding this work is not to exceed $200.

HAS CLIENT NON-SUITED.

Witness Brings Out Fact That Destroys Case as Presented.

On the application of the lawyer for the plaintiff, the case of Thad. Doane, Jr., as real estate agent, against Lewis C. Van Nest and his wife, for commission alleged to be due for the sale of a property on Duer street, was non-suited in the District Court Tuesday morning. The counsel, Francis J. Blatz, had the case dismissed to enable him to start it over again with an error in preparation corrected. Judge Swift, of Elizabeth, sat on the case, Judge Newcorn withdrawing because he had assisted in transferring the property.

The suit was for $82, claimed on the sale of the property at 144 Duer street. It was bought in the name of Mr. Doane, but the testimony of the second witness brought out the fact that W. H. Granant was associated with Mr. Doane, and had an interest in the transaction. That being so, the suit should have been brought in the names of Doane and Granant, and Mr. Blatz promptly secured a non-suit. Mr. Swackhamer appeared for the defense.

Arrested in the Borough.

John Ericson, Fred Friese and Robert Davison, the last named, colored, were arrested in the borough Saturday night on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. They will be given a hearing tonight by Recorder Dolliver.

Organize Double Quartette.

Percy Abbott, of Dunellen, has organized a double quartette among the members of the Dunellen A. C. Mr. Abbott is leader and the other singers are Frank Fletcher, Jr., John Logan, John Campbell, Frank Rinehart, George Apgar, Harry Ising and Rulif Fisher.

"PHIL" SMITH PITCHES FINE GAME AT WESTFIELD

OUT-TWIRLS LINDEMAN AND BLANKS SLUGGING SUMMITS.

Phil. Smith came back to form Saturday and he and Westfield made good in the Lackawanna League, defeating Summit by a score of 11 to 0. It was a great game, the best game played in Westfield in three years. The fans went wild with delight, and the odds of two to one given on Summit up to the sixth inning found ready takers. The game was a pitcher's battle between Smith and Lindeman, and the way Summit's heavy hitters fanned at everything delighted the Mt. Ararat enthusiasts and discouraged the visiting rooters. Summit scored only one hit off Smith, and that was scratch. The Westfield team is now rounding in shape and should give the best in the league a good view before the season ends. The score:

LEAGUE TEAMS PLAY A "SMALL BOY" GAME.

Score in the Y. M. C. A.-Dunellen Contest Shows a Need of Ginger On Both Sides.

The Y. M. C. A. nine held its lead in the Inter-City League, Saturday, by defeating Dunellen in a poorly played game. The score was 19 to 8, and the "contest" was just as bad as the figures indicate.

The result of the meeting between the teams was baseball mangled beyond recognition. Y. M. C. A. was bad, but Dunellen was rank beyond criticism; pity, not censure, is what is coming to the suburbanites. Conover pitched a good game for the association, but none of the three pitchers used by Dunellen was effective or steady. Y. M. C. A. used two substitute catchers, and Schoonmaker did well enough, but none of the three put into service by Dunellen helped the other end of the battery much. Everything figured in the scoring, from hits to dropped pops. There were twenty-nine stolen bases. A handful of fans saw the "game." The score:

KISSES.

To W. T.

Kisses are made for human folk
And sighs for tearful women,
And hugs are made for healthy men
And ducks are made for swimming.

So everywhere on land or sea
The question is how many?
The guilty sin of wishing it,
The trouble in getting any.

The kiss of the mother like dew of a rose,
The sigh of a lass for her lover,
His kiss like the sun on the wheat and grass
And her's like the sweet scented clover.

The kiss that you give the kiss as you
The compact of faith in your breath,
The kiss of joy the kiss of farewell,
The recunciation and of death.

Delivers Two Strong Sermons.

Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons, pastor of Grace M. E. church, preached two strong sermons, yesterday. In the morning his sermon was delivered from the text, "He That Gathers in Summer is a Wise Son," Proverbs 10-5, and in the evening his discourse was an aftermath of Memorial Day.

PITCHER RANDOLPH TOO MUCH FOR LAURELS

CLINTON AVENUE'S BOXMAN HELD THEM DOWN TO THREE HITS.

Clifford Randolph had the "Indian sign" on the Laurels, of Bound Brook, Saturday, and as a result the local aggregation received its worst defeat of the season since the amateur league opened. The score was 10 to 0 in favor of the Plainfield boys. Randolph fanned sixteen batsmen and had his opponents completely at his mercy. Howard Giles caught in fashionable style, taking the place of O'Loughlin, who was injured on Decoration Day.

The Clinton Avenues touched Harney for fifteen hits, including several extra bases. B. Martin and Emery led in the stick work with three hits each. The latter is proving himself to be one of the best utility men in the league. The whole team played a hard and fast game throughout, determined to redeem itself for the Decoration Day exhibition against Y. M. C. A. The score:

Y. M. C. A. LEADS.

Association Ball Team Has Won Three Inter-City League Games.

The Y. M. C. A. team now leads in the Inter-City Amateur League with a per centage of 1,000, having won three games and lost none. The Plains is second in the second place with a percentage of .500, having won two and lost two games. Scotch Plains is third with a percentage of .666, having two victories and one defeat to its credit, while Bound Brook with a percentage of .250 holds fourth position with one victory and three defeats. Dunellen, not having won a game, has no percentage. The standing follows:

NEW NECKWEAR.

There is a perfect craze for embroidered linen collars, the natural and attractive accessory of the tailor-made shirt waist. There are scores and scores of the new ties, brought out especially for these linen collars. Embroidered bows, lace, lawn, silk in all colors are neatly made and give a jaunty touch to the neck. The bow must match the color of the shirt dress, for the leading tendency this spring is to have the entire outfit of one color, unless varied with a white waist. The combination of brown and gray seems almost impossible, yet is one of the color schemes which grows apart from the one tone outfit.

W. W. St. John Improving.

Friends of W. W. St. John, who is in Denver, Col., for the benefit of his health, have received letters from him saying that he is steadily improving and that the chances for complete recovery are bright. He hopes at some future time to return to Plainfield.

LOCAL GOLFERS BUSY

Large Fields Out Saturday Despite the Raw and Chilly Weather.

HONORS AT THE P. C. C.

H. D. Hibbard Gets First Points for Golf Committee Cup—T. Earl Stockton Second.

Despite the raw and chilly weather on Saturday there was a large field out at the Plainfield Country Club to engage in the competition for the several events scheduled and low scores were the rule. Several new faces were seen on the course, showing that the game is becoming more popular than ever. There were the usual social features at the clubhouse, the serving of tea and dinners and altogether the day was one of pleasure for all who visited the club.

Henry D. Hibbard won the first honors for the Golf committee cup, T. Earl Stockton finished second, while W. Lester Glenney, Leighton Calkins, Julius E. Erickson and Edward J. Patterson tied for third place. The scores:

Henry D. Hibbard, 81, 6—75; T. Earl Stockton, 86, 8—78; W. Lester Glenney, 80, 0—80; Leighton Calkins, 84, 0—84; Julius E. Erickson, 92, 12—80; Edward J. Patterson, 94, 14—80; Frank O. Reinhart, 83, 0—83; Howard G. Lapsley, 93, 10—83; C. B. Morgan, 86, 2—84.

G. F. Earl won first honors for the Green committee cup with a net score of 76, while J. R. Evans finished second and Hugh F. Fox third. The scores:

G. F. Earl, 92, 16—76; J. R. Evans, 103, 25—78; Hugh F. Fox, 100, 17—83; L. B. Alling, 104, 20—84; C. P. Hamilton, 111, 27—84; D. W. Taylor, 103, 18—85; James P. Murray, 101, 15—86; LeRoy H. Gates, 115, 20—95; Harry Williams, 123, 25—98.

W. Lester Glenney won the first leg on the Scratch cup, to be played for every Saturday from June 1 to August 24, inclusive, excepting June 15. He returned a gross score of 80. The other scores:

Henry D. Hibbard, 81; Frank O. Reinhart, 83; C. B. Morgan, 86; Herbert S. Rogers, 91; Howard G. Lapsley, 93; Edward J. Patterson, 94.

There was also the qualifying round for the June cup, the conditions being that those returning the four lowest net scores in Class A and B shall compete next Saturday in the first round match play. It happened that on Saturday in Class A there were four players who were tied with a score of 80 and this will have to be played off before the fourth man can qualify. In Class B there were two contestants who were tied with a net score of 84. This will also have to be played off before the first round is played. The scores returned are as follows:

Class A—Henry D. Hibbard, 81, 16—75; T. Earl Stockton, 86, 8—78; Herbert S. Rogers, 91, 12—78; Leighton Calkins, 84, 4—80; Julius E. Erickson, 92, 12—80; Edward J. Patterson, 94, 14—80; W. Lester Glenney, 80, 0—80.

Class B—G. F. Earl, 92, 16—76; J. R. Evans, 103, 25—78; Hugh F. Fox, 100, 17—83; L. B. Alling, 124, 20—84; C. P. Hamilton, 111, 27—84.

There was an unusually large field out at the Park Golf Club, Saturday afternoon, when the events on the course included the weekly play for the President's and Golf Club cups and the monthly competition for the Hydewood Park cup. There were also social features at the clubhouse, tea being served during the afternoon.

Charles W. McCutchen scored five points for the Hydewood Park cup and won first honors over the President's cup. Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey won first honors for the Golf Club cup, scratch competition. These scores were returned:

Charles W. McCutchen, 113, 20—93; Rev. L. R. Howard, 125, 30—95; Alexander Gilbert, 118, 23—95; R. V. Carpenter, 119, 24—95; Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, 103, 7—96; Charles A. Reed, 107, 8—99; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 111, 11—100; Miss Lydia Loizeaux, 114, 14—100; A. W. Kenworthy, 123, 14—109.

HORSE SHOW OFFICIALS DINNER FRIDAY NIGHT.

Committee Will Entertain Exhibitors —Lawson Prize Cup Placed On View.

The annual dinner given by the officials of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club in connection with the fourth annual horse show to be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday, will take place Friday night at the Casino, when the exhibitors will be entertained.

The large handsome cup, valued at $300, which is offered by Thomas W. Lawson, of Boston, for competition in one of the classes, is now on exhibition in the show window of L. W. Randolph's drug store on West Front street.

Sixty of the thoroughbreds shown at the Philadelphia Horse Show arrived here by special train last night and today were taken to the local horse show grounds, where they will be gotten ready for the show the last of the week.

WATCHUNG RACES ENDED

Final Six Events Not as Snappy as Those on Memorial Day Card.

DIANA" WINS FEATURE

Frightened Horse in Farmers' Event Leaves Track and Injures a Groom.

Though none of the races were as hotly contested or as prettily finished as those on Decoration Day the final card of the Watchung Hunt Club's fourth annual steeplechase at the Driving Park, Saturday, furnished plenty of excitement for the big crowd which turned out. The villainous and unseasonable chill that filled the air seemed to have effect on both men and horses and the going lacked the snap that was apparent Thursday.

There were six events on the list and the feature proved to be a steeplechase of three miles for ten Somerset cup. It was won by Malcolm Stevenson's 'Diana" against a field of eight, with Charles Freeman's "Strongheart" second, Charles Pfizer's "Ninnette" third and Charles W. Fisk's "Applejack" fourth. "Strongheart" and "Applejack" were favorites at the start and the bettors about the track plunged heavily on them at odds of 1 to 2. The bookmakers offered 3 to 2 on "Diana" and got but few takers.

In this event, Louis Batjer, of Elizabeth, who finished first in Thursday's run for "Tobosso" in one of the prettiest races ever seen at the track, suffered a bad fall at the Liverpool jump. He landed on his shoulders but rolled clear of his mount and pluckily got back in the saddle. He was cheered loudly every time he passed the stand.

Batjer again ran in hard luck in the sixth and final race in which there were but three starters. Batjer on his "Tobosso," "Jimmie" O'Brien on Singleton Van Schaick's "Adjutor" and Marshall Clapp on Leonce Fuller's "Cricket." It was a close chase of three miles for the Oak Tree cup and promised some good sport. "Adjutor" was the favorite at 2 to 5 but though all three horses got away together nicely he dropped back at the first jump. "Tobosso" and "Cricket" ran neck-and-neck at the in-and-out but in taking the second fence, both horses collided. Clapp was thrown from his saddle and Batjer got his reins and bridle in such a mix-up that he was unable to guide his animal. O'Brien took the fence safely and before the other riders could get in shape he had left them a couple of furlongs behind. Clapp and Batjer both stuck to the race, however, and overcame about half of the lead Clapp finishing second and Batjer third.

A farmer's race was again on the card and a tinge of excitement that came near being a bad accident was added to it. There were eight starters and one of the leaders was David Hand's "Nancy Switchem," ridden by Charles Smith, a Netherwold "Fresh Air" boy known as "Bant" Dipper." The first time around "Nancy Switchem" was badly frightened by the yelling from the grandstand and the thunder of hoofs behind her and she attempted to leave the track at the paddock entrance. She missed the opening by ten feet and crashed into a section of the fence in which several men were seated. One of them was Edward Riordon a sprinter employed by Singleton Van Schaick and though he made a frantic effort to get out of the way, the horse struck him. He was knocked senseless but when revived later was found to have escaped with a broken nose. "Nancy Switchem" fell, down and Banty Dipper" was thrown over her head. The boy cried lustily when picked up but he afterward said it was because he lost the race and not from injury or fright.

In the second race, a steeplechase for the Master's cup, R. R. Howard's "Boo Ba" threw his rider, Fred Alpers, and swerved from the course into a nearby field. It ran all the way to the back of the grandstand before being captured. The race was easily won by W. H. Wiley's "Silver Twist."

The summary:

First race—For Gallowways; five furlongs on the flat for the Westfield cup: Won by "The Lad," E. C. Cowdin, 2d., Cedarhurst, 3 1; second, "Spring Beauty," Singleton Van Schaick, Huntington, L. I.; third, "Pecos Johnnie," A. R. Hamilton, Pittsburg; fourth "Virginia Francis," Thomas Mangan, New York.

Second race—Steeplechase of three miles for the Masters' cup: Won by "Silver Twist," W. H. Wiley's, Westfield; second, "Arch Light," Peter Hauck, Jr., Newark; third, "Fassifern," Charles W. Fisk, Plainfield.

Third race—Farmers' event, five furlongs on the flat for $ purse of $40: Won by "Dexter," William E. Clark, Oak Tree; second, "Tom," P. C. Suydam, Alton; third, "Spice," E. C. Potter, Oak Tree.

Fourth race—For hacks or hunters, seven furlongs on the flat for the Union cup: Won by "Lane Alley," A. R. Hamilton, Pitsburg; second, "Anticipation," E. C. Cowdin, 2d., Cedarhurst, L. I.; third, "Miss," Singleton Van Schaick, Huntington, L. I.

Fifth race—Steeplechase of three miles for the Somerset cup: Won by "Diana," Malcolm Stevenson, New York; second, "Strongheart," Chas. D. Freeman, Colonia; third, "Ninnette," Charles Pfizer, Bernardsville; fourth, "Applejack," Charles W. Fisk, Plainfield.

Sixth race—Steeplechase of four miles for the Oak Tree cup: Won by "Adjutor," Singleton Van Schaick, Huntington, L. I.; second, "Cricket," Leonce Fuller, New York; third, "Tobosso," Louis Batjer, Elizabeth.

The stewards of the meeting were Lewis G. Young, H. L. Herbert, Charles Pfizer, P. F. Collier and Julian M. Gerard. Those who officiated at the track were as follows: Judges: Percy Evans and H. A. Bourne; starter, F. M. Ware; assistant starter, Augustus R. Fisk; paddock and patrol judge, Harvey Fisk; clerk of the course and scales, W. S. Blitz; race committee, C. E. S. Bellows, Dr. M. O'M. Knott and Lewis E. Waring.

PLAINFIELD MIXED DOUBLES.

Good Matches on Country Club Courts in Annual Tournament.

Play in mixed doubles was started Saturday on the courts of the Plainfield Country Club, and two teams were selected for the final round of the lawn tennis tournament, which is to be played next Saturday. Miss Edna Wildey and Wylie Brown will meet Miss Mildred Wildey and Willard Wadsworth in that contest. The summary:

Plainfield Country Club. Mixed doubles—First round—Miss Sarah E. Schuyler and H. J. Cochran defeated Miss Barbara Fleming and T. M. Day, 6—3, 8—6; Miss Mildred Wildey and Willard Wadsworth defeated Miss C. O. P. Campbell and C. L. Campbell, 6—1, 6—1; Miss Edna Wildey and Wylie Brown defeated Mrs. F. S. Weaver and H. L. McGee, 6—2, 6—2; Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lockwood defeated Miss Janet Wildey and M. J. Beaumont, 8—10, 6—3, 7—5.

Second round—Miss Mildred Wildey and Willard Wadsworth defeated Miss Sarah E. Schuyler and H. J. Cochran, 2—6, 6—3, 6—4; Miss Edna Wildey and Wylie Brown defeated Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Lockwood, 6—1, 6—2.

FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER.

Where hard water is used, if a common marble, not glass, is put in the kettle, it will prevent the flakes of lime from forming on the sides.

When linoleum begins to show wear paint the surface with a good quality of floor varnish and allow it a longer time to dry than would be necessary for wooden boards.

A pair of extra sleeves drawn up on the lower portion of your sleeve, and a big bib apron as long as your dress will protect you to get into the kitchen with a pretty gown on and emerge therefrom spotless and dainty as before.

A useful piece of kitchen furniture is a table covered with heavy tin or zinc. It costs but little and lasts a long time. You can always have a nice, clean table with little care. No unsightly, greasy oilcloth after preparing meat, etc.

To prevent rust, beat the article well and rub in thoroughly common beeswax. Then rub well with a cloth until the wax is well rubbed in. Knives, tin or iron kettles or any article which will rust have been kept years in this manner.

WRITERS AND PAINTERS.

The Russian nihilist, Maxim Gorky, is dying with consumption. His writings have made him wealthy.

Winston Churchill receives a royalty of 30 cents a volume, and his receipts from one book are said to have been $150,000.

Now a man of 65 years old, Mr. William Holman-Hunt, the great artist, will never paint another picture. His eyesight has failed him.

It is said that at last John L. Sargeant has pointed his masterpiece. It is a portrait of the Countess of Essex, who was Adele Beach Grant, of New York.

Strikingly in contrast with the unbusinesslike methods of most authors, those of Israel Zangwill and George Bernard Shaw are said to be business and calculating. It is common talk among publishers that they drive hard bargains and demand every penny of their rights.

Lamb Going Up.

The butchers report a slight advance in the price of lamb. The management of the Union Beef Company said this morning that the advance was almost too little to note, and that there was no particular reason for it that they could think of. The advance would not affect the retail buyers, it was said.

COPS ON MOTOR CYCLES WILL ROUND UP AUTOS

CITY COUNCIL APPROPRIATES $300 TO BUY TWO MACHINES.

In connection with the plan of "education" started by Mayor Charles J. Fisk to curb the reckless automobile driver, Councilman Frank Randolph, chairman of the police committee, offered a resolution at the June meeting of the Common Council, Monday night, authorizing the purchase of two motor cycles for the use of the department. The resolution called for an appropriation of $300, Mr. Randolph explaining that one second-hand motor cycle can be purchased for $100 and a new one for $200. The resolution was adopted after further discussion in which Mayor Fisk was asked to talk on the matter.

Mr. Fisk said that modern appliances are necessary in Plainfield to get after the automobile drivers who go through the city at a terrific pace, and he suggested that the motor cycles fit a speed limit of sixty miles an hour be purchased for this work. Mr. Fisk also took occasion to speak of the mounted policeman who is now on duty at certain times and explained that he is already doing good work. In the use of the motor cycles it is planned that one be stationed on East Front street and the other on West Front street, and occasionally on Park avenue. In this way it is hoped to protect pedestrians and wagons.

Mr. Gloak spoke in support of the resolution, adding that he thought it would be money well spent. President Daniel said that if the police intended to use motor cycles it might be well to increase the city's appropriation to the hospital.

Mr. Tyler favored buying one machine, but Mayor Fisk said that while one would do a little good, it would not meet the requirements. These machines cost $225, and he thought the city would be getting a bargain by securing two for $300. All of the members, except Councilmen Hibbard and Dalrymple, voted for the resolution and it was adopted. Chief Kiely will select the men to ride the motors.

SPECIAL AUTO COPS PREPARE FOR CAMPAIGN

ADOPT FORM OF NOTICE THAT IS TO BE SENT TO SPEEDERS.

The eight "gentlemen specials" appointed by Mayor Fisk to help in controlling the automobile speeders met for organization and to formulate plans of action at the Mayor's office Monday. Dr. F. C. Ard was made chairman and L. R. Thurlow secretary.

The eight will fare forth in their autos on Sunday and holidays and keep vigilant watch for reckless drivers. They adopted a form of notice that will be sent to offenders spotted on the streets. This notice calls the attention of the offender to his breach of a law, and urges him to be careful that it does not occur again. Threat of arrest when next brought in is lessly hinted at in the notice. The specials will note the number on all speeding machines and the owners thereof will receive one of the notices.

The specials will be helped in the Sunday and holiday tours by the two motor cycle policemen provided for by the Council. They learned last night that additional signs of warning had been posted about town where auto users could see them.

Mayor Fisk encouraged the eight by passing to them a message of approval from State Automobile Commissioner Smith. The latter heartily approves of the methods adopted here. He intends to come to Plainfield shortly and see how the work is progressing.

PRIZE ESSAY JUDGES.

List Announced at Meeting of the Board of Education

At the regular meeting of the city Board of Education Monday, it was announced that the judges for the prize essays would be Miss Mary Willard, H. E. DeBoll and Francis Sullivan. They will pass upon the efforts of the High School students in order to award the annual prizes.

It was reported by Medical Inspectors Tomlinson and Van Horn that many of the pupils in the schools at present time have not been vaccinated and they recommended that steps be taken to have it done. They also reported the toilet conditions at the Irving School to be in need of improvement and the matter will be taken care of at once. Three hundred and forty-six pupils were examined during the past month and the general health conditions are very good.

Mr. Lovell introduced a resolution to the effect that $2,400 be appropriated from the amount received from the sale of the Wadsworth school property and applied to the expense of grading the high school grounds. The matter of building a bicycle shed at the high school was put over until a later session.

It was reported by Dr. Maxson that all arrangements had been completed for the annual Commencement exercises.

BAPTIST MEETING ENDS

that today a State or United States Senator is answerable to the conscience of a State and this had been found true also in the case of New York State where they have a Baptist Governor.

Dr. Lawrence also spoke of the great influx of foreigners to this State and asked the question as to who is going to influence these people. "New Jersey," he said is the bed-room of New York, and the place where Philadelphians pass through on their way to New York. What are the Baptists doing to advance their interests? Nothing. When I went to the Oranges, it made me weary to meet so many people who had at one time been members of the Baptist church, but had since identified themselves with some other denomination. I found the Oranges to be a resting place for saints and a refuge for sinners. In conclusion Dr. Lawrence urged all to lift their eyes to God and look down at the harvest which is always ready for the workers.

NEEDS OF THE LIBRARY

believe that in the course of the next year the library should spend on books at least $2,500, and we have accordingly entered this item in our proposed budget.

"Your committee recommend the publication and circulation, amongst factory operatives and others likely to be interested, of a list of books and magazines on engineering owned by the library; also the publication of a list of "Fine Arts" in an edition of say three hundred and fifty copies. Your committee believe it wise to inform the reading public in this way from time to time, as means are available for such purpose, of such books as we propose to add to study and research. We estimate that the $500 proposed to be set aside for 'stationery and printing' will cover the cost of a suitable annual report and of the lists herein suggested—besides providing needed stationery.

"We cannot reasonably complain of a lack of public sympathy and appreciation so long as we are not taking measures to inform our friends and constituents of library conditions. Lack of means has prevented the publication of reports of our work. Your committee believe that it is wise to publish a general report, giving all facts of interest in connection with the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room.

"Touching the subject of vacations of employes, specially referred to your committee, they consider that for this year the librarian and assistant librarian should each have one month's vacation. Their work has been arduous and responsible, to this extent we believe the board would be justified in giving them a period of rest. In the case of other employes the recommendation of the librarian of three weeks and two weeks respectively may be carried out.

"Your committee do not favor changes or readjustment in the staff at present. The less responsible assistants should be given all reasonable opportunity to acquire fitness for more advanced work.

"Respectfully submitted,

"L. V. F. RANDOLPH,
J. HERBERT CASE,
MASON W. TYLER."

PHILADELPHIAN WEDS MISS MADELINE ROBINSON

CEREMONY AT SCOTCH PLAINS BAPTIST CHURCH WITNESSED BY MANY FRIENDS

The Scotch Plains Baptist church was the scene of a brilliant wedding Saturday evening, when Miss Madeline Robinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Proul Robinson, became the wife of Richard William Tull, of Philadelphia. The church was decorated with huge boughs of dogwood and white iris.

The ceremony took place at 6.30 o'clock, when to the strains of the Lohengrin Wedding March, the bridal party entered the church. The bride escorted by her father, who gave her in marriage, was preceded by Messrs. Pickering, Bailey, Wales, of Philadelphia, and Messrs. White and Darling, of New York, as ushers and the Misses Urner, Bradley, Kyte and Tull as bridesmaids and Miss Lillian Fancher, as maid-of-honor. At the chancel the party was met by the groom and his best man, Dr. Lloyd Tevis Bailey, of Philadelphia, and the Rev. Dr. Mulford, rector of All Saints' church, of Fanwood, who performed the ceremony.

The bride, an attractive brunette, was gowned in white chiffon over white taffeta, trimmed with duchess lace and carried a bouquet of bride roses and lilies-of-the-valley. She wore a long tulle veil caught with a spray of orange blossoms. The bridesmaids' gowns were white silk muslin with pink flowers over white and empire girdles and sashes of pink satin ribbon. Small garlands of tiny pink roses and smilax were worn in their hair and they carried bouquets of pink sweet peas. The maid-of-honor was similarly gowned, but carried a bouquet of bridesmaid roses tied with pink ribbon.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the bride's residence in Fanwood. The house was attractively decorated, palms, dogwood, and chestnut blossoms being used in the reception hall, music room and parlor, while in the dining room bridesmaid roses were used. Davis, of Newark, furnished the supper and during the evening there was a fine program of music by an orchestra.

There were a great many out-of-town guests, as Mr. and Mrs. Robinson formerly resided in Brooklyn. A special car from Philadelphia brought many relatives and friends of Mr. Tull. The couple, who were the recipients of many handsome and useful gifts, left amid a shower of confetti and the proverbial old shoe for good luck, while the orchestra played "Dearie." The honeymoon will extend over a month, being spent at the Jamestown Exposition and points in Canada. Upon their return they will reside in Fanwood.

A "BAKE SHOP" SALE.

Affair Held By First M. E. Juniors Netted $14.

The Junior Epworth League of the First M. E. church, under the direction of Mrs. Thomas MacDonald, superintendent, held a successful "bake shop" sale in Vincent chapel, Saturday, in closing the season's activities. The affair was held for the benefit of the Wood Fresh Air Home and the net profits were $14.

The chapel was attractively decorated with American flags and the Epworth League emblems. Lemonade, cake, candy, cookies and pies were offered for sale and the entire supply sold. Those at the cake table were Helen Joy, Irene Doane, Marguerite Thorn and Harold Seal. Those who presided at the candy table were Thyra Stiles, Russell Beekman, Carol Dunavan, Ruth Lyon and Ruth Seal and those at the table where cookies and pies were sold were Anna Warnock, Laura Warnock, Alice Joy, and Ida May Butler. At the lemonade table were Ceta Boice, Lucille Hewitt, Roberta Templin, Ruth Enander, and Muriel Coursier.

NEW LEAGUE PLAYERS.

Inter-city Teams File List of Changes With League Manager.

The revised lists have been filed by the teams of the Inter-City Baseball League. Four changes were made by the Panelists, the new battery being Herman, J. Conway, C. Apgar, G. Taylor. Scotch Plains filed the names of George Allen, Harry Flannery, and F. Voncas. The Clinton Avenue management put in the names of J. Scott, J. Murphy, and H. Giles. The only additions to the Y. M. C. A. list is W. Glenney, a utility player. Bound Brook filed no changes.

Next Saturday games will be played between Scotch Plains and Clinton Avenue at Crescent Oval, the Panelists and Bound Brook at Bound Brook. The Y. M. C. A. nine will play a practice game on Hope common.

Potter A. C. Win, 9 to 0.

The Potter A. C. played the Metuchen A. C., at Metuchen, on Saturday, and won the game by forfeit by a score of 9 to 0. Up to the ninth inning the score was 2 to 1 in favor of Metuchen and in that inning the Potters had three men on bases and only one out, when the umpire gave a decision which caused dispute and the abrupt termination of the game. According to the Potter A. C., the umpire afterward admitted he was wrong and was willing to change his decision, but it was then too late.

"BOOKIE" BEAT BETTORS OUT OF THEIR WINNINGS

LEFT BEFORE THEY HAD A CHANCE TO CASH IN ON LAST RACE.

Though four out of five New York book-makers who operated at the Driving Park, Saturday, in connection with the Watchung Hunt races, finished well ahead of the bettors, the other one got much the worse on the odds. He played a losing game from the start and stood to drop the greater part of his dwindling roll when the last race was over but he took time by the forelock and quitted the grounds without taking the trouble to notify anyone of the fact. When "Adjutor" romped home an easy winner at odds of 2 to 5 there was a rush to cash in but Bookie No. 5 was half way to the North Avenue station. A saddened lot of Plainfielders with betting slips took up the trail but he beat them to the train by five furlongs.

The other book-makers won heavily on two of the races, the favorites being backed with big rolls but they failed to land more than place. The betting was feverish at times, the women in the grandstand even taking a hand in it and staking from one to fifty dollars on their choice.

The book-makers were not disturbed in their transactions and several hysterical citizens have since taken time away from their offices to tell about it. The track is located in Middlesex county and is under the jurisdiction of the New Brunswick authorities.

GOVERNOR SIGNS THE TRAVELLING LIBRARY BILL.

Books Will Hereafter Be Extended to the Penal Institutions of the State.

Governor Stokes has signed the bill which was introduced at the last session of the Legislature, providing for the extension of the State traveling library to the penal and correctional institutions of New Jersey. The bill calls for an appropriation of $1,000 to carry on this work, and as a result the State is the first one in the country to provide for this extension.

Miss Emma Adams, librarian at the Plainfield Public Library; Mrs. Dexter Tiffany, Dr. Henry M. Maxson and James P. Murray were appointed as a committee by the State Charities Aid Association to look after the interests of the bill, and it was largely through the efforts of State Senator Ernest R. Ackerman that the bill was passed and the Governor was led to sign it.

Mrs. Whitney Frazee, of South avenue, has recovered from a long illness.

Mr. and Mrs. John McCann, of Summit avenue, have returned home from Los Angeles, Cal.

Miss Helen Rafferty, of Sandford avenue, has returned home from a visit to Tarrytown, N. Y.

Mrs. Hoar, of Fairview avenue, has returned from the hospital, where she underwent an operation, and is steadily improving.

Rev. W. H. Miller, rector of St. Joseph's church, accompanied by Mrs. and Miss T. W. Kenney, of the borough, and Monsignor Brady on their trip abroad. The party sailed yesterday.

Miss Aimee Emmons, of Washington avenue, the borough, has returned from Glen Cove, L. I., where she was married to Mr. Wedding of Miss Elsie Smith, formerly of this city, to William R. Crary, of Liberty, N. Y.

ANOTHER WHITE SEASON.

The spring and summer of 1907 are evidently to be notable for the light colors that will prevail in woman's attire, though by autumn black and navy blue are likely to get the lead here that they have recently had in Paris.

This is noted as a hint for the conservative woman who buys her tailor-made with the idea of having it last well, as well as for its present cost. For this woman the best results are obtained by selecting the plain smart cuts and strict tailored finish associated with the custom tailor.

KEEP SCHOOL DAY PACT

Charles B. Morse Will Travel 5,000 Miles In Order to Be at Chum's Wedding.

AT CANON CITY, COL.

Agreed With Walter Rittenhouse "To Go Half Around the World" To Be His Best Man.

To keep a compact made twelve years ago, when both were students at the Plainfield High School, Charles B. Morse, of Franklin place, left town Friday for Canon City, Col., where he will act as best man at the wedding of Walter B. Rittenhouse, a former Plainfielder, who will marry Miss Theo L. Rogers, of that place, next Thursday.

When Mr. Morse and Mr. Rittenhouse graduated in the class of 1895 of the Plainfield High School, both laughingly referred to the future, and the former remarked:

"Whenever you get married, Walter, I'll go half way around the world, if necessary, to be your best man."

"And I'll do the same for you," was the reply.

The incident passed from the minds of both for the time being, but it came back to Rittenhouse a few weeks ago, when he made plans to marry Miss Rogers. He is at present superintendent of a large power plant at Duluth, Minn., but met the young woman during a Western trip. When he wrote to her before making it he would keep his promise about being best man, the reply was in the affirmative. The distance to Canon City from Plainfield is about 2,500 miles. Rittenhouse is a graduate of Stevens Institute and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. George B. Rittenhouse, of Sandford avenue.

The best man-elect is the head of the publicity department of the Ingersoll-Rand Company and is a former local newspaper man. He will return East directly after the ceremony.

Mr. Morse is congratulating himself that he did not have to go "half way around the world" as he agreed to do as since the day of the compact Mr. Rittenhouse has been in all parts of the globe. A short time after he left school, he was seized with the "wanderlust" and made to journey to Japan where he spent three months. During that time he and a companion cruised in the inland sea, touching ports that had never been penetrated by Europeans, before. From there he went to San Francisco and thence across the continent home, completing the trip around the world.

Mr. Rittenhouse had been home but a few months when he again decided to "look around" and went to Vancouver. From there he shipped down to South America and purely for the adventure of the thing, undertook a trip over the Andes mountains on foot, accomplished only by a young Englishman. After a perilous trip, during which they encountered innumerable wild animals and unfriendly natives, they reached the head waters of the Amazon. They made their way down the river in canoes to Rio Janeiro. At that point, Rittenhouse was stricken with fever and was in a hospital many weeks before recovering sufficiently to take passage on a steamer for New York.

He also took two orange trips in the wilds of British Columbia and since assuming his position at Duluth has made excursions to all parts of the United States.

FOR MISSION WORK.

Queen Esther Circle, of Grace M. E. Church, Gives a Play.

The Queen Esther Circle of Grace M. E. church, an auxiliary home mission organization, held an entertainment at the church Friday for the benefit of a girl who's education the circle is paying for at a mission school. The affair was a great success.

The feature of the entertainment was a play, "The Scarlet Bonnet," in which the seven members of the circle took part. They performed excellently and won warm applause. The seven are the Misses Marion Major, Edna Stout, Alice Vroom, Grace Beeching, Edna Beeching, Stella Kline, and Bessie Conroy.

Miss Jennie Nelson played piano solos. After the entertainment the members served cake and lemonade. Mrs. E. P. Stevens is in charge of the circle.

Editors' Annual Outing.

W. C. Hope, general passenger agent of the New Jersey Central, has issued invitations on behalf of the company, to the editors of the newspapers along the main line and branches of the road for the sixth annual outing to be held this year at Island Park, near Easton, Pa., on Saturday, June 16. Cars will be run on special trains, one leaving Point Pleasant at 8.05 and the other leaving Scranton, Pa., at 8 o'clock for Island Park. The train from Point Pleasant will stop at Plainfield at 9.47 o'clock to pick up the local guests. Returning, special trains will leave Island Park and Phillipsburg in the afternoon; the hour to be determined later.

FORMER LOCAL MERCHANT PASSES AWAY IN NEW YORK

JAMES E. WHITE WAS A PIONEER IN THE DRY GOODS BUSINESS HERE.

James E. White, who was a well-known and successful dry goods merchant in Plainfield for many years, died at the home of his sister, Mrs. Frank Reagna, on 82d street, New York, following an attack of heart trouble. He was taken ill at Morristown about six weeks ago and decided to go to his sister's home in New York.

Mr. White was born at Pine Plains, N. Y., seventy-one years ago today. In the year 1875 he came to Plainfield and engaged in the dry goods business, his first store being at East Front street and Watchung avenue. He remained there about ten years when he moved to where A. M. Griffen's store is now. A little later he sold out to the firm of Edsall & Price, after which he went to Georgia, where he remained for two years. Returning to Plainfield he again engaged in the dry goods business, locating this time where the Plainfield Savings Bank is now situated. He remained there four years and then moved to where "The White Store" is now on West Front street. He continued in business for several years when he was succeeded by his son, Edward White. In 1890 he moved to Morristown, where he opened a dry goods store. This he conducted until five years ago. On account of his poor health and heart trouble he retired from business.

Surviving him are a wife and five children—Mrs. L. H. Taylor, of Rutherford; Mrs. Hardy Schley, of Orange; Miss Edith White, who lives at Morristown; Charles White, of Elizabeth, and Edward White, of this city. The interment took place at Pine Plains, N. Y.

NEW PRINCIPAL WILL BOOM N. P. H. S. ATHLETICS.

Benjamin F. Phelps Will Coach Borough Pupils in Their Games Next Year.

Benjamin F. Phelps, a member of the faculty at Pennington Seminary, who has been appointed to the position of principal of the North Plainfield Public Schools, as stated in yesterday's Daily Press, is sure to give athletics a big boom at the borough schools. He is a graduate of Yale and while there was a substitute on *the 'Varsity football team. At Pen*nington he was director of athletics, in addition to which duty he also had entire charge of the discipline of that institution for the three years he was there. In the absence of the president he had charge of the seminary.

In addition to his duties as principal under Superintendent H. C. Krebs, Mr. Phelps will have charge of the athletics and will coach the pupils in their games. The borough schools have not been prominent in athletics and great things are expected in the future.

Mr. Krebs has heretofore been su*pervising principal of the two* schools, and on account of increasing duties, the Board of Education decided to create the office of principal and promoted Mr. Krebs to the position of superintendent. Mr. Phelps will assume his duties in the fall.

WIFE TRIES TO CONVICT HUSBAND IN CITY COURT.

Mrs. Vincent Popek Appears to Support Unproved Charge Against Her Spouse.

The charge of driving Mrs. Lawrence Mallinson and her two-months' old baby out of their house made against Vincent Popek by Mallinson fell to the ground in the city court Saturday. The testimony did not support the accusation at all, and evidence was brought to prove that Popek, part of whose house the Mallinson's rent, had suffered annoy*ances at the hands of the tenants.*

An incident of the hearing was the appearance of Mrs. Popek against her husband. She testified against him as vigorously as she could, and acknowledged that she came to court to convict him if possible.

In dismissing the charge, Judge Runyon said that the persistence of the tenants in continuing the tenancy after all the trouble and the plainness of the fact that that tenancy was mainly responsible for the clashes and kept Mr. and Mrs. Popek at odds, had weaned his sympathy from the complainants. He advised Mrs. Popek in whose name the house stands, to serve notice of dispossess on the tenants.

Strawberry and Ice Cream Festival.

The Ladies' Christian Work Society and Young People's Christian Band, of Trinity Reformed church, are making extensive plans for the annual strawberry and ice cream festival to be held in the lecture room of the church on Thursday and Friday evenings, June 6 and 7. This is an event looked forward to with considerable interest and will undoubtedly be a success.

Engineering Committee at Work.

There are no new developments in the work of the water commission. The engineering committee is at work collecting data, which, when completed, will be presented to the commissioners for consideration. There will be no meeting of the commission until all of the facts are obtained.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

Recent Additions to the Public Library Which May Be Borrowed On Non-Fiction Cards.

Part 2.

Langland, William.—Visions of Piers plowman, done into modern English by Prof. Skeat.

"For many years teachers of English history have been hoping for some such book as this. 'Piers Plowman' is full of passages which reflect the every day life of the people, town and country at the end of the 14th century. . . . We commend this little volume to all students and teachers of English history and literature." Athenaeum, April 29, '05.

Lee, Sydney.—Shakespeare and the modern stage.

"A large portion of the book discusses, as its title indicates, methods of representing Shakespeare on the modern stage. The attempt is there made to define, in the light of experience, the conditions which are best calculated to conserve or increase Shakespeare's genuine vitality in the theatre of our own day." Preface.

Leonard, William Ellery.—Sonnets and poems.

Lowell, Percival.—Mars and its canals.

Lucas, Edward Verrall, comp.—Friendly town: a little book for the urbane.

"Is without qualification, a most delightful and attractive book." Academy, Nov. 18, '05.

Macesun, Florence A.—Mary Stuart. Illustrated.

"A history of Mary Stuart: her early home, Court and times, with a strong personal note." Publisher's note.

Macmaster, John Beach.—History of the people of the United States v. 6.

Mayer, Alfred Goldsborough.—Sea-shore life. (N. Y. Zoological Society.)

"Dr. Mayer has succeeded in the difficult task of presenting in a readable and popular form a good deal of information regarding the habits and distribution of the lower marine animals of the coast of New York and of Long Island." T. H. Morgan in Science, Dec. 1, 1905.

Neil, E. L.—Modern conjurer and drawing-room entertainer.

Norton, Charles Eliot.—Henry Wadsworth Longfellow: a sketch of his life.

"Prof. Norton's memoir presents the real Longfellow as his contemporaries knew him, and the poems selected are especially expressive of the poet's individuality." Publisher's note.

Oleson, Charles W., M. D., comp. —Secret nostrums and systems.

Perry, Bliss.—Walt Whitman: his life and work.

"Mr. Bliss Perry's work is modest in compass, but shows throughout that he has studied the documents with care and patience. . . . In general the narrative portions are well told and properly balanced. . . . Much the most important sections of the book deal with sources, and here Mr. Perry has a field almost entirely his own." Nation.

Pitman, Isaac.—Short course in shorthand.

Rhodes, James Ford.—History of the United States from 1850-1877, vs. 6 and 7.

Richards, Mrs. E. H. S.—Plain words about food.

Shuckburgh, Evelyn Shirley.—Story of ancient Greece. (Story of the nations.)

Seton, Ernest Thompson.—Animal heroes.

"The author's power has increased as his style has became more simple, and his allowance to plain facts more indisputable. He has never told a story more dramatically than that of 'Little War Horse,' the Jack rabbit, or more touchingly than that of 'Arraux the Homing pigeon.' Dial, D. 1, '05.

Sharp, Williams, Macleod, Fiona, pseud.—Washer of the ford; legendary moralities.

Sherman, Andrew M.—History of Morristown, N. J.: the story of Its First Century.

Smith, Mrs. Samuel Harrison.—First forty years of Washington society.

"A brilliant volume of reminiscences covering an almost untouched period in the history of the social life at the Capital. The author was Margaret Bayard, who married Samuel Harrison Smith, the distinguished journalist, and who by his position came in contact with the leading statesmen. . . . The literary foreigners who came to this country all went to Washington and visited Mrs. Smith and are described by her." Publisher's note.

Tuttle, Right Rev. Daniel S.—Reminiscences of a missionary bishop.

"Bishop Tuttle writes helpfully of his twenty years as missionary bishop in the Rocky Mountains." "It is a solid contribution to American history. These reminiscences abound in quotable stories; but their value is for much more than amusement." Rev. Cameron Mann, in N. Y. Times Oct. 6, 1906.

Walker, Williston.—John Calvin: the organizer of reformed protestantism.

"It is an excellent piece of work. While by no means light reading, the book is clear and straightforward, and it makes the real man Calvin live before us his strange life, so far-reaching in its influence." Dial, Nov. 1, '06.

Wendell, Barrett.—English composition.

White, Cleeson.—Children's books and their illustrations.

Wilkins, William Henry.—Mrs. Fitzherbert and George IV.

"These papers and letters with other new material, and many rare portraits, make a volume of unusual value and interest." Publisher's note.

BREAKING WILD HORSES.

The Science of Broncho Busting to Be Exemplified With Buffalo Bill's Wild West.

The first claim to recognition as an institution for educating the unlearned in American history which the management makes for Buffalo Bill's Wild West and Congress of Rough Riders of the World is the *very genuineness of it all. Every*thing concerned in the entertainment is of authenticity as to human ingenuity and the unrestricted expenditure of money can make it. Historic in its origin, Buffalo Bill's Wild West has always maintained its established record for genuineness in all things.

It will therefore be interesting to lovers of horseflesh in all varieties to learn that there will be a display of broncho-busting during the progress of the exhibition when Buffalo Bill and his big organization appears at Quaker City, Monday, May 13. The art of broncho busting has engaged the most daring members of the cowboy fraternity since the days when cowboys were first an established necessity in some features of western development. It is a most dangerous calling and many lives have been sacrificed in the conflict between the wild horse of the plains and the master hand which has attempted his subjection.

There need be no fear but what the broncho busting in Buffalo Bill's Wild West will be an exact reproduction of the original article, for it will be the genuine thing, and every time a cowboy mounts his horse he will take a great risk of broken bones. The cowboys will be real cowboys brought from the far western wilds where they have plied their avocation of herding cattle and busting broncboes all their lives. The world is seeing practically the last of this picturesque type of Americans for the fencing of the ranges is fast doing away with their occupation.

It has never been fully explained just why a broncho bucks, but many different theories have, of course, been advanced. It is said by some that they buck because *of nervous*ness; by others because of fear, others genuine cussedness and this theory is the most accepted. The methods they employ largely vary, but are generally along certain lines of bodily contortion. They will jump into the air and land on all four feet stiff-legged; some will jump to the left and then quickly to the right, some half turning in their flight and always kicking, snorting and buckling.

In Buffalo Bill's exhibitions there are employed on theatrical device of training to impel the broncbos to buck. They buck of their own free will and are evidently glad to do it. They have been picked from hundreds of buckers of the west and are experts in the uncomfortable art of making themselves disagreeable to those who attempt to ride them. One of the later developments of the Wild West organization is the introduction of cowgirls to perform, in a certain degree, the difficult feat of making a bucking horse submit to their mastery. These girls are experts, too; and like all other features with Buffalo Bill's organization they are genuine types of western character; real; true to life, practical cowgirls.

P. R. R. IS PLANTING 550,000 MORE TREES.

Earnestly Pushing the Work With a View to a Future Tie Supply.

The Pennsylvania Railroad was never more in earnest about any scheme tending to the betterment of the road than it is now on the very important feature of tree planting for ties purposes.

The work of forest planting by the P. R. R. was inaugurated several years ago with a view to its future tie supply. Now the work of setting out 550,000 additional trees has been begun, and is going forward in large scale at Mount Union, Pa., where about 225,000 trees are to be planted while the same number, or more, red oak trees are to be set out in the vicinity of Altoona at once.

At Hollidaysburg a forest nursery is being created, about 125 pounds of seed are being planted and many trees are being set out in nursery beds for next year's planting. When the spring's planting is completed the company will have about one thousand acres under tree cultivation. Some 2,250,000 trees will have been set out in addition to the seed planting. The planting is done with great attention to scientific detail, under the direct supervision of the company's recently appointed forester, E. A. Stelling, formerly with the United States Bureau of Forestry.

Australian Pippins.

To eat apples grown in Australia is something for Plainfield people to say, but the fact remains that many Plainfielders are really eating delicious pippin apples grown in Australia and imported to America, on account of the scarcity of the fruit in this country. Newman Brothers have taken delivery of a shipment of 1,000 barrels.

BIGGEST OF ENTRY LISTS

Horse Show is to be the Greatest Ever Held in Plainfield.

PROMINENT EXHIBITORS

Entries Number 380, Larger Than Last Year's List by 35—Vanderbilt and Harriman to Continue Rivalry.

All local records for the number of entries will be broken at the horse show to be held this week by the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club. The list closed with 300 entries, thirty-five more than last year. The show will run for three days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday. By far the greatest success of any year is expected.

The large number of entries has brought a strain to the stabling. Although accommodations have been added to, the stables are taxed to their utmost.

Among the largest exhibitors will be J. W. Harriman, Reginald Vanderbilt, C. W. McCutchen, Miss Emily H. Bedford, Miss Molly C. Maxwell, Edwin S. Hooley, Otto Kahn, George Watson and William Carr. C. W. Watson, who was a prominent exhibitor last year, will not be here. He is showing his string in England, competing with Alfred G. Vanderbilt.

Reginald Vanderbilt and J. W. Harriman have been competing against each other at the Philadelphia show all week. Each won a blue ribbon yesterday. The rivalry will be continued at the local show, and spirited contests for the coveted honors may be looked for.

Sixty of the horses shown at the Philadelphia show will be brought to this city tomorrow. A special train bearing them will be run from the Quaker City. The three days following will call together the greatest collection of thoroughbred equines that has ever been gathered in Plainfield.

DANCE IN HONOR OF HARTRIDGE GRADUATES.

One Hundred Guests Enjoy Attractive Affair Given at the Casino.

Following the graduation exercises of the Hartridge School at the Casino Friday morning, a delightful dance was given in honor of the graduates at the Casino, last night. There were more than one hundred guests who enjoyed the attractive program of dances until 1 o'clock this morning. The Casino was prettily decorated for the occasion with a profusion of dog-wood and flowers. Music for dancing was furnished by Charles Muller's orchestra, from Brooklyn.

Those who acted as chaperons for the dance were Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, Mrs. Gustav J. Siebeger, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh F. Fox, Mr. and Mrs. William Jones, Misses Elsie Burke and Miss Hartridge.

The Hartridge School will remain open for another week to allow the *pupils to complete their examina*tions, but the graduating class has finished its studies and all of the graduates have decided upon their plans for the future.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

One of the best assets of the chemical National Bank, New York, is Mrs. Hetty Green, who is a small stockholder and a large depositor. For years Mrs. Green has used the bank's rooms as her New York office, and this connection has brought the bank much free publicity.

Francisco Jose, who was born in 1788, is still alive and at work. He served in the Portugese army which, in 1810, opposed the invasion of the French under Napoleon I.

To William R. Smith, head of the National Botanical Gardens at Washington, belongs the distinction of having the largest collection of Burns's poetry in the world.

Perhaps the most famous of all the skippers on the Atlantic today is Captain Karl Keampff, commander of the Deutschland. He has followed the sea for nearly forty years, and yet he is only a little over 52 years of age.

Patrick Calhoun, principal owner of the San Francisco street railroads, is a grandson of South Carolina's great ante-bellum statesman, John C. Calhoun. He has been interested in street railraws all over the country.

Helped Instruct Lodge.

The degree team of Plainfield Lodge, No. 44, I. O. O. F., went to Perth Amboy, Friday, to take part in the installation of a new lodge there by working the third degree. About forty-five members of the lodge went on the trip, travelling by special car. A supper followed the installation. The new lodge is a Danish organization. Its number is 275.

Endeavorers Hold Country Picnic.

Sixty members of the Christian Endeavor Society, of the First Presbyterian church, went by stages to South Plainfield, Friday, where a genuine country picnic was held at F. C. Lounsbury's farm. The young people spent the evening playing all kinds of games after which refreshments were served.

NO LICENSE FOR THE FAMOUS DOG TAVERN

APPLICATION OF ALEXANDER ACKERMAN REFUSED BY JUDGE ATWATER.

The famous Dog Tavern, which *has been a favorite resort for sports*men, automobile parties and others, is now "dry" for the first time in thirty years. Saturday in the Union County Court, Judge Atwater denied the application of Alexander Ackerman for a license. The action was based on the strong remonstrances of the people residing in the neighborhood, F. M. Masker taking the initiative in protesting against the granting of the license. From time to time complaints have been made concerning the way in which the Inn was managed.

James Taylor formerly conducted the Inn before the present proprietor took it, and there was more or less complaint than about the disorder around the place. It was declared in court that Plainfielders flocked to the tavern on Sunday and that drunks, both men and women, were a common sight.

The court refused the license on two grounds, the first being that there was no necessity for the place being licensed and secondly because Ackerman did not intend to run the place himself, but proposed to engage James Gallagher for that purpose.

SEMINARY EXHIBIT.

Pupils Work Viewed by Parents and Friends Friday.

An exhibition of drawing and work in the primary department of the Plainfield Seminary on West Seventh street Friday afternoon was full of pleasure to those interested in the work of the pupils. The walls of Seminary Hall were hung with specimens of the year's work, the best of it being honored with a gilt star. Under the careful training of Miss Lewis, of Poughkeepsie, much proficiency was shown in free hand, still life, cast drawing, life and nature work, water colors, stencil plate, *original composition and original de*signs in wall paper. The latter were exceptionally good both in design and color. The compiled books made by the additional history and art were also beautiful specimens of work.

The walls of the well equiped primary room were covered with expressions of form and color, being the beginnings of artistic production.

The addition of the Seminary made last summer include a fine gymnasium, the large primary room, several recitation rooms, a laboratory, supply, cloak and toilet rooms, adding greatly to the working facili*ties of the school and the health and* comfort of the pupils.

The Indian on the Cent.

"Familiarity breeds contempt," is an old saying, though the same may always a true one. But it is certain*ly true that familiarity tends to a* lack of observation.

Take, for instance, the ordinary copper cent. Scarcely a day passes that we do not handle one or more of these, and yet, if asked whose is the image represented thereon, there are very few who would not answer that it is an Indian's; but if we look carefully we will see that the feat*ures under the feather headpiece are* not coarse and rugged like those of the Indian, but refined and delicate; in fact, they are like those of a little girl.

A few weeks ago there died in Philadelphia an old lady who was the original of this engraving. She was never tired of telling how it happened that her face was thus immortalized. *The little girl's father was su*perintendent of the mint, and the wee maiden was very fond of going there to see the store of gold and silver. One day a party of Indians, in their native costume, visited the mint. The superintendent, followed by his little daughter, showed them all about. The small girl was as much interested in seeing the Indians as the Indians were in seeing the mint. Their strange feather headdress especially amused her, and the child in the Indians' feathers they knew they had found the very thing. So this is how it happened that what many people think is an Indian's head is seen on the penny.—Margaret P. Boyle in New York Observer.

ONE-DAY GOLF CONTEST

Chairman Erickson of Plainfield Club Tournament Committee, Issues Program.

EXPECT NOTED PLAYERS

Walter J. Travis and Findlay Douglass Will Be Among the Players—Value of Cups Will Aggregate $160.

Julius E. Erickson, who is chairman of the tournament committee for the one-day eighteen hole medal play handicap tournament, open to all men who are members of clubs enrolled in the association and to invited guests of the club, has issued the programme for the event. This tournament to be given at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday, June 16, is the first of the kind ever held at the local club and it promises to be a great success. Already assurances have been received from many of the crack players in the association and the entry list will be a large one.

Among those who will take part in the tournament are Walter J. Travis and Findlay Douglass, who are among the best players in the country. All the clubs in the association will be well represented.

Competitors may start at any time between 9 o'clock and four o'clock in the afternoon and it has been arranged to pair the competitors at the tee. Each one must have a handicap before starting. If a member of a club in the association and not rated this year, he must present, before starting, a certificate from his secretary, stating how many strokes he receives at his home club from some player who is rated. Unless these conditions are complied with the right is reserved to give any such player a very low handicap or even to place him at scratch.

The Plainfield Country Club is arranging the tournament and for the purpose of making it worth while, has set aside $160 for six silver cups to be offered as prizes in the competition. There will be one cup for the best gross score, one for the second best gross score, one for the third best gross score, one for the best net score, one for the second best net score and one for the third best net score. This gives all a good opportunity to win at least one of the prizes. No competitor shall be eligible to win more than one prize and no member of the Plainfield Country Club shall be eligible to win either the prize for the best gross or the prize for the best net score.

All the members of the Metropolitan Golf Association who are rated on the association handicap list for 1907 may compete, without formal entry of any kind, and members who are not rated must enter through their club secretaries. Such entries should be addressed to Julius E. Erickson, Plainfield. Those not mailed before June 13 may be handed to the tournament committee on the tee, but players whose entries are sent in advance will be given the preference in starting.

All competitors shall be considered to have subjected themselves to the authority of the Tournament committee whose decision on all points shall be final. Of course, the committee reserves the right to alter the program before or during the tournament if considered advisable.

IMPORTANT REALTY DEAL.

Three Story Building on West Front Street Sold by David T. Kenney.

Albert Lederer, the real estate broker, has effected an important realty deal, whereby Leon Weiss, of Ossining, N. Y., and Mrs. M. Weinberger, partner, of this city, have purchased from David T. Kenney his property on West Front street, occupied by J. Smith & Bro., grocers; Charles Krewson's pool rooms and a loft. An auxiliary building in the rear is included in the sale. While the consideration is not known, it is said that the property is well worth $30,000.

Mr. Weiss recently purchased the Clifton building on Park avenue, and Mrs. Weinberger, who owns the business property occupied by the Weinberger Clothing Company, has recently acquired by purchase the three story apartment on Craig place and also owns what was known as Peck's row of nine houses on Grove street.

Mr. Lederer has also sold to H. P. Reynolds the double house on West Sixth street, owned by Mrs. Ellen Mullen; the two houses on West Fourth street, owned by Mrs. Sarah Runyon, to Miss Eleanor Stelle, of New York.

Engagement Announced.

The engagement is announced of Miss Anne Adleck, of Westfield, to S. Harris Egan, of Sandford avenue, this city.

Mrs. Caperton and her daughter, Miss Caroline Caperton, of West Virginia, spent Sunday at the home of Mrs. Caperton's parents, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Chambliss, of Central avenue. They are on their way to Atlantic City.

Kerro Knox and his friend, Mr. Dodd, of Philadelphia, spent Sunday at the home of Mr. Knox on Rockview avenue.

PAVE ORDINANCE HELD UP

Put Back on Second Reading After Councilmen Do a Lot of Talking.

GOES OVER TO JUNE 10

President Daniel Expresses Views On the Subject and Citizens Speak for and Against.

The question of paving the streets in the business section of the city with brick, as provided for in an ordinance previously passed on two readings, and which Chairman Ginna, of the street committee, called up on third and final reading at the June meeting of the Common Council, Monday, started a discussion which for a time looked as though it might be carried over until tonight for a decision. Mr. Ginna called up the ordinance on third reading late in the evening, not anticipating any lengthy debate, as the matter had been threshed out in committee meeting.

Before final disposition was made of the ordinance, the members went into a committee of the whole and discussed the question pro and con, and being unable to unite on the ordinance as drafted, eventually adopted Mr. Mellick's motion to have it put back on second reading, where it can and will undoubtedly be amended at a meeting to be held Monday night, June 10. The present idea is to eliminate North avenue from the streets to be paved with brick, thus cutting out $5,000 of expense. This will delay the passage of the ordinance about ten days.

After Mr. Ginna called the ordinance up on third reading, Mr. Mellick stated that after hearing the views of citizens present, as well as others, which seemed to favor a modification of the present ordinance, he moved to put the ordinance back on second reading with the idea of amending it to include only Watchung avenue, from Front to Fourth streets; East Front street, from Watchung avenue to and including Somerset street. He thought this would save the city considerable money as the trolley company would be called upon to pay a share of the expense for the improvement.

At this time President Daniel asked Mr. Ginna to take the chair, and he availed himself of the opportunity of speaking on the subject. He said that when the ordinance was first introduced he voted no, although he favored brick pavement. He had noticed the pavement in Newark, New York and was not impressed with it. At the time permanent pavement was considered for Watchung avenue he urged that improvement, but in the present ordinance he believed that the street committee had planned to do too much. He thought it would be wise to include Watchung avenue between Fourth and Front streets, Front street to and including Somerset street. There also appeared to be a question as to whether the city would have the right to assess property-owners for the brick pavement, when they had previously paid for macadamizing. Another question that arose in his mind as to the advisability of the improvement as planned was in referendizing the time limit on the proposed bond issue. He thought that the city would have to wait too long before it would get its money back and the pavement might be worn out in the meantime.

Mr. Tyler said that he for one did not want to see the improvement defeated, yet he felt like Mr. Mellick. He believed that a stretch of the pavement should be put down and if it proved satisfactory then continue it through the desired streets where it would be needed the most. He realized that Mr. Ginna as chairman of the street committee had devoted a lot of time to a consideration of the matter and his judgment should be relied upon. Finally, Mr. Tyler suggested that the Common Council go into a committee of the whole and discuss the question informally.

The suggestion was accepted and at the request of President Daniel, Mr. Tyler took the chair. Mr. Ginna was the first speaker. He said that the ordinance had been carefully considered and that all agreed that brick is the best pavement to adopt. Persons living on it would be sorry to see Park and Watchung avenues and Front street eliminated, and he believed that a majority of the citizens favor the pavement of these streets included in the ordinance.

Mr. Montgomery said that he for one did not favor piecemeal work, and he believed the city would make a mistake in using brick. It had stood the test in many cities, and he thought no time should be lost in adopting it for the pavement for Plainfield. He also cited the fact that it was at the suggestion of the citizens and the Board of Trade that the question of permanent pavement was taken up and that Mayor Fisk had also suggested it in his message.

Mr. Gloak expressed the opinion that in view of the fact that so large a sum is to be expended he was surprised that more citizens were not present to favor the improvement. He said that several had spoken against the proposition to pave the business streets.

Charles C. Randolph said that the Council would make no mistake in putting down brick. It is being used in Newark and in many other cities, he said, with great success. He favored it and believed that the improvement should be undertaken at once and the streets included in the ordinance be paved with brick.

Frank Randolph wanted to give Mr. Ginna all the credit possible for the time and effort expended by him in investigating the matter of permanent pavement, and he favored brick. Still, he had the same opinion as Mr. Mellick and thought it would be best to do a little at a time.

Mr. Mellick said that he favored brick and rather than have the improvement defeated would vote for all the streets.

Mr. Hibbard thought that the Common Council was planning to do too much at once. He was against the pavement of North avenue, but favored brick, believing it to be the best pavement now in use.

Mayor Fisk was given the privilege of the floor to explain some details regarding the bond issue. He said that the idea was to have it arranged so that a definite number of bonds would mature each year after 1912, so that at the end of the nineteen years they would all be paid. He considered the bonds proposed much safer than many other kinds issued by some cities.

The general discussion having about terminated an attempt was made to take a test vote to see how the members stood on the various questions. Mr. Ginna's motion that the ordinance be adopted in the present form received the votes of Councilmen Tyler, Montgomery, C. C. Randolph and Ginna, while Councilmen Daniel, F. Randolph, Hibbard, Gloak, Buxton and Mellick voted against the motion. The motion to adopt the ordinance by eliminating North avenue, resulted in a tie vote, five to five. Then another vote was taken to adopt the ordinance in the present form without change. This resulted in a tie vote on the first roll call, but when a second roll was called it was adopted by a majority of one, Councilmen Ginna, Hibbard, Mellick, C. C. Randolph, Tyler and Daniel being in favor, and Councilmen Gloak, Buxton, Montgomery and F. Randolph voting against. This being only a test vote it did not count officially.

Finally Mr. Mellick suggested that the regular session be resumed and his motion that the ordinance be put back on second reading be adopted, it being understood that the Council would meet Monday night, June 10, to further consider the ordinance with a view to putting it through.

Earlier in the evening a public hearing was granted on this ordinance and R. Henry DePew, president of the Plainfield Protective Association, spoke as an individual against the adoption of the improvement on such a large scale. He cited the many improvements proposed, the rising salaries in the city departments, the building of new public schools, sewers and the proposition to build a city hall—all of which he said would add greatly to the tax rate. He favored permanent pavement on the thoroughfares of the business streets and if this should prove satisfactory then it could be continued.

A letter from B. O. Rowers, of Franklin place, favoring brick pavement was read. He cited Savannah, Ga., and Nashville, Tenn., as places where the brick pavement is being used extensively and with success.

J. B. Coward, a property-owner on Park avenue, said he was against the improvement for that street, as he did not propose to pay an assessment for such an improvement if he could help it, as he had previously paid one for the macadamizing of the street. He thought the street was good enough as it is.

Dr. A. W. Anderson, who owns property on Watchung avenue, was also against the brick pavement, adding that he could not see what benefit it would be to the property on that thoroughfare.

William R. Codington, who said that he owned property on Park avenue, expressed the opinion that he hoped the Council would find a pavement to suit them than brick. However, he thought he might get used to it. He was willing to pay his fair share of an assessment for any improvement.

TWO BLUES FOR "CZAR."

Miss Mabel Hooley's handsome stepping thoroughbred saddle horse, "Czar," made a splendid record for himself at the Philadelphia horse show Saturday. Against a big field of very finest horses in the country he captured the blue ribbon in two classes, the judges having no hesitancy in awarding them. The classes were the heavyweight saddle and the large saddle. Among the competitors he were defeated by "Czar" are Stanten Elliott's "Judge Cantrell" and the celebrated mare, "Jasmine."

Miss Hooley has entered "Czar" at five other horses in the Plainfield show and after her Philadelphia triumph she is sure to make a great showing. Her animals are all blue ribboners and at the present time ar in "the pink of condition."

S. P. C. A. Meeting.

The Plainfield branch of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals met Monday afternoon at the home of the president, L. V. F. Randolph. After the business had been transacted, through the kind hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Randolph the members of the society were served with refreshments. A short time was spent in social enjoyment and in viewing Mr. Randolph's beautiful grounds under his guidance.

NEWS IN THE SUBURBS.

NORTH BRANCH.

George R. Van Derveer, of Colonia and Miss Elizabeth R. Stephens, of North Branch Depot, were married May 4 at the home of the bride's brother, Rev. George H. Stephens, in Philadelphia, the ceremony being performed by Rev. Mr. Stephens. News of the event just became public here a few nights ago, when the couple returned from their honeymoon trip to the bride's home. The young people in the village built a huge bonfire, and, with the assistance of the tin-pan brigade, serenaded the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Van Derveer will take up their residence at Colonia at an early date.

S. T. Hall caught two very large bass in the South Branch River a few days ago. One of them measured nearly twenty inches and weighed over three pounds. The weight of the other was two and a half pounds.

Rev. and Mrs. C. J. Culp, of Bound Brook, have been spending a few days with Rev. and Mrs. John T. Gillatin in Somerville. There Mr. Culp conducted the preparatory services in the Presbyterian church.

The Children's Day exercises will be held in the Reformed church at Bedminster next Sunday afternoon. The program will consist of songs, recitations and a special address.

Mr. and Mrs. H. Bert Ten Eyck have been entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Skillman, of Blawenburg, and Mrs. A. A. Bergen, of Bound Brook, for a few days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. V. M. Skillman and son, of this place, have returned from a visit to Mr. Skillman's mother, Mrs. E. S. Skillman, in Trenton.

John Howell, of Bedminster, was thrown from his bicycle a few days ago and was severely cut and bruised. One wrist was sprained.

William Martin, of Plainfield, has been a guest of his aunt, Mrs. Garret Pfaff, in this place.

SOMERVILLE.

Mrs. Wallace Naylor, of West Cliff street, has issued invitations for a progressive whist party at her home this afternoon.

Miss Harriet Stewart, of East Orange, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Carlton Hoagland, of Grove street.

Dr. Frank W. McConaughy, of High street, is spending this week in the mountains of Pennsylvania.

Jacob H. Woodruff, who had been traveling through the West, has arrived at his home in Somerville.

Dr. A. E. Woods, pastor of the First Baptist church, will speak next Sunday at Flemington.

L. A. Thompson, who is at his summer home at Lake Hopatcong, spent Monday in Somerville.

Herman Moosbengge and family are taking a driving tour through Hunterdon county.

Mr. and Mrs. Dayton Hoagland have been spending a week at Lake Hopatcong.

Mrs. Daniel Porter and Miss Porter are guests of relatives in Newark.

WESTFIELD.

Market gardeners and farmers around Westfield are much worried over the weather conditions. Crops are suffering from the cold weather and most of the spring plowing has not been done, to say nothing of seeding. The planting of corn and potatoes has hardly commenced.

The factory formerly occupied by the Ironclad Rheostat Company at Westfield, has been fitted up, and will be occupied as a machine shop for general machine work.

Several ordinances for laying sidewalks were passed on final reading at the meeting of Westfield Council Monday night.

BOUND BROOK.

Louis Ayers, of the United States Navy, spent Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. William J. Ayers, at High and Madison streets, South Bound Brook.

Bertram Teeter, of New York, spent Sunday at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Teeter, in Cedar street, South Bound Brook.

A JUNE HOME WEDDING

Quiet Ceremony Unites Miss May Alice Ross and H. Eugene Davis.

TWO PASTORS OFFICIATE

Young Couple Will Sail for China in the Fall To Engage In Mission Work.

Miss May Alice Ross, daughter of Richard Ross, of Bound Brook, and a member of the Irving Public School teaching corps, and H. Eugene Davis, a graduate of Alfred Theological Seminary, Class '07, were quietly married yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the home of the bride's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Spicer, on West Fifth street. Only the relatives and immediate friends to the number of about thirty witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. George E. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, assisted by Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of The Sabbath Recorder.

The bride was gowned in white Bengal silk, trimmed with Irish point lace. She also wore a veil caught up with lilies-of-the-valley and carried a bouquet of roses and lilies-of-the-valley. Her attendants were Miss Ida Spicer, Miss Iola Moore, Miss Mary Alice St. John, Miss Mildred Greene, Miss Ruth Maxson and Miss Ethel Titsworth. They were all gowned in white and held a daisy chain, forming an aisle through which the bride and her father passed on their way to the parlor, where the ceremony was performed. The groom was unattended. The wedding marches were rendered on the piano by Miss Edna Burr. The ushers were Arthur J. Spicer and Dr. Sydney S. Titsworth.

It was a daisy wedding and the parlor was profusely decorated with the flower. The prevailing colors in this room were green and white, while the dining room was in red and the library in pink. The various colors made an effective decoration.

Following the ceremony, an informal reception was held and supper was served, during which the couple was showered with congratulations. The bride was the recipient of a great many gifts of value and use.

Both the bride and groom are graduates of Alfred University, and it was while there that the romance began that ended in their wedding yesterday. After leaving the university Mr. Davis entered the seminary and prepared for a pastorate there. During his college life he was prominent in athletics and was considered the best football player on the team. Before concluding his studies at the seminary he decided to engage in foreign mission work after his graduation and his bride decided to join him.

They will spend the summer at Battle Creek, Mich., and will sail from San Francisco on September 24 for Shanghai, China. They will be stationed at the Seventh-Day Baptist mission in Liau-oo, China. During the past year Miss Ross has been teaching in the Irving School. She is a prominent worker in the Seventh-Day Baptist church and all its departments.

DR. LAWRENCE MUNDY WEDS AT NEW BRUNSWICK

Takes Miss Evelyn Macom, of That City As His Bride—Wedding Trip South.

Miss Evelyn Macom, of New Brunswick, and Dr. Lawrence Mundy, of South Plainfield, formerly of this city, were married at 12:30 o'clock this morning at the bride's home, by Monsignor O'Grady, of St. Peter's church, in the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends.

The bride's attendant was her sister, Miss Dorly Macom, and the best man was Isaac Williamson, of Franklin Park, a college mate of the groom. The bride wore a gown of white net over taffeta and carried white roses. The maid-of-honor was gowned in white batiste over pink taffeta and carried pink roses.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the bride and later the couple left for a trip through the South which will include the Jamestown Exposition. Upon their return they will reside at 114 North Suydam street, New Brunswick. The wedding gifts were numerous and costly. Dr. Mundy is a practicing dentist, having had offices on West Front street before removing them to New Brunswick.

Seven More Indictments.

The Union County Grand Jury returned seven more indictments this morning, being cases of illegal selling of liquor. There was one case in Rahway, two at Mountainside and five in Elizabeth. It is understood that several other indictments on similar charges will be brought in.

NO GRADUATIONS AT SCOTCH PLAINS THIS YEAR

EXERCISES TOMORROW NIGHT MARK COMPLETION OF GRAMMAR COURSE.

Commencement exercises of the Scotch Plains Public School will be held tomorrow night in the Baptist church. The program this year will be somewhat different from previous years, for the reason that there will be no "sweet girl graduates," the graduating class being composed of pupils who have finished the grammar grade and are ready for the course at the Plainfield High School. The senior class this year is composed of Eugene Lidgate, president; Clarma Bettman, John Brick, Tony Di Nitsio, Edward Hatfield, Edward Meyer, William Reynolds, W. Maxwell Saunders, Herbert Spencer, Herbert Terry, Vincent Terry, John Thompson, John Todd, Edward Van Hoesen, Fred Van Hoesen, Alice Terry, secretary; Lena Jahn, treasurer; Maida Brick, Hattie Hatfield, Leona Henry, Edith Jahn, Mae Linden, Nellie Linden, Barbara Miller and Mary Wheeler.

The senior class, which is one of the largest the school has had in years, has adopted blue and gold as its colors. One feature which will be missed Thursday night will be the reception tendered the graduates in the assembly room of the school. However, Principal Daniel T. Hendrickson and the class have arranged an excellent program, the speaker of the evening being Dr. H. M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield schools. Besides this treat, the following program will be rendered:

Invocation, Rev. William R. Mulford; march, "Under the Double Eagle," Wagner, school orchestra; class history, Miss Lena Jahn; "Enchantment Waltz," Weber, school orchestra; class prophecy, Eugene Lidgate; "The Cyclone March," Weber, school orchestra; address, Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of Plainfield Public Schools; violin solo, Eugene Lidgate; presentation of diplomas, Dr. F. W. Westcott, president Board of Education; class song, class; benediction, Rev. T. Moore-Smith.

The school year about to close has been a most successful one, the enrollment, notwithstanding the fact that the higher grade pupils go to Plainfield, has been the largest in the history of the school. The work has been successful and Principal Hendrickson and his corps of teachers are to be congratulated for the excellent showing made. The teachers are Miss Agnes Hogan, Miss Mary Egan, Miss Harriet M. Squiers, Miss Harriet Halliday, Miss Josephine Ingram. With the exception of the latter, all will be identified with the school during the coming year. Miss Ingram has decided to take a position as teacher in one of the Trenton schools, which is her home town. She has been identified with the school work for two years, is an able teacher and has made many friends during that time.

A. WILLIS WEST MARRIES.

His bride, Miss Helen Van de Carr, of Stockport, N. Y.

A. Willis West, of this city, and Miss Helen M. Van de Carr, of Stockport, N. Y., were married Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. Lewis, 125 Hicks street, Brooklyn. Rev. Dr. Silverman, of the Episcopal church, Stockport, performed the ceremony. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Van de Carr, as maid-of-honor, and George S. Ring, of this city, as best man.

Among the guests were Mr. and Mrs. George S. Ring, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Laurens H. Van Buren, Miss Margaret Goddard, Miss Cornelia Hyatt, Charles Barlow and Lewis Williams. After a bridal tour, the couple will reside in this city. Mr. West is associated with the New York banking house of H. L. Crawford.

Cemetery Association Elects.

The annual meeting of the Hillside Cemetery Association was held last night at the undertaking offices of A. M. Runyon & Son, on Park avenue, when these officers were re-elected: President, Mason W. Tyler; vice-president, Orville T. Waring; secretary and treasurer, Alexander Gilbert. These officers also constitute the executive committee. The question of extending the city water system through the cemetery grounds was discussed and referred to the executive committee.

Died as Result of Dog Bite.

Superintendent Charles E. Ball, of the local office of the Prudential Insurance Company, received a telegram today informing him of the death of E. E. Riddle, the Prudential Insurance Company agent at Junction, Hunterdon county, this morning. Death was the result of the bite of a dog two weeks ago while Mr. Riddle was making collections. The wound was closed up and blood poisoning resulted.

MORE TROUBLE AHEAD FOR SPEEDING AUTOISTS

SOMERVILLE BOARD OF COMMISSIONERS NOW AFTER BIG TOURING CARS.

The Somerville Board of Commissioners has now taken a hand in the effort to stop the automobilists from Bernardsville and Morristown, who pass through Somerville on their way to the big athletic events at Princeton, from speeding through the town. Last Saturday the residents of Cliff street assert that five automobilists abreast raced down that thoroughfare totally disregarding the speed limit. Pedestrians, bicyclists and carriage drivers were obliged to turn to other streets to avoid being run down.

At the last meeting of the board a resolution was passed providing for the posting on all roads running into Somerville placards warning auto drivers to beware how they run their machines through town, or they will be promptly arrested and fined under the regulations of the town ordinance.

The policemen of the place have been ordered to keep a strict watch for offenders and arrest them for the least infraction of the law regarding speeding on the streets.

FAILURE A RELIEF TO THE MILLIKEN BROS.

BANKRUPTCY ENABLES CONCERN TO COMPLETE CONTRACTS.

One of the peculiar results of the failure of Milliken Bros., the big steel firm built by former Plainfielders, according to lawyers connected with the case, is that being bankrupt, the concern will now be able to go ahead with its business with a free and easy hand regardless of the money famine. The reason is this: Milliken Bros. was hampered with debts amounting to $6,500,000. It has contracts for the erection of steel buildings in all parts of the world. Money is constantly coming in for the work that is being done, but the receivers will not have to pay out at present anything on old debts. In other words, bankruptcy will give the concern a chance to build up an adequate working capital irrespective of the money market stringency. Its contracts promise a profit for the present year of from $1,250,000 to $1,500,000. It is expected that in four or six months the corporation will be relieved in a way free of the present money tangle and be in shape to pass out of bankruptcy.

Three receivers were appointed yesterday by United States Judge Holt—Congressman J. Van Vechten Olcott, August Heckscher and William L. Ward. Mr. Heckscher was nominated by Henry Wollman, counsel for the bondholders; Mr. Ward by William N. Cromwell, counsel for Milliken Bros., and Mr. Olcott by the Court. Mr. Heckscher and Mr. Ward are practical steel men, with large business interests of their own, and Mr. Olcott is a lawyer. The three receivers gave a bond for $500,000, guaranteed by the Fidelity and Casualty Company, of Maryland. They were empowered to borrow $200,000, but it was said there would probably be little need of contracting such a loan.

The debts of the company are: Twenty-year bonds, $3,000,000; loans due banks, $1,250,000; loans due F. Milliken and Manning, $1,050,000; amounts due three banking firms, $1,100,000. This total of $6,500,000, it is said, is more than offset by the plant on Staten Island alone, which, with the land, is valued at $7,500,000. The concern has large supplies of material on hand, profits due it of $700,000 on completed contracts, and prospective profits on uncompleted contracts of about $1,500,000.

Funeral of David Lowrie.

The funeral service of David B. Lowrie was held yesterday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the late residence on Clinton avenue. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, including a number from Dunellen (the former residence of Mr. Lowrie. The service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Casselberry, pastor of the Presbyterian church, Dunellen, of which Mr. Lowrie was a member. T. ere were many floral tributes from relatives and friends.

Going to Orange.

He will be a guest at luncheon at the Essex County Country Club at Hutton Park. In the evening, as the special guest of the East Orange Democratic Club, at a dinner. Gov. Stokes and other prominent men will attend the dinner.

SHED "CROCODILE" TEARS

Hummell Says Vail Made Big Ado After Starting Blaze in Building.

HIS STORY UNSHAKEN

Holds to His Despicable Testimony With Orchard-Like Tenacity Under Cross-Examination.

Joseph S. Hummell, formerly mail carrier and assistant to Charles T. Vail, until recently postmaster of West Portal, and who turned State's evidence on the witness stand at Flemington, Monday, was under a severe cross-examination during yesterday's court session and proved a remarkable witness. He said he had poured kerosene oil upon the floor back of the counters on Thursday previous to the fire because Vail told him it was a good idea. The Postmaster, Hummell said, unfastened the postoffice cabinet on Thursday or Friday, he was not sure which.

Vail occasionally smiled while Hummell related his actions under the alleged instructions of the postmaster. The witness said Vail told him to make a big ado during the fire, and he did as he was directed. He wrung his hands, tore his gloves and shed "crocodile tears" and cut up other antics, Hummell said. At this juncture the court had to rap repeatedly for order.

Hummell said he first met Miss Gillen, of Plainfield, on the day previous to the fire and consented to work for her, at Vail's request, for $20 a month. Harry K. Stevens, who said he had acted as an auctioneer on five or six occasions, testified he sold the property to Miss Gillen for $6,050. At Vail's request he started in himself at $4,500, and with one exception bid alternately with her until the required amount was reached.

Senator Gebhardt, Vail's counsel, put Hummell through a rigid cross-examination, but Senator Gebhardt only succeeded in making the witness to be one of the coolest, self-composed witnesses that has been on the witness stand in the Flemington Court in a long time. He seems to be neither ashamed or proud of admitting that he is a drunkard, a liar, a perjurer, an incendiary. He admits them all in the calmest and simplest manner and his only excuse is that he has been under the influence of Charles T. Vail, and that his influence has dominated him in all his evil actions.

It is thought the case will be ended today and the jury retired for deliberation.

TIMBO SOCIAL CLUB IS GOING TO ATLANTIC CITY

AND DOESN'T CARE WHO KNOWS IT; DOPE ON THE TRIP.

What the members of the club say will be "the biggest outing ever" is to be held by the Timbo Social Club on Sunday. A special train is to carry the club and its guests to Atlantic City, where they will burn up the boardwalk and punch holes in the ocean until all records are broken. Storm signals are being run up all along the coast, and quotations on red paint have started to rise.

It will be the fourth annual outing, and the fifth will have to hump itself to make a name. The first second and third will be faded to nothing. The train, consisting of five cars and something to make them move, will be a solid vestibule creation, with all the latest wrinkles in rolling stock. It will start from North Avenue station at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, and skid to the shore in three hours. It will make only one stop on the way, at Elizabeth. The return trip will not start until 10 o'clock at night.

There will be a car for refreshments, a car for sleepers, a car for the old men who prefer to read the newspapers. Politicians and knockers will be locked in the fifth car, which is to be a padded cell on wheels. Arrangements are bing made to have it cut off on some high bridge and wrecked.

Graduate Gives Luncheon.

Miss Eudora Sullivant, one of the graduates from the Plainfield Seminary, gave a charming luncheon yesterday following the commencement exercises, in honor of her classmates. Covers were laid for five. The prevailing color was red.

Fined for Drunkenness.

Charles Leonard, arrested on Field avenue yesterday for drunkenness, was fined $5 by City Judge Runyon this morning.

GEORGE SHRAGER PLACED IN HIS FATHER'S CUSTODY

PROSECUTOR THUS ENDS THE CASE AGAINST ALLEGED SLONIN ROBBER.

George Shrager, who has been held in the Union County Jail for several months, on the suspicion of being the person who held up and robbed Leo Slonim, the West Front street jeweler, on the night of December 3, last, was arraigned in the county court this morning and entered a plea of not guilty. There not being sufficient evidence against the prisoner to prove a case, he was turned over to the custody of his father, who recently came on from the West to look after his son's interest.

Young Shrager, who was represented by E. S. Swackhamer, and the prosecutor held a conference and agreed to a termination of the case. The county's officials thoroughly investigated the circumstances and decided that the prisoner could not have been in Plainfield the night the robbery was committed and there was practically nothing else to do but release him.

SWIFT DISPOSAL OF WARDEN DODD'S ASSAILANT

MAN WHO ATTACKED HIM MONDAY SENTENCED TO THREE YEARS.

Charles Sherman, of Elizabeth, who was serving time in the Union County Jail for stealing a watch, and who assaulted Warden Charles Dodd, Monday morning, was arraigned in the county court this morning and sentenced to three years in State Prison.

The assault was provoked because Warden Dodd called Sherman down for not keeping himself and his cell clean. It was right after breakfast Monday morning and he attacked the warden with a wash stick, while his back was turned. Mr. Dodd was considerably cut about the head, one wound requiring five stitches to close it, while he was also bruised about the face.

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS HOLD REGULAR MEETING.

Bridge and Road Matters the Main Business to Come Before the Members.

Except the passing of bills for payment there was little done at the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders in the court room at Somerville yesterday. Member Joel Codington, of Warren township, was the only one absent.

So many complaints have been made against the condition of the iron bridge at Bound Brook, the matter of a new structure was discussed to some length. County Engineer Doughty made a verbal report of his investigation of the structure. It was moved that a committee be appointed, together with the engineer, for the purpose of examining the bridge, with a view of ascertaining the expediency of building a new one, and to get, approximately, the cost of a bridge, and to report to the Board at the next regular meeting. Director Baird appointed Thomas E. Gibson, Peter H. Smith and Joseph Fitzga as members of the committee, with engineer Doughty.

A communication was received from the State Commissioner of Roads in relation to the repair of county roads in Somerset. The letter was read and ordered placed on file. It is understood that the Commissioner wants the roads already improved repaired before he grants permission to build any more roads.

Garret Durling, of Montgomery township was on hand with a grievance. He complained that at the time the Rocky Hill road was constructed about 400 yards of earth were dumped on his property and he wants the county to stand for the cost of removing the same. No action was taken in the matter.

The Board will meet at Bernardsville next Wednesday, at 11 a. m.

Claims Stolen Harness.

The harness stolen by the young man at whom Sergeant Overbaugh shot at early yesterday morning was claimed by it's owner yesterday afternoon. He is Reinhold Hopfensack, of lower Park avenue. He said his harn had been broken into. The bridles and reins are still missing. He had no idea as to the identity of the thief.

Carnival for Fresh Air Home.

The second annual carnival for the benefit of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, will be held on the grounds directly opposite Treell Hall, all day and the evening of July 4. Everything will be on a larger scale than last year and extra trolley cars will be run to accomodate the people wishing to attend.

PLUMBER TOBIN DEFIES THE STATE INVESTIGATORS

DUNELLEN'S MAYOR TO WAR ON GAMBLING

WILL APPOINT DEPUTIES FOR SABBATH PICKET DUTY IF NECESSARY.

Mayor William Wyckoff is determined to put an end to Sunday gambling, which has been carried on at Dunellen in the past, principally by non-residents. Every summer season Dunellen and New Market have been the rendezvous for poker players and crap shooters, who gather on the outskirts in sequestered spots and spend the Sabbath in gambling.

Mayor Wyckoff has an able lieutenant in Justice of the Peace R. F. F. Von Minden, and last Sunday the two officials inaugurated their crusade with good results. Accompanied by Detectives Mohan and Starker a crowd which numbered nearly a hundred was dispersed from a strip of woodland at the foot of South avenue, near the Dunellen-New Market line. About twenty of the gang were captured, but they were allowed to go after promising to keep away from the place on Sundays.

Justice Von Minden, the Mayor said, was determined to rid New Market of the same plague, and both had agreed to work together in an effort to accomplish the task.

"Dunellen has been laughed at by outsiders as being a little Sunday Monte Carlo," declared the mayor yesterday, "but while I am Chief Magistrate of the borough, I am going to see that the laws are rigidly enforced on Sundays, and that the undesirable element from other towns are kept away. If it is necessary I will appoint deputies and assign them to picket duty on the Sabbath. Dunellen is a Christian community, and I will not permit hoodlums to come here and tarnish the town's fair name."

COULDN'T CARRY CONTRIBUTION

Coins Given to Y. M. C. A. Dormitory Fund Made a Heavy Total.

The contribution made by the Women's Auxiliary to the Y. M. C. A. dormitory fund at the meeting of the organization Monday was substantiated in more ways than one. The money was turned over in pennies, the scheme for collection being to have all the members paste fifty pennies on a strip of surgeon's plaster, making a "yard of pennies."

There was over $70 in the total. Mrs. Harry C. Runyon, the treasurer, had to hire a man to carry the pennies home for her. Mrs. Runyon thought, when she started for the Y. M. C. A. that a small satchel would be big enough to carry all the money. She found a dress-suit case necessary, and couldn't lift it after the coins were placed in it.

DEATH MARS FESTIVITIES.

Demise of Mrs. Raymond Casts Gloom Over Commencement Gathering.

The death of Mrs. Andrew Van Vranken Raymond, wife of the President of Union College, and former pastor of Trinity church, has cast a gloom over the college and has caused considerable curtailment of the commencement festivities.

Dr. Raymond's place at the trustees and alumni meetings yesterday was taken by the Rev. George Alexander D. D., of New York, president of the General Alumni Association.

All of the social functions of commencement have been cancelled, including the annual senior ball, which was to follow the president's reception tonight.

County Roads to be Repaired.

The road committee from the Union County Board of Freeholders, of which S. P. T. Wilbur is a member, has planned to do some extensive repairing of roads throughout the county. The Springfield road, from the Meeker Inn to the Summit line; South avenue, from Westfield to Terrill road and Mountain avenue, from Dr. Coles' residence at Scotch Plains to a point near Westfield, will be undertaken at once and put in first-class condition. Upon the completion of this work, other important thoroughfares in the county will be attended to.

King's Daughters' Luncheon.

Silver Cross Circle, the King's Daughters, will hold a luncheon at the Park Hotel on June 19, at 1 o'clock. Cake and useful articles will be sold in connection with the affair. Tickets are on sale now. Miss Helen Phillips is chairman of the committee in charge. The proceeds are for the benefit of the fund for the support of the city nurse and the King's Daughters' Baby Camp.

—The largest assortment of fruit and vegetables is always to be found at Neuman Brothers. The consignments come to the store every morning.

PROBE DRAWS BLOOD

Contractor Lawton Asserts He Burned His Accounts and Papers on the First of the Year.

Refuses to Show His Books and is Threatened With Arrest Unless He Does.

Probing by the Assembly investigating committee late yesterday afternoon unearthed sensational developments in the matter of State House contracts, Lewis Lawton, the Trenton contractor, and George J. Tobin, the Plainfield plumber, contributing by their testimony to the expose, and the former's bookkeeper telling of alterations of certain of her employer's accounts.

While Lawton testified that such of his books as John H. Backes, counsel for the inquisitors, adverted to had been destroyed, Tobin refused to produce the records of his business dealings at issue and to answer certain questions relating thereto. Tobin took this position, he said, on the advice of friends, whose identity he also refused to disclose.

This evidence followed closely upon the admission, at the morning session of the inquisition, that many contracts had been let to Lawton without competition. It was shown that the Trenton contractor in this way obtained work for the State for which his bills approximated $12,000.

Lawton was the first witness to go on the stand yesterday and Mr. Backes immediately started asking questions about the "no-competition" contracts. He could not tell how he happened to give $12,000 extra to Tobin. He produced what he said were copies of some of his books after he had been called to order for delay in appearing. Mr. Backes evidently did not believe the books had been destroyed months ago. He thought the witness had been bluffing or had got rid of damaging evidence very quickly. Lawton admitted he had received $301,233, directly or indirectly, from the State since 1901, but said all the books containing the transactions in detail had been burned by himself at his house. He said he burned them because he had no further use for them. He had some very sharp words with Mr. Backes. When Lawton pressed he acknowledged that he settled his balance with Tobin on January 1 for about $21,000. He did not remember whether the settlement was a verbal one or in writing. In case of a suit, perhaps the books which he had destroyed would have been valuable, but he had not thought so before.

Miss May S. Beck, his bookkeeper, who has been employed in Lawton's office for five years, swore that the books had been destroyed, because she so understood from Lawton, and she had not seen them for months. On cross-examination, however, she got so mixed up as to when she had seen the books last that Mr. Backes ordered her to appear again this morning and produce some additional documents that might clear the situation.

George J. Tobin, of this city, was next called to the stand and was very defiant from the start. He said he had been in th plumbing business nineteen years and had been doing work in Trenton since 1903. Mr. Backes asked for his books. Mr. Tobin replied that he had not brought them.

"Why not?" asked counsel.

Mr. Tobin explained that there were some seven or eight hundred accounts in his books, and he did not deem it proper to produce them before the committee.

Mr. Backes in severe tones reminded Tobin that he was under subpoena and said the books must be forthcoming.

Tobin—I refuse to produce them.

Backes—Why, are you afraid they will incriminate you?

Tobin—No sir. I am willing for the committee to see them, but I don't want my private accounts thrown open to the public.

At this juncture Mr. Backes turned to the committee and said it was up to them to act on the refusal of Tobin to produce his books. Committeeman Barber objected to any summary proceedings against Tobin. Mr. Backes replied:

"I don't care whether you object or not, the majority rules in this matter." Then there was a short conference in reference to the refusal.

SECOND ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE PROVES SUCCESSFUL

Wiedoson Dives From Table in His Room at the State Asylum and Crushes Skull.

DETERMINED TO DIE

Joseph Wiedoson, the Alton farmer who was sent to the State asylum at Morris Plains, May 25, suffering from suicidal mania, succeeded in killing himself in the institution, Tuesday, June 4. Word of his death was telephone yesterday afternoon by the asylum authorities to Chief of Police Patrick S. Kiely, who took him to the place.

When Wiedoson went to the asylum he had barely recovered from the effect of terrible wounds that he inflicted on himself with an ax about a month ago, in an attempt at self-destruction. In that attempt he turned the edge of the ax on himself and struck with all his might at the front of his head. The edge inflicted a gash that penetrated partly into the skull, and he felt unconscious over the weapon. He made the attempt in a woodshed, and lay undiscovered for hours. He was almost dead when found, and the doctors at Muhlenberg Hospital, the city, to where he was hurried, declared of his life. To their amazement he rallied from the shock and the loss of blood, and recovered rapidly. They say it was one of the most remarkable recoveries that ever occurred at the institution.

Wiedoson came through that experience with his determination to die unshaken. He told the doctors that he would kill himself at the first opportunity that presented itself, by any means that lay at hand. He was closely watched, and as soon as his condition permitted he was sent to the asylum.

Early Tuesday night he was left alone in his room for a few minutes. As soon as the nurse had left Wiedoson jumped upon a table and dove, with his head straight down, to the floor. He struck as he undoubtedly planned, squarely on the old wound. The skull was crushed in, and he died in a few minutes.

Dr. Evans, head of the asylum staff, tried to get into communication with Wiedoson's wife at the farm in Alton, but failed to get a response to his messages. Early yesterday afternoon he called Chief Kiely on the telephone and asked him to locate Mrs. Wiedoson. The chief learned that she was in Plainfield, attending legal matters connected with the farm. He found her son, and sent him to the railroad station to meet his mother as she returned from Elizabeth and bring her to police headquarters.

Mrs. Wiedoson was prostrated by the news. She had thought there was no possibility of her husband accomplishing his suicidal purpose at the asylum, and was hopeful of his recovery under treatment there.

Wiedoson's mind was unhinged by brooding over money he felt he had lost in buying the farm at Alton. He became dissatisfied with the property, and sold it for $5,000 less than he paid for it. He had the property only a short time.

Mission Band Aids Dr. Grenfell.

The Boys' Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue church has just sent a large box of men's, women's and children's clothing, to be distributed among the needy people of Dr. Grenfell's Labrador mission. The contents of the box also included a number of articles for hospital use, and a considerable amount of entertaining literature. The very conservative estimate of the value of the entire box, places it at $113, but it will be worth much more than that, to the destitute people to whom it is sent. The things of the Boys' Band are here dressed to the many friends who so generously contributed money or clothing.

Exercises at Grossman School.

Term exercises will be held at the Grossman School for Nervous and Atypical Children, "Watchung Crest," Saturday afternoon, June 15, from 3 to 5 o'clock. The program will consist of songs, recitations, essays, calisthenics and dramatic representations. The idea will be, not only to express the actual daily work of the school, but to illustrate child life in its divers manifestations. There will be an exhibition of pupils' work which will be kept open the following week.

Mrs. Williamson to Move.

Mrs. Emily Williamson, county probation officer, is soon to move to Millington. Her home has been purchased by the Government to make room for the postoffice building in Elizabeth. She will continue active in probation work.

PLANS FOR CONSECRATION OF GRACE P. E. CHURCH

SERVICE WILL BE HELD JUNE 15: LAWN FETE TO FOLLOW IT.

Arrangements have been completed for the consecration of Grace Protestant Episcopal church and the festival to mark the wiping out of the last indebtedness on the church. The event will take place on Saturday, June 15.

The regular office for the consecration of a church will be used, Bishop Scarborough being in charge. The service will begin at 10.30 o'clock in the morning. Well known clerics of the diocese of New Jersey and New York will be present. Rev. Dr. William R. Huntington, of Grace church, New York, will attend. Rev. Erskine M. Rodman, rector emeritus of Grace church, will preach the sermon. Bishop Scarborough will also speak.

After the service, a lawn fete will be held. The Ladies' Guild is in charge of that part of the celebration.

JUSTICE DISMISSES CHARGE AGAINST CONWAY

NO EVIDENCE TO SHOW THAT HE HAD THREATENED MRS. MARY LANE.

The complaint sworn out against Edward Conway, the mule trainer, by Mrs. Mary Lane, under which Conway was arrested Friday morning, was dismissed by Justice Hezekiah Hand, sitting in the District Court Friday afternoon. Conway denied Mrs. Lane's allegation that he threatened to kill her, and no testimony was submitted to corroborate the complaint.

In his testimony Conway declared he gave Miss Adele von Ohl, granddaughter of the complainant, a ride professionally in hippodrome and Wild West shows, money to go to New York and buy two ponies for him. He was staying at the Ohl place, where his mules were in winter quarters, at the time. Miss von Ohl, Conway said, got the ponies, but had the bill of sale made out in her name. When he made arrangements to move his stock, he said, they served an attachment on him and displayed the bill of sale to add snap to the crack of the whip.

Conway is said to be making arrangements to bring suit against Mrs. Ohl. William G. DeMeza is his lawyer.

TENNIS TOURNAMENTS ON PARK CLUB COURTS.

East Jersey Championship Set For Saturday, June 13, and Saturday June 20.

The championship tournaments of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association for mixed doubles will be held on the courts of the Park Club, Saturday, June 13, and Saturday, June 20. Play will begin at 2:30 o'clock each afternoon. All matches will be the best two out of three advantage sets, and individual prizes will be awarded to the winners and runners-up.

Entries, accompanied by an entrance fee of $2 per team, should be received by Harry L. McGee, at the Park Club, by Friday night, June 14, at 8 o'clock, at which time and place the drawings will be made. The Park Club extends to all the members of the clubs composing the association the privileges of the club during the tournament. The steward will provide a table d'hote dinner at $1 on each day. Orders for dinner should be left with the steward not later than 2 o'clock on each tournament day. The play on June 15 will be followed in the evening by an informal dance.

Harry L. McGee will act as referee and the tournament committee in charge is as follows: Mrs. S. Fullerton Weaver, Miss Sarah Mae Howell, Edward T. Wilson, A. M. Abbott, A. B. Laing, N. H. Morrison and Harry L. McGee.

Plainfielders Going Abroad.

The following Plainfielders have planned to go abroad within the near future: Miss Helen Maher and Miss Mary McMahon, sailing on the Celtic on July 11 for Queenstown; Miss Mary Hines, of West Eighth street, June 15, on the Campania, for Liverpool; Thomas Fay and John Sloyan, June 14, on the Baltic, for Liverpool; Miss Castleman, of Franklin place, June 26, on the Cedric, for Liverpool. All the tickets were procured through Estil's agency.

Outdoor Meet.

All the plans for the big outdoor meet of the Sunday school Athletic League, which is to be held at the Riding and Driving Club grounds, Saturday, June 13, at 2.30 o'clock in the afternoon, have been completed. The entry list will be large. The winning school will receive a large silver cup, and twenty-seven silver and bronze medals, beside ribbons, will reward the winners of places in the various events.

HASSAM PAVEMENT TEST

Borough Council Votes to Lay Strip of It Two Blocks Long.

AS TO STONE CRUSHING

Mayor Smalley Makes Reply to W. L. Saunders—Dunellen and Greenbrook Sewer Bed Protests Filed.

Test of the Hassam concrete pavement, which an agent of the company controlling it advocated at the Board of Trade meeting last month as the best thing for the city's business streets, will be made by North Plainfield. The Borough Council, at its monthly meeting Friday night, authorized the street committee to make arrangements for the laying of the pavement on Somerset street, on the section between the trolley track and the west walk, between Lincoln and Park places.

The resolution, which was introduced by Councilman Waldron, of the street committee(provides that the total cost of the strip shall not be more than $1,600, and that a third of the cost be borne by the Public Service Corporation, and another third by the property owners. It is expected that the conditions will be met without hitch, and that the new roadway will be open for traffic within sixty days.

In connection with the resolution authorizing the committee to act, Mayor Smalley made a reply to the remark of former Mayor William L. Saunders, at the Board of Trade meeting Thursday night, to the effect that the only explanation that had presented itself to him as to the absence of permanent pavement from Plainfield was that "men in the stone-crushing business controlled the situation." The mayor's remarks on the subject were as follows:

"Gentlemen, in reference to the resolution introduced by Mr. Waldron, it might be well to discuss same somewhat before passed and voted upon. The subject is in reference to paving Somerset street. The question of testing pavements has been familiar to most communities, but is a new one with us outside of macadam. As explained some time ago, we have given this matter thorough and if the resolution is passed tonight it would be in the shape of paving, as a test, a small section of Somerset street, between Lincoln and Park place, which is one of the busiest sections of our borough, and I hope if the Hassam Pavement proves a success, which I believe it will, to see the balance up to Greenbrook road paved.

"The members of the Plainfield Board of Trade seem to be interested in the question of permanent pavements in one shape or another. I unfortunately did not attend the meeting last night but notice an article by one of our ex-Mayors in which he states that he had often wondered why the streets were not paved with some enduring material, and the only explanation that suggested itself was that men in the stone crushing business controlled the situation; unfortunately I am in that line of business and the reference made strikes at me to some extent, and I am more than surprised that such a remark should come from the source that it did, but I want to say in reference to the remark made by the member of the Board of Trade, that if his knowledge of permanent pavements is not any better than his knowledge of the local conditions governing the crushed stone business, his opinion on same does not amount to much.

"This fact is true, that North Plainfield is blessed with as good material, if not better, than any city in the State for the making of roads, viz: trap rock, and as to the stone business being directly involved in the laying of so called permanent pavements, that is false. So far as I know the cost of maintaining our streets is about as low as in any place of this size, and the material furnished is of the best. I would further state, that I made the assertion to the Plainfield Board of Trade that I was interested in the Hassam Pavement because it consisted of about three quarters stone, and that is my business. I believe in stating the plain facts of the case.

"I want to say in reference to the resolution, that I believe the pavement mentioned is one of the best made today, did I not think so would not recommend same, in fact think so well of it that I would like giving my own personal guaranty, if that was any good, that the pavement would stand up for five years, and if it stands that long, it will stand for a much longer, as I have never seen concrete deteriorate any after five years, if it is going to go bad it does so before that time.

"We might discuss this matter of pavements for months to come, and there would still be a doubt as to the best brick pavement is going, some prefer asphalt, and while a good many talk on this subject that have no knowledge of it, and I may be one of them, still I believe we would be pleased with the Hassam Pavement."

Councilman Van Arsdale spoke briefly in favor of the test. He said that Plainfield seemed to be ready to try brick, and it might be well for the borough to give concrete a test, so that the two kinds would have a trial. The resolution was passed unanimously. Councilman Van Winkle was the only absentee.

Protests from the Board of Health of Dunellen and the Greenbrook Improvement Association against the location of sewer beds on the Abram Vail farm, in the Greenbrook section, were read. Mayor Smalley said that so far as he and the Council was concerned there was no knowledge of where the sewerage commission was to recommend the location of the proposed beds, so there was nothing on which the Council might act with regard to the communications. It was still even an open question as to whether the borough would build its own plant or use the city's. The proper time to consider the protests would be when the commission had made its report. The protests were filed, without comment from the Council.

Recorder Charles M. Dolliver reported 28 arrests and $82.50 collected in fines. "Showing strong improvement in the recorder," said the mayor when the report was read.

The bill of the Consolidation Commission for $100, half of the money to be paid George B. Wean for services as stenographer to the commission, was returned to the consolidation commission committee for reduction. It was felt that the borough ought only to pay a pro rata share of the expense, figured on a basis of population, which would bring down the North Plainfield share of Wean's pay to $50.

The Council adjourned to meet on June 21. It was felt possibility that all the formalities attendant on the laying of the concrete pavement will have been gone through by that time.

BOROUGH SCHOOL PUPILS APPEAR IN DRAMATICS

PRESENT "MR. PRATTLETON PRIMROSE" AT THE PARK CLUB.

"Mr. Prattleton Primrose," the comedy given by the members of the Junior and Sophomore classes of the North Plainfield High School in honor of the Seniors, attracted a large number of people to the Park Club, Friday, including the parents and friends of the pupils. The performance was a most creditable one throughout and every member of the cast received applause. A special feature was the dancing of the "Minuet" by "Minuetta," and "Cyril Dashwood," and others who are enticed to speak English are Clarence Steiner, as "Jumbo," Miss Agnes Hooley, as "Rose." Mr. Steiner sang a song that won the audience completely. Wilbur Dunning was also very good.

The play was given under the direction of Miss Helen Stahlberger, of the High School faculty, and she deserves great credit for the very satisfactory results. Following the play an informal dance was held. The cast of characters:

"Cyril Dashwood," a young officer in search of a wife, Eldon Miller; "Mr. Prattleton Primrose," a middle aged bachelor, Wilbur Dunning; "Squire Brushleigh," a country gentleman, George Parsons; "Jumbo," a colored servant who does jus' what I'se tole," Clarence Steiner; laborers, Eldon Miller, Wilbur Dunning, George Hartley; "Rose," Brushleigh's daughter, Miss Agnes Cooley; "Sylvia," a young lady fond of sport, Miss Helen Smithart; "Minuetta," a young lady fond of dancing, Miss Florence Fowler; "Musidora," a young lady fond of romance, Miss Leonora Miller (Brushleigh's nieces); "Arabela," their friend, a young lady fond of flirtation, Miss Grace Woolston; "Hannah," the cook, Miss Kathleen Peacock.

TO TAKE BACK OLD ROAD.

Revolutionary Highway to Be Repaired By Union County.

The Union County Board of Freeholders decided, at the regular meeting Thursday, to take back from the city of Rahway the old Revolutionary highway, known as St. George's avenue, and make a county road of it. This is at the request of Rahway, which finds the road expensive to repair. The road was once a county road; but it was turned over to Rahway some years ago by the Freeholders on request.

This road was formerly known as the King's highway, and was the direct road from Philadelphia to Philadelphia. Mile stones 150 years old still stand marking its course, the distances to Philadelphia still legible on them. At the prettiest part of the road in Rahway lies the old Revolutionary cemetery, where, in 1846, the citizens erected the statue of Abram Clark, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, still standing.

Father Dunphy to Stay.

At the request of the parishioners, Bishop McFaul has rescinded his order transferring Rev. Father Edward J. Dunphy from St. John's Roman Catholic church, Dunellen, to New Monmouth. The Dunellen Catholics petitioned Bishop McFaul to allow their pastor to remain as soon as they learned of the order. It is expected that Rev. Father John Murray, of Pennington, who was to have tawen Father Dunphy's place, will go to New Monmouth. Father Dunphy and his flock are delighted with the success of the petition.

'PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Flanney and Allen, recently signed by Manager Frentz, played their first league game with the local team Saturday at Bound Brook. They played a snappy game both in the field and at the bat and they will no doubt strengthen the locals and both are handy with the willow and this is what brings the runs across the plate.

The annual Children's Day exercises of the Methodist Sunday-school was held last night in the church, the edifice being prettily trimmed with flowers in honor of the event. A pleasing program of recitations, responsive reading and music was enjoyed by the members of the school and large gathering of friends.

The local team will be out for practice regularly this week. The Y. M. C. A. will be the visitors Saturday afternoon and Manager Frentz intends to try and put the first defeat of the season on the association, if possible.

The 'Plains Juniors defeated the Rushmore A. C. second team on the local diamond Saturday afternoon by the score of 21 to 14.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Grant, of Plainfield, spent yesterday with Mrs. Grant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas M. Paff, Sr.

The Twilight A .C. team was defeated by the Riversides, of Rahway, Saturday afternoon by the score of 19 to 5.

Miss Nancy Wade, of Milburn, was the guest over Sunday of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Abram Wade.

The K. of C. carnival, held in Plainfield last week, was brought to a close Saturday night.

Miss Agnes Hogan returned today from a visit of several days with friends in Elizabeth.

The weekly meeting of the B. Y. P. U. was held last night in the parlors of the church.

Daniel T. Hendrickson spent the week end with his family at Port Monmouth, N. J.

County Superintendent Shearer, of Elizabeth, was a visitor at the school Friday.

WESTFIELD.

Closing exercises of the grammar department of the Westfield High School will be held Friday morning, June 21, at 9:30 o'clock in the assembly-room of the Walnut Street School.

Westfield Council is advertising for a man to fill the office of dog warden. The last man trying for four years to find some one to take the job, but without success.

A special musical service was held at the Westfield Presbyterian church yesterday. Miss Bertha Van N. Willis and Mrs. Malnon P. Gilpin were the soprano soloists.

The rite of baptism was administered to several children at the services at the Westfield Congregational church yesterday morning.

The closing exercises of the Glazebrook-Rumford School at Westfield were held Thursday in the Presbyterian chapel.

The funeral services of Annabelle Bretz, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Bren, were held Friday afternoon.

SOMERVILLE.

The General Frelinghuysen Chapter, D. A. R., held its annual meeting Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William Carter, on Cliff street. The guest of honor was Mrs. Putman, of Elizabeth. These officers were elected: Regent, Mrs. Annie E. Read; secretary, Mrs. William Ackerman; treasurer, Miss Gertrude Nevius; historian, Miss Demeray; registrar, Miss Louise Anderson.

The Woman's Club members held their annual picnic Friday at the country home of Lieutenant-Commander and Mrs. George W. Kline, near Somerville. Twenty-two members were in the party.

The quaretrly meeting of the Foreign Missionary Society of the Second Reformed church was held Friday afternoon in the chapel, Mrs. E. G. Read, the president, presiding.

Judge Louis H. Schenck has appointed John B. Osbourne, of Sennitt street, as probation officer, in place of Matthew P. Dane, deceased.

H. H. Parker is spending two weeks at Asbury Park.

NORTH BRANCH.

W. J. Edgar has been appointed leader of the choir of the Methodist church at Nesanic Station, which was recently organized. The new choir sang for the first time at the services yesterday.

The preparatory service was held in the Presbyterian church at Pluckamin Saturday afternoon and the sacrament of the Lord's supper was observed yesterday morning.

Joseph Harrison and family, of Newark, have been spending some time with Mrs. Harrison's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Amerman, at Pluckemin.

VANDERBILT HORSE CAPTURES THE BLUE BOOK CUP

Trophy Taken by the Handsome Chestnut Gelding "Dr. Selwonk," Besting Knieriem's "Kissing."

"CZAR" LOSES A BLUE

Pet of Hooley Stable Placed Second to "Flirtation"—Lehman Strauss Protests Award In Novice Harness Class.

The high class events scheduled for the second day of the horse show at the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, attracted a large crowd of society people to the show grounds Friday afternoon. The weather conditions were an improvement over the first day, the bright sun having a cheery effect on everyone. It was also much warmer and the thoroughbreds worked out much better. What added to the pleasure of the event was the fact that there was not an accident of any kind and all the classes were run off pretty near to scheduled time.

The chief event of the afternoon was the award of "The Official Blue Book" challenge cup, value $250, and a second challenge cup, each followed by reserve ribbons. It was decided by the officials to divide this class, the first to be for horses over 15.2 hands and the second for horses 15.2 hands and under. Reginald Vanderbilt had the satisfaction of carrying off the blue book cup with his beautiful horse, "Dr. Selwonk," taking the honors from Edward Knieriem's bay mare "Kissing." He did not have a chance to compete against the Harriman's stables for J. W. Harriman's "Nash" was put in competition against Miss Emily H. Bedford's "Hildred."

Edward Knieriem received the reserve in the first division, while Miss Bedford captured the blue in the second division and J. W. Harriman received the reserve. Additional interest was lent to this event by the fact that, for the first time in the class to drive. The Harriman stable did not show up as strong in this class as was expected.

Another class that held the close attention of the spectators was No. 27, in which Miss Mabel B. Hooley's chestnut gelding "Czar," the winner of a blue and a championship at the Philadelphia Horse Show, was entered. The entry list was not large, but there was enough rivalry among the few to make up for lack of numbers. H. G. McElwaine's chestnut mare "Flirtation," was a favorite with many, but "Czar," received the applaudits of his admirers every time he passed in review of the grandstands. The judges were fully a half-hour reaching a decision. Harry Peters, one of the judges in this class, rode "Czar" around the ring, while Charles Harkness, the second judge, mounted "Flirtation," and noticed every action closely. The third judge, S. Taber Willetts, it was noticed was unwilling to concede the honors to the local horse, and much to the disappointment of the owners' many friends, as well as admirers of the thoroughbred, he failed to get the blue. "Flirtation" was given the first honors, "Czar" second.

Reginald Vanderbilt with his fine entries captured a total of three blues during the afternoon, while the Avondale Farm received only three reds. Another close competitor was Charles W. McCutchen, who was awarded two reds. Lehman Strauss got one red and one white, and Rufus L. Patterson walked off with two blues. Miss Emily H. Bedford, who has been a dangerous rival in many of the important classes, won two blues, one red and one white. Miss Mabel B. Hooley received one blue, one red and one white, while Mrs. Edwin S. Hooley captured two blues. Miss Margaret McCutchen had to be satisfied with one red. Miss Molly C. Maxwell received one yellow and one white.

William J. Buttfield's bay mare "Miss Banahan" and E. C. Rich's bay mare, "Amanda Baron" were great rivals in Class 3, for the challenge cup offered by Robert A. Fairbairn for roadsters, but "Amanda Baron" won out and received the cup valued at $150. Mr. Buttfield's horse was second and received the reserve ribbon.

ANNUAL RECEPTION AT CHILDREN'S HOME

MANY FRIENDS OF THE ASSOCIATION ATTEND THE AFFAIR.

The third annual reception of the Children's Home Association was held at the Home on Jackson avenue, Wednesday afternoon. While the attendance was large, nearly one hundred members and friends of the association being present, the bad weather kept a great many away. The Home was beautifully decorated with the season's flowers and those present had a delightful social time in addition to listening to an excellent program of music.

The children sang several selections and then the program was presented by Miss Campbell, who gave whistling solos, accompanied by Miss Margaret Leal; Mrs. George S. Ring sang two numbers, accompanied by Miss Cornelia Hyatt and Miss McCutchen and Miss Marion McCutchen played and sang. The different numbers were well received and afforded delightful pleasure.

Mrs. M. E. Kimball, president of the association, together with the Board of Managers received the guests and showed them about the Home.

MUSICAL CLUB MEMBERS GUESTS OF MRS. HOWELL

AFFAIR MARKS THE CLOSE OF THE SEASON'S ACTIVITIES.

The Musical Club, of Plainfield, was entertained at its last meeting of the season at the home of Mrs. J. H. Howell, of Myrtle Ave., Wednesday afternoon, when a pleasing program was rendered by the members of the club. There were about thirty guests and the afternoon was given up almost entirely to the musical program.

A piano duette by Mrs. J. Edmund Lee and Miss Cornelia Hyatt was the first number, after which Mrs. Geo. S. Ring sang two numbers. Miss Corey read an interesting paper, prepared by herself on "The Words of Song," followed with two vocal numbers by Miss Bertha vanNuise Willis. The first was a Scotch song and the second "O Come to Me Mavourneen."

Miss Sarah Mae Howell gave two Chopin preludes and Mrs. Joseph M. Shellabarger sang, after which Mrs. Adolph Hagerdorn gave two instrumental numbers on the piano. The program closed with a soprano solo by Mrs. L. R. Hopton and a trio, Mrs. Edward Cox and Mrs. Leighton Calkins, violins, and Miss Corey at the piano.

FOR CARPET FUND.

Strawberry Festival at First Presbyterian Church a Great Success.

The Pastor's Aid Society of the First Presbyterian church held a strawberry festival Friday, for the benefit of the fund for the carpeting of the Sunday School rooms. It was a successful affair in every way.

In charge of the ice cream were Mrs. George B. Wean, chairman; Mrs. Campbell McKillop, Mrs. A. V. Searing, Sr., Mrs. A. L. Cadmus, Mrs. William Shotwell, Miss Scarborough, Mrs. George Staats, Mrs. Boice. The cake was in charge of Mrs. W. W. Dunn, chairman; Mrs. Howard Pope, Mrs. Kelly, Mrs. Hyatt, Mrs. I. B. Hill, Mrs. R. Allen, Mrs. Diman. At the candy table were Miss Addie Dietrich, the Misses Cave, Miss Clara VanFleet, Miss Catherine Lounsbury, Miss Ella Gerow, Miss Louis Wood. The tables were presided over by Mrs. D. K. Young, Mrs. Freeman Shotwell, Mrs. A. E. Hoagland, Mrs. John Johnston, Mrs. A. Clark, Mrs. William Westervelt. The young women of the Sunday School assisted as waitresses. The strawberries were served by Mrs. Hamilton, Mrs. L. H. Gates, Mrs. L. H. Hummer and Mrs. Charles Hummer. In the tea room Mrs. C. Kelly was in charge, assisted by Miss Eva Kelly. The lemonade was dispensed under the direction of Mrs. J. Allen, who was assisted by Mrs. Morris, Mrs. John Brower, Miss Beatrice Miner and Miss Bessie Bond.

Children in Suicide Pact.

Cleveland, Ohio, June 10.—Margaret and Helen Curtis, ten and eleven years old, respectively, living with their grandparents in Lakota street, mixed arsenic with their food and ate it yesterday. Margaret is dead and Helen is dying at St. John's Hospital. They entered into a suicide compact, the younger confessed, before she became unconscious, because they wanted to join their mother, who died a short time ago, and wanted to lighten the cares of their grandparents. They thought their grandparents had too much trouble, having been left with four children, the other two being younger than those who took the poison. The father is at Marysville, Kan., whither he went after his wife's death.

RICH WIDOW WEDS.

Mrs. Breidt, of Elizabeth, Married to Wealthy Brewer.

Elizabeth, June 10.—Mrs. Louise Breidt, a rich widow of Peter Breidt, founder of the Peter Breidt Brewery, was married at her home, 600 Pearl street, to Michael Klein, a rich brewer, of St. Louis, at 11 o'clock Thursday. The Rev. Christian G. Fischer, pastor of the German Lutheran church, officiated.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 26.

By REV. S. H. DOOLE.

Topic—Who are slaves and who are free?—Rom. vii. 12-25; (A) Semper Idem (same).

The eighth chapter of Romans is one of the most comforting passages ever written by the great apostle to the gentiles. It is the chapter in the great Epistle to the Romans upon the subject of assurance and gives a number of ways by which we may be confident that we are no longer under condemnation and that nothing can separate us from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus our Lord." In the passage selected for our study this assurance is based upon our attitude toward the sinful flesh and the Spirit. If our desire is to walk in the Spirit rather than after the flesh, then we may know that we are indeed the children of God and joint heirs with Christ Himself. Nor is this attitude toward God through the Spirit one of bondage. "Ye have not received the spirit of bondage again to fear, but ye have received the spirit of adoption, whereby we cry Abba, Father." The Christian is not under the bondage of the law of sin, but is the child of God and enjoys the freedom of children. The Christian, then, the adopted child of God, is the free man. His sins are pardoned, and he has power over them. The law has been kept for us by Christ, and we are no longer under its condemnation. This is the only true model and spiritual freedom in the world, and if any one will read in both the letter of the law and wants the yoke of bondage removed the only sure and effective way of doing it is through the work of Jesus Christ as our atoning Saviour. The intemperate man who wants to be delivered should come to Christ, who can and will make him free—give him freedom from both the guilt and the power of sin.

If therefore the Christian, the man who walks after the Spirit, is the free man, it follows that the man who walks after the flesh, who is held in grasp by vice and immorality, is the slave, and this is too sadly true. No greater slave ever existed in the world than the man who is in bondage and slavery of sin. He may think he is a free man, but let him try to give up his sinful habits and he will quickly realize how abject and certain his slavery is. Nor need we apply this truth to the drunkard alone. This is one of man's greatest vices, and of course it is the human race has been most blighting, but there are other forms of sin around them even more loathsome than intemperance that hold man in its clutches. There are even greater sinners in the world than the drunkard and the libertines who have fallen victims to the degrading taste for intoxicating drink. There are strong men, occupying high positions in life and honored and respected by society, who engage in even too loathsome sins. Profanity is not an occasional fall from the path of rectitude, but it is the studied purpose of their lives to bring about the ruination of the pure and innocent, simply to gratify their selfish and sinful desires. The intemperate man suffers his lack of sobriety, but these more vile sinners may spend a lifetime in following their vicious pursuits and even die with the world at large ignorant of their true characters, and they become slaves to their vices and are completely robbed of the beasts of the field. Men are also slaves to the passionate desire for wealth regardless of how it is secured. slaves to ungodly ambitions, slaves to sinful pleasures of all kinds and characters. No man is a free man who is held in the clutch of any sin or vice. Yet all may become free in Jesus Christ. He can save "to the uttermost all who will come unto Him." As we realize the countless numbers of those who are in bondage in one form or another, let us hold up the Christ man faithfully before them, that they may find him and learn the great joy of living in the freedom wherein Christ hath made us free."

"Seed Sowers."

Christian Endeavorers of the Japanese church of Honolulu have organized themselves into a band which they call "Seed Sowers," whose purpose is to distribute tracts throughout the city. There are twelve companies of these Seed Sowers. They preach in the streets, with a choir of singers, on Saturday evenings, and many members of the band are unable to distribute tracts on the Sunday following because tributes a sum of money toward the expenses.—Lau's Dock.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

June 16: "Wasting Harvests." "The harvest indeed is plenteous, but the laborers are few."—Matt. ix. 36-38.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Passages for reference—Luke x. 2; John iv. 35, 36; Eph. vi. 15, 19; Col. iv. 2; II Thess. iii. 1.

The perpetual mystery of nature which has held us all spellbound through this springtime, as it has held all before us through the ages, is the marvelous fertility of the soil. Fathomless mystery and continual delight to us are the seedtime and the harvesting. How things grow and why they grow, who can tell? But they do grow, and so we live. One seed sown and a hundred gathered. What increase! A few planters and a world of hungry ones fed. And all this result with such poor methods and so few workers. What a world this might be if only we had more Luther Burbanks to teach us how to make plants better and diligent workers to cure our dislike of work.

Greater still is the marvel in the world of men. A man plants a little truth. Behold it grows until it becomes a tree under which a multitude find shelter. An acorn dropped in the crevice of a rock may grow until the oak bursts the solid granite. A seed truth dropped into human life, hard-ened by centuries of power into forms of oppression and cruelty will burst asunder the bands of custom and spring forth into liberty for the multitudes.

The ages have seen this marvel repeated over and over again. The whole life of human society depends on the continuance of this seedtime of truth and harvesting of righteousness, justice and mercy. The wonder never grows less with repetition how so much of good and so little spring from so little of planting. Still more inexplicable is it that, seeing the abundance of the harvest, so few are found to labor in the world field as sowers.

We are somewhat fed by truth, but the crop is usually sadly inadequate to the world's needs.

Perhaps more would go out as laborers if they would give a little consideration to the reasons for the growth of things and the certainty of good wages. Results in human world of men are no more matters of chance than in earth fields with corn and cotton.

Truth has a self evidencing power as surely as wheat has a germ that will sprout and make blade, ear and kernel. The human mind is receptive of truth and will respond to it more readily as the earth nourishes the wheat grain and causes it to spring into growth and maturity.

Pu with this fact of the self evidencing power of truth like unto that fact, as well expressed by Carlyle, that "man is the born enemy of lies," and we have all the conditions needed for abundant harvests of spiritual things in the soil of human souls.

Renewed attention can well be given to the fact of the sower and the soils. At the present time there is no lack of seed corn for spiritual planting. Precious it is, but abundant. Some still must fall on the footpaths and be trodden into the earth by birds will eat it. Some still is scattered among thorns which grow more rankly than the good seed, and they will crowd the plants to death. Still there is light soil and some seed is wasted, but the good soil is wide, vast, and all lands need would break up that which has long time lain fallow and overgrown by weeds and plant the good seed, what a harvest time we could have.

What think you? Is it worth while to take another thin waste harvests? If so, will you begin at once to sow and to pray also for more sowers? The Lord has need of harvests. He has need of laborers. Be one, will you?

Living In Christ.

Abiding in Christ does not mean that you must always be thinking about Christ. You are in a house, abiding in its inclosure or beneath its shelter, though you are not always thinking about the house itself. But you always know when you leave it.

A man may not always be thinking of his sweet home circle, but he and they may nevertheless be abiding in each other's love. And he knows instantly when any of them is in danger of passing out of the warm tropic of love into the arctic regions of separation.

So we may not always be sensible of the revealed presence of Christ, we may be occupied with many things of necessary duty, but as soon as the heart is disengaged it will become aware that He has been standing near all the while, and there will be a bright flash of recognition, a repetition of the psalmist's cry, "Thou art near, O Lord."

Ah, life of bliss, lived under the thought of His presence, as dwellers in Alpine valleys live beneath the solemn splendor of the great grand, snow capped range of mountains.—Rev. F. B. Meyer.

Forgiveness For All.

That the Son of Man hath power on earth to forgive sins is evidenced by the simple fact that man is able in the divine strength to reform the evils of his life. As we succeed little by little in putting them away, so do we attain little by little unto the blessedness of divine forgiveness. We may know then that we are forgiven as we are enabled to do better. This is a sign of forgiveness. This is the sure proof of its presence. What greater satisfaction can one ask than this, that he knows that the Lord will grant forgiveness unto all that seek it, having before us the definite way for the attainment of its blessedness and the sure sign of its accomplishment? In our quiet and in activity we are all on the level lack of the palsy, and to all of us who would be forgiven our sins the Lord says "Arise, take up the bed and go unto thine house."—C. H. Yeam.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

OFFICIAL.

Adjourned meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders, of the County of Union, N. J., held on Thursday, May 23d, 1907, at 2:30 p. m. Roll call showed the following members present: Director King and Freeholders Adams, Cady, Cladek, Darby, Doane, Donahue, Fay, Gruener, Jones, Krouse, Maurer, Meisel, Perry, Pierson, Robison, Smith and Woodruff, 15. Absent, Freeholders Swain, Wilbur, 2.

The minutes of the previous meeting, the reading of bills being omitted, were on motion approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

Freeholder Cladek presented the following petition:

Gentlemen: The subscribers, residents and property owners in the city of Rahway, respectfully request that St. George avenue, extending from Grand avenue to the dividing line from the township of Woodbridge county of Middlesex, and of Leesville avenue, extending from St. George avenue to the line of said township, in said county of Middlesex, be taken over and adopted as a county road, and after its adoption, graded, macadamized and kept up as a county road, in the same manner as other county roads are maintained. The above consists of about a mile of road in the township of Clark, said city of Rahway and is the main artery or road used by all automobiles and other conveyances between Elizabeth and New York and Philadelphia and also to Long Branch, Asbury Park and other resorts along the Jersey coast. If this short piece of road was adopted as a county road it would connect with the macadam road in the county of Middlesex, and should by all means be under your control and supervision for the reasons above set forth, thereby connecting with both the object and spirit of the county road act under which most of the county roads in this county are macadamized. We believe that by inspection you will perceive the advisability of its adoption to complete the system of beautiful and unsurpassed roads in this county, so that the residents herein, and other places who have occasion to use the same will have a good and substantial road to the adjoining county of Middlesex. Dated May 15, 1907. H. Simmons, Joseph T. Mead, H. B. Robinson, Peter Tillman, and thirty-four others.

Freeholder Cladek moved that the petition be received, filed and referred to the committee of the whole to go over and examine said road, which, after some discussion, was so ordered, and Monday, June 3d, at 3:15 p. m. fixed as the time for inspection of said road.

To be assessed and collected in the manner and at the time prescribed by the laws for the assessment and collection of taxes for the use of the State, and laws for the assessment and collection of taxes in the city of Elizabeth, Plainfield, Rahway and Summit, in said county, respectively; and that the board hereby directs the assessors of the respective townships and wards in said county, to assess the said sum of three hundred and ten thousand dollars on the inhabitants and property of the county at the law for the time being for the raising of money by taxation for the use of the county of Union, state of New Jersey, and that the said assessors meet at the Court House in the city of Elizabeth on the second Tuesday of August, next, at ten o'clock a. m., and then and there assess the proportion of said sum to be levied in each township, borough and ward in said county; and that the clerk of this board send a copy of this resolution to each of said assessors, John N. Cady, Elston Darby, Henry Krouse, J. Logan Fay, Robert C. Maurer, committee.

Freeholder Smith moved that the report be received, and resolution contained therein be adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the committee on the application of the Consumers' Aqueduct Company, as follows:

Gentlemen:—The undersigned, committee to whom was referred the matter of the application of the Consumers' Aqueduct Company, requesting the consent of the board of Freeholders of this county to raise and make certain changes in the bridge and roadwork on Madison Hill road, over Robinson's Branch, on the Raritan road; and also the small bridge which crosses the tributary of the Robinson's branch, known as Cladek's branch, of the Lehigh Valley Railroad in the township of Clark, county of Union, beg to report that they have inspected the premises in question, and would recommend that their request be granted upon the condition that said company first enter into a contract with the board embodying the following conditions and provisions, and that they furnish a bond of indemnity, as to form and security, satisfactory to John Woodruff, viz:

Condition 1. That said Consumers' Aqueduct Company procure all necessary consents to the change in the roadway bridge proposed to be built, or the grading proposed to be made, and the flooding of the lands proposed to be flooded or used by them.

Condition 2. That said company assume all responsibility for damage or claims by reason of the proposed change of grade or location or roadway or bridge proposed to be built, or the flooding of lands proposed to be flooded or used by them.

Condition 3. That the bridge over Robinson's branch near the residence of Freeholder Wilbur will be a three span thirty foot each iron beam, concrete floor bridge of not less than twenty-one feet in the width, with proper wing walls and parapets, and of character and material and height as shown by plans and specifications prepared and approved by F. J. Hubbard, county engineer.

Condition 4. That said Consumers' Aqueduct Company, to remove the present iron structure now over Robinson's branch near the residence of Henry Bender, to the location of the present wooden bridge over the tributary to said branch near the Lehigh Valley railroad, and to erect the same on new abutments as per plans and specifications to be furnished by F. J. Hubbard, county engineer.

Condition 5. To be responsible for, and indemnify the county against any claim for damage to any person or property which may occur during, or by reason of said work, and to afford every possible facility for the accomodation of the traveling public.

Condition 6. All of said work to be done and completed by Said Consumers' Aqueduct Company, under the supervision of the board, the committee in charge, and the county engineer herein specified, and at the expense of said Consumers' Aqueduct Company, and to be completed on or before August 1st, 1907. Respectfully submitted, Henry Krouse, Charles A. Smith, Thomas J. Pierson, George B. Cladek, committee.

Dated May 22d, 1907.

Freeholdre Smith moved the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered without dissent.

By the committee on new bridge over Robinson's Branch of the Rahway river, at Rahway:

Your committee on the proposed bridge over the Robinson's Branch of the Rahway river, at New Church *street, Rahway, N. J., would res-*pectfully report that they have examined the site for the proposed bridge. There is no bridge over the stream at this point at the present time, the roadway being now newly laid out and now being graded. The committee are of the opinion that a bridge over the stream at this point is necessary for the safety and properly the interests of the neighborhood, and to provide a short way to and from the public schools, and would recommend the construction of a reinforced concrete-steel bridge, of sixty feet span, and about forty-five feet in width, the cost to be not more than $25,500. Respectfully, John J. Hervey Doane, Henry Krouse, Noah Woodruff, John J. Donahue, Committee.

Freeholder Cladek moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

By the committee on Two Bridges in Union Township:

Your committee on two bridges in Union township and Roselle Park, would respectfully report that they have examined the same and find them in very bad condition, and would recommend that a part of the wall be rebuilt, and a covering of steel beams and brick arches at a cost not to exceed $198, for the one in Union township, and a new bridge to be built at Roselle Park, at a cost not to exceed $130. Noah Woodruff, Peter H. Meisel, E. K. Adams, Committee.

Freeholder Gruener moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so or-dered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

Freeholder Smith, chairman of the special committee to whom was referred the matter of the purchase of three paintings by the Veteran Zouaves of Elizabeth, reported progress, which report was received.

New Business.

By Freeholder Adams:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to investigate the advisability of rebuilding the old bridge over the Rahway river, at Claremont Place and Prospect street at Cranford, and report at the next meeting of this board.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The director appointed as the said committee, Freeholders Woodruff, Meisel and Donahue.

Freeholder Krouse moved to adjourn, which was carried.

The director declared the board adjourned until Thursday, June 6th, 1907, at 2:30 p. m.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Miss Mary A. Stubbs, of Indianapolis has been appointed head of the Indian state bureau of statistics.

Mrs. Mary Ellen Lease is now a regular lecturer on Sunday for one of the big ethical culture societies of New York.

Lady Henry Somerset, who has made the temperance cause her life work, has announced that she will retire from public life and will be heard no more on public platforms.

Miss Elizabeth Gilfoley, of East Granville, is station agent, mail carrier, express agent, baggagemaster and freight agent for the Central Vermont railway. She has held all these offices for two years.

Mrs. Dowlie is in very moderate circumstances and will endeavor to make a living by keeping a little summer resort at Muskegon, Mich. It is also said she will write a book laying bare the secrets of Zion City.

Miss Eleanora Sears, of Boston, and Baroness Elizabeth Rosen, daughter of the Russian ambassador to this country, have completed arrangements for a swimming match on the Massachusetts coast this summer.

Miss Ellen Terry, at a reception in New York, talked about the innumerable women who asked her to help them to get on the stage. "The fact is," she said, "every woman under thirty believes she is an actress. And every actress," she added, "believes she is under thirty."

Among the women elected to the Finnish diet are Alexandra von Grippenberg, baroness, and Minna Sillanpaa, president of the Servant Girls' union. The latter was nominated by the Socialists, but supported by the women of all parties on account of *her thorough knowledge of condi*tions among women.

FACTE IN A FE WLIXES.

After reading Indian tales James Woods, of Skelton, Conn., decided to do some shooting on his own account, so he armed himself with bow and arrow and went out in the woods. Not long afterward the boy returned with a good sized fox. A well directed arrow had pierced the animal's eye.

Director Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke of New York's Museum of Art thinks that Pierpont Morgan's great collection, now at South Kensington, may be brought over in one evening. He speaks of a celebrated Eros, a bronze Cupid of large size and one of the most beautiful examples and antique bronze known, said to have cost $30,000.

A telegraph clerk at Turin has invented a new system of telegraphing on trains in motion whereby messages are exchangeable not only with other trains, but also with all the stations along the line and the central telegraph offices. Experiments carried out at Portodosolo between naval expectations, and greetings from a fast express were wired to King Victor Emmanuel.

Like the old Ferris wheel of the Columbian exposition days, the great wheel of Earl's Court, London, will never stand still. Power is being taken down and the steel in it sent to Wales, where, mixed with pig iron and iron ore, it will be converted into steel bars for tin plate making. Biscuit, tobacco and mustard cans will be manufactured from these. The steel of the British warship Montagu will undergo the same fate.

HINTS TO THE HOUSEWIFE.

In cleansing the brass around a keyhole it is almost impossible not to soil the surrounding wood. Get a piece of cardboard about four inches square, cut a hole in it the shape of the brass and put it over the keyhole when cleaning, and the wood will not be touched.

Distilled water is far better than the ordinary kind for greasy skins and all others. An ounce of dried rose leaves in half a pint of vinegar left to stand on them for a week, then adding rose water, is a good remedy. Wash the face with a teaspoonful of this in distilled water and it will prove efficacious on the greasiest skin.

Real Estate Transfers.

The following local real estate transfers have been recorded at Elizabeth: Patrick E. Smyth to Joseph Harrigan, northeasterly side Berckman street, corner St. Mary's church, Plainfield, $1; Plainfield Land and Building Company to John Carr, southwesterly side rock avenue, 35-feet southeasterly of Rock avenue, Plainfield, $1; Benjamin B. Ford to Ira L. LaRue, Church street, corner W. W. Davison, Plainfield, $1.

Foraker's Name is Hissed.

Dayton, Ohio, June 10.—Mayor Wright, in welcoming the convention of Ohio United Commercial Travelers yesterday said that Senator Foraker should be the next President of the United States. THE WOMAN IN THE CAR.

By J. H. LEONHARDT.

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

Most Daring Scheme in Years—Lord Algernon the Victim.

Bracebridge stood on the steps of the Casino. He had just tempted Fortune, and for once the jade had proved a prude, and he was left with a broken purse. To describe his remorse would be impossible; he wondered dully what his mother would think when he would seek her out that night in their unpretentious hotel that overlooked the bay of Monaco and tell her that the trip would have to be postponed; that they must hasten home without delay. He knew very well what she would do—how she would take his head on her shoulder and lay her soft, faded cheek against his ruddy one and say, "Never mind, boy." He cursed himself for a fool, and then chuckled grimly as he thought of the surplusage of money he would have when he had pawned various articles of apparel, the proceeds of which would go to buy tickets for home.

"Just enough for a box of cigarettes," he muttered as he stumbled down the steps to the street.

"Sir, can you not understand even English," spoke a delicious musical voice. Bracebridge scrambled slowly back to earth from the realms of despair into which he had descended. A big red limousine car stood by the curb, and from its window protruded a vision of pink and gold and fluffiness that caused Bracebridge to uncover with a haste that was more worshipful than graceful.

"Ah! what do you want" he asked, rudely, for his dulled brain was not as quick as it was wont to be, nor his tongue as smooth; but the next instant he blushed in confusion at his own gruffness. "I beg your pardon, madam; can I be of service to you?"

"Ah, you can," she replied, relievedly.

"Come into the car," and she threw open the door, making room for him beside her.

"But," said Bracebridge, hesitating, "I—"

"Come, if you are going," she spoke impatiently, at the same time rising and grasping his wrist and trying to tug him inside. Bracebridge, though it may sound paradoxical, could not resist that ineffective tug on his arm; he stepped from the curb and dropped on the seat beside her.

"Avec Adolphe!" she cried, sharply. The chauffeur started the machine with a rush.

Bracebridge had a sensation of a swift journey through the night, but it was a dim one, for he was busy drinking in the beauty as she sat beside him, her neck encircled by a pearl collar, an expensive opera cloak thrown over her nude shoulders. Surely he had never seen the equal of this woman for beauty; she seemed almost to smile from him, a goddess; he could not converse with her. Once he tried to speak, but could get no further than "Madam—" whereat he became confused, and stammered himself into silence again. The girl laughed mischievously at his sorry attempt, then looked at him sidelong, out of the corner of her violet-colored eyes, and said lowly: "I am human; you act afraid, as though you might be in the presence of a deity. I would not harm a living creature, and surely not you. Besides, I am smaller than you see." She ranged her tiny gloved hand in white kid beside Bracebridge's larger ones.

*And then the eternal masculine as-*sumptiveness of soul arose in Bracebridge. He could not tell from whence came the audacity, but with a pounce he captured her fingers and threw his muscular arm around her; she struggled hard to release herself, but saw it was useless. She stopped, panting.

"You are mussing my frock; I will call Adolphe, you insolent man," she said, between gasps.

Bracebridge let go her hands and grasped her bare arms, facing her towards him. His eyes were burning; he felt a weakening sensation as he touched her soft flesh, a feeling of longing—longing and desire that he could not control. To know that this beautiful creature was at his mercy exhilarated him; he leaned slowly toward her, nearer, and nearer; he could feel her shortened breath on his cheek. He gazed into her eyes, and she blinked, then shut them tightly, murmuring weakly, "Your shining eyes—they blind me." He bent still closer to her, and pressed his lips to hers in one shuddering ecstasy of joy and love. He could have sworn that those two rosebuds returned the pressure of his lips. She gave a surrendering sigh and laid her head upon his shoulder, her arms slipping around his neck. He crushed her to his breast vigorously.

Their one little second passed quickly. The car ran to the curb and stopped with a jerk, and they slipped apart. When the door was opened Bracebridge was saying: "I am clumsy, madam, in arranging your clothes, and I greatly fear your ruffles will be spoiled." He stepped out and looked around; they were back in front of the Casino again.

"I thank you greatly that you will aid me in this, sir," she said, smiling. "I abducted you on a wager, sir, that I could carry off the first gentleman I saw at the Casino."

"And may I see you to-morrow?" he asked, his soul in suspense.

"The heart cannot be controlled," she whispered softly. "Drive on, Adolphe." The machine whirred away.

"And now to purchase those cigarettes," said Bracebridge. Something crackled in his coat pocket; he felt, and it was a newspaper.

"How did I get that," he asked himself, opening it absently. The flaming headlines caught his eye:

WOMAN IN RED AUTO
ROBS ENGLISH LORD.

"The devil; that girl has touched me!" he cried. "I was a fool not to think before what her game was. . . . But thank the gods that I am only a common person; they'll never know what a fool I've been, as they know about the Englishman. I don't believe I will smoke cigarettes to-night," he added, as an afterthought. He pulled out his old briar pipe, lighting it in silence; then slowly took his way toward the hotel.

"'Tis sad to lose your money and your ideal on one summer's eve," he quoth, very crestfallen.

INDOOR PARTY GAME.

Musical Terms Can Be Made to Give a Pleasant Half-Hour.

In playing this pretty game each guest is given a daisy card, to which is fastened a small pencil by a cord or a ribbon. They are then told that the "music room" is full of articles of interest and that they are to discover them and write down their names.

There are numbers on the articles, working their lists out separately or together, as the hostess desires, and the best answer receives a prize, a box of candy in the form of a musical instrument being appropriate.

These articles is called to the articles about the room, which are numbered, and opposite to corresponding numbers on their cards they must write the names.

Each object numbered must have some musical significance, and one need be musically versed, though certain terms are so common that every one knows them.

Here is a list of articles that might be used in the game, with the significant answer to each:

1. Quire of paper (Choir).
2. Three dolls dressed alike (Trio-lets).
3. Carpenter's brace (Brace).
4. Watch (Time).
5. Razor (Sharp).
6. Chin-rest of a violin (Rest).
7. Card bearing the letters Ff. (Forte).
8. Some one's name (Signature).
9. Pair of scales (Scales).
10. Base of a table bell (Bass).
11. Peck measures containing two beets (Two beats in a measure).
12. Heavy string (Chord).
13. Flatiron with the letter B on its face (B flat).
14. Cardboard letter C hung on chandelier (High C).
15. Lamp post (Pitch).
16. Pipe stem (Stem).
17. Half-tone picture (Half tone).
18. Rank note (Note).
19. Baby's chose with an O on the sole (Solo).
20. Stout cane (Staff).
21. Necktie (Tie).
22. Bar of soap (Bar).
23. Door key (Key).
24. Tape measure (measure).
25. Quarter dollar with a black court plaster dot on it (A dotted quarter).

MADAME MERRI.

A Lady of Fortune.

For many years the sturdy brown hands of Victorine Ducette had been available whenever an extra pair was needed, and the village housewives had learned to depend mightily on the occasional services of the loyal, hardworking French girl. Almost any day even Victorine failed them, as the doctor's wife discovered when help was needed for the spring cleaning.

"I am ovalrwhelm wit' sorry," said Victorine, drawing herself up proudly, "but I mus' riffuse dose job of madame."

"But, Victorine, you always have helped me—and nobody can wash woodwork as beautifully as you can."

"That ees last mont'; eet ees now this mont', madame," returned Victorine, with a comprehensive gesture that relegated her past to the dark ages and likewise called attention to her spotless apron.

"Behol', now I am lady. I 'ave fortune.

"Mon oncle she 'ave proceed to die hon Wisconsin—I ham sole heir of dose oncle.

"Me, I mak no more dose crub hon de floor, dose wash hon de tub, dose polish hon doorknob, dose housecleam hon de windaw. I ham lady. I 'ave dose money last, me, I ham seet hon top ma front windaw, keed glove hon ma two hand, an' regard wit' pity dose poor worp-peop, w'at go by."

"How much did your uncle leave you, Victorine?"

"Cinquante—feefty dollairs, madame," returned the sole heir, with pride.

"Ah!" returned the doctor's astute wife, hopefully. "Well, perhaps I'd better postpone my spring cleaning until fall."—Youth's Companion.

Jews in Northern India.

High up among the mountain fastnesses of Cashmere, in the extreme north of India, Jews have settled and become the most prosperous of any in the whole peninsula, since they are the main exploiters of the commerce between India and central Asia. They were visited by one Bernier in the year 1650, and the beginnings of their residence probably would lead us back almost to the days of Alexander the Great.

BIG CROWD ATTENDS THE CARNIVAL'S CLOSE

PROFITS TO WATCHING COUNCIL WILL PASS $2,500 MARK.

Kindly to the end, the weather gods offered no bar to the grand close of the Knights of Columbus carnival, and as a result of their kindness, the enterprise ended Saturday night in a volume of business and gayety that sent the members of the committee and all the show people home as happy as they were tired. Which, in the case of the committee and its assistants, is saying much.

The biggest crowd of the week came out Saturday night. It was impossible to get accurate figures, for no turnstile was working and nobody with an indicator kept tabs on the crowd, but men who should be able to estimate things said the total attendance must have been eight thousand or over. Correspondingly large business was done at all the shows and the different attractions. There was a live matinee, so that the total receipts for the last day were great enough to make the knights and the showmen profoundly grateful for the completed dissipation of the black clouds that lowered threateningly from the sky in the afternoon.

The receipts of the knights will probably pass $2,000 and may go beyond $2,500. So much business was done during the week, in spite of the discouraging start, that the show people were not at all anxious to go away. The Hippodrome Company had completed arrangements to go direct to Bangor, but there today, but it was said by members of the committee yesterday that Manager Busey was ready to cancel the Orange date and continue here for another week.

The crowd remained numerous until after 11 o'clock. Then it began to thin out gradually, and by midnight the carnival settled into the past. Lights died out rapidly, and the loading of the cars went on apace. The transition from gayety to gloom was swift, and by 3 o'clock in the morning the carnival grounds reverted to its original state of a vacant lot.

LOCAL HIGH SCHOOL TEAM WALLOPS PINGRY NINE.

Plainfielders Walk Away With the Game by the Score of 19 to 3.

The Plainfield High School played its last game of the season Monday at Elizabeth, when it defeated the Pingry School by the score of 19 to 3. The game was close for the first three innings but in the fourth P. H. S. began to walk away and made but two errors, while Pingry were credited with 21. The High School boys made seven hits, one of which was a home run by Douglas in the sixth inning. Pingry made no hits.

Married In Poughkeepsie.

Harold Eugene Canfield, of this city, and Miss Fannie Mosher Pierson, of Poughkeepsie, N. Y., were quietly married at the bride's residence on Wednesday, June 5, at noon, by Rev. W. J. Hubbard, pastor of Baptist Church of Christ, Poughkeepsie. The young couple will reside in this city, at 504 East Sixth street, where the groom has a furnished home. They have returned from their honeymoon trip.

DEATH OF DAVID P. HALL

Stricken by Heart Trouble Saturday Night, Succumbs in a Few Hours.

NOTED PHILANTHROPIST

Had Devoted Much of His Time to the Advancement of Education and Uplifting of the Poor.

David Prescott Hall, one of the best known residents of Plainfield, died suddenly of heart trouble at his home on Madison avenue, Saturday night. Although he had not been in good health for some time, he went to business in New York every day, and was at his office as usual on Saturday.

Mr. Hall was born in New York November 15, 1845, and was the son of David Priestley and Caroline Minturn Hall. He spent the early part of his life in New York and at the age of sixteen years went into the law office of his father, to prepare himself for the profession of law practice. His father was one of the prominent lawyers in New York, and with his assistance was able to secure admission to the New York Bar at the age of twenty-three years. He was also a charter member of the New York Bar Association.

He was married in 1871 to Miss Marion Howe, daughter of Dr. Samuel Gridley Howe, an eminent philanthropist and friend of the blind and poor, and Mrs. Julia Ward Howe, the author of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," and well known throughout the world for her literary achievements and work in behalf of woman suffrage.

Mr. Hall's father, as well as his uncle, Jonathan P. Hall, were for years prominent in legal circles and Mr. Hall was a descendant of the Buckley's from which Ralph Waldo Emerson was also a descendant. Mr. Hall and his family moved to Scotch Plains about thirty years ago, and from the first he took a lively interest in the affairs of that place.

It was largely through his efforts that the town became Republican in politics, and he was also the nominee of his party for the Assembly, but through coalition he was defeated. For many years he was a member of the Board of School Trustees and it was as a result of his perseverance that the new school was built at Scotch Plains at a cost of $14,000. McKim, Mead & White were the architects. He then turned his attention to establishing a public library which, after much effort, was accomplished with the aid of Miss Mary Mead. Mr. Hall secured the passage of a State law allowing the residents of that town to start a library, with a fund of $1,000. He was also president of Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company, of Scotch Plains, and helped that company to build a home for itself. It was in this building that the first library was started, and later moved to more pretentious quarters. Although a Presbyterian, Mr. Hall identified himself with the work at All Saints' Episcopal church at Scotch Plains, and at one time was a vestryman. He was also overseer-of-the- poor at the yearly salary of $4. He took the office to help the poor.

Mr. Hall was for many years a member of the Board of State Charities and after moving to Plainfield fourteen years ago, he became active in local affairs. He resides in Pilgrim Lodge, No. 141, F. and A. M., and is a charter member of the Original Old Association and an honorary member of the Monday Afternoon Club, before which he has given two addresses on the Constitution of the United States and parliamentary law.

He was a great help to Mrs. Hall in her work, and although not a pronounced suffragist, he was in sympathy with the movement. He was a man of exceptional qualities and ability.

Mr. Hall is survived by his wife, three sons and one daughter. The last named is Miss Caroline Minturn Hall, the artist, who lives at home. The sons are Samuel Prescott Hall, an architect, who resides in Philadelphia; Henry Marion Hall, a teacher at Carteret School, Orange, and John Howe Hall, a mining engineer, associated with the Taylor Iron and Steel Company, of High Bridge.

Change in Trinity's Choir.

Miss Ethel Moore, of Cranford, leading soprano of the choir of Trinity Reformed church, has resigned. Her resignation was followed by the long journey from her home twice a week, which was more aggravated during the past winter by the bad weather. Miss Moore's singing is most attractive, and the congregation parted with her reluctantly with regret. She will end her connection with the choir July 1, when her place will be taken temporarily by Miss Edna Rayhert, of East Second street, this city, for several years leading soprano in the First Presbyterian church.

Summer weather is coming and the women-folks are advised to prepare for it by buying their goods at "The White Store," on West Front street. The firm is carrying a larger and better stock of goods than ever and the quality and prices will compare favorably with those in New York. This house is always up-to-date and you make no mistake by trading there.

OBSERVE CHILDREN'S DAY

Evangelical Churches Hold Services of a Special Nature.

ATTRACTIVE EXERCISES

Little Ones Sing Pretty Songs and Recite—Number of Baptisms —Churches Decorated with Flowers and Plants.

In most of the evangelical churches Sunday, the annual observance of Children's Day was held. Elaborate and pretty exercises were presented. The fine weather helped the interesting programs to draw large congregations. They were as follows:

Congregational Church.

Partment to the main school took prominent part in the exercises at the Congregational church. The exercises were held in conjunction with the church service, at 10.30 o'clock. The pupils occupied the front middle pews. The platform was prettily decorated.

Three children graduated into the main school: Elizabeth E. Martin, Edna Mundy, Florence Liesen, Mildred Poole. Helen Wesselman, Holmes Clawson, Roy M. Wyckoff. They took part in an interesting exercise. Each received a diploma and a testament.

Three children were baptized by the pastor, Rev. Charles E. Goodrich. They were Roselyn Beatrice and Charles Herbert, daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Lashman; and Miss Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Suffern.

Bibles were presented to children who had been baptized in the church and attained the age of seven. Russell Tomlinson and Ruth Fuller received them.

The pastor gave an object talk to the smaller boys and girls. His subject was the cedar tree, and he had a small tree on his desk with which to illustrate it. He drew several forceful lessons from the tree.

A short Sunday school session followed the service. Superintendent John M. Whiten was in charge.

First M. E.

Interesting exercises were held by the children of the First M.E. church Sunday-school, Sunday morning, in connection with which there were the baptism of fourteen members of the school as follows: Hazel Mcvoy, Laura and Harold Rose, Mary Howard, Hazel Stephens, Everett Sherwin, George Silvius, Catherine Clark, Wells Creager, Carrie Creager, May Louise Heidloff, Margaret Dunavan, Alice Beekman, Eleanor Swick.

The special program by those in the beginners department included recitations by the following children: Loren Pope, Carl Moore, Dorothy Clum, Lois Beekman, Robert Cline, Ella Vail, Alfred Littell, Mildred Swick, Edwin Markey, Alice Beekman, Albert Patterson, Charlotte Shiff, Leonora Kennick, and a song by Frank Rowley.

The following members of the intermediate department gave recitations: Jubilee Rowley, Helen Clarkson, Ruth Bell, exercise, Zida Voorhees, Myrtle Darling, Hazel Cline, Helen Carson, Jubilee Rowley, Margaret Ewart, Edith Littell and Ruth Seal; recitations, Elsie Howell; greeting, Robert Becker, Marion Lynn and Grace Hall. The members of the primary department took part as follows: Exercise, Louise Reed, Esther Patterson, Violet Sutton; recitations, Carol Dunavan, Bessie Marchant; songs, Edward Crone, Bessie Marchant, Gladys Sherwood, Howard Hill, Alice Joy, Violet Sutton, Margaret Thorn, Clarence Skiff, Ruth Lynn, Chester Alpaugh; recitations, Muriel Courser, Gladys Sherwood, Alice Joy; exercise, Clarence Skiff, Howard Hile, Harry Stevens, John Sutton, Elton Gresnleaf and Harold Woolston.

James R. Joy, superintendent of the school, was in charge of the exercises and the pastor, Rev. A. C. McCrea baptized the children and gave a short talk.

Park Avenue Baptist Church.

A most attractive program was presented in the Park Avenue Baptist church, where the exercises took the place of the morning service, at 10.30 o'clock. George E. Hall, the superintendent, presided. The church was attractively decorated with flowers and American flags. The program was as follows:

Song, choir; Scripture reading, prayer, pastor; response, choir; song, beginners, primary and junior departments; recitation, Marielle Dunham; recitation, Irene Moy, Clara Hadley, Eleanor Severn; offertory, cornet solo, DeWitt Frazee; song, choir; recitation, Edith Lowry, Madelin Moy, Hilda Van Winkle; violin solo, Lyle Smith; recitation, Cornelia Smith, Olive George, Gladys Hadley, Jennie Dayton, Elsie Dayton, Emily Van Winkle; duet and chorus, Anna Clark, Arline Brown and choir; recitation, Clara Hadley; recitation, Arthur Dayton, John Thompson, Gilbert Stover, William Phan; violin solo, Arthur S Mosher; exercise, Isabell von Brakle, Mabel Stutsman, Iva Hadley, Edith Whitney, Esmee Hodgson, Anna Smith, Marion Mortimer, Jennie Deibeler, Autumn De Lany, Lillian Cuming, Hannah Rog, Ruth Stryker, Elinor Stutsman; solo, Mrs. William H. Scbring; reading, Miss Aimee Emmons; song, choir; benediction.

The offertory was for the benefit of the Netherwood Fresh air camp.

First Baptist Church.

The Children's exercises at the First Baptist church in the afternoon consisted chiefly in the singing of appropriate songs and the feature was the promotion of children from primary to the junior deparement and from the junior department to the main school. The following promoted from the primary to the junior department, each received a Bible, presented by Mrs. Dudley Miller: Elmer French, Clarence Krausse, May Heidloff, Anne Blume, Dorothy Krewson, Minnie Endress, Grace Hunt, Lucy Douglass, Eleanor Brownlng, Marion Chandler, Roy Adams, Russell Lee, Malcomb Marsh and Hazel Coddington.

Those promoted from the junior department to the main school, each received a diploma, as follows: Margaret Bonnell, Marjorie Cubberly, Emma Heidloff, Florence Neal, Lorains Dunn, Mabel Van Camp, William White, Arthur Mundy, Roy McCutchen, Herbert Hillman, Robert Butler, and Walter Newton. During the exercises there was a sermonette by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, pastor of the church. The flowers used in the decorations were afterward sent to the sick of the church.

Trinity Reformed Church.

The Children's Day exercises at Trinity Reformed church in the morning attracted a large congregation and the children presented a fine program which all enjoyed exceedingly. The edifice was attractively decorated, there being daisies and natural palms in great profusion. In the absence of Superintendent P. B. Smith, who was detained by illness, Rev. Dr. Cornelius, assistant superintendent, was in charge of the program. W. C. Leek led the children in the singing of the songs. There was excellent singing by the church choir.

A feature of the exercises was the baptism of four infants by the pastor, Rev. Dr. Cornelius Schenck, the form being read by Rev. Dr. F. S. Schenck. The presence of Pastor Schenck was a delight to all.

The program of exercises follow. Recitation, "A Greeting," Nellie McAfee; song, "Everything Sings," primary department; beginners' department, recitations, Clifton Wiggins, Wilma Tier, Edwin Addis, Marjorie Dufford; recitation, "Children's Day," Madelin Blair; junior department, recitations, "The Flower Garden," Anna Lee "Something Every Day," Emma H. Ryno; song by Junior department; exercise, "Message of the Roses," Marion Blair, Beatrice Bodine, Helen McAfee; exercise, "Wedding Bells," Junior Dept., Ella Van Arsdale, Helen Saffron, Edna Smith, Mable Laury; song, "I Will Try, Will You?" Margaret Hope; Lillian Schlief, Vivian Dunn, Marguerite Barkalew, Beatrice Tier, Flora Lee; address by Rev. D. F. S. Schenck; exercise, "Forget-Me-Nots," Adelaide Cole, Dorothy Martin, Ruth Enander, Louise Seader, Laura Smith; song by primary department, "The Words They Say;" recitation, "Be Lovely Wyckoff," Beatrice Tier; song by the school, doxology.

Crescent Avenue Presbyterian.

The program of children's exercises at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, in the morning, consisted of songs and responsive readings by the members of the primary department and the main school, with an address by the pastor, Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelle, whose remarks were appropriate to the day. The church was elaborately decorated with beautiful flowers. The offering was for the Sunday-school missionary work of the Presbyterian Board. There were also anthems by the choir.

Hope Chapel.

The children's exercises were held at Hope Chapel in the afternoon, consisting of songs by the primary and more advanced departments and an address by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelle, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church. The program was in charge of the superintendent, G. H. Condict. The chapel was appropriately decorated with flowers and palms.

MATINEE RACES.

Good races and clean sport marked the first matinee meet of the Fair Acres Driving Club, at the Gentlemen's Driving Park, Saturday afternoon. Five races were won, a free-for-all, one for pacers, and three for trotters. There was a good attendance.

In Class A, free-for-all, Charles Brower's bay pacer, Prince Leon, time, 1:08¾. Class B, trotters, was won by J. S. Irving's Fred B, in 1:12. C. M. Sterling's Florence D, a brown mare, won class C, for pacers; time, 1:21. R. L. Edwards' Merry Heels won Class D, trotters; time, 1:14. The final class, for trotters, was won by J. H. Green, Jrs.'s Catherine Dillon; time, 1:23.

Honor for Borough Young Woman.

A rare and much-coveted honor has recently been conferred on Miss Helen Stuart Weir, of 20 Rockview avenue, North Plainfield, in the award of the gold medal for three bronze groups of lions, at the Royal Pottery Year Jubilee Exposition, at Bucharest, Roumania. The award is all the more prized, aside from the fact that the work received such recognition, because the critics who passed upon it are considered the most strict of any to be found in Europe.

CLOSE COMPETING IN HOLY CROSS CLUB MEET

GOLD MEDALS WON BY JAMES NASH AND EDWARD SCOTT.

An ideal day greeted the young athletes of Holy Cross Club Saturday morning when they met for their contests on the Cricket Field.

As the events showed, the committee had wisely divided the boys in two classes—A and B—so that the boys in each class were evenly matched. The contests were close and exciting and the points rolled up by the winners netted a total which made the net result very close.

In class A, the rivalry between James Nash and Russell Conroy was so close that the result was in doubt up to the last event. Nash won out by one point, scoring a total of eighteen points in nine events and Conroy at his heels with seventeen points out of the nine events. William Little finished third with a total of eight points. Accordingly the gold medal goes to Nash, the silver medal to Conroy and the bronze medal to Little.

It was thought by observers that Gardner Bristol would have crowded the leaders but for an unfortunate accident which happened during the pole vault. Bristol had won first place, scoring three points. He then proceeded to beat his own record; lacking only three inches of clearing the bar at seven feet, he went over clean and true but fell sideways with his left arm under him. On getting to his feet it was found that he had cracked his wrist bone. The boy was cheered by the contestants and spectators as he was shown and expressions of sympathy were heard on all sides as he was taken from the field and carried home by a nearby automobile.

In class B, Edward Scott carried off the honors with a total of twenty points out of nine events. William Coyle followed closely with a score of eighteen points to his credit. Walter Knowlton finished third with eleven points as his total. Accordingly Scott is awarded the gold medal, Coyle the silver and Knowlton the bronze.

The medals, which are of beautiful design and workmanship, are on exhibition in the show window of Randolph's drug store on West Front street. They will be engraved with the winners' names and presented at the club meeting next Saturday night.

Holy Cross Club now has a winning baseball team, a football eleven which has been defeated only once and now has a track team ready to meet anything of its size and weight in the State of New Jersey. The judges were Messrs. Frank Dencklau, Rev. G. A. Warner, Earl Moran and Mg. Irby.

Following is the summary of events:

Class A: 100 yd. dash—Nash, 1st; Little, 2d; Bristol, 3d; time, 12 seconds. Pole vault—Bristol, 1st; Nash, 2d; Gray, 3d; height, 81 inches. Shot put (12-lb. shot)—Conroy, 1st; Nash, 2d; Little, 3d; distance, 24 ft., 10 inches. 15 yard dash—Nash, 1st; Little, 2d; Conroy, 3d. Running high jump—Conroy, 1st; Stine, 2d; Gray, 3d; height, 4 ft. 10 inches. Running Broad Jump—Conroy, 1st; Nash, 2d; Little, 3d; distance, 15 feet, 7 inches. Standing High Jump—Nash, 1st; Conroy, 2d; Little, 3d; height, 4 ft. Standing Broad Jump—Nash, 1st; Conroy, 2d; Little, 3d; distance, 8 ft. 1 in. Potatoe Race—Conroy, 1st; R. Vail, 2d; Gray, 3d.

Class B: 100 yard dash—Scott, 1st; Coyle, 2d; Kreegar, 3d; time, 12 seconds. Pole vault—Coyle, 1st; Knowlton, 2d; C. Taylor, 3. Standing high jump—Scott, 1st; Knowlton, 2d; Coyle, 3d; height, 4 ft. 5 yard dash—Coyle, 1st; Scott, 2d; Knowlton, 3d. Standing broad jump—Scott, 1st; Coyle, 2d; Knowlton, 3d; distance, 7 ft. 8 ins. Running high jump—Knowlton, 1st; Scott, 2d; Coyle, 3; height, 4 ft. Shot put (12 lb. shot)—Coyle, 1st; Scott, 2d; Knowlton, 3d; distance, 20 ft. 2 ins. Running broad jump—Coyle, 1st; Scott, 2d; Knowlton, 3d; distance, 16 ft. 4 ins. Potatoe race—Scot, 1st; Higgins, 2d; C. Taylor, 3d.

Visitors to the Borough Schools.

Among the visitors to the North Plainfield Public Schools during the past few days were Raymond Todd, a teacher at Neshanic, to the primary and grammar departments; Professor W. D. Ackers, principal of the High School, New Britain, Conn.; Professor Irwin D. Perry, of the Los Angeles, Cal., High School, now a lecturer at the University of Illinois; Miss Elsie Horne, of Teachers' College, New York. Professor Perry spent the entire day examining the English department of the High School, which is in his line of work. He praised the proficiency of the classes highly. Miss Horne was the guest of Miss Denneen, in the department of domestic science.

Special Services at St. Stephen's.

The venerable Dr. Phillips Bryan, canon of the Cathedral of the Holy Trinity of the diocese of Long Island, will preach in St. Stephen's church, on Sunday night, June 16, at a special service. The entire day will be marked by special services it being the exact date of the 19th anniversary of the first celebration of the holy communion in the English church. This event will be celebrated throughout the world by all Episcopal churches.

PLAINFIELDER BROUGHT INTO THE STATE PROBE

MISS EDITH CAIRNS A CHARMING BRIDE

PRETTY HOME WEDDING, AT WHICH GEN. O. O. HOWARD WAS A GUEST.

A most interesting and attractive wedding took place at the home of Mrs. Hannah Cairns, 444 West Fifth street, Saturday afternoon, at 4 o'clock, when her daughter, Miss Edith Cairns, was joined in marriage to Lucius I. Wightman. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. G. W. Nicholson, pastor of the First Baptist church, of Bridgeport, Conn., former pastor of the bride at Jersey City. The beautiful service of the Episcopal church was used.

Irving Cairns, of Montclair, uncle of the bride, gave her away. Miss Josephine Holloway, of Montclair, was maid of honor. The best man was George S. Gildersleeve, of Detroit, Mich., a classmate of the groom. Two little ribbon-bearers, Miss Esther Merrick and Master Richard Howard, preceded the bridal party as they entered the beautifully decorated parlors, while Miss Christine Tracy, of New York city, sang the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, accompanied by Mrs. Lawrence R. Howard.

The bride was charmingly gowned in a white lace robe and a tulle veil, fastened with a spray of swansonia, and she carried a shower bouquet of the same blossoms. A beautiful opal and diamond pendant, the gift of the groom, was the only jewel she wore. The maid of honor wore white muli with lace trimmings and a flower hat, and carried a bouquet of pink swansonia. Miss Tracy wore white and carried white flowers.

At the reception immediately following the ceremony, the guests were received by Mrs. Cairns, mother of the bride, Judge and Mrs. R. H. Gilmore, of Denver, Colo., the latter a sister of the bridegroom, and Judge Gilmore's half brother, General O. O. Howard, of Burlington, Vt.

Among the relatives from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Irving Cairns, Clifford Cairns, Edward Cairns and Irving Cairns, Jr., of Montclair; Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cairns and Charles Cairns, of Hackensack; Mrs. Jasper Cairns, Mr. and Mrs. Shepard Rowland, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Rowland and Miss Carrie Cooper, of Manhasset; Miss Willard Cairns, of New York; Mr. and Mrs. James W. Howard, of Newark; also Dr. and Mrs. Edwin W. Rice, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brown, of Montclair; Miss Martha Murray Foster, of Vernon, N. Y.

In addition to a beautiful display of silver, cut glass and china, there was received as a wedding gift from a friend of the groom a fine blooded horse. Miss Cairns has long been a prominent Sunday-school worker, not only in the First Baptist church, but also in the State and county Sunday-school Unions. The scholars of the Sunday-school gave the bride a set of candlesticks, and the staff of the teachers was a 365 day clock.

Mr. Wightman is a graduate of the University of Colorado and at present is employed as the superintendent of the Ingersoll-Rand Drill Company's Publication Department. Several valuable gifts were received from the company's business associates. W. L. Saunders, president of the company, was among the wedding guests.

MR. RUNYON RESIGNS.

Isaac P. Runyon is no longer a member of the Fair Acres Driving Club. His letter of resignation was received by the club Monday night.

In it Mr. Runyon said, in effect, that he felt it would not be right for him to be associated in any way with a race track where bookmaking was allowed. It was on the Fair Acres track, known generally as the driving park, that the Watchung Hunt Club steeplechases, whereat three or four wicked and undoubted bookies operated, were held. All the members of the club present jumped up and moved that Mr. Runyon's resignation be accepted. Mr. Runyon was not an old member of the club.

When the Runyon resignation had been enthusiastically disposed of, the club furthered plans for a gala meet to be held at the track July 4. It will be a matinee affair, and the entry lists and attendance are expected to be unusually large.

SEEKING PARDONS.

Among a large list of Union county prisoners who had applications before the State Board of Pardons at its session last Saturday, were the following from this city:

John Galbraith, convicted of indecent assault, February, 1906; term of sentence, three years; term expires, September, 1908.

Thomas Holland, convicted of abuse of infant, February, 1906; term of sentence, two years; term expires November 1, 1907.

Lawrence Wallace, convicted of breaking and entering, February, 1906; term of sentence, three years; term expires, September, 1908.

The applications, together with many others, were discussed briefly, and then referred for future consideration. Wallace's petition was signed by a large number of Plainfield and Scotch Plains residents.

Attempt Made to Show that George J. Tobin Was Favored in the Plumbing Contracts.

BUILDER TESTIFIES

Denied That $12,000 Extra Paid to Tobin on Prison Wing Job Was "Graft" or "Rake-off."

The Hahn investigating committee, which is probing the management of State affairs under Republican administrations, delved into contracts on State building work Saturday and as a result the name of George J. Tobin, of this city, was brought into the proceedings in prominent form.

Lewis Lawton & Son, of Trenton, have in the past seven years done the bulk of the State's building and the contracts for plumbing and heating have always gone to Tobin, notwithstanding the fact that in one instance F. S. Katzenbach & Co., of Trenton, bid $12,000 less than Tobin. The entire time of the committee was devoted to efforts in establishing that some contractors were getting inside information on State work, that plans were so arranged that some bidders were forced to put their prices up so far they never got any and after going over many building matters in detail, the probers got down to the plumbing and heating end. It was shown that Tobin had been plumber for Lawton on all jobs he has done for the State, but counsel could not bring out whether or not Tobin was recognized as the "State plumber."

Mr. Lawton testified that Katzenbach & Co., of Trenton, were $12,000 lower than Tobin on the plumbing and heating in the new prison wing, and when asked if it was not a fact that Katzenbach & Co. did not get the work because "the powers that be would not let them do the work," witness replied, "No."

He said he gave work to Tobin because Tobin was lowest bidder for a bid and had not asked Katzenbach for a similar bid. He further declared that he had another bid lower than Tobin's.

"Then on an $82,000 contract you were able to cast aside $12,000?" remarked Mr. Hanks. "What were your profits then?"

"That's for me to say," replied witness.

Lawton further testified that Tobin's bid was about $23,000 and that "every job he got was on its merits, and I gave the work to Tobin on merit, irrespective of his being the lowest bidder."

Asked how he got these jobs and was enabled to deal so handsomely with others, and if it was not because he got inside information, witness said: "No inside information."

It was brought out that Mr. Lawton's State House contracts amounted to $275,203 and that he had been paid $69,332 in "extras." No other contractor has done any work about the State House except Mr. Lawton in the past seven years and Tobin has had all of Lawton's subcontracts for plumbing.

Asked if Mr. Tobin was not a poor man a few years ago, struggling for business in Plainfield, and was now a very wealthy and substantial citizen, Mr. Lawton said that "Mr. Tobin was pretty well-to-do when I first met him."

"How do you reconcile your refusal of Katzenbach's bid with your duty to your family?" asked counsel, and witness answered: "It does sound unreasonable, but I stand by it."

"Don't you think that $12,000 paid to Tobin was nothing but graft, a rake-off?" asked counsel.

"No," was the answer, "I do not think it anything of the kind. It was just a pure matter of business. That was the only job on which Tobin has been high."

"You know that the $12,000 was not used by Tobin for George Tobin, do you not?"

"Yes, I will say it was."

"Will your books show all moneys received from the State?"

"Yes."

"Will you bring those books here next Tuesday?"

"Yes."

Mr. Lawton was then excused.

After hearing several other witnesses, the committee adjourned until tomorrow morning.

Dormitory Fund Increased.

The Women's Auxiliary of the Y. M. C. A., counting their "strips" of pennies, gathered for the dormitory furnishing fund, yesterday afternoon, found they had collected $70.

HORSE SHOW ENDS WITH HARRIMAN IN THE LEAD

Owner of Avondale Farm Carried off a Total of Seventeen Ribbons and Lawson Cup.

VANDERBILT SECOND

Attendance on the Closing Day Breaks Previous Record—Many Fine Classes in the Final Program.

The fourth annual exhibition of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club ended Saturday afternoon in a blaze of glory," not only for the exhibitors, but as a gathering of hundreds of well known society people throughout the Metropolitan district. The attendance was by far the largest of any previous day, and attention was evenly divided between the handsomely gowned women who thronged the grandstand and private boxes, and the thoroughbreds which stepped their prettiest in the ring.

Society was there in its brightest and best, and the favorite horses were applauded to the echo by their fond admirers. Seldom has there been such a gathering of well known personages to lend their stamp of approval to Plainfield's great show, it was the unanimous opinion that the exhibition was the best ever held and nothing but praise was spoken of the club for the way in which the affair was planned.

There were two or three events that outshone the others on the last day's program. There was the competition for the Thomas W. Lawson challenge cup, valued at $150, with a reserve ribbon, and the champion saddle class. It was a disappointment to the spectators that there were not more entries for the Lawson cup. The Avondale Farm's horses had the field to themselves, Reginald Vanderbilt failing to bring his entries to the ring, because they were not in condition. Miss Emily H. Bedford also failed to show in this class. J. W. Harriman was consequently no trouble in winning the cup, his pair, "Lord Burleigh" and "Lord Brook," carrying off the blue, and his second entry, "Laughing Water" and "Chieftain," driven by his young son, received the reserve ribbon. This cup must be won twice by the same owner to become his personal property and thus the entries of the Harriman's stables are assured for next year's show.

In the champion saddle class there was unusual interest. The first prize of $100 with a reserve ribbon, was divided, the first being for horses 15.2 hands or under and the second for horses over 15.2 hands. Rufus L. Patterson's "Jasmine" won in the first division, while H. G. McElwaine's "Flirtation" got the reserve. In the second division, Otto Kahn's "Supreme" was awarded the blue and Mr. Paterson's "Corotoman" received the reserve prize.

Perhaps the most attractive class for the afternoon was that for four-in-hands, horses to be any height. The first prize of $75 was an incentive and there were three entries, Avondale Farm, Otto H. Kahn and George Watson. Almost from the first, it was the opinion that Mr. Kahn's entry would get the blue. His handsome chestnut geldings were the admiration of all. There was such a striking uniformity in the wheelers and leaders that nearly everybody was willing to concede them first prize. The tally-ho and its equipment were striking. Quite early Mr. Harriman's four-in-hand went to the gate, leaving the Kahn and Watson entries to compete. Francis Guillot, who was handling the Kahn horses, was a favorite and was loudly applauded and cheered when he got the blue. George Watson, Jr., driving his father's entry, was also applauded when he received the second prize.

Class 38 for hunters and jumpers afforded some excitement for the crowd, when J. E. David, riding his entry, "Agio," was thrown in taking one of the jumps. The rider was not injured in the least and his mount acted in a way that showed his true breeding. He took a few steps off the track and waited until his rider regained his feet and remounted. In this event, which was won by William Carr's "Sapolio," Lewis E. Waring's fine hunter, "Grand Slam," was nervous in appearing before such a large crowd. The best he could do was to win the white ribbon.

J. W. Harriman received a total of eighteen ribbons for the three days, in addition to winning the Lawson cup. He had eighteen horses competing and his success met with general approval. Reginald Vanderbilt finished with fourteen ribbons—four blues, six reds, three yellows and one white. Miss Emily H. Bedford, of Brooklyn, was third, having taken six blues, three reds, one yellow and one white, with an entry of fifteen horses.

JUSTICE RAIDS SYLVAN RESORT OF GAMESTERS

PUTS FIFTY GAMBLERS TO FLIGHT, AND BURNS APARATUS.

Assisted by a posse of four, of which the Mayor of Dunellen and a Dunellen councilman were members, Justice R. P. Von Minden, of New Market Road and the Marsh building, who is borough counsel of Dunellen, dispersed of a gang of petty gamblers in Piscataway township Sunday afternoon. The dispersal was followed by a smashing and burning bee.

The gang against which the energetic justice proceeded had been gathering persistently, every Sunday, in a little thicket in the township, near the Dunellen line. They were just far enough over the line to make it impossible for Marshal Owen Mohan, of Dunellen, who knew of their meetings, to raid them. Mohan told Justice Von Minden, and yesterday the latter determined to act. With Mayor Wyckoff and Councilman Charles Starker, of Dunellen, and a New York friend of the constable's who didn't believe there could be a successful raid without the help from District Attorney Jerome, he worked silently up to the edge of the thicket, where a good view of the gang could be obtained. Fully fifty men and youths, a number of them from this city, both colored and white, were shooting craps and playing cards. There were two large tables, one, especially built for crap games, resting on three wooden horses.

The justice and his party broke in on the gang suddenly, and a great scramble followed. The gang fled in all directions, leaving dice, cards and all other apparatus behind. The raiders were not after prisoners, so no attempt to arrest was made.

The tables were smashed, and a bonfire was kindled in which they were consumed. Cards, dice and money were kept for evidence. If the gang returns next Sunday, Justice Von Minden will head a posse of twenty-five citizens and raid the open-air resort to capture all the players.

City Fire Horses Win.

The fire department class at the horse show on Saturday afternoon aroused the pride of the large crowd. There were only two entries, "Andy" and "Mack" from the chemical engine No. 3 house in the West End, and the one from the Westfield Fire Department. The local entry outclassed its opponent in every respect, but the Westfield department was handicapped in having a pair of comparatively green horses. Louis Kelly drove the Plainfield pair, and seated beside him was Captain Townley. Both teams were given a lively trial on the track and the Plainfield horses won out, receiving first prize, with Westfield second. The borough departments were entered originally but after ward withdrawn.

GOLF LINKS THRONGED DESPITE COUNTER SPORTS

TIE SCORES IN COMPETITIONS ON THE COUNTRY CLUB COURSE.

Notwithstanding that the horse show and other sports made a strong bid for the crowds on Saturday, there was a good field out at the Plainfield Country Club, where several events of interest were scheduled on the links. It was an ideal day for playing the game and many who are not interested especially in seeing fine horses, found much pleasure in following their favorite sport. There were also many social attractions at the clubhouse. In the evening there was the weekly dinner-dance which was attended by a large number of members and friends.

On the links there was the first round at match play for the June cup. G. F. Earl, 15, Nat H. S. Rogers, 12, by default; Earl Stockton, 8, beat Hugh F. Fox, 17, 2 up; A. L. Hamilton, 27, beat W. Lester Glenney, 0, by default, and Henry D. Hibbard, 4, beat J. R. Evans, 23, 3 up and 2 to play.

In the competition for the Scratch cup, Frank O. Reinhart, Henry D. Hibbard and Morris J. Dumont were tied with a score of 82 for a leg on the cup.

It seemed to be a day of tie scores, for in the weekly competition for the *Golf Committee cup, Morris J. Du*mont and Earl Stockton were tied for first place with a net score of 78. These scores were returned:

Morris J. Dumont, 83, 5—78; Earl Stockton, 86, 8—78; W. D. Riggs, 88, 9—79; W. Lester Glenney, 79, 0—79; Henry D. Hibbard, 83, 4—79; Henry G. Lapsley, 91, 10—81; Frank O. Reinhart, 83, 0—83; C. E. Halsted, 90, 6—84; Stuart H. Patterson, 102, 10—92.

C. P. Hamilton won first honors for the Green committee cup with a net score of 71. The scores: C. P. Hamilton, 98, 27—71; G. F. Earl, 94, 15—79; Hugh F. Fox, 97, 17—80; J. R. Evans, 108, 23—85.

It will be noticed that in the above scores the handicaps are rather generous. The Golf committee will see that they are sliced before next Saturday.

At the Park Golf Club Saturday there was the weekly competitions for the President's, Golf club and Hydewood Park cups, and the ministerial contingent of the club was very successful. Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, C. L. Goodrich and Rev. J. O. McKelvey won the honors for the President's as well as the Hydewood cup, while Mr. Goodrich, Mr. McKelvey and Dr. Carroll received the honors for the scratch trophy. The scores:

Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 103, 21—83; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 100, 14—86; Alexander Gilbert, 115, 23—90; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, 101, 9—92; Walter C. McNaughton, 114, 20—94; Charles A. Reed, 111, 11—100; Reuben Knox, 123, 19—104.

Class Day at N. P. H. S.

The annual class day exercises of the senior class of the North Plainfield High School will be held in the assembly room of the Somerset street school, Wednesday night, June 19.

TOBIN DEFIES INVESTIGATORS

al of Tobin to produce the books.

Q. (By Mr. Barber)—Is there any circumstances under which you would produce your books? A. Yes; if only this committee and not the public were present, and if the committee would guarantee that my private accounts would not be thrown open.

Mr. Sullivan—We will not guarantee anything. You are subpoenaed to bring your books and you should have them here. This is a State investigation and we will not delve into any private affairs.

Mr. Tobin said he had only gotten his subpoena at 10:30 Monday; that his books were very heavy, and that it had been impossible to get them to Trenton "today."

Mr. Backes—Have you been advised not to produce your books?

Tobin—In an direct way.

Backes—Yes; by counsel?

Tobin—No, not by my counsel, Mr. Backes indicated, the witness stating who had advised him.

Tobin—Am I obliged to answer that question?

Mr. Sullivan—You are.

Witness said several friends had advised him not to produce them.

Mr. Sullivan—What were they?

Tobin—I don't care to answer.

Mr. Sullivan—Then you refuse to answer?

Tobin—No, I don't refuse.

Mr. Sullivan then directed him to answer and Counsel Backes insisted on a reply. Mr. Tobin hesitated, and then said he would rather not give an answer.

Mr. Backes—Was it a State official, or anyone connected with State affairs? A.—No, it was not.

Q.—Are you afraid you would incriminate yourself or your friends by answering? A.—No, sir.

Continuing, Tobin testified that he had been advised before he had been subpoenaed, or before he had knowledge that he was to be subpoenaed. Mr. Backes then wanted to know how Tobin's friend came to advise him. Tobin's reply was that he went to his friend and said:

"Under certain conditions, what would you do?" and that his friend's reply was: "I would keep my books in my office."

Testifying further, Mr. Tobin said the friend in question was no one in Trenton, but lives in Plainfield. Mr. Backes asked:

"You will not somebody that is now within the hearing of my voice?"

"No, sir," was the reply.

Counsel now showed up some of the work Tobin had done for the State. He referred to the twenty-eight closets put in the Capitol, at a cost of $1,391, and to the plumbing for Governor Murphy's bathroom, which cost $1,341.68.

Tobin said he was low man in bidding on these jobs and got the work. He insisted that a complete record for all his work for the State would be found in his books at Plainfield. Mr. Backes again referred to the fact that Tobin had refused to produce his books. Witness said he had explained that matter and suggested that the committee go to his office and examine his records. Mr. Backes here commented:

"If we did that we might be hampered."

Mr. Tobin's reply was: "I guarantee that you will not."

Mr. Sullivan now said, menacingly: "The Legislature is bigger than any individual." He told Tobin that if he had been subpoenaed in any court he would have had to produce his books, even though it required a draw to carry them.

At this point Mr. Backes brought out the fact that Tobin had all the plumbing contracts on State work since his first job, in 1902.

Q.—What has been the secret of your success? A.—I will answer, no matter who it hurts.

Q.—Will your answer, if truthfully given, hurt anyone? A.—No, sir.

After delving further into Tobin's various contracts with the State under Lawton & Son, Mr. Backes directed Tobin to return at 10:30 this morning. As Tobin turned to leave the room, Mr. Sullivan said:

"You realize you must bring your books?"

Tobin turned about, but waited hesitatingly without giving a reply, until Mr. Sullifan repeated:

"Do you understand?"

Tobin replied, "I distinctly heard what Mr. Backes said."

Tobin again started to leave the room, when Mr. Sullivan called to him, "Will you bring your books?"

Tobin returned no answer to this. At this point Mr. Backes jumped to his feet and hastily called for Assistant Sergeant-at-Arms Fletcher, and gave him a new subpoena, with directions to serve it immediately upon the witness.

"Stenographer make a note of the proceedings," said Mr. Backes.

Fletcher proceed to carry out Mr. Backes' directions, but while going through the formality of reading the original writ he became confused and Sergeant-at-Arms Hague came to his rescue and proceeded to read the writ. He, too, hesitated, for the reason that Mr. Backes' writing had become blotted during the hurry in preparing the writ.

Even after the new subpoena had been served upon him, Tobin left the State House without stating whether or not he would produce his books this morning.

It is said that Tobin consulted counsel last night, and if he is arrested he will have a writ of habeas corpus issued and have the whole matter brought before the grand jury of Mercer county, submitting to a trial for misdemeanor. The general belief is, however, that some arrangement will be made by which Tobin will produce those portions of his books that refer to his transactions with the State and Lawton, regardless who may be affected.

Funeral of Mrs. Margaret Moran.

The funeral of Mrs. Margaret Moran was held from the late home on Lincoln place at 8:15 o'clock this morning and at 9 o'clock from St. Joseph's church. Father Terrill, acting-rector of the church, officiated. The pall-bearers were William Fitzpatrick, Thomas Fitzpatrick, Peter Wilson, John O'Brien and Messrs. Sullivan and Lacy. The interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

CLINTON AVENUES DEFEAT DUNELLENS

BOTH TEAMS PLAYED STEADY UNTIL LOCALS "FOUND" VAN ARSDALE.

The Clinton Avenue team defeated Dunellen on the Crescent Oval, Saturday afternoon, by a score of 13 to 4, in what at times was a good contest. Up to the sixth inning both teams were playing a steady game, and VanArsdale was pitching in his old-time form. In the seventh inning the local aggregation "got next" to his delivery and annexed six runs, which took the snap out of the contest. However, Dunellen played much stronger than in the previous amateur league games and it is believed *there will be steady improve*ment. Conway at third distinguished himself by brilliant work, and the team fielded better.

Jack Martin was in the game from start to finish, making three runs and three hits, besides having two put-outs, three assists and no errors. O'Loughlin worked the "squeeze" cleverly, by stealing home from third. The local team is now playing in its usual form and no doubt will be in first place soon. The score:

CLEVERLY GAVE THE ALARM

She Then Sat Down and Played the Piano and Sang Until She Could Stand the Strain No Longer.

Warsaw, Poland.—By the exercise of courage and presence of mind, such as probably few women have possessed, Mme. Streszky, the wife of a Warsaw physician, has just saved herself from murder and robbery under circumstances as thrilling as ever were put into a novel.

Mme. Streszky lives with her husband in a small villa on the outskirts of Warsaw. One night she was alone in the house, but for an old, deaf cook, who dozed in the basement. Mme. Streszky sat with her needlework upstairs in the drawing-room. Suddenly looking up, she saw, in a mirror, the reflection of a huge, ruffianly looking man, crouching behind a screen which stood at the back of her chair. For a moment fear petrified her, as she thought that this man, knowing she was alone, had crept into the house and was awaiting an opportunity to murder her and strip the house of valuables. Outside the street was as quiet as the grave. Her husband would not be back for hours. To rush from the room and cry madly for help meant hastening death.

Then a thought struck her. There was a telephone in the room. She went to it and quickly rang up a family she knew. The servant answered at the other end. "I want your mistress," she said. After two interminable minutes her friend's voice was to be heard.

"My dear Sophy," began the doctor's wife. "Be so good as to send me round that $4,000 roubles this evening. I must pay it into the bank to-morrow morning. I'm very sleepy and want to go to bed."

The friend at the other end of the phone was mystified. They had never had any financial dealing with each other, nor had she heard of the sum in question. But before she could say anything, the doctor's wife began again—this time in Polish:

"Some wretch has got into the house—I'm alone. Come at once with a patrol, or the first man you can get hold of!"

Then she added, in Polish: 'Send the money as soon as possible. I'll wait up for it."

This done, she sat down at the piano and, with shaking hands and voice, began to play and sing. She calculated that ten minutes at the most would see her out of her terrible dilemma. She could not leave the room without passing by the screen; all she could do was to appear as if she did not know what stood behind her. Her voice got weaker and shakier every minute, though she hoped the ruffian would wait for the fictitious 4,000 roubles. But 15, 20, 25 minutes passed and there was no sign of help. She feared the wretch would suspect her. She determined to ring up the police and ask for help in French, trusting to the chance that one of the inspectors might understand her. Again she went to the phone, rang up and gave the necessary number. But the ruffian behind the screen knew the number, too; pushing down the screen, he rushed forward, knife in hand, upon the defenseless woman. She tried to wrench the weapon from him, but in vain. He pointed the knife at her and struck. Happily it clashed against a large metal buckle she wore on her belt. With an oath he raised it again—it was within an inch of her heart when the sound of breaking glass arrested the murderer's hand. He looked around—a soldier's head appeared in the broken window. Flinging down his knife he made for the door, only to fall into the arms of another soldier.

The doctor's wife was found on the floor unconscious. The wretch who had all but murdered her was known to the police as one of the most desperate characters in the town, wanted for several crimes.

FORMER LOVER RETURNS AND ELOPES WITH BRIDE

SWEETHEART OF GIRL'S YOUTH TURNS UP AND STOPS PROPOSED WEDDING.

Nashville, S. D.—Frank Bachelder, who mysteriously disappeared from the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Bachelder, in Harding county, 12 years ago, and who was long believed to be dead, returned to his old home a few days ago just in time to carry off Miss Katherine Claussen, the sweetheart of his youth, and prevent her marriage to Edward Pritchett.

Invitations to Miss Claussen's marriage to Pritchett had been issued by her parents, the young lady's trousseau was ready and all preparations for the celebration of the nuptials had been made. The wedding was to take place at eight o'clock in the evening a few days later at the home of the bride's parents.

But on the day before Bachelder appeared on the scene and as a result the nuptials were not celebrated.

After visiting the home of his parents and revealing his identity the young man went to the home of Miss Claussen, convinced now that he was her old lover and begged her to jilt Pritchet and marry aim.

The young woman was overjoyed to see him again and it was not difficult for him to persuade her to elope with him.

Without saying a word to the members of her own family or anybody else of what she intended to do Miss Claussen packed her wedding gown and other clothing in a trunk and prepared to run away with Bachelder. That night Bachelder called at her home and she told her family she was going with him to the home of a neighbor to make a call.

She did not return and her parents became uneasy. A messenger was sent to the home of the neighbor. He returned and reported that she had not been there.

Then her mother went to her room and found a note written by Miss Claussen, in which she said she was going to run away with Bachelder, "the man she had loved and promised to marry when she was young and the man she still loved better than any other in all the world."

Bachelder said he ran away from his parents' home 12 years ago because he was restless and wanted to go out and see the world and that he had not written to his folks because he had met with reverses and thought it well to let them think he was dead.

Just before his return home he made a small sum of money in Nevada and it was that bit of good fortune that prompted him to come back.

PIG IS BORN WITH TRUNK.

Michigan Freak Resembling Elephant Lives Two Hours.

Fowlerville, Mich.—One of a litter of pigs born on Walt Pedder's farm recently had a head that was combination of elephant and human. The animal lived but two hours.

The pig's body was perfectly formed up to the head. Where the forehead should have been was a trunk about two inches in length. This had a hole in it, through which the animal breathed, and bore a striking resemblance to the trunk of an elephant.

Directly underneath was a large eye, the only one possessed by the freak. The ears were large and on the elephant order.

The lower part of the head strikingly resembles the human face.

Michael Pude has secured the body of the freak and is having it mounted.

All the others in the litter were normal.

Cow Is the Size of a Dog.

Atlanta, Ga.—J. H. Overby, of this city, six months ago bought for one dollar a cow, which as a freak of nature is rapidly becoming famous, so famous that Mr. Overby has refused to sell a half interest in her for $500. Though two years old, and apparently fully developed, the animal is not as large as the average Newfoundland dog. She is 27 inches high and weighs only 75 pounds.

Scores of persons have called at the residence to view the strange freak of nature. She is named "Jessie Brown" in honor of "Brown Resale," a cow that was sold at the world's fair in Chicago for $21,000.

DAME FASHION'S EDICTS REVEALED AT HORSE SHOW

Boxes and Auxiliaries Filled With Society Folk of the City and Surrounding Towns.

MANY STRIKING GOWNS

Sartorial Display as Attractive as the Ring Exhibition— Some of the Notable Costumes.

Efforts on the part of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club to make the fourth annual horse show the most successful in its history met with ready response from local society folk Thursday. When the first class came before the judges in the ring the boxes and auxiliaries were filled with beautifully gowned matrons and maids from Plainfield, Newark, Morristown, the Oranges and Bernardsville. The cold and somewhat windy weather was not conducive to summer costumes, and as a result most of those in evidence were confined to tailor made suits and wraps.

Mrs. Reginald C. Vanderbilt visited in various boxes during the afternoon. She was attired in a brown and cream stripe, tailor made, set off by a brown hat.

Mrs. C. F. Lowe made a striking appearance in a purple marquisette, with pale blue ruff, and a purple hat trimmed with pink and blue roses.

Another notable costume was worn by Miss Edith Smalley, a bellotrope broadcloth, empire princess; black hat and shaded plumes.

Among the most attractive gowns in the auxiliaries were the following:

Mrs. W. J. Buttfield—Pearl gray tailor made; black hat, yellow trimming.

Mrs. Daniel F. Ginna—Amethyst broadcloth and black hat.

Mrs. Townsend Rushmore—White broadcloth; black hat with black plumes.

Miss Margaret McCutchen—Brown marquisette with brown cuff; Leghorn hat trimmed with roses.

Mrs. Leon Moran—Blue foulard, green hat and green trimmings.

Mrs. Henry C. Irons—Black tailor made gown; black hat, with couple plumes.

Mrs. J. C. Gilbert—Blue Eton; burnt straw hat, with shaded blue trimmings.

Miss Trottie Smith, Mrs. L. E. Waring and Mrs. E. S. Cooley all wore white Shetland and white hats.

Mrs. George P. Mellick—Gray radium; black hat trimmed with lilacs.

Mrs. Charles J. Fisk—Blue silk Eton with black straw hat.

Miss Detweiler—Black broadcloth, black hat trimmed with large white flowers.

Miss Edith Mellick—Brown rajah, brown hat trimmed with buttercups.

Mrs. A. L. Otterson—Black silk, black hat with large white plumes.

Miss Ursula Rowland—White serge Prince Chap suit, white hat, large pink roses and pink plumes.

Mrs. W. E. Stewart—Black silk, hat of violets.

Mrs. Rufus Story Rowland—Blue serge, black hat with pale blue roses.

Miss Frances Martin—Gray pongee, white hat with white roses.

Miss Lucy Otterson—White camel's hair, large white sailor with black wings.

Mrs. John Atkinson Thayer—Blue chiffon cloth over black and white check silk, leghorn hat trimmed with dark blue plume secured with cluster of pastel roses.

Mrs. George A. Beaton—Biege broadcloth with ecru hat bound with black, trimmed with brown plumes.

Miss Helen Bushnell—Blue Panama suit, ecru hat, trimmed with red roses.

Among those noticed in the boxes or promenading were Mr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Corlies, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Stewart, Mrs. Edward M. Van Buren, Mrs. R. S. Ackerman, Mrs. Daniel Runkle, Mrs. Robert Rushmore, Mrs. Walter McGee, E. T. Bedford, William G. Rockefeller, Harry T. Peters, George G. Haven, Jr., J. E. Davis, George Watson, Jr., and K. B. Shiley.

Lip Reading Spelling Bee.

New York, June 10.—Perhaps the most novel school exercise ever held in New York city were those which yesterday closed the term of the New York School for the Hard of Hearing, at No. 156 Fifth avenue. The chief feature was a "spelling bee," and yet no sound was heard. It was a lip reading bee, in which instead of spelling the words the contestants read them from the lips of Edward B. Nitchie, the principal. Even difficult words and sentences were understood. There were match contests with words and sentences and all the pupils seemed to enjoy it. Both the children of the regular school classes and the adult lip reading pupils took part. The final contest for the championship was won by Mrs. J. F. Hammond by three points.

SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS AFTER AUTOMOBILISTS

WILL KEEP STRICT WATCH FOR CHAIN TIRES ON COUNTY ROADS.

The Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders Friday, at a special meeting, got after the rich colony of Bernardsville people, who will pass over the improved country road from Somerville to Belle Mead today in their huge touring cars on the way to Princeton to attend the baseball game with the Yale team.

The Board authorized Clerk Stephen to communicate with Inspector Thompson, State Inspector of Automobiles, requesting him to enforce to the limit the State law "respecting the use of chain tires and speed, especially on Saturday, June 8, and particularly on the road from Somerville to Belle Mead."

At the last big game at Princeton hundreds of big cars from Bernardsville, Morristown and other places, where the "smart set" whiles away the time, passed over this thoroughfare at breakneck speed, utterly disregarding the State law, and using chain wheels, much to the detriment of the roads. The Board is determined to stop this disregard for public thoroughfares. Many of the farmers living on the road from Somerville to Belle Mead are afraid to venture on the highway on a day when the "push" is hastening to Tigertown to an athletic contest.

The Somerset Freeholders also had a joint meeting with the Middlesex Board at the Franklin Park Hotel, after going over the road recently macadamized from Franklin Park to New Brunswick. Organization was effected by the election of Mr. Pownall, of New Brunswick, president, and Arthur P. Sutphen, of Somerville, secretary. Mr. Codington was the only member of the Somerset Board absent.

Engineer Doughty, of Somerset, reported in regard to the construction of the road, making a statement of the contract price and payments made, all of this showing that a balance of $1,833.64, which is 5 per cent. of the contract, was still due the builders.

It was decided to accept the road and that each county pay over half the balance.

The road was then divided for the convenience of members of the boards in reference to future repairs, Middlesex assumes the care of 5½ miles of the road, beginning at New Brunswick and Somerset the Franklin Park section of the same length.

Takes Over Copper Claims.

The Bunker claims in the rich copper country in the Cunningham Pass section of the Ellsworth district, Yuma county, Arizona, have been taken over by the Harcuver Copper Company, of the directorate of which Amos Andrews, of this city, is a member. Mr. Andrews is travelling in the West now.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

Mme. Melba announces that the demands for her autographs are so numerous that she will henceforth only sell them for half a crown a piece (62c), donating the receipts to charity.

President Arthur T. Hadley, of Yale, is the author of the second book to appear in the new American Social Progress Series under the general editorship of Prof. Samuel McCune Lindsay. "Standards of Public Morality" is the title of President Hadley's book.

Daniel Frederick Shriner, of Dayton, O., has a record unequalled by any other man in the country. During his seventy-one years he has established thirty-six newspapers, thirty-two of which still survive. And Mr. Shriner is himself still in the business, at present in Dayton, where he runs a fair-sized printing establishment.

The oldest living human being of authentic record is Mrs. Mary Wood, of Hillsboro, Ore., a few miles west of Portland. Mrs. Wood is 120 years old. She was born in Knoxville, Tenn., May 20, 1787, which the records of Knoxville will still show. When she was 40 years old she rode the entire distance across the continent from her old home in Tennessee to her present home in Oregon.

Killed by Falling Trunk.

New York, June 10.—Felomeno Brunc, eleven years old, of No. 290 Front street, was almost crushed to death last night when a trunk fell from an express wagon crossing the Brooklyn Bridge, above the arch, at Vandewater and Frankfort streets, where she was standing. Felomeno was on her way to St. Gregory's Hospital to visit a schoolmate, who had been injured in the street and taken to the hospital yesterday morning. At the arch she met a group of children and stopped to tell them of her mission. It was early in the evening, when the Bridge was thronged with traffic. As she was about to leave the other children a trunk weighing 130 pounds topped from an express wagon 100 feet above and crashed to the pavement. It struck the child squarely.

STILL TALKING PAVING

Board of Trade Keeps Sturdily at Its Pet Topic.

WOULD GINGER COUNCIL

One Member Says City Fathers Lack Sand—W. L. Saunders Offers Explanation of Absence of Permanent Pave.

The paving question was again discussed by the Board of Trade, at Its June meeting, Thursday. The members were unanimous in condemning delay on the part of the Council, and a resolution flatly en*dorsing brick as the material to be* used on the streets was passed. Arrangements were made to send as big a delegation of members as possible to the next public hearing on the permanent pavement proposition, and to give vigorous utterance to the sentiment of the Board on the question.

The meeting was as animated as the last half a dozen sessions. A score of the prominent members were present, including former Mayor William L. Saunders, of North Plainfield.

L. B. Woolston brought the pavement question before the Board in form for discussion by moving that it was the sense of the members present that the Common Council should adopt brick as the permanent paving material. The motion was later amended with his consent to include an injunction to hasten the laying of the pavement.

The members agreed that the Council was not conserving the interests of the city by delaying the pavement project. Some form of pavement was wanted as quickly as it could be laid; the time for leisurely consideration of the subject had passed.

F. T. Dunham, who was a member of the committee appointed to represent the Board at the last public hearing, said there was no use discussing the question longer. It had been discussed by the Board for years, and the thing to do now was to insist that the Council lay some permanent pavement and accept durability without further shilly-shallying. He favored brick, he said, but was not wedded to it. The main objection to brick, that of the noise it gave out when wagons rolled over it, he knew had been met by a system of laying that reduced the noise to hardly anything.

L. B. Woolston said he was disgusted with the action of the Council at the last meeting. He couldn't see that it was done with good judg*ment, or in an honest effort to ad*vance the city's good. The work ought to be started without delay he said. Plainfield had outgrown macadam.

The real trouble with the Council, Charles W. Runyon said, was that it lacked sand. The members were afraid to put the ordinance through last Monday night because of the additional cost of the North avenue work.

If that was the case, President Marshall observed, it might be a good thing to get rid of some of the councilmen, if permanent pavement was wanted.

Former Mayor Saunders spoke vigorously in favor of brick. He had often wondered, he said, why the streets were not paved with some ordinar material, and the only explanation that suggested itself was that men in the stone-crushing business controlled the situation. As for the pavement that ought to be laid, brick was recognized and accepted all over, especially in municipalities of Plainfield's size, as an undoubted success. It had been subjected to the test of years and found good. Moreover, it was the only logical choice to make. It was the essence of good engineering to accomplish the *desired pur*pose at the least expense. Brick met that requirement. Other pavements might be just as good, but brick was the cheapest of the proved successful and durable pavements. The objection to the noise Mr. Saunders regarded as unworthy of serious consideration. If Broadway or some such thoroughfare were to be paved with it, the objection might have some weight, but in a town of this size, where there was practically no rapid traffic, where the streets were narrow, compelling what traffic there was to congest and move slowly, the objection fell to the ground; espe*cially in view of the improved* methods of laying.

Mr. Saunders said he had been surprised to learn that the Board was not represented at the public hearing by speakers to set forth the views expressed last night, in terms vigorous enough to impress the council*men. The Board should be so* represented, he said. At his suggestion, Secretary Feickert was instructed to write cards to all the members urging them to attend the next hearing on pavements in the Council chamber.

After B. Frank Coriell had ex*pressed his belief that the Council* had "bitten off more than it could chew" in the pavement question, with which opinion Mr. Woolston promptly and pithily disagreed, the Woolston resolution was unanimously passed. In his cards to the members, Secretary Feickert will lay the resolution before them, and ask all those in agreement with the idea to appear before the Council and support it.

James L. Brownlee, of Putnam avenue, who is connected with a wood block pavement company, spoke on that style of pavement. He said it was the best, but did not urge it unreservedly on the city. He thought it might be as well for a city in Plainfield's position (sorry some other, principally because of the cost. Wood block was more expensive than other pavements.

A. S. Herr, head of the Plainfield Business College, who was elected to the Board at the last meeting, asked for the body's moral support for his *institution. He said it was being con*ducted as a public institution, and was working to advance Plainfield and the business world. He invited the Board to use a large room in the school for public meetings. President Marshall said that he believed the Board would be making no mistake in lending its moral support to the school by appearing at the public opening to be held by the school this month in the new rooms in the Woodhull & Martin building.

Following the reading of a communication from Mayor Fisk, in which he approved the Board's suggestion that it place cans about the business district for the depositing therein of waste paper and refuse that pedestrians now throw into the streets, it was voted to buy twelve such cans. They will be located by Street Commissioner Hand and Secretary Feickert. The city will dispose of the rubbish deposited in them. More cans will be bought if the experiment warrants the expenditure. The cans cost $2.30 apiece.

A. P. Force suggested that it was time action was taken to prevent the burning of rubbish by householders and business men in back yards and alleys. President Marshall said that Health Officer Thurlow was preparing an ordinance designed to remedy that evil, also to prevent the burning of leaves in the street.

Contributions of $50 from the Niles-Bement-Pond Company, $15 from the Potter Press Works, and $25 from the water company were announced. The P. S. C. wrote it couldn't contribute to the publicity fund, because if it did in this instance it would have to do the same whenever any of the other 150 municipalities in which it did business made the request. The Perrin Glove Company, Washington avenue, wrote that it didn't feel like contributing because the Board hadn't supported it as the company thought it should be supported when the question of erecting a retaining wall along the brook arose between the company and city, and that action had been forgotten when the pamphlet committee made up its list of Plain*field industries, informed the Board* that as it was too small to be remembered then it was too insignificant to be noticed at all.

A communication from the Western Foundry Supply Company, of East St. Louis, Mo., asking for information as to available factory accomodations, was received. Negotiations are now pending to locate the company here.

The following new members were elected: C. L. Riley, G. H. Isaacs, Worth & Marsh, John E. Dunn, Dr. A. H. Dundon, J. H. Doane, W. V. Mundy, C. E. Rice, Philip Jahn.

LAWRENCE FAHN, JR., WEDS MISS BERTHA FRAZEE.

Ceremony Performed at Bride's Home in the Presence of Many Friends.

Miss Bertha Frazee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frazee, of Elmwood place, and Lawrence Fahn, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Fahn, of the borough, were married last week at the home of the bride's parents by Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel. The ceremony was witnessed by a company of fifty people, relatives and near friends of the couple.

The bride was gowned in white silk, trimmed with lace, and carried a bouquet of bride roses. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Florence Maccan, who wore a gown of embroidered organdie over white silk and carried pink carnations. The best man was B. Harrison Fahn, brother of the groom.

The house was attractively decorated with ferns, potted plants and an effective arrangement was an arch of bride roses, beneath which the bridal party stood during the cere*mony*.

The bride received a great many gifts of use and value, including silverware, cut-glass and furniture. After a short trip the couple will reside for the present with the bride's parents. The groom is employed at the Rushmore Dynamo Works.

June Burr McIntosh Monthly.

Many of the stage favorites are given prominence in the June number of the Burr McIntosh Monthly. The cover is in colors from a photograph of Margaret Anglin, who is without doubt the most prominent emotional actress of the day. The frontispiece is also in colors, portraying Miss Blanche Ring in the popular light opera, "The Orchid." Forbes Robertson, Gertrude Elliott, Virginia Harned, Maxine Elliott and Pauline Frederick are among those of the popular stage folk portrayed. The landscape feature of this issue is unusually attractive, some superb photographic reproductions being shown. This issue is summery in its make-up and will entirely please all lovers of this popular magazine.

HORSE SHOW EXHIBITORS GUESTS OF DRIVING CLUB

Annual Dinner in their Honor Given With Great Success at the Casino Last Night.

MAYOR FISK PRESIDES

Vaudeville Entertainment and Speeches a Feature of the Program—Colonel Jay's Witty Address.

The annual dinner in connection with the horse show being held under the auspices of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, was given at the Casino, Friday, for the exhibitors and a number of their friends. It afforded a jolly good time for everyone and it was early this morning when the affair terminated. An excellent dinner was served under the direction of David Shay, steward at the Plainfield Country Club, after which there were speeches.

The feature of the evening was the vaudeville entertainment planned by a committee consisting of Lewis E. Waring, Joseph M. Shellabarger and George A. Beaton. The artists were from the Keith-Proctor circuit and they gave a number of clever sketches in the song and dance line, and musical specialties. A trio of Japanese acrobats also pleased the guests with their fine performance. The vaudeville continued while the dinner was being served, after which the speech-making began. Mayor Charles J. Fisk presided as toastmaster and he introduced the various speakers.

Wilfred Jay, of "The Rider and Driver," started the ball a-rolling. He said: "Thank you for calling upon me. I had always thought all hope of speaking here tonight, but the fact of the matter is, if you had not called on me I would have got up and spoke anyway. If there is any one time that I am to be taken se*riously and at the same time to be* believed it is when I am silent, but this is an occasion where I feel compelled to speak right out in meeting.

"Down here near the calm of the Watchung Valley there is a voice raised to acclaim of good fellowship that may well be echoed down through the horse show welkin and I don't think that it is an extraordinary or exaggerated statement when I say that we are probably the most happy and contented individuals who have had the good fortune to commune with an equine monument such as this. Now that was rather a long speech for a poor speaker. I was going to say—bad speaker, but my egotism would not permit it.

"Happy, happy, is the community whose bell wether has so congenial a flock who like our late lamented lassie, "Edna May," advised in her song, "Follow On, Follow On," and in doing so find their faith rewarded with an achievement such as yours. You have had lots of nice things said about you and you deserve them. There is very little left to express *either by an ingenious or studied or*ator. Unfortunately, I am not in the harness business or I might become interesting.

"To go back to the impossibility of complimenting the Plainfield Horse Show, and its local champions, the only gratifying observation that I think might be judiciously indulged in is—That if Long Branch don't look out it will be a case of 'Casey at The Bat.'"

Among the other speakers were Dr. Earl Budd, of Morristown; Edwin S. Hooley, Dr. C. Shirley Carter, J. E. Davis, all exhibitors and several other guests. There was a genuine feeling of good fellowship and all agreed that the annual horse show of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club was "the best ever."

At a late hour, after the Knights of Columbus carnival was over, some of the specialties were brought to the Casino and entertained the whilies.

All of the exhibitors were much pleased with the hospitality of the club and the treatment accorded at the show and gave expression to their feelings of appreciation.

AUTOMOBILES COLLIDE AT SCOTCH PLAINS

F. A. POPE'S CAR PUTS SPRINGFIELD MACHINE OUT OF COMMISSION.

F. A. Pope's "Thomas Flyer" in charge of a colored chauffeur, was in collision with an automobile from Springfield, at the junction of Front street and Park avenue, Scotch Plains, Friday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock, and the machine from Springfield was put out of commission.

According to those who saw the accident, the Plainfield machine was running along Park avenue at a lively speed, and the driver failed to slow down as he approached the corner. Coming in the opposite direction was the car from Springfield, under reduced speed, it is said. The two cars met at the corner, but the Springfield man turned his machine to one side, thus avoiding a direct head-on collision. When the mixup was straightened out, it was learned that the Springfield auto was badly crippled. Mr. Pope's machine was able to proceed. There was an exchange of names, with a promise to make proper settlement for damages.

THE ROUSEHOLD LINEN.

The first thing to consider are towels. Hand towels should be of linen-huckaback and are much better bought by the yard and made with a narrow hemstitch hem. The size of the towel when finished should be eighteen by twenty-seven inches. A single half-inch letter should be placed the width of the hem above it in the centre of the ends.

Large towels of linen huckaback are twenty-four by forty inches, either hemstitched or scalloped at both ends, or one end hemstitched and the other scalloped.

The hems should be two and one-half inches deep, with a single letter three inches high placed three inches from the hem.

Damask towels usually have scalloped ends and are twenty-four by forty inches. A monogram with letters three inches high is placed in the centre about three inches from the hem.

For linen sheets and pillow cases select a heavy round-thread tenquarter sheeting. The hem should be two and a half inches deep. Monograms placed of a single letter should be used and they should be about three inches high and placed two and a half inches above centre of hem.

In table linens a new departure is to have the initials of the host placed directly above his plate or at the left*hand corner, and the initials of the* hostess in the corresponding corner. The napkins should match, though the monogram should not be more than half an inch high.

LIQUOR LICENSES HELD UP.

Elizabeth Excise Board Wants Opinion on Screens.

Elizabeth, June 10.—That the Grand Jury has thrown a scare into the Board of Excise was apparent at the last meeting when the board refused to act on applications for renewals of licenses from nineteen place conducted as inns and taverns. The board decided that it must have a report on the equipment of these places from the license inspector before taking action.

An opinion received from City Attorney Connolly was partly responsible for this move by the excise commissioners. The opinion set forth that taverns as at present designated as in and tavern it did not have the right to maintain screens on Sundays unless it also had ten spare rooms as reuired by the Bishops' act. The fact that a place was an inn and tavern under the general law, which requires only two spare rooms, does not allow it to keep screens in the windows on the days prohibited by law, the city attorney said.

"I would state in conclusion," the opinion said, "that it is the duty of your board to grant license for inns and taverns to those only who comply with the inns and tavern act, and it might be made a part of the duties of the license inspector to report to your board in all cases whether applicants for such licenses are in accordance with the provisions of the stature.

STOLE WOMAN'S MONEY.

Officials in a Mix-up Getting Prisoner to Jail.

Edward Linke, of Bound Brook, was lodged in jail at New Brunswick Saturday morning, charged with attacking a oman named Lizzie Wells in Pleasant Runway and taking her pocketbook, in which was $4.25.

Mrs. Wells complained to the Bound Brook authorities and Linke was arrested and taken before Justice La Rue. In the hearing it developed that the attack had been made just out of Bound Brook, a few feet over the Middlesex county line, in Piscataway township. The case consequently could not be handled in Bound Brook, which is in Somerset county.

A HOME WEDDING.

Miss Harriet Currie Becomes the Wife of Frederick L. Deyo.

Miss Harriet Currie, of Arlington avenue, and Frederick Lawrence Deyo, also of this city, were quietly married at 5 Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Percy VanAlstyne, of West Fourth street. The guests included the relatives and near friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Charles L. Goodrich, of the Congregational church. An informal reception followed, during which supper was served. The bride received many gifts.

Mrs. Deyo is well known in a large circle of friends. Mr. Deyo holds a position in the New York office of Manning, Maxwell & Moore. The couple will reside in Brooklyn.

GET GIRL'S ASSAILANTS

Police Make an Important Capture for the Authorities at Elizabeth.

NABBED JUST IN TIME

Trio Had Made Arrangements to Continue Their Flight to Buffalo—One of Them Confesses to Chief Kiely.

Just as they had completed plans for a journey to Buffalo, N. Y., to continue flight from the Elizabeth police, three tough young men who were sought by the authorities of Elizabeth for a brutal assault on a fourteen-year-old girl were captured in this city Monday afternoon. The prisoners, William Dickson, John Damogar and Henry Althoff, all about twenty-one years old, were caught in a house on East Fourth street by Patrolmen John Kelly and Cornelius McCarthy.

The assault with which they are charged took place a month ago. The girl was taken out in a boat at Elizabethport, and the three men abused her so brutally as to leave her in a dangerous condition. They escaped, and the police of Elizabeth scoured this section for them in vain.

Chief Kiely, with other police heads of New Jersey and New York, had been on the job in the search for them, and he kept at work on the case. Monday afternoon he gained the clue he sought, and traced the trio to the Fourth street house.

He had the place watched, and sent word to Elizabeth. Chief Tenney, of that place, dispatched Detectives Richard Mattison to this city with the necessary warrants. A while after that it was learned that Althoff had returned to the house, and Chief Kiely sent Kelly to place him under arrest. Kelly's instructions were to keep his prisoner in the house until the other two came in, and make the captures complete.

Althoff was sitting on the porch in his stocking feet when the officer approached. He took fright at Kelly's appearance, and bolted indoors. Kelly covered the short distance between him and the house in time to se Althoff run down into the cellar. Kelly followed him, and caught him as he tried to get out at the rear.

Kelly took the prisoner upstairs to his room and waited. A few minutes later Patrolman McCarthy, with the Elizabeth detective, reached the house and joined Kelly in the room. They had not long to wait before Dickson and Damogar came in, one after the other. Their capture was accomplished speedily and without trouble.

At the station house Monday night Althoff, breaking down under examination by Chief Kiely, made a full confession. His statement exonerated a married man who was arrested for the crime in Elizabeth. The victim identified that man as one of her assailants, but Althoff and his companions said Monday that he had nothing to do with the crime.

The trio are said to be members of the notorious Dutch Ides gang. They are expected to receive heavy sentences.

ELECTRICITY FROM THE BURNING OF REFUSE

ONE OF SEVERAL PROPOSITIONS OFFERED THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Edmond G. F. de Haas Maxwell, who set forth in his petition to the Common Council, at the adjourned meeting, Monday, that he is a citizen of the United States, a civil engineer and a representative of the United States Construction Company, of No. 41 Wall street, New York, made a startling proposition to the city to furnish light and heat by electricity through the burning of refuse, provided the Common Council would give him at least two acres of land free, and an exclusive franchise to erect and maintain an incineration plant.

He agreed to remove dead animals, organic matter, and all refuse, except from private residences and private or public buildings, destroy it by his system and furnish the city street lights of sixteen candle power illuminating gas at $15 per year for each light. He asked for the privilege of stringing wires, laying conduits, etc., and agreed at the end of twenty-five years to sell the plant to the city at a price to be agreed upon. He further agreed to furnish metal top wagons for the collection of all refuse and other stuff to be burned and to place metal cans about the city for the collection of waste material, all bi-products to be available for the city's use free.

The communication was a lengthy one, setting forth in detail just what the petitioner agreed to do for the many privileges asked for. It was referred to the committee on public affairs for further consideration.

This is the same construction company that has undertaken building contracts in this city before, and intended to construct the proposed ice and cold storage plant at Watchung, a story concerning which was published at some length in The Daily Press several months ago.

MILLIKEN BROTHERS FAIL

Big Structural Steel Concern Dragged Down By a Light Money Market.

RECEIVER ASKED FOR

Former Plainfielder the Head of the Organization—Had Many Important Contracts.

With more orders on its books than ever before in its history and with its big steel factory at Mariners' Harbor, Staten Island, running night and day, the firm of Milliken Brothers, structural steel manufacturers with business in all parts of the globe, went into bankruptcy Monday, with liabilities of $6,500,000. Of this enormous total, $3,500,000 of the debts are unsecured, and the remainder is secured by a first mortgage on the factory on Staten Island. The Milliken family has always been identified with Plainfield and Mrs. Samuel F. Milliken, mother of Foster Milliken, president of the company, resides with her daughter, Mrs. DeGraff, of Central avenue.

Holding court in the Century Club New York, last night, Judge Holt, of the United States Circuit Court, heard arguments for two hours for the appointment of a receiver. No decision was reached, but announcement will be made by him today as to the man to be selected.

Lack of working capital and an ability to borrow necessary funds because of big loans already negotiated from various banks, coupled with the tight money market, are the causes assigned for the failure.

There will be no cessation in the work in hand, it was stated last night. The receiver will make every possible effort to carry out the gigantic plans of the concern and to float it to a substantial basis. That it should go on the shoals at a time when its apparent prosperity was a source of marvel to the business world, and when orders for steel and construction work were coming in from China, Japan, the West Indies, and Mexico, as well as from many parts of America, caused astonishment in business circles generally and produced mild alarm.

Among the big contracts now being filled by the firm is one for its model plant in the front yard of New York, as it was often said, are the structural work for the forty-one story Singer Building, at Broadway and Liberty street; the Pennsylvania terminal and several sugar plantations in Cuba and other parts of the West Indies.

Application for an involuntary petition in bankruptcy was made by the law firm of McDonald & Bostwick, representing creditors holding claims amounting to only $15,904. The attorneys whom they represent, as give in in the petition, are the Niles-Bement-Pond Company, with a claim of $11,628; Snyder & Black, $403; John A. Roebling Sons' Company, $2,950, and Robert W. Hunt & Co., $923. No names were given as to the larger creditors, of whom there is a large number. It is supposed, however, that the United States Steel Company is one of the corporations holding a big claim. From this company Milliken Brothers purchased much of the big iron used in their steel factory. They also bought large quantities of pig iron in the open market.

Founded more than fifty years ago, the business passed into the hands of Foster and Edward F. Milliken, in 1882, when the founder, Samuel Milliken, died. For several years prior to 1883 the firm was known as Milliken, Smith & Co. Up to 1890 the firm confined its attention to iron commission business, but after that it began iron and steel contracting and installation, making rapid progress. It established branches in Pittsburg, San Francisco, Havana, Mexico, Honolulu, Johannesburg and Cape Town. The business became so large that it was incorporated in May, 1902, with a capital stock of $2,000,000, which was increased in July, 1903, to $4,000,000, and again in January, 1907, to $5,000,000.

One of the reasons given for the incorporation was that a firm, in case of the death of one of the partners, it might lead to legal complications. Edward F. Milliken became president of the corporation, which was organized under New York laws. Foster Milliken was elected vice-president, and Francis Dykes secretary and treasurer. Edward F. Milliken died last November in the Adirondacks, from pneumonitis and was succeeded by Foster Milliken as president, with Henry S. Manning vice president.

Officers of the corporation at the present time are: Foster Milliken, president; Francis Dykes, secretary and directors, Foster Milliken, E. F. Milliken, Francis Dykes, H. S. Manning, Andrew Shiland and Herbert B. Shoemaker. The capital stock, authorized and outstanding is $5,500,000, of which $3,000,000 is seven per cent cumulative preferred.

A. H. Enander, the sanitary plumber, of Watchung avenue, contracts to do first class work only. The charges will be found reasonable.

Arthur S. Mosher, violinist, has joined the Bible School Orchestra at the Park Avenue Baptist church.

NORTH AVENUE LEFT OUT

Pavement Ordinance Again Before Council in an Amended Form.

VOTE NOT UNANIMOUS REGARDING PAVEMENT

Bond Issue Also Changed So That Cost of Improvement Is Now Placed at $40,000.

Brick pavement for the business section of the city was again the topic of interest at the adjourned meeting of the Common Council, Monday night. This time the ordinance, as originally offered by Chairman Ginna, of the street committee, was placed on its second reading, after being amended to omit North avenue, between Park and Watchung avenues, from the streets intended to be paved. However, this avenue was not left out without objection.

Mr. Gloak moved to adopt the ordinance in its original form with North avenue included, but Mr. Ginna's motion took precedence and was adopted, Councilmen Ginna, Mellick, Montgomery, C. C. Randolph, Tyler and Daniel voting in favor and Councilmen Gloak and Frank Randolph against the amendment.

The amendment was made in section one, and another amendment in section two of the ordinance was also made so as to change the total bond issue from $47,000 to $40,000, and the number of bonds and their time of expiration. Originally the ordinance called for an issue of $47,000, which included $7,000 for paving North avenue. By omitting the avenue, it brought the cost down to $40,000, and Mr. Ginna's amendment provided that on September 1, 1910, there shall be four bonds due, and a like number due September 1, 1911, and from 1912 to 1918 there shall be two bonds due each year, and from 1919 to 1924 three bonds each year. In response to a question from Mr. Gloak, Mr. Ginna stated that the amendment was drawn by and met the approval of Corporation Counsel Lewis. He stated further that by this method the city would get between $10,000 and $12,000 from the Public Service Corporation, when the assessments are returned, and this would be an advantage. The ordinance also makes provisions for the appointment of commissioners by the court to assess benefits and damages, as originally proposed. The ordinance was finally adopted on second reading as amended and Mr. Ginna's motion prevailed that the city clerk give the usual two weeks' notice that it is the intention of the Common Council to adopt it at the regular July meeting when a public hearing will be granted.

After this action had been taken Mr. Montgomery stated that he wanted it understood that he still favored brick pavement for North avenue and if someone would offer a supplementary ordinance covering that avenue he would vote for it.

His colleagues who have from the first favored pavement for North avenue, were disappointed at Mr. Montgomery's action in not voting to retain North avenue in the original ordinance, when he had an opportunity to vote that way, but he explained that his only idea in voting for the amended ordinance was that he was afraid that by not doing so he might defeat the permanent pavement improvement entirely for this year.

It appeared to be the opinion of people outside of the Common Council that the amended ordinance would not be adopted on third reading and that there is still a possibility of the improvement being held up for this year, at least.

LOCAL ASSOCIATION WANTS PUBLIC PARKS

PLAN SUGGESTED HAS THE ENDORSEMENT OF MAYOR FISK.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk referred to the Common Council, at its adjourned meeting, Monday, a communication received from the Town Improvement Association, of Plainfield and North Plainfield, in which the association urged the setting apart of certain land to be used as public squares or parks for the city's use. It was stated that at the present rate of building it will not be long before it will be impossible to get land for the purposes required.

The association agreed to lay out and care for such property designated as parks, as in the present case of Plainfield's park on West Eighth street. It further urged the establishment of playgrounds for children and that the Public Service Corporation be requested to paint all of its poles an inconspicuous dark green, and advocated reform in the matter of certain posters placed on the bill boards about the city.

Mayor Fisk placed his stamp of approval on the park idea and suggested that land on West Front street, near Rock avenue, be acquired for a park in that part of the city. He said that owing to its location it would never be used for building purposes and would be an ideal place for a city park.

TURNS STATE'S EVIDENCE

Joseph Hummell Testifies that He Fired Cornish Property at Chas. T. Vail's Direction.

MISS GILLEN IN COURT

Plainfield Woman, Under Indictment, Listens Calmly to the Story Told by the Witness.

Former Postmaster Charles T. Vail, at one time a well-known resident of this city, was placed on trial at Flemington Monday afternoon on an indictment charging him with burning the Cornish store property at West Portal, on February 24 last.

Joseph S. Hummell, who acted as Vail's assistant, who was indicted with Vail, was the first witnessed called, and caused a sensation by playing State's evidence. He admitted he set fire to the building at Vail's direction.

Miss Ellen Gillen, of Plainfield, who bought the property from Vail a few days prior to its destruction, and who was indicted with Vail and Hummell, was seated by the side of the ex-postmaster. She listened attentively to Hummell's story how he had poured kerosene about the store and pried over the red hot stove with a heavy oak stick; how he ran for water, stumbled and let the first bucket of water fall before he reached the building, and how Vail had taken the bolts from the stove so as to let it topple over and burn her building.

The building and contents were entirely destroyed. There was $2,000 insurance on the stock and $3,700 on the building.

Hummell was still on the stand when court adjourned. He said at Vail's request he poured kerosene on the floor and on the counters. He said he placed two bottles of coal in the stove. After it became heated he upset the stove in the direction of the oiled counter and touched a match to some waste that had been provided for the purpose.

Previous to that Hummell said he took two bottles of coal from the stove in a shovel and held the shovel beneath the calf of his leg until his trousers and underwear had burned through. This Hummell said was to show that the stove had fallen on him.

Under cross-examination Hummell said he had known Vail about eight years, had always been his friend and was not now his foe. He had lied when he testified before the investigation to the accident story. The State, he said, had offered him to Hennecy. When court adjourned Vail's bondsmen surrendered him and he was locked up. Vail has been living in Plainfield since he was first arrested.

Plainfielders at Society Wedding.

Mr. and Mrs. P. Newton Drake and daughter, Miss Elsie Drake, of the borough, were among the guests who attended the wedding of Miss Frances Dinwiddie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Montte Dinwiddie Smith, and Henry Newton Walker, which took place at the home of the bride's parents, 190 Prospect street, Brick Church, East Orange, last week. The affair was a society event and was largely attended by prominent people from New York, Brooklyn, Newark and the Oranges.

GROWTH OF RELIGIOUS WORK IN THE EAST END

ADDITION TO FAITH CHAPEL WILL AID IN THE EFFORTS OF ITS OFFICIALS.

The growing need of religious work in the East End of the city, which is being met by the earnest workers at Faith chapel, has necessitated the building of an addition to the chapel building. This work is now underway and will be completed in a short time. It is intended to provide suitable quarters for the Baraca Class, a Bible class for men, and the Ladies' Bible class. The men's class has a membership of forty-five and the women's class a membership of twenty-one. It will also provide a room for holding prayer meetings.

This work was started ten years ago where the chapel is located, by the organization of a Sunday-school class of sixteen. The present membership including the Home Department is 230, while the church membership is seventy-five and constantly growing. Rev. J. W. Musson, who has been the pastor for three years, has had great success in his work. He is a graduate of Crozier Theological Seminary, being one of five students standing the highest in that school. He is an able and efficient preacher and pastor. On Sunday a Junior Baraca Class will be organized for boys and L. W. Randolph will be the teacher. The present trustees are President, C. W. McCutchen; treasurer, E. L. Bonny; secretary, W. A. Conger; U. B. Crane and L. W. Randolph.

For the purpose of aiding the building fund, L. W. Randolph announces that on Saturday he will give the entire receipts from his soda water fountain to that fund. He has issued 3,000 tickets especially for that day and nearly all of them have been sold. However, it will not be necessary to have a ticket to aid in this work. All money received from this source will be given to the fund.

Boice, Runyon & Co., of Park avenue, are constantly receiving a supply of the best anthracite coal and that is the kind the customers get at the lowest market prices.

LIBRARY DIRECTORS REPORT TO THE COUNCIL

PRESENT STATEMENT SHOWING ITS FINANCIAL CONDITION.

According to the usual custom, the directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room presented its annual report to the Common Council at the adjourned meeting, Monday, showing the financial condition and number of volumes received during the year and the total number now at the library.

Under the head of salaries, the total amount reported disbursed was $3,000. The disbursements for periodicals, binding and putting in order periodicals and papers, stationery and printing, fuel and lighting, repairs, insurance, etc., were $2,300, which together with the amount of $2,500 for books, makes a total of $7,800. The receipts, including $7,500 from the city and $300 from fines, makes the total $7,800.

The total number of volumes at the library, including those in the Babcock Library, is 32,366, which comprises 827 books purchased, and 326 acquired by gift. The report was received and filed.

Mr. Mellick called up on third reading his amendment to the ordinance relating to the morals, peace and good order of the city, which provides a penalty for throwing papers, including circulars, etc., about the streets. For violations of the ordinance a fine of $10 may be imposed. The ordinance was adopted on third reading and as soon as the Mayor affixes his signature to it it will be effective.

—The annual dance of the pupils of Leal's School will be held at the Casino on Tuesday night, June 18.

JAIL FOR JOHN ANDERSON

Somerset's Deputy Sheriff Gets Ninety Days for Tampering with Skillman Jury.

IS ALSO FINED $300

Constable Mantz Must Pay $100 and Constable Wyckoff Gets Off With Smaller Amount.

Deputy Sheriff John L. Anderson, a member of one of the oldest and aristocratic families of Somerset county, was Monday sentenced by Judge Theodore Booraem in the Somerset court to serve 90 days in the county jail and to pay a fine of $300 for tampering with the jury which failed to agree upon a verdict in the case of William H. Skillman, the former president of the New Jersey Horticultural Society, who was tried for forging the will of his neighbor, William Lanehart, for the alleged purpose of getting possession of an estate valued at $0,000.

Constable Dennis Wikoff and Amrose Mantz were fined $25 and $1,000, respectively, for allowing Anderson to communicate with the jury while it was in their custody. The court spent the day in hearing evidences in behalf of the prisoners, who were represented by an able group of lawyers. The testimony showed a strong question of fact as between Deputy Sheriff Anderson and several jurors, who swore that Anderson had approached them during the triay. Anderson testified that John H. Horner, a juror, had approached him in a hotel and asked him how much it was worth for a man to hang out on a verdict. Horner took the stand and emphatically denied Anderson's story. He said it was Anderson who had first approached him. Anderson, the witness swore, told him that he had been offered $100 at his house who were all right for Skillman. Judge Booraem discredited Anderson's statement by saying that it did not conform with his suspicions actions in approaching other members of the jury and in calling jurors from the room while the jury was deliberating. The court said that Anderson's action was criminal and that the dignity of the court must be sustained by passing a severe sentence.

Strong influences were brought to bear in behalf of Anderson, and a hard fight to save him is still on. After his sentence he was paroled in the custody of his counsel to give him an opportunity to make immediate application to a judge of the Supreme Court for an appeal. It is believed here today that the court is not yet through with the case, and that there will be more probing to reach the instigator of Anderson's act.

PROBERS FILE REPORT

State Investigating Committee Severe in Condemnation of Some Things.

DAN' VOORHEES RAPPED

Also Declares People Have Been Defrauded By Collusion of Architect and Contractors.

Sweeping changes of the most drastic character in the management of State affairs are recommended in the report of the Assembly investigating committee, which will be submitted to the Legislature today. It was originally intended to submit the report yesterday, but owing to the absence of committeeman Mark A. Sullivan, of Hudson, it was deferred. The report is based upon the evidence adduced by the committee at its sittings during the last six weeks under the Wright resolution.

The document gives a comprehensive review of the main facts in the testimony, and then makes the recommendation which, it is claimed, will correct the evils uncovered. The chief recommendations are as follows:

That the Banking and Insurance Department should make weekly remittances to the State Treasurer; that the funds may be deposited and draw interest, also that the Bond of the Commissioner of Banking and Insurance be increased from $20,000 to $75,000; that a law be enacted requiring all public funds to be deposited in banks paying 2 per cent interest or more; that all State departments be required to turn over all their income to the State Treasurer monthly, and their expenses paid by the Treasurer only on the warrant of the Controller; that absenteeism on the part of well paid State officials should be stopped.

This absenteeism, the report says, warrants the most severe condemnation of the Legislature, and speaks of it as a "patent case of nonfeasance." The "deplorable condition wherein a State official may hold more than one office" should be corrected, the report adds, and the offices of State curator, chief of the State census bureau and the teachers' information bureau, now all held by Silas R. Merse, of Atlantic City, a member of the State Board of Education, and his son, should all be abolished and the work transferred to the State Department of Public Instruction.

The report takes a rap at "Uncle" Dan Voorhees by recommending the enactment of a law prohibiting dual officeholding. It contains a strong recommendation for the abolition of the system of patronage in public office and the establishment of Civil Service under a Civil Service commission. The committee holds that the State Department of Motor Vehicles should be consolidated with the State Road Department. Continuing, the report recommends that the State bureau of labor and statistics and the State Department of Labor be combined. The State Board of Assessors is severely censured.

"The assessors do no assessing," says the report. It recommends the consolidation of the State Board of Assessors and the State Tax Board. It is recommended that the State Sewerage Commission and the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission be established and this work combined with a reorganized board of health. The report holds that the health matters in the State have become of such importance that a State board of health of three members, who shall be paid suitable salaries, should be created. The present board serves without remuneration. The report declares emphatically for the abolition of the State Board of Arbitration. It recommends that the State Voting Machine Commission should be abolished.

Taking up the construction of State buildings, the report says unequivocally that the State has been systematically defrauded by the collusion of Lewis Lawton, of Trenton; George J. Tobin, the favored lumber, and George E. Poole, now the State architect. The alleged destruction of Lawton's books gives the severest censure.

Another recommendation is that the State Fish and Game Commission should be dissolved and a new bureau established having control of fish, game and oysters. The report declares the present commission is a scandal and a disgrace. The report speaks for the abolition of all the oyster commissions, and recommends the creation of one bureau with one chief to manage this work. The useless multiplication of offices comes in for a hard knock. The committee says this should be stopped at once. Petty graft in the legislative Feidental bills is shown up and roundly denounced. The report recommends that all legislative supplies be purchased by the State House Commission under competitive bidding.

HOLY CROSS CHOIR MUSICALE A SUCCESS

DELIGHTFUL PROGEAM WELL RENDERED BEFORE LARGE AUDIENCE.

The second annual musicale by the choir of Holy Cross Protestant Episcopal church, for the benefit of the choir outing fund, was held at the parish house last night. It was largely attended and much enjoyed. The platform was prettily decorated with flowers.

John Bland, of New York, a tenor; Mrs. G. A. Warner, violinist, and Miss Gertrude Lohrke, of East Orange, soprano, assisted the choir. H. Raymond Lorr was the pianist and Mr. Philip Schlich was director.

The program was a delightful one, all the numbers being pretty and well rendered. The choir sang splendidly, and the soloists all won sustained applause.

The program:

Choir chorus—By Babylon's Wave (sacred anthem), Gounod; tenor solo—(a) Ridi Pagliacci, Leoncavello; (b) Harfenmadchens, von Housegger; (c) Als die Alte Mutter," Dvorak, John Bland; choir response, Sweet and Low; soprano solo—(a) Thou'rt Like a Flower, Paul Ambrose; (b) Dreams, Streletzki, Miss Gertrude Lohrke; choir chorus—The Spider and the Fly; violin solo—(a) Ave Maria, C. Gounod, Mrs. G. A. Warner; tenor solo—(a) I Know a Lovely Garden, D'Ardelot; (b) Mother O' Mine, Tours, John Bland; choir chorus—The Miden of the "Fleur De Lys;" soprano solo—(a) When I Am Dying, Norden; (b) Open Secret, Woodman, Miss Gertrude Lohrke.

The program was unexpectedly augmented by the singing of Mr. Byard, who consented to appear almost on the spur of the moment. Mrs. Warner made a change in her number, rendering an air of Tchaikowski's instead of the Mazurka of Wieniawski.

MISS DORA A. BENNETT BRIDE OF WILL S. KENNEY.

Gathering of Guests from Many Places Witness the Ceremony at Her Home.

Miss Dora A. Bennett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Franklin Bennett, of Clinton avenue, and Will Smock Kenney, also of this city, were married Saturday afternoon at the home of the bride's parents at 5 o'clock. Rev. Joseph O. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, performed the ceremony.

The bride was gowned in white net and carried a bouquet of white sweet peas and lilies-of-the-valley. Both the bride and groom were unattended. The wedding marches were played on the piano by Miss Edith A. Redpath and Percy E. Hand. The ushers were William LaTourette and Charles F. Windham.

There were guests present from Hartford, Conn.; East Orange, Jersey City, Raritan, Whitehouse, Stanhope and this place. The bride received a number of gifts, among which was a china closet filled with Limoges china, from the employes of the Fruit Dispatch Company, of New York, by whom the bride was employed for six years. The couple left on a wedding trip, and upon their return will reside here.

DR. GARDNER ACCEPTS.

Will Succeed Rev. Frank Fletcher As Pastor of New Market Church.

After a successful pastorate extending over a period of six years, Rev. George H. Gardner, pastor of the Baptist church, Plantsville, Conn., and a member of the Connecticut Assembly from the town of Southington, has sent his letter of resignation to the trustees of that church and has accepted the call to the New Market Baptist church, to succeed Rev. Frank Fletcher, resigned.

Mr. Gardner went from Deep River, Conn., to Plantsville six years ago, and his last pastorate there has been marked by success, financially, numerically and spiritually. Last year he was elected representative from Plantsville in the face of strong opposition and since then has been a wide-awake man for the town's interests. His date of resignation has not yet been named. Recently Mr. and Mrs. Gardner visited New Market to get acquainted with conditions and they were favorably impressed.

P. H. S. A. A. Seasons Ends.

A meeting of the athletic association of the Plainfield High School was held at the assembly exercises this morning. The treasurer's report showed that the season closes with a balance of $45 on hand.

HAUGHTY SENIORS UNBEND

Class Day Exercises Marked By An Unusually Clever Program.

A BACKWARD PROPHECY

Scene to Represent Assembly Room in the Morning—Principal Travell In Caricature.

The senior class day exercises at the Plainfield High School, held in the auditorium last night were marked by a program which sparkled with wit and originality. The prophecy, written by Weston Gavett, was the notable feature, the writer departing from the usual custom and taking a look backward from the year 1927.

The morning assembly in the high school was represented, where "Principal I. W. Tarbell" officiated. He was impersonated by Adelbert Van Brakle, who was made up for the occasion. He bore a striking likeness to Principal I. W. Tarbell, assuming the customary attitude and gestures of the principal, all of which were easily recognized. "Mr. Travell" announced the morning song, which was "The Two Teachers," written by J. DeLancy Ferguson, and the music made of "The Two Grenadiers."

The speaker of the morning was an old "grad" of the class of '07, now president of the New York Stock Exchange, in the person of Joseph N. Van Deventer. He was cleverly made up. After one or two pointless jokes the old "grad" spoke about the class in which he graduated. Various views of the old school and the faculty, taken by Joseph Osgood, were thrown upon the screen and the lecturer made appropriate remarks concerning them. The last picture was the class of '07. The lecturer requested that it be enlarged. The screen was withdrawn and the real class appeared seated on the stage in full view of the limelight. With a long pointer the old "grad" indicated the different people and told what they had been doing for the last twenty years. That was the prophecy. It touched on the foibles or the characteristics of the seniors with humor and wit. It aroused much laughter and applause.

The class history, written by Miss Helen Johnson and read by Miss Mildred Carman, told about the '07 class as much for the P. H. S as any class in the past and has an exceptionally good record in all lines. Songs written by J. DeLancey Ferguson and William Osgood were sung.

Miss Helen Johnson of the class gift to the school, $75, was made by the president, William C. Douglass. The class statistics showing the personal qualities of the members were awarded as medals by "Mr. Tarbell." The statistics are as follows:

Most popular, Helen Johnson, William Douglass; most executive ability, Helen Johnson, Weston Gavett; class fatty, Helen Johnson, J. De Lancey Ferguson; class skinny, Cornelia Lounsbury, Bertram Leggett; sportiest, Florence Prior, Gertrude Abbott, Edgar Freeman; best looking, Miran Carman, J. DeLancey Ferguson; biggest eater, Helen Johnson, Victor Todd; best singer, Queena Tillotson, Stanley Fisher; most athletic, Gertrude Moodey, William Douglass; prettiest girl, Florence Prior; handsomest boy, William Osgood; best actor, actress, Queena Tillotson, Adelbert van Brakle, Joseph Van Deventer; best artist, Ethel Van Zandt, Weston Gavett; most bashful, Ethel Van Zandt, Ethan Rogers; teacher's curse, the Kanen Twins, Joseph Van Deventer, Edgar Freeman; done most for P. H. Complain of Practice.

The constant dumping of the contents of vans and cesspools on the farm land owned by Poole Voorhees, located in North Plainfield Township, just outside the borough limits, is a source of much complaint on the part of other residents in that vicinity. It is said that the township committee has given Mr. Voorhees permission to have the refuse dumped on his land. Those who complain about the nuisance say that the stench is worse than that arising from the sewer beds, and they cannot understand why the practice should be allowed. Mr. Voorhees is himself a member of the township committee and secretary of the township Board of Health.

PLANNING FETE FOR FORTIETH ANNIVERSARY

Y. M. C. A. WILL DEVOTE A WEEK TO JUBILATION IN NOVEMBER.

Plans for the observance of the fortieth anniversary of the Y. M. C. A. are being made by the Board of Directors. The celebration will not take place until November, but the observance is to be so elaborate that the directors feel they are none too early in getting arrangements started.

General discussion of plans was held by the Board and the Women's Auxiliary at a joint meeting this week. It was decided at once that the celebration be carried on for a week. The whole Y. M. C. A. building will be given over to the fete. "The building will be festal from garret to cellar," said Secretary Robbins yesterday.

Details of the celebration will be shaped as rapidly as possible. Committees are to be appointed at a meeting of the directors and the executive committee of the Women's Auxiliary. One of the features of the observance definitely decided on is an anniversary dinner. Prominent men will speak at it.

GETS YALE CLUB CUP OFFERED TO HIGH SCHOOL

WILLIAM C. DOUGLASS RECEIVES IT FROM HANDS OF PRESIDENT DAY.

The cup which was offered by the Yale Club of Plainfield, to the student of the Plainfield High School who excelled both in athletics and scholarship for the entire four years' course, was awarded to William C. Douglass. The presentation was made by Thomas M. Day, Sr., president of the Yale Club, this morning.

Mr. Day said there was no discrimination as to the college to which the student goes, simply that he combine mental and physical characteristics of strength. He declared it a matter of gratification that the winner had thoroughly upheld the P. H. S. standard.

P. H. S. insignies were awarded by Principal I. W. Travell who said this was the first year when no students had been restricted from any of the athletic teams because of scholarship. Those who received Insignias were Stanley Fisher, John Butcher, Russell Morris, Allen Snyder, Edgar Freeman, Dudley Wilcox, Moses Rubenstein.

TROUBLE OVER A HORSE.

Mr. and Mrs. Drake Get Into Court Over Its Ownership.

"Family jars" between Charles Drake and his wife, of the borough, were aired at a session of Justice Mundy's court, last night. The trouble arose over a horse, said to be the property of Mrs. Drake. The husband appropriated the animal and his spouse immediately secured a search warrant to recover it. Before the case was closed the horse was sold to Edward Vanderhoff, of the borough, for $90.

Hearing of the sale Mr. Drake went to Mr. Vanderhoff's stable and took the horse to his home. Again Mrs. Drake obtained a search warrant and Mr. Drake was made to appear before Justice Mundy for a hearing. It did not take long for the Justice to get at the bottom of the trouble and he promptly turned the horse over to the rightful owner when it was proved that it originally belonged to Mrs. Drake and a receipt was produced showing that Mr. Vanderhoff had bought the animal. It is understood that Mr. and Mrs. Drake do not live together.

WATER DAMAGES HOUSE.

Valve On Top Floor Burst and Flood Almost Wrecks Interior.

A valve in a water pipe on the top floor of Charles Schanz's house on East Front street, burst last night, and the torrent that poured down through the ceiling beams and floorings almost wrecked the house. It was a half-hour before a plumber could be secured to stop the flow, and by that time the house was dripping from top to bottom. The general effect was as if the fire department had been fighting a hot blaze.

A number of valuable ball dresses brought from Germany by Mrs. Schanz were ruined. The total of damage, with the clothing and ornaments spoiled, will be close to $500.

Closing Exercises of L. T. L.

The closing exercises for the season of the Loyal Temperance Legion will be held in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Madison avenue, this afternoon at 4 o'clock. Mrs. Alvah TenEyck, the superintendent, has prepared an attractive program for the children and it is hoped that all the members will be present.

ANNIVERSAAY OF W.C.T.U.

Observed Last Night With Special Service at Seventh Day Baptist Church.

MEMBERSHIP INCREASE

Roll Has Swelled From Seventy-five to Two Hundred—Address by Mrs. L. J. Ellis, of Washington.

The thirtieth anniversary of the Women's Christian Temperance Union, of this city, which occurs today, was appropriately celebrated in the Seventh-Day Baptist church, last night, the features being an address by Mrs. L. J. Ellis, of Washington, and a report covering in general the past three decades. The meeting was largely attended, chiefly by women, including the members of the local union and their friends.

Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, as president of the union, presided, and seated with her on the platform were Mrs. E. A. Parse, honorary president; Mrs. L. J. Ellis, Mrs. T. C. Bodine, secretary, and Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, editor of the Sabbath Recorder, who conducted the devotional exercises. There were also several selections by the church choir.

Mrs. Bodine's report showed that the local union was organized thirty years ago today with a membership of seventy-five, and today it numbers 200. Of the thirty-two departments of work carried on by the National Union, the local organization has taken up eleven departments, including the Loyal Temperance Legion and legislation. Considerable has been accomplished in every department. The union has had six presidents, Mrs. Strawbridge, now of California, being the first. She was followed by Mrs. Ryder, Mrs. T. H. Tomlinson, Miss Sue Peck, Mrs. E. A. Parse and Mrs. Tomlinson, who is now acting in that capacity. The union was complimented and congratulated for its excellent work since the organization.

This report was followed with one by the treasurer, Miss May E. Howlett, who stated that all the dues have been paid, that there is no indebtedness and a balance is on hand.

Following the reports, Mrs. Ellis made the address of the evening. She is the representative of the National W. C. T. U. at Washington, the greater part of her duties being to look after legislation in Congress pertaining to temperance. She talked in an interesting way of the fight made against the seating of Reed Smoot from Utah, the efforts in behalf of the Pure Food Laws and the continued campaign of education in favor of the abolition of the canteen in the army. Mrs. Ellis related many personal incidents showing some of the "inside" of political affairs at Washington and she declared that the Congressmen, or the more thoughtful ones, at least, were with the temperance women in their fight for righteous laws.

Mrs. Ellis congratulated the local union upon the completion of its thirty years and she wished that it might go on accomplishing even greater things in the future.

Funeral of Old Railroader.

The funeral of Jeremiah Harrington, sixty-five years old, was held today in Somerville. He was for many years an employe of the New Jersey Central Railroad Company and for over ten years was flagman and gatetender at the Washington avenue crossing in Dunellen. Death was due to a complication of diseases, from which he had suffered for a month. A widow, four sons and two daughters survive.

PUBLIC PRESENTATION OF THE BUSINESS COLLEGE

MAYOR FISK PRESIDES AND W. L. SAUNDERS MAKES PRINCIPAL ADDRESS

A large and appreciative audience representing Plainfield, Bound Brook, Somerville, Raritan, Westfield, and a wide stretch of surrounding country were present last evening at the public presentation of the Plainfield Business College in its new home in the Woodhull & Martin building. Mayor Fisk presided and every part of the excellent program passed off in the delightful and interesting manner such as was expected from the array of exceptional talent that graced it.

Mayor Fisk, after welcoming the guests and congratulating the citizens of Plainfield upon the finely equipped and reputable commercial school that now has in the Plainfield Business College, strongly urged his hearers to consider carefully the matter of preparation for business and good citizenship. He then introduced former Mayor Saunders, of the borough, as the principal speaker of the evening, and who returned from his vacation in Vermont for this special purpose. Mr. Saunders spoke in his usual entertaining and forceful way on "Business Opportunities" for young people who are properly trained. His splendid address was interspersed with rounds of applause.

Prof. H. C. Krebs, superintendent of Somerset County Schools, held the rapt attention of the audience during his address on "The Value of Training." This most instructive address was replete with sound reasoning, earnest appeal, and humor and left a deep and favorable impression.

William Holmes sang in rare voice and received encore after encore from his delighted hearers. The program was interspersed with excellent music rendered by Suhr's orchestra.

At the close of the program, the audience called for "that master of wit and eloquence," S. S. Swackhamer, who convulsed his hearers with his humor, and stirred them with the force of his eloquent appeal for "The Proper Care and Training of the Boy." Mayor Fisk then voiced the sentiment of all present in expressing his great satisfaction with the arrangements and excellent appointments of the college.

MR. AND MRS. TOWNSEND TENDERED A SURPRISE.

Friends Assist Them in Observing Golden Wedding Anniversary

In response to invitations, a number of Plainfield people went to Bound Brook yesterday, where they surprised Mr. and Mrs. David Townsend at "Stone Crop," their summer home, the event being the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding. Mrs. W. B. R. Mason, their daughter, planned the affair, which was carried out most pleasantly, thanks to the weather man.

The ceremony of fifty years ago was performed by Rev. H. G. Mason, then pastor of the Second Baptist church of Plainfield, at the home of Andrew Manning, father of the bride. Those present yesterday were Mrs. D. Manning and daughters, the Misses Sarah and Harriet Manning, Mrs. Isaac F. Randolph and son, Howard, Mrs. Jeremiah Manning and daughter, Katherine, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel H. Manning, Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Manning, Miss Lizzie Manning.

Dr. and Mrs. N. W. Currie, of Central avenue, are among the guests at the annual reception of President Demarest and Miss Demarest at Rutgers college, this afternoon.

LEAL'S SCHOOL EXERCISES

Graduation of Class Last Night Attended by Many Surprises.

GIFT FROM ALUMNI

In Behalf of 115 Graduates Assemblyman Finch Presents Mr. Leal With $500 Purse.

The twenty-fifth annual commencement of John Leal's School for Boys, held at the Casino, last night, was one series of surprises and proved to be a delightful affair. Before the exercises were concluded an alumni association was started, the Plainfield Yale Club, through its president, Thomas M. Day, presented the cup, offered by the club to Otis Averill, the pupil attaining the highest standard in athletics and scholarship; a purse of $500 in gold was presented to Mr. Leal by the former graduates of the school and Mr. Leal presented a cup to Russell Phillips for special distinction in his work during the year.

The Casino was attractively decorated for the occasion with college flags, while the stage was made a scene of beauty through an arrangement of flowers, palms and ferns, interspersing the numbers on the program an orchestra enlivened the occasion with popular airs, and altogether the affair was the best in the history of the school, marking as it did the completion of twenty-five years of teaching by Mr. Leal.

The address of the evening was made by Rev. Dr. J. S. Zelle, pastor of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, who was warmly greeted by the audience. While the address was filled with timely advice to the graduates in particular and everyone in general, there was in the presence of wholesome humor which all enjoyed. Among other things Dr. Zelle said:

"When I was invited to speak here tonight there kept running through my mind the remark made by a high school girl who had signed to be the honor of writing an essay for the graduating exercises. She took the honor very seriously and finally confided to a friend that she was much troubled because the times were so unsettled that really she didn't know quite what advice to give the country. The times are certainly unsettled but there is one thing with regard to which they are rapidly coming to an agreement and that is that we do not need to hear much more about the 'Strenuous Life.' So in chosing my subject for tonight I imposed upon myself just this one condition that I would keep as far away from that subject as I possibly could.

"And therefore tonight I have nothing to say which makes it necessary to key yourselves up to some unusual pitch of resolution and although commencements are seldom times of relaxation and reflection I do not know why they should not be so in a while. Therefore I am going to speak of three of those silent and less generally advocated forces in life and character and ask you rather to notice how they work rather than to exhort you at all costs to put them right into operation tonight.

"And the first of those forces which in the long run will always be found taking their place in any life which is greatly worth living is 'Memory.' The very sound of the word will make you feel that I am striking rather below the usual commencement pitch for this seems to be a time when we want to hear something about the future. It is the man who can most quickly recall how things have gone a thousand times before in his own life and the life of other men who will act most efficiently in his present situation. With the best of intentions men go on failing through their life for no other reason than that their moral memory is untrained or inactive while the one who stands firmest in the presence of a sudden emergency or temptation is pretty sure to be the one by a sudden flash of recollection can see straight back through his past and realize that this temptation is not a new thing, but the same old thing which has undone him a hundred times before.

"It is memory that makes a man go on and makes him dare to. And it is the one in the face of some fresh crisis which tries his courage has the most power to say 'I was helped far back in that struggle of long ago and the power that helped men then must help me still. I will try it again.'

"And then there is another quality in life about which I want to speak. And that is poetry. Someone said of the Emperor William that one of the reasons why he was so practical was because he loved poetry. There in a word you raise the whole issue of what is practical so that you can hear one and another good honest soul saying 'All bosh.'

Reproduction of the silver cup presented by the Yale Club to William C. Douglass, of the High School graduating class, for proficiency in athletics and scholarship. A similar cup was presented to Otis Averill, of Leal's School, last night, and another is to be given to the best athlete and student of the borough high school.

HYMEN'S BUSY EVENING

Five Couples Come Before His Shrine and Plight Their Troth.

PRETTY DECORATIONS

Brides and Grooms Joined In Atmospheres Redolent of Flowers and Ferns—Garden Gate at One Wedding.

Cupid having been busy aforetime, Hymen was up and doing in Plainfield and suburbs Wednesday. June may be backward as far as weather goes, but the weddings of last evening demonstrated that it is still the month for orange blossoms and the metaphorical pealing of marriage bells, whatever may have happened to June roses, the clambering honeysuckle and other adjuncts to the honeymoon cottage.

Five weddings were solemnized in Plainfield and suburbs to the westward. Two were celebrated in the borough, two in Dunellen and one in Piscataway.

De Mez—White.

Miss Florence Meyer White, granddaughter of Mrs. William White, of Willow avenue, and William G. DeMez, of this city, were quietly married at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. William White, in the presence of the relatives of the two families and a few intimate friends. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, the bride's pastor.

The bride was gowned in a lace robe over white silk, trimmed with lace, and she carried a shower bouquet of white roses. The maid of honor, Miss Minnie Nieswitz, wore a gown of white silk mull, trimmed with lace and carried pink roses. The best man was John DeMez, a brother of the groom.

The wedding march was played on the piano by Charles Yates, of New Brunswick; the bride, her uncle, George White, and maid of honor entering the parlor from the hall through one door and the groom and best man from another, the party meeting in the large room, where the officiating clergyman met them. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle.

After the ceremony congratulations were offered and supper served. Later the newly wedded couple left in an automobile for Bound Brook, where they took a train for Atlantic City. They will be gone two weeks and upon their return will board in this city for awhile.

The home was prettily decorated for the wedding. In the parlor there was a profusion of palms and white flowers, while yellow colors in the dining room were white and green.

The bride received many handsome gifts, including a piano from the groom, and cut glass and furniture from other relatives. Mrs. DeMez has been a resident of this borough for several years and is highly esteemed in a large circle of friends and acquaintances. The groom is also well known in this city, where he is a practicing lawyer, and enjoys a large friendship.

Line—Brouwer.

Miss Catherine Mae Brouwer, daughter of the late Aaron S. Brouwer, and Clarence L. Line, son of J. H. Line, of this city, were married at the bride's homestead in Dunellen Thursday, at 7 o'clock! hcinoon wedding was attended by a large gathering of relatives and friends.

The house was prettily decorated. The color scheme was pink and green in the parlor and white and green in the rest of the house. In the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, by Rev. E. E. Roberson, of the Monroe Avenue church, was an artificial garden gate, entwined with flowers, before which the couple stood as the wedding lines were spoken.

The best man was William B. Nevius, Jr., of Brooklyn, and the ushers were John L. Nelson, of New Market; George Alvin Lown, of Brooklyn. The maid of honor was Miss May Hazelwood, of Brooklyn. The bridesmaids were the Misses Caroline E. and Sarah A. Brouwer, sisters of the bride. The Misses Eloise and Marguerite Brouwer were flower girls. The wedding music was played by an orchestra.

A reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Line left for a week's honeymoon trip on the 9:46 train. They will live on Woodbine avenue, this city.

The bride was dressed in white mouseline, princess cut, tied with large bow knots of mouseline, with yoke of marie point a bridal veil was caught up with orange blossoms and lilies of the valley, and carried bride roses. The maid of honor was dressed with white lace, over white taffeta, and carried pink roses. The bride received a large number of gifts.

Fitz-Randolph—Griscom.

Miss Mary Clement Griscom, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David J. Griscom, and T. Sheppard Fitz-Randolph, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Fitz-Randolph, were married Wednesday at the home of the bride in Piscataway. The wedding was largely attended by friends and relatives.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Fletcher, former pastor of the bride and groom, at 7:30 o'clock. The house was most attractively decorated with flowers and plants in green and white.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Virginia Fitz-Randolph, as maid of honor; and Miss Edyth Vermeule, Belleville; Miss Elizabeth S. Pitman, Camden; Miss Fanny B. Giles, New Market, and Miss Elizabeth W. Clement, Woodbridge, as bridesmaids. The best man was Leonard G. Scheriber, Cincinnati, a classmate of the groom at Cornell University. The ushers were John Snyder, New York; James V. Schaefer, New York; Frank W. Clement, Woodbrige; and Robert Fitz-Randolph, brother of the groom. The wedding music was played by Nye B. Reardon, of Brooklyn.

The bride wore white mouseline satin over white silk taffeta, trimmed with princess lace, and carried a tulle veil. She carried bride roses. The maid of honor wore white net, with lace trimmings, and carried pink roses.

A reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Fitz-Randolph left later on a trip to the South.

They will live in New York, where the groom is in business as a civil engineer. The bride received a large number of gifts.

Craig—Boice.

Miss Edith Frances Boice, daughter of Mrs. C. D. Boice, and Sidney Rae Craig, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Craig, were married at the home of the bride, on Jackson avenue, Dunellen, Wednesday. The wedding was very quiet, only immediate relatives being present.

The house was prettily decorated with palms, ferns and cut flowers. The ceremony was performed in the parlor, at 7 o'clock, by Rev. W. W. Casselberry, pastor of the bride. The latter was given away by her brother, Charles D. Boice. Miss Boice was gowned in white crepe de chine over white silk.

A reception followed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Craig will spend two weeks on a honeymoon trip. They will reside in a home already furnished on Dunellen avenue. The bride received a number of handsome gifts.

Mosher—Morse.

Miss Agnes P. Morse, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mary E. Morse, of the borough, and Edward Mosher, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Mosher, of Andover, N. Y., were married Wednesday at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. Walter C. Walker, 58 Jackson avenue. The Rev. Dr. J. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, performed the ceremony. The couple was unattended.

The bride was gowned in Loisine taffeta of Alice blue, and carried a bouquet of bride roses. After the ceremony, congratulations were offered and supper was served. The home was attractively decorated with roses and palms. There were guests present to the number of thirty, being the relatives of the couple. The bride received many gifts, including cut-glass, silver and furniture.

During the evening Mr. and Mrs. Mosher left on a bridal trip which will include Buffalo and Niagara Falls. After July 1 they will reside at Nitzel avenue. Both the bride and groom are well known here and are popular in a large circle of friends. Mr. Mosher is employed in the office of the county engineer at Elizabeth.

Trimmer-Haas.

Miss Annie Haas, daughter of John V. Haas, of Millington, widely known in this city, and Charles Trimmer, of Mountainside, were married at 5 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the home of the bride's father. Rev. Mr. Condit, of Newark, former pastor of the bride, performed the ceremony in the presence of about fifty guests.

The bride was attired in white chiffon over white silk, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lillies-of-the-valley. The bridemaid was Miss Susie Haas, a sister of the bride, who was gowned in pink chiffon, and carried pink roses. The best man was Dr. Bace, of Newark.

The parlors were elaborately decorated with palms, ferns and daisies. The large hall, extending through the house, was also decorated with ferns and daisies. The decorations in the dining room were chiefly roses.

After the ceremony supper was served and later the couple left to enjoy a two weeks' wedding trip. They will reside at Morristown, where the groom is engaged in the grocery business. Among the invited guests were Mr. and Mrs. J. C. VanDyke and family, of East Fifth street, the bride being a niece of Mrs. Van Dyke, and Mrs. W. W. Warnock, of Craig place.

Condolence to Former Pastor.

At the monthly meeting of the Consistory of Trinity Reformed church, Wednesday, the clerk was instructed to write to Rev. Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, former pastor of the church and now president of Union College, the sincere sympathy of the church for his bereavement in the death of Mrs. Raymond. Both Dr. and Mrs. Raymond were held in high esteem by Trinity Reformed church and the death of Mrs. Raymond was a great shock to all.

Organist Dunn a Prize Winner.

Among the prizes awarded at Princeton University this year, the first Junior Orator medal, also the Thomas B. Wanamaker English Language prize were given to William Parmley Dunn, organist of the Crescent Avenue church, and grandson of S. F. Dunn and the late William Parmley Demarest, of this city.

CHRISTIAN WORK SOCIETY HOLDS ANNUAL FESTIVAL

ENTERTAINING FEATURES IN AN ACCOMPANYING PROGRAM.

Under the auspices of the Women's Society for Christian Work of the Seventh-day Baptist church, the annual strawberry and ice cream social, the last society event of the season, was held in the church parlors Wednesday. In connection with the social there was a fine entertainment, the program being arranged by Mrs. James Everitt Kimball and Miss Ernestine C. Smith.

Mrs. L. C. Howard favored the audience with several soprano solos, most of them being Scotch ballads, and then several of Louise Alcott's books were illustrated and the audience was supposed to guess the names. "Eight Cousins," was represented by a placard bearing the names of the eight grandchildren of Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis. Miss Ethel Titsworth illustrated "Old Fashioned Girl," and Miss Rose Davis, "Rose in Bloom." John Cottrell, Jr., and Harold Spicer illustrated "Little Men," and Mrs. William R. Mosher and Mrs. Charles H. Dunham, "Little Women," while William C. and Frank J. Hubbard represented "Joe's Boys."

The second part of the program consisted of a series of tableaux, illustrating a chapter from "Little Women," Mrs. Nathan E. Lewis reading the chapter. Those who took part in the tableaux were Miss Eva Rogers, Miss Marie Rogers, Miss Helen Ford, Charles Neagle, and Clarence Ford, the scenery comprising a flower and cave was very effective, while the familiar witch was exceedingly funny.

During and before the entertainment ice cream and strawberries were sold, the refreshments being in charge of Mrs. Frank J. Hubbard, chairman; Mrs. William H. Rogers, Mrs. C. L. Ford and Mrs. Charles H. Dunham. A number of young women from the church were waitresses. The affair was a great success and the society will net a substantial profit.

CLOSING EXERCISES OF DUNELLEN SCHOOL

FIFTEEN YOUNG PEOPLE RECEIVE DIPLOMAS; FEATURES OF THE PROGRAM.

Before a large gathering of interested boroughites, the graduation exercises of the Dunellen grammar school were held at the Presbyterian church, of Dunellen, Thursday. The church was attractively decorated with flowers and flags.

Diplomas were given to the following:

Erma Baldwin, Ora Bush, Beatrice Cameron, May Day, Lillian Garretson, Violetta Staples, Owen Mohan, Ethan Shiveley, Jessie Shiveley, Jessie Srites, Kathryn Vail, Janette Neighbour, Margaret Mohan, Russell Runyon, Carl Noble.

The speaker was Hon. James Perry, of New York, who spoke interestingly of the Civil War. County Superintendent H. Brewster Willis, who presented the diplomas, also spoke. Miss May Day was the valedictorian. Her essay was on "What the Minister Can Do." Miss Ora Bush delivered a class prophecy.

Recitations were rendered by Miss Helen Shiveley and Miss Beatrice Cameron. Miss Cameron rendered a vocal solo, Owen Mohan gave a declamation, and Miss Violetta Staples played a violin solo. The Misses Ruth Maurer and Laura Todd played the opening march. There were a number of songs by the school. Rev. W. W. Casselberry, pastor of the Presbyterian church, offered the invocation and pronounced the benediction.

Superintendent Lester Meseroll presented the following prizes for the year's school work:

For playing the piano, Beatrice Cameron; arithmetic, fourth year, Dorothy Schaefer; honorable mention, Horace Lapham; arithmetic, fifth year, Allen Fredericks; honorable mention, Anna Soukup; sixth year, Myrtle Pierson; honorable mention, Beatrice and Ruth Snyder; seventh year, Laura Todd; honorable mention, Gertrude Bowlby; algebra, eighth year, May Day; honorable mention, Ora Bush and Helen Shiveley; writing, primary department, Alfred Meserolle; grammar department, Charles Dinneen.

On behalf of the graduating class, Russell Runyon presented the school with a handsome picture. President A. F. Todd, of the Board of Education, received it.

Pythians' Memorial Day.

Crescent Company, No. 12, U. R. K. of P., held a special meeting last night to complete arrangements for the annual Memorial Day exercises on Sunday, June 23, one week later than in former years because of the interests of the season. It is hoped that by postponing the observance, better weather may be enjoyed and an abundance of flowers for decorative purposes may be obtained. Crescent company will have as its guests during the day Port Chester Lodge, of Port Chester, N. Y., and also a delegation from Rathbone company, of Brooklyn.

EULOGIZES MRS. RAYMOND

Schenectady Paper pays Glowing Tribute to Wife of Trinity's Former Pastor.

DIED LAST TUESDAY

Described As a Woman of Unusual Powers Who Thought For Herself—Husband's Great Helpmeet.

In its issue of Tuesday night, the Schenectady, N. Y., Evening Star, had the following account of the death of Mrs. Raymond, wife of Dr. A. V. V. Raymond, formerly pastor of Trinity Reformed church, and now president of Union College:

"Mrs. Raymond, the wife of President Raymond of Union College, died this morning at about five o'clock. She had been long ill and for some time her friends had hardly hoped she could recover, but however expected, such an event when it does come is a very great shock. Her life was so bound up with the interests of the college that her death cannot but be widely felt, and very keenly at just this time of celebration when so many of the friends of the college are gathered from all parts of the country.

"Margaret Morris Raymond was the daughter of Lewis J. Thomas and Mary Morris. She was born in Wales, but her parents, when she was very young, came to this country, and her early years was passed at Middleville, Herkimer county, New York. She graduated from Oswego Normal School. She married on September 24, 1879, the Rev. A. V. V. Raymond, at that time pastor of the First Reformed church of Paterson, N. J., where, as at Plainfield and at Albany, where Dr. Raymond was successively pastor, she was an effective factor in the life of church and city. Since 1894, when Dr. Raymond became president of the college and the town, being a woman of very wide feeling for the things that were interesting or helpful to others.

Her death will leave a great place empty in social life. It is rare to meet with a character so prepossessing in the charm and the happiness of others. She was constantly thinking of how she could bring her own best things into the lives of those even remotely connected with her. Her chief delight in all the things she possessed lay in the possibility of sharing them with others.

She was devotedly loyal to Union College. While she was well and strong, the president's house was a fine centre of interest for students, faculty, and friends of the college, not merely in social occasions but at all times.

Through all the last weeks of her exhaustive illness she was full of thought for the college, longing to live over commencement that no one might lose any of the pleasures of that season.

She was a woman of most unusual powers, she thought for herself. She was a great and universal reader of books, of which her criticism was keen and fine. Her appreciation of everything beautiful, noble and desirable filled her life with exquisite pleasure that nothing could destroy. She was a devoted Christian whose religion and whose love for her Divine Lord penetrated and influenced all her life.

With her death an intense and vital spirit passes away; now that she has gone many will feel more and more as time goes on, that life has lost one who embodied some of its most wonderful possibilities.

In accordance with Mrs. Raymond's express desire the ceremonies of commencement will be interrupted as little as is possible. The Board of Trustees will depute some one to take Dr. Raymond's place at the exercises today and tomorrow."

REFORMATORY FOR ACTIVE HOTEL THIEF

JOHN KNAUTA ROBBED FIVE HOSTELRIES WITHIN A SHORT TIME.

Found to have robbed five hotels in Middlesex and Somerset county, John Knauta, the sneakthief who stole shoes from Taylor's Hotel, Dunellen, and disposed of part of his plunder in North Plainfield, was sentenced to Rahway Reformatory by Judge Booraem in the county court at New Brunswick, yesterday. He was captured in the act of robbing a hotel in New Brunswick, just as the police here were closing him out. He pleaded guilty to a charge of larceny.

"I have found," said Judge Booraem, "that you robbed no less than five hotels in Middlesex and Somerset counties, and attempted to rob a hotel in this city, and stole shoes, clothes and a watch from a trunk.

"When your trunk was examined it was found to contain a number of checks and a bunch of skeleton keys. The court is convinced that you are in the way of becoming a professional hotel thief, and is determined that you should be removed from the opportunity to pursue this career. The sentence of the court is that you be confined in the Rahway Reformatory.

CARPET FUND SWELLED BY SUCCESSFUL SALE

ANNUAL IUNE AFFAIR OF THE CHURCH OF THE HEAVENLY REST.

The annual June sale of the Ladies' Guild of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, Clinton avenue, was held at the parish house Wednesday. It was very successful, drawing a large and profitable attendance from 4 o'clock in the afternoon until 10 o'clock at night. The proceeds will be devoted to the carpet fund.

The prettily decorated booths were looked after by the following:

Fancy, Mrs. Merrill, chairman; Mrs. J. A. Babcock and Miss Eleanor Williams. Candy, Mrs. Sutton and Mrs. Harris; ice cream, Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Fraleigh; cake, Mrs. Brooks, Mrs. Bunting. Mrs. Campbell: art gallery, Mrs. W. B. Grannatt; lemonade, girls of the Sunday-school.

In the evening a program of entertainment was given. It included recitations by Mrs. B. Grannatt; solos and duets by Miss Viola Lievers, J. A. Babcock and the quartette choir of the church. A pleasant incident of the affair was the presence of the new rector, Rev. Mr. Townsend, who took charge of the parish last Sunday.

General supervision of the sale was exercised by Miss Elizabeth Forster, chairman of the committee in charge. She was assisted by all the members.

SUSTAINED IN FIRST APPEAL FROM HIS COURT

JUDGE NEWCORN'S DECISION IN HANDGOULD ACTION UPHELD.

In an opinion just handed down by the Supreme Court, District Court Judge William Newcorn has been sustained in the first appeal taken from his court. The action carried up was that of Hezekiah Hand against Charles Gould.

The case, tried in the District Court last winter, was an action of replevin, in which Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., was the real plaintiff, through Hezekiah Hand as sergeant-at-arms of the District Court, appeared as plaintiff on the record. Mr. Hetfield, as counsellor at law, had rendered legal services to John Entwistle, who promised to pay his fees and stated that he had personal property sufficient to make him responsible for the same. After Entwistle had neglected, and finally refused, to pay the fees agreed upon and had left the State, leaving his goods behind him, Mr. Hetfield issued an attachment against the goods for the amount of his bill. Hand made a levy upon the goods under the attachment. When the attachment was executed, the goods were in the possession of Gould, who stated that they had been stored with him by Entwistle. When the officer afterwards undertook to sell under the attachment he was refused admittance to the premises, by Gould, who then claimed that he had purchased the goods of Entwistle before the levy made under the attachment. Mr. Hetfield then secured the writ of replevin in the name of Hand, to test the right of Gould to the goods in question. In this suit he was represented by Codington & Swackhamer, while Berkeley C. Austin, of Jersey City, appeared for the defendant. A judgment was rendered in favor of the plaintiff and Mr. Gould, through his attorney, immediately appealed the case to the Supreme Court, alleging that the judgment was illegal and should be set aside. The cause was argued at the last term of the Supreme Court and the opinion has just been handed down by the Supreme Court, which sustains the judgment rendered by Judge Newcorn in the District Court.

Sales and Rentals.

The following sales and rentals have been made by Mulford's Real Estate Agency, of North avenue, during the past month: Miss Anna M. Hopewell, of Mount Holly, to Mrs. Neuman, the property at 518 East Seventh street; Mrs. Sharp, of Watchung avenue, has purchased of E. M. Bliven, of New York, the lot on the east corner of Prospect and Kenilworth avenues. Mrs. Frank Holman, of Bayonne, has purchased the Fisher farm on Plainfield avenue, and will make extensive improvements and take possession this summer; Charles H. Frost, of Watchung avenue, has purchased of William T. Gough, property on East Front street, and has taken possession; Mr. H. B. Smith has rented Mrs. Loesser's house on East Seventh street, near Belvidere avenue, Netherwood, and taken possession; Mr. E. Sampter, of the Imperial Tobacco Co., has rented and taken possession of 111 Putnam avenue; M. J. O'Keeffe, of West Seventh street, has rented 837 West Sixth street, and takes possession this week; Mrs. A. C. Penn, of the Simmons Hardware Co., of New York, has rented Frank H. Smith's new house, corner of Seventh street, and Plainfield avenue, and will take possession July 1.

The Young Ladies' Sodality of St. John's church attended communion in a body Saturday morning.

PREPARING TO WEIGHT ALL THE LOCAL MAILS

SYSTEMATIC MEASUREMENTS TO BE MADE IN 50,000 POSTOFFICES.

Commencing July 1, and continuing daily for a period of six months, every postoffice in the country which transfers mail direct by railway service will weigh all mail originating in the office, and for thirty days during the same period keep an accurate record of the weight of all mail received from railway postoffice cars, railway mail storage cars and compartment cars on railroads carrying mails. For seven days every piece of mail originating in the office shall be counted to determine the revenue and cost of handling the home business of each office.

The work will be done in accordance with an act of Congress, passed March 2, intended to provide a more systematic method for weighing the mails carried by railroads than the one heretofore in vogue for ascertaining the cost, and also to more definitely ascertain the actual revenue of each office. Postoffices which receive and transfer mail through depository and distributing offices will be required during the same time to keep a record of the actual number of pieces of each class of mail originating in the office.

Postmaster Bird is making the preliminary arrangements for the work, which will be conducted by experienced mailers of the local office, whose places during the period mentioned will be filled by substitute employes. The daily record to be taken and forwarded to the department at Washington will, it is expected, show the actual amount of business transacted in every one of the 50,000 postoffices in the country and be the first attempt made at securing an accurate record.

Heretofore the custom has been to weigh the mails transferred by the railroads on the depot platforms once every four years by men assigned by the department for that purpose. The weighing usually covered a period of four to six weeks and invariably included the last week of one quarter and first of the succeeding one, when there is a vast increase in the volume of mail incoming and outgoing at all postoffices, large and small.

While the mail handled every day in the week was weighed in computing the average daily weight handled, Sundays were excluded and the daily average was therefore apparently increased by one-seventh. On the average thus obtained the compensation of railroads and "star route" carriers was fixed, and the plan is said to have involved an unnecessary expenditure of hundreds of thousands of dollars annually by the government for the benefit of the railroads.

The new system, it is expected, will change all this and make padding of weight of mail almost impossible, covering as it does every class of mail handled and being conducted in all offices for a uniform period of 184 days, which will be accepted as an average for the year, as the three extra days will cover the possible extra weight in January of the six months, which consist only 181 days, except once in every four years.

ASH CARTER'S RIG DROPS OVER A STEEP BANK

HORSE IS KILLED AND DRIVER HAS NARROW ESCAPE.

James Saunders first trip to the Compton dump in the West End of the city, yesterday afternoon, was a costly one for the newsboy, for he lost his horse and narrowly escaped being killed himself. Saunders was the second man in line to dump his load of ashes and rubbish, and he drove too close to the edge of the dump, despite warning from a bystander. His heavily loaded wagon sank deep into the soft filling and then fell over the bank, a distance of forty feet.

Fortunately, Saunders jumped off the wagon just in time, for his horse went down with the wreckage, turned a somersault and broke its neck. As soon as it was learned that the horse was fatally injured a policeman was summoned and the animal was shot. The loss is a heavy one for Saunders as the animal, which he had just purchased, is a good one.

It was only a few days ago that all the ash carters in the city received word from the city to dump on the Compton property, it being at a point which extends from Dunellen avenue. Saunders is the first to suffer last load in the Netherwood district and it was his first trip to the new dump.

NEW YORK CITY.

New York city completes forty-six new buildings each day, averaging $13,000,000.

New York city has acquired the reputation of having the most discourteous railway employes of all cities in the world.

Outings for City Children.

ST. GABRIEL GRADUATION

Exercises Yesterday Afternoon Attended by a Large Gathering.

BISHOP McFAUL SPEAKS

Members of the School Present a Varied Program—Students Receive Merit Prizes.

Commencement exercises of St. Gabriel's Academy, of North Plainfield, were held Wednesday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Park Club, where a large number of relatives and friends of the academy and the graduates gathered to enjoy an excellent program arranged by the Sisters.

A feature of the occasion was the presence of the Rt. Rev. J. A. McFaul, D. D. L. L. D., Bishop of the Trenton Diocese, who made a short address to the graduates and their many friends. He congratulated the young women upon completing their course of study and wished them well as they go out into the world to take up new duties.

The program was made up of two parts, the first comprising the reading of essays, tableaux and music as follows:

Overture, "Youth and Riches," Whiting, orchestra under direction of Martin A. Korff; "Ecce Sacerdos," chorus; Latin address by Bishop McFaul; Miss Mamie B. Dinneen, salutatory, Miss Anna M. Pedeflous; recitation, "Le revell," the Misses Valentina Coombs, Teresa McCullough, Marie Tobin; "Bugle Song," Tennyson, tableaux, senior elecution class; class motto, "Ever faithful," Miss Irene L. Pedeflous; recitation, "Das Blenchen," Miss Marie Tobin; chorus, "Les Papillons," Concone, French class; "Goddess of Liberty," tableaux, Miss Irene Duchesne; essay, "The Ideal Culture," Miss Theresa Schneider.

At the conclusion of part first of the program the graduating honors were conferred upon these graduates: Academic department—Miss Frances Mary LaPorte, Miss Anna M. Pedeflous, Miss Irene M. Duchesne, of Plainfield; Miss Mamie B. Dinneen, of Dunellen. Commercial department—Miss Theresa Schneider, of Somerville. Grammar department—Miss Bernadette Duchesne and Miss Henrietta Pedeflous.

Part second was devoted to the presentation of a drama entitled "Palma," in which the pupils of the academy acquitted themselves creditably under the faithful coaching and direction of the Sisters. The drama was in two acts. The cast follows:

Nemesius, commander of the Imperial Legion, Miss Irene Duchesne; Claudia, daughter of Nemesius, Miss M. Sullivan; Zilla, Claudia's nurse, Miss A. Pedeflous; Fabian, friend of Nemesius, Miss Theresa Schneider; Publius Lentulus, Miss Grace Rafferty; Princess Vivia, Miss Jennie Dinneen; Ben Asa, Jewish, physician, Miss Frances La Porte; Symphronius, steward in the house of Nemesius, Miss Hope Arnett; Cyprla, Laodice's attendant, Miss Laura Arnett; Agnes, Miss M. Woon; Syrlla, Miss Anna, Cecilia, playmates of Claudia; Ademetus, Camillus, Christian converts, Miss Anna Horan, Miss Margaret McDonough; Emperor Valerian, Miss Irene Hearn; Festus, Longinus, Marcellus, guards of the emperor; Tertian, Miss Henrietta Pedeflous; Valerian's messenger, Miss Bernadette Duchesne.

Following the drama the valedictory address was given by Miss Frances LaPorte. The class song, "Farewell," with words by Miss Jennie Dinneen, was sung by the chorus and was followed with the address by Bishop McFaul. The presentation of flowers to the pupils and graduates together with congratulations closed the program.

Each one of the five graduates received a gold medal, as a graduation present. The one received by Miss Irene Duchesne was the gift of Bishop McFaul, and the one received by Miss Teresa Schneider was the gift of Rev. David T. Kenney. Rev. Edward Dunphy presented the medal given to Miss Jennie Dinneen, and Andrew E. Kenney the medal presented to Miss Anna M. Pedeflous, while the medal received by Miss Mary F. LaPorte was the gift of a friend.

After the commencement Bishop McFaul was the guest of the Sisters at St. Gabriel's Academy.

TRAIN AND TRACK.

Surface cars on Manhattan Island do daily damage to persons and property in the average sum of $2,750.

The first application of the electric motor to railroads, which was made by Hallidie in San Francisco in 1873, who opened the Clay street cable line.

In all London has six underground electric railways completed, and five more are under construction, and proposed. And of the 1,000,000,000 persons carried annually on all her railways 258,000,000 are accommodated by these tunnel lines.

Luke Lee, seventy-five years old, of Horton, Kan., has been a locomotive engineer for forty-five years. He is the oldest engineer on the Rock Island system, but he still retains his position at the throttle of the engine which pulls the daily passenger train between Horton and Fairbury, Neb., a distance of 120 miles.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

June 23: "Holy and Unholy Ambitions." "Whosoever would be first among you shall be servant of all." Mark x, 33-45.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, B. D.

Passages for reference—Jer. xlv, 5; Phil. iii, 7-14.

Ambition is not in itself a wrong emotion. The desire for excellence is to be commended and cultivated. Emulation of others who exhibit excellence of one sort and another is not necessarily evil.

It is when we desire the praise of others for some real or supposed quality rather than the good of the quality itself that the mischief begins. When we seek place and things for what they will yield in gratification of our own selfishness, preferring self at the expense of others' good and even to their detriment, then the ambition is an evil thing.

It is not to be expected that we shall ever cease to seek that which will yield us personal and individual gratification. Self must, in the very nature of things, be first in our consciousness and in our seeking. But the self of ours is a very complex and peculiar affair. It has physical appetites, mental cravings and soul aspirations. These are not of equal value in the scale of worth. The highest is the realm of spirit. Physical and mental needs must be subordinate. The moral and spiritual must rule over the physical and bodily powers and wants.

Any desire which puts the moral and spiritual below either of the other two is a false and vicious ambition. It may be a wise ambition to have a well developed physique, if that body is a splendid specimen of physical manhood or beautiful womanhood. But this is an entirely different thing from the determination to be the champion pugilist of any certain class, and to take pride in inflicting punishment on some other person in the trial of strength.

A fine body is of worth when it assists in the advancement of moral ends and not otherwise. If used for other gratifications, it may prove to be an unmitigated curse to its possessor and others.

However we may have disregarded it, the truth is that our ambitions should ever have a close relation to what is worth while. Everything of value never stop to consider that God has any interest in our doings and claim upon us, we will surely cultivate ambitions which will end in disaster.

Whether we are clearly conscious of it or not, the fact is that we believe that God owns this world and has charge of events and is carrying forward His own purposes. No one can prosper unless he takes account of this. Some temporary advantage may be secured at times by those who ignore God in all this, but at the end the question is sure to arise, "What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul?"

Worthy ambitions always tend to the advancement of the interests and welfare of the soul and never run counter to the good of others men or the glory of God.

What shall we do, then, being so many of the customs of society and the aims of men are so antagonistic to this view of things absolutely?

We must take our choice either to follow the fashion of the world and be governed by its rules and philosophy of care for self first, last and always or we must regard and practice the commands of Jesus Christ to love God supremely and our neighbors as ourselves, seeking first the kingdom of God and His righteousness and trusting God to add unto us all things that need, never doubting that His providential care is able to make us live successfully, triumphantly, in this present world under just these principles carried into daily practice in every department of life.

Divine Forgiveness.

The venerable Dr. Duff once read the sermon on the mount to a number of Hindoo youths, and when he came to the passage, "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you and pray for them who despitefully use you and persecute you," so deep and intense was the impression produced on one of them that he exclaimed in ecstasy: "Oh, how beautiful, how divine! This is the truth! This is the truth!" And for days and weeks he could not help repeating, "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you," incessantly exclaiming, "How beautiful! Surely this is the truth!" Nor could he rest until he had renounced his false gods and their senseless worship and accepted the truth as it is in Jesus.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 23.

By REV. A. B. DOWTIN.

Topic—Lessons from the patriarchs. V. Moses—Ilus. xi, 23-3.

The name Moses means "drawn" in the Egyptian and in the Egyptian language "saved from the water," and he was so named because the daughter of Pharaoh had drawn him from the water, where he had been hidden that his life might be spared, for Pharaoh had decreed that all male children of the Hebrews two years old and under should be put to death. This edict was issued because the population of the Israelites was increasing so rapidly that they were becoming a menace to the nation which held them in bondage.

The life of Moses naturally divides itself into three periods of forty years each. The first period of forty years was spent in Egypt. His mother to save him from death during the three months in her house and then hid him in the Nile river, where his sister Miriam watched him. The Egyptian princess found him, and Miriam suggested as a nurse for him his own mother. This suggestion was acceptable to the princess, and thus his own mother nursing was received from his mother. And it was a religious training that he never forgot. He learned of the promises of God to his people and believed in them and ever afterward defended them. This was the time that he adopted son of Pharaoh's daughter and was "learned in all the wisdom of the Egyptians" and became "mighty in words and in deeds.". Thus God gave him a comprehensive education for the great work he had in store for him. Every land is always in our lives. "It is the Lord's doing and wonderful in our sight."

The second period of forty years in the life of Moses was spent in Midian, in the southern and southwestern part of the Arabian peninsula. When a man grown to forty years of age, Moses, witnessing the sufferings of his people, stood by them, "choosing rather to suffer affliction with the people of God than to enjoy the pleasures of sin for a season, counting the reproach of Christ greater than the treasures in Egypt." But Moses, who afterward became so meek, was now hasty and impetuous. He took the law into his own hand and slew an Egyptian and was compelled to flee into Egypt and went to Midian. Here he remained forty years, married a wife and was often in communion with God, who in this forty years taught him patience and meekness. This work being completed, God gave him the burning bush on Mount Horeb and commissioned him to return to Egypt and to deliver His people. Moses had learned his lesson well, for in humility and self deprecation he tried to escape the mission. But God assured him of His presence, gave him an emblem of authority and appointed Aaron, his brother, as his colaborer.

The third period of the history of Moses began with his return to Egypt and covered the forty years of his life in the wilderness as Israel's leader and ended with his death after he had looked over into the promised land. Returning to Egypt from Midian, he called Aaron and the people, informed them of his call and demanded of Pharaoh the release of his people. After much delay, in which God sent the ten great plagues upon Egypt, they were allowed to depart and for forty years wandered in the wilderness, with Moses as their leader. At Mount Sinai he organized the people into a nation and a church, giving them under God laws that are today the foundation of the laws of the civilized world. Because of a sin of presumption upon a great occasion he himself did not enter the land of Canaan, but alone with God on Mount Nebo, after a glimpse of the earthly Canaan, entered into the heavenly Canaan and, with Elijah, appeared to Christ on the Mount of Transfiguration. Moses is one of the world's greatest men. He stood against the temptations of wealth and of pleasure and of high position, but gained still greater honors by his sacrifice. As a prophet and lawgiver he typified Christ, who confessed that Moses wrote of Him."

THE WRITERS.

Alfred Austin has now held the position of poet laureate for eleven years.

Algernon Charles Swinburne, the poet, is engaged in writing a new tragedy, the subject of which is Cesare Borgia.

Current Literature reminds a forgetful world that Oliver Herford once spoke of the sacred soil of Boston as "an abandoned literary farm."

Finley Peter Dunne, the author of "Mr. Dooley," was once stopping in the country with a well-known banker, who, being impressed by the beautiful surrounding scenery, suggested that they take a walk the next morning at 6 o'clock. "Thank you," replied Mr. Dunne, "but I never walk in my sleep."

Hugh Pendexter, the author, comes of a notable family. Not only his great grand-father on his father's side, but his great grand-father on his mother's side, belonged to the minutemen who were aroused by Paul Revere in his midnight ride. Both great-grandfathers had the distinction of fighting in the battle of Bunker Hill, and both were wounded.

Sixteen Popular Novels.

The list here (from The Pratt Library Monthly Bulletin) does not include any of the novels ordinarily called "classic" or "standard," but is a list of some other novels that year in and year out are always in demand, and are always being republished in attractive forms. The descriptive notes are taken from several lists published elsewhere.

Black, William.—A princess of Thule.

The story of the marriage of a beautiful Highland girl to a selfish Englishman.

Brush, Mrs. C. C.—The colonel's opera cloak.

The life of a happy-go-lucky Southern family in a north'rn town.

Cholmondeley, Mary.—The Danvers jewels.

An exciting tale of the discovery of the thief who stole them.

Collins, Wilkie.—The woman in white.

An intensely interesting story of the unravelling of a plot in which the likeness of two women to each other is used by the villain to forward his aim. Count Fosco, the villain so cunningly drawn, goes into Egypt and went to Midian. Here he remained forty years, married a wife and was often in communion with God, who in this forty years taught him patience and meekness. This work being completed, God gave him the burning bush on Mount Horeb and commissioned him to return to Egypt and to deliver His people. Moses had learned his lesson well, for in humility and self deprecation he tried to escape the mission. But God assured him of His presence, gave him an emblem of authority and appointed Aaron, his brother, as his colaborer.

Crawford, F. M.—Mr. Isaacs.

A story of East Indian life, the central character being an esoteric Buddhist, an enigmatic person, who outwitted the English girl.

Doyle, A. C.—The white company.

The exploits of a company of English bowmen in France and in Castile during the Hundred Years' War.

Kingsley, Henry.—Ravenshoe.

A secret marriage and the changing of two boys at birth form the basis of the plot.

Kirk, Mrs. E. O.—The story of Margaret Kent.

An American story of violent social contrasts.

Lever, Charles.—Charles O'Malley.

A story of the Peninsular War (1808-14); a medley of boisterous fun, humorous character, love-making, and martial adventures.

Mathews, Mrs. M. O. W.—Miss Marjoribanks.

Miss Marjoribanks is the daughter of the hard-headed doctor of Carlingford whom, as he is left a widower, she thinks it her duty to console. But the doctor does not wish to be consoled, and her sentimental efforts are laughably frustrated.

Reade, Charles.—Peg Woffington.

A brief tale founded on the character of the famous Irish actress.

Smith, F. H.—Tom Grogan.

"Tom" Grogan is a woman who carries on her husband's business after his death, as a teamster.

Stevenson, R. L.—Kidnapped.

A story of piracy and concealed treasure. "David Balfour" is a sequel to this.

Trollope, Anthony.—The three clerks.

The love stories of three men in the English civil service, with three girls whose differences in character are strongly marked.

Woolston, C.—Anne.

Anne is a beautiful woman with a fine voice, who is also a woman of strong character.

TRAIN AND TRACK.

One of the British railroads provides chess and checker outfits for its passengers.

The Sluzen railway in Switzerland, starting at Coire, will have a length of fifty-two miles. The main tunnel through the Spluegen will be seventeen miles in length, and its estimated cost is $25,000,000.

The Southern Pacific Railroad has thirteen new lines under construction, representing an expenditure of $35,000,000. Five of the lines, comprising the principal part of the works, are in southern California.

Genoa and Milan are to be connected by an electric railroad eighty-five miles long, which is to cost $47,000,000. The high cost is owing to the nature of the country through which the line will pass. It will require nineteen tunnels, one of which will be twelve miles long. There will be 372 bridges, and the road will be six years in course of construction. The cost of the line construction alone will be $500,000 a mile.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

The Princess of Wales has set a good many styles for women in a quiet way. She keeps up with most of the fads, but insists that all her gowns have sensible pockets.

A Liverpool merchant gave the Mikado a bell dog last year and now he has just received a beautiful silver-mounted cloisonne vase from the Japanese Emperor in return. He is said to have money by the deal.

Eighty-seven per cent of the Canadian farmers own their own farms.

Out of 212 women in Australia qualified to vote, 174 exercise the right.

One of the objects of the expedition which the Duke of Orleans will make to the polar regions early this month is to seek an island which he believes to exist in the Sea of Kara.

William Jennings Bryan was the principal guest at the Jamestown Exposition on Memorial Day. The day was the anniversary of the passage by the Virginia house of burgesses of Patrick Henry's famous resolution.

United States Senator Eugene Hale of Maine, is in Baltimore, where he went to undergo an operation.

King Edward's new turbine yacht of 2,000 tons has been launched at Glasgow. She has been christened the Duchess of Argyll.

A portrait of the Emperor of Germany, who recently accepted honorary membership in the American Cross of Honor, was presented to the president of the order at Washington.

Vice President Fairbanks has cracked a joke. When the President's train backed suddenly in Ohio the other day and the Chief Executive cried "Look out," Mr. Fairbanks remarked, No wonder he was scared; he is not used to backing up."

Miss Margaret Frink has been appointed to fill a vacant professorship in the Colorado Agricultural College. She will have the details of dairy work at her fingers' ends. She is well known in Denver society and is a good athlete.

Queen Wilhelmina's Egotism.

The American impression of a poor little Wilhelmina cowering beneath the brutalities of the man she asked to marry her is extremely curious to those residents of The Hague who understand the sort of disposition for which the house of Orange is celebrated. For Wilhelmina is a true daughter of the house of Orange. The Queen's mother, the most obedient of parents, has proclaimed this more than once.

She is never forgetful of her own imminese importance to Holland. When, five years ago, the Queen lay on that sick bed from which it seemed certain she would never rise, her Majesty's physician in ordinary, feeling the patient's pulse, declared that the crisis was over. Mr. Fairbanks remarked. No wonder he was scared; he is not used to backing up."

Mr. Fairbanks remarked the Queen in a faint whisper, "Is very merciful to my people." The story may be invented, but it is said in German dailies to fit her Majesty's character like a glove.

A lump of alum in the mud is not the material out of which the most submissive of spouses can be fashioned. Whether, as some French dailies say, Wilhelmina, in virtue of her sovereign rank, had to make the proposal of marriage to Prince Henry, or whether, as some German dailies tell us, her Majesty merely sent his Highness word that she was going to marry him, he was speedily involved in the same difficulties of prerogative which tend at times to strain the Queen's relations with the responsible rulers of her kingdom. Wilhelmina has exalted notions of her royal authority. She is said to interfere in a most personal way with the conduct of Dutch foreign relations. She lays upon the Dutch colonies as, in some sort, the private appanages of the house of Orange. Her prodigious personal popularity with every class of her subjects saves her from some of the consequences of her unconstitutional tendencies.—From Current Literature for June.

RED BOOK FOR JUNE.

The leading story in the Red Book Magazine for June sounds the note of Summer. "Crazyland," is the appropriate name of a great summer park, and thither goes one Frobisher, a man of fashion, and there he has a most extraordinary adventure, the account of which by John D. Ewalin is very amusing to read. A western story that is quite out of the ordinary is "The Little Gold Maid," by Edfrid Bingham; and "The Capture of Miss Cohen" tells of a charming girl's romantic adventure in the Scottish Highlands. A gripping human story of paternal love is Gertrude Dix's "Van Velsor's Apotheosis"—and in striking contrast is "The Gratitude of Lady Billy," Phillip Verrill Mighels' tale of a friendly bull. Another story of more than ordinary power is "The Dwarf" by George Bronson-Howard. In addition to its eleven splendid short stories The Red Book magazine for June contains an article on the career of Julia Marlowe by Louis V. DeFoe. The illustrations are from rare photographs of Miss Marlowe in the parts which made her famous early in her artistic life. The June issue is opened with fourteen new, specially posed portraits of Miss Marlowe, together with an equal number of Young the foremost actresses of the Parisian stage.

Upon their return from their honeymoon at Atlantic City, Mr. and Mrs. William G. DeMeza will board for the present with Mr. and Mrs. Hugh MacMurray, of West Seventh street.

HOUSEHOLD HELPS.

Faded silks may be restored to their natural color by immersing them in soapsuds, to which a little pearl ash has been added.

Marks made by scratching matches on the wall may be removed by rubbing lightly with a piece of cut lemon, then with a cloth dipped in whiting, and finally washed with warm water and soap.

To cut water almost fill a clean pint bottle with it and add a half teaspoonful of granulated sugar. Cork tightly and keep in a warm place for two days. If at the end of that time the water has become cloudy or milky, it is unfit for domestic use.

If powdered sugar becomes lumpy take a common potato or nutmeg grater and grate the lumps as you would cheese. The old way of crushing it with a rolling pin is apt to leave a sticky mass.

One of the best methods for restoring matting that is pretty well worn is to give it a coat of white shellac. The matting should be taken from the floor and cleaned, relaying it carefully, then give it a coating of shellac. If the shellac wears off in places, brush the matting in hot soapy water, then go over it with warm water, and after it is thoroughly dry put on another coat of shellac. The coat of shellac will wear at least six months.

To make pure baking powder of the very best quality take one pound of pure cream tartar, six ounces of tartaric acid, one pint of flour; mix well and sift not less than three times, place in tin cans and use as you would any other baking powder.

Before cleaning the kerosene lamps from the coal in kitchen stoves, fill a medium sized box with sand and keep under the sink. When a kettle is taken off from the coal fire put it in the box of sand and turn it around for a minute a few times and it will soon become bright and clean without soiling the tables or the hands.

Where dishes are washed in the sink, stretch a piece of white rubber tubing, about two inches long, over theends of the faucets, letting it extend about two inches below. This will prevent the breaking and nicking of china that is caused by striking them against the faucets.

To prevent shoes from making holes in the heels of stockings paste a piece of wash leather inside the heels of the shoes. This will also prevent the shoes from rubbing the feet.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

One of the most eloquent preachers of Wales is Rev. J. Paultos Jones. He has been blind since he was two years old, but was graduated with high honors at the University of Glasgow.

The Chamber of Deputies in France has decided to appoint a committee to arrange for the establishment of a national holiday in honor of Joan of Arc.

The Right Rev. Arthur Foley Ingram, Lord Bishop of London, will visit Washington this fall. The Episcopalians are planning a big reception for him.

Florida is one of the several States not represented at the Capitol at Washington with statues of its distinguished sons.

The members of the Philadelphia Council and the New York Board of Aldermen will cross bats on June 19.

The Duke of Argyll is now a visitor in this country, pronounces his name as though it were spelled "Ah-broot-zee" with the accent on the second syllable.

Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt is to navigate a thirty-foot crack racing boat in the races at Newport this summer.

Arthur Pauline, a telegraph operator in Wichita, Kan., is credited with having made $15,000 in wheat speculations in the last five years.

Judge Craig Biddle, who has served for twenty-five years on the Philadelphia bench, has just celebrated his eighty-fourth birthday anniversary.

HINTS FOR THE HOME GARDNER.

Roses like a rich soil, so it would be well to spade in some well-rotted manure early in the spring.

Tuberous bulbs that are started in the house late in the month should not be set outdoors until the first of June.

Flowers and shrubbery in the front yard generally indicate that a cultured and prosperous farmer lives there.

A little lime stirred into the soil in which potted plants are growing will be beneficial at this time of the year.

An oil can makes an excellent watering pot for indoor plants. The water should be warm when applied.

Too much pot room is injurious to small plants, and if they are not doing well it would be a good plan to transplant them.

Poppies will grow as rapidly as weeds if they get started, and it is hard to imagine a more beautiful flower. The seed is cheap, too.

The appearance of the vegetable garden can be enhanced by planting a border of flowering plants along the side nearest the house.

Healthy plants are often ruined by the application of a fertilizer when they don't need it.

Examine the lawn carefully this spring, and if it is bare in spots, take immediate steps to replenish the grass.

Mrs. Herbert Pierce has returned from a stay with relatives at Montour Falls, N. Y.

LITERARY.

The Magic That Fooled Red Dog.

Accompanied with many pictures-ques comments by the audience, they awkwardly pulled up their chairs. Signor Valdez drew a tiny Mexican flag from his pocket and stuck it between two cracks in the floor. He then motioned to the door in the rear.

"I must ask one more favor, gentlemen. This trick requires exactly seven minutes. During that time I must ask you to remain in absolute silence. After I withdraw by means of this door you will please lock it after me. In exactly seven minutes a small tree will be seen growing in this circle. It will grow as high as the height of the room will permit. I shall then be discovered standing beneath the tree, holding this flag. It is necessary, however, that you remain in perfect silence."

With a deep bow Signor Valdez passed from the room and Whisky Pete locked the door.

The next seven minutes were the quietest ever recorded in Red Dog. There was no doubt that the gang was impressed. Whisky Pete and Old Graham sat frozen in their chairs staring at the white circle on the floor. Sandy, watch in hand, stood at the door waiting to lock the barroom. The silence was tragic. Exactly six and a half minutes had passed when there came the sound of a man running through the next room. The door was flung open and Mike, the barkeep, who had slipped out to see the scrapping and was incorrect in the wet-goods department, stumbled in so rattled he couldn't talk plainly. His face was purple and his tongue was hanging out like a dog.

"Quick," he yelled, "everybody! They've gone—the two of 'em. The professor and the kid with the tickets. They've got every damn cent in the bar, and they're riding like hell for the Rio Grande."—From "Laramie Joe's Vanishing Act" in the June Metropolitan Magazine.

President Charges Nature Writers With Falsehood.

"I don't believe for a minute," said Mr. Roosevelt, "that some of these men who are writing nature stories and putting the word "truth" prominently in their prefaces know the heart of the wild things. Neither do I believe that certain men who, why they may say nothing specific, by their style, call attention as realists because of their animal stories, have succeeded in learning the real secrets of the life of the wilderness. They don't know, or if they do know, they indulge in the wildest exaggeration under the mistaken idea that they are strengthening their stories.

"As for the matter of giving these books to the children for the purpose of teaching them the facts of natural history—why, it's an outrage. If these books were written as fables, and put into the children's hands as fables, all would be well and good. As it is, they are read and believed because the writer not only says they are true but lays stress upon his pledge. There is no more reason why the children of the country should be taught a false natural history than why they should be taught a false physical geography."

"Roosevelt on the Nature Fakirs," in the June Everybody's.

A New Lincoln Anecdote.

The day after the great fire following the fall of Richmond, Lincoln, with a small body-guard, walked through the streets of the charred city. As he approached the corner occupied by General Pickett's residence, he directed the guard to wait, and to their astonishment ran two steps at a time up to the door and knocked and looked up at the tall, gaunt man with the sad face and uncouth ways.

Without a word of explanation he asked:

"Is George Pickett about?"

To hear her husband's name bereft of its title by a Yankee, at that moment, was almost the limit, especially as many a rumor had floated about Richmond concerning the fate which awaited the leaders of the Confederacy.

With all the proud dignity she could command the Baby-Bride replied:

"General Pickett is not at home."

The stranger seemed disappointed and, as he turned to go, remarked:

"I am Abraham Lincoln, an old friend of George's."

"Not President Lincoln!" Mrs. Pickett exclaimed. The tall man shook his head, repeating:

"No. Just Abraham Lincoln, George Pickett's old friend."

Following the instant promptings of the heart which still governs her, "the Baby-Bride" thrust her baby boy into the arms of the gaunt Yankee, as her best effort to express her veneration and confidence, saying:

"George Pickett's wife and this is George Pickett's baby."—Willard French, in The World Today, for June.

Family Anniversaries.

"Thanksgiving and Christmas, wedding days and birthdays, are occasions that should never be neglected in the life of the family," writes Margaret E. Sangster in Woman's Home Companion for June. "Even though the married children go far from the early home, living in widely separated neighborhoods, they should make an effort to get together at stated intervals, and so long as their parents live, the old home, with its dear memories, should draw them like a magnet to its hearth. Little children ought to know one another and be acquainted as brothers and sisters are. When long trips across the continent involve too great an expense for frequent visits, there is always the letter box on the street corner or the rural free delivery, and letters may be trusted to carry love messages safely from Maine to California, or around the circuit of the globe. How the mother at home watches for tidings from her married children, and how she grieves when for weeks and months she never receives a word and feels that she has dropped out of the daily lives of those for whom she toiled and saved years ago.

"Do you owe your mother a letter or a visit or a gift, you who are far away? Do it now! Do not let the sun go down until you pay that debt of love.

"Do not forget that although we may have many friends, we can have but one mother, and that no friend can be quite so intimate as she."

Telephoning Across the Atlantic.

Up to the present time wireless telegraphy has not supplemented or even appreciably interfered with ocean telegraph cables. In fact, wireless telegraphy has even aided submarine cables by bringing messages to them from vessels at sea. Of course, it is possible that, with increased invention, knowledge and experience, wireless telegraphy may make such progress as ultimately to interfere with ocean wire telegraphy. These two are essentially future competitors. But there would be no competition between wireless and wire telephony across the ocean, because there is no ocean wire telephony and no immediate prospect of its arrival. It is more likely at present that wireless telephony may be extended in a range to reach across the Atlantic Ocean than that wire telephony may be similarly extended. In other words, there seems more prospect at present of transmitting the human voice by electricity over the surface of the Atlantic Ocean than over an electric insulated wire carried under the ocean. The fact of translantic telephony is far from being accomplished as yet in either of these ways.—From "The Progress of Wireless Telephony," by A. E. Kennelly, in the American Monthly Review of Reviews for June.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS.

George Alexander, the English actor-manager, has been elected a member of the London county council.

Avery Hopwood's new play, "The Powers That Be," closed in Cleveland recently. It will go out again next season.

Gabriele d'Annunzio has postponed the production of his new drama, "Navi" ("The Ship"), until next season in Italy.

Victor Moore is to appear in "The Talk of the Town," the musical play which George M. Cohan has fashioned out of "Popularity."

Margaret Mayo has arranged a one act version of "Under Two Flags" for Toby Claude, which Miss Claude is to use in vaudeville next season.

Anna Held and the "Parisian Model" company will go to London at the end of their present New York engagement and play the season at the Drury Lane.

Wells, Dunne & Harlan have purchased the road rights to "Dream City" from Joe Weber and will feature Mary Marble and Sam Chip in the piece.

INDUSTRIAL ITEMS.

In 1891 Canada had 2,000,000 acres under wheat. Today her wheat area has passed the 5,000,000 acre mark.

The world is now using 52,000,000 tons of pig iron yearly, and it is estimated that there will be an iron ore famine in less than forty years from now.

Pipes made of re-enforced concrete for transmitting water under pressure have been constructed. These pipes are really one continuous tube each several hundred feet long. In diameter they are from two feet to three feet, the longest single section being 600 feet. The inside is made smooth, plained lumber being used in the forms.

CYCLONES.

The air is always warmer in front of a cyclone than in its rear. The former, too, is wet, while the latter is dry.

A cyclone may have any diameter from 100 to 3,000 miles. The usual dimensions are between 1,000 to 2,000 miles.

A cyclone, or large circular storm, may die out in a single day or it may last for a fortnight. It usually travels eastward at about twenty miles an hour.

Herbert M. Douglass, of West Front street, who with Mrs. Douglass is spending the summer at Point Pleasant, has been in town for a few days.

Patrick Breen, of Muhlenberg place, will sail on June 22 on the Anchor Line boat, "Astoria," for a visit to his former home in Londonderry.

Mrs. Mary Squier has been entertained by Mrs. John W. Herbert, her sister, of Wickatunk.

LIFE-LONG CRIPPLE DIES AT ALMSHOUSE

ELMER KREGAR HAD BAFFLED PHYSICIANS BY HIS PECULIAR AFFLICTION.

Elmer Kregar, who had been a cripple all of his life, and whose case has baffled well-known doctors of this city, New Brunswick and New York, died at the Piscataway Almshouse Saturday. He was about the most remarkable inmate that the almshouse has ever had, excepting, of course, that famous old fellow, Noah Raby, who was cut down in his youth a few years ago at the age of 132 or thereabouts.

Kregar was eighteen years old, and was an inherited cripple, Superintendent Henry Hummer declares. He came from a family of cripples. For the first ten years of his life he was able to toddle around a little. The next five years of his life he was only able to sit in a chair and for the past three years and four months he laid in bed.

He had not been able in these three years to move a muscle of his body an inch, excepting his fingers, which he was able to twitch a little, and his eyebrows which he was able to move. He was totally powerless and the township maintained a special nurse all of the time to take care of him. He was at the almshouse for thirteen years.

And in those years he never missed a meal and he never complained of his condition or his lot in life. He never spoke of his illness; never made a complaint that fate had used him roughly.

The only time that Superintendent Hummer heard him speak of his suffering was Saturday when he was dying.

"Oh, dear, Boss," he exclaimed, "I am choking."

The boy was buried yesterday afternoon at South Plainfield, where the Piscataway township has a plot for the burial of its poor. The boy has a sister residing in Plainfield.

CHARGES PREFERRED AGAINST SOMERVILLE COP.

Town Commissioners Will Hear Complaints of Citizens next Tuesday Night.

The charges made against Officer Robert Henderson of the Somerville police force will be heard by the Committee on Police of the Somerville Board of Commissioners on Tuesday, June 25, at 8 p. m., in the engine house at Somerville. Aaron Mescrole and George C. Mundy charge Policeman Henderson with conduct unbecoming an officer, while on duty. Mundy has made a specific charge against Henderson of drinking beer at the bar in John Maurer's saloon while in uniform on the night of June 6 and of then assaulting him while intoxicated later in the night. Mescrole charges Henderson with drinking beer in Germania Hall while in uniform on May 26 and with assaulting him on the same night.

Officer Henderson has retained lawyer Azariah S. Beekman to defend him and Counselor Clarence B. Case represents the young men who make the charge. Much interest is manifested in the outcome of the trial. Lawyer Case has filed supplementary charges and has also asked that certain witnesses be subpoenaed to give testimony when the hearing takes place.

Officer Henderson has been on the force for six years and has always proven a most exemplary policeman. His hosts of friends scout the idea of his being guilty of the misconduct charged.

REAPPOINT CLERK.

North Plainfield School Board Acts Under the New Law.

The North Plainfield Board of Education authorized the building and grounds committee, at an adjourned meeting, Monday, to make a number of improvements to the schools during the vacation. The manual training school is to be separated.

Acting under the new law, which requires the board to appoint a district clerk for the year beginning July 1, Albert Steiner, the present clerk, was reappointed. He will receive the same salary.

The commencement committee reported that all arrangements for the exercises at W. H. C. A. Friday night were completed. It was announced that Rev. Dr. Parsons, of Grace M. E. church, would offer the prayer.

Capt. Biglow Calls for Candidates.

Captain Ray Biglow, of the Yale football team, has announced that candidates for the 1907 team will begin work on the gridiron on September 15. Among the men who will report at this time are G. Berger, A. A. Biddle, H. P. Bingham, C. T. Cooney, E. H. Noy, H. G. Holt, Tad Jones, N. H. Stevenson, S. E. Wylie and H. M. Wheaton.

EDITORS' ANNUAL OUTING

Newspapermen and Their Wives the Guests of the New Jersey Central.

AT ISLAND PARK

Sixth Annual Affair Proves to Be One of the Most Delightful Yet Given By the Road.

The sixth annual outing and complimentary dinner tendered to the editors along its lines in New Jersey by the Pennsylvania by the New Jersey Central was given Saturday and proved a delightful affair for the editors and their wives. The day was perfect and the place selected, Island Park, Easton, is an ideal spot for such a gathering. The special vestibule train, with dining car attached, from Point Pleasant, Thomas Flanagan, conductor, stopped at Plainfield at 9:50 and A. R. Parkhurst and wife, of the Courier-News, H. H. Webb and wife, of the North Plainfield Weekly Review, and A. L. Force and wife, of The Daily Press, the invited guests from Plainfield, stepped aboard, and were cordially greeted by District Passenger Agent C. K. Armstrong, of Newark; I. E. White, district passenger agent, of Asbury Park, and Arthur Tomalin, advertising agent of the road.

The run to Phillipsburg was made in one hour and ten minutes, including six stops for other editors and their wives. At Phillipsburg, the Easton Traction Company, owners of Island Park, placed a half dozen special trolley cars at the disposal of the party and soon they were on a delightful trolley ride across the Delaware river into the business section of Easton and thence along the Lehigh river to Island Park, about five miles west of Easton.

Arriving at the park about 11:20, all were made to feel the hearty greeting of the "Central's" officials—"It's All Yours, Step in and Help Yourselves." After renewing acquaintance with the Pennsylvania editors, who arrived about 12 o'clock on a special train from Scranton, dinner was announced and the whole party, about 200 in number, sat down in a large covered pavilion, "Hawthorn's," where a full course dinner was served to the accompaniment of lively music by a fine orchestra.

After dinner, W. C. Hope, the genial general passenger agent of the road, mounted a chair and in well-chosen words welcomed all, closing his remarks after a favorite saying of President Roosevelt that he was "De-lighted" to see his friends the editors and their wives at this sixth annual outing. Mr. Hope read telegrams from Charles M. Burt and Mr. Hayden, regretting their inability to be present and also a letter of regret from Mr. Besler, full of good cheer from the Chief of the Somerville Board of Commissioners on Tuesday, June 25, at 8 p. m., in the engine house at Somerville. Aaron Mescrole and George C. Mundy charge Policeman Henderson with conduct unbecoming an officer, while on duty. Mundy has made a specific charge against Henderson of drinking beer at the bar in John Maurer's saloon while in uniform on the night of June 6 and of then assaulting him while intoxicated later in the night. BIG FIELD OF GOLFERS

Sixty-Four Starters in Metropolitan Association's Event on Country Club Links.

LOW SCORES RULED

Best Net Returned By Frank O. Reinhart But Rules Keep Him From Getting Prize.

The one-day golf tournament open to the men of the Metropolitan Golf Association, which was held at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday, was a great success. The field was much larger than anticipated and exceeded the most sanguine expectations of the club members. It was the first event of the kind ever held at the local club, although they have been frequent in the Women's M. G. A. and in the West, and as the Wykagyl and other clubs in the association have taken up the lead of the Plainfield Country Club, the innovation promises to be a feature of the season.

There was not much of an advance entry list, as it was understood that the contestants would be paired at the first tee. The handicapping, which was under the personal direction of Leighton Calkins, was satisfactory in every way and not a complaint was heard.

There were sixty-four starters and all but a few posted their scores. It was a disappointment that Walter J. Travis and Jerome D. Travers were not among the players, but Findlay S. Douglas, Archie Reid, Max Behr and J. L. Taylor, who won the handicap event at Garden City, last season, furnished a quartette of well-known outside talent. As was to be expected there were several ties.

Frank O. Reinhart returned the best net score for the day, a 70, but being a member of the home club was not eligible to take the first prize. Findlay Douglas, who was tie with Reinhart for the best gross score, received the first prize, while the Plainfield receives the second gross score prize. L. P. Gwyer, of Siwanoy, received the third gross score prize on the playoff of a tie with Marshall Whitlatch and Archie Reid for the best net score prize, there being three ties at 71.

It was pretty late when all the scores were posted, but the players who were tied for the first net score prize were willing to playoff and they did at 12 holes. It was nearly 8 o'clock when the play was completed, the result was that Archie Reid, of St. Andrew, won the first prize, with a score of 52; Marshall Whitlatch received the second net score prize with a score of 55. There still remained one tie between S. H. Lockert, of Montclair, and C. W. Hunt, of Englewood, for the third net score prize, each returning a 74. Mr. Lockert went home directly after he finished and this match will have to be played later.

All of the scores were excellent, although some of them were not as low as expected. There was not a net score of 100, the highest being a 98, returned by W. H. Rose, of Arsdale.

The committee in charge of the tournament, of which Silus E. Erickson was the chairman, performed its duties in a way that pleased everyone. Roy Cox and C. B. Morgan looked after the score board and posted the various scores as the contestants came in. The visiting players were much pleased with the tournament, the course and the hospitality of the home club. During the afternoon each group of players was followed by a fair sized gallery which lent additional interest.

The course was never in better condition, which was due to the untiring efforts of Mr. Calkins, chairman of the Green committee. He was on the course as early as 6:30 Saturday morning and had his men at work putting on the finishing touches, and he remained there throughout the day. After the tournament there were many dinner parties, the home club members entertaining such of the visiting players as could stay.

The complete list of scores returned in the tournament follow:

Frank O. Reinhart, Plainfield Country Club, 73, 3—70; Archie Reid, St. Andrews, 75, 6—75; Marshall Whitlatch, Montclair, 75, 4—71; Findlay S. Douglas, Nassau, 73, 2—71; L. P. Gwyer, Siwanoy, 76, 5—71; S. H. Lockert, Montclair, 78, 4—74; C. W. Hunt, Englewood, 85, 11—74; Morris J. Dumont, Plainfield Country Club, 81, 6—75; E. M. Wild, Cranford, 86, 2—75; R. Story Rowland, Plainfield Country Club, 82, 6—76; Henry D. Hibbard, Plainfield Country Club, 84, 7—77; S. D. Bowers, Brooklawn, 82, 5—77; M. R. Thurston, Nassau, 82, 5—77; H. V. Gaines, Wykagyl, 86, 9—77; Harold Wilcox, Montclair, 82, 4—78; J. B. C. Baker, Arsdale, 84, 6—78; J. M. Rhett, Dyker Meadow, 85, 4—78; M. N. Buckner, Garden City, 87, 9—79; Joseph Sherman, Jr., Westfield, 84, 5—79; S. Wood, Wykagyl, Arsdale, 85, 6—79; C. B. Morgan, Plainfield Country Club, 82, 3—79; J. R. Larendon, Englewood, 89, 10—79; Dudley H. Barrows, Plainfield Country Club, 82, 3—79; F. S. Wheeler, Nassau, 86, 6—80; J. F. Taylor, Montclair, 89, 9—80; J. H. Bell, Wykagyl, 88, 8—80; J. L. Taylor, Garden City, 84, 4—80; W. Lester Glenney, Plainfield Country Club, 85, 4—81; J. P. Murray, Plainfield Country Club, 99, 18—81; F. C. Jennings, Nassau, 85, 4—81; C. S. Poor, Westfield, 94, 12—82; D. C. Hillyeald, Scarsdale, 91, 8—83; Hugh F. Fox, Plainfield Country Club, 101, 18—83; G. E. Cathcart, Plainfield Country Club, 95, 12—83; Max Behr, Morris County, 87, 4—83; E. L. Rhett, Dyker Meadow, 90, 7—83; J. R. Turner, Wykagyl, 91, 8—83; T. J. Watson, Dunwoodie, 92, 9—83; Arthur Murphy, Plainfield Country Club, 91, 7—84; W. H. Harris, Dunwoodie, 92, 8—84; F. J. Phillips, Dyker Meadow, 92, 8—84; C. C. Marshall, Westfield, 96, 10—86; A. H. Gussman, Arsdale, 100, 14—86; W. L. Thomas, Princeton, 93, 6—87; W. D. Riggs, Plainfield Country Club, 99, 11—88; W. J. Bogert, Westfield, 97, 8—89; E. B. Shoemaker, 95, 6—89; W. H. Marsh, Arsdale, 103, 13—90; Julius E. Erickson, Plainfield Country Club, 103, 13—90; F. W. L. Fullerton, Arsdale, 100, 10—90; G. F. Earl, Plainfield Country Club, 108, 14—94; W. B. Tyler, 109, 14—95; W. H. Rose, Arsdale, 110, 12—98.

EAST JERSEY TENNIS PLAY AT THE PARK CLUB

MATCHES ON THE COURTS FOLLOWED BY A DANCE.

All but two matches were completed in the first round of the mixed doubles championship under the auspices of the East Jersey Lawn Tennis Association at the Park Club, Saturday afternoon, and one match in the second round was finished. It was a great day for tennis and the large number of entries guaranteed some fine playing. In all there were twenty-two entries and nearly all played. The scores throughout were very close.

The presence of the Misses Wildey from the Plainfield Country Club was attended with considerable interest for they have been playing exceptionally fast tennis this season. They sustained their reputation and in their matches played a brilliant game.

The two matches to be played in the first round are between Miss A. R. Robinson and Roger Black, Ilderan Outing Club, and Miss Marcus and G. B. Fielder, Danforth Tennis Club; Miss Edna Wildey and Wylie Brown and Miss Mildred Wildey and Willard Wadsworth, Plainfield Country Club. It is expected that the tournament will be completed next Saturday afternoon.

Following Saturday's play there was a dance in the clubhouse, which was largely attended by the players, the members of the Park Club, the Plainfield Country Club and their friends. It was a delightful social function to a successful tournament on the tennis courts.

The result of Saturday's play is as follows:

Preliminary round—Miss Anna Rankin and H. Glazebrook, Elizabeth and Town Country Club, defeated Mrs. Serrell and M. J. Serrell, Park Club, 6—1, 6—3.

Miss Janet Wildey and Howard Carter, Plainfield Country Club, defeated Miss Sarah Mae Howell and Roy Long, Park Club, 6—4, 6—3.

Miss Sarah Schuyler and H. J. Cochran, Plainfield Country Club, defeated Mrs. A. H. Church and M. S. Charlock, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, 6—4, 6—8, 6—4.

Miss A. R. Robinson and Roger Black, Ilderan Outing Club, defeated Miss Thomas and N. F. Charlock, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, 6—4, 10—8.

Miss Marcus and G. B. Fielder, Danforth Tennis Club, defeated Mrs. S. Fenton Weaver and William Barlow, Park Club, 6—0, 6—8, 6—0.

Miss Edna Wildey and Wylie Brown, Plainfield Country Club, defeated Miss Haines and R. A. West, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, 4—6, 6—4, 6—4.

First round—Miss Handy and E. S. H. Pendergast, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, defeated Miss Ball and E. M. Daniel, Park Club, 6—1, 6—2.

Big Coal Order.

The Y. M. C. A. is having one hundred tons of coal put in. The association has never had more than ten tons put in at one time, the large amount having been ordered to get the advantage of a special rate.

WRECKED AGAINST TREE

Trolley Car Jumps Track and Motorman Has Narrow Escape.

TRACKS IN BAD SHAPE

Car Goes Off at Point Where Wheels Have Hard Job Staying On—Motorman Sticks to His Post.

Trolley car No. 259, of the Somerset street line, northbound, jumped the track near the Greenbrook bridge shortly after 12:30 o'clock Monday, and nearly wrecked itself against a tree in front of Horace J. Martin's blacksmith shop. The motorman, John Hill, of Dunellen, had a narrow escape from injury, and the dozen passengers and a number of passers-by might have been hurt in ten or more different ways, but luck held good all the way through the accident. The car was only slightly damaged, and the tree will go on growing. It was an spectacular an accident as the trolley company has furnished for some time, and a crowd of people spent a half hour thinking up the various ways in which everybody on the car and seven or eight people on the street might have been mashed up and killed.

Ashad stretch of track was responsible for 259's jump. The rails are so bad where the car left them that it is a wonder a dozen cars a day haven't done what 259 did. Hill, the motorman, shut off power when he approached the stretch, but the car was going some when the front truck left the rails. Hill put on the brake hard, but the car went on for thirty feet or more and then swung around almost full and headed for the walk. It hit the curb with a bang, went up on the flags and brought up full against the tree before Mr. Martin's place. It smashed a box sign about the tree to flinders, and the fender went to smash.

Hill clung to the brake all the way. He had time to jump as the car headed for the tree, but he took his chances to kill what speed he could in the grinding wheels. The impact threw him hard against the car front, and his left leg was badly wrenched. Dr. A. M. Dundon examined it after the crash, and said his injury was not serious.

The passengers were badly rattled when the car turned toward the walk, but none of them jumped. Jerry Griffin, the conductor, jumped as the car hit; he was not hurt. A woman and a child on the same seat could be learned, was slightly injured. Leonard Young, a barber, who was crossing the street when the car jumped around, reported himself hurt to the conductor. He said something knocked him down and gave him an awful bump.

The accident did not make the track worse than it had been, and traffic was not delayed. The passengers who felt brave enough to risk their lives over the rest of the scarred and gouged and bumpy rails transferred to the next car.

HIS AUTO WRECKED.

Mr. Tilney's Cautious Driving Went for Naught on Pluckemin Road.

A. A. Tilney, of Central avenue, driving his touring automobile to Morristown Sunday afternoon, pulled to one side of the road between Pluckemin and Somerville, to give a clear path to an approaching car. Mr. Tilney is a cautious driver, and he went almost to the ditch in his anxiety to give the other car plenty of room. He might just as well have stayed in the center of the roadway, because the other auto took a plunge into his machine. The front wheels engaged, and a general ripping and tearing ensued. Nobody was hurt, but the colliding car was put out of commission, and Mr. Tilney's car was crippled so it could hardly limp home.

Nobody could tell what brought the other machine into the Tilney auto. It is supposed the driver thought he had room enough to go by, and left himself no time for steering out when the miscalculation made itself evident.

In Mr. Tilney's car were Mrs. Tilney, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Murray, Jr., and the chauffeur. The other car was driven by a Montclair man, who gave his name to Mr. Tilney. Neither car was going over eight miles an hour. Mrs. Tilney and Mrs. Murray came home by trolley. The men stuck to the crippled auto.

Meet in Denver.

Charles B. Morse, of Franklin place, who has just returned from a trip to the West, met W. W. St. John, the former Plainfield editor, in Denver, to where the latter went early in the year, for the benefit of his health. Mr. Morse was the first Plainfielder Mr. and Mrs. St. John have seen in six months, and the meeting, in that faraway city, was correspondingly enjoyed. Mr. Morse spent a day with Mr. and Mrs. St. John, driving with them about the city. He was struck with the improvement in Mr. St. John's appearance. Mr. St. John said he felt better than he had in many months, and was confident of full recovery.

BISHOP SCARBOROUGH CONSECRATES GRACE CHURCH

Large and Brilliant Congregation Gathers to Take Part in the Joyous Service.

MANY CLERICS ATTEND

Impressive Procession of Church Dignitaries—Bishop Met at Door By Wardens and Vestrymen.

Before a congregation that filled

Grace P. E. Church.

Rev. E. M. Rodman, Speaker of the Day at the Consecration Service.

the edifice, Grace Protestant Episcopal church was consecrated by Bishop Scarborough this morning. The church wore a festal air, handsome gowns uniting with floral decorations to render the church interior brilliant. The altar was lavishly decorated with blooms.

Prominent clerics took part in the service. Episcopal clergymen from a number of parishes of the diocese were present, and a number of local ministers attended the service. Among the clergymen who took part were Rev. Dr. Parker Morgan, of the Church of the Heavenly Rest, New York, and Rev. Dr. William R. Huntington, of Grace church, New York.

The service began at 10:30 o'clock. The processional formed in the parish house, with the bishop leading, attended by Drs. Morgan and Huntington; the preacher of the day, Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector emeritus of Grace church, came next, then the visiting clergy in the order of their seniority; then the crucifer, Arthur Willis, and the choir, attended by the rector, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, as chaplain of the choir. The course of the processional was down Sycamore street to Seventh street, to the main door of the church.

At the entrance the bishop was met by Wardens Howard Fleming and Marion S. Ackerman, and Vestrymen S. D. Lounsbery, W. T. Gough, O. G. Waring, Lewis G. Timpson, J. Paul Nolting, E. H. Booth, and W. T. Pelletier. Preceded by the wardens and vestrymen the procession continued up the aisle, the bishop and clergymen repeating the 24th psalm responsively. The Bishop passed into the sanctuary attended by Dr. Huntington and the rector emeritus. There, seated in a chair, he was presented with the processional papers, by which the diocese becomes vested with the church property. Carrying out the office of consecration, the bishop then addressed the congregation, bidding them pray for the blessing of God on the church and the parish.

At the conclusion of the prayer the sentences of consecration were read and laid on the communion table. After which the bishop pronounced a blessing. That concluded the actual consecration.

A shortened form of morning prayer and a shortened form of the communion service followed. The Bishop said the communion office. Dr. Huntington was epistler and Dr. Morgan gospeler.

The venerable rector emeritus preached the sermon at the appointed place in the communion service. His text was from St. James' epistle to the Hebrews, first chapter, third

PERTH AMBOY TEAM PUTS UP POOR GAME

RARITANS FAIL TO SCORE AGAINST CLINTON AVENUES.

The baseball game on Crescent Oval Saturday afternoon between Clinton Avenue and the Raritans, of Perth Amboy, was a disappointment to the crowd. The local team won the contest by a score of 9 to 0, and were able to score in every inning, except the last three. The visitors did not have even a look-in. Randolph allowed them but two hits, Barter and Golden each getting a single. There was nothing to it at all for the Raritans, in fact they might just as well have staid home.

The Clinton Avenues put up their usual good game. Every member of the team but Barnes and D. Scott hit the leather good and proper. Brit, Martin, Emery, J. Martin and Randolph each got two hits. The fact that the Raritans are credited with seven errors, explains partially why they lost the game, while their inability to connect with Randolph's curves accounts for the poor showing in run-getting. The lineup and score by innings:

WAITING FOR THE KNIFE.

Mr. Listman Getting Himself in Condition for Operation for Appendicitis.

Physical Director Listman, of the Y. M. C. A., who has been ill for five days, is gathering strength for an operation. His illness has been diagnosed as appendicitis, and his physician has ordered him to husband his strength for the operation that will be necessary. The case is not acute, and surgery will not be necessary for a week or two.

In ignorance of the serious condition to which he was tending, Mr. Listmas left his sickbed Saturday afternoon to direct the meet of the S. S. A. A. at the Riding and Driving Club. His sustenance since Thursday forning had been two pieces of toast, but he stayed through the meet and then went to Scotch Plains to see the Y. M. C. A. nine play the Plains team. He is not confined to his bed, but he will have to take things easy until the doctors are ready to put him under the knife.

Led Big Cotillion.

Mrs. Ella C. Westcott, the dancing instructor of Somerville, who formerly had a class in this city, has returned to her home from Reading, Pa., where she attended the twenty-fourth annual convention of the National Association Masters of Dancing of the United States and Canada. Mrs. Westcott was re-elected vice president, an office which she has held for the past ten years. The cotillion in the auditorium was attended by 1,200 people and was the big event of the convention. It was led by Mrs. Westcott, who introduced a new cotillion figure, "The Reading," named after the city. After it was over she was twice obliged to respond to encores.

A REMARKABLE PHYSIQUE

Bennet Brittin Practically a "Younster" at His Ninety Fourth Birthday.

DEFIES OLD AGE

Scorns Glasses, Plays Pool and Takes Five Mile Walks Just For the Exercise.

Mr. Brittin was born at Paterson, on June 16, 1813, of Dutch parentage and it is doubtful at the present time if another man in a dozen would guess his age at more than seventy-five. Tall and erect with no semblance of the stoop brought by the weight of years, he is up and doing every day of the year and does work that "youngsters" of sixty would think twice before attempting. At the present time he conducts a pool room at his place in the Evona district and there are few men who chase the ivories over the table that can beat him at the game. Scorning glasses and with a steady hand, this agile nonogenarian handles the cue like a professional and often stops to hand out pointers to his competitors.

And he is very much interested in athletics, too. Strange as it may seem, when the Hook & L. held the big Fourth of July celebration five years ago, Mr. Brittin tendered his entry for the fat men's race. After their first shock of surprise was over, the officials refused it with the explanation that they were afraid the exertion would prove too much for him. The applicant was very much offended, and since then he has met and defeated several runners in friendly matches. He keeps an eye on the sports of the day and can hand out baseball dope with the most pronounced crank.

Mr. Brittin is a veteran of the Civil War, having served with distinction in the First N. Y. (Lincoln's) cavalry, and his striding figure is familiar in the local G. A. R. Memorial Day parades. At last month's celebration he marched over the entire route and finished up without the least sign of fatigue. The walk from Clinton avenue to town and back again is a matter of nothing to him and he frequently takes a five mile jaunt just as an appetizer.

For the greater part of his life, this remarkable "old-young" man has been in the hotel business, starting in at Sixth avenue and Forty-first street opposite the Crystal palace site, when little more than a boy. He was forty-eight years old when the call to arms came from Lincoln, but he declared he was forty-five in order to be one of the "boys in blue." After the war he returned to New York but soon after came to Plainfield and took up farming in what is now Terrill road, near the Jackson school house. He built the hotel at Terrill road and South avenue and after conducting it for some years, in 1856 bought of George Miller, who was proprietor of a similar place at Scotch Plains. This he managed until 1882 when he disposed of the business to "Billy" Lee and located at Clinton avenue.

Mr. Brittin's memory is wonderful and he relates facts as far back as 1825 with amazing accuracy. He is a very interesting talker and it seems like reading a page from history to have him tell of the old days in New York when everybody ran to fires. When the Dutch night watchman roamed the streets and called out "zweif o'clock and all be well" and when all traveling was accomplished by stage coach.

Mr. Brittin's father lived to be ninety-four and his mother to ninety-seven. His paternal grandfather died at the ripe old age of 104. He has but one daughter, Mrs. Susan DeCastro, of Havana, Cuba, who is visiting him at the present time.

GETTING HOSPITAL FUNDS.

James B. Duke and J. Harper Smith Aid Somerville Institution.

The first two people to respond to the request of the special committee appointed to secure funds for the enlargement of Somerset Hospital in Somerville were J. Harper Smith, the wealthy mill owner, and James B. Duke, president of the American Tobacco Company. The former contributed $1,000 and the latter $500.

About $8,000 will be necessary for the proposed work and it is expected that more than this amount will be forthcoming in two weeks, as 200 letters of appeal were sent out to prominent residents of Somerville and the county. Somerset Hospital has been in operation for six years and during that time it has cared for 500 patients. During the past year, because of lack of room, the hospital has been unable to care for all who applied. Work will begin late in the summer.

MISS EDNA M. NICHOLL A CHARMING JUNE BRIDE

WEDDED AT HOME CEREMONY TO JONATHAN A. RAWSON, OF BROOKLYN.

Miss Edna Marion Nicholl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas J. Nicholl, of Mountain avenue, Scotch Plains, and Jonathan Ansel Rawson, of Brooklyn, were quietly married Saturday night at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the bride's parents. Owing to the recent death of the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Townsend, the invitations were limited to the families of the contracting parties and a few intimate friends. Rev. Clarence C. Woodruff, pastor of the Roselle Park Methodist Episcopal church, performed the ceremony.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Florence Nicholl, as maid-of-honor, and the ribbon girls were Miss Louise Townsend Nicholl, sister of the bride; Miss Kate Cameron Simmons, of Brooklyn; Miss Mabel Alger Powell, of Ghent, N. Y.; Miss Anne Elizabeth Rawson, of East Alstead, N. H., sister of the groom. The flower bearers were Miss Katherine vanDyke and Robert Avery vanDyke, of Westfield, niece and nephew of the bride.

The bridal party was met in the parlor by the groom and his best man, Chester Tapley Porter, of Worcester, Mass. The ceremony was performed beneath a bower of lotest, the bride being given away by her father.

The bride was gowned in a princess lace robe over white satin and wore a tulle veil. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and sweet peas and maiden-hair fern. The maid-of-honor wore a gown of pink point d'esprit over pink silk and carried a shower bouquet of mignonettes. The ribbon girls were gowned, two in pale green and two in violet. The flower bearers were dressed in white and carried daisies.

The house was elaborately decorated, the parlor being in white and green, the supper room in pink and green, there being a profusion of flowers and greens.

After the ceremony the couple received congratulations and supper was served. Later Mr. and Mrs. Rawson left for a wedding trip. The bride is a graduate of Swarthmore College. She was formerly contralto soloist at the first Presbyterian church, and is very popular. She received a large number of gifts of use and value. The groom is a graduate of Amherst College, and a number of classmates from both Swarthmore and Amherst attended the wedding. The groom is engaged in the sporting business in New York and he and his bride will reside at Summit upon their return.

PARK GOLF PLAYERS COMPETE FOR POINTS.

Good Field Out Saturday Despite Counter Attractions in Tennis and Other Sports.

Notwithstanding the many counter attractions in golf and tennis there was a good field out at the Park Golf Club, Saturday afternoon, to compete for the President's, Golf Club and Hydewood Park cups, and just an even dozen posted their scores in these events.

Reuben Knox, Rev. J. O. McKelvey and Rev. C. L. Goodrich won points for the President's cup, and in addition they together with Alexander Gilbert and L. R. Thurlow won points for the Hydewood Park cup. Mr. McKelvey won first honors for the Golf Club cup, scratch event, Mr. Goodrich was second and Mr. Knox and Mr. Thurlow were tied for third honors. These scores were returned for the three trophies:

Reuben Knox, 105, 22—83; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, 96, 10—86; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 98, 11—87; Alexander Gilbert, 110, 22—88; L. R. Thurlow, 105, 15—90; E. A. Lyon, 121, 30—91; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 109, 16—93; George A. Chapman, 112, 18—95; Charles W. McCutchen, 114, 18—96; Raymond V. Carpenter, 120, 24—96; J. B. Betts, 124, 28—96; Charles A. Reed, 112, 14—98.

DEATH OF DR. SWINTON.

Prominent Somerville Physician a Victim of Throat Paralysis.

Dr. William J. Swinton, one of the best known physicians and surgeons in the State, died this morning at his home in Somerville, after one day's illness from throat paralysis. He was sixty-seven years of age and during the past few years was not quite as active as formerly.

Dr. Swinton was the son of Mrs. Agnes Swinton and a brother of Mrs. F. C. Langhorne, both of this city. He was born in Florida Springs, N. Y., and early in life prepared for a professional career. He was graduated from a classical college in France, and from Bellevue Medical College, New York, in 1872. Afterwards he returned to Paris to complete his medical course. He was an expert surgeon and for years was a physician for the New Jersey Central. He is survived by a wife and two children, a son and daughter. The son is a graduate of John Leal's School, this city, and is now an insurance broker.

Mr. and Mrs. Sylvester Seals, of East Fifth street, have returned from an extended trip through the West.

LESSONS OF THE CROSS

Rev. A. E. Finn Preaches Annual Sermon to Golden Eagle Knights.

SIN'S BITTER PENALTY

Defective Conception of Sin Leads People to Speak Scornfully of the Atonement—Pledge of Salvation.

The annual sermon to Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, was preached by Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, Sunday. The knights met at the castle hall in the Babcock building, and marched in a body to the church, wearing uniform caps and regalia. The sermon and the service were of unusual interest to the knights, because Mr. Finn has just become a member of the order.

Preaching on "The Unsurpassed Theme," from Galatians 6:14, Mr. Finn said, in substance:

"In Scott's 'Lady of the Lake' we have given the account of how the old priest summoned the Clan to action. He took a piece of wood and converted it into a cross and dipped it in blood, and started it on its thrilling errand with these words:

"'Who flits the cross from man to man,
Vich-Alpine's summons to his clan.'

Burst he the ear that fails to heed!
Palsied the foot that fails to speed!
And be the grace to him denied,
Bought by this sign to all beside!'

"At the sight of the blood stained cross the fisherman left the strand, the blacksmith left his anvil, the farmer left his plough, the young man left his new made bride, and they all went to do duty in defense of home and country. What was there in that blood stained cross that inspired those men to action? What is there in this little wooden cross that plays such an important part in the ritual of your order? Is there any magic in the wood out of which it is made? Is there any virtue in the form into which this wood has been shaped? The cross was once an emblem of ignominy and shame to an emblem of sacrifice and love? Brothers I want you to ascend Mount Calvary with me tonight that we may see the place where Jesus was crucified, that we may see the place of our reconciliation with God, that we may see the place where the price was paid for our redemption and salvation; and as we stand under the shadow of the cross I want you to think of some important lessons which it teaches.

"The cross of Jesus gives us God's estimate of sin. Turn to your Bibles and you find this teaching about sin: 1. That sin is so bad that it brought upon the sinner the death penalty. 2. That sin is so bad that no penalty short of the death of the Son of God could atone for and cleanse from it. How many people speak now with scorn about the atonement, and why? Because of a defective conception of sin. We will never appreciate the cross of Jesus until we have the Bible conception of sin, viz., that it destroys our lives here and hereafter.

"The cross of Jesus gives us an estimate of God's love for man. We hear much about the sweetness of love, but it has another side and that is why it is the antithesis of selfishness. Love costs; God did not love man without a tremendous cost. There was peril in Christ's mission to the world. In his marvelous love for us he put his lips to the poison of our sin and died.

"The cross of Jesus is the pledge of our salvation. The chasm made by sin has been bridged by the cross of Christ. Christ had to die that he might render men service, and especially that he might render them the service of being a ransom, that he might bring a liberating, emancipating, freeing power into their lost and enslaved lives.

"Our acceptance of the finished work on the cross is the pledge of our future happiness. Heaven is the place where man meets his God, where we shall see Him face to face, where hope merges into fruition, where home looms up brighter, more glorious and eternal, and where happiness becomes complete, unalloyed, and endless, and heaven is not attained by any merits of ours. It is attained by the acceptance of the finished work on the cross."

GAVE A HOUSE PARTY.

A house-party at the home of Miss Helen Armstrong, of Duer street, beginning Friday night, included several guests from out of town, among whom were Miss Trixie Nash, of Brooklyn; Miss Bessie Leary, of Utica, and Arthur S. Lawrence, of Easton, Pa. The festivities began with a card party at Miss Armstrong's home on Friday night. Saturday afternoon the young people went to "Big Tree Farm," near Dunellen, where various sports were played and dancing enjoyed.

Besides the hostess and those mentioned, others in the party were Miss Strickland and Mr. Close, of Bound Brook; Miss Morgan, Miss Shock, Miss Long, Fred Armstrong, Enoch and Edward Hardingham, Mr. Wilson, Mr. Peter and Fred Leary, of Plainfield.

DEATH COMES TO MRS. LYDIA P. ACKERMAN

PASSED AWAY AT AT HER HOME, "LYDE PARK," SCOTCH PLAINS.

Mrs. Lydia P. Ackerman, widow of the late Warren Ackerman, Esq., died at her home, "Lyde Park," Scotch Plains, early Sunday morning. For several months she had not enjoyed her customary good health, but only within a short time has her vitality failed.

While Mrs. Ackerman had no children of her own, a gentle and life long care has been extended to her nephews, Furman Platt, of New York, who survives her, and who was constantly with her during her last illness.

Among her wide circle of relatives and acquaintances, Mrs. Ackerman has always been known for her unselfish and lovable character, and her death will carry a long and sincere sorrow to the hearts of many who have enjoyed her friendship and been comforted by her tender and practical sympathy.

BRIEF ILLNESS FATAL TO MRS. ISAAC M. RUNYON.

Died Saturday From Bronchial Affection Which Affected Her Nine Days Before.

Mrs. Susan Van Runyon, wife of Isaac M. Runyon, aged seventy-three years, died suddenly at her home on West Front street and Washington avenue, Saturday afternoon after a brief illness from bronchial affection with which she was taken a few days before. She recovered sufficiently to visit some friends at Metuchen on Thursday. Friday and Saturday she was feeling better, but Saturday she was a little weaker. Early in the afternoon she was taken with a fainting spell and quietly passed away.

Mrs. Runyon was Miss Susan M. Stelle, daughter of Drake Stelle, of Stelton, where she was born. She was married to Mr. Runyon forty-eight years ago and lived where she died from that time. Mr. Runyon has been at his present place of residence and has always resided there. Mrs. Runyon was the last of four sisters and three brothers. She was a faithful member and regular attendant of the First Baptist church, and was especially interested in the cause of missions. She was a woman of exemplary Christian character and beloved by all who knew her. She is survived by a husband, a daughter, Miss Louise Runyon, a teacher in the Bryant School, and one son, Howard J. Runyon.

Explosion Suit for $5,000.

Edward Burroughs, former postmaster at Metuchen, has brought suit against the Pennsylvania railroad for $5,000 damages done to his building on Main street by the explosion of a freight engine at Metuchen on March 22. The explosion occurred alongside the Burroughs building and red hot iron and coal were hurled through his building injuring it. Three men were killed by the explosion, the engineer, fireman and a brakeman. Senator Silzer, of New Brunswick, is counsel for the plaintiff.

BAPTISTS WON THE MEET

Take Another Cup in Outdoor Competition of the S. S. A. A.

NO TROUBLE TO WIN

But Congregationalists Made a Stronger Bid For First Honors Than In Other Meets.

Another cup was won by the First Baptist Church. Sunday-school for athletic supremacy Saturday afternoon. The Baptist entrants in the out-door meet of the Sunday-school Athletic League held to form, and had no particular trouble in repeating the triumphs of the indoor meets. At the same time, the victory was not as one-sided by a good deal as the others had been. The Congregationalists made a strong bid for the cup, and only fourteen points separated them from the leaners at the end of the day. The meet was at the Riding and Driving Club grounds.

The Baptists scored sixty-seven points, and the Congregationalists, fifty-three. The First Methodist school, the only other to contest, scored eight, Stryker Hoagland won the gruelling mile run for them handily.

A feature of the meet was the sprinting of D. R. Miller, First Bap*tist. He took five firsts and easily* led in medal winning.

Summaries:

100 yard dash (seniors); first heat, won by J. McClymont. Congregational; H. Douglass, Baptist, second; W. L. Powlison, Baptist, third; second heat, won by C. D. Burgess, Congregational; W. H. Odell, Congregational, second; Gideon Fountain, Baptist, third; final, won by H. Douglass, (disqualified); C. D. Burgess, second; W. H. Odell, third. Time, 10⅓ seconds.

Running hop, step and jump (Intermediate), won by D. R. Miller, Baptist; S. E. Bates, Congregational, second; distance, 30 feet, 9 inches.

A Wedding Announcement.

Announcement is made of the marriage of Miss Minnie Drake, of Arlington avenue, to Martin Hingle, of Plainfield avenue. The ceremony was performed in Newark on March 16 by Rev. F. M. Fennell, pastor of the First Baptist church. They are residing at 514 Arlington avenue for the present.

Y. M. C. A. TEAM LOSES AND DROPS THE LEAD

BIG CROWD WITNESSES SCOTCH PLAINS BEST THE PLAINFIELDERS.

The largest crowd of the season witnessed the Y. M. C. A. team go down to defeat at Scotch Plains, Saturday afternoon, the home team winning by a score of 10 to 5 in an interesting contest. As a result the association nine has lost first place and Scotch Plains holds the position by a narrow margin. The fine support given Frents was largely responsible for the victory of the home nine, although the Plainfield boys outbatted them, securing eleven hits to nine for the opposing team.

The association aggregation was credited with six errors, which did not help matters much for them. Minford had a shade the better of the pitching, striking out eight men, while Frents fanned five batsmen. It was in fielding that the Plains team excelled. In the seventh inning Pond, who tried to steal second, collided with Frents, and was injured so badly that Dr. Hubbard had to take his place for the rest of the game. The score:

Postmaster Bird Undergoes Operation

Postmaster Elias W. Bird, who underwent an operation on Monday for an affection of the gland of the neck, is improving rapidly and he will be able to go out in a few days. Dr. G. W. Endicott performed the operation. The trouble, although not a serious one, began about three months ago, and Mr. Bird decided to have it treated.

NOT AFRAID FOR HERSELF.

Child's Only Thought Was of Damage She Might Do Train.

One day last winter a Vermont girl named Rosa Hines, 14 years old and a farmer's daughter, threw her sled to the crest of a hill half a mile long and then took a slide. Just beyond the foot of the hill are railroad tracks, and as her sled got under motion she saw a train coming. She couldn't stop, and she saw that there must be an accident, so she waved her hood and shouted: "Get out of my way! Get out of my way, or you'll be run over!" The engineer saw the girl waving her hood, even if he didn't hear her words, and he brought a big train of freight cars to a sudden stop just in time to let her shoot by the engine. This is probably the first time in the history of railroading when a girl on a sled was given the right of way over a train. When she was afterwards scolded by her father she naively replied: "Oh, I wasn't scared for myself. I was afraid of hurting the train off the track."

DIDN'T THINK HELP NEEDED.

Simple Fisherman Had Heard of the Wonders of Science.

H. G. Wells, the novelist, spoke at a Boston club about the wonders of modern invention. "Do think and fast," he said, "these new inventions come, life grows rather confusing for plain and simple folk. There was an old fisherman rowing in his boat one day when an automobile canoe sprung a leak near him and immediately sank. To the indignation of the canoe's occupants, the old man paid no heed to them, but rowed calmly on his way, pulling an old clay pipe. However, the wrecked canoeists managed to swim to him, and as they clambered into his boat one sputtered angrily: 'Confound you, why didn't you lend us a hand? Didn't you see we were sinking?' The old man took his pipe out of his mouth and stared at them in astonishment. 'Blest if I didn't think ye wuz one o' them new-fangled submarines,' he said."

Were Superstitious, Too.

A woman who takes her superstitions seriously started to enter a big department store one morning last week when she noticed a porter on a tall stepladder that stretched directly across the doorway, says the New York Press. In spite of the fact that there were five women behind her eager to pass into the shop she came to a sudden halt, looked up at the ladder and cried out. "Oh, I'll never walk under that," saying which she turned and strode away. Before she had gone far her sense of humor rose superior to her fear of ladders, and she looked to see if her remark had had any effect on those who had been within sound of her voice. Walking directly behind her were the five women who had heard her exclamation.

Delivered the Goods.

The late Senator M. S. Quay, of Pennsylvania, kept all the letters his constituents wrote to him asking for favors, says the Saturday Evening Post. He had stacks of them when his last great fight for the senate came along. Then he sorted out the letters, eliminating those from people who were dead and on the back of each letter wrote: "Dear John or Bill: Do you remember when you wrote me this letter and do you remember that I did what you asked? I want your help now in my fight for the senate. Can I have it?" The politicians in Pennsylvania say these letters mailed to the original senders with Quay's request on the backs of them, had as much as any one thing to do with Quay's winning his fight.

Officer's Natural Anxiety.

Sir Douglass Straight told this tale at a recent dinner of the Journeymen Hairdressers' Trade society in London: When a young barrister he went into a barber's shop to be shaved and was a little startled to see the woman cashier behind the counter starting at him from time to time through the glass door. When he got outside the shop a policeman said: "I am very glad to find you have come out." The officer explained that he had been anxious because the barber had just come out of a lunatic asylum the previous week, and relatives were wondering whether they would have to send him back again.

First Requisite for Success.

At the annual convention of salesmen of a large corporation prizes were to be awarded to those who submitted the best reply to the query: "What are you going to do to increase your sales for the ensuing year?" After numerous comments and remarks had been made, a big man was received from the one elected salesman whose attendance had been unavoidably prevented by pressure of business. On being read to the assembly he was unanimously voted first prize. The telegram read: "Sell hustle like the devkens."

An Ambassador's Butler.

The practice of tipping is not entirely bad; the recipients at least derive some benefit. A former butler of Mr. Choate, American ambassador to England before Mr. Reid, has built a large hotel on the coast on the tips he received from visitors to the American embassy, whose servants make more money than those attached to other embassies, chiefly because of the number of wealthy Americans who visit the ambassador and scatter tips with traditional generosity.

GOT THE WRONG BABIES.

Curious Mixup That Occurred Recently in French Hospital.

A curious mistake occurred yesterday at the hospital at Amiens, says a correspondent of the London Mail. Two young women had recently been attended there. One had given birth to a boy, and the other had given birth to a girl. Yesterday their babies were taken from them to be vaccinated. After the vaccination the babies, in their swaddling clothes, were returned to their mothers, who went away with them. Soon afterward one of the mothers returned to the hospital in tears. Her child was a boy, but on returning home she discovered that the nurse had handed her a girl. She insisted on her boy being returned to her. A scene of great confusion occurred, as nobody knew the address of the other mother. At last, toward nightfall, the other mother arrived, greatly excited, complaining that she had been given a boy in mistake for her girl baby. The change was duly executed, and the two mothers went away happy.

WOULD WORK EITHER WAY.

Practical Young Man Quieted the Fears of His Fiancee.

Not long ago a young man, most notably unblessed with worldly goods, met and won a girl whose decided personal charms were in no wise lessened by the fact of her possessing fully enough to at least keep the wolf howling at a distance. "Do you know, George," she one day said softly, "I am almost sorry that I have any money—not, of course, that I think you would love me the less, but—well—" "I am not, dearest," he replied, fondly stroking her soft, brown hair. "You know I'd love you if you had not a penny, but I'm glad you have. You see, I know that, should I die, you would be well provided for." "But suppose I should die?" she whispered. "Well, then I'd be well provided for, darling," he answered, for he is a practical young man.

Fine Health in Open Air.

The healthiest persons in the world are gypsies, and they live in the open air, but there is an erroneous idea that gypsies are people who defy the elements to destroy their health. On the contrary, they are very careful, indeed, of their health, even though living out of doors. They never go to bed with the draft blowing over them, but have free circulation around them, yet protected from rain and wind. While sometimes seemingly scantily attired, they always are warmly clothed beneath, wearing warm underclothing. The consumptives who go to places for their health are now living exactly as the gypsies, and because of the disease being considered contagious, they must live in tents. It is here that the efficacy of pure air is being fully demonstrated, for it often effects a cure if the patient is not too weak when the treatment begins.

Value of the Thumb.

"Solomon says thumbs up," because the thumb is said to be worth fully one-third the entire value of the hand. The different fingers are far from having all the same value before the eyes of the law. Much of the importance among them is the thumb, for without it the hand no longer is a pincers, but only a claw. The French court allows in damages 15 to 35 per cent. value for the right and ten to 15 per cent. for the left thumb. The Austrian schedule gives from 15 per cent. for the left to 35 per cent. for the right. In Germany 20 to 25 per cent., and even as high as 33.3 per cent., has been awarded. The percentage is based on 100 as the total value of the hand, industriously speaking, before the accident.

Before and After.

"There is a great difference between the actions of a woman before and after marriage," remarked the sad-eyed man with the absent hair. "What's the answer?" queried the youth who was on the verge of graduating from a correspondence school. "Give a woman a five-dollar bunch of flowers before marriage," explained the party of the sad part, "and she will say: 'Oh, thank you, George! But, really, I cannot allow you to spend so much money on me.' After marriage when George hands her seven-eighths of his weekly salary she looks at it contemptuously and says: 'Is that all I get?'"

Future Looked Dismal.

Nelson, a child of five, was becoming acquainted with his Uncle Will. They were considering questions of earthly life, with its manifold perplexities and rules of conduct, and the life and hope in the hereafter. In an attempt to make the idea perfectly clear to the boy the uncle said: "Now, you know that your grandmother is dead and has gone to Heaven." After a minute or two of deep thought Nelson looked up into his uncle's face and said: "We'll never see her again, will we, Uncle Will?"

Good at Figures.

A lawyer in a seaport town advertised for an office boy. A lad applied for the situation who had hitherto been employed in the local fish market. The boy, on being asked if he was a good writer, answered in the affirmative. "And can you do mental arithmetic?" "I think so, sir." "Well, what would 36 pounds of salmon at one-half-cent a pound be?" "Bed, sir," was the quick reply.

PLAINS SCHOOL CLOSING

Senior Class of Grammar Department Accorded Graduating Exercises.

DR. MAXSON SPEAKS

Dwells On the Opportunities of the Present Day For Complete Education.

Commencement exercises of the Scotch Plains Grammar School were held Thursday in the auditorium room of the Baptist church. The class was accorded the same reception as the High School Graduates of the past, before the Board of Education entered into the arrangement with the Plainfield Board, by which the High School course is to be taken at the Plainfield High School. The church was filled with parents and friends.

Senior Class of Scotch Plains Grammar School, 1907.

The class of '07 took entire charge of the arrangements, under the direction of Principal Hendrickson. As hosts they could not be excelled, the church presenting a pretty appearance, being tastefully trimmed with flowers and ferns, white and green predominating. The music, which was one of the features especially enjoyed, was furnished by the school orchestra. An excellent program was rendered and enjoyed by all the several essays all being exceptionally good. The speaker of the evening was Dr. Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the Plainfield schools. He gave a learned as well as helpful address on the subject, "What Ought We To Expect a School to Give a Child?"

The speaker dwelt upon the opportunities of the present day for an education, and what it means to the scholars. He said though masters would answer the question in one word, "knowledge," but the present day demanded that a boy or girl going out into the real battle of life needed "power, culture and efficiency." Some of the qualities were developed when the child began life in the primary department, but the three were not developed into the scholar had passed through the High School and had received his reward by being presented with the coveted diploma. The present age demands men who can think and act in the smallest space of time. These are the ones who succeed in the world today. For this reason power is one of the necessary attributes for a successful life.

Close observation is another thing that should be cultivated in the child; judgment is another, as one must be able to see foundation facts clearly and arrive at right conclusions to make a success in the world. There are really four "R's" in the education of today, the last one being "reason." The teacher can do much toward developing the child but to make the education of the child a success they must meet with the hearty co-operation of the parents. The bread and butter side of life only consumes about one-third of a man's time. For this reason the scholar should develope culture, so as to be able to meet the world in all ways. In closing, Mr. Maxson said "I appeal to you as parents, to give every child who goes through your Grammar School a chance to take the High School course, and in this way prepare themselves to take their place in the world, as the world is broader today than it was a generation ago and the child needs better preparation to go out into life."

At the close of the address the class received their certificates and the evening's program was brought to a close with a selection by the orchestra.

This program was followed during the evening:

Invocation, Rev. T. Moore Smith; march, "Under the Double Eagle," Wagner, school orchestra; class history, Miss Lena Jahn; cornet solo, Percy Mygrant; class prophecy, Eugene G. Litgate; "The Cyclone March," Weber, school orchestra; address, Dr. Henry M. Maxson; violin solo, Eugene G. Litgate; presentation of diplomas, Dr. F. W. Westcott, president Board of Education; class song, class; "Enchantment Waltz," orchestra.

Those in the senior class receiving diplomas are as follows:

Clarence A. Bettman, John H. Brick, Maida M. Brick, Tony DeNitto, Edward R. Hatfield, Leora M. Henry, Lena Jahn, Edith Jahn, Eugene G. Litgate, Mae E. Linden, Helen A. Linden, Mary L. Wheeler, Edward L. Meyer, Barbara M. Miller, William F. Reynolds, William M. Saunders, Herbert Spencer, Alice M. Terry, Herbert L. Terry, Vincent Terry, John H. L. Todd, Jr., S. Edward VanHoesen, Frederick VanHoesen.

PROVED ALIBIS.

Specific Counts Against Salvation Army Collector Fail to Ground.

The two complaints against Fred Joy, employed by the Salvation Amy, brought by Max Michaelson and Benjamin Epstein, junk dealers, in an effort to check the Army in alleged violation of the junk ordinance, fell to the ground in the city court this morning. Joy proved an alibi in both cases.

The complaints alleged that he sold junk in this city on two days named. Joy, by his testimony, supported by officers of the Industrial Home of the Army in Newark, and route cards used by the Army junk wagons, proved to the satisfaction of Judge Runyon that he was not in the city on the days cited. In dismissing the complaints, Judge Runyon said it was to be understood that he did not pass on the question of the Salvation Army's junk dealings or its right to carry on any collection business here. The cases took up about an hour and a half. G. W. Moy appeared for Joy and W. L. Hetfield, Sr., represented the junkmen.

"DON'T BE A GREEN BUG," THE LATEST SLANG PHRASE.

"23" and "Lemon" Give Way to the Newest in "English as She's Spoken."

"Don't be a green bug!"

The green bug has been crowned king of the slang domain. On the 23d of May just past proud "23" sadly doffed the ermine and passed out into the cold rain, says the Chicago News. Likewise the haughty lemon trembled from its golden salver back to the fruit stand of commerce. Apart from this the coronation was a gala affair, and the ceremony progressed without a hitch. The new monarch is a protege of the Chicago board of trade, but its influence will now be felt in every part of the United States where rules English as she is spoke.

It is to Wall street the green bug owes his new job. Disputes said that foes of big financiers there are denounced as "green bugs," being defined in course like sanctive insects in the western wheat plains This sanction of the green bug as a term in correct language was followed by evidences of its adoption in many circles in Chicago. Then considerations relative upon the unfrontend of the calendar, snatcher the scepter from poor "23" and placed the bauble in the waiting claws of the green bug.

For those who would tumble to the inner significance of the emerald bugger the following Westerian definition will be useful:

GREEN BUG, n.—A knocker; a cold water sprayer; a damp blanket wilder; one who planes the edges from another's enjoyment; a joy jolter; a hammer artist; an anvil chorister; one who spells a good thing; a person at whose approach the fire alarm is turned in; one who attempts to slip the bolt and burn the axle grease in the wheel of progress.

Mission Band Suspends for Summer.

The Young Women's Mission Band of Trinity Reformed church, held its closing meeting for the summer in the lecture room of the church, yesterday afternoon. The business was chiefly of a routine character. It was at this meeting that the members were expected to bring in a dollar and tell how they earned it, but owing to the small attendance the receipts were not as large as looked for. However, it is known that a considerable sum will be realized from this source. After the meeting there was a social time and refreshments were served. The next meeting of the Band will be in October.

VAUDEVILLE BASEBALL FOR THE HOSPITAL

DISGUISED GAME AND A BRIGHT SMILE; BOTH TEAMS WON.

That a baseball game is necessarily confined to eighteen players was conclusively disproved at Crescent Oval yesterday afternoon. Likewise, that two teams cannot win the same game was punctured and laid away with the annals of the Ananias Club. The ball team of the vaudevill company had manager Bill Conniburg's theatre nine played a game in which everybody on the sidelines took part, and which was won decisively by both teams. Nobody knows the score.

The game was played for the benefit of Muhlenberg Hospital. There was a suspicion before it started that the nines wanted to play more for love of the game than for love of sweet charity, but the athletes disproved that. It stands to reason that no one would treat anything he loved the way these teams treated baseball. Charity covers a lot of sins and will probably stand for that game, but it's an awful tax on the mantle.

The vaudevilles came out in makeup. Pleased with the effect, they lost no time in putting make-up on the game. They did a good job. Nobody *would have recognized it as base*ball. Sometimes there was a faint glimmer of something that seemed to belong in the diamond, but mostly the busy athletes seemed struggling with tag, hop-scotch or a bad attack of vertigo. And before the game the Vaudevilles said, with every appearance of sad-eyed honesty:

"Now, reporters, this game will be business and no funny stunts. Maybe there will be a little comedy after the third inning, but we ain't promising anything like that. We're here to play the game."

The reporters believed them, because several things seemed to bear out the idea. Blond Lizzie, with elevated skirts and a paralyzed parasol, was strolling engagingly about the lines, for one thing. For another, John Alexander Dowie, denying passionately that he was dead, waggled his lovely mohair whiskers and said he loved to see local cities drop in centerfield. But the dream was shattered as soon as the teams went into action. What they did to the ball was enough to make all horse-hide feel bad forevermore.

Everybody went to the bat first, and started scoring right away. They quit when they grew tired, and the Theatre bunch took a whack. They grew tired a little sooner than the Vaudevilles, but the scorer gave them just as many runs, so it didn't matter. Echoes from the lines helped the game along at times. At other times nobody would move a finger, and a riot-like hush would settle on the ball works as the globule rolled around, scorned by everybody. Every so often in a while one of the fielders would grow tired and nonchalantly stoll in for a sideline gaze at the busy athletes. To the credit of the crowd be it said that at such times the frantic yells of the captains for substitute fielders always won response. This was confusing to the scorer, but nobody cared about him.

May Ward, assisted by the rest of her Dresden dolls, helped the game along by selling her pictures. She filled Mike Shea's tan hat with coins and didn't have to hurt her face smiling, at that. The merest ghost of a smile was good for two quarters, and a full-sized creation crimped the target therefor as if he had been wooing seventeen best bets. The hospital is to be the next wing with the proceeds—and a trifle of a few thou*sand dollars or so that may be added* later from other sources.

Miss Ward and the players grew tired at the beginning of the seventh inning, and they all quit. Nobody knew the score, and as soon as the captains discovered it they both naturally claimed the decision. There was no proof either way, so the scorer gave it to both of them.

BRIDE FROM OVERSEA.

Miss Hart Comes From England to Wed Walter S. Lucas.

Miss Lillian Hart, of London, England, became the bride of Walter S. Lucas, of 110 East Fifth street, at the residence of Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace Protestant Episcopal church, Friday, at 9 o'clock. The wedding was very quiet, only the necessary witnesses being present.

Miss Hart came to this country to wed Mr. Lucas, who is a native of London, and who was affianced to her at the time he came to this country a year ago. She arrived on the Adriatic last night. Mr. and Mrs. Lucas left immediately after the ceremony for a short honeymoon trip. They will live at 110 East Fifth street. The groom is associated with Dr. M. O'M. Knott in business.

CROP CULLINGS.

France grows a great deal of tobacco. The crop averages 16,000 tons.

Rotation of crops must be observed in the garden as on the farm. Do not grow similar vegetables in the same bed year after year.

More than 350 acres of sweet corn will be raised in Brattleboro, Vernon, Northfield, Chesterfield and Bernardston, Vt., the coming season for a canning factory in Brattleboro.

GLOWING TRIBUTE TO DAVID PRESCOTT HALL

HIS LIFE AND WORK AS DESCRIBED BY A FRIEND.

The following tribute to the late David Prescott Hall is paid by McCready Sykes, of this city, a life-long friend:

"Mr. Hall was a charter member of the Bar Association of the City of New York, organized in the early seventies and an efficient instrument in fighting the Tweed ring. He was a lawyer of the type of the best professional traditions. He was never a promoter or corporation executive, but throughout his career preserved intact the purely professional relation of lawyer and client. He was engaged in much important and bitterly contested litigation, and in the increasingly important field of equity jurisprudence he brilliantly paid the debt which David Coke said that every man owed his profession, by contributing from the bar to the precision and development of the science in whose ranks he was an enthusiastic and devoted servant. In his single-hearted devotion to his client he found full scope for a temperament, a resourcefulness, a brilliancy and keenness of mental processes, that were essentially the equipment of a fighter; for Mr. Hall was a born fighter, by the very law of his being an aggressive partisan; his nature abhorred nebulous and uncertain mental conceptions; and his partisanship was thus founded ever on conviction. This aggressive and militant equipment was always at his client's service, and wielding a spear that was ever keen to strike, he commanded the respect and admiration of his adversary; and in the love and esteem of his professional brethren he had long won the approval of that body whose approval is the ultimate and fundamental test by which the members of his profession would have their life-work judged.

"But it was in the closer and more intimate relations among his friends and in his community that the fine flowering of his character was seen. For some fifteen years he lived in the little rural community of Scotch Plains; and probably more than anyone else was a source of light and inspiration in a community where for many years were gathered an unusually large number of men and women with the best traditions of culture and of a pleasing simplicity of life. In this little world, amid congenial surroundings, Mr. Hall continuously worked for the uplift and development of his community; he was a leading spirit in the old Fanwood Lyceum, where for many years professional men, farmers, merchants and sometimes mechanics would meet for pleasant informal debates, reading, speaking and interchange of ideas. Of a nature essentially fine and aristocratic, he was all his life discharging the obligation of men of great gifts; he put out his five talents at usury, and made his light shine among men.

"His nature was so kind and sympathetic that he illumined everyone with whom he came in contact. There was on old woman in Scotch Plains, too old and feeble to work, who for many years had properly been relieving the town and when Mr. Hall was overseer of the poor he had made the giving of this simple alms an act that like the quality of mercy was twice blessed; and when in other times and at other hands the poor old woman found herself treated as a pauper, this act recurred to the grateful heart of her benefactor, who once said, 'Ah, Mr. Hall, when you were overseer, it seemed as if there were no disgrace in receiving charity through you.'

"When he came to Plainfield, he brought with him the same unwearying and enthusiastic devotion his fellow-men. So simple and unostentatious was every law of his being that in the larger community he preferred rather to work merely in the ranks, and he cared little for public office or distinction. His life was one of service, devoted to single-minded service to his fellow-men. Of his great personal charm, his broad cultivation and keen insight, that shone forth among his closer personal friends, this is not the time to speak.

"He died as he had lived, in harness and in the full joy and enthusiasm of his work; giving back to his friends and his community out of the abounding largeness of his great gifts. Lord, thou delivered unto me five talents; behold, I have gained beside them five talents more."

Society Wedding at Somerville.

A society wedding next Wednesday at 6.30 o'clock will be the marriage of Miss Olive Blanchard Klotz, daughter of former Assemblyman and Mrs. Jacob Klotz, and Harry Elmer Haynes. The ceremony will be performed in the Second Reformed church, Somerville, by Rev. Dr. Edwin Griffen, the pastor. Over 200 invitations have been issued for the event.

Will Train Blue Ribboners.

James Gethins, the superintendent of the horse show to be held by the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club, has about fifteen horses at the grounds which he is putting in condition for show purposes. Mr. Gethins will remain at the grounds the year round and will devote his whole time to training and caring for horses owned by the members of the club.

DR. PARSONS TALKS ON TEMPERANCE REFORMS

SUBJECT OF AN INTERESTING DISCOURSE BEFORE THE W. C. T. U.

"My General Vision of the Work of Temperance Reform East and West," was the subject of an interesting talk given by Rev. Dr. C. W. Parsons at a W. C. T. U. parlor meeting held at his home on Park place, last night. Dr. Parsons is especially well fitted to speak on temperance because of his many large pastorates in various parts of the country and he related many incidents that came under his personal observation in the different States in which he has lived, especially in his pastoral work.

He expressed great joy over the progress of the local option law, West and South, and felt sorry that it was not meeting with equal success in New Jersey. He assured the women of his hearty co-operation with them in their fight for the cause of temperance.

Dr. Parsons, in speaking of local option throughout the country, said that there are 30,000,000 people in the United States living under the provisions of this law, including three-fourths of the counties of Virginia. He also cited a singular fact that Bourbon County, Kentucky, is among the places in the country that are "dry."

The doctor also told of the great fight made in Portland, Maine, and in fact throughout that whole State for prohibition, and how a sheriff, who permitted seventy saloons to exist on the quiet was turned out of office and an honest official was chosen in his place. Dr. Parsons said that he was convinced that prohibition will not prohibit unless the people want it to. However, he expressed the belief that there are hundreds of small places throughout Maine and other parts of the country working under prohibition and local option laws that are far better off than New Jersey. This, he said, was especially true in Kansas, where the residents are continually fighting against intemperance.

Dr. Parsons said that there are great hopes for further progress in temperance through the breaking down of political party lines and a united fight against the saloon. He said that the evil of intemperance could never be abolished through the efforts of any one political party, but that there must be a union of forces from all parties. In this way great good can be accomplished.

A silver offering was received at the meeting for the local work, and after Dr. Parsons' address, refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed.

TOWNSHIP OFFICIALS GET AFTER THE BOROUGH

DON'T LIKE THE IDEA OF SEWER BEDS ON THE VAIL FARM.

The members of the North Plainfield Township Committee have placed the stamp of disapproval on the tentative plans of officials in the borough to locate and establish sewer beds in the township. At a meeting of the committee, Thursday, it was unanimously decided to use all efforts to prevent the establishing of such beds in the township, and the proposition was denounced in emphatic terms.

There has been considerable talk of locating sewer beds on the Abram Vail farm at the lower end of Somerville, this farm being the land being secured for the borough by a real estate agent. Afterward when Mr. Vail discovered the purposes for which his land was desired, he declared that he would not recognize the option given and that rather than sell the land for such purposes he would stand suit. Yesterday's action of the Township Committee tends to support Mr. Vail in his position.

Other options on land in the vicinity of the Vail farm were secured, but the one obtained from Mr. Vail was considered the most important as the property contains a great many acres of land and was considered the best location.

ROME NOTES.

A sure cure for hiccough, says a physician, is a pinch of snuff.

Wash over the undercrust of a pie with the white of an egg not beaten to prevent its being soggy.

In roasting meat turn with a spoon instead of a fork, as the latter pierces the meat and allows the juice to escape.

Old newspapers make excellent packing paper in which to put things in the storeroom, as printing ink is disliked by insects.

The best way to keep the juice of a pie from running out is to bind a strip of wet muslin over the edge just before putting the pie in the oven.

Prosecutor Speer the Orator.

The Washington Camp Ground Association, of Bound Brook, has about completed arrangements for its usual celebration of the Fourth of July Prosecutor W. H. Speer, of Hudson county, will be the orator of the day. Sweet's Concert Band, of Newark, will furnish the musical program.

LARGE TOURING CAR CRASHES INTO RUNABOUT

OCCUPANTS OF RIG THROWN OUT BUT ESCAPE INJURY.

A large touring car, owned and driven by W. C. Rhoades, of New York, who was accompanied by three women, collided with William Newman's runabout at Park avenue and Oak Tree road at 10:30 Thursday night. Mr. Newman and Miss Clara Batch, of New York, who was riding with him, were both thrown out, but escaped uninjured. Miss Batch suffered greatly from shock and became hysterical. She was finally brought back to Plainfield, where she took the 11:28 train to New York. Mr. Newman also suffered from shock.

Mr. Newman and Miss Batch were driving toward Metuchen and when they reached Oak Tree they noticed the automobile coming toward them. Mr. Newman turned out as far as possible, but, as Mr. Rhoades explained afterward the steering gear on his machine did not work properly and he was unable to make a short turn.

The front of his machine struck the hind wheel of the runabout, breaking the axle and throwing the occupants into the gutter. Mr. Rhoades stopped his auto as quickly as possible and ran to the assist*ance of Mr. Newman and Miss Batch,* while the women folks also helped to care for the latter, who was more frightened than anything else.

Mr. Rhoades promptly offered to stand for all damages and any expense caused by the accident, claiming that it was his fault. He gave Mr. Newman his card and said that he would hear from him soon. The auto was not damaged.

GRADUATION OF PUPILS OF PISCATAWAY SCHOOL

EXERCISES AT THE NEW MARKET BAPTIST CHURCH LAST NIGHT.

The graduation exercises of the Piscataway township schools were held last night at the New Market Baptist church. The church was prettily decorated with flowers and the class colors, old gold and dark blue. There was a large attendance of parents and friends of the pupils.

The salutatory was delivered by Grace Corieli and the valedictory by Clementine Pettit. Addresses were delivered by Rev. Henry N. Jordan, of the New Market Seventh-Day Baptist church, who spoke to the graduates, and Rev. C. W. Attlee, of the South Plainfield Baptist church. A. G. Nelson, president of the Piscataway school board, presented the diplomas. The program in full was as follows:

Part I—"Observatory March," F. H. Losey, orchestra; invocation, Rev. H. N. Jordan; salutatory, Grace Corieli; essay, "What America Has Done for the World," Hilda Johnson; recitation, "Tom Pinket, Duty," Minnie M. Harris; "Southland Waltz," H. Lincoln, orchestra; essay, "The Glory of the Summer Things," Minnie Naylor; recitation, "The Songs of the Chattahoochee," Grace Burdick; class song; recitation, "Our Country," Charles Archbald; "Silver Bell Overture," R. Schlippigrell, orchestra; recitation, "Hero-Worship," Andrew McDonough.

Part II—Recitation, "The Meaning of American History," Minnie Hays; essay, "Temperance Victory, The Righting of the Wrong," Clementine Pettit; "Home Circle Overture," R. Schlippigrell, orchestra; address, Rev. C. W. Attlee; "Sounds of the Valley Bells," H. Lincoln, orchestra; presentation, class of graduating class, W. F. Mets; address to class, Rev. H. N. Jordan; presentation of diplomas, A. G. Nelson, president of the Board of Education; "Salute to Williamsport," C. E. Duble, orchestra; singing, "America," audience; benediction, Rev. C. W. Attlee.

The graduates were as follows: Tenth year, Hilda Johnson, Clementine Pettit, Minnie Naylor, Charles Sebring; eighth year, Charles Archbald, Grace Burdick, Bennie M. Harris, Andrew McDonough Nelson, Cora Smith, Elsie Wirtz, Minnie Bays, Russell Burdick, Edwin Johnson, Frank Morrecraft, Russell Perrine, Edith Van Nuis, George Wirtz.

President Nelson will entertain the teachers of the schools at a dinner at his home tonight. He will tender a reception to the graduates tomorrow night. Ice cream was served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the church after the exercises last night.

THE HOME DOCTOR.

When the gums are tender and bleeding the mouth should be rinsed with warm water to which listerine has been added.

Hot water to which salt has been added is an excellent remedy for tonsilitis. Wet a cloth with the salt water and apply outwardly.

A good complexion cannot be rubbed in from the outside; it must be swallowed. Learn how to get this; it is not in medicine, but in green vegetables and dandelion salad.

Cinders or foreign substances may be removed from the eye by inserting one or two flaxseeds, which will soon almost dissolve and ooze out through the closed linds, bringing the forturning speck with them.

VAIL'S JURY DISAGREES

Discharged After Deliberating Twenty-Four Hours Without Reaching a Verdict.

RESULT A BIG SURPRISE

Trial of Miss Gillen Was to Have Followed, But Proceedings Have Taken Sudden Turn.

After remaining out twenty-four hours, the jury which heard the trial of Charles Vail, formerly of this city, accused of burning the Cornish mill property at West Portal to get the insurance, failed to reach a verdict. The members filed back in court at Flemington late yesterday afternoon and so informed Judge John L. Connett. The men had been locked up since Thursday afternoon and convinced that it would be useless to have them deliberate further, the court dismissed them.

Vail is still in jail, having been surrendered by his bondsman, Thomas McCarthy, of Junction, soon after his accomplice, Joseph Hummell, turned States evidence and related in detail how the building had been fired. The verdict was a great sur*prise to everyone as it was generally* believed that Vail had failed to sufficiently disprove Hummell's story. When he went on the stand in his own defense, he declared that he had been in Plainfield on the day of the fire and the statement was corroborated by his wife, who is at present living with friends in North Plainfield. It is said that this evidence had considerable strength in holding several jurors out from balloting for a verdict of guilty.

The verdict has upset the plans of the prosecution as it was intended to go on with the trial of Miss Ellen Gillen, of this city, who is charged with being an accomplice in the plot to defraud the insurance companies. She was indicted by the Hunterdon county grand jury and secured bail, pending her hearing. She was in attendance at Vail's trial and also testified in his behalf.

Miss Ellen Gillen was a servant in the employ of a Watchung avenue family, she held the title to the property that was burned. She met Vail through his brother, Harry Vail, also of this city, who became acquainted with her through delivering goods at the house where she was employed. Harry Vail was indicted and is now a fugitive from justice.

ANNIVERSARY FITTINGLY CELEBRATED BY JUNIORS

SOMERSET COUNCIL HAS MANY GUESTS AT APPROPRIATE AFFAIR.

Somerset Council, No. 104, Jr. O. U. A. M., celebrated its fourteenth anniversary last night in an appropriate and interesting manner. There was a large representation present from Plainfield, Franklin and Benevolent Councils, Jr. O. U. A. M., to join in congratulating the members of Somerset Council upon the success attained during its existence.

In addition there were present Past State Councilor Sharp, of Newark; Rev. J. Morgan Reed, and Chaplain Grey, of Trenton, and State Vice Councilor Thompson, of Jersey City, and each one gave a most pleasing address which aroused great enthusiasm among the Juniors. Among the other speakers was Harry C. Runyon, of Benevolent Council.

Somerset Council was organized fourteen years ago with about twenty-five members and today it numbers 285 and is rapidly growing. Councilor Hulitt was in the chair, last night and had charge of the program, which followed a short business session during which the officers scheduled for Rev. Dr. Parsons next week. After the speech-making refreshments were served and a social time enjoyed. Somerset Council was congratulated upon its excellent showing and the members were inspired to do even greater things in the future.

COLLEGE AND SCHOOL.

Wellesley College is one of the Massachusetts institutions that are protesting against the taxation of certain college property.

Instead of using a common towel in the washroom pupils of the Winchester school, New Haven, Conn., are provided with absorbent paper, thus reducing the danger of spreading disease to a minimum.

Beginning with the fall of 1909 every student who seeks to enter the college of medicine and surgery of the University of Michigan as a candidate for the M. D. degree must show a certificate that he has had two years' work, to include special scientific subjects, in the literary department of some first class college or university.

Rev. A. C. McCrea, pastor of the First M. E. church, has returned from Carlisle, Pa., where he attended the commencement exercises of Dickinson College. Next year the 125th anniversary of the founding of the college will be celebrated in a fitting manner.

SMALL GIRLS GET DRUNK

Find Pa's Bottled Beer in the Cellar of Their Home and Drink Some of It.

STUPIFIED IN THE YARD

Neighbors, Seeing Them Stretched On the Grass, Think They Are Poisoned and Excitement Follows.

Three small girls with infantile readiness to taste strange and forbidden things, and bottled beer that came to their hands, were responsible for a lot of excitement on Regent street, North Plainfield, Monday afternoon. They drank the beer until their little heads were completely fuddled, and the people who saw them lying in the yard before their homes, to which they staggered, thought they had been poisoned. As a matter of fact the stuff did affect their heart action to such an extent that but for energetic action by Dr. A. H. Dundon, borough physician, serious and perhaps fatal results would have followed.

The girls are the daughters of William Johnson, who moved to 14 Regent street, with his family, about three weeks ago. The oldest of the girls is eight, one next six, and the youngest three years of age. Mrs. Johnson went out yesterday afternoon, leaving them alone in the house.

They rambled about the place in search of amusement, and finally went into the cellar. There they found a bottle-maker. But sad to say it is the first commencement. There are old school boys who have been waiting twenty-five years for an occasion like this and they feel that it is high time that Leal's School had a commencement. The closing of twenty-five beautiful and successful years is a triumph in a man's life. There is nothing more than anyone can look forward to than this. And certainly there is no lack of that thing which makes the very best of commencements, the presence of others to rejoice in it with him who wins. Some of you could speak out of twenty-five years of personal friendship and obligation while I must speak out of my briefer four years which have been enough to me to be in accord with all that any old graduate might wish to say. For some of us have learned a great deal from your schoolmaster that has made life different from us without ever having sat on the literal benches of the school-room.

"I have sat with him for four years in what is called the Church session. Session is a word derived as you know from a Latin word sedeo, to sit. The session is a body therefore which sits. Sometimes they sit upon the affairs of the church. We have occasional meetings of great interest when they sit on each other and others still more piquant when they sit on the minister. And I am sure that the session would boy here will heartily join with me in saying that if we have to sit upon there is no one we would rather have to do it than Mr. Leal, he does it so Christianly. Probably each one of you has had at some time or other your private session with him about something or other and without knowing anything more about it than I do it is safe to assert that everyone of you came out of it ready to say with the Psalmist, 'Let the righteous smite it: it shall be a kindness: and let him reprove me: it shall be an excellent oil which shall not break my head.

"One fault your old pupils have to find with Mr. Leal and that is with the provoking modesty of his announcement program which leaves no place for your old alumni to appear. They attribute this to the fact that you are not accustomed to such exercises and therefore do not know what is proper at such a time. Therefore they have asked me to remedy this defect and to ask you to suspend your order of exercises for a little right here that they may show that Leal's School is not simply nor the graduating class, but a lot of others who now insist on being heard.

At this point W. Lester Glenney, a former graduate of the school, was given the opportunity to say a few pleasant words *on behalf of the grad*uates and to compliment Mr. Leal, adding that it was the twenty-fifth anniversary of the alumni and not Mr. Leal. He then introduced former Assemblyman Edward R. Finch, of New York, who is also an alumnus of the school, and who came to Plainfield to join in the festivities.

Mr. Finch reviewed the early history of the school, relating some interesting incidents, and then announced that plans were being perfected to form an alumni association of the school graduates to perpetuate the memory and pleasant days spent at the school.

The second surprise of the evening was then disclosed when Mr. Finch on behalf of the 115 graduates presented to Mr. Leal a purse of $500 in gold, which he described as a personal gift, showing the appreciation and high esteem in which Mr. Leal is held by those who have been associated with him in the past. This announcement brought forth enthusiastic applause.

In responding Mr. Leal said that he was not in the habit of being interrupted in that way. In speaking of the school he remarked that its heritage cannot be seen at once, that he always felt that he had the support and loyalty of the boys in school and of the people in Plainfield. It was of little consequence who secured the results so long as they were obtained. He said that he thought the graduates might have let him in into the game of forming an association. He welcomed the idea. As to the purse of money he said that he had not had time to plan how it could be used in the school. "I wish to extend my strong personal thanks," said Mr. Leal, "I can say no more and I would be ashamed to say less."

After a selection by the orchestra, Thomas M. Day, president of the Plainfield Yale Club, was introduced, and he presented the handsome cup offered by the club to the pupil in the school attaining the highest standing in athletics and scholarship during the year. Similar cups will be presented to pupils at the Plainfield High and North Plainfield High Schools this week.

Mr. Day explained the purpose of the offer, it being to stimulate greater effort in scholastic and physical development, whether a boy intended entering Yale or some other college. He also explained that in addition to these three cups the club has also in the past offered two prizes to the boys who pass the best entrance examination in Mr. Academic or scientific departments at Yale.

Mr. Day then announced the winner of this year's cup as Otis Averill, one of the five graduates. The young man received a great ovation over his success and in responding he thanked Mr. Leal and Mr. Day and said that the cup would prove an incentive to honest endeavor in the future.

Mr. Leal then read the names of the boys who were entitled to special mention for excellent work in the junior department. The list is as follows: Geometry—Alan Randolph; first, second, J. C. Martin; algebra first, Lyman Campbell and W. W. Wilson; arithmetic, Clifford A. Hall; rhetoric, R. H. DePew, Jr.; English history, Lyman Hubbard; English grammar, R. H. DePew, Jr., and Clifford A. Hall; Latin—Isaacson, Clifford Cassell, W. W. Wilson; Virgil, Alan Randolph. Announcement was also made that Russell Phillips was the winner of a cup presented by Mr. Leal for distinction in all around work, Edward Stevenson being a close second. The cup will be given later as it did not arrive in time for the exercises.

Following a few closing remarks by Mr. Leal, the formal program came to an end and dancing was enjoyed until a late hour. During the social festivities refreshments were served. The affair was very largely attended, those present including a majority of the former graduates of the school, as well as its many friends. The class of '07 includes Francis L. Bergen, Leslie Brokaw, Ralph H. Halleck, Lawrence B. Smith and Otis Averill.

But I am quite sure that more lives than we have any idea of have waned in power and lost in happiness for no other reason than this. You may almost say that victory belongs most to him who can give the right name to the situation before him, and poetry gives the right name.

"And last of all how I come to the third of those silent forces and that is religion. I need not say anything about the necessity of having one for all men have one whether they will or not and whether they know it or not. The great question is simply what kind of religion it is, whether it is good or bad. It may be our comfort or our curse, the thing that gladdens us or something that only succeeds in souring us.

"Such a thing as temporal one will slip out of your hands, well finished no doubt, but the greatest satisfaction one can have in it will be the feeling that it was only a part of one which is to go on forever. In making up our judgments about success we usually attribute to mere talent what was really due to something far deeper than that. And any triumph that we may secure in life will be but a poor and disappointing thing unless we have so connected ourselves with eternal realities that sad to is as much to them as it is to us or still more unless and even more deeply truly the human applause and recognition may be there, but the achievement will be unsatisfying and empty unless there gathers around it the love and the approval which comes down from above.

"And now let me conclude by speaking of what is in all your hearts and thoughts tonight. It is the twenty-fifth anniversary of this school and of your schoolmaster. But sad to say it is the first commencement. There are old school boys who have been waiting twenty-five years for an occasion like this and they feel that it is high time that Leal's School had a commencement. The closing of twenty-five beautiful and successful years is a triumph in a man's life. There is nothing more than anyone can look forward to than this. TAX CASE DEFEAT FOR THE RAILROADS

ERRORS COURT SUSTAINS CONSTITUTIONALITY OF DUFFIELD ACT OF 1905.

The Court of Errors Monday by a unanimous vote sustained the constitutionality of the Duffield act of 1905 providing for the taxation of second-class railroad property. The announcement was made by Justice Pitney, at Trenton, who said he would file an opinion later.

The Duffield act provided for the taxation of second-class railroad property at local rates instead of a uniform rate of one and one-half per cent., as was the case before the Duffield act was passed. Under a supplementary act introduced by Senator Minturn the railroads were enabled to pay on the basis of the old rate the taxes for that year pending a decision by the courts as to the constitutionality of the provisions for local rates.

If the opinion that Justice Pitney will file follows the lines that are anticipated, it will practically establish the right to fix the rate for this class of property, and it will then remain for the Legislature to frame the assessment law, known as the Perkins act, and providing that second-class property should be assessed by local assessors instead of by the State board, is constitutional in that respect. It is believed that, with the establishment of the right to fix the rate of taxation, the right to empower the local assessors to place the valuations on the property will follow.

Such a decision, it is anticipated, would almost certainly be followed by the enactment of the right of the State to make a classification of first-class property, and to tax it as provided by the Perkins act relating to that class of property. This would establish the right of the Legislature to define what shall constitute main stem property for the purposes of taxation, and to fix an average tax rate therefor.

As a result of the decision the various cities throughout the State will now receive their proportionate share of the tax, which for this year will be about $2,063. Elizabeth will receive about $17,000.

She was the first woman to ask for police matrons. She began the temperance crusade in Springfield, O., in 1873, singing and playing in the saloons. She has written four books, the last one in her eighty-ninth year.

—I wish to state that my son, John Coleman (Postman) was brought home from the hospital unconscious on April 26, and he never regained consciousness from his fall on the ice Feb. 12. After having the very best medical attention and specialist, all gave him up as incurable. Some neighbor friends came and said Dr. Hallock, the osteopath, had done great things for them, and wished us to give him charge of the case. I can not express my gratitude for their kindness in advising us to try Osteopathic treatment. My son commenced to improve from the first treatment and after every treatment we could see improvement. He had very few treatments, and was restored to consciousness and mind, and is able to walk to Dr. Hallocks office, 160 Summit avenue, and has for some time. Wishing all who want to get cured of any disease to call on Dr. Hallock, and thanking you for yourkindness, I am, sincerely, MRS. COLEMAN. 83 A Boyd avenue.—Jersey City Journal, June 15, 1907. Dr. Hallock comes to this city every Thursday from 1 to 9 p. m. Hotel Kensington.

QUIET WEDDING IN GRACE CHURCH AT NOON

UNITED MISS LOUISA LAMSON AND HORACE HOLLEY SMITH.

Miss Louisa W. Lamson, sister of Mrs. Howard C. Tracy, of Prospect avenue, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Lamson, of Salt Lake City, Utah, and Horace Holley Smith, also of Salt Lake City, were married at 12 o'clock noon Tuesday at Grace church, in the presence of a number of relatives from this city and distant points. The ceremony performed Cambridge, Mass., a cousin of the bride, performed the ceremony.

The bride, gowned in white silk velour, princess style, was attended by her sister, Mrs. Howard C. Tracy, as matron-of-honor, whose gown was of white mousseline. She carried white daisies. The best man was Howard C. Tracy. The bride's trousseau was also notable for the fact that she wore a tulle veil which was used by her mother and her sister at their weddings.

Both the bride and groom are well known in Salt Lake City, and their families are prominent there socially. Mr. Smith is a clerk to United States Senator Sutherland, of Utah, and is preparing for the practice of law. The bride received a great many gifts of use and value.

Among the guests at the wedding and at the reception, which was held after the ceremony, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tracy, were A. W. Evarts, Miss Evarts, and Mrs. C. C. Beaman, of New York; Mrs. Henry Wardner and Miss Ellen Steele, of Windsor, Vt.; Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ames, Jr., of Staten Island, N. Y.; John Dodd Miller, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, Mrs. R. B. Corey and Miss Corey, of this city. The couple will enjoy an extended wedding trip before returning to their home.

Examination for School Positions.

GRACE CHURCH CONSECRATED

and fourth verses. His address was largely historical.

St. James taught the lesson of patience, he said; patience in trials, in good works, under provocation, even in persecution. It seemed to the speaker that the lesson God had meant to teach Grace parish was patience.

God's dealings with parishes were much like his dealings with individual souls. They did not have all plain sailing, and His method differed with each one. Parishes, as well as people, had seasons of trial in which to develop their powers and their faith. Some parishes the speaker had seen leap forward to wealth and influence almost at a bound. But it was not *that way with Grace parish. The be*ginning had been made in a small way, and the progress had been by slow substantial growth that made for lasting results. The speaker went into a most interesting sketch of the parish start and growth.

After the service a lawn fete was held on the parish house grounds. Refreshments were served, and the Eureka Quartette, of New York, sang and played. The fete was held under the direction of the guild.

Mrs. Henry E. Titus, head of the Guild, was in charge of the arrangements, and the following committees assisted her: Guild: Mrs. Daniel Van Buren, Mrs. E. S. Hyatt, Mrs. H. M. Stoothoff, Mrs. Bernard Coomb, Mrs. Iredell, Mrs. T. W. T. Maxwell, Mrs. S. S. Guion, Mrs. Palmer, Mrs. Bartine; Reception, Mrs. J. M. Van Buren, Mrs. Howard Fleming, Mrs. O. T. Waring, Mrs. T. Logan Murphy, Mrs. George Smalley, Miss Elizabeth Cock, the Misses Tweedy, Mrs. Erickson, Mrs. Harriot, Mrs. W. T. Gough, Mrs. Gifford Mayer, Mrs. E. L. Finch, Mrs. L. G. Timpson, Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman, Mrs. W. T. Pelletier, Miss May Rodman, Mrs. R. H. Booth, Mrs. S. D. Lounsbery, Table, Mrs. George S. Ring, Mrs. Cowperthwaite, Mrs. Charles Dubois, Mrs. Harry Lovell, Miss Mary Holly, Mrs. J. Paul Nolting and Mrs. Charles Bull.

The following young women served as waitresses: The Misses Titus, Davis, Crosby Finch, Egan, Faber, Huse, Smith, Lapsley, VanBoskerck, Fleming. The refreshments were served from a large tent erected at the side of the parish house.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

A memorial to Henry Ward Beecher, who was a native of Litchfield, Conn., is to be erected under the auspices of the Litchfield County University on the site where will be at the birthplace of the Beechers.

Vice-President Fairbanks is to speak before the Christian Endeavor Convention to be held in Seattle, July 10-15.

Capt. Goddard E. Diamond, of Berkeley, Cal., is a hustling book agent, aged 107 years, and he makes a good living.

One of Secretary Cortelyou's most ardent admirers is George P. Brown, of Houston, Tex., secretary of the business league of that city. Every spring he sends the secretary a large basket of cape jasmines, a flower which is well-known and dear to most Southerners. This year's growing arrived in Washington the past week.

The Prince Regent of Sweden, is the most expert tennis player among the royal families of Europe. His enthusiasm for the game has resulted in the construction of the best covered court in Europe, where he engages in matches with any player worthy of his prowess, whether noble or commoner.

Professor Mosetig, who was drowned recently by falling into the Danube, had long been famous in this country as the discoverer of the use of iodoform in medicine. He was without doubt one of the greatest surgeons of the present age.

Ambassador Rosen, form Russia, revels in American humor and reads every funny paper he can get.

EARLY MORNING FIRE IN THE BUSINESS SECTION

FLAMES IN GEORGE VOEHL'S BARN THREATEN SURROUNDING BUILDINGS.

For the second time this summer the business section of the city was threatened with a serious conflagration, when fire was discovered in the hay-mow of George Voehl's bakery, on West Front street, at 2:18 o'clock Tuesday. The cause of the fire is a mystery, Chief Doane being unable to ascertain any reason for it. There was no new hay in the barn and spontaneous combustion is not considered likely. The blaze was principally to the hay and straw, the damage to the building and flour being slight. It is estimated that $800 will cover the damage.

Besides seven horses, the bakery wagons, the hay and straw, there were left two hundred barrels of flour stored in the barn. The prompt discovery of the fire by one of Mr. Voehl's bakers undoubtedly prevented great loss of property. He sent in an alarm from Box 12, and the department was on quick in response. Three streams from hydrants were used to extinguish the fire, while a stream from the chemical engine was used on the Endress building, adjoining, to prevent a spread of the fire. The flames were showing out of the windows in the direction of Trinity Reformed church, close by, but the firemen carefully watched this structure and no damage resulted to it.

The damage to the flour was chiefly caused by water, the bottoms of a number of barrels being well soaked. The firemen were kept busy for over an hour before the fire was entirely extinguished. Mr. Voehl's entire night force performed heroic service in rescuing the horses and wagons before the fire reached the first floor of the barn.

Best in all the things that go to make a good meat market, Fred Endress' business is deservedly popular among all classes. The discriminating and particular buyers prefer it to all others. West Front street.

If interested in real estate talk it over with M. F. Gano, of North avenue. He has a number of attractive propositions and he also has a list of desirable properties for sale or lease.

Examination of Candidates for the Office of County Superintendent of Schools.

The Committee of Education of the State Board of Education will meet at the Board of Education rooms, City Hall, Jersey City, on Friday, the 21st inst., at 1 p. m., to examine applicants for the office of superintendent of schools of Hudson, Essex, Monmouth, Morris, Union and Hunterdon counties.

ASSEMBLYMAN ACCEPTS

Mr. Perkins Glad to Debate Buck Bill With Rev. Mr. Stifler.

"MARTYRDOM OF BURKE"

Union Legislator Pays High Compliments to Anti-Saloon Leaguer, and Charges Misrepresentation.

Assemblyman Randolph C. Perkins last night gave out an open letter addressed to the Rev. James F. Stifler, of Westfield, replying to the recent one from the clergyman, inviting him to a joint discussion of the Buck Local Option bill. Mr. Perkins expressed pleasure in accepting the challenge and puts the firing of a date up to the clergyman. Here is the letter which bears date of yesterday:

Dear Sir—In answer to your favor of recent date, inviting me to come to Roselle for the purpose of discussing the local option bill introduced by Mr. Buck at the last session of the House, I beg to state that I shall be glad to attend at any time that may meet with your convenience and that of your parishioners.

I have no doubt that the gentlemen who have signed the letter addressed to me are interested in the matter, and that they are also interested in good legislation generally; and it is partly for that reason that I say I shall be happy to come to Roselle and give an account of my conduct as their representative in Trenton.

Involved in your invitation, however, is another proposition, which must be made the subject of separate reply. The gentlemen who have signed the letter say that they have constituted the officers of the organization known as the Anti-Saloon League, their servants in the prosecution of the local option bill, and that they have invited Mr. Frank Burke to report at the same time the results of his efforts at the last Assembly; and, after assuring me that I will be accorded equal privileges with Mr. Burke, the letter concludes with an apology for its publication in the press previous to its receipt, by me, on the ground that public men were inviting me to a public meeting, and that it, therefore, seemed proper to make the contents of the letter public.

Mr. Burke has, for several months past, been attempting to thrust himself athwart the public eye. His first means to that end was to make an outcry of "conspiracy" against the judiciary committee of the House, and knowing that neither Mr. Alexander Mr. Klenert nor myself would let the charge pass unchallenged and that the consequent investigation would give him the notoriety he sought. At that investigation Mr. Burke testified that he was a professional lobbyist, receiving $3,000 per year for his services. Those who heard the testimony were quite convinced that his methods proved his worth.

You, of course, know that after hearing all of the evidence the members of the House, both Democrats and Republicans, censured Mr. Burke for circulating false and unfair statements concerning the members of the judiciary committee, and excluded him from the privileges of the floor.

Posing on his martyrdom, this gentleman has been going about the State decrying every legislator who can see anything in the political horoscope that does not resemble his pet measure. His methods have been notoriously unfair. He has not time and again, charged Mr. Tillman with "ducking" the Local Option bill, knowing that at the time this measure came before the House Mr. Tillman was lying at home at the point of death?

I ask if the gentlemen who have signed the communication addressed to me stand for such misrepresentation? I do not believe they mean to. But whether they do or not, I will not go upon the public platform to debate with a detractor of the stamp of Mr. Burke.

It may be that the letter sent to me was published previous to its receipt, because "public men were inviting me to public meetings;" but when they tell me they have constituted Mr. Burke their agent, that they have hired a public hall, invited their agent to make a report on his efforts in Trenton, and then invite me to be present at the same time to discuss the same subject, it looks very much as though it were intended that I should enter into a debate with Mr. Burke, and that the publication of the letter was expected to have some coercive force. I am unwary, but when such preparations have been made, and I am assured that I "will be accorded equal courtesy with Mr. Burke in every respect," it does seem that an effort has been made to put me in a position where I could not gracefully de-

I. H. BOEHM RETIRES FROM ACTIVE BUSINESS

WILL TRAVEL ABROAD TO ENJOY A REST AND BETTERING HEALTH.

To better his health and enjoy a much needed rest, Ignatz H. Boehm, who for thirty-five years has conducted a dry goods store on West Front street, will retire from active business. He has completed arrangements to place the management of his store in the hands of dry goods men of wide experience, and will go on a trip abroad with his family.

Announcement of the change was made this morning. While Mr. Boehm will not say that his retirement from active management of the business is permanent, it is unlikely that he will content himself from now on with only general supervision of the establishment, allowing the active management to remain in the hands of the new men.

M. and A. Tepper, of Selma, Ala., are the men who will take charge of the store. They are young men, energetic, and thoroughly trained in the dry goods business. They conducted a large store in Selma for eleven years.

Mr. Boehm started in business with his brother, the late David Boehm, where John Wirth's bakery now is. The business has been in its present location for thirty years. Four times Mr. Boehm, winning more and more trade by upright and generous dealings, has been compelled to enlarge his store. When he started in the business covered a floor space twenty-four by eighty-five feet. Today the space required is 165 by 663 feet.

Mr. and Mrs. Boehm expect to sail for Europe early next month. They will be gone until fall, at least, and may stay abroad longer.

TEMPORARY ASSISTANT SECRETARY OF Y. M. C. A.

LOCAL YOUNG MAN WILL FILL RESPONSIBLE POSITION UNTIL THE FALL.

Martin B. Stutsman, of this city, is to take Wilbur Andrews' place as temporary assistant secretary of the Y. M. C. A., when the latter leaves this week. Mr. Andrews came here to serve until called upon to fill a position he had already accepted when the vacancy in this city occurred. The place he goes to is at the Y. M. C. A. of New Haven, Conn., where he began his Y. M. C. A. work.

Mr. Andrews came here from the Bedford branch of the Brooklyn Y. M. C. A., where he did exceptionally good work. His services at the local association have been valuable and his departure is regretted. Mr. Stutsman will fill the office until fall, when he will resume his studies at the New York University. A permanent assistant secretary will be appointed at that time. Mr. Stutsman is a former president of the boys' department of the Y. M. C. A. He is the second boy to hold the office.

MISS EBEL BECOMES MRS. SAMUEL J. JOHANSEN.

Ceremony Takes Place at Home of Bride's Parents On Watchung Avenue.

Miss Louisa Bertha Ebel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Ebel, of Watchung avenue, and Samuel James Johansen, of Scotch Plains, were married last night at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. J. Duerschner, pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran church, officiating. There were about twenty-five guests present to witness the ceremony. The home was attractively decorated with flowers and ferns.

Following the ceremony an informal reception was held. The couple went to Philadelphia, where they will spend their honeymoon. They will reside in Plainfield upon their return. The bride was organist at St. Peter's Lutheran church for several years, and the groom is a machinist in the employ of the Walter Scott Printing Machine Works. Many gifts of use and value were received by Mrs. Johansen.

Carnival For Fresh Air Home.

The carnival for the benefit of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, to be held Fourth of July afternoon and evening on the vacant lot, opposite Truell Hall will offer many attractions, including fancy articles, candy, cake, toy, Japanese booths, fish pond, shooting gallery, fortune telling, ice cream and a restaurant. Each booth will be elaborately decorated. It is expected that Miss Sara Curry and possibly some of the children will be there. The affair promises to excell the one held last year, and special efforts are being made to secure the desired amount to carry on this charitable work.

MONEY FOR OUR ROADS

To Keep Union's Highways Well a Larger Apropropriation is Needed.

FREEHOLDERS ACTIVE

Trying to Get More Money From Auto Tax—The Law May Be Changed.

Aroused to a realization of the fact that it will soon be seriously handicapped in its efforts to keep the roads of Union county in first-class condition with the appropriation allowed under the State law, the Board of Freeholders at the next session of the Legislature will have introduced a bill by which Union county will receive a fairer proportion of the State automobile tax fund. At the same time an effort may be made to have a bill introduced allowing the freeholders to make a larger proportion for road maintenance than at present. It is felt that the present fund is inadequate.

Of the $50,000 which the State derives from the tax on automobiles and divides among the counties for the maintenance of so-called "State aid" roads Union county gets the ridiculous amount of something like $150, only three miles of road coming under that classification. This is due to the fact that Union constructed its roads under the old county road law, and was therefore left out when, under the newer State aid law, it was provided that the automobile fund be divided proportionately to the miles of road built under the new statute. All other *counties took advantage of this pro*vision, but it was too late for Union. The equity of Union's claim to a proper share of the State fund or about $2,000, there being about forty miles of road which the proposed statute would convert into State aid road, would not be denied, it is thought.

While it is said on good authority that at the same time an effort will be made to secure the passage of a law allowing counties to make a larger appropriation than the five per cent of the original cost of the roads, or $17,500 in Union, members of the Road Committee will not confirm the report. An official identified with the movement for good roads declared *to a reporter today that larger ap*propriations would be absolutely necessary because of the increase in automobile traffic. He said that repairs which originally sufficed for five years were now sufficient for less than half that time because of the wear and tear of the heavy autos.

To the autos also is laid the blame for the increasing dust nuisance which is occupying the attention of the county officials. In Essex county the Board of Freeholders has instructed counsel to draw up a bill calling for larger appropriations for road repair, the increase to be used for the abatement of the dust nuisance. The method by which this increase is to be secured, it is proposed, shall be a larger tax on automobiles. It is probable that the Union county board will lend its support to the movement, members of the Road Committee being a unit in favor of the proposed statute.

But though the funds at hand may not be sufficient, the county officials are attempting to abate the dust nuisance as far as possible and probably next week will lay oil over about ten or fifteen miles of road. The expense of the oil is just $100 per mile. The efficiency of the oil treatment will be tested and should it prove a real remedy more extensive use may be made of it. Union county is practically taking the lead in the abatement of the dust nuisance.

Whether the move to get a fair portion of the State automobile tax fund falls or not, an effort, with the same general end in view, will be made to have St. George avenue, below Railway and Elizabeth, made a State road.

The Roads Committee of the board yesterday made its regular monthly inspection of the county roads.

There have been several complaints lately that the county roads are not receiving the proper attention.

Children Enjoy Outing.

Miss Hattie Randall and her class of eight girls; Miss Anna Randall and her class of eleven girls, both from the primary department of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, enjoyed their annual picnic on Johnson's Drive, near Vails Grove, yesterday. The young folks had a fine time during the day. Miss Lucy Corbell and Miss Bessie Randall also accompanied the party on its outing.

INTERESTING TALE FROM BURLINGTON

READS WELL, BUT LACKS THE SWEET ESSENCE OF TRUTH AND CHILLY FACT.

After an absence from Burlington, which he left four years ago in peculiar circumstances, and having been mourned as dead by his wife and family, Charles P. Brewin, formerly a prominent tailor, has been located in this city, working as a journeyman tailor, according to stories published in New York papers, under Burlington date lines, this morning. Alfred Woolman, of Burlington, while in this city a few days ago, the stories declare, met Brewin in the street, but the latter declared that his name was Johnson and not Brewin.

The story could not be confirmed in this city. The police had heard nothing about the alleged occurrence, and there is an impression that some Burlington romancer is seeking to earn vacation money by the exercise of his ability as a writer of fiction. The rest of the story, as it appears in the New York papers, is as follows:

Frank P. Brewin, a son accompanied by William Brewin, a brother, came to Plainfield, located their relative, and with difficulty convinced him that his name was Brewin, he persisting that it was Johnson. Ever since he went away he has wandered within a short radius of New York city.

It was on November 3, 1903, when Brewin mysteriously dropped out of sight. A week after his departure his hat and a note were found in a Jersey City ferryboat. It was believed that he had committed suicide.

Mr. Brewin suffered from sunstroke while in the army, and physicians were of the opinion that it had affected his brain. He is thought to have been mentally unbalanced at the time of his wandering away and that he is still affected. His health was not good, and it was thought he would not live many months.

Brewin was one of the most prominent men of Burlington, where he had been in the tailoring business for thirty years. He was a deacon of the First Baptist church, and belonged to several lodges and stood well socially in the city. The son has not yet been able to persuade his father to return home.

BOROUGH YOUNG MEN PLAN LONG WALKING JAUNT

START TOMORROW ON 400 MILE TRIP TO THE ADIRONDACKS.

An instructive method of spending a vacation has been planned by Lester Brokaw and Tracey Howard, two North Plainfield young men, who start tomorrow on a 400 mile walk. They will proceed by way of Peapack and Bernardsville to the Delaware Water Gap, thence along the Delaware river to New York State. Their destination is to be Northfield, N. Y., a summer resort in the Catskills, where they have sojourned with their parents at various times.

The pedestrians count on making the distance in about fifteen or twenty days, and will divide the daily stretches so as to bring them to the larger towns and cities at night. They will carry nothing beyond stout walking sticks and a few necessary toilet articles.

Both young men are familiar with jaunts of this nature, having taken several in previous years. On one trip they roughed it over the mountains of Pennsylvania and had experiences varied enough for three vacations in looking over coal mines and other sights in the Wyoming valley.

G. A. R. Encampment.

Arrangements are practically completed for the annual State G. A. R. encampment in Ocean City, tomorrow, Friday and Saturday. The encampment will bring about 1,400 delegates along, representing the posts throughout the State, and no doubt they will be accompanied by thousands of visitors.

Goldsack's Trial Next Week.

Robert E. Goldsack, who was arrested while performing his duties as a clerk at the local postoffice and was subsequently released on bail for his appearance in court, will enter his plea in the United States Court at Trenton on Monday morning.

May Save Eyesight.

DeWitt C. Giles, of Piscataway, who suffered severe injuries as the result of a gun exploding in his hands a few weeks ago, has left the hospital. While the sight of one eye is gone, it is believed that the other one may be saved.

"MAY MACK" A TRAVELER

Bay Mare Has Hauled Illinois Couple 1,100 Miles and Trip is Not Ended.

REST AWHILE HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Judson Enjoying a Novel Outing—Their Destination Washington, D. C.

Arthur Judson and his wife, who left Rock Island, Ill., 190 miles the other side of Chicago, on May 9 in a buggy for a drive to Washington, D. C., arrived in Plainfield yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock and resumed their journey behind their four-year-old bay mare May Mack at 8 o'clock this morning. They are going to the national capital to visit their *daughter and to do a little sightsee*ing on the side.

Mr. Judson is fifty-seven years old and is as sound as a dollar. He was born up in the woods of Harlem, and a big hankering came over him to return to the East and see how things were getting along. He sold out his business as a contractor and builder in Rock Island, hitched up May Mack, the pride of his heart, and started out in his buggy with Mrs. Judson, intending to make the trip by easy stages and to see all that was to be seen.

"We've travelled about 1,100 miles," he said yesterday, and "we've had a glorious time. We have jogged along from town to town, regulating our itinerary by the accommodation afforded by the different places along the route. We haven't had a single accident and had only four days of wet weather which compelled us to lay up in hotels. We have averaged, I should judge, about twenty-five or thirty miles a day, and the greatest distance we covered in any one day was forty-one miles. We have met lots of interesting people and some queer ones and altogether we have enjoyed a mighty interesting vacation.

"We found good roads all the way excepting for about forty miles in Ohio. There we ran up against stones and had to go slow. In New York the State engineer seems to be the whole push. Every once in a while we would run across a sign announcing that a road was closed by order of the State engineer while repairs were being made. Sometimes we paid attention to the signs and sometimes we didn't. When we drove ahead we often had to go across fields or cut over ditches before we could reach the main turnpike. There's a big opportunity for the State engineer to change his methods of doing business. I can't for the life of me see the necessity of digging clean across a twenty-five foot road in making repairs. Why not work one-half of it at a time and let teams and automobiles pass by? Why compel people to go miles out of their way?"

Judson was obliged to make frequent inquiries to find out if he was on the right road to New York. He said that he was surprised to find the people of Indiana particularly ignorant of directing and how to go from one place to another. In New Lenox the principal business man of the town couldn't tell him how to drive to the next village.

At Valparaiso, Ind., Judson said, "I was told that it was a mile of seven miles to Union Mills. We drove May Mack about an hour and a half and met a man who informed us that Union Mills was fifteen miles distant. We finally got there and learned that we had travelled all told exactly seventeen miles from Valparaiso."

While stopping in Hoboken, prior to resuming their journey, Mr. and Mrs. Judson made trolley trips to Stamford, Conn., Yonkers and Coney Island on sightseeing tours, and also took the Third Avenue L to Bronx Park. Mr. Judson said that after his return from Washington he proposes to buy an acre or two of land somewhere between New York city and Yonkers and will build a home himself in his old age. He will not select a site outside of a city to please Mrs. Judson, who says the city is "too hot and too stuffy" to suit her.

"I never could hang my wash in a window the way they do in New York," she said.

The Judsons stabled their rig at the Plainfield Cab Company stables while in town and they put up at the Belmont Hotel, close by. Mr. Judson is very enthusiastic over the trip, and as her husband says, she is getting fat on it. Mr. Judson spoke well of Plainfield so far as he was able to see it, and said that he was delighted with the roads in this part of the State. The couple left this morning at 8 o'clock to continue their journey to Washington.

Mrs. Charles Speer, her son and daughter, of Bangor, Pa., are visiting Mrs. Speer's sister, Mrs. Joseph C. Martin, of Duer street.

BAR ASSOCIATION NOT TO ACT ON PRESENTMENT

DROVE HIS CRIPPLED WIFE FROM THE HOUSE

WOMAN APPEALS TO POLICE FOR PROTECTION, AND RECEIVES SHELTER.

Driven from her home near Washington Rock, she alleged, by her husband, Adolphine Foucault, wife of a harness maker, applied for protection at police headquarters yesterday afternoon. She is being cared for at the Industrial Home, pending steps to have North Plainfield township take action in the case. She is middle-aged, and has an artificial foot.

Mrs. Foucault came to the Home Monday night. She speaks but little English, and Superintendent Ten Eyck could not understand much of her tale. He gathered that it was a police case, however, and sent to headquarters. Arrangements were made to get the woman in the morning, but before the officers started she slipped from the Home and disappeared. She wandered into headquarters shortly after 2 o'clock in the afternoon and made her appeal for help.

With the aid of a French-speaking friend, Chief Kiely learned her story. She said her husband drinks heavily, and that while drunk Monday night he beat her with a stick and chased her out of the house.

She was sent back to the Home. Chief Kiely will call the attention of the township to the case today, and ask that the woman be cared for there, and that a warrant be issued for the arrest of the husband.

M'ADAMS RE-ELECTED TO COUNTY ELECTION BOARD

WALTER L. HETFIELD, SR. HIS ONLY OPPONENT FOR THE PLACE.

The Union County Democratic *Committee held a meeting at Eliza*beth last night for the purpose of electing a member of the county Board of Elections to succeed Robert McAdams. The Plainfielders placed Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., in nomination and made a strong fight for him but McAdams was re-elected by a good majority.

The committee which conducted the Martine testimonial dinner submitted a report showing that after all expenses were paid there was a balance of $43. The fact that there was a surplus at all was surprising to the county committee, as no expense had been spared to make the affair a success and it was supposed that a deficit would have to be made up.

"I thought we would have to dig down for a couple of dollars, at least," said one of the Plainfield members this morning, "and I would gladly have given twice that amount. The dinner was the most successful affair the committee has ever conducted and much credit is due those who arranged it."

WILL RESUME BUSINESS.

A. L. Cadmus Preparing to Rebuild the Commercial Mills.

A. L. Cadmus, whose Commercial Mills were destroyed by fire last week, is preparing to resume business as soon as the debris can be cleared away and the insurance is adjusted. Mr. Cadmus is now disposing of the grain, hay, oats and flour which were damaged by water and as soon as this is done he will begin the work of rebuilding his brick mill.

As stated a few days ago the loss is not much more than one-quarter of that at first reported and as a re*sult of the eighty per cent. insurance* claus in his policies he will not lose over $50. The expense of putting a top and roof on the mill building will not be heavy and Mr. Cadmus will be able to start business again as soon as that is done.

Wing Walls Completed.

The fourth and last wing wall on the West Second street bridge was completed today by the contractor, Arthur E. Smith. The work was started two months ago, Mr. Smith being given until July 1 to complete the job. He could have finished it several weeks ago, but another contract which he had at Dunellen was more urgent and he wanted to get through with that one first. The walls are well and substantially built and if the work meets with the approval of the freeholders in Union and Somerset counties, it will be accepted. The city and borough will now be obliged to fill in and grade about the bridge.

Mrs. George Bowers, of Coontown, is at Muhlenberg Hospital, under treatment.

COURT THIS AFTERNOON

Judge Swayze Will Receive Two Murder Indictments—Presentment Was Against An Alleged "System."

Acting upon the advice of President Craig A. Marsh, of this city, the Union County Bar Association, at a special meeting held in Elizabeth, this morning, took no action regarding the report of the Grand Jury in reference to the method of selecting juries. Mr. Marsh made the statement in which he said that in his opinion any action the association might take could be construed as a censor of the Grand Jury and this he believed it preferred to avoid.

The meeting was called to order by Mr. Marsh, there being present the petit jury as well as a number of members of the association. Several lawyers spoke briefly of the Grand Jury's presentment affecting the system of drawing juries, stating that they thought it was a reflection on the present petit jury, which they declared to be composed of an exceptionally fine body of men, in fact, above the average. This opinion was concurred in by some of the lawyers, but after Mr. Marsh spoke, it was unanimously agreed that it would be wise not to take any action.

The Grand Jury has requested Supreme Court Justice Swayze to meet them this afternoon at 5 o'clock, and he has announced his intention of being present at that time. At that time, it is understood that two indictments for murder will be handed up to the court. What any reference will be made to the Grand Jury's presentment regarding the illegal selling of liquor is problemmatical. The subject has caused no end of discussion throughout the county and especially in Elizabeth and Mr. Fisk and his colleagues are being congratulated on every hand for their fearless and timely exposure of a "system" detrimental to good government.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon, Justice Swayze will instruct the Grand Jury with respect to the matters which he took under advisement last Friday; to hear further reports of the Grand Jury, and to inform the petit jurors whether or not they are legally privileged to defend themselves in courts against the presentment of last week.

Justice Swayze is expected to inform the petit jurors that they have no such right.

The Grand Jurors stand by their charges, several of them stating today that if the criticisms of their presentment is continued, they will take still more radical action.

In court the majority of the petit jurors wish to say, if they get the opportunity, that in their opinion, the Grand Jury hears only one side of the case, that is, the complainant's, and is left without an inkling as to what the defense may be. They want to point out to the court, they say, that the two dollars a day received for serving as jurors is small compensation for some of the men in the panel, who lose much more than that because of the neglect of their business while serving the State.

They desire to declare, in effect, it is said, that Union county never had a panel of higher grade, that the majority of the men on the petit jury are men of responsibility and standing in the community, that Judge Atwater himself revised the list after the sheriff had made his selection.

The panel of petit jurors is as follows:

Elizabeth—John A. Bamberger, Fred Bender, Jr., James H. Bigelow, Thomas Cary, Thomas Dowd, John G. Hall, Peter L. Hughes, Harry Jenkinson, Louis M. Kling, Daniel F. Leonard, Andrew S. Lovejoy, James W. Martin, Carl Marz, Bernard McLain, Robert McCracken, Herbert A. Pierson, John Porter, Charles A. Rizzo, Jacob C. Rolston, Leonard Saner, Charles Schnepel.

Plainfield—Edward Bowman, William B. Brokaw, Edward H. Clevely, Asa Collier, John Cory, John H. Cose, James H. Craig, Uzal B. Crane, Chas.

THIRTY-FOUR STUDENTS RECEIVE P.H.S. DIPLOMAS

Commencement Exercises in First Baptist Church Attended by Large Gathering.

ADDRESS BY DR. VANCE

Newark Pastor Speaks to Graduates on the Problems of Life—Prize Winners Announced.

The thirty-seventh commencement of the Plainfield High School was held Thursday at the First Baptist church. Thirty-four young people partook of the glories of the occasion, and received the diplomas that stand for the fruit of four years of earnest and studious endeavor.

The church was filled, nave, transept and gallery, with parents and friends of the graduates, interested citizens and old graduates of P. H. S. The platform in front of the chancel with ferns and a profusion of cut flowers. Members of the Board of Education, Superintendent Henry M. Maxson, the speaker of the evening, Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, of North Reformed church, Newark; Principal C. W. Travell, and Rev. A. C. McCrea, of the First M. E. church, who offered the invocation, sat at the side of the platform. From the center, back, raised seats, were ranged the graduates, the evening clothes of the youths furnishing the effective background for the showy graduation gowns of the girls.

The graduates are as follows:

Classical course—Gertrude Prince Abbott, Mildred Elizabeth Berry, Miriam Crittenden Carman, Mabelle Cubberley, John DeLancey Ferguson, Edgar Wells Freeman, Gertrude Moodey, Florence Emily Prior, Rose Siegal, Frederick Martin Smith, Queena May Tillotson, Joseph Neff Van Deventer.

Scientific course—William Crawford Douglass, George Stanley Fisher, Weston Gavett, William Hicks Osgood, Zacharya Irish Sarner, William Dee Taylor, John Adelbert Van Brakle.

Modern Language course—Alice Lillian Brown, Edith Hanaford, Helen Johnson, Robert Laurance Kyte, Grace Ellmore Stillman, Victor Hoffman Todd, Ethel Brokaw Van Zandt.

General course—Cornelia Lillian Lounsbury, Marion Rebecca Sachar, Ethel Clark Rogers, Francis Hollin Williams.

Commercial course—Clara Evelyn Hallard, Clara Lillian Kanen, Florence Emma Kanen, Charles Bertram Leggett.

The order of exercises opened with an overture, "Jolly Robbers," played by Frank's orchestra, of New York. The invocation, by Rev. Mr. McCrea, was followed by another orchestra selection, Humperdinck's "Evening Prayer," after which Miss Rose Siegal gave the following salutation:

Mr. President and Members of the Board of Education; Mr. Superintendent; Mr. Principal; Mr. Speaker of the evening; Citizens of Plainfield; to all of you, who are gathered here tonight we extend our heartiest greetings. We appreciate greatly the fact that you have come here tonight. You have always taken an interest in us and we sincerely thank you for us to do our best, and for this we thank you.

To you, the Members of the Board of Education, we especially give our thanks for your splendid work. Despite the fact that you are all business men, whose every hour is valuable, you have given your willingly sacrificed valuable time for our good. You have given us teachers whose helpful influence will stay to us throughout the future. You have taught us to use the broader side of life and have done away with some of our narrow-minded ideas and petty prejudices. For instance, we no longer think that the British are tyrants, who were always wrong, while the Americans were Gods who were always in the right. Such fair judgment is largely due to them.

Dr. Maxson, we scarcely know what to say to you. You know our feelings toward you. You know that when you appear before us on the platform there is but one whom we welcome so heartily, and no one to whom we listen so eagerly as to you. You have always done us good, and we shall remember with thanks have watched our progress with such thoughtful interest. But we have come to consider you as the father of our great family.

Mr. Travell, you especially have helped us, both as a class and as individuals. Everything you have done for us has been done for our good. Many times what you have denied us (even if it were dancing after the Senior Play) we now believe was for the best. Throughout our high school course we have found in you a faithful friend and a most helpful adviser. It is impossible for us to express how sincere and heartfelt is the gratitude which we feel toward you.

Mr. Speaker of the evening, in the name of the class of 1907 I wish to welcome you and to ask that we greatly appreciate your presence with us on this occasion, when we are saying farewell to our school life; we shall highly value whatever helpful thoughts you may have to give us, as we stand at the "parting of the ways."

To you, the citizens of Plainfield, to whom we are first of all indebted, we wish to say a few words of gratitude for your liberality toward our schools. Especially helpful has been your interest in the high school and your hearty co-operation with our teachers. In all cases of discipline or difference of opinion the monarchy at home has upheld the dignitaries at school, and we are the better for it.

In the years to come, we will strive not to destroy your confidence in us. We hope that we shall have courage and patience and strength to live up to your hopes for us and to be worthy of them.

The salutatory address and essay were also delivered by Miss Siegal. The essay was on "The Prophet Isaiah at a Modern Peace Conference."

She spoke as follows:

About three thousand years ago, the Prophet Isaiah had predicted that a time would come when there would not be any war among the people of the land. He said, "They shall beat their swords into ploughshares, and their spears into pruning knives; nation shall not lift up sword against nation, and they shall not learn any more war."

However, as matters appear now, his word has not yet been fulfilled. But who knows what will happen after the Hague Conference, which will meet on June 15? Perhaps then Isaiah's prophecy will come true and all strife on this great, wild world will end.

One day a number of men met at the Czar's palace in St. Petersburg to discuss the Hague Conference and Isaiah, the originator of the problem of peace, resolved to confer with them. What he would say regarding the question which had been so dear to him three thousand years ago. He took with him an angel, who unobserved, entered the room and all secrets. They both stole into the apartment, took their places somewhere in the air, and prepared to hear what would happen.

In the large, spacious chamber, where the delegation met, hundreds of electric lights were burning and winking joyfully in each one of their many facets, and with the halo surrounding the angel, poured down upon the people present. Isaiah closed his eyes. "Too bright, too bright," he muttered. Soon, however, whether the hearts of all these men are not filled with darkness and guilt."

At that moment a burst of applause resounded through the chamber. "What are they doing?" Isaiah asked the angel.

"They are paying honor to this man (pointing to the Czar) who sits at the head of the table. He is the man whose father brought together the first Hague Conference and who tried so hard to establish a good constitution for his country. This man, too, is working for a Hague Conference, and he will be the first to bring about war, and in his own land people are condemned to death without trial, blood is shed wantonly, and the cruelties prevail. He does not listen to the voice of his own heart, but to those who with fluttering words and smiling speeches steal away his own better nature. Now, Isaiah, decide in order that they may the more easily gain their desires."

Isaiah's face took on a bitter expression. "Oh, ambition, evil ambition," he moaned, "what dost thou not force mortal hearts to do!"

Just then some one began to speak. "Who is that?" Isaiah asked.

"He is a very rich man, who has mines of money," the angel replied.

"How did he get it?" asked the prophet.

"By fair means and foul. First he dealt with iron and other manufactures. Then he watered his stock in order to deceive the multitude and to benefit himself."

"I do not understand why the people should allow this," muttered Isaiah.

"The people themselves do not understand and so are deceived," continued the angel. "But there are a number of wise men who can obtain money by means of watered stock, but this man is simply one of the wisest among them."

"But what has he to do with peace?" "He has nothing to do with it. Money flows to him from every side. He is also very anxious to satisfy the voice of his conscience and desirous of homage and he obtains it by preaching the gospel of peace."

At these words a cloud appeared on the forehead of the great prophet and an expression of scorn curled his lips.

"Who is that?" he asked again, as a third man began to speak.

"That is an ambassador sent by a great ruler."

"What is he saying?"

"He is praising his master, the Kaiser of Germany, declaring that he is the only man who can establish peace on earth. The Kaiser himself is continually boasting of having won great glory in the service of his country and of his people's native land. It strengthens the body and the heart, he says. Moreover, he cries that his nation is the finest, and that it kings and princes to his eyes.

"And who are those men, with the rows of medallions and orders on their breasts?" Isaiah now asked his companion.

"They are the leaders of riots, of courts-martials and inquisitions, which have been shedding blood for the last century. They are those who preach that if a man slaps you on one cheek you should turn to him the other. However, it is strange that they always wish to be the ones who strike and desire others to turn their cheeks to them."

The expression on Isaiah's face changed. His countenance flamed, his eyes shone fire, and with scorn he cried, "Liars and hypocrites, all of the people. Their tongues are smooth, but their hearts are black."

When the peace conference went to rest and refreshment after the noble work which they prided themselves on having done for mankind, the voice of the great Isaiah could be heard far in the sky, saying, "Oh, wicked people, people overburdened by sin, when will you learn the gospel of peace?"

But the delegation kept on drinking champagne and paying compliments to one another, and heard not a word.

The valedictory oration, "The Spirit of Modern Charity," by Frederick Martin Smith, came next. It was as follows:

"The Advent of Christianity marks the beginning of real charity in its modern sense. Before that time, charity, if it existed at all, was alleviating somewhat for economic reasons, but the followers of Christ imparted a spirit of love into all attempts to relieve and help the afflicted.

In the dark days of the early Roman empire, the Church and her emissaries furnished the only means of relief. Help was given generously, even lavishly, and without discrimination. "Give to every one that asketh of thee," expresses the charitable spirit of the age. Until the dark middle ages, hospitals were founded, no special institutions of charity existed, and the sick were cared for in their own homes. In the middle ages, the monasteries, later, the orders of friars founded hospitals and ministered to the needs of the poor and with the growth of the Church, charity had an amazing efficacy. [illegible] spirit of helpfulness [illegible] Christianity. [illegible] spirit of helpfulness [illegible] Christianity. [illegible] spirit of helpfulness [illegible] Christianity

N.P.H.S. COMMENCEMENT

Diplomas Presented to Class '07 at Annual Exercises Last Night.

ONLY SIX MEMBERS

Prof. Francis Green Speaker of the Evening—Yale Cup Goes to Carl Steiner.

The annual commencement exercises of the North Plainfield Public School were held Friday in the Y. M. C. A. Hall, when five young women were graduated from the regular four year course and one young man received a diploma as a post-graduate. The former were the Misses Myra Emmons, Edith Viola GaNun, Martha Lavinia Hand, Esther Most and Florence Smalley, and the young man was Wilbur Groendyke Dunning.

The hall was well-filled with the parents and friends of the school, who thoroughly enjoyed the excellent program. The platform was attractively decorated with flowers in honor of the graduates.

James R. Joy, as president of the Board of Education, was in charge of the exercises, which began with an invocation by Rev. Dr. Charles Wesley Parsons, pastor of Grace M. E. church. Following this number the High School chorus, under the direction of Herbert Lloyd, musical instructor in the schools, sang three numbers, "We Are Singers, Singing Blithely," Rissini; "The Yeoman's Wedding Song," Poniatowski, and "There Is Music by the River," Pinsuti.

The salutatory essay was delivered by Miss Florence Smalley. Her subject was "Is the Story of Pocohontas True?" The essay follows:

"This year many are turning their attention to Jamestown, one of the oldest and most interesting cities of our country. When thinking of Jamestown, one naturally recalls the early historical stories connected with it, and of these the one best known is the story of Pocohontas. Owing to the many conflicting narratives now in circulation, the truth of the story of Pocohontas has been widely discussed. The one is only a letter written by Smith to a friend in London, which was edited under the name of 'A True Relation;' the other is written by Smith and other members of the Jamestown colony was published under the title, 'The General History of Virginia.'

"In January, 1608, John Smith, while out on an exploring trip was taken prisoner by some Indians, and after a few days had elapsed he was sent back to Jamestown. What happened to him while in the hands of the Indians is the subject of much discussion. In his own part, 'A True Relation,' Smith simply says that the Powhatan tribe treated him kindly and courteously, sending him back to Jamestown.

"But in the 'General History' written by Smith and other members of the colony and published in London sixteen years after his capture by the Indians, we get a much fuller and more elaborate narrative. We are told that after Smith had been taken to the chief's large wigwam the Indians debated together. Presently two large stones were laid before the Powhatan or chief. Smith was dragged to these stones and his head laid upon them. While the warriors stood around with clubs raised the chief's young daughter, Pocohontas, rushed forward and laid her head upon Smith's, whereupon her father saved the prisoner's life.

"For two centuries and a half the latter full fuller account was accepted while the earlier and briefer was ignored. In fact this is the only event that most people remember in connection with the eventful career of Smith.

"In recent years the difference between the two stories has attracted much attention and the conclusion hastily reached by many is that the more romantic version, Smith was untruthful. It is first assumed that if the Pocohontas incident had really occurred, we should be sure to find it in Smith's own narrative written shortly afterward. Then, too, it has been said that when Pocohontas visited London and was received as a princess, Smith invented the story in order to magnify his own name by linking it with hers. The braggadocia theory of Smith's career is supported by such assumptions. While under it all lies the belief that this incident was an extraordinary one, something that would not have been likely to happen.

"The question has been asked, 'Why did not Smith speak of this event in the letter written to his friend in England in 1608, while the details were fresh in his mind?' We are not certain that he did not mention it, for the editor of the 'True Relation' admitted that he suppressed a part of the letter as being too personal to publish. If we investigate the instructions laid upon the early colonists we find an explanation of this omission. Our forefathers were told to write no letters and to send no messages that would be likely to discourage others from settling in the new country. We can readily see that full knowledge of Smith's experience would not tend to lessen the feeling of distrust and fear with which the prospective settlers looked upon the newly discovered country. This may have restrained Smith from mentioning his deadly peril: or if he mentioned it we can easily see why the editor suppressed it. After years had elapsed and the colony was becoming prosperous we can see no reason why Smith should not publish the full account of his rescue.

"In the 'True Relation' Smith not only omits all reference to Pocohontas but he says that the Indians treated him courteously and kindly. This statement is thought to be incompatible with their having decided to beat out his brains, but this view shows ignorance of Indian customs. In our own time it has been a common thing for savages to offer their choicest foods with polite bows and smiles to their captives who are about to die. In the fuller account in the 'General History,' Smith says that he was treated kindly on his way to execution and after his rescue. If we drop out what happened in the interval we get the shorter account.

"There were many people in London who could have challenged this story had it been false. In the first place Pocohontas was being entertained in London. She knew that a letter had been received by Anne, of Denmark, in which Smith says 'Pocohontas has wedd one of my people but I believe that money and position brings power, in reality it is character alone that will bring it. Lastly, the speaker said, "divide your time and blessings with others. Look out for the part of his enemies some intimation of the falsity of the story of pleasure. There is no such thing as an independent life for every one is dependent upon some one in some way."

After Prof. Green's address, the valedictory essay was delivered by Miss Martha Lavinia Hand, the subject being "The Effect of the Four Great Invasions on the English Language," and was as follows:

"The study of the origin of the English language is very interesting, for in examining the etymology of words we are led into the fields of history. For example, the word name Chester, with its compounds Dorchester, Manchester, Winchester, Worcester, and Lancaster is derived from the Latin "castra" meaning camp. The word street has its source in "strata via" paved way, the name applied to the Roman roads. If we inquire why the English language contains words so directly taken from the Latin, we are led at once to the fact that the Romans at one time had conquered the southern part of Britain, and that they left the traces of their language we still speak. Our first positive information in regard to England we owe to Julius Caesar, who in 55 B. C. made his first invasion. His success was nominal rather than real; for he made no effort to hold down his posterity the discovery of the island, further than its possession. In 42 A. D. another invasion was made by Emperor Claudius, but the invaders never gained more than a temporary foothold. With their laws and customs the Romans introduced their language into literature, but Latin was without doubt spoken chiefly by the educated classes and by the dwellers in cities for when the Romans withdrew in the early part of the fifth century their language disappeared almost completely. But slight vestiges of it are to be found in our language for they left us only about 100 words. Some of these are popular, being derived from the Latin populous, accident from accido, cream from crepo, grave from gravis, paternal from pater and senate from Senatus.

"It is to the Teutonic invasion which followed soon after the Roman rule ceased, that we owe the introduction of our language into Great Britain. The original inhabitants of the British Isles were annoyed and alarmed by the attacks of the Picts and Scots, and so in their extremity they called for aid upon certain Teutonic tribes, the Angles, Saxons and Jutes, who dwelt upon the north coast of Germany. It was by these Teutons that the foundation of the English language was laid in Great Britain, for the new auxiliaries did not long remain contented with the limited territory which was given to them, but soon turning their arms against their allies ended at last in conquering the country they came to save. In civilization the Teutons were but little in advance of what the Britons had been in the days of Caesar. Their language was the language of the people of Great Britain; the language in which books were written and laws were published. The superiority of the Angles, arising from vastly greater numbers, and perhaps in earlier cultivation of the literature and language of the race belonging to them predominant so that the name applied both to the race and to the tongue was English, which later became Englisc, and which is now pronounced by us English. Then the Anglo-Saxon words generally are names of our dearest and earliest associations, as home, friends, father, mother, etc.; words expressing our strongest natural feelings for example, gladness, sorrow, smiles, blushes, naughty, weep, etc.; names of objects of every day life are also words left by the Teutons.

"Upon examining the origin of such words as Whitby, Derby, Enderby, we find that the ending "by" is a Danish word meaning town. During the ninth and tenth centuries the Danes made many incursions into England, plundering the towns, burning the churches and massacreing the people. They were often defeated in battle, but they never lost their foot-hold in the country. To the Danish we owe such words as bait, whisk, fling guest, ransack, whim, and whirl; the language of the Danes was however so closely related to the English that their coming made no great change in the speech of the country.

Words of fashion of the chase and of cookery we owe to the Normans, who came over from France when William, the conqueror, became king of England in the eleventh century. Most of the words left by them are "high sounding," compared with the "every day" words of the Saxons. Some of these are similar numerous, celestial, varecity and felicity. The Normans were very severe in dealing with the Saxons, who were really their slaves. With all their faults the Normans were in some respects superior to the Saxons. They were better soldiers they had broader ideas and knew more about the other countries of the world and they were more refined, and cultured. The two races found that there was many good things which they could learn from each other and so in the course of many generations, the two formed a united people. The main reason why the language of England was not made French by the Normans is because they were so harsh that the Saxons rebelled. Another reason is that the Saxons were much more numerous than their masters. Most of our words of Latin origin were introduced by the Normans on account of the fact that their language is based upon the Latin tongue. But the greatest effect of the Norman conquest upon the language is that it introduced the habit of borrowing words from other languages. Since the Norman conquest there has been no invasion of sufficient importance to cause any great change in the language.

"The French, the Latin and the other languages have all had their day in the past centuries and now that the twentieth century has just begun if we can guess at the future from our acquaintance with the past we are justified in believing that the world language at the end of this century. Should any one tongue claim such distinction it will be English. But whether English shall be the language of the world of the future depends not on the language itself, but on the sturdiness of those who speak it, on their readiness to sacrifice themselves for the common good and on their fidelity to their ideals.

"If English becomes the speech of the world, it will be the language as it is spoken by all the branches of the English race. It is our duty then to do what we can to keep our language fresh and vigo, to resist all the attempts to restrain its growth and to urge along the simplification of its grammar, so that it shall be ready for the day when it is a world language."

Members of the Board of Education, teachers, schoolmates and friends, tonight we are gathered together to say farewell. We have for a long time thought of the day when we must part, perhaps never to meet again as a class. We do not know what the future has in store for us. Some of us may become famous while others may remain quietly at home performing all their tasks to the best of their ability. Although the dreams that we have cherished may not all be realized, they will not be fulfilled we are determined to be fearless, energetic and honest in our attitude toward the insignificant tasks that go to make up the daily routine of life-long duration.

"We hope that in the future the lessons that we have learned will prove valuable to us, even if we have not only attempted to learn Latin and Mathematics, but also some principles of self respect, trust worthiness, self control, and honesty.

"We thank the members of the board and the teachers for what they have done to make our life pleasant and happy for the past four years. Our teachers have not only been our instructors but also our dearest friends, with whom we have spent many pleasant hours.

"And now class mates let us always cherish in memory of our school-days deep in our hearts. let us uphold our school with all our strength and let us show by our lives that we have profited by the opportunities that have been given us in the North Plainfield High School."

Miss Hand concluded, Mr. Joy presented the Yale Cup, offered by the Yale Club, of Plainfield, to the young man attaining the highest standard in athletics and scholarship during the past year. This cup is similar to the ones presented the Plainfield classical and Grade the Lenape School commencements this week. Mr. Joy explained that the cup was given by a club comprising ninety residents of Plainfield and North Plainfield who had been graduated from Yale College. He then announced the winner of the cup to be Clarence Runyon Steiner. The young man was completely taken by surprise and gave pronounced evidence of it when he walked to the platform to receive the cup amid the applause of many friends.

Then followed the presentation of the diplomas to the graduates after they were announced by Supervising *Principal H. C. Krebs, who ex*plained the revision of the High School course from three to four years, which accounts for the small class.

After a selection by the High School chorus, the exercises closed and the audience was given an opportunity to congratulate the graduates. Later the annual alumni association reception to the class was given at the Casino, where dancing was enjoyed until a late hour.

COUNCIL RECEIVES BIDS FOR NEW MACADAM WORK

FOUR CONTRACTORS ALSO FIGURE ON STORM SEWER CONSTRUCTION.

The especially important business that brought the Common Council together for its second adjourned meeting this month, Thursday, was that bids might be received for the proposed construction of a portion of the Randolph avenue storm sewer and for the macadamizing of certain streets, specified in an ordinance recently adopted.

The bids for the storm sewer were received first. There were four, the following persons submitting figures for doing the work: Warren S. Trafvell, C. M. Meeker and Arthur E. Smith, of Plainfield, and William J. McCloud, of Elizabeth. They were referred to the street committee to be reported on later.

Three bids were received for the macadamizing work, those bidding being the Hassam Pavement Company, of Worcester, Mass.; Warren B. Travell and C. M. Meeker, of Plainfield. The bids per lineal foot for each street specified follows:

Hassam Pavement Company, West Second street, 57 cents; Randolph road, $1.15; Arlington place, $1.42; College place, $2.38; Denmark road, $2.95; Sycamore street, $1.96; Hillside avenue, $2.32; West End avenue, $4.15.

Warren B. Travell, West Second street, 59 cents; Randolph road, 95 cents; Arlington place, $1.05; Cottage place, $1.02; Park lane, 98 cents; Elmwood place, $1.15; College place, $1.16; Denmark road, $2.-96; Sycamore street, $1.65; Hillside avenue, $1.57; West End avenue, $2.48.

C. M. Meeker, West Second street, 62 cents; Randolph road, 92 cents; Arlington place, 95 cents; Cottage place, $1.20; Park lane, $1.18; Elmwood place, $1.30; College place, $1.30; Denmark road, $1.96; Sycamore street, $1.60; Hillside avenue, $1.80; West End avenue, $2.14.

After the bids were read they were referred to the street committee to be considered further and reported upon at the next meeting of the Common Council.

COUNCILMAN OBJECTS TO GRANTING MORE LIGHTS

MR. TYLER SAYS THE MATTER IS NOT GIVEN PROPER CONSIDERATION.

It was with some difficulty that the Common Council secured a quorum for its adjourned meeting, Thursday, and at one time is looked as though there would be no session. It was the third one for the month and most of the members felt like staying away. There were just six members present, but business must be fulfilled we are determined to be fearless, energetic and honest in our attitude toward the insignificant tasks that go to make up the daily routine of life-long duration.

A petition was received from William R. Codlington, representing Clara A. Stelle, in which he made a proposition to redeem the property at 210-209-211 Plainfield avenue, sold under the Martin Act, by paying the back taxes in all amounting to $1,499.37, and with the understanding that the city would in return give a quit claim deed. The matter was referred to the finance committee.

Later Mr. Hibbard, of that committee, offered a resolution, providing that the petition be accepted in accordance with its provisions. The resolution was adopted.

Mr. Gloak offered a resolution, which was adopted, providing that $1,000 be appropriated from the general fund to prepare plans and specifications for the proposed extension of the sanitary sewers, the same to be deducted from the regular appropriations for the year, and with opposition from Mr. Tyler. He said that altogether too many lights were being granted and he didn't think that due consideration was being given to the matter of lights, and he thought that more attention should be given to the granting of lights throughout the whole city.

Mr. Montgomery replied by saying that the particular section referred to needed the two lights as there is not a single lamp on Randolph road between Hillside avenue and Woodland avenues. Mr. Montgomery had a map of the city and while several of the members were examining it, Mr. Gloak moved that the consideration of the committee be adopted and it was, Mr. Tyler alone voting no. He also voted against the motion of Mr. Montgomery to place a lamp on East Sixth street, between Central and Berckman streets, on the same ground, but the light was granted.

NEW TEACHERS FOR THE BOROUGH SCHOOLS

NUMBER OF CHANGES WILL BE THE SMALLEST IN YEARS.

When the North Plainfield schools open in the fall there will be two new teachers in the high school, one in the primary, one in the kindergarten and one in domestic science (cooking and sewing). This is the smallest number of changes in the faculty that has taken place in many years.

Professor Benjamin J. Phelps, who will assume the new position of principal of the high school, is a graduate of Yale, class of 1902. For the past five years he has been vice-president of Pennington Seminary, and has been in charge of the discipline of the two hundred and twenty-five students, also representing the president in the latter's absence. For three years he was director of athletics at the seminary.

Mr. Phelph has a fine record in scholarship, and is a good all around athlete, having been captain and manager of the "Prep." school baseball nine, and a football player at Yale. He will have charge of the department of history, succeeding Miss Ethel F. Reed, who goes at a largely increased salary to teach history in a high school of three hundred pupils at New Britain, Conn.

Miss Grace Bradley, who retires from teaching for a year, will be succeeded by Miss Agnes Scudder, a graduate of the Washington D. C. high school, and of Wesleyan University, Middletown, Conn., class of 1905, where her scholarship won her Phi Beta Kappa honors. Miss Scudder has taught two years, the last at Flemington, where her success was noteworthy. Miss Scudder is highly recommended as a teacher of English by Professor C. T. Winchester, the head of the department of English Literature at Wesleyan University.

Miss Mabel Hare, who also retires from teaching, will be succeeded in *the Watchung Primary by Miss Net*tie Bauersachs, daughter of J. W. A. Bauersachs, of the borough. Miss Bauersachs is a graduate of the North Plainfield high school, of the New Jersey Normal school, and after serving as assistant in the local kindergarten taught successfully for two years in the public schools of Raritan.

Miss Butler, of the Somerset kindergarten, retires, and will be succeeded by Miss Milo, of the Watchung kindergarten. Miss Edna L. French is promoted to the head of the Watchung kindergarten. She has been assistant in the Somerset kin*dergarten for a number of years. Her* training for the work was obtained in the Plainfield school. Next year she will continue as assistant in the Watchung kindergarten, and Miss Myra Emmons of this year's graduating class, daughter of John P. Emmons, of North Plainfield, will be assistant to Miss Milo in the Somerset kindergarten.

The new teacher of domestic science will be Miss Helen Ingersoll, of South Orange. Miss Ingersoll is a graduate of Pratt Institute, Brooklyn, class of 1906. She has taught successfully at Western College for Women, Oxford, Ohio. She will succeed Miss Genevieve Denneen, who in the past three years has developed the domestic science department along practical lines.

The fact that so many of the teachers will remain another year indicates that the work next term will be increasingly efficient.

Andrew Bender, who has been instructor of mathematics and chemistry, has been released by the Board of Education to accept a professorship at Lebanon College, Lebanon, Pa., where he was graduated a few years ago. His successor will be announced in a few days.

LOSS ON CADMUS MILLS LESS THAN FIRST ESTIMATE

BELIEVED NOW THAT THE TOTAL DAMAGE WILL NOT EXCEED $7,000.

*Further investigation into the af*fairs attendant upon the fire at the Commercial Mills, Thursday morning, shows that A. D. Cadmus will not suffer as big a loss as reported at first. It was then estimated that the loss on the buildings and contents would be about $25,000, but an examination of the proprty and the contents shows that it will probably not exceed $6,000 or $7,000. It is thought that a greater part of the grain, flour and oats, as well as some of the hay can be sold at a slight profit.

The greatest loss to property will be in the destruction of the frame sheds, and it is estimated that the brick mill can be repaired at an expense of about $1,500. The insurance carried by Mr. Cadmus had the eighty per cent clause, and while his property and contents were not adequately covered, there probably being about $5,000 insurance, he will receive less than under ordinary conditions. It is now believed that Mr. Cadmus will start in business again as soon as the insurance is adjusted and the property can be repaired.

U.V.U.'S HOLD CONVENTION

Nineteenth Annual Business Session Began in This City Yesterday.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Comrade John R. Naylor Made the Head of the Organization—Installation Ceremonies Today.

Officers were elected and other matters of business were transacted at the first session of the nineteenth annual convention of the Union Veteran Union, of New York and New Jersey, held in the Christian church, Thursday. The organization, which numbers 101 members in the five regiments at Geneva, N. Y., Watertoo, N. Y., Penn Yan, N. Y., Middletown, N. Y., and Plainfield, is well represented at the convention and considerable interest manifested in the proceedings.

The union is comprised of veterans who saw not less than six months actual service and who participated in at least one battle. Brigadier-General Albert G. Perry, of this city, delivered the address of welcome to the delegates and Comrade John Wagner made a few remarks. General Philip H. Russell, of Geneva, by virtue of his office as commander of the union, then took the chair and presided over the business session. The report of the assistant adjutant-general, Col. John Pound, of Waterloo, showed a membership of 101 and every regiment in good condition. He explained that the limited membership was accounted for by reason of the fact that the eligibility rules prevented many from joining. The treasurer reported a small balance on hand, with all bills paid.

The election of officers resulted as follows:

General, John R. Naylor, Plainfield; brigadier-general first brigade, Gen. Daniel L. Seeley, Penn Yan, N. Y.; brigadier-general second brigade, Comrade Joseph O. Sedam, New Brunswick; assistant adjutant-general, Comrade Frederick Wilson; quarter-master-general, Comrade E. E. Townley; chaplain, Comrade John Wagner, Plainfield.

After the election the veterans received a committee of women from the convention of the Women's Union Relief Union, inviting them to attend a reception. Short addresses of congratulation were made by the different members, including the delegates from other regiments, concluding with a lengthy address by the retiring commander, Gen. Russell. Adjournment was then taken to 10 o'clock this morning, when the officers-elect were installed by General Russell.

Laying aside business for a time, the members of the U. V. U. and the Women's Relief Union gathered at the Christian church, last night, and enjoyed a camp-fire. The program opened with an address by General Russell, after which S. S. Swackhamer made the address of the evening in which he recalled a number of the most stirring scenes of the Civil War, mentioning the names of several who took a leading part.

Other features of the program were recitations by Miss Adele Ohl and a flag drill by ten little girls, under the direction of Mrs. Charles Thompson. The entertainment closed with a recitation by Mrs. Andrew Mulford. Henry Drake was the chairman of the committee of arrangements for the entertainment of the visiting veterans and last night's camp-fire and everything passed off in a way that was pleasing to all.

TIME FOR ACTION.

Aside from the scathing arraignment of Elizabeth's city government, which in itself has proven a county sensation, the report of the Grand Jury as presented to Justice Swayze, by Foreman Charles J. Link, is one of the most remarkable documents ever given out in the Union County Court. The petit jury system is one that has for years been a constant menace to the dispensing of justice with equity but if remained for Mayor Charles J. Fisk and his colleagues to strike at the root of existing conditions and call for a revision in the method of selecting the men to try the cases that need as unprejudiced and strictly impartial consideration. The present Grand Jury is composed of the finest class of citizens in the confines of Union and it has had to submit to an unorthody undoing the indictments it brought in only after the full realization that conviction was needed.

If, as the report charges, the petit jury is drawn from panels furnished by politicians that principally include men who have nothing else to do and want the $2 a day, it is beyond the time for mere discussion. What is needed is summary action and if the present petit body is in a position to come under the arraignment, it should be replaced by another without delay.

Mayor Fisk, as foreman of the Grand Jury, has offered sensible suggestions as to the best way of overcoming the difficulty and they should be put into effect. There are hundreds of men who will gladly serve as a matter of honor and principle and not for the sake of protecting the interests of those who see to it that they are drawn. While Plainfield does not come under the ban in the sense that some of the other places do, there is room for improvements on all sides and the people can best be served by the banishment of the "professional and political jurymen."

Much of the time at the annual convention of police chiefs of the United States and Canada, just concluded at Jamestown, was devoted to discussing the practice of carrying concealed weapons and a systematic campaign against it was advocated. The Union county delegates, of whom Chief Kiely of Elizabeth were prominent in the proceedings and in view of recent occurrences in both Elizabeth and Plainfield, they were in a position to relate how readily murder can result from the prevalence of a pistol and a hand during a quarrel. A man who goes about with a deadly weapon concealed in his clothes is a menace to society and no one has more reason to dread him than these same police officers, who are constantly in danger of a bullet wound or knife thrust. The fact that they have taken the matter up as a body to urge severer penalties for the practice is an evidence that it may quickly be stamped out. City Judge Canavan has had a number of cases of this kind without that least bit of leniency and his example is being followed by magistrates throughout the county. A term in the penitentiary will prove the right sort of remedy in every time a man who has no business to is found with a weapon in his clothing.

State Architect George E. Poole kept away from the Assembly investigating committee while Inquisitor Backes was probing the State building scandals and trying to get essential facts from the board. Contractor Lawion and "State Plumber" Tobin. As the Backes report says, the State architect was at the State House, but he failed to appear before the committee, even after doubt had been cast upon his relations with the contractor. Mr. Poole unbosoms himself in a communication to the Governor, but his proper course was a sworn statement to the Assembly committee. There is an unraveled mystery in the audited accounts of Contractor Lawior that must needs be cleared up. The book that contains certain alterations should be microscopically examined to find the name that was written over, evidently for concealment. The investigation will fall far short of effectiveness if certain points now obscure are not cleared up. If the examination discloses the statements of State Architect Poole to the Governor a necessary act of justice will be done to a man unjustly reflected upon.—Newark Morning Star.

Miss Willie Goes to Somerville.

Miss May Willie, of this city, and Isaac Perry and Charles Reinmann, of the borough were arraigned before Recorder Dolliver, in the borough court, last night, on charges of being drunk and disorderly, the officers having been committed Sunday night along Green brook. Miss Willie was given twenty days in the county jail, and was taken there this morning by Chief Marshal Weiss. Perry and Reinmann were each fined $3 or five days. The fines were paid.

FIRST PUBLIC MEETING IN Y.W.C.A.'S NEW HOME

TOOK THE FORM OF SERVICE OF DEDICATION AND PRAISE.

The doors of the Young Women's Christian Association were thrown open Sunday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock for the first public meeting in the new home. It took the form of a service of dedication and praise and was held in the attractive assembly room. The room was overcrowded with people, it being necessary to use the large hallway and library room. There were about 125 in all present.

Mrs. Frederick G. Mead, president of the association, was in charge of the meeting which was opened with singing, after which Mrs. Mead read appropriate Scripture selections. Rev. Joseph C. McKelvey, pastor of Warren chapel, also read a Scripture lesson, which was followed with a solo by Miss Nora Schenck.

Mrs. Mead then announced that the home would be open daily and referred to the blessing it could be made to the city. She introduced Miss Eleanor O. Brownell, of New York, who has been the State secretary of the Y. W. C. A. for New York and New Jersey, but who will leave in a few months for Tokio, Japan, to become secretary to the students in one of the universities there.

Miss Brownell circled her thoughts around the occasion in Christ's life when he was the guest at the home of a Pharisee and a woman, when a sinner annointed His feet with oil. She spoke of the beauty of a life which was willing and dare even to scorn and ridicule for the love of Christ and contrasted such a life with a character represented by the half-hearted superficial Pharisee. Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, closed the meeting with prayer and pronounced the benediction. Both before and after the meeting many availed themselves of the opportunity of looking through the building, which had been made especially attractive with floral decorations. All were in such happy mood that the accommodations and the excellent arrangements for carrying on this most important work for girls and women.

PLANNING NEW RARITAN BRIDGE AT BOUND BROOK.

Somerset Freeholders May Erect New Structure to Connect with South Bound Brook.

A new bridge across the Raritan river that will connect Bound Brook with the Borough of South Bound Brook, is projected. The Board of Freeholders of Somerset county is considering the matter, and it is thought the bridge will be built at an early date, especially as the present one, built in 1875, has been condemned.

For the purpose of securing the erection of a more substantial structure than the Board of Freeholders of the county have in mind at present the Bound Brook Improvement Society has taken the project in hand and is securing the co-operation of the Central Railroad between the Philadelphia and Reading, the Baltimore and Ohio and the Lehigh Valley railroads and the Public Service corporation for the erection of a bridge that will be used by the trolleys, automobiles and wagons as well as by passengers, and that will be located at a point fully 1,000 feet west of the present structure. The co-operation of the railroads is being secured because it is expected they will erect a station depot alongside of the proposed bridge.

The plan is to have the new bridge elevated and sufficiently high to clear all railroad tracks as well as the river, and the Delaware and Raritan canal on the South Bound Brook side. The proposed bridge would be approached in the vicinity of Main and Church streets, Bound Brook, and the bridge proper would be reached by means of a gentle incline that would be too steep for teaming purposes. The station depot which would be placed between the Central and Lehigh Valley railroads opposite to Church street, would be reached from the bridge by means of a gentle descent, there being plenty of room for the purpose. The erection of the new bridge the subway near the present Lehigh Valley station would not be needed.

Men's Club First Outing.

The Men's Club of Grace M. E. church, recently organized, has decided to open the charter to all male persons from sixteen years and over. The club has been formed for the purpose of advancing the social and moral welfare of the men of North Plainfield and the present membership is fifty-two. The club will hold its first outing on Saturday at the Watchung Spring Water Company's spring on the mountain. All members and their wives are invited. A stage will leave Grace M. E. church at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. A feature of the afternoon will be a baseball game between the married and single men. The club will meet Monday night at Grace church to nominate officers and perfect the details of organization.

GOLFERS PLAY OFF TIE

S.H. Lockert Winsin Deciding Match With C. W. Hunt, of Englewood.

MANY OTHER EVENTS

Competitions on Park and Country Club Links Bring In Batch of Good Scores.

Among the many interesting events scheduled at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday was the playoff of the tie for the third net score prize between S. H. Lockert, of Montclair, and C. W. Hunt, of Englewood, which was left over from Saturday, June 15, in the open tournament. Lockert won the match with a score of 73, 4—69, the gross score equalling the amateur record of the course under the new conditions, which was made a week ago by F.O. Reinhart and Findlay S. Douglass. Hunt's score was 93, 11—82. The following detailed score shows the excellent golf played by Lockert in the match:

Out ..5 5 5 5 5 2 4 4—36
In ...7 4 4 4 4 4 4 4 2—37—73

It will be noticed that in going out he only required two strokes for the seventh hole and in coming home he took two on the eighteenth hole, while he had a remarkable string of fours coming in.

Among the club competitions was the semi-final play for the June cup, when T. E. Stockton beat G. F. Earl, up and 2 to play, and H. D. Hibbard beat C. P. Hamilton, 3 up and 2 to play.

There were four contestants who tied with a net score of 79 for the first three points for the Golf Committee cup. These scores were returned:

L. W. Lester Glenney, 79, 0—79; Frank O. Reinhart, 79, 0—79; R. Story Rowland, 81, 2—79; Morris J. Dumont, 82, 3—79; E. B. Shoemaker, 84, 4—80.

L. R. Hopton with a net score of 75 won first honors for the Green Committee cup. The scores:

L. R. Hopton, 100, 25—75; Geo. E. Cathcart, 86, 9—77; C. E. Barclay, 98, 20—78; James P. Murray, 94, 15—79; Hugh F. Fox, 97, 15—82; T. W. T. Maxwell, 103, 21—82.

There was also the playoff of the tie on June 8, between H. D. Hibbard, F. O. Reinhart and M. J. Dumont for a leg on the Scratch cup, and Reinhart won with a score of 79. R. Story Rowland won a leg on this cup Saturday with a score of 81.

The first four-ball foursome was played on Saturday, R. Story Rowland and H. W. Beebe being the winners with anet score of 71. The scores:

R. Story Rowland and H. W. Beebe, 73, 2—71; G. E. Cathcart and Hugh F. Fox, 82, 9—73; C. C. Burke, Sr., and J. S. VanBuren, 87, 14—73; F. O. Reinhart and W. Lester Glenney, 74, 0—74; Roger P. Murray and E. B. Shoemaker, 78, 4—74; G. F. Schoonmaker and C. B. Morgan 77, 0—77; T. E. Stockton and H. D. Hibbard, 81, 4—77.

In addition to winning first honors for the President's and Golf Club cups, Charles A. Reed also scored fire points for the Hydewood Park cup. Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll and George A. Chapman tied for second place for the President's cup, and Chapman won with Rev. J. C. McKelvey, won the other points for the Hydewood cup. For the Scratch cup Mr. McKelvey finished second and Mr. Chapman third. The scores throughout were very close and the players showed steady improvement.

These scores were returned for the three trophies:

Charles A. Reed, 98, 17—81; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 104, 17—87; Geo. A. Chapman, 105, 18—87; Rev. Joseph C. McKelvey, 99, 7—92; L. R. Tarlow, 102, 15—92; Reuben Knox 110, 17—93; J. B. Betts, 124, 30—94; W. V. Byard, 116, 20—96; C. B. Morse, 117, 18—99; E. A. Lyon, 130, 30—100; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 127, 9—100.

During the afternoon tea was served at the clubhouse under the direction of the house committee, and in the evening a dinner was given by Mrs. J. B. Probasco for twenty guests. These social features proved a delightful part of the afternoon and evening program.

Won First Prize at Baby Parade.

At the baby parade held last week at Melville Park, Bayonne, Harry Salkeld, Jr., the five months' old son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Salkeld, of Linden avenue, Greenville, and a nephew of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Weed, of West Sixth street, received first prize for babies of his age. He weighed twenty-five pounds. Mrs. Salkeld was Miss Daisy Snyder, formerly of this city.

John Dow Made Street Commissioner

At a special meeting of the Board of Freeholders at Somerville, last night, the old dispute regarding the appointment of a street commissioner was settled, John Dow being appointed for one year at a salary of $60 a month, and James Hardgrove, the former incumbent, resigned. The trial of Policeman Henderson on charges of conduct unbecoming an officer will be held Monday night.

FINAL MATCHES IN TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

MISS MARCUS AND G. B. FIELDER WINNERS OF THE TOURNEY.

The championship tournament of the East New Jersey Lawn Tennis Association for mixed doubles was completed at the Park Club, Saturday afternoon, when several fine matches were played among those left in from the preceding Saturday. In the final round Miss Marcus and G. B. Fielder, of the Danforth Tennis Club, Jersey City, won out, defeating Miss Hardy and E. S. H. Pendergast, of the Elizabeth Town and Country Club, 9-7, 6-4.

It was not a source of regret that Miss Edna Wilder and Wylie Brown, of the Plainfield Country Club did not carry off the honors. They played a spirited and close match with the pair which finally won the championship, the match going three sets; 3-6, 6-4 6-4, before the local team was defeated.

The play started off with the remaining unplayed matches in the first round left over from the previous Saturday. The summary follows:

First round—Miss Bogart and W. B.Cragin, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, defeated Mrs. B. C. Edgar and Mr. Dunham, Ideran Outing Club, 6-3, 8-6; Miss Schuyler and H. J. Cochran, Plainfield Country Club, defeated Mrs. Vondrel and Mr. Miller, Ideran Outing Club, 6-2, 6-3.; Miss Marcus and G. B. Fielder Danforth Tennis Club,defeated Edna Wildey and Wylie Brown, Plainfield Country Club, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

Semi-finals—Miss Handy and E. S. H. Pendergast, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, defeated Miss Schuyler and H. J. Cochran, Plainfield Country Club. 4-6, 8-6, 6-3; Miss Marcus and G. B. Fielder, Danforth Tennis Club, defeated Miss Bogart and W. B. Cragin, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, 6-1, 6-1.

Finals—Miss Marcus and G. B. Fielder, Danforth Tennis Club, defeated Miss Handy and E. S. H. Pendergast, Elizabeth Town and Country Club, 9-7, 6-4.

GOURLEY GROOMS BLACK TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR.

Democratic State Chairman Thinks Man Stokes Defeated Would Be Remite the Party.

"What is new in politics?" William B. Gourley, chairman of the New Jersey Democratic State Committee, was asked yesterday in Jersey City. Mr. Gourley was at the time in the office of State Tax Commissioner and former Democratic candidate for Governor Charles C. Black in a reference case. Mr. Gourley replied:

"Nothing, except that the Democratic party must get together and find a good man as candidate for Governor."

Looking at Mr. Black he said:

"I think it's Black's year. I believe he would be acceptable to everybody if he would run, and that it is his chance to get even for the defeat he received three years ago."

"I am not quickly shot in," Mr. Black said when asked what he thought of the proposition. "The sound of a brass band and serenade would make me sick. But I suppose if matters drifted along and the convention should nominate me there would be no way of getting out of it, unless I had previously declared that I would not accept a nomination. If I so declared nothing could swerve me from my purpose."

PENNSY ROAD TO BUILD INTO SOUTH BOUND BROOK.

Plans to Extend Millstone Branch to Get Freight Traffic of Big Factory.

For the purpose of getting the output of the Standard Paint Company's plant, at South Bound Brook, to market more quickly than is now possible, the Pennsylvania railroad is about to build an extension of its Millstone branch to South Bound Brook.

The extension which has been surveyed will start from a point about two miles northeast of Millstone and reach to South Bound Brook in a northeasterly direction, skirting the old racetrack and the Fleischman farm and entering South Bound Brook by way of Elizabeth street.

The output of the paint company at present is mainly shipped by canal, although some is shipped by the Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley railroads, both of which are on the Bound Brook side of the Raritan River, but a quarter of a mile away from the works. The work of building the road will be begun as soon as the right of way can be obtained.

Memorial For Fire Horse.

Jerry, the old fire horse that died two weeks ago, is to have a monument. The memorial is being prepared by Capt. George Fehring, who trained Jerry at the No. 3 engine house. Capt. Fehring was the only one who could handle Jerry so as to bring out the best in him. There was a great bond of affection.

Dr. Chambliss to Speak.

Rev. Dr. J. A. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church, will conduct the meeting at the Plainfield Rescue Mission, W. C. T. U. rooms, Thursday night.

ROUNDED UP HOBO GANG

Lehigh Detectives Catch Seven in Drag-Net at South Plainfield.

BEGINNING OF CRUSADE

Authorities Determined to Break Up the Practice of Trespassing On the Railroad.

Chief Miles, of the detective force of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, together with several detectives made a trip over the New Jersey Division of the road Sunday for the purpose of rounding up the hoboes who have been trespassing on the railroad property and stealing wire or anything else that they have come across. As a result of the raid seven tramps were caught in the net at South Plainfield, five being from Newark, one from Chicago and one from Perth Amboy. They were bagged near the station and were immediately arraigned before Justice W. E. Smith, the seven prisoners, ranging in age from sixteen to twenty-two years, only had $1.40 among them, and this was collected by the Justice, after which they were released for lack of evidence to commit them.

The action on the part of the detective force was the result of trouble at Roselle several days ago, when William McCormick, a section foreman, and two of his men were attacked by a gang of tramps. They were in charge of a coal train, and as they passed the section-men, they hurled large pieces of coal at them. One of the men was knocked down and received painful injuries. The others escaped injury.

The attack was reported to Chief Miles and he planned yesterday's raid for the purpose of breaking up, if possible, the wholesale riding and stealing of railroad supplies that has been going on for an indefinite time. They met with no success until they neared South Plainfield and there they found the one gang of seven which was arrested, and a number of other hoboes who got away, evidently receiving the tip that the detectives were out for business.

These "knights of the road" make South Plainfield a convenient stopping place for camping out and catching trains for the east and west. Local authorities make no effort to stop them in their acts of trespassing and stealing railroad property, but the practice has been carried on to such an extent that they recognized the necessity of taking prompt action to bring it to an end. The detective force will maintain its vigilance until the practice is broken up.

KELLER MAY RESIGN.

It Is Said Rector Will Quit Church For Harmony's Sake.

Rumor has it that Rev. John Keller will sever, next Sunday, his connection with Trinity Episcopal church, Arlington.

For several years there has been dissatisfaction in the congregation and although the majority has always stood by Rector Keller there is opposition enough to him, it is said, to cause him to resign in the interest of harmony.

Rev. Mr. Keller is the minister who was shot several years ago by Thomas Barker, of Arlington, after Barker's wife had told her husband a story which prompted the assault.

Barker was convicted in the Hudson county court and sentenced to five years in State Prison, but was pardoned after having served a portion of his term.

Rev. Mr. Keller could not be seen yesterday, and Bishop Edwin S. Lines, head of the diocese, said nothing had yet been settled in regard to the matter, and that anything that is to be said on the rumored resignation must come from Rector Keller.

Several members of the church asserted the rumor is true.

QUIETLY WEDDED.

Miss Sadie L. Sweeney Becomes Wife of James E. Jack.

Miss Sadie L. Sweeney, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Sweeney, of Liberty street, and James Edward Jack, of Elizabeth, were quietly married Saturday morning at 7:30 o'clock at the home of the officiating minister, Rev. J. O. McKelvey, on Grandview avenue. The bride was attended by Miss Mary Ulmer, as bridemaid, while her brother, Joseph M. Sweeney, was best man.

The bride was gowned in white silk, trimmed with lace, and carried bride roses. The bridemaid wore a gown of blue silk, and carried pink roses. The couple left for a short wedding trip and upon their return will reside in this city. The groom is employed as an electrician at the Pond Machine Tool Works.

Twin Children Christened.

Francis and Mary Margaret McCabe, twins of Mr. and Mrs. Frank McCabe, of East Fourth street, were baptized yesterday. Francis being baptized by Father Delehanty at the home of the parents, and Father Bogan baptized Mary Margaret at St. Mary's church. Hugh Reilly and Miss Emily Hanlan stood up with Francis, as godfather and godmother, while John Doherty was the godfather, and Miss Anna Ryan the godmother for Mary Margaret. A reception followed the ceremony.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS HONOR THEIR DEAD

MEMORIAL DAY OF THE ORDER WELL OBSERVED BY LOCAL MEMBERS.

Pythian memorial day was well observed by the Plainfield members of the order Sunday. The march to the cemeteries drew out a large representation, and the ranks of the marchers were swelled by delegations from the Fort Chester, N. Y., Company and Rathbone Company, of Brooklyn.

Details were sent to Samptown, Stony Hill and Newark in the morning to decorate graves of brethren there. The cemeteries visited by the Knights in a body were North Plainfield, Plainfield Avenue, Scotch Plains and Hillside, in the order named.

The Port Chester delegation arrived in the city at11 o'clock. They debarked at the Netherwood station, where Plainfield Knights met them and conducted them to J. H. Hall's home, on Netherwood avenue. There the visitors were entertained at lunch.

After lunch the Knights, headed by Crescent Company, U. R., marched to the North Avenue station to meet the delegation from Rathbone Company. When the latter debarked at 2 o'clock, the line was formed, and the march to the cemeteries began. The procession was headed by the Independent Fife and Drum Corps.

The journey to Scotch Plains, and from there to Hillside, was made by special trolley car. David Bowden was in charge of the services at all the cemeteries.

The visiting Knights were entertained at supper. The committee in charge of the observance and entertainment was made up of J. H. R. Hall, Charles McGinley, Oliver Pearson, Robert Gow and David Bowden.

DUNELLEN PROVES EASY FOR THE 'PLAINS TEAM

MANAGER PENNY'S PRANCERS SHOWED A LACK OF GINGER.

The Scotch Plains team had no trouble in defeating Dunellen in the amateur league contest at the Plains Saturday afternoon. The final score was 8 to 2. "Jack" Peacock, who has just joined the Dunellens, pitched a fine game, striking out nine men, but the ragged support given him and the failure to secure a hit when needed, made the Dunellen team outclassed.

The Plains started scoring in the first, four hits being made, Mehaffey's two base hit to center and Frentz's three base hit to left, bringing in three runs. Timely hitting, wild throws and a comedy of errors, marked the home team to score another run in the fourth inning, two in the fifth and two in the sixth inning. Dunellen got in one lone run in the sixth. Mack got a hit, Frentz threw high to first and the former went to second on the error. Hanson then made a safe drive to center, scoring Mack. The 'Plains team changed pitchers in the sixth inning. Hewitt going in and Frentz covering first base, in place of Allen. The score:

GRAND JURY ARRAIGNS ELIZABETH CITY GOVERNMENT

Declares Municipality is Controlled and Administered By and For the Saloon and Brewery Interests.

SCORES THE PETIT JURY

Present System Said to Be Used So As to Make Juries Part of the Political Machine—Immediate Change Advised.

That the brewery and saloon men are in absolute control of the city government of Elizabeth, that the city is governed in the interest of the saloons and breweries, and that the excise laws are practically nullified by the present system of choosing petit jurors is flatly charged by the Grand Jury, of which Mayor Charles J. Fisk is chairman. The arraignment of the Elizabeth city government and of the petit jurors was made in a presentment to Supreme Court Justice Swayze, who called the jury before him at a special session of the court late Friday afternoon.

In opening the presentment, the jurors declared they felt certain that a great many places other than the ones against which indictments had been returned were conducted in violation of the excise law. For certain reasons it had been impossible to get evidence against them, and the jury suggested vigorous action under the Crimes Act to change conditions. It was suggested that the prosecutor be instructed to notify the mayors or chiefs of police in communities where such places were operated to proceed against them without delay; a similar notice to be sent by the judge of the Court of Over and Terminer or Quarter Sessions to the Sheriff, inspecting such places in the townships. Under the Crimes Act, the mayor or other responsible official so notified who fails to act within ten days is guilty of a misdemeanor.

The presentment goes on, in part, as follows:

The enforcement of all laws in relation to excise matters depends entirely upon the stand taken by the proper authorities. Every one knows that with the proper authority does his duty, there will be absolutely no trouble in enforcing these laws to the letter. One great trouble lies with the licensing power. All Boards of Excise, Boards of Trustees, Common Council and other parties having the license power, including the judge of the court, should take more care and should take steps to have full investigations made before granting a license, and to absolutely refuse to grant a license or renew a license where the parties applying for same have ever been convicted of any violation of any provision of the excise laws or Crimes Act, and also refuse all licenses where the parties at all times have not strictly obeyed the law in any particular, whether such parties have ever been before the court or not. In nearly every municipality and in all parts of the county the number of places granted license to sell liquors is greatly in excess of the needs of the community, and a detriment to the peace and good morals of our county. This matter is in the power of the licensing power to correct, failing to do so, we recommend that the Legislature be petitioned to enact a law limiting the number of places to be licensed to sell intoxicating liquors to one for every 1,000 population, and that the minimum license fee be raised to at least $1,000. In the opinion of this Grand Inquest a limited number of saloons and a high license fee will do more than anything else to correct the evils and regulate the selling of intoxicating liquors.

We find in the city of Elizabeth an unusual state of affairs. The city is evidently governed in the interest of the brewery, saloon and liquor interests. The president of the Common Council is the president of a brewery, several members of the Common Council are connected with the brewery interests. The Common Council has appointed an excise board, every member of which is pledged to the liquor interest. We are informed that one member secures all the insurance of the liquor saloons; all the cigars sold in the liquor saloons must be bought from another member, and all the painting and repairing must be done by another member.

Even the members of the police force and the members of the fire department are appointed for political reasons and under obligation to this same appointing power.

In other words, as stated above, the city is absolutely in the hands of the brewery and saloon interests.

Continuing, the jurors declare the brewers have a system adapted entirely to their own needs for taking out licenses. They secure them, it is charged, in names chosen by them, and the method works so that they practically rent the licenses out.

There is no evidence in the hands of the jury, the presentment goes on, to warrant criminal action at this time. Investigation will be continued, however, and if further steps are found to be expedient, necessary action will be taken at once.

Any investigation, however, the presentment continues, made by the grand jury would be absolutely fruitless, as far as results are concerned, unless some very positive and immediate action is taken by the sheriff to revise the present jury list and adopt a method by which petit jurors will be drawn in the interest of right and justice and not selected by so-called politicians to further their own ends, or pay political debts. The manner in which the petit jurors are drawn at present cannot bring about the proper results. Under the present system of selecting jurors it is customary to call upon someone of political influence in the various municipalities and request that man to select a number of names and send them to the sheriff. The result being that while a few fair-minded, conscientious men, who have the courage of their convictions, and cannot be intimated, or influenced from outside sources, are selected, the majority of the panels are professional jurymen, put on that they may earn their $2 a day and are under obligations to the party to secure the appointment for them; there are also names of men given to the sheriff, which men the party sending in their names well know will always serve the interests of their friends, and who have no respect whatever for their oath or obligation, being willing to violate their oath, bring in a verdict absolutely and directly against the evidence submitted, provided they feel that in so doing they are protecting the interests of the parties, or friends of the parties, who placed them in this position. While others, being rather week-minded, are easily intimidated or influenced from the outside sources.

If the court expects to accomplish results, and have the excise law respected, and to convict those who wilfully violate these laws, all this entire system must be changed. The jury list must be made up of the most minded, courageous, honest citizens from throughout the country, men who will decide a case whether against friend or foe, in accordance with the evidence submitted, and under no circumstances violate their oath. The panel should be drawn in lot from this list. If the law would allow it, this panel should be sufficiently large so that no one man would be obliged to serve the full term.

In closing, the jurors said they held themselves ready, if the court approved, to adjourn when the session closed, to reassemble on a date fixed, to receive the support of the prosecutor as to the cases turned over to him as suggested. No report was made on the selling in clubs. The presentment said the jurors were still considering the matter, and would report later.

FOR THE CHILDREN.

Dainty and very becoming are the colored fabrics for children, and especially is this true of the neat checked goods now on sale. The prettiest wash materials are very reasonables in price, and the patterns this year so simple and becoming that these little frocks are very easily made. The zephyr ginghams are so attractive with their neat checked colors, and this material is very pretty fashioned in the long one-piece dresses which are pleated from the shoulders to the waist line, where a belt gives shape to the loose garment. It can be fashioned in a variety of styles by making bands of colored embroidery yokes, *long or short sleeves, and by the ar*rangement of caps over the shoulders.

The finest white dresses are fash*ioned of deep French embroidery.* Waists, skirts and sleeves are cut from embroidery widths and this is very neat, since garments do not need to be hemmed on the skirts, yokes or sleeves, the notches forming beautiful edges. The corset cover embroidery of fine pattern is frequently used for party dresses where ribbon is run through the eyelets. But the plainer fabrics are more in favor. The neatest dresses are those which are made from hemstitched handkerchief linen, a tiny embroidery design being woven in the fabric above the deep hem for a trimming. It is exceptionally beautiful and so sheer that pretty skirts are very noticeable beneath.

Fancy shaded plaids are all the rage for young girls, and they are made in blouse effect with colored collars, cuffs and belts. It is a serviceable school dress and can safely be laundered.

White jackets for children are made of white corduroy, pique and linens. While very simple, these little affairs are really very expensive, but at the same time cheap if made at home. They are trimmed with gold od brass buttons.

CLARENCE ROOME HURT IN AN AUTO ACCIDENT

THROWN FROM MACHINE BY THE BREAKING OF THE STEERING GEAR.

The breaking of a pin in the steering knuckle of an automobile owned and driven by William J. Roome, Jr., of Sycamore avenue, nearly resulted in a serious accident Sunday morning, while Mr. Roome and his younger brother, Clarence, were riding in the vicinity of Road Ending. The machine was travelling about twelve miles an hour, when the break occurred, causing Mr. Roome to lose entire control of his big machine.

The front wheels ran in a zig-zag course across the road, wrenching the machine at every turn. Before the elder Roome could bring his machine to a standstill, his brother was thrown headlong from his seat and landed in the gutter a distance of twenty feet away. When he fell his entire weight came on his elbow, and at first it was believed that the bones in the arm were broken.

Repairing the machine temporarily, the injured man was hurried to Muhlenberg Hospital, where Dr. B. Vandi Hedges was summoned. He made an x-ray examination at once and while he discovered no broken bones, he found several ligaments badly torn and out of place. These being reset, the young man was taken home. He will not be able to use his arm for several weeks. That the elder Roome was not injured seems almost a miracle.

There was no damage to the machine other than the breaking of the pin and this was repaired in a few minutes at one of the local auto garages.

STOVE POLISH BLEW UP, INJURING SERVANT

HOT STOVE AND PATENT ARTICLE PROVE TO BE BAD COMBINATION.

Kate Svanska, a servant employed at the home of Louis McIntosh, Arlington avenue, bought a package of stove polish of a peddler on Saturday. Early yesterday morning she applied some to the kitchen range, in which a fire was burning, and as a result sh ehad a narrow escape from serious injury and is suffering from painful burns.

No sooner as the stuff was laid on the range it burst into flame with a loud report. The flame shot up about the girl's breast and shoulders, setting fire to her waist. She beat out the waist, but not before her breast and arms had been burned. The stuff burned out on the stove without further damage.

The girl went to the hospital, where her burns were dressed. Her injuries are not serious.

THE PASSING SHOW.

The United States is advancing so rapidly in the production of iron that it promises soon to lead all the rest of the world combined. In 1905, the latest year for which complete figures were available, the following were the respective quantities for the countries whose annual production exceeds 1,000,000 tons: United States, 22,992,380 tons; Germany, 10,987,623 tons; England, 9,592,737 tons; France, 2,076,550 tons; Russia, 2,765,000 tons; Austria-Hungary, 1,514,840 tons; Belgium, 1,310,290 tons. Sweden, which is celebrated for the quality of iron, produced only 527,300 tons.

The tract will be at once enclosed with a barbed wire fence which will hold deer, bear and other wild game, number of which are roaming through it. More game will be added.

A German scientist has declared that every metal has its characteristic odor. Not every one can detect the odor of cold tin, copper or aluminum, but when pieces of such metal are heated to a moderate degree they give off strong smells, distinguishable by anybody. At higher temperatures cetals lose all trace of a smell, but again give off an oder on being cooled after a lapse of several hours in a cold state.

There are 200 dukes, 900 marquises and thousands of counts in Spain, according to a recent account. Legitimate Spanish, or, better, aristocracy, is called the grandezza, in English the grandees. This was inaugtated by Emperor Charles V. in 1520, so that Spain could be just like other countries in one respect.

It is believed, however, that there is a lack of unanimity among the petit jurors, as to the propriety of making any statement to the court, taking issue with the points made by the Grand Jury, no matter how severe these strictures were. Some of the jurors are opposed to such a plan.

The Grand Jury was hitting at a system, not a particular condition. Everybody knows, it is argued, that in the past there has been a lot of criticism of the quality of the petit jurors just as it is known that there has been a marked improvement in the quality of jurors drawn recently in Union county. However, it is pointed out that there is always apt to be an eccentric representation on every jury panel. There are generally some men drawn whose personal ideas as to whether certain laws should be on the statute books will lead them to combat the enforcement of these laws.

So much fuss is being made about the criticism of the petit jurors, one lawyer said today, that people are apt to lose sight of the other evils the Grand Jury dwelt upon and severely castigated.

cline to appear at your meeting, and thus be forced to answer Mr. Burke.

It is quite evident that the communication was not penned by those who signed it, and that if you will pardon the allusion—the hand may have been the hand of Esau, but the voice was the voice of Jacob Frank Burke.

I desire to say that as far as is consistent with my business and public duties, I shall be glad at any time to appear before you personally, or any other person in Union county, and state where I stand on any proposition; but no one has the right to expect me to stand on a platform with a man who has grossly insulted, not only myself, but several of my friends.

REPORT STIRS LAWYERS

Grand Jury's Presentments Result in Call to County Bar Association.

MEETING WEDNESDAY

Members of the Petit Jury Invited to Attend and Join In Discussion of the Charges.

The recent presentment of the Union County Grand Jury, which refers to the system of drawing jurors, has a ostirred the lawyers who practice in the courts, that the Union County Bar Association has called a special meeting for Wednesday at Elizabeth, and the members of the petit Jury have been invited to be present.

The meeting will be held chiefly for the purpose of discussing questions relative to the report of the Grand Jury wherein it condemns the system now in vogue of drawing juries. It is understood that the leading members of the Bar Association have been anxiously waiting for an opportunity to urge a reform in the method of drawing juries, and it is reported that the association will endorse that portion of the Grand Jury report.

For a long time it has been the opinion of many persons interested in court matters that the system of drawing jurors has resulted in the county having what is termed the "professional juror," one who is quite likely to be chosen prior to each term of court. This being true, the one to be picked is often quite likely to be friendly to parties in the county who m ay be directly or indirectly interested in cases that are to be tried. One prominent citizen of Plainfield in speaking of the matter today said that under the present jury system it is almost next to impossible to secure conviction in certain cases no matter who the witnesses may be or how strongly the case may be presented, and it is time that the system is changed.

While it is known that there are *lawyers in the county who are inclin*ed to depreciate the importances of the Grand Jury report, the truth of the statements made are substantiated by many who are in a position to know and who are closely associated in court matters.

LARGE CROWD WITNESSES SECOND MATINEE RACES

THREE EVENTS FOR TROTTERS AND ONE FOR PACERS ON THE CARD.

Under the auspices of the Fair Acres Riding and Driving Association, a fine program of matinee races were offered at the association's *track on Park avenue, Saturday af*ternon. The strong list of entries attracted a large number of people who thoroughly enjoyed the races. There were three trotting events and one for pacers.

The first race for trotters was won by J. S. Irving's "Fred V." In the remaining three races, only two heats were run in each. A. I. Smalley's "Belle" took the second race for trotters, easily; while W. C. Smith's "Ab*ble Kelly" won the third race for* trotters and the last race for trotters was won by N. B. Giles' "Malba."

The judges for the meet were J. H. Senior and W. Grierson, of Cranford, and A. C. Blair, of Plainfield. Nathan Robbins, of Metuchen, was the starter. The summary of the races follow:

CLINTON AVENUE DEFEATS CRIPPLED Y.M.C.A. NINE

HOWARD THE ONLY PITCHER AVAILABLE FOR LISTMAN'S TEAM.

Blood poisoning, affecting his leg, prevented Minford from going into the game for Y. M. C. A. Saturday afternoon, and as a result Clinton Avenue had but little trouble in winning. The score was 7 to 2.

Tracy Howard was the only pitcher Captain Craig had on the field. The youngster, backed well and industriously, pitched a game that surprised the Clinton Avenue batters. They expected a cinch, but only in one of two places was the going any too easy. There was never any doubt as to the outcome, but none of the West Enders had time to loaf.

It was said after the game that Minford might be out of the game for the rest of the season.

The score:

PLANTS AND FLOWERS.

Redeem your back garden by growing shrubbery to hide the ugly fences. Try hydangeas along the fence, with perennials before them. In city yards it is hard to make anything grow along the fences. Honeysuckle and bamboo bushes and the tough ailanthus trees seem to withstand the hard conditions besetting vegetation in the average city yard. In towns and suburb there is more sweep of air, fewer very high board fences and wider lots.

Clothes your neighbors hang are used on wash days with vines and put long artistic hooks out to hold the lines away from them; or have an arbor and hang the clothes paralulel to it from hooks on projecting arms and do away with separate posts, running lines across the yard for the large pieces that would swing against the arbor in the wind, such as sheets. Any way, it is better to send your sheets to the laundry or a washerwoman for a trifle and have the foliage than to valve bedclothes above a pretty back yard. Clematic and honeysuckle are nice for posts and arbors.

SPECTACULAR BLAZE DESTROYS COMMERCIAL MILLS

Three Story Structure and Valuable Contents Fall Before Devouring Flames.

TOTAL LOSS $25,000

Entire City Department Works Eight Hours Before Recall Is Sounded—Insurance Only $7,000.

The Commercial Mills on South Second street, owned and operated by A. L. Cadmus for the past quarter of a century and one of the oldest industries in the city, was totally destroyed by fire at an early hour Thursday. The loss to Mr. Cadmus will reach $25,000 with an insurance of about $7,000 on building and contents. V. W. Nash, Sr., and L. A. Rheaume, dealers in coal, who occupied room for their coal yards close to the mills in sheds owned by Mr. Cadmus, suffered minor losses. All of the horses owned by Mr. Cadmus, Mr. Nash and Mr. Rheaume and which were stabled on the property, together with wagons were rescued before the fire reached the buildings.

How the fire started and what caused it is a mystery. It was exactly 3:01 o'clock this morning when Daniel Guinee, of the Public Service Corporation, notified fire headquarters by telephone that the mills were on fire. Some say that the blaze started in the sheds in the yard nearest to the Potter Press Works, while others say that it looked as though the blaze first came from a point near the engine room. However, when the fire department arrived the mill proper and the adjoining frame structures were ablaze and burning briskly. There was some trouble with the fire alarm and only two blows from the whistle sounded at first. The whistle then was silenced a few minutes later when the whistle on a passing Jersey Central engine screeched furiously. By that time the entire city fire department was at the scene of the fire and six streams of water were pouring into the burning buildings from all sides.

Some delay was caused in starting up the steamer because it had to leave headquarters with cold water in the boiler, there being only a call engineer, Louis Peiring, on duty, and he did not turn on the fire until later in the morning. Charles Smith and John Kline were pressed into service. But no time was lost in connecting with the hydrants in the vicinity. Two lines of hose were stretched across the railroad tracks, and later put under them to allow trains to pass by, while the remaining four lines were attached to hydrants on the southside of the railroad.

Soon after arriving at the fire Chief Doane had the 45 pulled to bring out the call men, and nearly everyone responded. Upon the arrival of the department every effort was directed toward confining the fire to its exact locality, and word was sent to nearby residents to keep their windows and doors closed.

Although the sheds about the mill have been on fire many times, this is the first that the mill itself has been affected. It is a fire-story brick structure, and surrounding it is a kindling wood inclosed frame shed. The mill was heavily stocked with grain, oats, hay and straw, only a few days ago two carloads of flour and two carloads of oats, representing an outlay of about $4,000, being placed there. The fact having plenty of material to work on rapidly spread its way through the entire structure. The illumination was so bright that it could be seen a distance of many miles. All of the properties in the nearby vicinity were closely watched to prevent a spreading of the flames.

The firemen performed heroic service and had the fire under control soon after reaching the scene. Close to the mill stands a large frame building covered with corrugated iron, and it was here that the horses and wagons were kept. Streams of water were frequently put on this structure and was saved from any damage. Some of the horses escaped and ran wild through the West End until finally captured.

The firemen found it extremely difficult to extinguish the fire in the large quantities of hay and straw and it was not until 10:30 o'clock Wednesday, and then all precaution ally declared the fire out and the recall was sounded.

Mr. Cadmus has not yet decided on his plans for the future and he cannot say whether he will rebuild or not, but in case he decides to do so the mill will have to be built along different lines. Fortunately, all of his books were saved, including his accounts and other valuable papers and it will not be so difficult to settle up the loss.

Joel Pennington, one of the call-men, was considerably burned about the hands, arms and shoulders, but Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, the city physician, was at the fire and gave him prompt treatment. The injuries are not serious. Although the firemen were several times threatened with injury by falling walls they narrowly escaped. Chief Doane gave explicit instructions to every man to take no risk and to work only at safe distances from the blazing structures.

V. W. Nash, Sr., stated today that his direct and indirect loss will amount to about $500, chiefly due to the fact that he will be obliged to have coal removed to another point and he estimates a loss of at least fifty cents a ton for this work. The loss to L. A. Rheaume will be about the same, his condition being almost identical with that of Mr. Nash. The latter carried no insurance, while M. Rheaume's property is partially insured.

TWO NEW INDUSTRIES FOR THE EAST END

WORK COMMENCED ON CONSTRUCTION OF FACTORY BUILDINGS.

Work has been started on the erection of the first of several buildings to be built on North avenue, adjoining the Vacuum Cleaning Company plant, for the manufacture of rubber goods of all kinds. William J. Courtney, of Weil street, New York, is the proprietor of the concern. Dodge & Morrison, of New York, are the architects; Titus Laury the mason and William Grier, of White Plains, N. Y., the carpenter.

The building will be 74x74 feet, one story, sixteen feet high. The other buildings proposed will be erected on the same lines. The concern will employ chiefly skilled labor and business will be conducted on an extensive scale.

Another important industry soon to be located in the East End of the city, is that of the Manufacturers' Brass Company, where all kinds of brass fixtures and fittings will be made. The company will erect its building on Berckman street, near the railroad, and will be 40x79 feet, one story in height. The Lewis Parker Building and Construction Company, of Newark, has the contract for the work. George W. V. Moy, of this city, is president of the company, and F. A. Pope, also of this city, is secretary of the concern.

PLAINFIELDERS WITNESS WEDDING AT SOMERVILLE.

Ceremony Unites Miss Olive Blanchard Klotz and Harry E. Haynes.

A pretty wedding was celebrated in the Second Reformed church in Somerville last night, when Miss Olive Blanchard Klotz, daughter of Former Assemblyman and Mrs. Jacob Klotz, and Harry E. Haynes were married. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. E. G. Reed, the pastor, in the presence of about one hundred and fifty guests from Plainfield, Newark, New York, Philadelphia, Morristown, Bound Brook, Hackettstown, Trenton and other cities.

The Misses Jessamine Burd, of Somerville, and Frances Backover, of Morristown, were the bridesmaids; Miss Maud E. Klotz, of Brooklyn, she maid-of-honor; Mrs. R. V. D. Totten, of Morristown, the matron-of-honor; Miss Margaret Disbrough, of Somerville, the flower girl; Robert Totten, of Morristown, ring-bearer; A. M. Beekman, of Somerville, best man; E. Harold Pavie, of Morristown, Frederick Coriell, of Bound Brook, Dr. R. V. D. Totten, of Morristown, and Harry V. Smith, of Somerville, the ushers.

Mrs. Harry Crouch, of New York, sang Gounod's "Ave Maria" as the guests gathered. The wedding march from "Lohengrin" was played by Miss Florence McCall, of Newark. The reception followed at the home of the bride, attended by about 125 guests. The couple left for a ten days' wedding trip and on their return will reside in Somerville. The groom is connected with the Dennison Manufacturing Company in New York. The bride was the recipient of costly and useful presents.

Golden Anniversary.

Rev. Dr. James LePevre, of Somerville, who was ordained and installed June 26, 1861, as the Third Reformed church, at Raritan, by the then classis of New Brunswick, will celebrate his half century in the ministry on Sunday morning, June 24, by preaching in the Third Reformed church at Raritan, where he spent the first seventeen years of his ministry. Dr. LePevre has had but two charges, Raritan and Middlebush.

At the latter place he preached thirty years. He has been retired three years.

Somerville Firemen Elect.

The Somerville Firemen's Relief Association has elected the following officers: President, William H. Howell; vice president, Jacob H. Gertert; secretary and collector, John E. Wehrly; treasurer, George V. Vanderveer; counsel, Hugh K. Gaston; trustees, Sol. Weill, Jacques Vanderbeck, Clark Alvord. The treasurer has a balance on hand of $10,617.53.

SPEAKS GLOWINGLY OF LOCAL HORSE SHOW

"RIDER AND DRIVER" COMMENTS EDITORIALLY ON RECENT EXHIBITION.

"The Rider and Driver," the well known weekly published in the interest of outdoor sports, in its last issue contains several excellent pictures taken at the Plainfield Horse Show, also the following very complimentary editorial:

"Surprise has been expressed on several occasions by those conversant with horse show affairs regarding the unusual success and popularity achieved by the show of the Plainfield Riding and Driving Club. The most potent reason of this success becomes apparent to the newcomer upon introduction to those having the interests of the show in hand. Every detail conducive to the comfort, convenience and pleasure of the visitor is made the especial study of these gentlemen; the attendant expense is of minor consideration. The general scheme of architecture and grounds, the beauty of location and the easy access with which the grounds are reached, make this show ideal. Not satisfied with accomplishing this the club holds each year a banquet on the evening prior to the termination of the show, in the grand banquet hall of the Casino, where music, vaudeville and oratory are only secondary to the pleasure of enjoying choice viands furnished by the steward. This year's event was more largely attended than any of its predecessors and, as heretofore, was voted the 'best yet.'

"On the evening of Friday, June 7, this genial and more than popular idol of Plainfield, Mayor Charles J. Fisk, presided as toastmaster at a board surrounded by an assemblage of gentlement prominent in every walk of social, business and the higher sporting life. Good fellowship was everywhere in evidence and it is not a rash statement to make that everyone present will look forward to its reoccurrence in 1908. Toasts were responded to by Dr. T. Earle Budd, of Orange, N. J., Edwin S. Hooler, Dr. C. Shirley Carter, J. H. Donnelly, Judge J. W. Ogden, Charles W. McCutchen and other brilliant speakers, all of whom were enthusiastic in voicing their congratulations regarding the success of the Plainfield Horse Show."

BOROUGH GROCER FINED FOR SELLING BUTTERINE

FLEMING'S DEFENSE FAILS IN JUSTICE MUNDY'S COURT; WILL APPEAL.

With the faulty complaint that necessitated a discontinuance of the former action corrected, the State Board of Health pressed its case against Fleming, the Somerville street grocer charged with selling butterine illegally, to a successful conclusion Wednesday afternoon. Fleming was fined $100 by Justice S. C. Mundy.

It was charged, as in the two cases on this side of the brook, that the grocer sold the stuff without the wrapper and the character required by the law. The sale was made on April 9, to George McGuire, head inspector for the State Board. Fleming's defense was that the oleo was marked by a printed wrapper. The State, represented by Josiah Stryker, submitted testimony to prove that the wrapper was covered, and that, further, the warning was in the name of the former owner of the store, which, in itself, it was held, was no infraction of, the law. The statute required the actual owner of the shop to put his name on the package.

S. S. Swackhamer appeared for the defense. He said after the trial that the case would be appealed.

GIFTS FOR RUTGERS.

College Will Get $150,000 For Furtherance of Work.

Announcements of gifts aggregating nearly $150,000 were made at the trustees' meeting at Rutgers College Thursday.

The announcements of the gifts were as follows:

Subscription to general college endowment during 1906 and 1907 amounting to $75,000, part of which has been paid in.

Gift of Andrew Carnegie of $25,000 toward the erection of a $50,000 engineering building on Neilson campus, the college to provide the other $25,000.

Gift of $10,000 from a friend for the purchase of a site for a new preparatory school home. The adjoining land to the selected site has already been donated.

A further purchase at the College farm has been accomplished, completing the area especially desired.

Bequest of Benjamin Stephens, '44, amounting to $8,000, together with his library of 2,000 volumes.

A legacy of the Rev. Hugh Hamill, D. D., '27, of $1,000.

An increased Federal appropriation is to be given the scientific school. The ceramics department has received a larger State appropriation.

Two hundred Bohemians have just left Chicago to return to their homes near Prague.

GRAMMAR GRADUATION

Fifty-eight Young People Receive Coveted Diplomas from School Board Head.

DR. CHAMBLISS SPEAKS

Character Building the Theme of His Address—The Boys and Girls Who Made Up Graduating Class.

Before a large audience of parents, friends and school children, the graduation exercises of the Plainfield grammar schools were held Wednesday afternoon in the auditorium of the High School. Fifty-eight earnest and triumphant young people received diplomas to mark the completion of the last step that divided them from the highest rungs of the educational ladder. The girls, massed on the platform, made a pretty picture in their white gowns, and the boys, seated together, facing the audience from the front seats on the floor, made a no less interesting picture.

The exercises opened at 3 o'clock with an invocation by Rev. George A. Warner, of Holy Cross church. Next came a chorus by the graduates, "Lovely Appear," then an essay, "Colonial Days in Old Virginia," by Anne Ramsay Johnston; "The Yeoman's Wedding Song," another chorus by the class, followed, which was followed in turn by a recitation, "The Search for Happiness," by Dorothy Shreve Mercer. This was splendidly executed cornet solos by Percy Mygrant, accompanied by Miss S. Louise Mygrant, an essay, "From Indian Trail to Modern Transit," was read by Maud Kathryn Sminck. The girls sang "The Blue Waltz" and "To April," and then came the address of the day, by Rev. Dr. John H. Chambliss, of the First Baptist church.

Dr. Chambliss, with his usual grace of manner and diction, commanded the instant attention of the young people, and held it closely throughout. His theme was "Foundation Building." Taking the care with which the contractors are making the foundation for the great Singer building as a text, he pointed out how important it was to get the basic things right. Laying foundations was the work in which principals and teachers were engaged, but their responsibility only went part way. The rest of it was the pupils'.

The latter were the foundation builders of their own lives. Others might help, but after all, it was their own work. Among the things the young people needed in their foundation building were a sense of responsibility and the habit of overcoming difficulties courageously. As to responsibility, he said he said that there was no such thing as an irresponsible age, except for babies. Young people could not look forward on entering into life, because they had already entered upon it. Conscience, habits and ideals were as much a part of young people's lives as of their elders', and they were responsible.

In closing Dr. Chambliss made a strong plea for the cultivation of good habits of life, he said, was largely a bundle of habits, and those who gave themselves over to bad ones would find themselves in the position of one chained to a rock in the sea with the tide rising steadily to overwhelm them.

"Damonen Tanz," a piano solo, by James Simpson Vail, followed the address. Then Superintendent Henry M. Maxson made his customary address to the graduates, complimenting them on the success of their school year, and urging them to high ideals as they go onward. "The call to Arms," a chorus by the class, preceded the presentation of the diplomas.

Dr. A. B. Probasco, president of the School Board, who presided over the exercises, made the presentations. Following the distribution of the diplomas, the exercises closed with a general chorus of "America," the audience standing.

The list of the graduates is as follows:

Luther Rowley Banks, Edna Mildred Bird, Gardner Lowrie Bristol, John Coughlan, Nellie Creager, Helen Louise Crook, Walter Herman Drob, Jessie Egbert, Gertrude Wilhelmina Ehander, Mary Katherine Ellis, Alfred Adolphus Farland, Jennie Giebeler, Eleanor France Gullberg, Anne Ramsay Johnston, Mildred Lanee, Alice Agnes Leigh, Lillian Lowe Lindsley, James Lindzey, Anna Martin, Alfred Sharp Manley, Ethel May Manchester, Daniel Robert McCormack, Alice Eleanor Mehl, Dorothy Shreve Merrill, Charles Earl Moran, Frances Caroline Mosher, Jeannette Ruth Neal, Herman Albert Newark, Helen Eliza Pearce, James Nelson Ramsey, Louis Rottberg, Agnes Elizabeth Scribner, Joseph Osgood Sewell, Herman Louis Shrager, Lillian Louise Shrager, Samuel Silbert, Maud Kathryn Sminck, Courtney Stark Starkweather, Edith De Mott Stillwell, Rowland McKim Stover, May Greenwood Stafford, Thyra May Stiles, Emily Evalois St. John, Ruth Frances Stryker, Mabel Louise Stutsman, Anna Lucila Tempkin, Mildred Andersen Thorn, Joseph Wilbur Tovell, James Simpson Vail, Margaret Eudora Van Deventer, Ludlow Van Deventer, Helen May Walden, Ruth Isabel Wean, Marion Wheeler, Susan Curtis Whitney, Edith Drucilla Whitney, Amy Leslie Winant, William Edwin Williams.

POPULAR NEW MARKET GIRL BECOMES BRIDE

MISS ESTELLE MAY SOFIELD WEDDED TO WILLIAM HENRY TABB.

Miss Estelle May Sofield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Sofield, and William Henry Tabb, son of Mr. and Mrs. David C. Tabb, were married at the home of the bride in New Market, Wednesday. A large gathering of friends and relatives witnessed the ceremony. The house was prettily decorated with potted plants and flowers, green and white being the prevailing tones.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Fletcher, former pastor of the New Market Baptist church, at 8 o'clock. The words were spoken beneath an arch of spring flowers. The Tannhauser wedding march was played by Mrs. Charles Day, on the violin, as the wedding party approached the minister.

The best man was Franklin B. Sofield, of Port Richmond, S. I., cousin of the bride, and Miss Iva Dayton, of Piscataway, was maid of honor. The Misses Alice Apgar, Ethel Garretson and Lillian Fedderman, of Dunellen, and Mrs. Frank Quaas, of Plainfield, were ribbon girls.

The bride was dressed in point lace over silk batiste and carried white bride roses. Miss Dayton's dress was silk mull with lace trimmings; she carried carnations.

A reception followed the ceremony. The wedding cake served at it was baked by the fair hands of the bride. After the reception Mr. and Mrs. Tabb left on a honeymoon trip. They will live at Port Richmond, S. I., where the groom is employed by the American Linseed Company.

A quilt made by Mrs. J. T. F. Adams, of this city, an 80-year-old aunt of the bride's father, was among the gifts. There was a large array of usual wedding gifts, including china, cut glass, silver, and furniture. The bride's gifts to the maid of honor and ribbon girls were hat pins. The groom gave the best man a silver cigarette box, with his initials engraved on it.

RECEPTION AND SUPPER TO CARNIVAL WORKERS

HELD BY KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS AT THE CASINO LAST NIGHT.

Watchung Council, Knights of Columbus, tendered an entertainment and supper to the committees and all those who assisted in making the recent carnival a success. The affair was held at the Casino, and more than 250 guests enjoyed it.

There was an unusually good program of entertainment. The entertainers were all professionals, including Billy Redmond, the singer; Gallando, rapid-fire modeller; Al. Woodford, monologist, and Seltzer Waters, the funny man. It was a high-grade vaudeville bill in every particular, and won much applause. The entertainment was followed by a supper. The menu was a delightful one, perfectly prepared and served by Mrs. Nicholson.

A dance followed the supper. The members of the carnival executive committee and auxiliary committees made up the committee in charge. Theodore Shirley was head of it.

CLOSING EXERCISES OF THE LOYAL LEGION.

Program Presented by the Members Witnessed by Gathering of Parents and Friends.

The Loyal Temperance Legion, under the direction of Mrs. Alvah TenEyck, superintendent, held its closing exercises in the W. C. T. U., yesterday afternoon, the affair being well attended by the children and their parents. The program consisted of recitations by the Misses Ellen Dunaghy, Lavinia Vail, Theodosia Vail, Edna Green, Lillian Deeter, Ruth Deeter, Carrie Haffner, Josephine Keiderling, Wilbur Hoffman, Wesley McDonald, Raymond Stevens, May Hunting, Emma Heidlof, Anna Vail, and piano solos by Miss Ethel Vail.

Mrs. T. C. Bodine, one of the active temperance workers gave an excellent address on the subject of "Little Helpers." She congratulated the members of the Legion for the good work done during the past year and their assistance in securing the new piano which was used yesterday for the first time.

Mrs. TenEyck presented books as prizes to Miss Ethel Vail and Leopold Berse for excellent attendance and to Miss Marion Doughty and Wesley McDonald for good behavior. After the program ice cream and cake were served and a social time enjoyed. The legion will not meet again until next fall.

Wants $15,000 Damages.

Otto Newman, of Millstone, has brought suit, through his next friend, against the New Jersey Central Railroad for $15,000 damages. He had been to Coney Island and on his way home fell asleep. The conductor called out "Broad Brook" and Newman, while asleep, walked off the train. He had two fingers cut off and his skull was fractured.

FAREWELL ADDRESS TO P. H. S. GRADUATES

SUPT. MAXSON TELLS THEM TO SEEK RATIONAL HAPPINESS.

Superintendent Henry M. Maxson made his farewell address to the Senior class of the Plainfield High School at the assembly Thursday. Mr. Maxson said that although he had not had the opportunity to come in personal contact with the members of the class as much as Principal Travell, he had been watching them throughout the year. They had been a good successful class, he said. They had met their responsibilities and, above all, had been preeminently happy. This ability for mingling happiness with good work, Dr. Maxson said, contributed greatly to the success of the class. He said these would always and ever be around them an occasion of happiness.

Speaking of happiness, Dr. Maxson said it did not depend on wealth, power, health, or presence of friends. Happiness depended on character and outlook on life "so fill your mind with pleasant memories," he advised. Have simple tastes, take joy in the little things of life, and in the happiness of others. Preserve your faith in your fellow men. Have courage—don't be a weakling. Serve your fellow men: the surest way of obtaining happiness for yourself is by making happiness for others."

Dr. Maxson concluded by saying that the class has been of great enjoyment to him, and that he is satisfied with its efforts and results.

The commencement exercises will be held at the First Baptist Church tonight. The winners of the scholastic prizes will be announced, and the rewards distributed. Rev. Dr. James I. Vance, of the North Reformed church, Newark, will be the speaker of the occasion.

GOOD NATURED "ROASTS" FOR N. P. H. S. SENIORS

NO ONE ESCAPED AT THE CLASS DAY EXERCISES.

The class day exercises were held at the North Plainfield High School, last night, and like all previous affairs of this kind, it was a great success and largely attended by the members of the school and their parents. There were the usual good natured "roasts" for the members of the graduating class, the proverbial class history, prophecy, interspersed with music and the presentation of the epitaph on Shakespeare's tomb, handsomely framed, to the school by Miss Edith GaNun, on behalf of the class.

The program opened with a musical selection, "Medley," by the class. Miss Florence Smalley read the class history, and Miss Lavinia Vail gave a history of the class historian, which all enjoyed because of the personal "hits." "What's the Use," was the subject of a recitation by Miss Elsa Schwed. The class prophecy was presented by Miss Lavinia Hand, while Miss Florence Smalley gave a prophecy of the class prophet. Part one of the program concluded with a song by the class.

Miss Ethel Most read the class will, "in which everything belonging to the class was generously distributed to the incoming seniors. A vocal solo, "My Dreams," by Miss Hazel Walter and a recitation, "Advice to Juniors," by Miss Myra Emmons, preceded the reading of the class poem by Miss Edith GaNun. There was the usual presentation of gifts, all of an amusing character and which caused no end of fun. Miss Aimee Emmons gave a recitation, and was obliged to respond to an encore, when she recited "Her Graduating Day." The exercises closed with a parting song. The music was under the direction of Stanley Lloyd, music teacher at the school.

The commencement exercises will be held tomorrow night at the Y. M. C. A., when Prof. Francis H. Green, of the State Normal School at Westchester, Pa., will make the address of the evening and the usual awards will be announced.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

President Fallieres, of France, is exceedingly thrifty. He spends as little as possible of his income of $600,000 a year.

A. W. Whaley, selected as general manager of the New York Central Railroad, was a freight brakeman of Providence and Worcester Road in 1887.

The War Department has announced that Col. E. W. Halford, deputy paymaster of the United States Army, will be relieved from duty. He was President Harrison's private secretary.

NEW SCHOOL TEACHERS

List of the Changes That Will Go Into Effect Next Fall.

MISS NILES RETIRED

Veteran Member of High School Faculty to Receive a Pension—Five Schoolma'ams Will Marry.

As is usual each year, there will be several changes in the teaching corps of the city schools in the fall. Five of those who retire are to be married. The change having the most interest for the graduates of the local schools is the retirement of Miss Ellen E. Niles, for so many years a prominent teacher in the high school, who will retire on a pension.

The new teachers will be as follows:

High school—M. Elizabeth Benedict, now on leave of absence studying in Columbia; Henry R. Hubbard, Harvard, now teaching in New York; Miss Lena Bass, who has been out a year for rest, will return in the fall.

Stillman school—Mary H. Budd, Barnard, '02, now teaching in Hampton, Va.; Ada M. Smith, Westfield Normal, now teaching in Newton, Mass.; Isabella G. Ross, New Paltz Normal (N. Y.), now teaching in Glen Ridge.

Franklin school—Emma Atkinson, Rhode Island Normal, now teaching in Jamaica Normal (N. Y.), now teaching in Rutherford; Helen C. Trenbath, Trenton Normal, now teaching in Irvington; Gertrude March, North Adams Normal (Mass) now teaching in North Adams; Martha H. Dean, Teachers' College, Columbia University, now teaching in Mine Brook, N. J.

Washington school—Alice Boyd, North Adams Normal, now teaching in North Adams.

Irving school—Ada B. Stark, Potsdam Normal; Gertrude D.; Adelaide D. Ballou, Potsdam Normal; Anna Stillman, this name was omitted in copying when the list of teachers was adopted.

Bryant school—Mary E. Decker, New Paltz Normal (N. Y.); Mathilde M. Vogel, Framingham Normal, (Mass.), now teaching in Medford Mass.

Lincoln school—Lillie T. Eastman, Worcester Normal School, now teaching in Chicopee, Mass.

Domestic Science—Mildred M. Parker, Syracuse University, 2 yrs., Clarkson school of Technology, now teaching in Potsdam, N. Y.

Of the teachers retiring, five are to be married, Mr. Mathewson and Miss Skinner have places in Greater New York; Miss Stephanie Clark and Mabel C. Whitney are planning to take a college course and Miss Florence Churton, a course to prepare for teaching Domestic Science.

The full teaching corps will be as follows:

High School—Ira W. Travell, principal; M. E. Benedict, Samuel B. Howe, Jr., S. Lena Bass, Mary E. Ferry, Lindsey Best, Henry R. Hubbard, James D. Macnab, Katherine F. Bell, Ellen C. Cuming, Ariadne Gilbert, Mary Lock.

Stillman School—Anna M. Day, principal; Dorothea E. Bull, Helene M. Hope, Alice W. Lansing, Eleanor T. Wilbur, Mary H. Budd, Isabella G. Ross, Katherine M. Bebbe, Ada M. Smith.

Whittier School—Anna M. Day, principal; Alice R. Barlow, Lulu M. Fuller, Caroline M. Shaver, Stella M. Greene, Stella M. Barnett, Clara A. Law.

Washington School—M. E. Humpston, principal; Anna W. Boorsem, Jean Gilfillan, Theresa T. Fischer, Mayme Breads, Grace E. Jansen, Alice Boyd, Alice M. Wells.

Franklin School—Noel J. Bullock, principal; Alice C. Miller, Grace Hubbard, Clara J. Churton, Mary L. Searle, Mildred C. Bent, Cordelia Waters, Helen C. Trenbath, Ethel Churton, Gertrude March, Caroline A. Barber, Elizabeth T. Angell, Martha E. Dean.

Bryant School—Flora Griffin, principal; Annette E. Burrows, Mathilde M. Vogel, Geneva A. Bennett, Lucia Whitton, Jessica L. Brightman, Katherine Newman, Frances Weed, Kate M. Marsh, Louise B. Runyon, Cora F. Cadmus, Mary E. Decker.

Lincoln School — Flora Griffin, principal; Loretta W. Lee, Myrtle S. Reynolds, Emma Atkinson, S. Louise Wood, Addie D. Eastman, Mary Marsh, Charlotte E. Tennant, Clara L. Crane.

Irving School—Genevieve Petrie, principal; Anna Gosman, Roberta H. Reynolds, Lucile W. Stillman, Anna Stillman, Ada B. Stark, Alice A. Lee, Ada H. Clark, Mary J. Dennis, Louise Egan, Lucia N. Wood, Hattie Filmer, Hazel Curtis, Louise Stowell, Maude A. Doolittle, Georgia Ricker, Elizabeth S. White, Lillian Glen, Adelaide D. Ballou.

Reunion at Somerville.

The Fifteenth New Jersey Regiment Veteran Association has arranged to hold its next annual reunion in Somerville, on Thursday, Sept. 19. This regiment was recruited in Warren, Hunterdon, Morris and Somerset counties, was mustered in in August, 1862, and participated in thirty-four fixed engagements.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning June 26.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic.—Foreign missions. Christ in Africa.—Isa. xliii, 1-13.

Africa has been called the largest of the world's continents, and it is not only darkest Africa so far as the color of the skin of the people is concerned, but also because of the moral and spiritual darkness of the vast majority of its people. Until recent years this great dark continent, except on the northern and western coasts, was almost unknown. But through the works of missionaries and explorers, such as Livingstone, Stanley and others, even the inmost parts of this vast continent have become fairly well known. The discovery of diamonds in the southern part, where are now the greatest diamond fields, also led the commercial world to take a part in the opening of the great continent. Some people suppose that the great heathen nations have become known first through the political and business worlds, but such is not the case. In the vast majority of cases, as illustrated in Africa, the missionary is the pioneer laborer in those countries, and after he has shown the way the others follow. The world owes much to the Christian missionary for the work he has done in making known the unknown nations of the world. No Christian should withhold from our workers in our support of the missionary either at home or abroad.

Africa today is populated with a great mass of people widely separated in their intelligence, civilization and their religions. In the north near under the Mediterranean are the Mohammedans prevail, relics of the days when the Moslem religion almost conquered the world. From Mohammedanism we go down through many various forms of religious faith until we reach the lowest fetish of the world over, where the inhabitants scarcely seem to be human beings.

What Africa needs in all its parts today is Jesus Christ. And there are several reasons why Africa should especially appeal with especial force to all Christians. (1) The great needs of the people. The darkest places have the greatest need of the light. The Chinese, Japanese and Indians resist through their relations with other nations come into more contact with Christianity, but the unenlightened and unsaved races of inland Africa can only receive it by its being sent to them. The duty, therefore, rests upon us to send it, and that duty is being performed, as Christian missions have already been recently established in the Sudan. (2) The world is in great debt to these dark races of Africa. From time immemorial until the overthrow of slavery these races formed the chief market of the world. The poor degraded people were rudely forced from their homes and made to become slaves to the more enlightened races. This debt against them should be paid by giving them Christ, the light of Africa, who shall make them free indeed. (3) The relation of the Israelites and of Christ Himself to Africa should appeal to us. Read the topic, "Christian Africa." Can you do it without thinking of the time when, in captivity, Israel herded a wrath. He actually lived in Africa? His feet touched the soil of this great continent. It gave Him a home when His own ruler sought His life. Shall we not remember this and send Christ back to Africa after nineteen centuries that He may be its refuge to the people and assure to them a heavenly home?

A Notable President.

Rev. John Pollock, pastor of St. Enoch's Presbyterian church, Belfast, Ireland, has the unique honor of being president at the same time of the Irish Christian Endeavor union, the British Christian Endeavor union and the European Christian Endeavor union. Dr.

BADGE OF THE PRESIDENT OF THE BRITISH CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR UNION.

Clark in a recent article describes his rare abilities as speaker, leader and organizer. On the other side of the Atlantic he is counted the greatest of Christian Endeavor poets, some of his hymn writings having become so popular as to be translated into other tongues. Mr. Pollock is spoken of a number of international conventions.

The Idea of Helpfulness.

One of the central ideals of the Christian Endeavor society is that of helpfulness. The society that lives for itself and not to help the church is not a true Christian Endeavor society. The Endeavorer that seeks merely his own progress in the Christian life and not to help some one else is a sparer to Christ is not a true Endeavorer.—Kansas Endeavor Gem.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

June 30: "The Evils of Commercialism." "And they began to beseech Him to depart from their borders."—Mark v, 1-17.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D., Pastor Metropolitan Tabernacle, Atlanta, Ga.

Acts xix, 23 to xx, 1; Deut. xi, 26-28; Prov. xxiix, 2.

Much is said at the present time about the spirit of commercialism and the evils which results from its cultivation. Is it altogether clear what is meant when we use the term? To all discriminate accurately between what is the desirable spirit of traffic and the detrimental trait?

First, if any, would have us go back to the former days when the means of communication were few and slow and all that a family used must largely be produced by their own exertions; when the women not only kept the house, but spun, wove and made all the clothing of the family; when comforts were few and luxuries unknown except to the exceptionally wealthy.

The progress in industries and the facilities for interchange of commodities have made it possible now for all but the exceptionally poor to enjoy products from the ends of the earth and to also find a market for one's own productions far beyond the local community.

It is not the extension of commerce which we deprecate so far as it assists to make human conditions of life more desirable.

But with the increase in the physical comforts and means of enjoyment there have seemed to grow up a spirit of craving for the mere pleasures of existence and a tendency to sacrifice the things of the spirit to the mere luxuries of the merely physical. Deep, earnest religious zeal is not so much in evidence as it has been in former times; at least it does not seem to control the actions of society as apparently as in previous times. Many of the old lines of faith and duty are largely replaced a sturdy honesty and honor which we are wont to think once dominated the commercial world. The haste to get rich appears to have infected all classes. Many circumstances have conspired to bring about this state of things.

Just how far the drift in this direction has gone it would be difficult to determine, perhaps well nigh impossible. But that there is serious danger in this concentration of the public mind on material things of life to the exclusion of the deeper concerns of life in society and in individual manhood and womanhood is all too apparent.

The increase of wealth from the opening of mines, preservation of forests, mines, harvests and cattle, together with the increase in production from inventions and improved means of transport by railroad and vessels, has brought an era of material prosperity which is the wonder and envy of the world. The poor degraded people were rudely forced from their homes and made to become slaves to the more enlightened races. This debt against them should be paid by giving them Christ, the light of Africa, who shall make them free indeed. (3) The relation of the Israelites and of Christ Himself to Africa should appeal to us. Read the topic, "Christian Africa." Can you do it without thinking of the time when, in captivity, Israel herded a wrath. He actually lived in Africa? His *feet touched the soil of this great con*tinent. It gave Him a home when His own ruler sought His life. Shall we not remember this and send Christ back to Africa after nineteen centuries that He may be its refuge to the people and assure to them a heavenly home?

His Faith.

Less than a month before President Harper died he sent for four intimate friends that they might pray at his bedside with him. "Let us talk with God," he said to them, "but be formal; let us be simple." When his turn to pray came, he asked, "May there be for me a life beyond this life, and in that life may there be work to do, tasks to accomplish, and this I ask in the name of Jesus Christ." When a great university president, a great thinker and scholar, can rest in a faith as simple as that, is it not a little *amusing to see young men consider*ing themselves too scholarly and educated to be Christians?—Forum.

Always Worth Living.

No one is really ever tired of life. What we get tired of are the hindrances to life, never life itself. Life is always living; it is always the gift of God. Disgust with life simply means that we have somehow strayed off the right road. We are thinking of ourselves rather than of God. We are dwelling on thoughts of change, disappointment and pain rather than on joy, strength and peace in God's service. The failure is in our own soul, not in life, and the way to remedy it is to throw ourselves upon God and enter each new day with hope, faith and love.

The Gathering Place.

Life changes all our thoughts of heaven. At first we think of it as a material sight. Of gates of pearl and dazzling light, Of shining wings and robes of white, And harps all arrayed in material sight. But in the afterward of years It is a more familiar place— A home! undimmed by sighs or tears, Where waiteth many a well known face. With passing months it comes more near; It grows more real day by day; Not strange or cold, but very dear, The glad homeland not far away. Where none are sick or poor or lone, The place where we shall find our own And we shall "all be there." Who there have met to part no more, Our longing hearts desire home, too, With all the strife and trouble over.

ABOUT PEOPLE.

The Goethe-Schiller monument, a gift of the German citizens of the city of Cleveland, has been dedicated. The services consisted of the formal unveiling, followed by a German-American festival.

Miss Julia Magruder, the novelist, who died at Richmond, Va., on Sunday, after a protracted illness, was the author of "The Child Amy," "The Evil Star," "The Ayr of Virginia," "A Realized Ideal," "A Heaven in Kissing Hill," "Struan," "A Beautiful Alien" and "A Manfest Destiny." Her latest novel, "The Thousandth Woman," was published two years ago.

James Bryce, British Ambassador to the United States, will visit Oklahoma and Indian Territory from June 13 to 18, travelling as the guest of A. J. Davidson, president of the St. Louis and San Francisco Railway. Mr. Bryce is keenly interested in the proposed Oklahoma constitution.

Anna Katherine Green, who is a Mrs. Rohlfs, has a small boy of 14 who takes a very lively interest in his mother's work. After reading his mother's new book, "The Mayor's Wife," he remarked, "Gee! Mother, your must be a wizard—it beats 'The Leavenworth Case.'"

Judge Shute's "The Real Diary of a Real Boy" is largely based on actual occurrences in his boyhood. A portion of it was even taken from an old "Dairy" that he found.

Birissoff, the Russian artist, has won much praise from Lowdon art critics who have viewed his pictures of polar scenes. Dr. Nansen pronounces the sketches and paintings wonderful in their fidelity and vividness.

Edna WaXace Hopper, the actress, is seriously ill in her apartment in New York. She is threatened with typhoid fever. A long and exacting theatrical season and worry over the failure of the suit to break the will of Alexander Dunsmuir is said to be the cause.

Allan Everett Olney, the inventor, who is known wherever musical instruments are manufactured, has been committed to the insane asylum at Middletown, Conn.

In Belgium girls are expected to give five weeks out of each school year to learning housework. The girl is required to know not only how to cook a dinner, but to clean up and care for a kitchen, do marketing, wash and iron.

Sir Hiram Maxim, the great engineer and inventor of the automatic system of firearms, has confessed that he was no infant prodigy—that he believes that he was the most stupid and also the best-behaved pupil at his grat school.

Baron Speck von Sternberg, the German Ambassador to the United States, is on his way from the Italian Tyrol to Sweden, where he will be received by King Frederick, on which occasion His Majesty will personally bestow on the Ambassador Saxony's highest decoration, the Grand Cross of Albrecht.

Young Alfonso, of Spain, is getting more and more Anglicized. Moved by the example of King Edward, he is about to start cattle farming on a large scale.

Mrs. Marshall Field, widow of Chicago's merchant prince, is to become an inspector of milk, a visitor to the tenement houses of Chicago, an angel of the hospitals and rival for sociological honors of Miss Jane Addams and Mrs. Potter Palmer.

It seems that Theodore Roosevelt is not the first to give Oyster Bay President a stirring time. George Washington once spent two days *there. The house where he was en*tertained is still in good condition and the furniture in the room he occupied has never been changed.

A New Idea For a Dime Social.

This entertainment was given by a Young People's Society. The admission was a dime, and the various refreshments were arranged at a scale of prices and nothing less than a dime was taken for an order. For the amusement part each person was provided with a paper with "To be found p a dime" written at the top and the following questions:

1. Fruit of a tropical tree.—(Date).
2. What the Siamese twins were.—(United).
3. What a lazy man seldom gets.—(Ahead).
4. The division of a country.—(States).
5. The cradle of liberty.—(America).
6. Something a school boy makes.—(Figures).
7. Apart of the human body.—(Ear).
8. A figure.—(One).
9. What makes the forest green.—(Foliage).
10. Something a bootblack gives.—(Shine).

The prize offered was a dime.

TO CLEAN LEATHER.

Carefully dust the leather, then wash with warm water, being particular to remove all soiled spots and dirt.

Wipe dry and then wipe over with a black cloth dipped into the beaten white of egg mixed with its bulk of warm water.

Flaxseed water is always good for cleaning leather upholstered furniture.

Pour half a cupful of boiling water over two tablespoonfuls of flaxseed and bring to the boiling point. Strain, and when cool apply with a cloth to the leather.

PEOPLE IN THE PUBLIC EYE.

Wounded Elk, a full blooded Sioux missionary, has a wonderful flow of simple oratory besides a majestic presence.

Of the governors of Alabama five are still living—Rufus W. Cobb, Thomas G. Jones, William C. Oates, Joseph F. Johnston and William D. Jelks.

Baron Rosen, who succeeded Count Cassini as the Russian ambassador at Washington, has held important diplomatic posts at New York, Tokyo, Munich and Athens.

General Superintendent Taylor of the Mobile and Ohio railroad is one of the most expert men of his profession in the south. He is a brother of Hon. Hanuis Taylor, former United States minister to Spain.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt go driving every Sunday afternoon, the weather permitting, and always visit Georgetown, the quaint suburban town, proud of its history and its fine old colonial mansions.

Nathaniel W. Voorhees, father of ex-Governor Foster M. Voorhees, of New Jersey, was a delegate to the national convention in 1840, which nominated Lincoln for the presidency. He is almost eighty years old.

Waitsfield boasts one of the oldest officeholders in Vermont in point of service. Richardson J. Gleason has held the office of town clerk for fifty-one consecutive years and has been reelected for the fifty-second term.

A well-known character in Washington is Stephen Vail, son of Alfred Vail, who co-operated with Morse and Henry in the invention of the telegraph and built the first steam engine that ever propelled a ship across the ocean.

August Wilhelmj, the famous violinist, of London, discovered a little boy by the name of Leopold Lustig playing the violin on the streets of the metropolis. He took him home and gave him some instruction, and the boy will shortly make his debut on the London concert platform.

Professor William Campbell of Columbia University has been appointed by Secretary Wright by the United States government to take charge of all the metallurgical investigations connected with the testing of structural steel which is being carried on by the geographical survey.

The richest unmarried woman in France is probably Princess Marie Bonaparte, daughter of the late Prince Roland Bonaparte. She inherited a vast fortune from her maternal grandfather, the late Edmond Blanc—"Monte Carlo Blanc." She is twenty-five, pretty and accomplished.

June.

Upon the breast of smiling June,
Roses and lilies lie;
And around her yet is faint perfume
Of violets, just gone by;

Green is her gown, with broidery
Of blossoming meadow grass,
That ripples like a flowing sea
When winds and shadows pass.

Her breast is belted by the blue
Of succary, like the sky,
And purple heart's-ease clasp her, too,
And larkspur growing high:

Laced in her bodice, green with vines
And dew the sun has kissed,
Jewels her scarf that faintly shines,
In folds of morning mist!

The buttercups are fringes fair
Around her small white feet,
And on the radiance of her hair
Fall cherry-blossoms sweet;

The dark laburnum's chains of gold
She twists about her throat;
Perched on her shoulder, blithe and bold,
The brown thrush sounds his note!

And blue of the far dappled sky
That shows at warm, still noon,
Shines in her softly smiling eye—
Oh! who's so sweet as June?

—Margaret Deland.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE.

A pretty novelty for desert is a charlotte russe decorated with violets and angelica. To do this the flat sides of the ladyfingers must be iced and decorated with a candied violet and a stem cut from a candied angelica root; this looks like green citron. It will soften and eat better if it be soaked ten minutes or a bit longer in boiling water. Put one candied violet and its stem on each ladyfinger. The mold after being lined and filled must be chilled quickly to keep the ornaments in the best condition.

The filling may be made as usual and candied violets scattered over the heaped-up surface of the top. If desired, it may be made with grape juice, lemon juice, gelatine and whipped cream. For an ounce of gelatine softened in a half cup of grape juice allow three-fourths of a cup of hot grape juice to further dissolve it. Then add the juice of one lemon and three-fourths of a cupful of sugar and stir these until the sugar is dissolved. When it has been strained and put in a pan set in ice water; it must be stirred until it begins to thicken. A pint of cream must be already whipped. From this take the thick part and fold it into the gelatine gradually.

Mr. and Mrs. F. D. Woodhull, of West Front street, have returned from Lake Hopatcong.

Mrs. Magdalen VanArsdale, of Pluckemin, has been visiting Mrs. J. S. Powlison, of Grandview avenue.

Mrs. Grace Williams and daughter, of East Sixth street, are visiting in Washington and Jamestown, Va.

WON DAILY PRESS PRIZE

William Hicks Osgood Successful Competitor in Municipal Composition Contest.

A. P. H. S. GRADUATE

Chose for His Subject, "Should Plainfield Own Its Water Works System?"

Among the prize-winners announced at the Plainfield High School graduation exercises Thursday was William Hicks Osgood, a member of the senior class, who was awarded The Daily Press prize of $10 for the best composition dealing with a subject of municipal interest. His effort dealt with the question, "should Plainfield Own Its Water Works System?" and was as follows:

Water is a necessity. It is as important to the sustenance of our community as the food we eat or the air we breathe. We must obtain water in some way. The question to be considered is: Shall we depend on our water supply to be given by a corporation or shall we control this essential commodity ourselves?

In attempting to make our decision let us profit by the experience of other cities; what they have accomplished, we may reasonably expect to accomplish. According to accurate statistics, 53.7 per cent. of all water works plants in the United States are owned by municipalities; of thirty-eight cities with one hundred thousand or more inhabitants, thirty own their own water works. Of these cities with a population of from fifty thousand to one hundred thousand, twenty-nine own their own water works. When it is considered that a great many of these cities do not look upon their water supply, are in the grip of merci*less political combinations which thwart* the execution of the people's will, it may be seen that these statistics may represent an overwhelming weight of public opinion in favor of municipal ownership of water works.

The majority of the citizens of the United States have voted, through their representatives, for municipal ownership of water supply systems. Why have they so voted? Upon careful consideration, they have found that such water supply systems are cheaper. It is a recognized fact, proven by experience, that public ownership of any business tends to lower rates. The private company depends for its existence upon the profits which it can make in conducting its business. It must pay dividends and to pay the rates would be correspondingly lower. This may account for the fact that charges of private companies in the United States average 40 per cent more in charges by municipalities for similar service. This practically means that nearly 50 per cent. of the rate of a private corporation is profit. It means that municipal ownership of the water supply should save each citizen at least 33.33 per cent. of his water bill. Is it remarkable, that in the face of such overwhelming facts decided trend of American cities is in favor of public ownership of water supply?

In the state of Massachusetts, where municipal ownership has been most extensively tried, the people are the most enthusiastic over the results of the municipal system. Some time ago the city of Lowell bought the water works company which supplied the city with water. The city authorities spent one million dollars for the company's plant and mains. In three years they had paid the interest on the purchase price by the profits from the water works; they had saved two hundred and seventy-three thousand, five hundred and forty-six dollars and seventy-eight cents; they had reduced the rates to two-thirds of what they originally were. Duluth is one of a large number of cities which have succeeded. Is it not reasonable to expect that Plainfield would succeed?

Even if such a venture is not directly profitable to the city, it can hardly fail to be self-supporting. According to A. B. Leach & Company, one of the largest bond houses in New York city: "All water works are regarded as self-sustaining." If after purchasing the rights of the present company, the city is only able to charge the same household rate and to conduct the water works at cost, there will be a direct gain to the city of the rent which it pays to the company for the water used in the hydrants; there will be effected an advantageous relation between the water supply and the disposal as sewage. But Plainfield may expect to do more than merely pay expenses. The situation of the city is such that pure Wesleyan water may be obtained in large quantities and at little cost. If the city should take possession of the water company's mains, it could supply water to the neighboring towns at a large profit. With efficient management on the part of the city authorities, the municipal water supply system should pay expenses, reduce the present rates, and return an annual dividend.

The debt which would be contracted in taking over the water company's rights by purchase or condemnation, would be more than offset by the increased value of the city's bonds, owing to the possession of a paying water supply system. Such a system would be a valuable asset for Plainfield.

Now is the time for the city to act. Plainfield is a prosperous and growing city in the most populous part of New Jersey. As a suburb of New York city, Plainfield is bound to become larger as time goes on. Now is the still small its policy in this matter should be determined. The value of the holdings of the present company is increasing every year. The longer the ownership may become, the more difficult and the more expensive it will be to get possession of its rights. A community is peculiarly powerless before organized millions arrayed in opposition to its wishes. If Plainfield should continue to be supplied with water under the present system, sooner or later future generations of its citizens will have to pay. For the time will come, when the supplying of water for public and private consumption shall be universally conceded "a natural municipal function."

CELEBRATE SILVER WEDDING ANNIVERSARY

MR. AND MRS. I. B. HILL ENTERTAIN LARGE GATHERING OF FRIENDS.

To mark the twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Hill, of Westervelt avenue, held a reception Friday night. They entertained guests to the number of seventy-five at a most delightful affair.

The house was prettily decorated with ferns and flowers. Green and white were the colors in the parlor, and red and white in the dining room. Mrs. Hill received, assisted by her mother, Mrs. S. E. Burgess, beneath an arch of greens. Directly above where they stood the figures 1882-1907 gleamed in silver foil.

Miss Case and Miss Burd, of the First Methodist church choir, sang solos and duets, and Clifford Braider, organist of the First Presbyterian church, played piano solos. T. H. Cumming, a brother-in-law of Mr. Hills, gave a reminiscent talk. He read a letter of regret and congratulation from the clergyman who wedded Mr. and Mrs. Hill, in Fall River, Mass., Rev. Mr. Graves, now assistant at Tremont Temple, Boston. A collation was served. A large number of gifts were received, cut glass as well as silver.

RECTOR'S LIST OF "DON'TS" FOR WORKING GIRLS.

Gives Fourteen Rules to be Observed in Every Day Life.

A list of "don'ts" for the benefit of the working girls of his parish was announced this week by Monsignor Arthur J. Teeling, pastor of St. Mary's Catholic church, Lynn, Mass. They are:

"Don't go to public dances, and

"Don't go to Saturday night dances.

"Don't miss your prayers in the morning. Shorten your talk with Cella or Jim by ten minutes the night before and have this time to spare in the morning.

"Don't read yellow journals going to and coming from work.

"Don't read them at any time. Improve your mind; don't hold its diseases.

"Don't be late for work, and

"Don't give less labor than is due for what you receive. Hence,

"Don't gossip about Tillie and Mamie and Jim and some others until their characters are burned to a crisp, and, moreover, your work is still waiting.

"Don't give your employer a chance to be a benefactor. Rather beg your bread. Favor from any man and you are on most treach*erous ground, therefore,*

"Don't permit the least bit of familiarity from your employer, whether he be married or unmarried. You are there to work, not to start a honeymoon or to fill the demands of a sensualist.

"Don't 'live to eat.' You cannot stand the indiscretion of eating nothing but candy and ice cream and tea for lunch.

"Don't refuse to speak to Mary because Mary didn't answer at once a question you asked.

"Don't break into a conversation. It's far better to be poor and polite than rich and impolite.

"Don't be jealous. It will hurt, you not the one of whom you are jealous."

CASE AGAINST PERKINS ENDS IN A DISMISSAL

CITY CLERK MAC MURRAY TESTIFIED FOR HIM AT HACKENSACK.

The hearing of Assemblyman Randolph Perkins, of Westfield, before Justice Heath, at Hackensack, Friday morning, on a charge of violating the automobile speed ordinance while passing through Hackensack, resulted in the discharge of the prisoner. Patrolman Graber, who arrested the Republican State leader on June 7, said his bicycle speedometer indicated that the Perkins auto, No. 4,411, was going twenty-five miles an hour when the arrest was made. The Assemblyman, though having counsel, ex-Assemblyman Clarence Make, put the patrolman through a severe cross-examination, bewildering him.

"How do you know your speedometer is reliable and correct?" counsel asked.

"Because I made a test behind Mayor Linkroum's auto going thirty-two miles an hour and the speed register was the same as mine," said the patrolman.

"So you admit, do you, that you allowed your Mayor to exceed the speed limit on your own streets without arresting him?" exclaimed the Assemblyman, with a smile.

Chief of Police Dunn remarked that the test was on a side street and that he considered the line of questions irrelevant and senseless.

James C. Mac Murray, city clerk of Plainfield, and a member of the New Jersey committee of the Jamestown Exposition, was produced as a witness, said Assemblyman Perkin's auto was going not faster than eight miles an hour when the arrest was made. He was in the machine at the time. Justice Heath said the speedometer wasn't reliable and dismissed the case, and everybody continued to laugh.

FORMER PUPILS SURPRISE TEACHER WHO RETIRES

PRESENT MISS ELLEN E. NILES WITH A PURSE OF $550.

Miss Ellen E. Niles, who retires from her position as a teacher in the Plainfield High School, this year, after a continuous service of thirty-eight years, was handsomely remembered on Thursday, when a purse of $550 was presented to her. The presentation was made by the Alumni Association, undergraduates and many outsides friends, including former pupils who did not graduate from the school. The presentation was a complete surprise to Miss Niles, for she did not have the slightest idea of what was to take place.

Miss Niles was the oldest member *of the High School faculty and dur*ing her long service has been very successful as a teacher. Hundreds of young men and young women who are now occupying positions of trust and honor received their education at their instructions from Miss Niles and can look back with pleasure and gratitude to the help and assistance she gave in solving perplexing problems.

For the present Miss Niles will visit her mother, who resides at Binghamton, N. Y., and later she may return to Plainfield. While her plans have not been definitely decided it is quite likely that she may go abroad next year and spend sometime in travelling.

DAINTY CUSHIONS.

Linen pincushions for summer use will be greater favorites this year than they were last, for they are made in such practical but artistic designs that they will be equally serviceable on an elaborately appointed dressing table or on a plain bureau. Another advantage these cushions have over the ordinary silk, satin, etc. varieties is that they may be washed when soiled and after a tubbing will look just as fresh as when new.

Fortunately for women whose incomes are limited these decorative and useful cushions are quite easy to make at home.

The round one is, of course, simpler to make than the oblong cushion, for the former consists of a linen bottom and one piece which extends two or three inches beyond the top. The circular ruffle is stoutly sewed to a round bag filled with sawdust, cotton or whatever filling is desired.

The top of the cushion is also round, with dainty featherstitching on the edge as a finish. This upper portion is held in place around the filling and attached to the bottom by a ribbon draw string tied in a double bowknot. Directly in the centre of the top an embroidery wreath could be worked in any floral device that would be in harmony with other decorations in the bedroom. Wild roses, forget-me-nots, poppies, pansies, sweet peas are blossoms that look attractive on white linens, and if done in silk of their natural colors are decidedly effective.

Mr. and Mrs. I. B. Bromfield, of Franklin place, accompanied by Clyde Doane, of East Seventh street, left Saturday for Mr. Bromfield's summer cottage in the Catskills.

NEED FOR DOG CATCHERS

Movement to Have Muzzling Ordinance Enforced and Rid Danger.

S. P. C. A. IS INTERESTED

President Randolph Says Municipality Should Take Action—Policemen Can Testify to Presence of Vicious Animals.

Preparations are being made to have the police department enforce the muzzling ordinance. Every year at this time a general demand for steps to make the city safe from stray dogs is received at police headquarters, and Chief Kiely is expected to issue orders to meet it with vigorous action. The S. P. C. A., which is seeking to perfect arrangements for the humane killing of strays and crippled small animals by electricity, is interested in this movement to prevents accidents from the presence of vicious, mad, or supposedly mad dogs on the streets.

The rigid enforcement of the ordinance requiring all dogs to be muzzled or led on the street is felt to be the only way in which to make the people feel safe and actually to safeguard them. The police are to be instructed to report all dogs, the owners of which are known, when seen on the street unmuzzled or unleashed, and proceedings will be taken in the city courts. In connection with the movement there is a strong demand that the city appoint competent dog catchers, or authorize the S. P. C. A., giving the society funds for the purpose, to take charge of rounding up stray and unmuzzled dogs.

Speaking on the subject this morning, former Mayor Isaac V. Randolph, president of the S. P. C. A., said that he believed the city should take steps to curb the stray dog nuisance.

"While our society is dedicated to the care and assistance of dumb beasts," he said, "there is no overlooking the fact that homeless mongrels and stray dogs are a positive danger, and where there is no one to give them care it is the part of wisdom, as well as humanity, to put them painlessly out of the way. I am not criticising anyone or any department when I say that it seems to me the city should appoint good dog catchers and make full arrangements for the disposition of the strays."

It is said that the number of stray dogs is unusually large in the West and East Ends. Not a few of the dogs owned by citizens have vicious habits that make them dangerous, to which the policemen themselves can testify. Hardly an officer on the force goes over his beat at night, especially those on bicycles, without having experience with snapping dogs. More than once an officer on a wheel has been compelled to shoot his rower to save his legs from the teeth of a persistent canine pursuer.

There are any number of women, and a certain number of men, who are afraid of all dogs, and the presence of unmuzzled beasts on the streets is what is popularly supposed to be the "mad dog season" keeps them in a state of nervousness whenever they go along public thoroughfares. In addition to preventing actual accidents, a general enforcement of the muzzling ordinance and active work by competent dog catchers would take away much of the terror that now lurks in a walk outdoors for the dog-fearing woman.

HENRY WORTHAM VINDICATED.

The Indictment Against Him Dismissed by the Court at Elizabeth Yesterday.

Judge Atwater, sitting in the Quarter Sessions Court at Elizabeth yesterday, dismissed the indictment returned by the Grand Jury two weeks ago against Henry Wortham, of this city. The indictment was dismissed on the motion of Assistant Prosecutor John K. Bullish, who stated to the Court that, in view of new evidence in the matter which had been brought to his attention, he moved that the indictment be dismissed.

Wortham, who, at the time of his arrest, about two months ago, was working for Dr. Pitts, was charged with stealing a bicycle belonging to Charles Hardaway which had been left in Dr. Pitts' barn, of which Wortham had charge. Wortham stoutly denied stealing the bicycle, and the action of the Prosecutor yesterday completely vindicated him.

The counsel for Wortham in the matter was W. S. Anderson, and to his efforts is due Wortham's exoneration from the charge.

Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Williams, of Westervelt avenue, had their nephew, Cols Millard, of East Second street, have returned from a delightful sojourn of several days at Asbury Park.

Have you all the porch chairs you need or want? Phillips & Jones East End store, 322, has a fine line of them. Reasonable prices. They have a splendid line of other furniture.

F. M. VanEmburgh, of Westervelt avenue, is able to go to business again, after being laid by for six weeks, the result of a valer on the knee cap.

COMPLETED PROGRAM FOR ELKS CONVENTION

GREATEST REUNION IN ORDER'S HISTORY AT PHILADELPHIA NEXT MONTH.

With the exception of some minor details, the program for the Convention and Reunion of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, which is to be held in Philadelphia during the week of July 15 is complete and is now presented to the public. A large delegation from Plainfield Lodge, No. 885, will attend.

From reports received from all sections of the country, it is expected that upwards of 150,000 visitors will be in Philadelphia during the Convention, and the Executive Committee of Philadelphia Lodge, No. 2, of which Chester P. Ray is chairman, confidently hopes and looks for the co-operation of the people of that city in the entertaining of this mighty host of strangers. The committee is now raising an entertainment fund of $100,000.

Of such large proportions is an Elk's convention that Councils have taken official recognition of the event and a joint committee has been appointed to co-operate with the local committee of Elks. Mayor Reyburn has also expressed himself as interested in the convention and will do all his official position enables him to make the convention week the most memorable in the city's store history.

Expects Hosts on Sunday.

A large number of delegations, particularly those coming from distant points, are expected to arrive on Sunday, July 14. All trains will be met by the reception committee, who will escort the visitors to their hotels. Ladies accompanying special delegations will be taken to their hotels in automobiles, tally-hos and special cars. Baggage will be immediately transferred by special wagons to hotels.

Monday, July 15.

Entertainment of Grand Lodge members, which will include a trip on the river, to Delaware, visiting Cramp's and other shipyards, League Island Navy Yard, forts and all other points of interest. A stop will be made at Washington Park, where luncheon will be served. The time of embarkation will be at 11 a. m., and the return made at 3 p. m.

The formal opening of the Grand Lodge will take place at the Grand Opera House at 8 p. m., where the guests will be welcomed by the Governor, the Mayor, and other officials. At the same hour the bands will discourse patriotic airs in Independence Square.

Tuesday, July 16th.

The Grand Lodge opens in business session at 11 a. m., at the Garrick theatre. On that day Washington Parade and Review will be the scene of what will be the greatest festal occasion ever attempted by any organization. Every Elk in the world is invited to come to this unprecedented feast. The ocean will be scoured for shell fish, the rivers for their denizens feast unparalleled. The only thing necessary for admission is an Elks card and the official badge.

Boats will leave Arch street wharf every hour, no tickets being necessary to Elks, identification as above stated being made by the badge and visiting card. These boats will make trips up and down the river before proceeding to Washington Park.

In the evening a concert at Independence Square and at 11 o'clock the singing of the 11 o'clock toast on City Hall plaza.

Wednesday, July 17th.

In the morning a trip through Fairmount Park, that embraces within its domain 3,341 acres, with unsurpassed natural scenery that has inspired artists from every corner of the world. Hundreds of monuments are within its environs, chief of which is that magnificent piece of work of art, the bonze equestrian statue of George Washington erected by the State Society of the Cincinnati at a cost of $25,000 and is one of the most imposing monuments in America. Then there are the Lincoln Monument, Grant Cobain, Memorial Hall, with its collection of rare exotics and its famous and wonderful "women garden," and then the beautiful Wissahickon, where nature runs riot. No other great city in the world can boast of such a park.

At 11 a. m., a massed band parade of 3,000 musicians will take place, each lodge having a band of thirty or more pieces entered in this feature and in the general parade receiving $100, besides having a chance to win the special first prize of $360 for the largest and best appearing band, or the second prize of $150.

In the afternoon a trip to Willow Grove. The Victor Herbert Orchestra has been especially engaged to play during the Reunion Week, and on this day the famous Strawbridge & Clothier Chorus of 1,000 voices will sing.

In the evening grand band concerts in Independence and City Hall Squares.

Thursday, Friday, Saturday.

The great parade of all the lodges of the Order will take place on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock, and at night special illuminations and band concerts. This parade will be the largest and most magnificent ever seen in Philadelphia. Thousands of dollars in prizes will be awarded to those participating. The official trip to Valley Forge is scheduled for Friday, and on Saturday the official excursion to Atlantic City will take place.

Other features may be added to this program, and altogether the week should be the liveliest Philadelphia has ever experienced.

FAILS TO GET DAMAGES

Plaintiff Loses in Attempt to Recover For Alleged Injuries to Her Horse.

CASE WAS NOT PROVEN

C. A. Marsh's Successful Defense in Suit of Mrs. Sabochar Against Mr. Williams—Tried at County Court Yesterday.

Judgment for the defendant was obtained yesterday in the Union County Court by Craig A. Marsh in the case of Isabella Sabochar against Edward P. Williams, the action having been brought to recover damages alleged to have been sustained in a runaway accident on Darrow avenue during Carnival week. Three suits, is is said, were threatened, and this was the first to be instituted.

Mrs. Sabochar alleged that her horse was badly injured as a result of a collision with the runaway animal that it was rendered unfit for use. According to her story two women were seated in a surrey, the horse being tied to a tree in front of Mr. Williams' place. Mr. Williams, she declared, untied the horse and threw the reins down, despite the fact that the two women had told him that they knew nothing about driving.

Mr. Williams alleged that he was requested by the two women to untie the horse and that he complied with the request and handed the reins to a middle-aged woman, who had changed from the back seat to the front seat for the purpose of holding the reins. He declared that before he had gotten fifty feet away he saw the horse turning around and making such a short turn that the surrey was in danger of upsetting, when suddenly the front wheels broke loose and the horse started on a trot, whereupon he caught the horse by the reins and delivered it to some man who came forward at that moment. Mr. Williams and Mrs. Lippincott, who was near by, further testified that Mrs. Sabochar's horse was not anywhere in the vicinity and that there was no collision whatever. In addition Mr. Williams said that he did not doubt that Mrs. Sabochar's horse was injured, but he knew that the injury did not happen at the place specified, for her horse was not there at the time he untied the horse. Beekman & Spencer were counsel for Mrs. Sabocher.

Y. M. C. A. TO ESTABLISH SCHOOL FOR THE SUMMER

HAS BEEN PLANNED TO HELP YOUNG MEN AND BOYS.

For the purpose of helping boys and young men in the city who were behind in their past year's studies, the Y. M. C. A. has planned to conduct a summer school for six weeks, beginning July 8 and ending August 16. The hours of study will be from 8:30 to 11:30 o'clock every morning, except Sunday. The plan has the endorsement of Principal Ira W. Trasell, of the Plainfield High School, and Miss Day, principal of the Grammar School, and they have promised to help in the work so far as possible.

The school is not intended only for those who did not pass their examinations, but for any boy or young man who would like to take up any branches of study from the common school course to that of the High School, and it will afford an excellent opportunity for a young man to brush up on his studies if he proposes to go to college or enter business at any future time. The charges for the course will be nominal.

The association has engaged as a teacher for the school, Miss Edna Burr, a graduate of the Plainfield High School, Mt. Holyoke College, and who has been teaching for two years in the High School, and during the past year has been teaching at the Whittier School. She is thoroughly competent to teach all branches of study.

Any boy or young man wishing to join the summer school can do so by communicating with Secretary Kenneth Robbie at the Y. M. C. A., or his assistants, and paying the fee for the course. Already assurances have been received that a number will join thus making the school an assured success.

Will Enter Naval Academy.

William Burtis, of Fairview avenue, has successfully passed his examinations for entrance to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis. He graduated from the North Plainfield High School last year.

If interested in real estate or insurance of any kind consult George F. Brown, of Somerset street.

WILL ELECTROCUTE DOGS

S. P. C. A. Arranging For Unusual Method of Killing Stray Animals.

AT THE DYNAMO WORKS

Samuel Rushmore Offers Free Use of Current—Municipal Supervision of the Canine "Death Chamber."

Means for the swift and painless killing of stray and suffering dogs and cats by electricity are being arranged by the S. P. C. A. of this city. Dr. Middleton O'M. Knott, the society's veterinary advisor, and Dr. T. S. Davis are the committee in charge of the plans.

The electrocution "chamber" was made a possibility by Samuel Rushmore, head of the Rushmore Dynamo Works. He saw the ease with which one of his dynamos could be made to administer quick death to dogs and cats, and he proffered the free use of his plant for the purpose. The offer was accepted, conditional upon the satisfactory arrangement of certain details, and Drs. Knott and Davis were appointed to shape the plans.

The question chiefly considered in connection with the project was that of municipal supervision. President L. V. F. Randolph and the members felt that it would not do to inaugurate any such method of execution without the official knowledge and sanction of the municipality. The committee is at work along the lines dictated by that feeling, and if the electrocution method is adopted, there will be municipal supervision of the contrivance. Other things being arranged, it will be easy to use the force in the Rushmore machines to kill small animals instantaneously.

The society met yesterday afternoon at President Randolph's home on East Front street. Gratifying reports of the work were received. An increased general interest in the work of the society has been manifested. People who had been careless in their treatment of dumb beasts have begun to reckon with the society, a moral effect which the organization knew would follow its formation.

Among the questions considered yesterday was that of placing more drinking fountains about the city. No action was taken, but the subject will be continued until a definite decision, the wisst under the existing circumstances, is reached.

After the meeting the members were entertained socially by Mr. and Mrs. Randolph. A tour through the garden and greenhouses was much enjoyed.

TWO MURDER TRIALS AT THE NEXT TERMS

MAN AND WOMAN MAY BE INDICTED BY THE GRAND JURY.

It is said to be more than probable that Union county will have two murder trials to engage the attention of the county court within the next few months. There is a strong indication, it is said, that Charles Ferdio, who fatally shot Fred Rash, a young man of Elizabeth, two weeks ago, and Mrs. Charles Rash, colored, who killed her white husband in Roselle Borough last Friday night, will both be indicted for murder by the Grand Jury.

Returning home one night with his parents from a visit, and as the trio neared the house, Fred Rash got the front door key from his father, ran ahead to open the door. As he neared the steps he was shot by Ferdio, an employe of the car works in Elizabeth. Ferdio claimed that he thought the young man was running after him, and that he shot in self-defense. Young Rash and his father pursued Ferdio a block or two, when the former dropped dead. An examination showed that a bullet had pierced the heart. It is said that Rash and Ferdio were not acquainted with each other.

The second murder was committed Friday night in Roselle Borough. Charles Rash, aged 24 years, white, had quarreled with his colored wife, about cleaning and cooking a fish for supper. She secured a revolver and in the house and, it is said, deliberately walked to the back door and shot her husband, and then cut him about the body and head with a knife which he had held in his hand.

Lost District Court Case.

M. Armstrong, a plumber, lost his suit in contempt against Elizabeth T. B. Winthrow, in the District Court, this morning. He sued for $30, alleged to be due on plumbing work done at the home 503 East Seventh street. He sued to recover $30 for testing pipes. The defense contended that he engaged to do the work "according to the rules and regulations of the Health Board," and that the testing for which he asked pay was required by the Health Inspector and the rules under which he worked. Judge Stevens ruled that there was no cause for action. Francis J. Blatz appeared for the defendant.

REPORT ON STREET BIDS

The Councilmanic Committee Finds Warren B. Travell Low on Four of Those Submitted.

HE MAY GET FIVE

Hassam Company Will Probably Waive Its Bid On Second Street In His Favor.

The street committee from the Common Council will submit a report at the July meeting on the bids received last week for macadamizing several streets as specified in the ordinance previously adopted. As the bids now stand the Hassam Pavement Company, of Worcester, Mass., is low on one street, West Second street, at $1.79 per square yard per lineal foot, and while the company may want to do this work, although it is but one street, there is a possibility that the company may waive its bid and let the next lowest bidder have it. In that case Warren B. Travell would receive it.

Mr. Travell was low bidder on four streets, as follows: Cottage place, $1.02; Park lane, 98 cents; Elmwood place, $1.15, and College place, $1.16. C. M. Meeker was the lowest bidder on six streets, as follows: Randolph road, 95 cents; Arlington place, 95 cents; Denmark road, $1.96; Sycamore street, $1.60; Hillside avenue, $1.80, and West End avenue, $2.14.

It is hardly thought that the Hassam Paving Company would want to undertake the contract for one single street, and yet inasmuch as the company has the contract for laying a block of its concrete pavement on Somerset street, the borough, it might want to accept the contract for West Second street. However, it is up to the Common Council, after the recommendations of the street committee, to decide how the appointment of the bids shall be made and this will probably be done at the next meeting.

C. M. Meeker was the lowest bidder for the work of building a portion of the Plainfield avenue storm sewer, but as there are several ways of constructing the sewer the exact cost for the same cannot be determined at the present time. This will probably be settled before the next meeting of the Common Council.

DR. ANDREW RAYMOND TO LEAVE UNION COLLEGE

WILL BECOME PASTOR OF FIRST PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH, BUFFALO.

Rev. Dr. Andrew Van Vranken Raymond, a former pastor of Trinity Reformed church, this city, will shortly resign the presidency of Union College at Schenectady, N. Y., to become pastor of the First Presbyterian church at Buffalo, N. Y. Announcement of the fact was made known at Buffalo yesterday, following a meeting of the First church congregation, when it was stated that Dr. Raymond would accept the call if extended him.

The committee appointed by the church to select a pastor travelled upon a $1,000 tour investigating candidates and spent thousands of dollars in the quest. Johnston Ross, of Cambridge, Eng., and Rev. Mr. Hutton, of Newcastle-on-Tyne, were the only ones seriously considered aside from Dr. Raymond.

Dr. Raymond will receive a salary of $10,000 a year, the use of a beautiful parsonage on North street and two months' vacation annually. The First church is rated as the richest in Buffalo.

While serving as president of Union College, Dr. Raymond had a most valuable assistant in his wife until illness made it impossible for her to continue and she died two weeks ago just as the Commencement program was at its height. Mrs. Raymond had many warm friends in Plainfield as she was very active during her husband's local pastorate.

MARCONNIER'S CHILDREN'S DAY.

Oak Tree Chapel Holds Attractive Exercises; Mr. Clark a Speaker.

The Children's Day exercises of Marconnier chapel, postponed from the date first fixed, was held yesterday afternoon. They were enjoyed by a good-sized gathering. The platform was prettily decorated with flowers.

The talented pupils recited and sang well, and the program proved to be most attractive. Rev. J. Lansdale, the pastor, conducted the exercises. Robert Clark, Jr., of this city, and A. C. Bechstein, an Oak Tree friend of the chapel, spoke. Their remarks were most interesting and made a lively impression on the children.

Credit for the splendid singing is due Horace J. Martin, Sr., of this city. He spent a number of weeks training the school, and led the choruses.

Rev. Charles E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church, will go abroad in July. He plans to tour Germany awheel.

No Public Observance in this City, But Lots of Sports on the Side.

OUTSIDE CELEBRATIONS

New Market and South Plainfield Have Set Affairs Arranged—Lots of Golf, Baseball and Tennis.

The civic lethargy that generally marks July Fourth in Plainfield will again prevail tomorrow and the day will pass without any formal observance of the independence anniversary. Plenty of amusements have been provided on the side, however, and the citizen who prefers to let the small boys keep the eagle screaming will find lots to attract his attention and entice his loose change.

Patriotic celebrations will be been arranged by New Market and South Plainfield people and both these places will undoubtedly draw large attendances from this city. The one at the former place will be the annual event conducted by Friendship Council, D. O. U. A. M., and the committee has sought to make it "the best ever." The programme will open early in the afternoon with a carnival of aquatic and athletic sports terminating with a display of fireworks at night. The affair will be held in Vail's grove and on the lake.

South Plainfield's observance will be somewhat similar and will be held on the grounds directly opposite Washington Hall. The Good Government Club and other organizations have banded together to make it a success.

At the Plainfield Country Club there will be lots doing all day. In addition to the regular holiday golf events, tennis matches will be played on the courts and a dinner dance will be held in the clubhouse at night. Music will be a feature both afternoon and evening.

Championship tennis play will be in evidence at the Park Club in the afternoon, and a charming tea has been arranged for late afternoon. The exhibition of fireworks in the evening that has so long been an annual event of the club will be given in the accustomed place and a social dance will round out the day. The Park Club has a fine programme arranged, the details being given in another column.

The Fair Acres Driving And Riding Club will conduct a race meet at the Driving Park and for those who like this form of sport a good card is offered. The programme will comprise three trotting and pacing events and one running race. They will begin at 1.30.

Beside the Inter-city League baseball games, various other diamond contests will be waged in the morning and afternoon. The Independent Gun Club has planned a shoot on its grounds that will prove an attraction for many trap devotees. The "Fresh Air" Home carnival on the lawn at the Home will provide entertainment and at the same time add a worthy cause.

The Public Library's circulating department will be closed all day but the reading room will be open from 2 until 6 in the afternoon.

The Jersey Central and Lehigh Valley railroads will run the usual excursions to Mauch Chunk, Lake Hopatcong and Bellewood Park.

Engaged in Special Work.

Charles B. Brown, formerly of Plainfield, and later one of the State Y. M. C. A. secretaries, has been assigned by the Massachusetts State Committee of the Y. M. C. A. to take up some special work at Gloucester, Mass., where he will be stationed for the next three months. Mr. Brown has been eminently successful in his work, having raised $25,000 toward a new $50,000 Y. M. C. A. building. The balance to be raised is the fall. He has been kept very busy delivering addresses in many churches throughout Massachusetts and surrounding districts.

Author Praises Artists' Work.

Charles F. Neagle, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Neagle, of West Fifth street, who has won considerable distinction as a sketch artist, has been highly complimented by the author of a new book, "Adam Bede," for the illustrations of the story. The story is by Francis Aymar Matthews, and he has written Mr. Neagle praising him for the work.

Miss Eleanor Williams Engaged.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward P. Williams, of West Seventh street, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Eleanor Bowlden Williams, to George Harold O'Donnell, of New York city, formerly of Newton, N. J. Mr. O'Donnell is a graduate of Princeton in the class of 1900.

HOLIDAY PROGRAM AT THE PARK GOLF CLUB

SPECIAL EVENTS ON THE LINKS AND TENNIS COURTS.

According to the annual custom, the Park Golf Club has planned a program of special interest for Independence Day. The event of chief interest to the golfers will be the play for the Holiday cup. This will be a members' "dogey" handicap, 18-holes, match play. Scores may be turned in all day. The competitor who plays in the morning, may compete again in the afternoon. The scores, medal play, will also count for the Hydewood Park cup.

In the afternoon there will be an approaching and putting contest for mixed doubles, open to members and their guests, to start at 4 o'clock. During the afternoon there will be an informal reception and tea at the clubhouse.

Because of increased interest in lawn tennis, the board of governors decided a few weeks ago to build a court for the use of the members. The court will be ready for play tomorrow. The president, Charles W. McCutchen, has appointed the following lawn tennis committee: Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, chairman; Miss Lydie Loiseaux, Charles B. Morse. A nominal charge in addition to the regular dues will be made for tennis privileges, while a special associate tennis membership has been provided for members of the families of active or summer members, giving them all the privileges of the clubhouse and tennis courts for a reasonable charge.

ENDEAVORERS OFF TO SEATTLE CONVENTION.

New Jersey Delegation, Thirty Strong, Starts On Trip Across Continent.

Delegates, to the number of thirty, from this State to the annual convention of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, which opens in Seattle, Wash., July 10, started west yesterday morning, over the Lehigh Valley Railroad, in a special car attached to a regular train. Most of them boarded the car at Jersey City.

Among those who got on at the Market Street station, Newark, were John T. Sproull, president of the New Jersey Union, and Mrs. Sproull. Mr. Sproull wore a Christian Endeavor badge of diamonds and pearls. A. W. Abbott, of Orange, was in charge of the transportation arrangements. The party will stop off at several points of interest en route to and from Seattle.

Changing 'Phone Instruments.

The New York & New Jersey Telephone Company has begun the work of distributing new telephone instruments which will replace the old instruments throughout the city, borough and vicinity. There are 1,900 new instruments to be set up in connection with the work of moving into the new building on East Fourth street some time this month. It is planned to change the instruments on all party wires first, then those on direct wires. The work will be operated with the common-battery system, that is the battery will be located at the "central" office not in the instrument as at present. When the change is completed, the company expects to be in a position to handle all of the increased business which has been overcrowding the present office.

Woman's Missionary Meeting.

The Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the First Baptist church held its meeting yesterday afternoon in the lecture room, the devotional service being led by Mrs. Reuben Knox, and the theme, "Miriam of Thirst for Power." Resolutions of appreciation for the late Mrs. I. Manning Runyon and sympathy for her family were passed. It was voted to invite the semi-annual meeting of the East Association of the Woman's Baptist Foreign Missionary Society of New Jersey to come to the First Baptist church. The meeting will be held in October and will be a basket meeting.

Hazelwood Apgar Not So Well.

Hazelwood Apgar, the fourteen-year-old son of "Neaf" Apgar, of Clinton avenue, who was accidentally shot by his brother on Tuesday, while they were hunting woodcock, is reported at the hospital today as not being so well, and his condition is considered critical. The physician in charge has been afraid that peritonitis might develop from the gun shot wounds in the abdomen, it being impossible to remove one of the shots from that part of the body.

Police Salvage Bicycles.

Two bicycles were found by policemen last night. The owners can recover them by describing their property at police headquarters.

COL. TYLER'S FUNERAL

Bishop Scarborough Will Probably Conduct Service Friday Afternoon.

TRIBUTES OF RESPECT

Bar Association Takes Appropriate Action—Institution to Close On Friday.

The funeral service of Colonel Mason Whiting Tyler, whose death occurred suddenly at the Presbyterian Hospital, New York, yesterday, will be held from the late home on West Seventh street, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock. It is expected that the Rt. Rev. Dr. John Scarborough, Bishop of New Jersey, will conduct the service and be assisted by Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace church, of which Col. Tyler was a communicant. The interment will be in Hillside cemetery at the convenience of the family.

Last night at a regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, resolutions of sympathy were adopted as a memorial to Col. Tyler. The resolutions were proposed by L. V. F. Randolph, seconded by J. Evarts Tracy and unanimously adopted.

Owing to the death of Col. Tyler no business was transacted other than that of passing the monthly bills. The public library building will be closed Friday afternoon from 2:30 to 3:30, while the funeral service is being held. The resolutions adopted by the board follow:

"Resolved, That the members of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room are deeply afflicted in the death, this day occurring, of their esteemed and beloved president, Col. Mason W. Tyler.

"Resolved, That Col. Tyler's record as a citizen, a soldier, a patriot and a public officer, and in every relation of life which he was called to enter, reached over the highest and noblest standard possible to human attainment. He was never faithless to a duty, nor to a trust. His intellectual and moral inheritance and his superior ability and culture fitted him for exalted station and usefulness; and with these were combined a rare modesty and gentleness which endeared him to his friends and fellow citizens.

"Resolved, That to this Board of Directors the sorrow and loss attending his departure come with a deeper poignancy because of the fact that it was at his suggestion that the initiative was taken to organize this institution and to obtain suitable legislation therefor. More than a quarter of a century ago he was appointed a member of its first Board of Directors, assuming then a duty which he has continued to discharge until this day. For many years he has been the president of the Board, filling the place with great patience, wisdom and devotion. Generous in all the relations of life as he was, this library has particular cause to remember gratefully his generous gifts. He was always making sacrifices, as well as efforts, for its welfare; and on several occasions his handsome donations in money tided over the fiscal requirements of the institution when the exchequer was exhausted. Thus did he prove a friend in need, and a friend indeed, to this library and reading room.

"Resolved, That, bowing humbly to this bereavement, the members of this Board desire to record their loving appreciation of the character, work and merit of Col. Mason W. Tyler, and to extend to the members of his family the assurance of their deepest and tenderest sympathy."

INSTALLED OFFICERS.

Peter Bennett the New Head of Freedom Castle, K. G. E.

Installation of officers and initiation of two members took place at the regular meeting last night of Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle. The officers are as follows:

Past chief, Joseph Randall; noble chief, Peter Bennett; vice chief, Clarence Van Boren; high priest, G. H. Mowen; venerable hermit, Casper Waslow; sir herald, Arthur Caleen.

The boom for Past Chief Horace Martin for grand sir herald was enthusiastically launched. The installation was done by Deputy Grand Chief G. H. Moore and staff, of New Brunswick. The greetings will soon be suspended for the summer months.

Awaiting a Hearing.

Walter Banardo was arrested last night on Grove street, by Marshal Charles Keller, on a charge of drunkenness. He will be arraigned tonight before Recorder Dolliver.

Mr. and Mrs. John Gow, of Huntington, L. I., have been visiting the latter's sister, Mrs. Clarence Mundy, of Essex street.

NO STRIKE AT POND'S

Machinists Get Five Per Cent. Increase and Decide to Stay.

HOLD CLOSED MEETING

Vote to Remain On, and Give Up Demand For Pay-and-a-Half, At Reform Hall.

The machinists employed by the Niles-Bement-Pond company, who conduct what is popularly known as the Pond Tool Works, decided, last night, not to strike. Talk of strike has been indulged in by Pond machinists for several months.

The men wanted five per cent. increase in pay and pay-and-a-half for overtime. The company considered the demands, and conferences were held. Finally, the company decided to grant the five per cent. increase asked, but not to pay the advance for overtime. This decision was carried to the men, and they considered it.

The question was settled with finality at a closed meeting in Reform Hall last night. Only machinists employed at the Pond shop were admitted. After discussion, it was voted to accept the five per cent. increase, and not to press the time-and-a-half demand. That vote put the quietus on strike talk. The decision was generally satisfactory, and both men and management are relieved over the settlement of the matter.

MR. ACKERMAN'S MISSION

While Abroad Senator Will Investigate Effect of Death Penalty as Preventive of Crime

RECEIVES COMMISSION

Governor Delegates Him to Study Important Subject—Credentials From U. S. Sec'y. of State.

To further his plans for gathering information as to the infliction of the death penalty, and of laws designed to prevent the taking of human life, in Europe, Senator Ernest R. Ackerman has received a commission from Governor Stokes and a special letter of introduction from the acting secretary of State at Washington. Senator Ackerman will seek the data abroad for the commission of three appointed last winter by the Senate to investigate the subject of death penalties, and punitive measures for homicide. The committee will inquire into and report on the following points:

What the sentence of the law now is in the several States of the Union and the leading nations of Europe for crimes, particularly those involving the taking of human life. Whether the sentences, as originally pronounced, are usually carried into effect with strictness or are mitigated by a pardoning power. What the statutes of such States and Nations show as to the increase or diminution of crime, particularly those involving the taking of human life, with special reference to the increase or diminution after the changes in or mitigation of the penalty for such crimes. What changes (if any) in the statutes of this State relating to crimes and criminal procedure are demanded or suggested by an enlightened public opinion and by the data gathered in the inquiry.

The increase in the number of prisoners sentenced for murder and manslaughter indicates that the death penalty is not always a deterrent to the taking of human life. To what extent the death penalty prevents the taking of human life is considered by many as a subject open to inquiry. Objection to capital punishment is made on the ground that sometimes, through incorrect or circumstantial evidence, an innocent person may be put to death.

W. L. Smalley, Jr., Improving.

William L. Smalley, Jr., who was injured in a runaway yesterday morning, was reported today to be much improved. He will be removed from his brother's home on Craig place to his own home this afternoon.

Reappointed Library Directors.

Mayor Charles J. Fisk has appointed Alexander Gilbert, L. V. F. Randolph and William M. Stillman as directors of the Plainfield Public Library and Reading Room, for a term of three years. They succeed themselves.

ROWDIES ON THE LAKE

Pleasure of New Market Boating Parties Spoiled by Young Hoodlums.

ESCAPED PUNISHMENT

"Reception Committee" Waited for Them at the Dock, but They Ducked the Trouble They Shouted For.

Rowdies spoiled the boating on New Market lake Monday night. Rowing up and down the pretty little body of water in a skiff, they destroyed the pleasure of all other pleasure-seekers by the free use of loud and profane language, insulting remarks, and by ruffianly actions that more than once threatened injury to occupants of other boats.

There were six in the party of rowdies. It was said by Charles Rogers, of whom the boats on the lake are hired, that they were all Dunellen youths. They went out on the lake shortly after dark. At that time the lake was dotted with small craft, the warmth of the evening bringing out between fifty and sixty pleasure-seekers.

Almost as soon as they started out, the rowdies began to annoy the other parties. They made insulting remarks, which became worse in character as the youths drank up the beer they had managed to smuggle, in some way, into their boat. They replied to rebukes from young men in other boats by offering to fight, and shouted challenges and threats until young women on the lake became terrified.

Their conduct grew worse, and they finally took to throwing empty beer bottles into and at the other boats. Several rowers had narrow escapes from injury by the flying bottles. It wasn't long before the conduct of the hoodlums drove all but the hardiest young men from the lake.

There was an impromptu indignation meeting on the dock, in which Mr. Rogers took the lead. There was a speedy agreement that something was due the hoodlums, and several determined young men of lusty build drew together on the dock to await the coming of the rowdy boatload.

The boat in which the hoodlums rowed came to the dock in company with two or three others in which were young men. The "reception committee," not certain of the party sent Mr. Rogers to the water's edge to ask who it was that wanted fight. It was expected that the firecracker would become the chance to declare themselves and enjoy the mix-up for which they had been shouting, but expectations were not realized. All the young men said they were not looking for fight, and when the first to disclaim any martial spirit were those in the boat the "reception committee" was sure had been the source of trouble. They were not absolutely certain, however, and rather than risk punishing innocent persons, the "reception" was given up.

To prevent a recurrence of such an incident Mr. Rogers took steps yesterday to have a special officer detailed to patrol the lake in one of his skiffs on holidays, Sundays and evenings when the pleasure craft are in general use. Any manifestation of disorderly conduct will be stopped at once, and the offenders will be brought before Justice Von Minden, the records of whose court prove that hoodlums get short shrift at his hands.

Opposes Voting Machines.

A meeting of the Somerset County Democratic Executive Committee was held in Somerville yesterday. A resolution was passed condemning the voting machines. It was decided that hereafter members of the committee will be elected at the primaries, instead of being named by the delegates chosen for the county convention. This will do away with possible contests for a seat, like the recent one in North Plainfield.

Another Ice Trust.

Major Mike Edwards, who is taking a much needed rest at Block Island, has written to a friend here that he and his brother, Samuel Edwards, have purchased a large farm near that place. A big pond is located on the estate and the major expects to harvest a large supply of ice but he says it is a little early yet for his crop to mature.

New School Head.

Richard E. Clement, principal of School No. 5, was elected superintendent of schools at a meeting of the Board of Education, at Elizabeth, to succeed Dr. William J. Shearer last night. Three ballots were taken, the third giving the office to Mr. Clement by a vote of 7 to 5. He will continue in office for seven years.

Miss Amy L. Moore, of West Fourth street, is registered at the Bryant, Lake Hopatcong, for the week.

ALECK KANE'S STORY A BIG PIPE DREAM

MADE ON GROUNDLESS COMPLAINT AGAINST EFFICIENT OFFICIAL.

In passing the northwest corner of Third and New streets a few days ago, Alex. Kane, who deals in second hand lumber, believed he saw something that needed the attention of the Board of Health. He went before Inspector Addis and declared that Messrs. Abrams and Caulfield, who own the property at that location, were causing post holes to be dug alongside of a vault that had not been properly cleaned and that as a result various odors disturbed the neighborhood.

Addis investigated the premises and found that the vault had been taken care of but it had not been filled up and surface water had run into it. He directed that it be filled with ashes and the owners complied but Kane still insisted that the health ordinance was being violated and he preferred charges of "dereliction of duty" against Addis.

The matter came before Mayor Fisk and the Board of Health at its regular meeting yesterday afternoon and an attempt was made to sift the charges to the bottom. Kane insisted that the inspector had not attended to his duty properly while the accused official asserted that what he had done was ample under the circumstances. It became evident to the board that the only way to get the condition of affairs straightened out, was to visit the place and this was agreed upon.

This morning resident Hedges and Messrs. Davis, Kinney, and Dunham, of the board, together with Inspector Addis, went to the premises and had the vaulting dug up. The result was a complete vindication of Inspector Addis and a refutation of what Kane had alleged. There was nothing offensive in any part of the property and Kane's charge was described as "a pipe dream originduced by a vivid imagination." He was asked about the charge later in the day but he had nothing to say.

CARNIVAL TOMORROW.

Affair for Benefit of Fresh Air Home.

Everything is in readiness for the carnival to be held all day tomorrow for the benefit of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home. The affair will be held on the grounds adjoining the Home. Mrs. Herbert Henry is chairman of the general committee in charge, and her assistants are as follows: Mrs. Benjamin Hadley, Mrs. S. A. George, Mr. and Mrs. David Hand, Herbert Henry, George U. Hall, J. D. Moon, Mr. and Mrs. O. S. Lewis, Miss Florence G. Hawkins, Miss Ella Baron, Miss Emily Baron, Theodore Baron, Joseph M. Hawkins, Harold Roubert, Mr. and Mrs. Scriven, Miss Mary Giles, Miss Lilian Hardcastle and Benjamin Hadley.

At the Japanese booth a Japanese will sell and sell souvenirs, similar to the attraction at the "Floral Fete," held by the City Union, of The King's Daughters.

G. O. P. Adopt Amendments.

The City Republican Executive Committee met at the Casino, last night, and adopted the several amendments to the constitution, which were offered several weeks ago. The whole evening was devoted to a discussion of the changes, after which they were adopted as a whole. No other business of importance was considered.

No Police Inspection.

There will be no police inspection this year. The circus, the carnival and the horse show came just at the time it is usually held, and when the time of special demands on the department had passed it was too near the heated spell to arrange for a review. An inspection may be held in the fall, but it is not very likely.

Broke His Collar Bone.

The two-year old nephew of Mrs. Joseph C. Martin, of Bangor, Pa., who has been visiting here with his mother, fell out of bed a couple of days ago and fractured his collarbone. Dr. D. C. Adams set the bone and the little fellow is doing well.

Dislocated His Elbow.

Harry Freeman, a small boy living on Somerset street, was given a violent shove by a companion today. He fell to the ground and striking on his right arm, received a badly dislocated elbow. The injury was dressed by Dr. Dundon.

Dr. Hecht Refuses.

Dr. John P. Hecht, of Somerville, has refused to accept the appointment by Governor Stokes as a member of the Board of Managers of the New Jersey Tuberculosis Sanitarium at Glen Gardner and his resignation has been accepted.

Mrs. George Whitley, of Beverly, Mass., has returned to Plainfield to remain the greater part of the summer.

KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE

John Thys, a Former Well Known Plainfielder Run Down in New York City.

DIED IN THE HOSPITAL

Millionaire Owned Machine—Victim Was Brother of Mrs. Alex. Shotwell, of Pearl Street.

John Thys, a former well-known resident of this city, died in the Hudson street hospital, New York, late last night, as a result of injuries received when he was run down on Chambers street by a millionaire's automobile. There was nothing in his pockets to identify him and it was not until this morning that a slight clue was obtained that led to the knowledge being gained. The identification was made complete at noontime and Undertaker George W. Cole was sent for the body.

The old man who was about sixty years of age, was crossing diagonally from the south to the north side of Chambers street, opposite the City Paymaster's office, on his way home at a quarter to seven, when a forty-five horsepower auto, owned by Charles C. Tegethoff, running at high speed, as described by eye witnesses, and going east upon the wrong or left hand side of the street, caught him at the north side gutter, threw him some feet ahead and then ran over him, crushing him frightfully and causing a compound fracture of the skull.

The injured man was carried to the Hudson Street Hospital, where his injuries were pronounced fatal. He lingered until shortly before midnight.

Patrolman Henry Widder arrested the chauffeur, Edmund Roxby, of No. 66 Doscher street, Brooklyn, and took him and the three occupants of the car down to the Leonard Street Police Station. There Mr. Tegethoff and his two companions, William Perry, No. 557 Sterling place, Brooklyn, and W. B. Batser, of Boston, were permitted to go, while Roxby was held without bail to await the result of the victim's injuries.

Charles W. Tarbox, of No. 261 Broadway; W. W. Mullen, No. 191 West street; and J. Millin, No. 159½ Varick street, were held as witnesses to appear after Mr. Tegethoff and his friends departed, on the police theory that a mlillionaire who owns an auto has a ready-made reputation, while young men who don't own autos have to prove theirs.

Mr. Tegethoff has offices at No. 120 Broadway and is treasurer of the Railroad Security Company, the Sinnemahoning Iron and Coal Company and secretary-treasurer and director in eleven other coal, mining and railroad companies.

Mr. Thys had been living in Brooklyn, but came to Plainfield nearly every week to visit his sister, Mrs. Alex. Shotwell, of Pearl street. Another sister, Mrs. Solomon Flagg, lives at Greenville.

CITY HEALTH CONDITIONS CONTINUE TO BE GOOD.

Very Few Cases of Contagious Diseases Reported During June.

The reports presented at the July meeting of the Board of Health, yesterday, show that the city is unusually free from communicable disease, there being but three cases of scarlet fever and five cases of diphtheria reported during the month of June. Since that time three cases of chicken pox and two of measles were reported.

These permits were granted: To sell milk—stores, A. Emery, 942 West Third street; Michael Mongan, 320 Richmond street; Anders Anderson, 659 West Fourth street. Retail, James J. Borrup, 732 Central avenue; Mary Bowden, 1625 West Third street. To conduct barber shops, William Claassen, James H. Bolling. To sell ice, Natural Ice Company, John Morton, F. T. Ostrom. To collect garbage, George Christiansen, D. J. Galbraith's plumber's bond was ordered filed.

Considerable work was done during the month on dairy inspection and milk analysis. A sample of every milk sold in Plainfield is analyzed each month and records are on the bulletin board in the office of the Board of Health, where they can be seen at any time, together with the inspection of the dairies.

During June there were reported fifteen marriages, twenty-six births, one still-birth and twenty-one deaths.

Miss Edith Haffner, of East Fifth street, is spending the summer in various parts of Massachusetts.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Johnson, of Columbus, O., were guests the past few days of the former's cousin, Edward Sterwald, of East Second street. They made the trip East by auto and were greatly pleased with the country in this section.

SCHOOL BOARD'S DILEMMA

Berkely Heights Lacking in Proper Accomodations For Pupils.

THE LAW VIOLATED

Must Provide More Room But Just How to Do It Causes Much Agitation.

A division in sentiment over the need of more school room and the projected improvements to the Plainfield avenue public school of Berkeley Heights has thrown the citizens of that section of New Providence township into a controversy which may drag along indefinitely, to the detriment of educational development. Owing to the rapid growth and increase in population the present schoolhouse has become inadequate and more room is necessary to accommodate the pupils. During the last term County Superintendent of Schools W. J. Shearer, of Elizabeth, paid a visit to the local schoolhouse and was surprised to find that there were more pupils in the schoolroom the present structure could properly accommodate. He also discovered that the State law was being violated by the Board of Education in allowing two teachers to instruct as many classes in one room. Superintendent Shearer called the attention of the members of the school board to the state of affairs and ordered that steps be taken to provide more room and to comply with the state law in reference to having but one teacher for each room.

When the result of Superintendent Shearer's visit became generally known agitation at once began for better school facilities. William Jeffery, the former Plainfield real estate operator who has been engaged in developing a section on the north side of the Lackawanna Railroad tracks, offered the suggestion that the school board build a new school for the accommodation of first and second year pupils on the north side. He based his arguments for this course on the fact that out of the ninety-eight pupils enrolled eighty reside on that side of the track, while but eighteen have their homes on the southern side where the school is now located. Mr. Jeffery favors as a site for a new building a plot of ground about one mile distant from the Plainfield avenue school. A majority of citizens, it is said, also favor the same idea as entertained by Jeffery, as does Councilwoman Joseph Kunz. Despite the sentiment in favor of a new school for the younger children it is believed that a majority of the members of the school board are against making an expenditure for a new structure and will try to improve matters by building an addition to the present structure.

In the belief that the members of the board would show their hands at the monthly meeting last night it was predicted that a lively session would take place, but everything passed off serenely and not a grain of excitement enlivened the meeting. Perhaps this was due to the absence of Mr. Jeffery, who was detained in New York and who was unable to be present, at any rate Committeeman Kunz did not advocate the erection of a new structure to accommodate the overflow of young pupils. The meeting was held in the schoolhouse which was dimly lighted for the occasion by a single kerosene lamp. The deliberations of the board were cut short at 9:30 owing to a limited supply of oil.

Ways and means to bridge over the difficulty were talked over in a calm manner, with Casper Fox, the president of the board, presiding over the meeting. Owing to the many formalities required by the State school law it was decided that it would be impossible to build an addition and have it completed before next fall. Sentiment among the members was divided as to whether it would be advisable to build another story on the top of the present building or erect a one-story room to the present structure. However, George Wahl was appointed a committee of one to procure plans and bids from an architect without delay.

Louis Burgmiller, clerk of the board, was authorized to visit Superintendent Shearer, for the purpose of ascertaining whether the board would be complying with the law relative to having but one teacher in each room by erecting partitions through the room now occupied by two teachers, and thereby making two rooms, with the expectation of making the improvements a year later.

In case Superintendent Shearer decides that this method will not be within the bonding of the law the committeemen will find themselves up a tree and unable to provide more room by the time school reopens in September. Before the improvements can be started it will be necessary for the voters to endorse the action of the board on the matter of appropriations to carry through the project. More time will be taken in submitting the plans to the State Board for their approval.

In talking to a number of citizens before the meeting last night, a Daily Press reporter discovered that the sentiment was largely in favor of the erection of a new school for first and second year pupils, and it is probable that a call for a public meeting will be made in the near future by the advocates of the Jeffery idea in view of crystallizing the sentiment in this direction.

Committeeman Wahl does not favor the idea of erecting a new school because he says it would cost too much money. "We can fix up the present school for $2,000, where if we went on the other side of the track and built a new one, we would have to buy ground, and go to other expenses," said Mr. Wahl to the Press man.

Mr. Wahl believes in keeping expenses down to rock bottom on other matters also. During the meeting when the committee on teachers reported that slight increases in salaries had been made, Mr. Wahl voiced his disapproval of the course taken by the committee. He inquired of Chairman Fox "why the salaries had been boosted?"

Mr. Fox responded by informing the members that the teachers insisted on advancement with threats to quit if they did not receive them.

"These teachers are getting just as bad as the unions, and I don't think they should be allowed to believe that they can pull the members of the board around by their noses any way they like," added Mr. Wahl.

"Well, beef and dresses are getting higher every year," retorted Committeeman Johnson, and the colloquy ceased.

Clerk Burgmiller reported a balance of $24.12 on hand, with $22.50 due for janitor's services. Before the meeting closed Mr. Burgmiller was re-elected clerk for another year at an annual salary of $25, and allowance for postage.

SCHOOL BOARD HASN'T BOUGHT ANOTHER LOT

SECRETARY WOODHULL DENIES REPORT ABOUT NEW BUILDING.

A report current in certain quarters, that the Board of Education had purchased a lot on West Front which the Irving School draws its attendance, was flatly denied by Secretary Floyd T. Woodhull, of the board, this morning. He said there was no foundation for the report.

"I have heard no hint of such action or contemplated action on the part of the Board," he said, "and I rather thing I would know if the Board had taken such action.

"As a matter of fact, the Board would not be likely to have the money for such purchase. Arrangements have just been completed for the erection of a school at Darrow avenue and Fourth street, to take the place of the Washington school, and the expenditures on that will use pretty much all the money available for such purposes. Moreover, the new school has been so designed as to meet all requirements for room for several years. It was announced at the time the plans were made public, that the Darrow avenue building, in conjunction with the Irving school, would be ample to care for all the pupilsof the West End for a number of years. Under such conditions, the necessity for immediate preparation for another new school is not apparent.

Epworth League Lawn Party.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church, together with its friends to the number of about sixty, enjoyed the last social of the season, last night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Y. Hull, of East Second street. The affair was in the nature of a lawn party, and the evening was spent in playing all sorts of games. The grounds were decorated with lanterns and American flags. Miss Helen Whitney, as chairman of the social committee, had charge of the affair, while Miss Louise Sayre planned the evening's entertainment. Refreshments consisting of lemonade and cake were served by the committee.

PLAYED STREET PIANO.

Two scraggly-looking Italians were drumming out indefferent tunes from a street piano in Somerville Friday afternoon, receiving little or no renuneration, when James C. Wyckoff, a prominent business and society man of Raritan, ordered them to cease the instrument and handled the crank himself for about fifteen minutes.

Some sprightly music issued from the "organ" and a large crowd collected to witness the performance. When Mr. Wyckoff got tired he took off his hat and went among the audience and took up a collection. The Italians were enriched by several dollars as a result of Mr. Wyckoff's good work.

Mayor Fisk Acquires More Property.

The J. H. Poillon property at W. Seventh street and Madison avenue, and which was owned by H. B. Coombe, of Madison avenue, has been sold to Mayor Charles J. Fisk and A. H. Atterbury. The property has a frontage of 107 feet on West Seventh street, adjoining Mr. Atterbury's property, and a depth of 200 feet on Madison avenue, adjoining Alexander Millar's property. The property was purchased for speculative purpose, it being the intention of the purchasers to prevent the erection of undesirable houses in that neighborhood.

DR. RUSH RHEES ON FAITH

College President Warns the Young Men Against the Spirit of Doubt.

"UPWARD SUMMONS"

"Thinking Men Today." He Declares, "Are Disturbed by the Travesty of Religion."

Dr. Rush Rhees, president of the University of Rochester, who is a former resident and frequent visitor in Plainfield, preached a remarkable sermon before the graduating class of that year of learning last week. His subject was faith.

The text of President Rhees' sermon was taken from the fourteenth *verse of the third chapter of Philip*pians, which reads: "I press toward the goal for the prize of the upward calling of God in Christ Jesus." The substance of the forceful sermon was: Thinking men today are disturbed by the travesty of religion. The great additions to scientific knowledge has dissipated faith in Scriptural teachings to a great extent and "have raised a mist which conceals God." The power and vitality which gave the upward calling its victory in the early centuries are somewhat inert today. Yet those who have faith should not abandon it for forego the power and inspiration of real religion because its travesty is common, even as they would not discard wisdom because is can be feigned. One should listen to the "upward summons" and live his life as it directs.

In concluding his sermon Dr. Rhees spoke to the graduates as follows:

"You are on the threshold of a life which calls you henceforth to walk in different paths. It calls some of you to further study, some to ministry in one or another form, some to professional activity, and some to business cares and aims. The upward summons which God issues to you is not alternative to these. If God is near, and we akin to him, all tasks are sacred that are worthy of us and of him. And the upward summons reaches us, in all alike lower and earthlier aims insistently urge themselves upon us. The spiritual inertia that resists all progress invades the cloister and the study as freely as the mart and counting-house. It is only a life of progress, of spiritual endeavor, of resistance to the currents which keep by us set toward the lower levels of life from which we and our fathers have emerged. These currents know no barrier which shuts a sacred calling from a secular.

"We cry out much today against what we call the commercial spirit. We make lamentation that it contaminates lives set apart to ministry for soul or mind or body, that it puts a price on manhood and honor and integrity, and boasts that all or any of these may be bartered in its market. But this is not the commercial spirit. This is the old foul-visaged vice of avarice. The spirit of commerce is an agency of progress. It discovers new worlds, it invents economics, it multiplies provisions for human wants, it serves our life in countless noble ways. It incurs peculiar danger, for the prize of its success is gold, the object of man's greed from his early days of barbarism until now. But that greed is a stain upon the commercial spirit, even as it is the curse of men with itching palm in every walk of life.

"The upward summons cries out in the market and the counting room as loudly as by the bedside of the sick, in the council room of the attorney, in the quiet of the study, in the closet of the preacher calling men to the triumphant upright life. It is the daily task or walk of life to love God first, and all Jesus Christ, a call to the adoration of truth, and holiness and goodness; a call to joy in moral progress; a call to hope for life's triumph over sin and death, as Christ has triumphed for us. That summons is a call to love our neighbors fully, in commerce and in every other occupation, to confess the pricelessness of human life, the appealing claim of a brother's soul in the clear, persuasive plea for sympathy with my neighbor alike in his joy and in his sorrow, as the Master valued life and ministered to need and opened his heart to every pulsing of his fellow's life. And the prize is the fulfilled life. That it is fulfillment our own ideals declare, that it is fulfillment the record of history demonstrates, that it is fulfillment is seeen supremely in the simple fact of the present masterhood of the meek and lowly friend of publicans and sinners. Here is the light to guide your path, whatever task you undertake, wherever life places you, however it may help you in with difficulties or temptations—God's summons to the Godlike life.

"Not of the sunlight,
Not of the moonlight,
Not of the starlight!
O young mariner,
Down to the haven,
Call your companions,
Launch your vessel,
And crowd your canvas,
And, ere it vanishes
Over the margin,
After it, follow it,
Follow the Gleam.
"Follow it for the prize of the upward calling of God in Jesus Christ."

SAVED BY HIS FATHER

Five-year-old Kenneth Egany Rescued From Peril of Flames.

HAD SET HIMSELF AFIRE

Usual Result Followed Game With Matches—Father's Nearness and Prompt Action All That Prevented Serious Accident.

Kenneth Egany, the five-year-old son of Thomas Egany, 701 West Fourth street, was severely burned on the right knee at 7:30 Saturday morning as a result of playing with matches. He was saved from more serious injury by his father, who was fortunately nearby when the boy's garment burst into flame.

Kenneth was playing on the back porch. His father, a short distance away, was cutting the grass in the yard. The boy, unknown to his parents, had secured possession of some matches, and he started fooling with them. He set fire to a piece of paper, and in watching that burn up he went too near it. He was wearing a "Rough Rider" suit, loosely made of thin cloth, and the flapping trousers caught fire swiftly as a tongue of flame touched them.

The boy screamed as the fire flared up, and his father's attention was instantly draw to him. Egany dashed for his son, and caught him up without thought of his own danger. He rolled the boy on the damp grass, and put out the flames.

Kenneth's right knee was badly burned. Dr. A. K. Brennan, of Grant avenue, who was summoned, dressed the injury. He said it was severe, but not dangerous.

WARREN CHAPEL FUND NOW REACHES $850

CHURCH SOCIETIES' FESTIVAL NETS ABOUT $175.

The strawberry and ice cream festival was continued Thursday under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor, Missionary and Aid societies, *of Warren chapel, with marked suc*cess. The affair was held on the large lot at Somerset street and Fairview avenue, and the net proceeds were for the furnishing fund of the new chapel now building on Watchung avenue. The societies want to raise $1,000 for this purpose by September 1, and they will undoubtedly succeed, as there is now over $850 in the treasury, the festival netting about $175.

The grounds were attractively decorated with Japanese lanterns, 250 of them being suspended about the place and around the many handsomely decorated booths. In addition there were fourteen tables, where ice cream, cake and strawberries were served. These were presided over by waitresses, members of the various societies.

The various chairmen were as follows: Ice cream, Miss Hattie Squier; strawberries, Mrs. John Schenck; cake, Mrs. J. H. Snyder; candy, Miss Nora B. Schenck; lemonade, Charles Bryan; flowers, Mrs. Joseph O. McKelvey. The chairmen all had an efficient corps of workers from the Christian Endeavor, Missionary and Aid societies.

Among those who assisted in making the affair a success were Mr. and Mrs. John Dickson, for the use of their home, adjoining the lot where the festival was held; J. S. Gayett for the loan of dishes; Mark Lees for cutting grass; Joseph Parlee and J. H. Snyder for carting; Miss May Bennett, the efficient cashier; Theodore Martin, as general manager of the grounds, and Charles Windham, Thomas Tuner, John Schuck and Francis Caldwell, all of whom contributed their services without charge.

One of the special attractions of the evening was the music by the Liberty Band, of this city. A fine program of popular selections were rendered by the band to the enjoyment of the large crowd.

Ridding the City of Elm Beetle.

The tree commission appointed by Mayor Charles J. Fisk several weeks ago, and of which Elliott T. Barrows is the chairman, has purchased a tree sprayer and F. J. Martin, of the Yale School of Forestry, has been engaged to spray the elm trees of the city to rid them of the beetle. The tree commission proposes to rid the city of the elm trees as fast as practicable, and in their places will set out trees of other varieties which are not so susceptible to bugs and other pests.

Passed Organist Examination.

Mrs. C. F. Odell, of Tarrytown, N. Y., who was formerly organist at the Church of the Holy Cross, recently passed successfully the American Guild of Organist Examination and has in consequence received the Associate degree of the Guild. The examiners for the occasion were Samuel P. Warren and Horatio Parker, of Yale University.

DROWNED IN MILL RACE

Two - Year - Old Girl Meets Death in Shadow of Her Home.

NO CHANCE FOR LIFE

Fell From Bank Unseen, and Dead When Absence Was Discovered —Grief-Stricken Parents In a Frenzy.

Mary Roussio, two years old, daughter of Oresta Roussio, an Italian laborer, was drowned in the mill race at the Watchung avenue bridge Friday afternoon. Her four-year-old sister, who had been sent out to watch her, and an Italian man who was walking along the bank, were looking in another direction when the child fell in, and she died before a hand could be extended to help her.

Mary was the youngest of three children. The other child was sent out with her from the Roussio home, back of the Y. M. C. A., near the bank of the raceway, for an airing, shortly before three o'clock. Salvi Viacebo, a boarder in the Roussio home, was walking up and down the bank not far from them. The elder child relaxed her vigilance over Mary and allowed the tot to toddle away alone. Viacebo walked in another direction, with his back to Mary, and the little one was unwatched.

Suddenly Viacebo heard a scream. "Mary is gone," cried the dereliict "little mother." Viacebo ran to her, and looked about. A second glance rested on the edge of a tiny dress that showed above the waters of the race.

He seized hold of it and drew the body of Mary to the bank. The child was stone dead. Viacebo ran with the body to the house, and then sped to Dr. A. C. Goswell's office. The physician responded at once, but there was nothing he could do. He said the child must have died swiftly. It took but little water to fill the tiny lungs and still her heart.

Mrs. Roussio's grief over the death of Mary is inconsolable. The father came home a few minutes after the accident, and his frenzy almost equalled that of the mother. When Policeman Charles Flynn, who was sent to investigate the case when it was reported to the police a few minutes after the drowning, reached the place, husband and wife were carrying on like people possessed.

County Physician Westcott was notified of the drowning. Permit for burial was given today. The child will be buried tomorrow in St. Mary's cemetery.

FESTIVAL A SUCCESS.

Outdoor Affair for Benefit Faith Chapel Liberally Patronized.

Under the auspices of the Baraca Class and one of the men's Bible classes, of Faith chapel, a successful lawn festival was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles C. LaRue, on East Second street, Friday night. The grounds were decorated with Japanese and Chinese lanterns and flags and there were several attractive booths. There was a large attendance of members and friends of the chapel and liberal patronage was accorded. All of the members of the Baraca and Bible classes assisted in making the festival a success. The proceeds will be for the benefit of the chapel building fund.

The general committee in charge comprised Mrs. Gilbert VanNest, Mrs. Charles Griffen, Mrs. C. E. Myers, Mrs. W. C. LaRue, Mrs. William Peck. Those at the lemonade booth were the Mrs. Helen Myers, Bessie Anson, Nina Stevens, Gertrude Winbrock and Bertha Van Nest. The decorations were arranged by C. E. Myers, Christopher Uzinger and Gilbert Van Nest and the refreshment committee comprised F. S. Stewart, William Conger and U. B. Crane.

BOYS WHO STOLE BIKE SENT TO REFORMATORY.

Lifted the Machines From a Moving Van Left Over Night at Bound Brook.

In the Somerset County Courts in Somerville, *Friday, James Man*ero and Benjamin Lombardo, of Bound Brook, pleaded guilty to stealing a bicycle from John H. King's van in Bound Brook some time ago and were sent yb Judge Schenck to the State home for boys at Jamesburg. John Lombardo, of the same place, pleaded the same way to the same charge and was sentenced to be in charge of Probation Officer John B. Osbourn for one year.

When the ocense was committed, John H. King was moving the household effects of Oscar Sharp from Somerville to Newark and the van stood over night in Bound Brook. The boys took the bike and repainted it, put on an old pair of pedals and an old seat, with the result that the owner of the wheel himself could scarcely recognize it when it was recovered by County Detective Tuten, who made the arrest.

The case of Joseph Sansone, charged with contempt of court, was again postponed for one week.

Sued By Neckwear Company.

Simon Hergman, of this city, has been sued on contract in the District Court, by the Majestic Neckwear Company, of New York. Francis J. Blatz is the plaintiff's lawyer. The case will be heard July 9.

SCREEN LAW AND POLICE

That Section of the Law to Be Rigidly Enforced in Elizabeth.

REPORT TO PROSECUTOR

They Now Know Where They Stand, Chief Says, and Will Act—Much Excitement at County Seat.

All violations of the screen clause of the bishops' law will be noted by the police on all Sundays hereafter and reported to Prosecutor English and the Excise Board according to a statement made by Chief of Police Tenney yesterday. The police have likewise been notified to keep a sharp lookout for violations of the law by selling liquor on Sunday, and wherever possible to make arrests.

The police compelled a pretty general observance of the screen clause last Sunday, but it will be even more strictly obeyed tomorrow, if promises are made good. Previous to Justice Swayze's charge regarding screens the police were not sure just what inns and taverns had the right to keep the interior of their bars concealed on Sunday. They now intend to report all inns and taverns that have not ten spare rooms for the accommodation of guests as violators of the law if screens or other obstructions to a full view are found in their windows. The law has previously been an assumption that inns and taverns, regardless of their accommodations, had a right to keep up their screens.

The police officials have also been in doubt as to the proper authorities to whom violations of the screen clause should be reported. The method proposed, reporting to both the Prosecutor and the Excise Board, hardly decides the question, but it answers the purpose.

None perhaps is more interested in the outcome of the case which is being tried in Trenton to test the legality of the screen clause in the bishops' law than Chief Tenney. The Chief said yesterday morning, however, that until an adverse decision was given by the Court of Errors and Appeals, the clause would be enforced there.

There is no denying, not even by the officials themselves, that the instructions of Justice Swayze and the work of the Grand Jury have at least cleared the air and put it squarely up to the authorities to prevent violations of the provisions of the bishops' bill.

Just what the police will do regarding the sale of liquor in clubs, if that element continue in spite of the Grand Jury's instructions, they find it hard to figure out. None but members are admitted to clubs and no*body expects them to "peach" even* if liquor should be sold contrary to law. The police say that while they may be morally certain that liquor is sold in some clubs they must have legal evidence before they can take action.

No club in Elizabeth, under the court's recent instructions, has the right to sell liquor now at any time. It is expected that some will apply for licenses soon.

SUB-CONTRACT MADE ON THE SEWER WORK

DUNELLEN CEMENT COMPANY TO ERECT PUMPING STATION.

Peter Morgan, of Poughkeepsie, who has the contract for building the southside sanitary sewer, has been considerable trouble in securing a sub-contractor to construct the house and opening for the installation of the pumping station on Randolph road. Cormick Caufield, the mason, was the first one to take the subcontract, and when he examined the plans in detail and learned that he had to go down a number of feet below the water line, he gave up the job.

Other contractors were sought, in Plainfield and New York, but the figures were so high that Mr. Morgan declined to accept them. Finally, the Dunellen Cement Company was induced to take the contract, but it is said that that company will find it difficult to complete the work at the figures named and make much profit.

The vault into which the machinery is to be installed is to be constructed of concrete and must be perfectly waterproof. The fact that there is water to be contended with in the construction work, makes it much more expensive. However, it is a matter that Mr. Morgan will have to settle and the work must be done according to the plans. Any loss, if there is one, will have to be borne by Mr. Morgan and the sub-contractor.

Jacob Weinberger an Incorporator.

Jacob Weinberger, of this city, is one of the incorporators of the W. W. Amusement Company, which was incorporated at Trenton yesterday with capital stock of $150,000. The registered office is in Plainfield. The company is to conduct general theatricals. The other incorporators are Isidor Weiss and William Hauser.

BACK TO REFORMATORY

Frank Mulliner's Parole Was Brought to an End in City Court Today.

NEGLECTED HIS FAMILY

Ran After Young Servant Girl and Threatened Her Employer— Weeps As Officer Takes Him in Custody.

Informed of the arrest of Frank Mulliner, of Dunellen, a paroled prisoner, on a charge of making threats, Chief Parole Officer Charles Moore, of Rahway Reformatory, attended the hearing in the city court, Friday. When the testimony was all in he decided that Mulliner was wanted at the institution again, and he made the formal demand that his terminated the young man's freedom.

Mulliner was sent to the Reformatory from Peapack three years ago under conviction for a grave crime. He was twenty-two years old at the time. He was released on parole last winter, and went to live in Dunellen with his wife and two children.

He broke his parole by neglecting his family almost immediately. Mrs. Mulliner was forced to make complaint to Moore at that time, and the latter told Judge Runyon this morning that he wanted to take Mulliner into custody then. The young man pleaded for another chance, and was given it.

Recently, Mulliner became interested in a young servant girl working for a man living on West Sixth street, and he again neglected his wife and children. Mrs. Mulliner learned of the servant's part in the affair, and she went to the girls' mistress. She aroused the latter's sympathy, and the women told her husband. He watched for Mulliner's coming, and the next time the young man appeared he ordered him from the place and forbade him to come there again. Mulliner adopted a defiant attitude, and after blackening his wife's character vilely, made threats against the servant's employer. His arrest followed.

Mrs. Mulliner told her story of neglect and non-support to City Judge Runyon Friday morning. Mulliner tried to belittle the story and the charge against him, but the evidence was conclusive.

"Mulliner," said the magistrate, "the Reformatory has first call on you, and Mr. Moore is here to say whether or not the institution desires you to come back. If he doesn't want you, I will hold you for the Grand Jury."

"He has broken his parole," said Moore. "I will take him with me."

"Don't take me from my two children," pleaded Mulliner.

"You didn't think of your children when you ran after that young girl," said Moore. "I have no sympathy for you. I should have taken you back to the institution when your wife complained last spring."

Mulliner broke into tears. He was sobbing as he was led from him, handcuffed, from the station house.

Mrs. Mulliner will be assisted by the woman for whom the servant girl works.

FESTIVAL SUCCESSFUL.

Affair of Girls' Mission Club Enjoyed By Large Crowd.

Success attended the ice cream and strawberry festival of the Girls' Mission Club of the Congregational church last night. It was held on the lawn before the church. The attendance and the proceeds were large. The latter will go into the mission fund of the club.

The grounds were hung prettily with Chinese lanterns. Rustic seats added to the decorative effect. Strawberries, ice cream, lemonade, and cake were served.

The booth in charge was made up of the Misses Ethel McIntosh, Marjory Phillips, Maud Emmons, and Edith Bentley. They were assisted in serving by the Misses Edna Smith, Ida Dealaman, Laura Baker and Miss Lillian Whitall.

PLEAD TO INDICTMENTS.

There were several arraignments Friday in the Union County Court before Judge Edward S. Atwater. Charles Weidenhoffed, indicted for assault and battery on former Alderman George W. Horre, of Elizabeth, pleaded not guilty, and his bail was fixed at $200. George Fox, an Elizabeth ice dealer, indicted for atrocious assault on Policeman William E. Lloyd, pleaded not guilty, and his bail was fixed at $1,000.

Clarence Cree, of Elizabeth, was indicted for cruelty to animals, and Assistant Prosecutor John K. Eastlish informed the court that from the evidence he had obtained the State could not secure a conviction. Therefore, the indictment was thrown out.

Furnishing Fund Over $1,000.

The proceeds from the strawberry festival Thursday night, placed the total of the furnishing fund of the new chapel over the $1,000 mark. It was erroneously stated that the amount in hand was about $850. The chapel societies had set September as the time limit in which to secure $1,000 for the purpose but the energy with which everyone worked resulted in accomplishing it over two months ahead.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

July 7: "Christian Citizenship"—Public affairs a divine trust—Rom. xiii. 1-7.

By REV. WALTER J. YOUNG, D. D.

Passages for reference—Deut. 16, 20, 21; I Pet. ii. 13-17.

This theme is a timely one for study by the leagues. The attention of all classes of people is being given more than ever before to the betterment of social conditions, the fuller recognition of the rights of wage earners, the regulation of corporations and railroads in the interests of the general public, the better government of municipalities controlled by wealth and the mob.

To many close observers of the signs of the times it appears that society is on the eve of a vast readjustment. Social questions have been stirred in recent years more than in the period of many generations. There is reason for this in the profound changes which have taken place in the condition of the common people of all civilized lands during the past hundred years. Perhaps it would be more accurate to say that we are in the very midst of a mighty social and political revolution which has already shifted much which was supposed to be immovable and may alter much more. Some of the wisest thinkers predict that society will be reconstructed on broader and more equitable lines which shall secure the well being of all members of the community.

A flood of talk and writing on this subject is being forth in magazine and in this country. All sorts of theories are abroad and are finding ardent advocates. Nearly all have more or less to do with a new form of government control of various matters. The nature, powers and limitations of government are receiving the closest scrutiny. Old beliefs are fast giving way to ideas which but a few years since received scant recognition.

A significant fact in this whole agitation is that many of the most influential and wisest of the friends of the workingman and lower classes of society have no sympathy with the Christian church in any form. Not a few even charge that Christians have taken little or no interest in this movement for the betterment of the condition of men. This charge is unfair because in nearly every community the local church is active in the relief of distress of every kind, far more than is known by those who are not closely identified with its work.

The most hopeful sign which we see regarding this whole matter is the increasing interest which Christian people are taking in it.

The first thing which needs to be settled is the real source of the powers of government. On this point we need to stand immovable. All government of man derives its authority from God. This truth is imbedded in human nature and is unalienable. All men have rights and duties, and the province of government is to secure those rights, righteousness, justice and mercy. Every Christian is bound to honor those powers in authority. In this land especially it becomes the duty of every Christian to be intelligent on all questions of public interest, to bear his full share of public burdens and with influence and integrity throw all possible influence against public corruption of every sort.

It has been said that the league has not given so much attention to good citizenship discussion as some other young people's societies. However this may be, we cannot decide, but it would be well if every chapter would enter heartily upon a chosen study of this subject as connected with Christian duty. Loyalty to Jesus Christ and true patriotism demand of us the practice and propagation of Christian citizenship of the highest type. The danger from false views and practices can be counteracted only by setting forth the true and right.

True Beauty.

That is not the most perfect beauty which in public would attract the greatest observation; nor even that which the sanctuary would exalt to be a faultless glass of virtue, decked up with lilies. For that is that beauty which has not only a substance, but a spirit—a beauty that we love intimately know, ready to place into a beauty lights or to observation, where the mind radiates through its casket, whence the language of the poet, "the crimson blood spoke in her cheeks and so excellently wrought that we might almost say her body thought," an order within most of beauty which, if we rightly know, the more we accuse ourselves for not having before discovered those thousand graces which bespeak that their owner has a soul. This is that beauty that never clogs, possessing charms as restless as the fascinating Egyptian for whom Antony wisely paid the bauble of the world—a beauty like the rising of his own Italian suns, always enchanting, never the same.—Rev. C. C. Colton.

Open the Door.

Open the door; let in the air!
The winds are sweet, and flowers are fair;
Joy is abroad in the world today;
If your door is wide, it may come this way.

Open the door!

Open the door; let in the sun!
Speak a smile for every one;
He hath made of the raindrops gold and gems,
He may change our tears to diadems.

Open the door!

Open the door of the soul; let in Strong, pure thoughts which shall banish sin;
They will grow and bloom with a grace divine,
And their fruit shall be sweet as that of the vine.

Open the door!

Open the door of the heart; let in
Sympathy for a world of kin.
Then will your own heart be open so fair
That even God will be pleased to enter there.

Open the door!

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning July 7.

By REV. S. H. DOYLE.

Topic—How our lives may be consecrated to our country.—Lev. xxii. 1-42.

One hundred and thirty-one years ago on last Thursday, July 4, the Declaration of American Independence was signed, and the aspirations of the colonists for liberty and self government made a mighty stride. In war, under the leadership of Washington, the colonists gained their independence, which they had already justly and rightly theirs. Their ambition was not simply to be independent of England, but to establish on our shores a great nation. They were men "with empires in their brains," and they aimed to work out their inward thoughts into a great nation, one that should be "a crown of glory in the hand of the Lord and a royal diadem in the hand of God." This was the dream of Isaiah for Israel in the land of Babylon. It was a dream that was realized and to be adorned with righteousness and salvation that should shine to other nations. He wanted the people prepared for the part they were to take in the upbuilding and preservation of the nation. And these ambitions were afterward fulfilled. So they have been in the history of America, beyond all conceptions of the founders of the nation, and the duty still remains for the people to do their part in sustaining and perpetuating the nation's life.

No American citizen should feel it a burden or an irksome task to consecrate his life to his country. In no other country are the ideals so high; in no other is so much liberty enjoyed; in no other are the opportunities of advancement for the individual as great; in no other are the people so closely bound together and the interests of all so nearly one. The enemies of the nation are the enemies of all, and the ship of state is never without many dangers. In our land the vast accumulations of wealth by the few is a menace to our land. The rapid spread of socialism, which in some cases at least is but a cover for anarchism, is another danger. The complicated problems connected with regulation of the vast enterprises of our land are no light matter. All fraud and dishonesty must be removed from the business world, but great caution must be exercised not to disturb legitimate business by illegitimate methods of business. The new enterprises in which our nation is engaging, such as the Panama canal, call for the heartiest support of the entire nation; the evident tendency to centralize the government and to restrict the individual is one of state rights in their relation to the central government is a subject of a most serious character, and every true and patriotic American owes it to his country to keep abreast with the times, to keep in touch with the issues of the day and to give his best thought and judgment to the solution of the hard problems, as well as to enjoy the unparalleled prosperity with which God has blessed us.

In consecrating our lives to our country we should stand everywhere and always for national righteousness, for "righteousness exalteth a nation;" we should respect officeholders for the sake of their office, though reserving the right to criticise any official's action; we should be ready at any time to defend the flag against any foe, and above all, as Christians, we should do our best to possess the entire land for Christ. A Christless and Godless nation is doomed to destruction.

BIBLE READINGS.

Exra vi. 8-10; Neh. ii. 1-5; Prov. xiv. 24; Jer. xxix. 7; Matt. xviii. 24-27; xxii. 15-21; xxiii. 37; Mark xii. 13-17; Luke xii. 34; Rom. xiii. 7; I Tim. ii. 1-2; Heb. ii. 5-10.

Characteristic of Secretary Shaw.

It was characteristic of William Shaw, the new general secretary of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, to acknowledge a message of personal congratulation in these words:

"I appreciate that there are many things that I cannot do, but the one thing that I am sure that I can do is to use every ounce of strength that I have for the purpose of Christian Endeavor, which has meant everything to me."

A Miracle.

Here is a striking sentence from a Hindoo Christian Endeavorer: "If a thousand beads and eyes are made one, is not that a great miracle? But that is what is being done through Christ in bringing together men of every sort in unity with Him."

What the Pledge Card Said.

A little pledge card in a heap of crumpled papers lay.
I bent to read, and this is what I heard the pledge card say:
"Oh, once my heart was clean and bright,
And once my coat was new.
And once my owner, noble lad, was bold and true.
And once his Bible was my home, and every morn and night
I caught the owner's earnest eye aglow with happy light.
My signature was fresher then—the ink But now, alas, an outcast wait and wanderer am I.
I'm faded to a skeleton, and slowly day by day
My bonds and feet, my eyes and tongue, have decomposed away.
I think it was my daily prayer, my hands I lost the first;
And then my eyes, my Bible light—oh blindness all accursed!
And then my prayer meeting tongue dropped in a dusty heap.
And then my swift prayer meeting feet, they fell and fell asleep.
Say, stranger, look around a bit and find my owner, pray.
And tell me that his wretched pledge is moldering away.
And bid him come and clean me up and build me up again.
And I will be his passport to the land of honest men."
Now that he the pledge card safe and warmed me to do.
I'm looking for his owner now. It surely can't be you?"

Magnate's Daughter.

"Your father's wealth," said he,
"As great as it may be,
Serves not to lead to you
A single charm;
The blue
Of your deep, soulful eyes,
The rosy tinge that lies
Upon your cheeks; the rare,
Soft richness of your hair,
Your matchless grace;
The beauty of your face—
For these rich charms alone
I'd claim you as my own.
As high as he may be,
Your father's wealth has not
A single charm for me.
I'd had been your lot,
To have to toil, I vow,
As I love you now
I'd love you still. His gold
Adds nothing to your charms,
Though he were poor, I'd fold
You gladly in my arms.
Aye, were he plunged in shame,
I still would kneel to claim
The love that I implore,
And ask for nothing more.

The maiden heaved a sigh
And pondered for awhile,
And then, disdaining guile,
Vouchsafed this sane reply:
"You're dotty, or you lie."

INDIGESTION.

Persons suffering from indigestion or malnutrition who are compelled to do hard mental work during the morning hours find it very trying to have the blood centering around the stomach when it is needed in the brain. If they would only take a light, very easily digested meal they would find that the stomach now and then needs a vacation. Entire abstinence from food is not to be insisted upon unless in cases of special feeding, but let the foods which are taken be light, slightly nutritious and easily digested—as a little fruit with a small bowl of well-cooked cereal, and perhaps four or five tablespoonfuls of cream, eaten slowly. An easily digested breakfast would consist of half a pint of hot milk, sipped slowly, or two-thirds of a cup of milk with one-third coffee (for those who do not like milk), or a cup of hot water, or two soft-boiled eggs and a piece of toast, or a cup of well-made cocoa, or chocolate and toast after this dish of fruit, omitting the cereal; or, in cold weather, a bit of broiled bacon with an egg and brown bread. Coffee taken with a cereal is very apt to produce fermentation, and the result is sour stomach. This, frequently repeated, creates serious results. People who cannot take a cereal will find meat and fruits less liable to disagree with them than meat and starchy foods.

New Methods.

The first morning the new teacher had charge of the village school, says the Boston Herald. Philadelphia Public Ledger, he taught a class in mental arithmetic, and gave the following example:

"If I had seven oranges and eleven more are given me, then I give five of them to a friend, how many oranges have I left?"

He could not understand the puzzled expression of the children's faces or why he received no answer; but, thinking they must be rather dull, he repeated the question. After a little silence a small hand was raised.

"Well, little boy, how many are left?"

"Please, sir," timidly replied the boy, "we always do our sums with apples."

SILVER WEDDINGS.

They Had Their Origin In the Reign of Hugues Capet.

The fashion of silver weddings dates back to the reign of Hughes Capet, king of France in 987.

Once as Hugues was arranging his uncle's affairs he found on one of the estates a servant who had grown gray in the service of his delative. He had been such a friend of his master that he was almost looked upon as one of the family.

On the farm with this old man was also a serving woman who was as old as he and also unmarried and who had been the most devoted and hard-working of the women servants of the king's uncle. When the king heard these praises of the two, he ordered them to be brought before him and said to the woman:

"Your service is great, greater than this man's, for masters were great enough, for the woman always finds work and obedience harder than a man, and therefore I will give you a reward. At your age I know of none better than a dowry and a husband. The dowry is here—this farm from the king—and this man is yours. If this man who has worked with you five and twenty years is willing to marry you, then the husband is ready."

"Your majesty," stuttered the old peasant confusedly, "how is it possible that I should marry, having already silver hairs?"

"Then it shall be a silver wedding," answered the king, "and here I give you a wedding ring," drawing a costly ring from his finger and placing the hands of the thankful old people together.

This soon became known all over France and raised such enthusiasm that it became a fashion after a twenty-five years' marriage to celebrate a silver wedding.

FRESH AIR AND SLEEP.

Sleeping with the window open at night is the best safeguard against the feeling of fatigue that many complain about. Unless a current of fresh air is allowed to circulate in the sleeping room during the night it becomes stale and stagnant, the sleeper breathing his own breath, laden with slow but none the less deadly poisons, over and over again. The atmosphere is often further contaminated by the escape of coal gas, which, even though slight, is none the less injurious when inhaled for eight or nine hours every night. When gas has been burned in the room several hours before the occupant goes to bed, unless the ventilation has been good, the products of imperfect combustion of coal gas are present in the air and must be inhaled by the sleeper, to the great detriment of health. It is still a very common practise to heat rooms, and especially bedrooms, by turning on all the gas jets to the full and closing every aperture that might admit a little fresh air. An apartment treated in such a manner is no longer fit to be used as a bedroom, but it makes an excellent lethal chamber for those who contemplate a leisurely suicide.

WHEN A MAN'S FORTY.

The man of forty, from the point of view of health, is usually the victim of the infernal trinity—ignorance, carelessness and self-indulgence.

He owes to these his gross overfeeding, his silly habit of inhaling tobacco smoke, his overstrained eyes.

But at forty much may be done to secure long life if the will be there.

In food, do not diet. If anything disagrees eat less of it rather than cut it off.

Try to be able to eat and drink anything, but in practise exercise a strict moderation.

All injurious habits, all use of alcohol, all, overstrain of body and mind should be resolutely broken off.

Get the body, by degrees, into the best physical condition, but never make the process an absorbing pursuit.

Get within four or five pounds either way of your correct weight for your height.

CARE OF THE FEET.

The springtime has a notable effect upon the human body. The harmless little ill known as "spring fever" seems to about cover all the various ways in which the system is disturbed. Among the discomforts of this season there is remarkable annoyance from the feet. They swell and tire and grow very tired and weary. Because of the pressure against the shoes there is a great deal of pain if such a thing as corns is present.

Because these ills are not serious is no reason why the discomfort should not be relieved. The first thing to be considered is the shoes. At the earliest sign of fever in the feet lighter shoes should be put on, also from a quarter to a half size larger. A good plan is to wear low shoes, and if the weather is cool protect the ankles with gaiters. These are better than his shoes, because the feet are freer and there is better ventilation. Change the shoes as many times a day as possible. When in the house wear slippers. Wash the feet night and morning in warm water and good soap. It is a good plan to give them a cold bath afterward, rubbing briskly to tone the skin. Bathe them when tired with clear alcohol, and before going out dust them with a good talcum powder.

SECRET OF GOOD MANNERS.

Two Theories of the Acquirement—Unselfishness and Conventionality.

Most mothers hold, consciously or unconsciously, one of two theories about the acquirement of manners by their children.

One mother says: "Manners are only the outward sign of the inner nature. If my daughter has a kind heart and a well-trained mind she will live in a gentle and charming fashion. I will teach her compassion, respect for age, unselfish zeal for helping with the world's work. Her manners will take care of themselves."

Another mother says: "My girls will never get on without conventional matters. They shall be taught from babyhood to emulate the speech and bearing of ladies. They shall be instructed in the proper behavior for every occasion. They shall walk and dance and curtsy and speak with graceful perfection."

Neither method produces altogether satisfactory results.

Unselfishness is truly the foundation of good manners, but not the superstructure. Many conventional manifestations have grown about social relations. Some can be explained by the demand of kindness and some cannot. Could a child infer from his desire to help others that he should not eat with his knife? Many offenses against good taste interfere in some way with the rights of others, but many others do not.

Still, no set of rules to produce a polished lady will achieve a result fit for the strain of life. The manners of the French boarding school may adorn the ballroom, but they are likely to fall at the breakfast table or in the crowded car. The woman of perfect manners must reinforce her unselfishness by social rules, and conventionality must be vitalized by the wish to please others' pleasure. The best of life never "comes naturally," whether in manners or morals.

The secret of charming manners is the desire for them. When the mother wishes them for her daughter as much as she wishes fine laces or goods of the world her daughter will have them.—Youth's Companion.

MODES FOR THE MAN.

Linen and madras cloth are considered the best weaves for shirts and come in dainty colorings. Printed stuffs are also worn and both colors and white stuffs, stripes and corded effects will be seen. Plaited breasts are good, even with cross stripes. Chambray in all bright colors requires to be worn by silken stripes, are bound to be popular.

The turnover colors are made with wide points and in fact the width of all colors has increased considerably. The stitching will not be noticeable on the proper thing in collars and all the best goes to the full and closing every aperture that might admit a little fresh air. An apartment treated in such a manner is no longer fit to be used as a bedroom, but it makes an excellent lethal chamber for those who contemplate a leisurely suicide.

The four-in-hand is something to which the American business man clings, and fashion dictators have kindly decreed that it shall not be taken away from him. Those ties have dwindled down a little, to be sure—they are at least an inch narrower, but they are still-four-in-hands, and much striped. Sometimes the stripes are blue and of remarkable widths, black, white and purple, pale blue, apple and dark reen, amber, crimson, and yellow, magenta, black and copper and other equally startling combinations that hardly sound so subdued as the general trend of style would indicate.

SHOE KNOWLEDGE.

You may hardly be lieve that there are special times and seasons for the trying on of new shoes. But so it is. You need a larger pair of shoes in the morning than at night, and it is always best to try them on in the latter part of the day. The feet are then at the maximum size. Activity naturally enlarges them or makes them swell; much standing also tends to enlarge the feet. New shoes should be tried on over moderately thick stockings; then you can put on a thinner pair to ease your feet if the shoes seem too tight. It is remarkable what a difference the stockings make. If they are too large or too small they will be nearly as uncomfortable as a pair of shoes that are too tight. New shoes can be worn with as much ease as old ones if they are stuffed to the shape of the foot with cloth or paper and patiently worn a few hours. Woman's Woman's Life. Or, if they pinch in some particular spot, a cloth wet with hot water and laid across the place will cause immediate and lasting relief. Milk applied once a week with soft cloth freshens and preserves boots and shoes.

THE USEFUL TURPENTINE.

Turpentine has many uses in the household, one of the chief among them being in the laundry.

Mixed with ammonia it will remove paint stains from colored clothing, usually leaving the goods perfectly free from marks. The clothing is dippen into the mixture and rubbed until the stain disappears.

Added to cold starch in the proportion of four drops to one tablespoonful of the starch, it makes the iron glide smoothly over the fabric without the slightest trouble. Its use in this way, however, cannot be recommended very highly except in an emergency, as it has a tendency to yellow the starch and the color clings to the lin...

GHOSTS GUARDING RICH SILVER MINE

MEXICANS ARE CONVINCED THAT THE FAMOUS MUERTA IS HAUNTED.

STRANGE RUMBLINGS HEARD

Nervy American Gets Title to Property But Men He Takes with Him Refuse to Remain in Spooky Shaft.

Marfa, Tex.—Tom Borgus came in from the Chinati mountains, 60 miles southwest of here, the other day and laid in enough camp supplies to run him and his men several weeks. He is trying to reopen the famous Muerta mine, which is said to be haunted. The mine is the terror of the Mexicans of the upper portion of the Rio Grande border and they cannot be induced to visit the locality where it is situated, much less enter its dark and grewsome shaft.

Borgus is an old mining man. He has prospected all over the west and southwest and in many mining districts of Mexico. He was in Chihuahua a few months ago when the story of the Muerta mine was told to him by a Mexican who was down there from Presidio del Norte. Borgus made up his mind to take hold of the property. He came to Marfa and had no trouble in obtaining title to the mine. He got some time trying to organize a working force among the Mexicans of this section. Not a man could be found who was willing to go with Borgus to the mine and help him work it.

Finally Borgus went over into New Mexico and employed 25 Mexicans to work in the mine. He said nothing to them about the shaft and underground workings being haunted. Mexicans remarked while employed in this work that they heard strange rumblings which seemed to come from the interior of the mountain. Borgus laughed away their fears and told them he would be back in a week. In less than a week the whole body of laborers were in Marfa again. They had deserted their work despite the vehement objections of Borgus. When questioned as to the cause of their quitting the job the Mexicans shrugged their shoulders and answered:

"Spirits!"

The leader of the gang of Mexicans told a thrilling story of the adventures of the men. He said that the shaft is about 100 feet deep and at its bottom a shaft or tunnel extended to a chamber of considerable size from which it appears a considerable quantity had been removed at some period in the history of the property. This is evident from the fact that a large pile of rich silver ore was found at the far end of the chamber.

Soon after their arrival at the mine Borgus set the men to work cleaning out the shaft and straightening up the decaying timbers. Some of the men the noises were only the echoes of the sounds from their own picks.

When the shaft was cleaned an exploration of the tunnel and chamber was made. Borgus set the men to work carrying the ore which was in the chamber to the surface. Shortly after they started in on this the skeleton of a man was uncovered from the rubbish. This grewsome sight unnerved the superstitious Mexicans and a few minutes later when a sound which seemed to come from under their very feet was heard and was accompanied by a strong gust of wind that extinguished the lights every man of them dropped his tools and fled in terrror out of the chamber and up the ladder in the shaft to the open air above.

Borgus was at the surface and witnessed the exit of the men with no little surprise. He could not induce them to return to work and despite his entreaties they all left the place and came to Marfa.

The ancient mining records on file in the archives of the state of Coahuila, Mexico, at Saltillo, are said to show that the Muerta mine was operated by the Spaniards more than a century ago. It was abandoned on account of the mysterious and weird demonstrations that were said to have occurred in the underground workings.

PLAINFIELD LIBRARY NOTES

The Public Library Issues the Following Suggestions for the Summer.

Summer Suggestions.

Are you going away this summer? Would you not like to know more about the points of interest on your trip?

Or perhaps a European trip is contemplated? The library is rich in books of European travel and has helped many to added appreciation of such a trip.

Are you looking forward to the summer vacation as a time of rest and refreshment? Books are the most restful of companions. Provide yourself with little books which do not weigh down the trunk, and which are easily held—the library can supply you with many such.

Or are you planning for a summer in town? Why not make it an opportunity to read some of the books you "have always wanted to read?"

Are you a teacher? The library is very good to teachers. Ask about teachers' privileges.

Or, are you a bookworm, with a paper to write for the winter? Read up now while the books are not so much in demand.

Are there children in the family? The library is prepared to give them especial help in selecting their books, and by the way, the children's corner is a good place for them to spend part of the warm summer days.

Remember—

That special privileges are given for the summer months.

That the library is one of the coolest places in town, and that the morning hours are the quietest and coolest in which to sit and read the magazines and papers.

That if you get a book or magazine charges to you, you can read it in our Open Air Reading Room, the City Park.

That the Arlington avenue line takes you within a block of the library.

That a postal request, a telephone message, or mailing the library card is all that is necessary to renew a book. Our telephone number is 742-J.

That in the choice of books, courses of reading, or just to help you select a good book," the library is at your service.

That the Public Library is free to every man, woman and child in the city of Plainfield.

TOILET HINTS.

Few women are careful enough about keeping control over their facial expression. They are entirely to apt to frown and look serious, thus implanting lines and wrinkles which, once they come, are hard to erase.

Those and expression have a wonderful amount to do with a youthful appearance, more, in fact, than most people realize.

As a rule it is the profile that shows age first, and there are certain lines and crow's feet that come in front of the ear and at the side of the face that should be carefully looked after.

Wrinkles in the neck are among the first signs that go to prove that a woman is no longer in her first youth, and when they do come they never should be neglected, but should be carefully massaged.

Therefore it is up to every woman who wants to look as young as possible to carefully study her profile and not to be content with the appearance of the front face. These lines are almost invisible at first, and if treated early they can be effaced and kept down.

The chin and throat are also telltales. If the chin isdrawn in and down the throat naturally sets in lines curving towards the ear, but if the chin is held up there are no lines at all.

Figure, of course, has much to do with a youthful appearance, and corsets of the best make are an important aid to the woman who would look young. So is an elastic step, and nothing counts for quite as much as the art of sitting and rising in a youthful manner.

It is decidedly worth while to practice certain balancing exercises that would do not only to add retaining elasticity of movement and giving the body perfect poise.

INDIAN PROVERBS.

The coward shoots with shut eyes.

Small things talk loud to the Indian's eye.

The paleface's arm is longer than his word.

THE MAN FOR GOVERNOR.

The announcement of Sheriff Sommer's candidacy for the gubernatorial nomination has caused much discussion throughout the State and as might be expected there is a wide diversity of opinion over the merits of the man for the place. As the Newark Evening Star says, "If the Republican organization in the State is to do effective work in the campaign and election this year it must harmonize its differences and unify its forces." But the paper does not go far enough when it says: "A candidate acceptable to the people, if fixed upon, would do much to unify the party." He must not only be "acceptable to the people" but must be their own choice. Any such thing as "fixing upon" a candidate this fall will not do. For the time being at least, the people are determined to do the "fixing upon," and are not going to delegate that prerogative to a few self-chosen leaders. There must be in all quarters of the State a practical unanimity upon the fitness of a particular individual and the expression of the delegates at the Republican convention must represent the true idea of the masses who select them as their spokesmen. For does the Star go far enough when it says that the requisite qualifications of the candidate must be those of good presence, cleanliness, ability to do good campaign work and an unblemished record. We venture to add that the candidate must have previously demonstrated ample executive ability and a backbone stiff enough to do the right thing at all times in the face of the powerful influences at work to swerve him from the true path of duty.

If what the Jersey City Journal says is correct Sheriff Sommer has excellent qualifications. The paper, in particular, tells us that the Newarker declares that he is a lawyer of ability and there is no doubt that he would make a good Governor, for the sense of responsibility would tone down much radicalism. He has made a reputation for himself as a decided opinion in the right line and he can always be trusted by the people. Notwithstanding all this, the Journal expresses its view that he would not secure the hearty support of all Republicans. This is unfortunately true for Mr. Sommer has probably antagonized a large faction of the party during his public career. But be as it may, he is the kind of man that must be named and as there are dozens of equally prominent and equally well known men in the party there should be no trouble in an unanimous choice. Factional warfare portends bitter strife and probable defeat.

That the Grand Jury aimed simply and solely at an alleged pernicious evil when it drew the court's attention to excise conditions is generally admitted notwithstanding the somewhat flamed opinions of a few persons here and there who are criticizing the presentment for apparently selfish purposes. The effort to show that the grand jury has cast reflection on the court does not appear to be borne out when the report is carefully perused. Such is the case also regarding the present petit jury. How anyone can believe that reflection is made on that body is indeed hard to discern. What the Grand Jury says is: "It is a city, it gives the city a black eye!" What a picture of outraged virtue! What an exhibition of tender solicitude for the city! And this from the head of a system that for 365 days and nights out of every year is wounding the city, deepening its shame, making its poor poorer, contributing to riot and murder, taking the bread out of the mouths of dependent wives and children, adding to the sum of human misery, filling our jails with criminals and our almshouses with paupers. It is the condition that gives the city a black eye, not the exposure of it."

PLACE SEWER BENEFITS AT EXACTLY $10,867.20.

Commissioners File Report—Hearing Set for Monday, August 5.

Robert A. Meeker, S. P. T. Wilbur, and Harry B. MacDonald, commissioners appointed to levy an assessment to pay the cost of certain sanitary sewer extensions, submitted their report to the Common Council, Monday. The whole amount determined upon by the assessment for the work is $10,867.20. The report takes up fourteen type-written pages for the schedule of assessments, and states that in no case has the assessment levied on property-owners exceeded the actual benefits and the excess has been placed on the city. The report was filed.

Mr. Ginna offered a resolution, which was adopted, fixing Monday night, August 5, at 8 o'clock, as the time when a public hearing will be given on the matter. In the meantime those interested can see the report at the city clerk's office.

Democrats Condemn Voting Machine

Resolutions condemning the voting machine were adopted at a meeting of the Democratic County Executive Committee held at Somerville on Saturday. The method of electing county committeemen was also changed. Hereafter they will be voted for and elected at the primaries, the same as other officers are chosen.

Referring to the presentment made by the Grand Jury as to alleged existing evils in Elizabeth, the Evening Times, of that city, says incidently:

"The people of Elizabeth look to Council, nor can Council procrastinate or evade the issue thus thrust upon it. The next session of that body should witness the passage of a disinfused, clearly-worded, straightforward resolution which the Grand Jury must either heed or, ignoring it, admit the wrongfulness of its extraordinary charges, at least insofar as the local aldermanic body is concerned."

Will the Times please explain what the Grand Jury has to do with its Council, or vice versa? The deduction it made is absurd on its face.

The Newark Evening News ventures to say that no university has attempted to make Mark Twain a D. D. If America's champion funny man could be put through a course of sprouts by being compelled to read Punch without indulging in any Yankee cuss words he might be a fit candidates even for an S. T. D.

An exchange very properly remarks: "Anyone wanting to know how efficient a fair, uninfluenced Grand Jury can be has but to study the May Grand Jury in Union county, of which Mayor Charles J. Fisk, of Plainfield, is foreman."

Sommer is an appropriate name for the latest candidate for the Governorship.

WANT SHACKLES BROKEN

Rev. Dr. John S. Kerr Says Elizabeth Should Repeat 1776 Act.

ROAST FROM PULPIT

Commends Grand Jury's Charge That The Town Government Is One "for, by and of" the Beer Factories.

It is eleven days since the May Grand Jury handed in its presentment covering the city government of Elizabeth as one for, by and of the breweries, and now there is more widespread discussion perhaps than at first. An attack made by the Rev. John T. Kerr, of Elizabeth, on the brewery interests, which he severely scored the Elizabeth City Council, has centred interest once more on the liquor question in Elizabeth.

In his sermon, which has caused so much discussion, the Rev. Mr. Kerr urged the members of his flock to throw off "unfair and unprincipled domination" as their forefathers did in 1776.

"I say it in all seriousness," he declared among other things, "that the time has come when Americans here and there, and especially in Elizabeth, ought to repeat the act of their forefathers. They must repeat it if they are to preserve or deserve the name of freemen. In this case the unfair and unprincipled domination they must throw off is that of the breweries."

He then commended the Grand Jury for its recent expose, and referred in the following sarcastic manner to a comment which the president of the City Council had made on that document: "It is only just and right that those charged with dereliction should have a chance to say something for themselves. Let us hear what they have to say in answer to the presentment. The president of the City Council says: 'It is a pity. It gives the city a black eye!' What a picture of outraged virtue! What an exhibition of tender solicitude for the city! And this from the head of a system that for 365 days and nights out of every year is wounding the city, deepening its shame, making its poor poorer, contributing to riot and murder, taking the bread out of the mouths of dependent wives and children, adding to the sum of human misery, filling our jails with criminals and our almshouses with paupers. It is the condition that gives the city a black eye, not the exposure of it."

BREWIN HIMSELF AGAIN

He Awakes from a Nap With His Real Personality Completely Restored.

FOUR YEARS A BLANK

After Passing Through a Sleep "Johnson" Forgets His Recent Life and Remembers Only His Former Self.

Charles P. Brewin, the old merchant of Burlington, who disappeared from his home four years ago and was found here last Monday living a new life as Frank G. Johnson, went to sleep Sunday afternoon as 2 o'clock still convinced that he was Frank Johnson; that he had never known anybody named Brewin; that he was unmarried; that he had never lived in Burlington, and that he would live out the rest of his life working in the cleaning and dyeing establishment of Miss Mary Brown.

But yesterday afternoon after attending the morning service at the First Baptist church, the old tailor lay down to take his Sunday nap, at the home of Miss Eleanor Dunn, of Norwood avenue, where he has been boarding. His room is on the second floor of Mrs. Dunn's house, and two of the last things he saw of the familiar life of F. G. Johnson were the pillow with the name in it and a row of tomato plants he had recently set out in his garden.

Mrs. Dunn went out visiting while he was asleep. The old man woke about o'clock. Then came a strange dream. Whose Bible was that? He had never seen that garden out there before. What hills were they over there? He remembered no such hills near Burlington. And where was the river that runs by Burlington?

Mrs. Dunn, who had learned the facts about her roomer, at once suspected that something had happened inside of his head at last. She telephoned to Dr. J. H. Buchanan. One of the men who last week recognized old Mr. Brewin was the Rev. Dr. J. C. Buchanan, father of the physician, who has been visiting his son for several weeks. The Rev. Dr. Buchanan had often seen Mr. Brewin in Burlington and had known him intimately at Pemberton, where the old tailor and the preacher had mutual friends. The preached accompanied his son on this call.

The moment the new-found Mr. Brewin saw his old friend come up the walk he knew him and greeted him enthusiastically, though last week he didn't know him. The preacher and old Mr. Brewin sat down and talked over work they had done together in the Baptist church in Burlington. They recalled hours spent together on the front porch of Tailor Stratton in Pemberton.

BOAST LEADS TO JAIL.

Gleason Set Out to Prove How Well He Could Fight.

Michael Gleason, drunk and boastful, announced out loud in front of a West Front street saloon Saturday afternoon that he could lick any man in Plainfield. Henry Kearns, a young fellow, told him he was foolish to talk that way, and Michael said he could lick him, anyway. He set out to prove it, and the pair were rolling around the gutter in a clinch when Policeman Charles Flynn descended on them. He nabbed Gleason, but Kearns slipped out of his coat and escaped. He was recaptured by Detective Sergeant Flynn later.

In the city court Monday morning Gleason was scored by Mayor Fisk. He was told he was a nuisance when drunk, and that he got drunk too often. He was fined $15. Kearns was warned to keep out of further trouble, and a fine of $5 was suspended over his head. A few minutes after court adjourned Mayor Fisk granted a plea for mercy in Gleason's case for the sake of the man's family, and suspended the fine.

Prudential Superintendency Change.

Included among a number of changes being made by the head officers at the home *office of the Pru*dential Insurance Company in Newark, there is to be a change in the superintendency at the local office. D. O. Evans, who has been assistant superintendent of the Elizabeth district, will succeed Charles E. Ball, who has been superintendent of the Plainfield office for several years, and he took charge of the Plainfield district today. Mr. Evans has been in charge of the Elizabeth district six years and his staff there presented him with a smoking set of six pieces, prior to his departure. Mr. Ball, who has severed his connection with the local office, has been offered the position of ordinary instructor for the company, but has not decided to accept it, as it would keep h im away from home a greater part of the time.

Plainfielder Honored.

J. V. E. Vanderhoef, who has been dpuety supreme archon of the Improved Order Heptasophs in New Jersey for the past ten years, has just been appointed by the supreme archon on one of the Supreme Committees of the order, thus jumping from the position of a State to a National office, out of a membership of about eighty thousand Mr. Vanderhoef was one of three to receive the honors.

PATRIOTIC SONGS SUNG AT PARK AVE. CHURCH

ADDRESS BY REV. MR. HERRING FEATURE OF SERVICE.

Special exercises were held under the auspices of the Park Avenue Baptist church Sunday-school, Sunday morning. The room was attractively decorated with daisies and American flags. The program opened with the singing of "America," and "Star Spangled Banner," by the school. "A Starry Flag" was sung by the choir from the intermediate department with a response following a prayer by Rev. Deacon Theodore I. Runyon. Whitney C. Frazee rendered a cornet solo, "Face to Face," and Miss Anna Clark and Miss Arline Brown, assisted by the choir, sang "Children of the Light."

A feature was an address on "Thoughts from the Life of Jacob" by Rev. C. E. Herring, of the First Presbyterian church. The choir sang "The Rallying Call," and "Patriotic Pilgrim," and preceding some remarks by the superintendent, Miss Willis Schering, sang "Peace, Sweet Peace." After a hymn, "Blest Be the Tie that Binds," by the school, the pastor, Rev. A. E. Finn, pronounced the benediction.

The vocal numbers by the school were accompanied with instrumental music, G. W. Ayr, violinist, and Whitney C. Frazee, cornetist.

Rev. A. E. Finn in a happy manner publicly extended to the superintendent, George E. Hall, the congratulations and best wishes of the church and Sunday-school upon the occasion of his twenty-fifth wedding anniversary. Mr. Hall responded and thanked the church and school on behalf of himself and wife, earn*estly for their good wishes and kind* remembrances, also for their personal letters which they had received from the officers and teachers and pupils while they were on their automobile trip.

Coolest June On Record.

The weather conditions for June, as reported by Weather Prophet John Naegle, show a wide and interesting range. The maximum temperature was 92 degrees on the 25th, and the minimum 44 on the 1st and 4th. The mean maximum temperature was 75.9, mean minimum temperature, 53.7; mean temperature, 64.8; normal, 69.3. Total precipitation, 3.31 inches; greatest in twenty-four hours, 1.03 inches on the 2d; normal precipitation, 4.05 inches; number of rainy days, 10; number of days clear, 12; partly cloudy, 11; cloudy, 7. Thunder storms, dates, 5th and 21st. This is the coolest June on record. The mean temperature was 4.5 degrees below the normal and the precipitation was also below the normal for the month.

Col. Smith Here.

Lieut.-Col. Clinton H. Smith, of the Park Department, of New York, is spending the summer in his cottage on Leland avenue, this city. Col. Smith was second in command of the famous 71st New York Vols., at Sibony-Santiago and other Cuban battlefields. At one time his regiment was brigaded and fought with Roosevelt's "Rough Riders."

Vets Settle Accounts.

The committee from Antietam Command, Union Veterans' Union, having charge of the arrangements for the recent encampment of the New York and New Jersey Divisions, held here, met Saturday night and settled all accounts. There was found to be a balance in the treasury.

ADDRESSES VETERANS

Patriotic Services at Monroe Avenue M. E. Church—"Our Country's Call," Pastor's Theme.

Patriotic services, appropriate to Fourth of July, were held at Monroe Avenue M. E. church Sunday night. There was a large attendance of worshippers, including twenty-five vet*erans from Winfield Scott Post, No.* 73, G. A. R., who received a special invitation. The church was elaborately decorated with flowers, American flags and bunting by John McCormick, assisted by Messrs. Gardner, Berger, Fritts and Smith.

The church choir sang a number of special selections, all of a patriotic nature, and the pastor, Rev. E. E. Roberson, preached a patriotic sermon on the subject, "Our Country's Call."

The speaker declared that in times of peace battles are just as necessary as in times of war and other disturbances. He cited present-day politics as one thing needing the utmost attention on the part of every loyal citizen; also municipal and county affairs. Mr. Roberson said that if a bad condition of affairs exist in municipal, county, State or National affairs it is the fault of the voters and no one else, and if they do not correct the evils they are rather enemies than friends of the flag.

Mr. Roberson spoke forcibly of that which is commonly called "graft," and of office-holders who make use of their jobs for personal gain, adding that there is altogether too much of this sort of thing. He upbraided the ordinary person who is willing to go along making enough money each day to meet his expenses and perhaps a little more, and yet who takes no interest in correcting evils, adding that there is altogether a measure he held them to be equally as much to blame for wrong-doing as the office-holder who betrays a sacred trust.

Mr. Roberson took occasion to speak of the bravery of the veterans during the Civil war, and their efforts to preserve a glorious country, *also of those who fought to make In*dependence Day what it is, a country free from the entanglements of any foreign power.

MUSIC A FEATURE AT THE GUILD TEA

HELD AT HOME OF MRS. DUMONT ON SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

The annual spring tea and musical of the Plainfield Branch of the Needlework Guild was held Saturday at the home of the president, Mrs. J. B. Dumont, of Stelle avenue, and it was a charming affair. Despite the rain there was a large attendance of members and friends of the work. Mrs. Dumont addressed the gathering, telling of the large increase in the number of garments made during the past year and of continued interest. A Sewing Circle connected with the made last year and many new members have joined the guild.

The musical program was in charge of Miss Maud Van Boskerck, who also was the accompanist of the accompanist of the afternoon. A feature was the soprano solo by Miss Baldwin, of Brooklyn, who has been singing in grand opera. She favored the audience with several selections, including French and Indian songs which delighted all.

There were also four duets by Mrs. George S. Ring, Mrs. Joseph M. Shellabarger and piano solos by Miss Louise Booth, all of which were well received. A trio, Miss Joseph M. Shellabarger, soprano; Miss Van Boskerck, piano, and Miss Cornelia Hyatt, violin, was enthusiastically received.

Mrs. Dumont was assisted in receiving the guests by Mrs. J. Edgar Corlies, Mrs. Jabez Gilbert, Mrs. W. A. Pinto, Mrs. E. H. Booth, Mrs. C. E. Ryder and Miss Lucy Talmadge. Following the musical, tea was served.

PLANS FOR PARK.

Play Ground May Be Located in West End.

The Town Improvement Association of Plainfield and North Plainfield having made a proposition to the city to care for any city park or public playground that the city might designate for such purpose, Mayor Fisk, through Mr. Tyler, chairman of the public affairs committee, offered a resolution at the July meeting of the Common Council, Monday, asking the association to submit plans, probable expense, etc., for such a park to be located on property owned by the city.

The site proposed is in the West End of the city in the factory district, the proposition first being made by Mayor Fisk, who thought that the unused city property could be put to good use.

CABOOSE BLOCKS TRACK

For Two Hours Yesterday, All Trains Had to Use a Single Track.

FLYER JUST ESCAPES

Harrisburg Fast Train Saved from a Wreck—Trainmaster On the Scene.

Either one of two things, a broken part of an axle or too much power by the "pusher" engine, caused a large double caboose, attached to an eastbound coal train, to jump the tracks at a point just east of the Clinton avenue bridge on the New Jersey Central, at 5:45 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Two other freight trains were blocked for two hours and during that time all east and westbound trains were sent through on the main westbound track. The only damage was to the caboose, no one being injured.

The coal train was a long and heavily-loaded one, requiring the assistance of a "pusher" between Clinton avenue station and Fanwood. At the point where the accident occurred, several extra tracks have been laid to assist in the movement of trains while the new bridge is being installed at Clinton avenue. It was at one of these switches that the ca*boose jumped the track and* was dragged over a hundred feet before the train stopped.

The engineer of the coal train was notified of the accident by the engineer on another train who gave him the proper signals. When the train stopped the caboose laid almost horizontal across the tracks. A more serious accident was narrowly averted by prompt action on the part of the trainmen, as the Harrisburg "flyer" which followed in the scene of the accident a very few minutes afterward and was prevented from crashing into the wreckage by the proper signals. The "flyer" was obliged to back up to Plainfield and go west on the fourth outside track. Delay to it was delayed nearly fifteen minutes.

Trainmaster A. D. Edgar and his assistant, Charles English arrived at the wreck soon after it occurred and directed a large gang of workmen in clearing the tracks. The trucks of the caboose were removed and the caboose itself raised from the ground before the wrecker arrived from Elizabethport. The large crane promptly put to work and within a few minutes cleared the tracks and the regular train schedule resumed. The accident attracted hundreds of interested spectators, who were more of a nuisance to the railroad men than otherwise.

CITY MAY INVITE P. S. C. TO SUE FOR ITS BILL

DISPUTE OVER ELECTRIC LIGHTING MAY LEAD TO LITIGATION.

Because the Public Service Corporation, successors of the Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company, has not fulfilled its contract to maintain the street lights at twenty-five candle-power brilliancy, which the parent company agreed to do, the light bills of the P. S. C. have not been paid since January 1, last. The company agrees to make deductions for all "lights out" but refuses to comply with the agreement as to the twenty-five candle-power illumination. As a result of this it is quite likely that the city will be a defendant in an action brought by the P. S. C.

Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh reported on the matter at the July meeting of the Common Council Monday night, stating that some fine points in law are raised by the controversy and that he has arranged with Frank Bergen, counsel for the P. S. C., to hold the matter up until September, without injury to either party. By that time Mr. Marsh will have returned from Europe and be prepared to represent the city in the cause of contention.

MUSICAL SERVICE.

Well Rendered Program Enjoyed by First Presbyterian Congregation.

Special music was enjoyed by a large congregation at the First Presbyterian church Sunday night. The program was well rendered.

Beside quartette numbers by E. D. Cutting, tenor; F. C. Iglehart, Jr., baritone; Miss Anna Case, soprano, and Miss Jessamine Burd, contralto, Mr. Iglehart and Miss Case sang solos. Rev. A. E. Finn, of the Park Avenue Baptist church, preached a short sermon on "The Lord's Prayer."

Bonded to Keep the Peace.

Otto Werner, of 323 Manson place, arrested on a charge of disturbing the peace made by Max Busel, same address, was arraigned before Justice Hand Saturday afternoon. Busel alleged that he threatened his life in a quarrel over a key to the front door of their house. Werner was put under $100 bond to keep the peace. W. G. DeMeza appeared for the State.

CAUGHT IN THE ACT.

Two Men Arrested for Breaking Into Store.

Two men were arrested by Patrolman Charles Flynn at 2:30 o'clock Sunday morning for breaking into the store of Frank Bros., on West Front street. Flynn saw the men in the act of breaking in the door and arrested them. They gave their names as Frank Bros., and were locked up in the police station. They will be arraigned in police court this morning.

BITTERLY DENOUNCES GRAND JURY REPORT

Petit Juryman Baker Calls Presentment "Perversion of Truth and Violation of Custom and Honor."

SPEAKS FOR OTHERS

Defends Sheriff and Claims that Court Picked Members up of the Present Panel.

Petit Juryman B. S. H. Baker, of Summit, stigmatizes the recent presentment of the Grand Jury as a perversion of truth and a violation of custom and honor in a communication directed to The Daily Press. Incidently he refers to a criticism he alleges this paper has made editorially on the petit jury in this connection. For Mr. Baker's benefit it may be stated here that The Daily Press made no criticism of that body.

Mr. Baker's letter follows:

Summit, N. J.,
June 28th, 1907.

Mr. Editor: There appeared in the columns of your paper of recent date, a statement in reference to the conduct of the present Petit Jury, emanating from the Grand Jury of which Mr. Fisk of the city of Plainfield is foreman.

This statement together with the editorial which appeared in the same issue, criticizes and censures the members of the Petit Jury in a most unwarranted manner and will lead the public to think and believe that the panel as now constituted is composed of a body of unreliable, dishonest and altogether depraved set of men: absolutely incompetent and unworthy of the privilege of assisting in the administration of law and justice which the commonwealth has reposed in them.

Mr. Fisk and the Grand Jury in their presentment to his Honor, Judge Swayze says, among other things, that it is useless for their honorable body the Grand Jury to make investigation with the object of attaining good results, as long as the county has such an irresponsible lot of men as the present Petit Jury to try them. That these are the men "are the selection of so-called politicians, and chosen to further their own ends, or pay political debts" or that they are "professional jurors" put on in order to draw the munificient sum of two dollars per day. Mr. Fisk very magnanimously qualifies this statement, and no doubt does so for the benefit of his fellow townsmen, friends and constituents who may be on said jury, by saying that, "Their may be a few fair-minded, conscientious individuals who have the courage of their convictions," but the objectionable element is in such preponderous evidence, that their efforts and influence are of no avail. He also stated or implies that the sheriff, Dr. W. H. Lawrence, a gentleman of unsullied character and standing in the city of Summit, has been and is, a party, or abettor to, what the Grand Jury evidently consider to be a nefarious system of selecting men for the panel of Petit Jury. It is also stated, the majority of the jurors, "Have no respect whatever for their oath or obligation, but on the contrary are willing to violate their oath, and bring in a verdict absolutely and directly against the evidence submitted," while others being rather, weak-minded are easily intimidated and influenced from outside sources."

Any or all of such accusations or insinuations coming from such a ful statement when he says the present jury to which he alludes, was selected by the sheriff and his political friends.

As a matter of fact the members were chosen by his honor, Judge Atwater.

So far as compensation is concerned the money received by a juror source cannot fail but have a disastrous effect upon the community, causing the people to look with distrust and suspicion on the judiciary body. It is a most unnecessary and uncalled for perversion of truth, and is an unwarranted violation of custom of honor.

As a matter of fact, and I challenge proof to the contrary, the majority of the members of the present Petit Jury, are men of character and responsibility consisting of, manufacturers, contractors, civil engineers, farmers, active business men and retired ones, of means. It is also a fact and I defy contradiction that Union county or any other county in this or any other State had never had a better or more intelligent body of men than the present one.

Mr. Fisk is evidently ignorant of the facts, or he makes an effort to shirk from the county in many cases where they live outside of the city of Elizabeth is equalled, and sometimes exceeded by the expense incurred in attending court. Many of the number, the writer included, have lost in one day in money and business interest more than they will receive from the county for their service during the entire term. This fact is proven by the perfect deluge of requests from the various members of the presiding judge, during the past and present terms desirous of being excused from jury duty.

In view of the fact that the Grand Jury, the Prosecutor and his assistant, for whom I have the most profound respect, hear only one side of the case at the examination and that the complainant's side not the defendant's, how in the name of common sense and justice are they in a position to judge intelligently.

Does the Grand Jury presume to pass judgment on the statement of the complainant without having heard the defendant.

If the Grand Jury is to be omnipotent we had better dispense with the present existing superfluities, such as the courts judges, and by all means the notorious and impotent Petit Jury. So far as the criminal cases which have been tried, (up to the date of presentation) six in number, by the Court of Common Pleas in which the Petit Jury were concerned, the majority were cases, which I think, should have been settled in the lower courts, and cases where the money value involved ranged from one dollar to less than ten, have been tried, sometimes consuming the whole day, and part of another, and which have been decided against the complainant through lack of evidence, said cases costing the county in the aggregate thousands of dollars.

The members of Petit Jury do not profess to be infallible, but I do claim that the majority are truthful, honest, conscientious and law abiding citizens, carefully striving to do their little part, and to give every man a square deal, and I consider the various accusations and insinuations the most unkind, unjust and unreasonable misrepresentations that any respectable body of men could have been selected for. I appreciate the honor of being connected with such a body and if I had occasion to bring action in a court of law, I would feel perfectly satisfied to abide by the decision of the majority of the members of the Petit Jury.

If all or any of the afore-mentioned statements accting the moral or intellectual standing of the present Petit Jury, were true, it would seem strange, yet, it is a significant fact, that his honor, Judge Atwater, and the County Prosecutor would continue as they do to try cases, and the petitions by the jurors, to be relieved from jury duty, are, if possible, more numerous than before; and said requests are met with the usual detail: we are still doing business at the same old stand, with the assurance of confidence and respect of the most eminent members of the legal profession.

In conclusion, I want to state the well known fact that every man is entitled to justice in a court of equity by due process of law. And, if the Grand Jury, the prosecutor and his assistants and members of the legal profession, cannot or do not present the evidence, we, the Petit Jury cannot return a conviction.

I also want to state the above article is the unanimous expression of the majority, if not the entire panel, and inasmuch as the burden of proof rests on us, to vindicate ourselves from these unjust accusations, we do hereby indignantly deny the charges of irregularity and incompetency and ask that this statement receive the same publicity which the statement reflecting upon the honor and integrity of the Petit Jury has already received.

I have the honor to remain,
Yours respectfully,
B. S. H. BAKER.

Thinks Jury Right.

The presentment of the Grand Jury on Friday is one of the strongest arraignments of the liquor business as conducted in Elizabeth and in various parts of the county that could be made, and there is little doubt that the jury is right. Indeed, much of which the jury has formally and so strongly declared has been known to exist, but few have been brave enough to dare to beard the lion. The presentment declares that Elizabeth is absolutely in the hands of the brewery and saloon interests; that the breweries make the Excise Board and control it." The presentment should be the means of a thorough revolution, which would prevent the breweries from controlling matters. The greatest thing that can be hoped for is that the people will take up the question and will elect men who will see that men are elected as councilmen and excise commissioners who will represent the people, and not throw against sheriffs and other executive officers are largely for sins of omission. With so many good men shirking jury duty, it is little wonder that incompetent men are sometimes chosen. Perhaps of the recommendation that a juror be drawn for not over two weeks becomes the rule, it may tend to remedy these matters. It is believed that the excise laws are fairly well lived up to in this town. There is a suspicion of "graft" or any "system," thank fortune.—Westfield Leader.

GOLF PLAYED IN RAIN

Fair Field Out, on Both the Country and Park Courses.

ABBOTT GETS A 79

Mr. Hibbard Wins In Finals for the June Cup—Mr. Cathcart Wins First Honors.

Despite a driving rain Saturday afternoon there was a fair field out at the Plainfield Country Club to compete in the various events scheduled. During the morning the rain did not materially affect the course, but in the afternoon it was thoroughly soaked and many contestants did not play the entire eighteen holes and some who did, failed to post their scores. However, the scores returned were up to the average and were excellent, considering the conditions. The weather also had its effect on the social festivities and not so many remained for the dinner-dance in the evening.

In the finals for the June cup, between Henry D. Hibbard and T. Earl Stockton, the former won, defeating his opponent 1 up in a close and exciting match that was not decided until the last hole was played.

Just five scores were posted for the Golf Committee cup. W. Lester Glenney won the first three points, while Robert Abbott and T. Earl Stockton were tied for second place with a score of 81. The scores were as follows:

W. Lester Glenney, 80, 9—80; Robert Abbott, 79, plus 2—81; T. Earl Stockton, 87, 6—81; Henry D. Hibbard, 87, 4—83; Frank O. Reinhart, 83, 0—85.

George E. Cathcart won first honors for the Green Committee cup with an 83. The scores returned were as follows: George E. Cathcart, 90, 7—83; A. G. Henderson, 110, 18—92; Hugh F. Fox, 103, 15—93.

The play-off for the Scratch cup, Robert Abbott won a leg on the trophy with a score of 79. Those who have won a leg on this cup will play off later at match play.

The weather on Saturday kept many of the Park Golf Club members at home, but there were a number who braved the elements to follow their favorite game. Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll won first honors for the President's cup and scored five points for the Hydewood Park cup with a score of 90. Alexander Gilbert and Charles B. Morse won points for both cups, while Charles W. McCutchen won one point for the Hydewood Park cup. For the Golf Club cup, scratch event, Dr. Carroll won first honors. The other points were won by Mr. Gilbert, Mr. Morse and Mr. McCutchen. These scores were returned for the three trophies:

Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 104, 14—90; Alexander Gilbert, 113, 21—92; Charles B. Morse, 115, 21—94; Charles W. McCutchen, 117, 20—97; W. V. ——, 126, 22—104.

Additional Trains to Trenton.

The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad announced yesterday that two additional trains from New York to Trenton have been placed in service. One will leave New York at 12 o'clock noon, arriving at Trenton at 1:30, and the other train will leave New York at 4 o'clock in the afternoon, arriving at Trenton at 5:20 o'clock. An effort is now being made to secure another train leaving Trenton shortly after 7 o'clock each morning, arriving in New York before 9 o'clock. At present there is no train at that time either on the Reading or Pennsylvania railroads.

Mr. and Mrs. James A. Stafford are visiting relatives and friends in town for awhile.

Mr. and Mrs. James W. DeGraff, of Central avenue, are spending the summer at Lake Minnewaska, N. Y.

Councilman R. I. Tolles and family, of Westervelt avenue, have gone to their summer home at Woodmont, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius vanHerwerden, of South avenue, sailed today for Holland. They will be away all summer.

Miss Isabelle Scarborough, of West Fourth street, who has been spending several days at Ocean Grove, has returned.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smith, of Brooklyn, who have been spending the past two weeks with friends in town, have returned home.

Mrs. B. A. Hegeman and daughter, Miss Virginia Hegeman, who have been abroad, are expected home soon. They will spend the summer in Massachusetts.

William L. Saunders and a party of Plainfielders, including his daughters, have returned from a sojourn at Atlantic City. They made the trip in Mr. Saunders' touring car.

STREET CONTRACTS MADE

Eleven Thoroughfares are to be Macadamized at an Early Date.

COUNCILMANIC ROUTINE

Call Man to Be Given Hearing—Although Three Members Opposed It.

Contracts for macadamizing eleven streets as proposed in an ordinance recently adopted, were awarded at the July meeting of the Common Council, Monday night. As stated in the Daily Press a few days ago, C. M. Meeker was the lowest bidder for the work on Arlington place, Denmark road, Sycamore street, Hillside and West End avenues; Warren B. Travell the lowest bidder for the work on Randolph road, Cottage place, Park lane, Elmwood place and College place, while the Hassam Pavement Company was the lowest for the work on West Second street. The contracts were awarded as above.

Mr. Meeker and Mr. Travell each will be required to furnish bonds for $960 for the faithful performance of the work, while a $280 bond will be required of the Hassam Pavement Company. It is expected that the work will be started at once.

The introduction of a resolution by Mr. Hibbard, which provided for the sale of "Teddy" and "General," the two fire department horses, they having outlived their usefulness brought out the suggestion that it would be a wise thing too send the team down to the sewer farm where they would be put to work. At present the city is hiring a team for work there. Mr. Ginna made the suggestion and immediately Mr. Melick and Mr. Hibbard concurred. Then the question was raised as to whether the city could do this, inasmuch as the law provides that in such a case the horses must be sold and the money given to the pension fund of the department. The resolution was referred back to the committee. In the meantime the committee will ascertain what rights the city has in the matter.

CO. K'S MARKSMEN DEFEAT ELIZABETH

PLAINFIELD CRACK SHOTS TAKE FIRST OF SERIES OF MATCHES.

The first of a series of two private matches between Co. K, of this city, and Co. I, of Elizabeth, took place on the range of the latter company at Elizabeth Saturday night, and a return match will be shot on Co. K's range Saturday night, July 6. Saturday night's match was shot in standing and prone positions and a glance at the scores will show how evenly matched the men were.

In the standing position the team from Co. K won out by ten points, and the teams were tied with a score of 231 each shooting prone. The local marksmen took the match by a margin of ten points, the score being 432 to 422.

The best individual shooting was done by Sergeant Hort, who made scores of 44 to 46 for a total of 90, while Private Slingland was second with scores of 42 to 47 for a total of 89. Sergeants Agar and Bilyeu were tied for third place, with scores of 43 and 45 and 42 and 46 for a total of 88, while Sergeant Tranchand was low man with score of 30 and 47 for a total of 77. The summary of the match follows:

Common Council Unanimously Decides to Lay Brick on Business Thoroughfares.

NORTH AVE. EXCEPTED

Board of Trade Members Speak in Favor of the Improvement—Ginna Plays Hassam Idea.

The business section of the city is to be paved with brick, the ordinance providing for the improvement having been adopted at the meeting of the Common Council, Monday, on final reading, by a unanimous vote. Mr. Tolles was the only absent member. This action was taken after a public hearing during which several members of the Board of Trade, including President H. W. Marshall, spoke in favor of the proposition. All were in favor of the brick pavement under the improvement but great stress was laid on the fact that North avenue had been unnecessarily left out of the streets to be paved.

Mr. Marshall urged the adoption of the ordinance, stating that the Board of Trade had been making every effort to have the improvement made. He then stated that four years ago the Board of Trade took up the question of permanent pavement and had been working for it ever since. In his opinion brick had been found to be the most satisfactory. He expressed regrets that North avenue was not included in the ordinance and he hoped that provisions would be made for paving the avenue. He believed that the main thoroughfare leading from the railroad station should be improved, especially as the city did not originally mean to pave it and has not since expended much money in keeping it in repair. In addition he urged the laying of a double trolley track on East Front street before brick pavement is laid there, explaining the great inconvenience in trolley service now as a result of the present single track arrangement.

Former Mayor J. F. Buckle also urged that brick pavement be laid, adding that if he had his way North avenue would be included. He spoke of the dusty and dirty condition of the thoroughfare which made it impossible to keep stores clean, even with generous sprinkling. Wood pavement, he thought, would be desirable if it was not so expensive.

George J. Tobin spoke as a taxpayer and property-owner in favor of permanent pavement for North avenue, referring to the dirty, dusty condition of the street. He said it was the New Jersey Central that macadamized the avenue in return for the benefits of a sewer, and the street had not cost the city much.

F. D. Dunham, civil engineer, and expert in street pavements, said that he favored brick, believing it to be the cheapest and most durable. If expense was not to be considered he favored wood block, but he did not think that a better pavement than brick could be secured for the money. At this point Mr. Daniel asked Mr. Dunham several questions bearing directly on proposed disadvantages of brick pavement, such as it being an extremely hot pavement. He also suggested the heavy clatter of horses' feet on certain hours of the day and night and the question of dust. Many of these questions Mr. Dunham explained that all rock or brick pavements, including asphalt, are considered hot in summer, and as for the dust and dirt he said that if the brick pavement is cared for as it should be it would not be found dirty. He said that it could be easily washed and cleaned. Regarding the noise, he said that constant improvement is being made in brick pavement and that it is believed could be reduced considerable.

Amos Andrews spoke in favor of the brick pavement and urged that North avenue be considered. He expressed surprise that the Common Council should hesitate over an expenditure of $7,000 for the improvement of the thoroughfare.

This closed the hearing and later in the evening, Mr. Ginna moved that the ordinance be adopted on third reading. Before a unanimous vote was taken, Mr. Gloak alleged that as for the dust and dirt he said that if the brick pavement is cared for as it should be it would not be found dirty. He said that it could be easily washed and cleaned. Regarding the noise, he said that constant improvement is being made in brick pavement and that it is believed could be reduced considerable.

This closed the hearing and later in the evening, Mr. Ginna moved that the ordinance be adopted on third reading. Before a unanimous vote was taken, Mr. Gloak alleged that if Mr. Ginna had kept the record six weeks ago, the street work might have been underway now. This remark brought the chairman of the street committee to his feet and he wanted to know what Mr. Gloak meant. He said that Mr. Buxton told Mr. Gloak asked him to vote for Hassam pavement, but not knowing anything about the pavement he refused to do so. Later when he learned more about it, he still refused to vote for it, and furthermore declared Mr. Ginna, "I'll never vote for Hassam pavement because I don't think a city has any right to lay a patent pavement." He alleged that Messrs. Buxton and Gloak had an ordinance prepared providing for the pavement on North avenue but it was never introduced.

Mr. Gloak said that he would vote for the ordinance, but he hoped to see North avenue included later on, and besides he intended to offer an ordinance to include Richmond street, which he said was travelled as much if not more than any other street in the city. When the vote on the ordinance was taken, every member voted in the affirmative.

The next move will be to advertise for bids for the laying of the brick pavements. This cannot be done inside of a month and it will probably be the best part of two months before the work can be started.

The streets to be paved are East and West Front street, from Watchung to Madison avenues; Watchung avenue, between East Front and Fourth streets, Park avenue from Front to Fourth streets; the intersection of Arlington avenue and Seventh street, and the intersection of East Fourth and Sycamore streets. The cost of the work will be about $47,000.

LAD NEARLY KILLS HIS YOUNGER BROTHER

CARLESS SHOOTING COSTS HAZELWOOD APGAR HIS LEFT EYE.

The careless shooting of a gun in the hands of James Apgar, aged twenty-one years, near the Dunellen brickyards, Monday, cost his younger brother, Hazelwood Apgar, aged fourteen years, the loss of his eye and filled his arms, chest, legs and abdomen with a large quantity of shot. Unless complications develop, young Apgar will recover. One of the shot struck the pupil of the eye, injuring it to such an extent that Dr. F. C. Ard was compelled to remove it.

The young men, who are sons of "Neaf" Apgar, the well known marksman, were hunting woodcock, in the vicinity of Albert Rajotte's brickyards at Dunellen. Believing that there was some game in the nearby underbrush, the young men separated about fifty feet from one another to investigate.

A woodcock appeared in the open, and James Apgar blazed away. His brother being in the of the aim received practically the whole charge in his face and body. With the assistance of men from the brickyard he was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital and Drs. Ard and Long were called in.

The lad was taken to the operating room, where Dr. Ard removed the eye, and Dr. Long searched for the shot in the body. Unless complications develop it is not thought that the injuries will prove fatal. Today the boy is resting comfortably.

DAMES AND DAUGHTERS.

Miss Nettie Metcalf, of Warren, O., is said to be the only woman in America who has originated a breed of chickens.

Mrs. Annie Besant, who is sixty years old, lives in Benares, the sacred city of India, where she has founded a Hindoo girls' school and a college.

The Duchess of Wellington possesses the splendid services of Sevres made for Napoleon I., of which every single piece is different, the set being practically priceless.

Mrs. Frank Woodward, of St. Charles, Mich., earns a considerable sum of money each season shooting wolves. Last winter Mrs. Woodward received from the State $2,970 for the scalps of 198 wolves, which were killed by herself and her husband.

Though she is not yet a social "bud," Miss Helen Taft has been nicknamed "the tulip girl" by her close friends. The title had its origin in her fondness for a certain style of dressing. The daughter of the secretary of war is almost seventeen and will "come out" in the last winter of the Roosevelt administration.

Mrs. Donald MacLean, recently elected president general of the Daughters of the American Revolution, is the sixth woman to fill the honorable office. Like herself, Mrs. MacLean's predecessors were all women of national prominence. The first was Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, who died in office. She was succeeded by Mrs. Adlai Stevenson. The others were Mrs. Daniel Manning, Mrs. John W. Foster and Mrs. Charles W. Fairbanks.

MAPS HELP A MAN SLEEP.

Mental Geography the Best Soporific, According to a Drug Clerk.

A haggard-looking man strolled into a drug store the other day and asked the druggist for help. He said he had trouble in getting to sleep when he arrived. No matter how sleepy he might be during the day or how much sleep he might have lost, the moment his head touched the pillow he was wide awake and lay thus for several hours. Once asleep, he was hard to awaken, but he had to be up at a certain hour, and in consequence of his peculiar affliction he was losing more sleep than he could stand. The drug clerk regarded him quizzically a few moments and then replied: "My dear man, you don't need medicine. What you want is something to change the trend of your thoughts. Do as a friend of mine did. He was troubled the same way and found that the old folks' plan of imagining sheep passing a barrier and counting them was out of date. So he began trying to name all the states in the union. He soon got them so he could classify them alphabetically. Then when they no longer interested him he started on the counties of this state. He now has them at his tongue's end, classified up to the fourth letter. Now he is starting on state capitals and their locations; then he will take up county seats. A moment's glance at an atlas during the day shows him when he is wrong, and the beauty of the plan is that he rarely has to think along these lines longer than ten minutes before he is sound asleep. To make it short, the study of geography is a good narcotic."

ANSWER WAS A STINGER.

Cruel Rejoinder to Question of Impassioned Woman.

A Detroit woman said of the late Gen. Russell A. Alger: "I'm company with a half dozen other women—a reception, in fact—I once waited on Gen. Alger to try and interest him in woman suffrage. He was interested. He admitted the truth of many of our arguments. But in the matter of supporting it he would not go as far as we wanted him to go. One of our ladies got, I am afraid, a little overexcited. In her address to the general she imputed to woman more virtues than any merely human creature could possess. At the height of her eloquence Gen. Alger, chuckling, interrupted her. He said he had once attended a woman suffrage meeting where the lady lecturer on the platform had boasted about woman as this lady was doing. The lecturer, he said, ended a striking climax with the question 'Where would man be if it had not been for woman?' She looked around the crowded hall. The silence was intense. She raised her hand and cried again impressively: 'I repeat, where would man be if it had not been for woman?' Then a coarse voice from the rear replied: 'In Paradise, ma'am.'"

Don't Cry; Go Eat.

"I don't cry any more about anything," said the bachelor girl. "When I get out and I don't know what to do I go out and get me something to eat. A little fellow I was very fond of once taught me that. He asked me to take luncheon with him to taste over a quarrel we were having. During the talking over it I got to crying. I cried all over my fish. He ordered me some more fish and scolded me while they were getting it ready. 'Never cry, Frances,' he said, 'as long as you've got a good luncheon for dinner before you. It don't do any good while.' No never saw him again. But whenever I want to cry I think of him and get me something good to eat instead."

Had Use for Both.

Chicago policemen sometimes make themselves useful, although perhaps not in the way they are supposed to. This was shown by an incident in a South side home. The mistress of the house happened to go into the kitchen during the evening. There she saw the cook evidently enjoying the company of three big dispensers of the law. "Why, Maggie," she exclaimed, "isn't one policeman enough for you?" "Shure, ma'am, but was ir my chaperon," answered the cook. "Which one?" queried the lady. "Sometimes the wan and sometimes the other," was the cheery reply from the resourceful Maggie.—Chicago Chronicle.

Go to England to Marry.

Every year from 800 to 1,200 couples go to England from the continent, mostly from Germany, to get married. To comply with the conditions of the English law the bride usually comes over first, stays one night in a hotel and gives notice of the marriage on the following day. Then the man arrives and the ceremony takes place. It is generally by license, as otherwise both would have to be in England for four weeks.

What Ailed Him.

The village philosopher looked unhappy. "What's the trouble?" asked the village cut-up. "Indigestion," said the philosopher. "I suppose it's the mince pie I indulged in last night." "Mince pie nothing! I know what's the matter with you and I'm not sorry it hurts, either. You're top full of old saws, you are. And it's no wonder they have turned on you at last."

No Installments.

Creditor—"Won't you pay me on the installment plan?" Debtor (haughtily)—"No. I always owe cash."

MAN LOST 4 YEARS, HIS MEMORY A BLANK

Charles P. Brewin Believes That He is "Frank J. Johnson" and Remembers Not His Kin.

A DUAL PERSONALITY

Strange Case of Burlington Man Who Lives Here as Man That Was.

Persistently denying that he is Charles P. Brewin but still admitting that he cannot remember much about himself previous to four years ago, "Frank G. Johnson," the man sought Burlington man has disappeared in 1902, was positively located in this city today. He was found in the cleaning and dyeing establishment conducted by Miss Mary Brown on West Second street, to whom he came three years ago to secure employment. He was given a place at repairing and pressing garments and since then has worked faithfully every day, blissfully ignorance of the fact that family and friends were seeking him.

The clue that led to Brewin, or "Johnson" as he insists that he should be called, being found by a Daily Press reporter was furnished by Rev. Dr. Buchanan, father of J. Hervey Buchanan, who formerly lived in South Jersey.. He is visiting in this city at the present time and while on the street today, saw the colored man he knew at Burlington as Charles P. Brewin. His salutation of "How do you do, Mr. Brewin," was met by a blank stare and further questioning failed to gain the slightest recognition from him. He insisted that his name was Johnson and that he never lived in Burlington or knew anyone from that place.

Dr. Buchanan was positive in his identification, however, as was Alfred Woolman, the trolley car conductor who saw Monday and made an unsuccessful attempt to talk to him, and the clergyman took the trouble to find out where he has been staying.

"Why, I knew him well and have been acquainted with his work in the Baptist church at Burlington," said the doctor to Daily Press reporter today: "I also know his pastor and many of his friends and there is no doubt in my mind but what he is the man who has been sought after these four years."

Johnson was busily engaged at Miss Brown's establishment when inquiry was made for him this noon and he immediately looked around at the mention of the name Johnson.

"That's my name," said he looking around briskly, "who wants me?"

He was asked if he was not Charles P. Brewin who left his home in Burlington four years ago and who has since been mourned as dead, but he readily answered in the negative. When the reporter asked him where he lived before he came to Plainfield, he replied, "New York."

"Were you born there?"

"Why yes, I think so, when I?" and he cast an appealing glance at Miss Brown, who stood near by. She told him to "course he was" and a smile lighted up his face.

"It's funny about this Brewin business," he remarked, "somebody asked me the same question a few days ago but I don't remember who it was. Maybe somebody has left me some money." And then he reached for his coat to go home to dinner.

In response to questions, Miss Brown said that "Johnson" had worked for several New York tailoring firms before he came to Plainfield and that his presence in the city was brought about by answering an advertisement inserted by another local cleaner. He was not accepted when responding to it in person and decided to visit other places before going back to New York. He visited Miss Brown's establishment and was put to work.

"He told me that he had trouble with his head," said Miss Brown, "and that he had been in a hospital but he could never remember the name. He frequently has pains in his ears and at my suggestion has been to the Plainfield hospital but he seems to get no relief. Two men who purported to be his brother and son came here Monday and spoke to him but he refused to recognize them and denied that he had any relatives. Since then he has forgotten the occurrence but has worked himself into a nervous state trying to recall what it was. The people who talked to him did not say that he is the man for whom they have been searching but I understand that they are fully convinced that he is the missing Charles Brewin."

A stranger case of dual identity, with oneself dead, has seldom been disclosed. Physicians who have known the whilom tailor as the prosperous Charles P. Brewin say the pressure of a small bone on the skull is the cause of all the trouble, but "Charles Johnson" knows naught of medical science and cares less, and he is very much averse to having doctors open his head to see what is the matter.

His dual history dates from four years ago in November when his wife and children awoke to find him gone. He had been a deacon for a generation in the First Baptist church, of Burlington, and was prominently identified with the G. A. R. These and other organizations gave aid in the search. The curtain seemed to fall on the last act when the missing man's hat was found on a Jersey Central ferry-boat in New York, with a note, telling his wife he would die. During his service in the Civil War he suffered sunstroke, which brought on a neurotic condition and intermittency, and this was charitably ascribed as the cause for his act, by the friends and family who loved him.

PLAN A MONORAIL LINE TO NEWARK

FINANCIERS EXPECT TO CONSTRUCT HIGH SPEED ROAD WITH A LOW FARE.

Announcement was made yesterday of the formation of a traction company whose will build a monorail road capable of very high speed between Newark and New York. Among those interested in the company, it was announced, are John H. Starin, Charles Stewart Smith and Woodbury Langdon, members of the Rapid Transit commission. It is the ultimate object to have direct communication from Newark to New York, either through the McAdoo tunnels or by special ferry service.

The plans allow for a four track elevated monorail road running in trains between Newark and Jersey City every ten minutes, with a charge of five cents and a charge of three cents from New York to Jersey City, either by ferry or tunnel.

By a peculiar coincidence the three men mentioned, although interested in the new company, have opposed, as Rapid Transit Commissioners, the granting of a franchise to the Behr Monorail Company. The construction and operation of the two systems are much alike, it is understood. In connection with the announcement it was said word had been received that a trial of the system on a short stretch at the Jamestown Exposition was made yesterday and proved successful. A test will be made and recommended said, to attain a speed of 100 miles an hour without trouble.

One feature of the new system, it is said, is that only slight reduction in speed will be necessary around curves, the monorail allowing for excessive speed.

JURY ACQUITS OLSEN OF ASSAULT CHARGE

DECLARED NOT GUILTY AFTER A FEW MINUTES DELIBERATION.

Within a few minutes after testimony in the case had been summed up, a jury in the court of Quarter sessions, Friday, declared Charles Olsen, of Scotch Plains, not guilty of the atrocious assault charge on which he was tried. His discharge from custody was ordered immediately afterward.

Olsen's arrest followed an affray at Scotch Plains during which he stabbed Warren MacCauley in the abdomen. It was shown by the defendant's counsel that he had been persistently followed about by MacCauley and that he finally lost his head when he saw there was no other way to escape being attacked. It was also shown that MacCauley bears a very bad reputation for quarrelling and fighting and at the present time is awaiting the action of the Grand Jury on a charge of breaking and entering. On the other hand, Olsen's character and standing in the community were proven to be of the best.

Olsen was represented by Walter L. Scofield, Sr., and S. B. Swackhamer, the latter summing up the case and presenting the facts to the jury.

Will Try Hassam Pavement.

The Public Service Corporation has requested the Borough Council to make provision for the laying of Hassam pavement between the rails of the tracks on Somerset street, in connection with the double track that is to be laid. The company stands part of the cost of the entire pavement but according to the original plans some other material was to be used in the center of the street. The Public Service officials are anxious to give the Hassam system a thorough trial and may eventually use it on all of its lines.

Sued In Passaic.

As counsel for O. W. Yeagle, of Newark, suit has been instituted by Frank J. Blatz, of this city, against V. C. Tranks, of Passaic, and W. C. Van Winkle, of this city, in the District Court at Passaic. The action is to recover $100 on a bond. The case will be heard next Friday.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union.

OFFICIAL.

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union, held on Thursday, June 6, 1907, at 2:30 P. M.

Roll call showed the following members present, namely: Director King, Freeholders Adams, Cady, Cladek, Darby, Doane, Donahue, Fay, Gruener, Jones, Krouse, Maurer, Metzel, Perry, Pierson, Robison, Smith, Swain, Wilbur and Woodruff.—20.

COMMUNICATIONS, ETC.

The following communication was presented and read:

Elizabeth, N. J., June 5, 1907.

Mrs. Betty Williamson,

Probation Officer of Union County:

My Dear Mrs. Williamson—I have received a report of your work as probation officer of Union county, covering a period of over five years. The report is very interesting and is worthy of the careful attention of our citizens. The method of dealing with persons convicted of crimes and misdemeanors is a subject of the highest importance to the well-being of the community. From my observation I am satisfied that in many cases it is the best way to deal with offenders, and especially persons whose offenses are the first that they commit. I heartily approve generally of the manner of dealing with such persons as indicated in your report.

I also wish to express my high appreciation of the valuable services that your have rendered to this county as probation officer.

I recommend to the Board of Freeholders that your report be printed at the expense of the county, so that the public may understand the kind of work which has been done in the way of probation.

Very truly yours,

EDWARD S. ATWATER.

On motion of Freeholdre Robison it was ordered that the communication be received and that the Committee on Publication be directed to obtain estimates for the printing of 200 copies of the report as recommended, said committee to report as the next meeting of the board.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the Committee on Van Winkle Brook Bridge Extension, Springfield, N. J.:

To the Board of Freeholders:

Gentlemen—The committee on the extension of the Van Winkle Brook Bridge, at Springfield, N. J., would report that it has considered it well that the roadway of said bridge, as the same is to be extended on the northerly side, for the full width of the walk, and that also, a suitable pattern of the railing should be constructed at this point, as it lies in the centre of Springfield Village.

We would therefore recommend that an additional appropriation of $125 be made for this work, making the total appropriation for the improvement contemplated $725, instead of $400, as heretofore authorized by the board.

PETER H. MEISEL,
W. H. SWAIN,
GEORGE B. CLADEK,
S. P. T. WILBUR,
J. J. DONAHUE,
Committee.

Freeholder Gruener moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

By the Committee on Claremont Place Bridge, Rahway, N. J.:

To the Board of Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Your committee would respectfully report that it has examined the bridge on Claremont place, Cranford, and found that the present wooden covering is in a very bad and unsafe condition and should be replaced.

It therefore recommends that a new brick arch and steel beam covering be constructed on this bridge, and that the present abutment walls and wing walls be not more than $450. The work also to include new iron railings.

E. K. Adams,
George B. Cladek,
Elston Darby,
Committee.

Freeholder Krouse moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the committee on Linden Avenue Bridge, Plainfield, N. J.:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Your committee has examined the bridge at the above site and finds it to be in very dilapidated condition, the present structure being an old planked floor bridge.

Your committee is of the opinion that a new steel plate and brick or concrete arch bridge, on stone abutments, should be erected over the brook at Linden Avenue at this point, the same to be six feet span in clear, and about fifty-four feet in length, and your committee would therefore recommend the construction of such a bridge at a cost not to exceed the sum of $700.

Henry Krouse,
Joseph Maurer,
John Robison,
Committee.

Freeholder Gruener moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By Committee on Division Avenue Bridge, Summit, N. J.:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Your committee finds that the Division Avenue bridge will cost at least $25 more than the appropriation made, and we therefore respectfully recommend a further appropriation of $25.

John N. Cady,
Joseph Perry,
Bradford Jones,
Committee.

Freeholder Gruener moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by an unanimous vote.

By the Committee on the Purchase of Certain Paintings, etc.:

Elizabeth, N. J., June 1, 1907.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union County:

Gentlemen—Your committee to which was referred the matter of purchase of three oil paintings ordered by General J. Madison Drake, would respectfully report that we have examined the paintings in question, and believe them to be works of great artistic merit and historic interest, and doubtless of many times greater than the price now asked for them.

We do not, however, think it advisable for this board to purchase oil paintings to place in the county courthouse. If we have the legal right to do so, which is doubtful, we do not think it should be done without some very special public sentiment throughout the county made evident to this board that such purchase is desired by the people; at this time we have been able to discover any such sentiment as to warrant us in recommending the purchase of these oil paintings.

If, however, any patriotic individuals or societies should wish to purchase the pictures and present them to the county, it would be eminently proper for the board to accept the generous offer and care for them in a suitable manner.

Respectfully submitted,
Charles A. Smith,
R. K. Adams,
Noah Woodruff,
J. Logan Fay,
J. Hervey Doane,
Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Cady, received and placed on file.

By the Committee on Three Bridges in Union Township:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Your Committee on Three Bridges in Union Township would respectfully report that it has examined the bridges, and finds the bridge near Baldwin's Lane in good condition, except for the water working its way back of the wall, and would recommend that a wing will be built to cost not to exceed $75. The bridge near Baldwin's is in a very bad condition, it being an old wooden bridge, rotten and ready to collapse near the centre. Bridge of iron beams and brick arches, and a repair of the walls at a cost not to exceed $700. Bridge number three, near Chapman's, we find caved in on one side and in very bad condition, and would recommend that the whole structure be rebuilt at a cost not to exceed $1500. Bridge No. 4 O. K.

Respectfully submitted,
Noah Woodruff,
Peter H. Meisel,
John J. Donahue,
Committee.

Freeholder Darby moved that the report be received, and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

Gentlemen—Your committee to which was referred the matter of purchase of three oil paintings ordered by General J. Madison Drake, would respectfully report that we have examined the paintings in question, and believe them to be works of great artistic merit and historic interest, and doubtless of many times greater than the price now asked for them.

We do not, however, think it advisable for this board to purchase oil paintings to place in the county courthouse. If we have the legal right to do so, which is doubtful, we do not think it should be done without some very special public sentiment throughout the county made evident to this board that such purchase is desired by the people; at this time we have been able to discover any such sentiment as to warrant us in recommending the purchase of these oil paintings.

If, however, any patriotic individuals or societies should wish to purchase the pictures and present them to the county, it would be eminently proper for the board to accept the generous offer and care for them in a suitable manner.

Respectfully submitted,
Charles A. Smith,
R. K. Adams,
Noah Woodruff,
J. Logan Fay,
J. Hervey Doane,
Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Cady, received and placed on file.

By the Committee on Three Bridges in Union Township:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders:

Gentlemen—Your Committee on Three Bridges in Union Township would respectfully report that it has examined the bridges, and finds the bridge near Baldwin's Lane in good condition, except for the water working its way back of the wall, and would recommend that a wing will be built to cost not to exceed $75. The bridge near Baldwin's is in a very bad condition, it being an old wooden bridge, rotten and ready to collapse near the centre. Bridge of iron beams and brick arches, and a repair of the walls at a cost not to exceed $700. Bridge number three, near Chapman's, we find caved in on one side and in very bad condition, and would recommend that the whole structure be rebuilt at a cost not to exceed $1500. Bridge No. 4 O. K.

Respectfully submitted,
Noah Woodruff,
Peter H. Meisel,
John J. Donahue,
Committee.

Freeholder Darby moved that the report be received, and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

By the Committee on Claim for Damages of Lenox Brick Company, etc.:

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen—The Elizabeth Drawbridge Company, of Elizabeth, has referred the claim of the Lenox Brick Company, of Cliffwood, N. J., for damages for being held up at South street bridge, Newark, stating that it has made a settlement with them for $5, and your committee would recommend the payment of the same after proper audit of same.

Respectfully submitted,
Thomas J. Pierson,
R. K. Adams,
S. P. T. Wilbur,
Committee.

Freeholder Krouse moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered, on roll call by unanimous vote.

By the Committee of the Whole, to which was referred the petition of citizens of the city of Rahway, asking that certain roads be adopted as county roads, two reports, the following one being taken up for consideration first:

Elizabeth, N. J., June 6, 1907.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—Your Committee of the Whole, to which was referred the petition of citizens of the city of Rahway, asking that certain sections of St. George avenue, Lake avenue, Union avenue, in said city, be adopted as county roads, would respectfully state that we have examined the said roads.

We found that St. George avenue, from Lake avenue to the Middlesex county line, was in bad condition, and that the adoption of said avenue, as petitioned for, being in better condition; we found that the section of Leesville avenue, as petitioned for, was in very bad and dangerous condition, being almost impassable for ordinary travel.

As the said roads are connecting links between the upper and lower sections of State, we therefore present the following resolution as our report and recommendation:

Resolved, That St. George avenue, in the city of Rahway, beginning at the centre line of Grand Street, in said city, and running in a southerly and southwesterly direction through the city of Rahway to the Middlesex county line, and also that Leesville avenue, in said city of Rahway, beginning at the centre line of St. George avenue, and running in a westerly direction through the said city of Rahway to the Middlesex county line, said roads being at least one mile in length, be improved by the construction of a macadamized road; and be it further

Resolved, That the Clerk of this Board be directed to send a copy of this resolution to the State Commissioner of Public Roads for his approval, and that upon the approval of the same by the State Road Commissioner, the County Road Committee be and is hereby authorized to proceed to have said roads surveyed in accordance with the provisions of chapter 58 of the laws of 1905.

Respectfully submitted,
BENJAMIN KING,
Chairman Committee of the Whole.

Freeholder Cladek moved that the report be received and recommendation adopted, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

The report of the Committee on Rules, said over from last meeting, was taken up, and after further consideration was adopted as a whole without dissent.

Freeholder Cady moved that the same be printed at a cost not to exceed $50, which was so ordered on roll call by a unanimous vote.

NEW BUSINESS.

By Freeholder Cladek:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to investigate the advisability of widening and building a new iron beam brick arch bridge on George avenue, near the Scoles roads, Rahway, N. J., and cost of same, and report at the next meeting of this board.

On motion of Freeholder Swain the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Cladek, Krouse and Smith.

By Freeholder Cladek:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed on the culvert on Westfield avenue, Rahway, N. J., and on advisability of repairing or building a new one, and cost of same, and report at the next meeting of this board.

On motion of Freeholder Krouse the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Cladek, Donahue and Wilbur.

By Freeholder Jones:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed, with power, to meet a similar committe from Morris county, for the purpose of replanking the iron bridge between Morris and Union counties by the Sayles place—the planking of which is in a dangerous condition and needs immediate attention—not to exceed a cost $100, one-half of which is to be paid by Union county.

Freeholder Cady moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

The director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Jones, Cady and Fay.

By Freeholder Robison:

Resolved, That the proceedings of this board, for the term from May 15, 1907, to June 15, 1907, be published in the following newspapers, at the compensation at the rate of $125 per annum, viz.: The Elizabeth Daily Journal, The Elizabeth Evening Times, Elizabeth Revue, of Elizabeth, N. J.; the Courier News and Daily Press, of Plainfield; the New Jersey Advocate and Union County Standard, of Summit; the Union County Standard and Westfield Leader, of Westfield; the Cranford Citizen and Cranford Chronicle, of Cranford, and the New Providence News, of New Providence. That said proceedings shall be published within thirty days of the date of any and all meetings.

Freeholder Gruener moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

By Freeholder Krouse:

Resolved, That the County Collector is hereby authorized and directed to pay Thomas A. Lamb, for publishing Courthouse upon the pay roll of the Custodian of the Courthouse, on and after the first of June, 1907.

On motion of Freeholder Swain the resolution was adopted without dissent.

By Freeholder Woodruff:

Resolved, That a committee of three be appointed to examine a bridge in the harbor, Union Township, on Hilton road, and report the advisability and probable cost at the next meeting of this board.

On motion of Freeholder Pierson the resolution was adopted without dissent.

The director appointed as the said committee Freeholders Woodruff, Robison and Pierson.

By Freeholder Cady:

Whereas, The amount raised in Union county for State school tax for the year 1906 was $98,778.51, and

Whereas, The amount apportioned against this county for State school tax for the year 1907, to be raised by taxation, is $219,160.09, therefore, be it

Resolved, That this increase in the School school tax be referred to a committee of three and the County Attorney and Collector for investigation, and that they report to this board at its next meeting.

On motion of Freeholder Swain the motion was adopted without dissent.

The director designated the auditing committee—Freeholders Cady, Woodruff and Wilbur—as the committee to act in conformity with the foregoing resolution.

By Freeholder Krouse:

Resolved, That when this board adjourns it stand adjourned to meet on the third day of July, 1907.

On motion of Freeholder Swain the resolution was adopted without dissent.

ELIZABETH COUNCILMEN DARE THE GRAND JURY

Invite Indictment in a Bold Resolution Addressed to Court and Its Accusers.

"NOTHING TO SAY," FISK

Foreman Declines to Notice Council's Strange Act—Another Citizen Talks Plainly.

The Elizabeth City Council Monday by a unanimous vote put it squarely up to the grand jury to make good the charges contained in its recent presentment, to the effect that the city government of Elizabeth was dominated by the breweries.

In a set of resolutions, adopted without dissent, it declared, that it was the solemn duty of the grand jury to find indictments against the Councilmen if the allegations made in the presentment are true, and called upon the grand jury to take that action, so that the members of the City Council may have an opportunity to prove them false in open court.

It is the most remarkable action taken by a Councilmanic body in the history of Elizabeth, the Councilmen practically asking to be indicted so that they may have an opportunity to prove the charges contained in the recent presentment false beyond the shadow of a doubt.

When Mayor Charles J. Fisk, foreman of the Grand Jury was told by the Daily Press man of the action taken by the Elizabeth Council relative to the presentment made by him and his colleagues, he declined to make any statement for publication. "Have nothing to say at all," he remarked.

"Well, do you intend to do anything?"

"It is notfor me to say anything." "Will the Grand Jury hold a meeting in the near future?"

"If there's any business to come before it."

"Do you consider rails of sufficient importance to call them together?"

"I tell you I have nothing to say."

A prominent citizen who declined to allow his name to be used spoke rather freely concerning the situation. Said he:

"I should hate to be in Juryman Baker's shoes and I should not like to vote against those Councilmen he has. He seems to think that the presentment hit him, although nobody has said that it does. To my mind his letter in reply to the presentment is no argument but just a volley of abuse for the Grand Jury. That's a serious matter under the law and I should not be surprised to see the court jack him up for an explanation. Contempt is a serious business in the eyes of the law. Another thing that surprises me is the absurdity of the position the Elizabeth Councilmen have placed themselves in. What they have to do with the Grand Jury I don't know. Any lawyer will tell you that the Grand Jury has no business to deal with such resolutions.

"The Grand Jury has made a statement which they say is based on facts found after an investigation. Why, then, should the Grand Jury pay any attention to resolutions passed by any body or individual to which they are in no way accountable. The Grand Jury you know only has to deal with the court and to it alone must it answer."

"Now who are those councilmen who thus attack the Grand Jury? Besides General Collins, president of the City Council, who is addition is president of the Dreidt Brewing Company, these members are connected with the liquor trade business: D. J. McGinty is the collector of the same company, while his colleague from the First ward is secretary and trustee; Lieutenant of George Seibert, who is the head of the Standing Sun Brewing Company. Mr. Nugent, who comes from the Eighth ward is the lawyer for the same company, and M. E. Kenely, of the Second ward, is a brother of Excise Commissioner Kenely."

"These men control the majority of Council and a minority representation is allowed on all other matters but care is taken that the minority is not allowed to name a member of the excise board."

"To get at this whole matter, an examination ought to be had at once of the Peter Breier Brewing Company and the Risser Sun Brewing Company and see who pays for the most of the licenses of the saloons not only in Elizabeth but in other parts of the county. Those books ought to show whether these companies have anything to do with it."

General Dennis T. Collins, president of the Elizabeth Council, in a vigorous speech at the meeting last night, defied "any man to point to one act in his official life which was actuated by any other motive than for the best interests of Elizabeth," or influenced by the breweries or any other outside interests. The president of the Elizabeth Council as president of a local brewing company, was especially alluded to in the presentment.

The resolutions adopted contain these paragraphs:

"Resolved, That while the members of the City Council, like all other law-abiding citizens, respect the authority of the Grand Jury, nevertheless we feel that a grievous wrong has been inflicted upon the city and the members of this Council, through the publication of the charges above quoted; as a result of which the reputation of this community and that of the Council has been unfairly tampered.

"Resolved, That Council considers it to be the duty of the Grand Jury to present all public bodies who are derelict in the performance of their duties, whether that dereliction consists in nonfeasance or misfeasance in office, and we respectfully request and ask the Grand Jury to present to the court or to the public all evidence which it has, going to prove that the Council or any member thereof has been influenced or controlled in any manner by the brewery, saloon or liquor interests, and to that end we are prepared to appear before the said Grand Jury, under subpoena or otherwise, in order that a full and fair investigation may be made in the premises."

AGED WOMAN STRUCK BY A POLICE MOTORCYCLE

CONFUSED BY ITS APPROACH, MRS. MARTIN STEPPED IN MACHINE'S PATH.

Mrs. Frances Martin, seventy years old, of the Jackson flats, was knocked down by one of the police motorcycles, ridden by Patrolman Andrew Saffron, at Park avenue and Front street, at 7 Monday night. She was only slightly injured.

Mrs. Martin, with her daughter, Mrs. Lester Leggett, was starting to cross the avenue from the west corner, as Saffron was coming from police headquarters, on his way home. She saw him steer to turn the corner of Park avenue, and hesitated. She became nervous and confused, and just as the motorcycle took the turn she stepped directly before it. Saffran had noticed her nervousness, and slowed up. His machine was barely moving when it struck her, and the force of the impact was not great. She was thrown against the curb, and her head struck the stone.

When bystanders raised her Mrs. Martin was suffering from shock. She had a lump on her head where it had struck the stone, but the skin was not broken. She was able to walk, and started away with her daughter to go home. Dr. A. C. Clemens was reached on the scene a few minutes after the accident, hurried to her and made an examination to determine if she was injured more seriously than was apparent. He found that she suffered principally from shock, and allowed her to continue on her way home. No grave result is expected from the accident.

HENRY HAURAND BUYS.

Henry Haurand, who conducts the Central Cafe at 115 East Front street, has purchased the building at 120 East Front street, the two lower floors of which are used as police headquarters, station house and city court. Mr. Haurand acknowledged that negotiations for the building were under way yesterday morning, and last night he admitted the purchase unreservedly.

Mr. Haurand has been forced to seek another location by the attitude taken by the owners of the building at No. 115 as to renewal of the lease. They instituted legal action to gain possession. J. B. Coward is the seller of No. 120. The city lease has about a year to run.

Mr. Haurand is expected to file application for a license for No. 120 as soon as he has completed arrangements to take possession. The plans of the city for new police headquarters in the event of being forced out of the present location have not had time to develop.

Carnival at Fresh Air Home.

The carnival for the benefit of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home will be held at the Home grounds, instead of the vacant lot opposite Terrell Hall, all day Thursday. The grounds will be elaborately decorated with booths and American flags and there will be a sale of ice cream, cake, candy and fancy articles. There will also be a shooting gallery and a genuine fortune teller and a Japanese booth, where tea will be served and souvenir cups and saucers will be sold. Another attraction will be the fish pond, while a restaurant will be an attractive place for those who are looking to eat at home that day. The carnival will be an all-day affair and a good time is promised all.

District Court.

Decision was reserved in the only case contested in the District Court this morning. The suit was brought by Mary A. Porter, of Somerville, against William D. Bird, a contractor, to recover $200, to repay expenditure made necessary by defective work on a house erected on Cliff street, Somerville. Newton Porter, Jr., counsel, appeared for the plaintiff and L. A. Clement for the defendant.

BADLY HURT IN RUNAWAY

William L. Smalley, Jr. Hurled Against a Tree as Rig Collided With It.

D. J. CARNEY SHAKEN UP

Men Were Driving in Brookside Sanitarium Grounds When Guinea Hens Frightened the Horse.

Figuring in a runaway accident on the grounds before Brookside sanitarium on Somerset street at 8 o'clock Monday night, W. L. Smalley, Jr., brother of Mayor N. B. Smalley, was quite badly injured, and David J. Carney, also of the borough, received a severe shaking up. Smalley was hurled with great force against a tree and though no bones were broken, it is possible that he might have sustained internal hurts. Carney escaped by falling on the lawn.

The two men were on their way to see Dr. Cooley on a matter of business and had just driven into the grounds when a flock of guinea hens, roosting in a tree, set up a great clatter directly above their heads. The horse was badly frightened by the noise and leaped forward so suddenly it was impossible for Mr. Smalley to bring it under control. The path winds in and out from Somerset street to the sanitarium and failing to make one of the turns, the animal threw the rig into a tree.

Despite the force of the impact, the vehicle, a heavy-built Stanhope, withstood the collision, otherwise both occupants might have fared much worse. The horse tore itself loose and with its harness dragging at its heels, went dashing about the grounds. It leaped a five-foot stone wall at one point and also clambered in and out of the rear areaway of the sanitarium before two employes caught it.

Carney was quickly on his feet after the throw-out but Smalley was unable to rise. He was picked up by Dr. Cooley and several of his attendants and quickly given proper treatment. Later in the evening he was removed to the home of his father, Mayor N. B. Smalley, Sr., of Craig place, and his since been under the care of Dr. Carman. This morning he was too weak to be taken to his own home and will remain at his father's place for several days at least. It will require that length of time before the full extent of his injuries can be learned.

STATE NEWS BRIEFS.

The Washington (D. C.) High School cadets will arrive in Ocean City July 17 and remain in camp about six weeks.

For the first time since the Spanish-American War troops are to be concentrated at Fort Mott today for military ceremonies, parade and escort to the colors.

The annual inspection and parade of the Lambertville Fire Department was held Thursday evening. Everything was found to be in first-class condition, and the four companies were highly complimented.

It is reported that Rev. Dr. W. D. C. Hannah, pastor of the Fortieth Street M. E. church, Philadelphia, will be appointed to the pastorate of the First church, Trenton, which was made vacant by the selection of Rev. J. Morgan Read to be presiding elder.

The Civic Righteousness Federation, which has been active in prosecuting saloon-keepers for violating the Sunday law in Jersey City, has decided to carry its war into the Excise Board and will make an effort to deprive the violators of the Sunday law of a renewal of their licenses.

A movement has been started by *members of the Union Veterans' or*ganizations in Jersey City to raise $3,000 to erect a monument to the late General John Ramsey on the city hall grounds. He died in Jersey City on February 11, 1901, and his body *rests in the National Cemetery at Ar*lington, Va.

P. president, Albert C. Rogers; w. president, Horace J. Martin; w. vice-president, John T. Green; secretary, Arthur C. Hunting; treasurer, Dr. Marcus L. Clawson; chaplain, Mrs. A. C. Hunting; conductor, Mrs. Walter C. Walker; guard, Arthur H. Smith; sentinel, George C. Church; organist, Mrs. Theodore F. Petit; trustees, Otto Moore, Alfred Seidel and Harry N. Blimm.

Gets a Fine Trotter.

Ex-Lieutenant William Campbell, of the borough fire department, who is now in the livery business, yesterday picked up a speedy trotting horse deal. The former was unaware of the animal's fine points as a track animal and "Bill" profited thereby. In a trial spin last night, "Skipper," as he has been labelled, developed a 2.40 gait without straining. The new owner has made application to enter him in the Fourth of July race meet and will also take him to Flemington to compete with some of the fast ones from Three Bridges and Frenchtown.

FELLED HIM WITH CLUB

Mike Readington is Severely Injured in Row at Italian Store.

RESISTS POLICE DOCTOR

Three Officers Have To Hold Him While Physician Sews Up Gash in Head—Assailant and Victim Fined.

Policeman Martin Vanderweg, covering [illegible] beat, stood at 9:30 [illegible] night, saw Michael [illegible] and one of Vincenzo Buono come out of the latter's candy store in something of a rush. Readington fell, and the policeman hurried over. When he reached the two, Readington had risen to his feet and was cursing the Italian.

"You bit me with a club," he said with an oath.

Blood was flowing from a deep and dangerous wound in his scalp. Vanderweg placed them both under arrest, and sent in a hurry call for the patrol wagon. Readington had been *drinking, and he was in a semi-con*scious state from the combined effects of liquor and loss of blood when the wagon reached the scene.

Dr. C. B. Lufburrow, summoned from headquarters in anticipation of Readington's arrival, was waiting for the injured man when the wagon reached the Italian home. He received Readington, and dressed the wound. Three stitches were taken in the man's scalp. He carried on while the physician was attending him, and it required the combined strength of Chief Kiely, Detective-Sergeant Flynn and Patrolman Hoffman to hold him sufficiently still to enable the doctor to sew up the cut.

Later, in his cell, Readington identified Buono as the man who had struck him, and in the city court Monday, Mayor Chas. J. Fisk, sitting in place of Judge Runyon, who was out of town, fined him $15 after he had pleaded non vult. Readington was fined the same amount. The mayor said he figured too frequently in police court cases, and probably brought the trouble on himself. Both fines paid. F. J. Blatz appeared for Buono.

S. O. PERMIT GRANTED BY A 6 TO 4 VOTE

TRUST ALLOWED TO PLACE GASOLINE TANK IN CITY LIMITS.

The petition of the Sandard Oil Company for permission to erect a large gasoline tank on its property on East Fourth street, adjoining the railroad, came up for favorable disposition at the July meeting of the Common Council, Monday night. Mr. Tyler led the opposition force and he sounded a strong note of alarm in entertaining the proposition at all. The petition was presented by Mr. Hibbard, of the fire and building committee, and it caused much discussion.

The Standard Oil Company desires to build this tank, about 30 feet deep and ten feet in diameter, proposing to sink it beneath the ground, where it would store gasoline for automobiles. The capacity of the tank would be about 350 barrels.

Mr. Hibbard explained that the matter had reached the hands of Building Inspector T. O. Doane, but he preferred to have the Council take action on it.

Mr. Mellick stated that by placing the tank underground every precaution would be taken to safe-guard the interests of nearby property-own*ers. He thought it could not possi*bly do any harm and he favored granting the petition.

Mr. Tyler said that it was so serious a matter to act on without full consideration. He could see no reason why the Standard Oil Company should be permitted to store so much gasoline in the neighborhood selected, and he believed it would be a decided menace to the residents.

Mr. Hibbard said that he did not care to engage in any scientific discussion of the subject, but in his opinion he could see no danger in the storing of gasoline out-of-doors. He said that it would practically be impossible for air to get into the tank, come in contact with vapor gases and cause the trouble anticipated. Mr. Tyler said he knew something about gasoline and knew how dangerous it is under almost any condition.

Finally, Mr. Tyler moved that the petition be referred back to the committee for further consideration. This motion was lost, and Mr. Hibbard then pressed his motion that it be granted. This was carried, Councilmen Tyler, Gloak, C. C. Randolph and President Daniel voting in the negative.

Mr. Listman Recovering.

G. L. Listman, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., who was operated upon for appendicitis last week, will leave the hospital Friday. He is steadily recovering.

J. V. N. Willis, of Duer street, is sojourning at Whitehouse, Hunterdon county.

COUNCILMEN KEPT BUSY

Flood of Petitions and Reports Took Up Time of City Fathers.

BEN LA VERE' OFFER

Wants to Give Public Band Concerts For $500—All Bids for Storm Sewer Rejected.

An almost endless amount of routine business was disposed of at the July meeting of the Common Council Monday, and it together with other matters of more importance, made the session a lengthy one, it being just *midnight when an ad*journment was taken to July 15, to receive bids for proposed contract work.

Among the petitions received was one from H. L. Miller, of East Second street, on a hydrant, one from the Vacuum Cleaning Company for a fire-alarm box near its factory on North avenue, another one for a hydrant at Hunter avenue and West Fourth street, and one from G. W. V. Moy and others asking that sidewalks be laid on Kenilworth street, between Sixth and Seventh streets. All of these matters were referred to the proper committees.

Warren B. Travell and Peter Morgan, contractors on the southside sanitary sewer work, which includes the installation of a pumping station on Randolph road, asked for an extension of time until September 20 next to complete the work and later Mr. Ginna offered resolutions granting the request. The resolutions were adopted.

Benjamin LaVere sent a communication to the Common Council as to the resumption of band concerts, stating that according to a new law the city has the right to appropriate any amount up to $2,000 for such amusement. He said that he was willing to furnish the concerts if the city would appropriate $500. Later Mr. Tyler, chairman of the public affairs committee, to which the matter was referred, reported that Mr. LaVere had failed to make any definite proposition and for that reason he moved that the request be denied. It was so ordered.

Residents of Stebbins place, between Third and Fourth streets, petitioned to have that street macadamized and the matter was referred to the street committee. The deed transferring property held by the city under the provisions of the Martin Act, to Clara Stelle, was presented and filed.

In response to a request from all the property-owners interested an ordinance was introduced and passed on two readings, providing for the vacating of a portion of Prescott place. While the street was surveyed and designated as a public thoroughfare at the July meeting of the Common Council, Monday night, Mr. Tyler led the opposition force and he sounded a strong note of alarm in entertaining the proposition at all. The petition was presented by Mr. Hibbard, of the fire and building committee, and it caused much discussion.

The Standard Oil Company desires to build this tank, about 30 feet deep and ten feet in diameter, proposing to sink it beneath the ground, where it would store gasoline for automobiles. The capacity of the tank would be about 350 barrels.

Mr. Hibbard explained that the matter had reached the hands of Building Inspector T. O. Doane, but he preferred to have the Council take action on it.

Mr. Mellick stated that by placing the tank underground every precaution would be taken to safe-guard the interests of nearby property-own*ers. He thought it could not possi*bly do any harm and he favored granting the petition.

Mr. Tyler said that it was so serious a matter to act on without full consideration. He could see no reason why the Standard Oil Company should be permitted to store so much gasoline in the neighborhood selected, and he believed it would be a decided menace to the residents.

Mr. Hibbard said that he did not care to engage in any scientific discussion of the subject, but in his opinion he could see no danger in the storing of gasoline out-of-doors. He said that it would practically be impossible for air to get into the tank, come in contact with vapor gases and cause the trouble anticipated. Mr. Tyler said he knew something about gasoline and knew how dangerous it is under almost any condition.

Finally, Mr. Tyler moved that the petition be referred back to the committee for further consideration. This motion was lost, and Mr. Hibbard then pressed his motion that it be granted. This was carried, Councilmen Tyler, Gloak, C. C. Randolph and President Daniel voting in the negative.

Mr. Listman Recovering.

G. L. Listman, physical director of the Y. M. C. A., who was operated upon for appendicitis last week, will leave the hospital Friday. He is steadily recovering.

J. V. N. Willis, of Duer street, is sojourning at Whitehouse, Hunterdon county.

Other resolutions by Mr. Hibbard, which were adopted, provided that bids be received for furnishing the fire department with 100 tons of coal and 300 bushels of oats, the same to be received at the meeting on Monday night, August 5.

Mr. Hibbard submitted plans, drawn by Architect E. V. French, for the necessary repair of No. 1 Engine House, and bids will be received for the work at the regular August meeting.

There was considerable discussion regarding Mr. Buxton's resolution to locate a fire-alarm box at Grant and Sherman avenues, petitioned for by W. T. Kirk and others, but inasmuch as four fire hydrants had just been granted Mr. Hibbard opposed the extra expense. Mr. Buxton insisted that it was needed, but when Mr. Hibbard explained that he thought he could change another box in the vicinity the resolution was lost by a tie vote of five to five. Mr. Ginna at first voted in favor, but afterward asked for the privilege of changing his vote which he was allowed to do.

The bids for the Plainfield avenue storm sewer work being too high, Mr. Ginna offered a resolution rejecting all bids submitted June 20, and offered another resolution, which was adopted, advertising for new bids to be received on August 5.

Mr. Ginna offered a resolution providing for the construction of an extension of the sanitary sewer system as planned, and bids will be advertised for to be received on August 5. The plans and specifications were filed last night.

Mr. Hibbard again offered an amendment to the building ordinance authorizing Building Inspector Doane to grant permits to persons to move buildings from one point to another point on the same lot. Again Mr. Tyler offered objections, claiming that it was letting down the bars for the erection of spite-houses, but Mr. Hibbard explained that it was such a simple matter and it would be impossible for the fire and building committee to consider it in detail at such petitions. The ordinance was adopted on two readings and ordered advertised.

Councilman Frank Randolph offered a resolution, authorizing the advertisement in The Daily Press and Courier-News of the construction of garden docks, and it was adopted. Councilmen Daniel and Montgomery voting no. The supplement to the tax ordinance for 1907 was adopted on third and final reading and at the adjourned meeting action will be taken providing for a contingency fund, as recommended by Corporation Counsel Marsh.

Through Councilman Hibbard, chairman of the fire and building committee, Chief T. O. Doane, of the fire department, preferred charges Monday, against Driver C. Force, a call man of the department, who has refused to do duty and also refuses to resign from his position. The action, which was published in The Daily Press recently, is brought for the purpose of giving Mr. Force a fair and impartial trial and deciding whether the position he maintains is justified.

Mr. Force was attached to No. 1 Hose Company, and the papers presented last night by Chief Doane charge him with misconduct in his position, which is said to mean absenting himself five days without leave and failure to respond to eighteen fire alarms since January 1 last, and do duty. The chief also charges that Mr. Force walked into his office and said that he was through, yet refuses to resign.

Mr. Hibbard offered a resolution fixing Tuesday night, September 3, as the time when the trial will be held in the Common Council rooms. The resolution was adopted. The member further explained that Corporation Counsel Marsh would be home from his European trip by the time set for the trial. However, as Mr. Force had failed to reply to letters sent him by Mr. Marsh, as well as himself and Chief Doane, he doubted whether he would appear at the designated time for trial. Mr. Hibbard said that he had asked Mr. Force to come and see him, but this he failed to do.

When the vote was taken on the resolution fixing the time for the trial, some surprise and comment were occasioned, Councilmen Frank Randolph, Gloak and Buxton voting in the negative against the recommendation of the chairman of the committee. No explanation for their action was given. The resolution carried with it a provision that a copy of the charges be sent to Mr. Force.

Greatest Institution in the World.

The regard in which The Prudential Insurance Company is held by the public of its home city was shown at the Children's Day services in one of the Newark, N. J., churches one Sunday recently. The pastor had given the subject, the Christian church, and, in order to learn just how much information the little ones had absorbed, at the close of his remarks asked them if any one could tell him what was the greatest institution in the world. Quick as a flash a little voice piped out, "The Prudential Insurance Company." When you consider what The Prudential has done toward bettering conditions in this world or ours, the little fellow wasn't far off the right track, and no doubt his reply was an echo of the opinion of his parents regarding the company.—Insurance World.

COL. MASON TYLER DEAD

Well Known Resident Succumbs in New York Hospital Following Operation.

AN ACTIVE CITIZEN

Had Served in Common Council, Board of Education and Public Library—Of Mayflower Descendant.

Colonel Mason W. Tyler, one of Plainfield's foremost citizens for over thirty years, died Tuesday at the Presbyterian Hospital, New York, where he underwent an operation during the past three weeks. He apparently was improving for it was understood that he was to return home within a few days. During the past forty-eight hours there was a sudden change for the worse and the end came suddenly.

During his entire residence in Plainfield Col. Tyler was identified with nearly everything that stood for the progress and betterment of the city. He possessed considerable wealth and was generous in his contributions to all charitable enterprises and those in need. His death will be a distinct loss to Plainfield and many of its best known societies, with which he was identified.

Colonel Tyler was born June 17, 1843, at Amherst, Mass., and was the son of Professor William S. Tyler, who occupied the chair of Greek in Amherst College for sixty years. He was a descendant of Governor Bradford, of the Mayflower, and Major-General John Mason, who commanded the expedition against the Pequot Indians. He was also a descendant of the Rev. Jonathan Edwards, president of Princeton College, Aaron Burr was a cousin of his grandmother. His mother was a descendant of Gov. Ogden, of New Jersey.

Colonel Tyler was graduated from Amherst College in 1862. He entered the army and rose to the position of colonel, being with Sheridan in the Shennandoah Valley. He was several times disabled. He participated in fifty-two battles. After the war he studied law at Columbia College and since has been practicing that profession. He was a director of many mercantile and other business corporations.

In 1869 Col. Tyler was married to Miss Ella M. Schroeder, daughter of the late Rev. Dr. Schroeder, formerly rector of Trinity church, New York. She was a descendant of UnitedStates Senator Boardman. Mrs. Tyler died a year ago. Two sons are surviving: William Seymour Tyler, the reformer of the Plainfield Common Council, and Cornelius Boardman Tyler.

Col. Tyler had served as a member of the Common Council and the Board of Education. He was a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and was also a member of the New York Commandery, Military Order Loyal Legion. He was also a member of the Society of Mayflower Descendants and of the Society of Colonial Wars. In addition he was president of the Plainfield Public Library Association and was one of the early trustees of Muhlenberg Hospital. Col. Tyler was also identified with the Town Improvement Association and of the Organized Aid Association. He was a member of the Somerset Historic Society. He drafted many of the city bills for presentation to the State Legislature some years ago and was president of the Plainfield Anti-Race Track Association. Col. Tyler was a commu*nicant of Grace church and for many* years active in all its affairs.

CHAIRMEN ARE COMING HOME SOON FROM THE WEST.

Both J. S. Frelinghuysen and F. H. Smith Getting Ready to Return North Shortly.

Two neighboring county chairmen are preparing to return to their homes this week, from far-off points. Senator Frelinghuysen, chief of the Republican organization in Somerset county, who has been critically ill at the Auditorium Annex Hotel, Chicago, recovering from an operation for appendicitis, which developed suddenly while he was on a business trip in that city recently, will be in shape to return home on Saturday, and is expected to start on the eastward journey at that time.

Frank H. Smith, head of the Union County Republican Committee, who has been touring the Pacific coast and Alaska, is expected to return home Tuesday, July 9. He will be back in time to get into the thick of the campaign caused by the grand jury's condemnation of the political side of the petit jury panels. He may have something to say about the subject, because he is the active head of the reigning county political organization, which Mr. Fisk's jury has been using to impugn the petit jury panels for the payment of political debts and things.

FREEHOLDERS' BUSY DAY

Somerset Board Transacted a Large Batch of Business at Somerville Yesterday.

TO ACCEPT A BRIDGE

Members to Meet at New West End Avenue Structure Crossing Greenbrook Tomorrow.

Regarless of the excessive heat yesterday the Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders, at their regular meeting in the court room at Somerville, transacted a vast amount of business.

Member Vreeland, of Montgomery township, reported that the committee, to whom was referred the application of the Board of Managers of the New Jersey State Village for Epileptics at Skillman for permission to lay railway tracks and water pipes, had examined the said application and the location and recommended that the resolution presented at the regular meeting of June 11 be granted. On motion the resolution was adopted, with the proviso that the said petitioners retain a clause providing that the Board of Managers shall not use this permission for any other purpose nor transfer it to any party or parties.

The Board will meet tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the West End avenue bridge in North Plainfield to view the same, with the purpose of acceptance.

The committee appointed to examine the bridge near the ice house on Union avenue reported that the condition is very bad and recommended that a new bridge should be built. Plans, as prepared by the County Engineer, for a concrete structure, were presented. It was unanimously ordered that a new bridge be built and bids will be advertised for to be received at the court house in Somerville on Tuesday, July 23, from 1 to 1:30 p. m.

In the matter of the retaining wall at the bridge near Burnt Mills, County Engineer Doughty submitted plans and specifications, which were approved and bids will be received at the court room in Somerville on Tuesday, July 23, from 2 to 2:30 p. m.

County Engineer Doughty reported that it would be necessary to change the grade of the road from North Branch to North Branch Depot and that the extra expense would cost about $400 and requested the consent of the Board to make the change. So ordered.

A petition, numerously signed by citizens and taxpayers, requested the construction of a macadamized road from Gladstone to Pottersville. On motion it was placed on file.

The County Collector was authorized to borrow $20,000 in anticipation of taxes.

The committee on building the new court house was authorized to take what action is necessary to protect the shade trees in the court house yard.

Application was made by the Bernardsville Garage Co. for permission to lay a two-inch pipe across the county road in front of the residence of George Bunn at Bernardsville. The application was referred to the counsel of the Board.

Application was made by W. G. Ladd to have the Board place larger pipes at the railroad crossing at Far Hills. No action will be taken in the matter because the company has changed the course of the water.

Clerk Sutphen was authorized to notify the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company to remove four poles standing in the roadway at the turn of the road at the intersection of the Kline's Mills road near Thomas Moore's in Bedminster township within thirty days from date of notice.

Sometime ago the road committee authorized Engineer Doughty to notify the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad Company to remove the gates where the railroad crosses the macadam road at Belle Mead, which are an obstruction, and the company has asked the engineer to define the lines of the public road. It was moved that the County Engineer be authorized to give the railroad company the road lines and be instructed to remove the said obstruction.

All the members of the Board were present at the meeting.

Fay to Be Sentenced Saturday.

Charles Fay, who was convicted on acharge of passing a forged check on Harry Werner, the West Front street clothier, a few weeks ago, will be arraigned in the Union County Court on Saturday for sentence.

—The berry season is at hand and Neuman Brothers step to the front with a large and varied assortment. Among the varieties today and tomorrow are strawberries, red raspberries, blackberries and huckleberries. They also have nice currants for jelly making.

GLAZER'S FAT FACTORY WILL AGAIN BE OPENED

VICE CHANCELLOR GRANTS PERMISSION UNDER CERTAIN CONDITIONS.

Through an order signed Monday by Vice Chancellor Bergen, Theodore Glazer will again be able, under certain conditions, to operate his fat-rendering factory at Alton. The plant has been idle because of a vigorous campaign conducted against it by nearby residents but the latest move is a winning step for the owner.

The factory was closed last May when Miles Rouch and other Alton people induced Chancellor Bergen to issue an injunction against its operation. Since then Glazer, through his counsel, Judge William Newcorn, has sought to have the injunction dissolved but without success. On Monday, however, the chancellor granted his request in a modified form, stating that Glazer could conduct his business so long as it did not offend Rouch or endanger his health. In the event of his doing so the injunction will again be issued.

The principal complaint against the place has always been that the odors coming from it were unbearable and residents half a mile away could not sit on their porches in warm weather. Glazer spent large sums in installing improved machinery to deodorize the rendering of fat and claimed that he succeeded but the opposition continued. The local and State Boards of Health were called upon and finally Rouch succeeded in getting the injunction from the chancellor.

MONUMENT TO HEROES OF NEW JERSEY UNVEILED

TWO YOUNG WOMEN OFFICIATE AT CEREMONY ON BATTLE FIELD.

A monument erected by the State of New Jersey to commemorate the services of the Fourteenth Volunteer Infantry of New Jersey in the battle of the Monocacy was unveiled on the battlefield, near Frederick, Md., yesterday by Miss Alice Patterson, daughter of Major John C. Patterson, of Freehold, N. J., assisted by Miss Foster, daughter of Adjutant William H. Foster, of Scobeyville, N. J.

Major Patterson, chairman of the Monument Commission, presented the monument to the State, and the Rev. Dr. W. Case, of Trenton, N. J., representing Gov. Stokes, accepted it on behalf of the State and transferred it to the Regimental Reunion Association, on whose behalf it was accepted by William C. Larowe, of New York.

The monument is a shaft of granite, surmounted by a figure of an infantryman clean-cut from the same stone, and is the first memorial of the kind erected on the battlefield. Yesterday was the forty-third anniversary of the battle.

Baraca Society's Officers.

The Baraca Society at a largely attended meeting last night at Baptist Faith chapel transacted new plans for promoting interest in the work. In addition to the election of officers a Junior Baraca was organized which will be under the leadership of L. W. Randolph. With the addition which is being built to Faith chapel for the use for the Baraca Society, an increase of membership is anticipated. These officers were elected for the regular society: President, G. VanNest; vice-president, Charles Griffen; recording secretary, D. C. Paterson; treasurer, C. Traugerr, teacher, Rev. J. W. Musson; assistant teacher, F. Stewart; press reporter, Ira L. LaRue; librarian, D. McGinnis.

Will Complete Change in a Week.

The officials in charge of the work of moving from the old telephone building to the new one on East Fourth street, expect that within a week's time all of the connections, including the party lines will be operated from the new office. Next week this time is believed that the service will be working without a hitch. At present both offices are used, a separate force being engaged at each.

Baptist Excursion Tomorrow.

The committee in charge of the Baptist excursion to Asbury Park, tomorrow, has arranged to have the trains stand on the side track five minutes before time of departure, 8.15 and 8.20, and returning from the shore the trains will leave at 7.15 and 7.20, where the same arrangements will be carried out as to the trains being brought up to the station.

Elton Giles, of West Fifth street, is spending a week's vacation at Long Branch.

SHAKE-UP IN HUNT CLUB

Mayor Fisk Succeeds C. D. Freeman as a Steward and Colonia is Abandoned.

H. A. Bourne Another New Steward

—Organization's Indebtedness to Be Liquidated—Mr. Waring M. of H.

The stewards of the Watchung Hunt Club at a meeting in the Casino, last night, effected a reorganization, including the election of Lewis E. Waring as master of the hounds, in place of Charles D. Freeman, of Colonia, resigned. Mayor Charles J. Fisk was elected a steward to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Mr. Freeman, and H. A. Bourne, of Westfield, a steward, to fill a previous vacancy that existed. The club's home for the present will be at the Casino and not Colonia, and the hounds will be kept on Mayor Fisk's farm on Park avenue, near the Gentlemen's Driving Park.

When Mr. Freeman's resignation as a member of the club was received there was no explanation for the action, in fact the note was short and curt. Some of the members say they do not know why Mr. Freeman quit. Active members say they are convinced that the organization during the past year, or in fact ever since it moved to Colonia, has been run extravagantly and that many useless expenditures will be cut out in the future. At last night's meeting the members promptly subscribed the necessary amount to liquidate all the indebtedness and a new start will be made. The club will be made stronger than ever, it is said, and many changes for the betterment of the organization are now underway. There is no idea of giving up the annual steeplechase meets, and the protection of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association will be continued as heretofore.

The association will continue to enjoy the privileges of hunting over farms throughout Union county, and there will be the customary hunts in season. When Mr. Freeman offered the use of his farm and farm-house at Colonia for one year, for a nominal rental, it was believed to be a wise move to accept the offer. But since that time experience has proved that the clubhouse was too far away to enlist the sympathy of the people who were members and others who would like to join. The organization was not closely identified with Plainfield as many desired and for that reason there was a lack of interest.

The Casino is considered an ideal place as a home, where there is every convenience for the members, including accommodations for giving dinners, lunches and teas. Later on other arrangements may be made which will still further advance its interests.

Lewis E. Waring was the popular choice of the members for master of the hounds. He is thoroughly acquainted with all the details of the organization and is competent in every way to give it a proper standing among the clubs of this kind throughout the State. He is also personally acquainted with the masters throughout the country and the officers of the National Steeplechase and Hunt Association, thus assuring hearty co-operation between the national and local association.

Action on Sewer Work.

When the Common Council held its adjourned meeting Monday night it is quite likely that some action will be taken regarding the Southside sanitary sewer work, which has been temporarily held up. It is the intention of the city officials to have this work go on with all possible speed and not be interrupted by such troubles as have characterized it since it was started.

Big Event of the Week.

The Baptist excursion to Asbury ark tomorrow is the big event of the week and the prospects of fine weather assures all of a fine day at the seashore. The train will leave Plainfield at 8.15 in the morning and Asbury Park at 7.15 in the evening. Plan to go and enjoy yourself.

Miss Carroll to Sing.

Miss Grace Carroll, contralto, of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, will sing at the Gospel meeting at the Netherwood Fresh Air Home, tomorrow night, and P. E. Smith, superintendent of Trinity Reformed church Sunday-school, will lead.

J. B. Betts a U. S. Juror.

J. Broomard Betts, of the borough, is one of the jurors selected for the United States Grand Jury, to serve for the June term of court which opened at Trenton, yesterday.

Mrs. John Maylon, of Park avenue, is spending a month's vacation in the mountains.

SAYS HIS WIFE HAS GONE WITH OLDEST SON

PETER JONAS ADVERTISES ALLEGED DESERTION.

Alleging that his wife has deserted him, Peter Jonas, a painter, of 150 North avenue, advertises today that he will not be responsible for her debts. It is said to be the second time within a year that Mrs. Jonas has left her husband.

Jonas said this morning that he was through with his wife. She said she did not intend to come back, he declared, and he did not intend to do anything to make her change the determination. She took their fourteen-year-old son, Jacob, with her, he averred, but he was satisfied with the control of a ten-year-old son whom she did not tempt to leave home.

Mrs. Jonas is supposed to be in Elizabeth. Her husband says she went away from him last Easter, and was gone ten weeks. He forgave her when she returned then, but he has no forgiveness in his heart now.

MAN FLEEING TRENTON CAPTURED BY LOCAL COPS

NABBED ON BOARD READING EXPRESS WHEN IT STOPPED HERE.

The local police receive a telephone message from the Trenton authorities at 6:30 this morning, asking that they apprehend Antone Morraw, who would be bound on the Reading express reaching this city at 7:30. A full description of the man was given and thus equipped Detective-Sergeant John Flinn and Patrolman Kelly boarded the train when it stopped at the North Avenue station. They had no trouble in locating Morraw and placed him in custody before he had a chance to escape.

When Chief Kiely got word that the man was locked up he was told to hold him until Trenton officers arrived. It was said that Morraw committed an atrocious assault on a man last night and that he boarded the express with the intention of fleeing to New York. He informed Chief Kiely that his cousin is the publisher of Italiano-Amerigo, the influential Italian paper printed in New York.

TOURING CAR WRECKS FRAGILE PONY CART

DARK ROAD AND UNLIGHTED LAMPS LEAD TO A SMASHUP.

A touring car owned and driven by *Spencer Fullerton Weaver, of Cen*tral avenue, struck and wrecked a pony cart driven by Mrs. William Arnold, of Staten Island, on Park avenue, near the hospital, at 9 o'clock last night. Both vehicles were going toward town.

In the automobile were Mrs. Weaver and four friends. Mrs. Arnold was accompanied by her sister-in-law and the latter's son. They are stopping with relatives on Park avenue. The accident occurred at a dark bit of road. The cart had no lights, and Mr. Weaver did not know he was approaching it until the crash came. The car was going slowly, and although the cart was badly damaged, none of the occupants was hurt severely. Mr. Arnold was injured the most, and she suffered only from slight cuts on the chin.

Mr. Weaver hurried her to the hospital in the auto to make sure that she get medical attendance if it should be necessary. Mr. Weaver said after the smashup that Mrs. Arnold assumed all blame for the accident.

A Tabloid Vacation.

There are some of us who are not fortunate enough to have a long vacation in summer, consequently a one day trip is just the thing. One of the best in the year is the Asbury Park excursion of the Sunday-schools from the First Presbyterian, Congregational and Danellen churches, which is to take place on Thursday, July 17. Be one of the fortunate ones to attend.

Fire From Engine Sparks.

Sparks from a locomotive set fire to a small shed on the former Mrs. John Brown property on South Second street near Grant avenue, this noon. An alarm was turned in from box 43 but the flames were quickly extinguished by apparatus from the West End and uptown houses. The damage will not exceed $50. The property is owned by the Pond Tool Company.

The regular business meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3.30 o'clock.

ITALIANS QUIET DOWN

Sewer Laborers Retain* W. L. Hetfield, Jr. to Press Their Claims.

FISK GIVES THEM WORK

Restless Spirits Quelled By Father Sciolla, of St. Mary's Parish—No Word From Morgan Or Surety Company.

Although the situation was apparently unchanged on the surface this morning, things were taking a brighter turn for the seventy-five Italian laborers whose wages for the past month disappeared when Thomas J. Cusack, acting attorney for Peter Morgan, builder of the South Side Sanitary Sewer, dropped out of sight Monday. Quieted by Father Sciolla, of St. Mary's parish, and befriended by Mayor Fisk, they took effective action to secure payment of the money due them by retaining Walter L. Hetfield, Jr. Mr. Hetfield took immediate steps to safeguard the interests of the laborers. Although it is a month since some of the men have received any money, and they have reason enough to show restlessness, they were kept calm this morning by the energetic measures taken for their relief.

Father Sciolla spoke to the men last night, and quieted them. He told them that friends were working for them, and that they would soon receive their money. They bunked at the shanty on Randolph road, where Patsy Michele, the labor contractor has been boarding them, last night. They were provided with bread yesterday, but it is said that today's meals are in doubt. Michele, who claims he is out of pocket to the extent of $500 through the hold-up, went to New York last night. He is expected to return here today to help in the plans for securing the money due.

Mayor Fisk relieved the situation much, this morning, by putting the men at work on city jobs. They will be paid tonight for the day's work.

No clue to the whereabouts of Cusack has been received, and it is not even known here whether or not he went to Kingston, N. Y., nor has any *word been received from Peter Mor*gan, of Poughkeepsie, or the Metropolitan Surety Company, who furnished his bonds. Street Commissioner A. J. Gavett again telegraphed to them this morning, following these messages up with an explanatory letter. He urged that immediate action be taken to relieve the situation and straighten out the troubles brough on by the disappearance of Cusack.

The city's interests are protected and, if Mr. Morgan fails to keep his contract, the surety company is li*able for all damage and loss to the* city.

The original called for an expenditure of about $68,000, including the installation of the pumping station on Randolph road. Mr. Morgan's bid for the construction of the sewer was approximately $27,000. The work at the present time is probably half finished. At the last meeting of the Common Council the request of Mr. Morgan, as well as that of Warren B. Travell, who has the contract for installing the pumping station, for an extension of time to September 1, was granted.

MR. LEDERER'S DEATH CAUSED BY PNEUMONIA.

He and a Sister Suffered From Exposure On An Outing.

Albert Lederer, of this city, son of Isaac Lederer, who died on June 21 at Carlsbad, Austria, received a letter today from his cousin, S. Lederer, of Providence, L. I., giving him additional information concerning his father's illness and death. The letter states that Mr. Lederer contracted a severe cold in April, while taking an excursion with his sister, Mrs. Mary Lederer, of Klattau, Austria, and pneumonia developed, causing his death. Mrs. Lederer also be*came ill and is now in a serious con*dition at her home. She was not informed of the death of her brother.

The later information about Mr. Ledered was written by Isaac Lederer, of Prague, Austria, a relative of the dead man, who requested before his death that he write to S. Lederer, of Providence, and that the latter break the news to the family here as gently as possible.

County Chairman Back.

Register of Deeds Frank H. Smith and Mrs. Smith arrived home last night after a ten weeks' trip through the West and to Alaska. The county chairman's health was greatly benefitted by the outing.

Three New Eagles.

Freedom Castle, No. 42, Knights of the Golden Eagle, at a meeting last night, conferred the second degree on three candidates.

GOLDSACK SENTENCED FOR OPENING LETTERS

GETS A YEAR IN CALDWELL PENITENTIARY ON THREE CHARGES.

Robert Goldsack, the Plainfield mailing clerk who was detected opening letters placed in his care, was arraigned before Judge Joseph Cross in the United States District Court at Trenton, yesterday. He pleaded non vult to three charges and was sentenced to one year in Caldwell penitentiary on each, the sentences to run concurrently. With time off for good behavior the court's disposition means that he will be free again in ten months.

Goldsack was represented by City Judge William N. Runyon, who made a strong plea for his client. He also asked that in passing sentence the Caldwell institution be specified instead of making it the State prison at Trenton. Judge Cross listened to the appeal with evident interest but made little comment in disposing of the case.

Just previous to Goldsack's arraignment, James Carmichael, a Jersey City letter carrier, pleaded non vult to three letters and his sentence was made one year. The Trenton prison was designated but after Judge Runyon had asked for Caldwell for his client, Carmichael's counsel, Robert Carey, did the same and the request was granted. Carey is the Jersey City lawyer who made a favorable impression at the Colby open-air meeting in Concert Park last fall.

J. EVARTS TRACY NOW PUBLIC LIBRARY HEAD

SUCCESSOR TO THE LATE COL. MASON W. TYLER SELECTED.

Although there was considerable discussion at an adjourned meeting of the directors of the Plainfield Library and Reading Room, last night, no decision was reached in an effort to fill the vacancy on the board caused by the death of Col. Mason W. Tyler. J. Evarts Tracy, the vice- president was chosen president in place of Col. Tyler, Former Mayor Alexander Gilbert was made vice-president, William M. Stillman the secretary and J. Herbert Case the treasurer, retain these offices.

Dr. Conrad Waldo was chosen chairman of the library committee and W. F. Merrill was also appointed to membership on that committee. The art committee remains the same, Alexander Gilbert, chairman; J. Herbert Case and L. W. Randolph. After some discussion of the ques*tion of publishing a regular* report of library and reading room affairs, no decision being reached, the board adjourned to meet again on August 6. All of the directors, including Mayor Charles J. Fisk, were present at last night's meeting.

SPECIFIC PERFORMANCE BILL DISMISSED BY COURT.

Chancellor Stevens Quickly Disposes of Action Against W. L. Hetfield, Sr.

Vice Chancellor Stevens at Jersey City, yesterday, dismissed with costs the case of Walter L. Hetfield, Sr., brought by William G. Osgoodby. In April, 1906, Mr. Hetfield and wife contracted with L. W. Spear to sell him their property on East Front street. After Mr. and Mrs. Hetfield had signed the agreement, it was taken to New York to get the signature of Spear. When it was returned the name of Spear had been erased and that of E. M. Potter inserted in its stead. After several days the contract was returned to Mr. Hetfield, and he repudiated it. Potter assigned the contract to William G. Osgoodby, of this city, and he instituted a suit in the Court of Chancery for specific performance. The matter came up for a hearing before Vice Chancellor Stevens, in his chambers, yesterday. Osgoodby failed to put in an appearance, and the court dismissed the bill with costs. W. S. Anglesman represented Mr. and Mrs. Hetfield.

Sunday-school Class Outing.

Mrs. William H. Kirch, of Duer street, took her Sunday-school class, from Trinity Reformed church, on a picnic to Berkeley Heights, yesterday. The young folks were taken to and from Berkeley Heights by Mr. Kirch in his large carpenter's wagon. The day was a pleasant one for all and it was a jolly occasion long to be remembered.

Another Teacher.

The enrollment at the Summer school of the Y. M. C. A. increased to seventeen this morning and Miss Helen Hall was secured to assist Miss Burr in teaching. Miss Hall is an instructor in the Reading, Pa., high school.

BOY ROBBERS CAUGHT

Police Round Up Trio That Has Operated for the Past Six Months.

CANDY FURNISHED CLUE

Storekeeper Bought It From the Leader and Appears in Court With the Prisoners.

Following up a train of chewing gum and candy, the proceeds of a recent robbery, the local police yesterday succeeded in corralling a gang of local youths who have been committing petty thefts in town for six months or more. The specific com*plaint against* them was preferred by Edward Davis, of West Fourth street, who alleges that they broke into his store on February 6 last and appropriated goods to the value of $6 They have been suspected of this affair but it was not until they had been landed on another that they confessed to it and gave an opportunity for the charge to be made.

The prisoners are Arthur VanNest, aged 16, who has been in a dozen scrapes since he was ten years old; James Stites, aged 17, a former telegraph messenger boy, and Edward Seader, who has had the borough police after him at various times. They were arraigned before Judge Runyon, sitting as a State magistrate this morning, and enough of their depredations was told about to warrant his holding them for further action. Seader was released in $100 bail furnished by his father, VanNest was remanded for the Juvenile court and Stites was held to await the action of the Grand Jury, his age placing him in its jurisdiction.

The robbery that led to the undoing of the trio was committed two weeks ago when they broke into C. K. Compton's confectionery shop in the rear of Warnock's bakery and *stole a quantity of candy and chew*ing gum. The matter was reported to the police and profiting by a previous experience when the place was entered ten years ago, they kept a closed watch for youngsters with a surplus of sweets. Their efforts were rewarded a few days since when an officer learned that Arthur Van Nest had sold a lot of candy to Jesse Skinner, who keeps a small establishment in the West End. This clue was followed up and it led over a trail of sweets described by Compton until the three boys were reached.

When the gang was apprehended, Van Nest assumed the leadership and with an air of bravado told Chief Kiely that he and his friends had been guilty of a number of small affairs that have had the police on the alert since last winter. The Compton and Davis affairs were all he detailed but the complete list will probably be forthcoming in a day or two.

Skinner, the man who bought the candy of Van Nest, was ordered to court by Chief Kiely and he appeared when the boys were arraigned today. He informed the Judge that Van Nest had represented himself as *salesman for a New York confection*ery house and offered o sell him a quantity of sample confectionery for $6. Although he had known Van Nest for seven years, he said, he thought that perhaps he might have secured such a position and accepted the offer. The matter was not taken seriously by the magistrate but giving Skinner the benefit of the doubt, he let him off with the brand of Run*yonization that makes most men pre*fer the Grand Jury.

It is probable that the career of young Van Nest will be wound up for some years to come. He has been mixed up in all kinds of affairs but somehow or other has always had the faculty of worming out of the trouble and escaping the Reformatory. He is understood for his age but it is doubtful if any boy of his years has beaten his record with the police.

John Domoguaer Gets Five Years.

John Domogauer, of Elizabeth, who was arrested on a charge of assault with intent on Miss Gertrude Vaughn, aged 13 years of Elizabeth, and who was convicted, was sentenced in the Union County Court, this morning to five years in State Prison. At the time of Domoguaer's arrest, three other men, supposed to be implicated with him, were taken into custody in this city, but it was after*ward proved that they were not guil*ty.

Heptasophs Elect.

Protective Conclave, No. 505, improved Order of Heptasophs, has elected these officers: Past archon, F. A. Weber; archon, H. G. Uhler; provost, R. H. Barnard; prelate, M. Armstrong; secretary, V. W. Nash, Sr.; financier, John Green; treasurer, F. A. Weber; trustees, R. H. Barnard, A. H. Vanderhoef and H. Harral.

INCREASE IN SCHOOL TAX

Freeholders Learn why County Must Give State Over 100 Per Cent. More.

ADVANCED VALUATIONS

Jump In Ratables Laid to the Rise—J. Brognard Betts Gives Detailed Explanation to Mr. Ackerman.

Explanation of the increase in the amount of the State school tax to be raised by Union county this year has been obtained by the committee appointed by the Board of Freeholders to investigate the subject. The great increase in ratables cited to the advance. In connection with the report it makes on the subject, the committee urges that the attention of the State Board of Equalization and Taxes be called to the fact that Union county's increased valuation is larger than any other county of the State, and that the Freeholders protest against what is apparently a disproportionate increase in Union.

The committee's report, in part, is as follows:

"Your Committee to whom was referred the matter of increase in the State School Tax, desires to report that on June 17th, they visited the Superintendent of Schools and Comptroller at the State House in Trenton, that after a thorough investigation into the question to said tax, they find that the ratables of Union county, upon which was based the State School tax paid in 1906, was $155,360,767, the said valuation the State School tax of Union county in January, 1907, was $98,778,-51

"The ratables of Union county upon which is based the State school tax to be paid in January, 1908, is $196,259,417. This increase in the ratables is the reason that the State school tax to be paid in January, 1908, is $219,160.09, as the State school tax is based on the ratables of the county.

"It will be noticed that Union county will receive back the sum of $6,296.49 less than what is raised by taxation; this loss was the subject of considerable discussion in our interview with the State officials, but your committee were told that an increase in our school attendance was the only remedy for this.

"Your committee also desires to report that the attention of the State Board of Equalization and Taxes should be called to the fact that Union county has increased its valuation larger in proportion than any other county in the State and that is is reasonable for the Board to contend that other counties in this State have not complied with the spirit and letter of the laws relating to equal taxation, and your committee feels that the increase in valuation, in proportion, in Union county, should not be greater than any other county in the State.

A detailed explanation of the matter was given by Senator Ernest A. Ackerman from J. Brognard Betts, Assistant State Superintendent of Public Instruction. Mr. Betts wrote to the Senator in response to a letter of inquiry sent by Mr. Ackerman when he learned of the big increase in the appropriation. Mr. Betts, under date of June 24, writes, in part, as follows:

"The State school moneys apportioned to the counties comes from several sources.

First—The $200,000 from the income of the State School Fund. This is apportioned among the counties on the basis of the total days' attendance in the public schools.

Second—appropriations from the State School Fund of about a million dollars in reduction of State School Tax, apportioned among the counties on the basis of their respective ratables. This is called the School Tax. This tax is fixed by law at the rate of 2½ mills, but the actual rate is reduced by reason of the State appropriation above referred to. Last year the State appropriation was 25 per cent. of the amount of State School Tax required to be raised, so that the actual rate of State School Tax was ¾ of 2½ mills. Each county receives from the State Treasurer 90 per cent. of the tax it raises.

"Fourth—The Reserve Fund, which is the remaining ten per cent of the State School Tax, and which is apportioned among the several counties in the discretion of the State Board of Education, it being the intention of the law that this money is to be so distributed that the counties which are relatively rich in ratables and poor in children shall assist the counties which are relatively poor in ratables and rich in children.

Fifth—The new railroad tax in excess of one-half of one per cent. of the value of first class railroad property.

"There is a slight reduction in the amount apportioned to Union county from the income of the State School Fund. This is due to the fact that there has been a decided increase each year in the total days enrollment of pupils in the public schools. The increase in attendance in Union county is not as great as in some other counties in the State, hence the decreased apportionment. The increase of nearly $20,000 in the apportionment from the State appropriation in reduction of tax is a clear gain to the county, and is caused by the increased in the ratables of the county.

"The increase is over $98,000 in the 90 per cent of the tax is also due to the increase in the ratables, and while the actual amount of State School Tax raised by Union county is nearly double what it was a year ago, the county does not suffer by reason of such increase, because practically all the tax raised in the county is returned to it. The increase of nearly $6,000 in the Reserve Fund is due of course to the same cause, namely, the increase of ratables.

"The increase in the total amount apportioned to the county, exclusive of the railroad tax, is nearly $134,-000. Add to this the amount apportioned from the new railroad tax, and the additional amount in the current year apportioned to Union county is $305,124.78. For last year there was raised by local appropriations for school purposes over $359,-000. The increased amount of moneys received from the State is about 36 per cent of the local appropriations for school purposes.

"The very large increase in the amount of State School Tax raised in your county is due to the tremendous increase in your ratables. The increase in the ratables for the entire State in the past 36 per cent. The increase for Union county was over 92 per cent. The next highest was Cape May with 77 per cent, and the next Passaic with 66 per cent. It is very evident from this increase that the ratables in Union county prior to last year were very much lower than in any other county in the State, or else than Union county, last year approached more nearly to true value than any other county in the State. The result of this large increase in the ratables of the county will be to reduce the local appropriations for school purposes. Of course, it will not be possible to reduce the local appropriations to the full amount of the increase in the ratables, for the reason that there is a constantly increasing demand for more teachers and more school buildings.

"There is also a necessity for increasing the salaries of teachers, due to two causes, first, the action on the part of our school boards for professionally trained teachers, who necessarily demand higher salaries, and, secondly, owing to the demand for teachers being in excess of the supply.

"The local appropriations for schools will not show the effect of the increased amount received from the State this year, because, first, the districts were compelled to make their appropriations without reference to the amount that would receive from the new railroad tax act, for had that been taken into consideration and the local appropriations corresponding reduced, the districts would be left with a deficit should the courts set aside the Perkins act, and, second, because the estimates were compelled, in many cases, to make their local appropriations in advance of receiving definite information as to the amount they would receive from the State, and in order to be safe fixed their local appropriations at about the same figure as the preceding year. The local appropriations for the next year should show a very marked decrease, particularly if the Perkins act is sustained and this without any detriment to our schools, but allowing for the natural increase caused by the increase of our population.

"I stated above that the local appropriations last year were over $359,000. Nearly $104,000 of this was for bullding and repairing purposes and for payment of school bonds and interest, so that the increased amount to your county, including the new railroad tax, had the county received it this year, would have been sufficient for current expenses of the schools without one dollar of local appropriations.

"I am unable to give you the amount which either district will receive from the railroad tax under the Perkins act, as that apportionment is made by the County Superintendent, and he has not filed a copy in this office. All the moneys apportioned by the State to any county is divided among the several districts on the basis of the number of teachers employed and the local days' attendance of the pupils in the public schools. The use of ratables as the basis of apportioning school moneys is now confined to the County Superintendent in his apportionment as between the districts in his county."

Independence Day at Park Club.

The Independence Day celebration at the Park Club was largely attended and much enjoyed, as usual. In addition to the large gathering of members and friends on the club grounds to witness the fine display of fireworks in the evening, Washington avenue was thronged with people from all parts of the city and borough. The display lasted about an hour, after which the members and their guests enjoyed dancing in the clubhouse until a late hour. In the afternoon, during the progress of the championship tennis tournament, tea was served on the clubhouse veranda. A number of women presided at the tea table, while some of the younger women assisted.

Not a Mourning Suit.

PRESENTMENT TRIABLE?

Contention in Hudson County Has Direct Bearing on Union County Situation.

TEST CASE PROBABLE

Grand Jury There Criticized for Exceeding Its Alleged Authority—A Legal Question.

A situation which, it will be seen, has a decided local bearing, exists in Hudson county just now. During the argument of counsel on the motion of Counsellor Robert Carey to quash the indictment against City Collector Edward Fry, which bill was recently nolle prossed, Prosecutor Speer remarked that a presentment was triable. Supreme Court Justice Fort supplemented this by saying that under the constitution such would appear to be the case as it read that no person could be tried except "by indictment or presentment," thus showing, it is pointed out, that they were in law practically the same as charging violations are concerned.

Now that the Hudson County Grand Jury has presented the Jersey City police officials for alleged discrimination in making arrests and for reporting at Sunday excise violations, those who recall the court's utterances are discussing the probability of Prosecutor Speer making a test case of the matter and proceedings to arraign and try some one of the officials in order to obtain adjudication on the point in the upper courts.

The question has never been threshed out in this State and a test would be of decided legal value, lawyers say. If a presentment is triable it will be another evidence of the almost limitless extent of Jersey law it would have, it is said, a radical effect of making officials live up to the laws on the statute books be they good or bad.

It is known that Prosecutor Speer has the matter under consideration, but it is not as yet settled whether any trials will follow the presentment.

Commenting on the action of Council in respect to the Grand Jury's recent presentment, the Hudson Observer says:

"Whether the city of Elizabeth is well or ill governed, we do not know. This is a question for its inhabitants, among whom the average of intelligence is very high, to determine for themselves. But in the controversy that has arisen between the Union County Grand Jury and the Elizabeth City Council, it is apparent, even to a non-resident, that the municipal representatives have much the better of it.

"The point is, that the presentment went far beyond the legitimate province of the Grand Jury. If the authorities hold that these bodies have jurisdiction in criminal matters only. By ancient custom they are expected to visit and report as to the condition of the county institutions, but no such duty is imposed upon them by statute in this State.

"They are not the censors of the public morals, advisers of the body politic, critics of their fellowmen, or advocates of changes in government. Each county, outside the jury room, may do in all of these matters how he likes. He may start a newspaper to voice his opinions, contribute to the columns of existing newspapers, or organize a political party to enforce his views; but, as a juryman, he has no right to use the office for any other office than the investigation of crime and the indictment of persons accused.

"When a jury have reasons to believe that crime has been committed of the law, it is their duty to indict. If they merely suspect wrongdoing, they have no moral right to pillory individuals in presentments, which the accused no opportunity to obtain acquittals before juries of their peers.

"All of the members of the Elizabeth City Council have joined in a demand that the Grand Jury shall indict them. This is a perfectly proper request. If they are not indictable, they ought not to have been presented. It may be true, as Justice Fort says, that one may be tried under a presentment, but such a proceeding was never undertaken in this State.

"Any other policy leads to the misuse of the power of such tribunals and a neglect of work which ought to be performed. There is a strong suspicion throughout the State that the Union County Grand Jury was animated by partisan politics. This not by a sincere desire to bring wrong-doers to justice—as it should have been."

English Versus French Roads.

In England it is almost impossible to attain speed with safety. The roads twist and turn and the walls and hedges prevent the driver's seeing what there is beyond a curve. An average pace of twenty-five miles an hour is fairly good time in England. Of course the country is settled much more thickly than France, which adds to the danger of speeding. Speed laws are enforced with severity in England, but if you will try the metle of your motor cross the channel. In France the road is yours.—Travel Magazine.

FRESH AIR HOME'S CARNIVAL NETS $200

ATTRACTION DREW FAIR PATRONAGE ALL DAY.

The carnival for the benefit of the Netherwood Fresh Air Home on its grounds Thursday was largely attended all day and proved a complete success. About $200 was realized.

Three of the attractions were in the new auditorium. The restaurant was in charge of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Scriben, assisted by the Misses Helen Guttridge, Edna Willis and Miss Me Niss. The cake booth was conducted by Miss Florence Hawkins, Miss Benedict, Mrs. Ada Cumming and Miss Cora Brokaw. Ice cream was also sold in the auditorium by Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Hadley and Mr. and Mrs. David Hand. The auditorium was artistically decorated with flowers, ferns and vines.

Outside on the grounds the shooting gallery did a good business. It was managed by Harold Robert. Fancy articles were sold by the Misses Mardeastle and Giles and Mrs. George. Mr. Herbert Henry and the Misses Loizeaux were kept busy at the candy table.

A attraction drew crowds to the Japanese booth, where Gado, a Jap, painted small sketches while his patrons waited. He also sold Japanese cups and saucers. Mrs. J. Louis and Mrs. Broom had charge of the fish pond. Those to whom the love of fishing appealed had a ample opportunity to try their luck at the wheel of fortune, manipulated by O. T. Lewis and T. Baron.

Memories of the old home and the farm were called to mind by the lemon squeezer, which represented the old well curb with the moss grown bucket, chain and sweep. Here, Miss Dorothy Smith, dressed as a country lass, handed out the lemonade which was drawn up in the bucket by Herbert Henry and Joseph Hawkins.

The most money was no doubt made at the fortune teller's booth, where R. H. McCready, dressed as a Turkish fortune teller, revealed the past, present and future of all who had the courage to listen.

The matron of the Home, Miss Sara Cumming, participated in the affair. G. E. Hall and J. D. Loizeaux acted as general managers, and Mrs. Herbert Henry was chairman of the general committee.

FOURTH WELL OBSERVED BY NEW MARKET JUNIORS

HAVE ATHLETIC EVENTS, MUSIC AND FIREWORKS AT THE LAKESIDE.

The Independence Day celebration at New Market was as successful as in past years. Friendship Council, Jr. O. U. A. M., under whose auspices it was held, conducted it on lines that could not fail to make the affair one long to be remembered by those who took part in and enjoyed it. The celebration began at 2.30 o'clock, and from that hour until after dark Vail's Grove, a pretty bit of shady land along the lake, where it was held, was crowded with visitors. Many Plainfielders attended.

Athletic events were prominent features of the afternoon. They went as follows:

Swimming race won by Clarence Sofield; John Thornton, second; Charles Ward, third. Duck race, won by John Thornton. Child race, sofield, second; Charles Ward, third. Tub race, won by Charles Bogue; John Thornton, second. Three-legged race, won by Maltbie-Churchill; Lake-Garretson, second; Fletcher-Ward, third. Bicycle race won by Chauncey Murphy; Charles Lake, second; John Loan, third. Standing broad jump, won by Chauncey Murphy; Churchill, second; Maltbie, third. 100-yard dash (special) won by Chauncey Murphy; Charles Lake second. Tug-of-war, won by the Voorhees' team, with T. Voorhees, captain; Garretson, Coriell, J.Voorhees, Logan, Tarpey, Isling; the Maltbies, the defeated team, was made up of Maltbie, captain; Fox, Smalley, Kinney, Dumont, Sofield.

There was a general good time after the events, which climaxed after dark in a brilliant display of fireworks. The refreshment booths, attractive both in appearance and for what they afforded, were liberally patronized. A brass band played through the afternoon and evening.

Charles S. Day was the chief pyrotechnist, and J. F. Dayton assisted him in setting off the fiery pieces and colored lights. The celebration committee was made up of H. J. Piddington, F. O. Nelson, Foster Sofield, Dr. D. C. Main and William Piddington.

Harold TenEyck, of Pluckemin, has been spending several days with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Sandford, of East Front street, are spending the summer in Maine.

Mrs. Matilda Higgins, of South Branch, is spending a week with friends in Plainfield.

Mrs. J. P. Homan, of this city, has been visiting Mr. and Mrs. Asa R. Dilts, of Somerville.

Mrs. C. W. Beebe, of Madison avenue, is spending the summer at Elenville, New York.

HOLIDAY'S GOLF EVENTS

Large Field Engages in Championship Play at Plainfield Country Club.

WILL PLAY TOMORROW

E. E. Iremonger and L. L. Tweedy Win Independence Day Cups—Play at Park Golf Club.

Independence Day was a delightful one at the Plainfield Country Club, and the many attractions provided by the Golf Committee brought out an unusually large field of players both morning and afternoon, while the social features at the clubhouse were greatly enjoyed. In the afternoon music was provided and in the evening there was a large dinner-dance which was attended by many members and their friends.

The chief event of interest on the course was the commencement of play for the club championship. This attracted many of the best players in the club and low scores were the rule. There were twenty-six contestants who qualified, the first eight playing for the club championship, the second eight to play for the consolation cup and the third eight to play for the third eight cup.

The following contestants qualified in the three divisions:

Robert Abbott, 72; W. Lester Glenney, 77; O. Reinhart, 79; C. B. Morgan, 79; E. B. Shoemaker, 82; J. Whitney Baker, 82; R. S. Rowland, 82; Leighton Calkins, 86; H. D. Hibbard, 87; W. D. Riggs, 88; E. Iremonger, 88; E. H. Willson, 90; M. J. Dumont, 91; L. L. Tweedy, 91; C. G. Burke, Sr., 91; Percy Stewart, 92; A. G. Henderson, 93; W. T. Glenney, 94; C. A. Stover, 94; L. A. Chase, 95; G. F. Earl, 96; R. F. Murray, 97; J. E. Erickson, 98; J. R. Evans, 99; W. B. Tyler, 99; H. F. Fox, 100; Edward J. Patterson, 101, Robert Abbott and Leighton Calkins withdrew from the first eight, allowing W. D. Riggs and H. D. Hibbard to take their places. The drawing for the first eight resulted as follows:

C. B. Morgan beat R. S. Rowland, 2 up and 1 to play; J. Whitney Baker beat H. D. Hibbard, 4 up and 2 to play; W. Lester Glenney beat E. B. Shoemaker, 7 up and 6 to play, and F. O. Reinhart beat W. D. Riggs, by default.

Second eight consolation cup—C. A. Stover beat C. C. Burke, Sr., 4 up and 3 to play; L. L. Tweedy beat E. H. Willson, 2 up; W. T. Glenney beat Percy Stewart, 2 up and M. J. Dumont beat A. G. Henderson, 4 up and 3 to play.

Third eight cup—L. A. Chase beat J. E. Erickson, 6 up and 5 to play; W. B. Tyler beat G. F. Earl, 4 up and 3to play; E. J. Patterson beat H. F. Fox, 1 up, and R. F. Murray beat S. H. Patterson, 7 up and 5 to play.

E. E. Iremonger won the Independence Day cup, his net score being a score of 75, and L. L. Tweedy won the Class B cup with a score of 73. The scores:

Class A—E. E. Iremonger, 88, 13—75; W. Lester Glenney, 77, 0—77; Leighton Calkins, 82, 4—78; E. B. Morgan, 79, 0—79; W. D. Riggs, 88, 8—80; E. J. Patterson, 94, 14—80; J. Whitney Baker, 82, 0—82; H. D. Hibbard, 87, 4—83; G. F. Earl, 96, 12—84; W. B. Tyler, 99, 12—87; S. H. Patterson, 97, 10—87; Howard Lapsley, 102, 10—92.

Class B—L. L. Tweedy, 91, 18—73; A. G. Henderson, 93, 18—75; J. R. Evans, 99, 23—76; A. E. Barclay, 95, 18—77; Harold Serrell, 101, 22, 78; C. C. Burke, Sr., 91, 13—78; C. A. Stover, 94, 15—79; L. C. Glenney, 103, 20—83; H. F. Fox, 100, 15—85; J. Evarts Tracy, 120, 27—93; L. H. VanBuren, 111, 15—86.

In the driving competition R. S. Rowland was the winner, his average of 216 yards being the best. M. J. Dumont finished second with a distance of 211 1-3 yards. In this competition three drives were allowed each contestant, but only drives that were within bounds or at stakes set at each side of the fair green on first hole counted. The winner received a box of golf balls. Rowland's three drives were: 220 2-3, 197 2-3, 230 2-3. Dumont's drives were 206, 207, 221.

The semi-finals for the club championship, the consolation cup and third eight cup will be played tomorrow and the finals a week from tomorrow.

Play for the Holiday cup, morning and afternoon, with an approaching and putting competition in the afternoon, attracted an unusually large number of members and friends to the Park Golf Club yesterday. The course was in fine condition and just suited the low-score making. In addition to the events on the course, there was a tea at the clubhouse in the afternoon and several dinners were given in the evening. Another attraction was the opening of the bowling green, on which there was general play.

Charles W. McCutchen won the Holiday cup, being even up on bogey. J. B. Bettis, Charles B. Morse and W. V. Byard were 3 down, and Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll was 5 down to bogey. The final play for the Hydewood Park cup, which was won by Rev. Dr. A. H. Carroll with a total of 19 points, resulted as follows:

Charles B. Morse, 101, 21—80; C. W. McCutcher, 102, 22—80; C. F. Corning, 98, 18—80; Reuben Knox, 101, 18—83; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 98, 11—87; Rev. C. L. Goodrich, 99, 12—87; W. V. Byard, 103, 25—88; A. W. Kenworthy, 106, 17—89; R. V. Carpenter, 115, 26—89; G. A. Chapman, 104, 15—89; Alexander Gilbert, 112, 20—92; L. R. Thurlow, 108, 16—92; Rev. J. O. McKelvey, 101, 8—93.

The approaching and putting contest was won by Rev. and Mrs. C. L. Goodrich with nine strokes.

Y. M. C. A. TROUNCES RARITAN TEAM TWICE

MORNING GAME 5 TO 1; AFTERNOON RESULT 6 TO 1.

Hitting when hits meant something won the game for Y. M. C. A. in the contest with the Raritans at Crescent Oval Thursday afternoon. The score was 5 to 2.

Minford, back in the game for the first time since his illness several weeks ago, was as effective as ever. He held the Raritans to four hits, and didn't issue a pass. Van Arsdale, who twirled for Dunellen, was in the box for Raritan, and the Plainfielders welcomed him with seven clouts, one of them a three-bagger. Dave Pond knocked that out in the eighth, and put the game in the refrigerator by sending two runners across the plate.

There were some flashes of brilliant playing. Craig made a sensational stop of a hot grounder and tagged a runner from second, robbing Hickey of a hit and the side a chance to score.

The score and summary:

DUNELLEN AND VICINITY.

The old Harris Lane schoolhouse was formally dedicated to Sunday-school service yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of members and neighborhood residents. The principal address was delivered by Rev. W. H. Bates, of Bound Brook.

W. S. Frederick has returned to the Board of Education, succeeding Collector Van Liew, who resigned. Mr. Stites has been appointed custodian of school moneys.

Rockview Council will celebrate its ninth anniversary this week. The committee in charge is arranging a noteworthy program.

The objective point of the Baptist church excursion, for which arrangements are being made, has not been definitely decided.

W. H. Cole will supply the school coal next winter. His contract price is $5.70 a ton for nut, stove and egg sizes.

The first of next month Miss Mabel Cole will return to her old position in H. C. Runyon's law office, Plainfield.

The Central Railroad is having the flagging on Prospect avenue, which was broken by teams, repaired.

Miss Ethel Perrine, of Linden, spent last week as the guest of Mrs. Charles Thornton.

Clarence R. Sofield returned to work this morning after a week's vacation.

Mrs. W. R. Hetfield is improving from an illness of two weeks' duration.

Friendship Circle will hold no meetings this month and next.

REPORT FEW ACCIDENTS

Hospital Record and Police Blotter Show That Fourth Was Unusually Tame.

NONE SERIOUSLY HURT

Two Borough Children Suffer from Explosion of Powder—Scotch Plains Boy Maimed By Cannon.

Though the customary number of burned fingers and singed eyebrows are everywhere in evidence, the Fourth of July celebration in Plainfield passed off without any fatalities occurring. Premature explosions of cannons and giant firecrackers and the careless handling of pistols and powder resulted in several accidents cases that threatened to prove serious but have since been found to be not so bad. For the first time in many years, the police blotter did not have a single accident entry.

An explosion of loose powder came near resulting fatally to Anna Blume, the nine-year-old daughter of Mrs. Charles Blume, of Mountain avenue, and Dorothy Krewson, about the same age, daughter of Councilman Frank Krewson, of the Borough. Anna secured a jelly glass filled with the black grains and took it over to Dorothy's home on Somerset street, the latter living with her grandmother, Mrs. Shepard. Budd Vail used some of the powder in shooting off a firecracker, and in doing so, the glass jar became broken. A few of the grains poured out and without realizing the danger, Anna touched a lighted punk to them as she and Dorothy were standing directly over the jar.

The entire mess of powder exploded, burning both children about the hands and faces. Anna's clothes were set afire and she ran screaming toward her home. Every step fanned the flames and she would undoubtedly have been burned to death but for the timely intervention of a bought hold of her and smothered the blaze with his coat. The greater part of her hair was burned off, and she will be under the doctor's care for some time. Dorothy's burns were quite severe but her clothing did not catch fire. Dr. Hughes attended both children.

B. K. Burke, a prominent merchant of Dunellen, was shot and severely wounded by a stray bullet while at work in his barn, Walnut street and Prospect avenue, Dunellen, Wednesday night. He was tying a bag of feed, when the bullet struck his right wrist.

Mr. Burke's barn is in the middle of a four-acre lot, and he could not distinguish the report that preceded the bullet. The ball ploughed through the flesh above his wrist, glanced along the bone, and lodged in the large muscle of the forearm. Dr. D. C. Main was called, and he cut out the bullet at once. The wound is not dangerous. There is no clue to the shooter, but there is a suspicion that the shooting was anything but accidental.

Harry Paff, the young son of Thomas Paff, of Scotch Plains, was handling a cannon Thursday afternoon and lingered around the touchhole a little too long after firing the gun of the charge. Part of the boys' thumb went with it. He was brought to Muhlenberg Hospital for treatment and will be able to go home today.

While the premature celebration was in progress Wednesday night, some one set off a dynamite cracker on North avenue. The explosion hurled a loose stone through the window of the Chinese laundry in the Woolston & Buckle row and caused a stampede among the occupants. No one was hurt.

Some one handling a revolver on West Front street, sent a stray bullet through the window of Alex. Lusardi's fruit store, Thursday. It just escaped hitting a customer and everybody in the vicinity felt uneasy a good while afterward.

While in attendance at the Y. M. H. A. outing at New Providence, S. Harrison shot himself in the hand with a blank cartridge. He was caused by a young woman shoving his elbow just as he was about to discharge the pistol.

Woes of the Rich Young.

The children of the rich today are not allowed to be imaginative. They have no illusions. They do not have the great and educative pleasure of pretense. In simpler, less material years the child "played at" something. A block of wood was a locomotive. A doll was a human being or a fairy. The tin horse was fleeter and more wonderful than Flora Temple or Dexter. Now everything must be done for the pleasure of a girl or a boy. The poor youngsters are not encouraged. They are hardly allowed to invent their own amusements, and turn plain and humble things into something rare and glorified by sheer force of imagination.—Boston Herald.

To Provide For Contingent Expenses.

The Common Council will hold an adjourned meeting on Monday night, July 15, when several street matters will be disposed of and a resolution will be adopted providing a contingent fund to meet expenses not included in the regular tax ordinance.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Prayer Meeting Topic For the Week Beginning July 14.

By REV. R. H. BOYLE.

Topic—Present day application of the first four commandments.—Ex. xx. 1-11.

The summary of the moral laws of God, given through Moses, is contained in the commandments, given also by God to Moses on Mount Sinai, during the stay of the children of Israel at that place while on their way from Egypt to Canaan. These commandments, written upon tables of stone, referred in the first four to man's duty to God and in the last four to man's duty to his fellow man. These laws were not a part of the ceremonial laws, which were done away with when Christ came, but they were moral laws—laws concerning right and wrong—and therefore eternally applicable. A distinguished United States senator once said, "The Ten Commandments have no place in politics," but when later on became the statesman without a job" he found that the people of his state did not agree with him. The Ten Commandments have a place in every age and in every field of life where right and wrong are involved. The first four commandments pertain to our duties to God. They rightly come first and should come first in our lives. No man can do his full duty to his fellows unless he first sustains the right attitude toward God. These commandments are therefore carefully worthy of our prayerful study and earnest practice.

1. The first commandment exalts God and denounces idolatry. "Thou shalt have no other gods before Me." God must be supreme in our lives or He has no place in them at all. Idolatry has always flourished in heathen lands. Nor need we think that we are exempt from the temptation to it because we worship no visible idol. Anything that occupies our hearts and lives above God is an idol. It is something that comes before God and it must be subordinated and God given the supreme place or we are idolaters and are under the condemnation of this broken or little commandment. May this be our prayer:

The nearest idol I have knelt to,
Whate'er that idol be,
Help me to tear it from Thy throne
And worship only Thee.

2. The second commandment condemns the worship of images. Many of the ancients worshiped images not as gods, but as representing the gods and such worship is not wanting in some professed Christian churches today. But image worship soon leads to idolatry and for that reason should be avoided. The worshiper of an image of Christ at first simply represents Christ, but soon leads to the worship of the image alone. The visible takes the place of the invisible, and finally the image is worshiped. All thought of the reality back of it is forgotten, and he bows to the work of men's hands instead of to God and our Saviour. This commandment is most sweeping in its scope. "Anything in the heaven above, the earth beneath or the waters under the earth." Let us exercise great caution and fear to go into idolatry through what may seem a practical way of worshiping God.

3. The third commandment condemns profanity and includes in it all irreverence toward sacred things. "Thou shalt not take the name of the Lord thy God in vain." Yet how rapidly is profanity increasing. It is a most senseless sin, and yet it is ever on the increase. In public places of all descriptions profane and vulgar language is daily heard. Devout men and innocent children have their pure hearts shocked by this baseness of man. It is an outrage to public decency, and human laws against it are rigorously enforced. But, although it is so, God will not hold them guiltless who taketh His name in vain." Nor are men the only offenders. Women and girls are often prone to having formed the habit of using the Lord's name in vain. Let us guard our tongues and speak only reverently of God's name and revere all sacred things.

4. The fourth commandment enjoins the keeping of the Sabbath day. "Remember the Sabbath day to keep it holy." The Sabbath day was instituted at the close of the creation and later incorporated into God's law. See what desecration of the Sabbath there is today! God's house is deserted, His word is neglected, Christ's service is ignored, and the day is given up to unnecessary work, lazy loafing about the house, visitation among friends and pleasure seeking. Many excuse themselves by saying, "It is the only day I have." But the opposite is the real case. It is the only day that is not ours. God gave us six out of seven and kept one for Himself. Will we rob Him of that?

BIBLE READINGS.

Gen. i. 1; Deut. v. 1-7; Ex. xxv. 5, 6; Josh. xxiii. 1-7; Isa. xlv. 5-8; Ps. cxxxv. 15-21; Lev. xix. 1-3, 11, 12; John ii. 23; iii. 5; I John v. 21.

Christian Endeavor in Ireland.

Eight years ago there were in Ireland eight Methodist Christian Endeavor societies. Today there are 150. The membership has grown from 3,300 to 6,500.

Thirteen new societies have recently been added to the Irish Christian Endeavor union, the denominations represented being Methodist, Presbyterian and Baptist.

It Stands For Work.

The Endeavor movement is meant to stand for real work, hard work. Let us see to it that we live up to the conception.—R. Bayles, President of Tasmania Union.

Its Beginning In Tasmania.

EPWORTH LEAGUE.

July 14: "The Snare of Avarice."—Luke xviii. 18-25.

By REV. WALTER J. YATES, D. D.

Passages for reference—Ex. xxiii. 8; Prov. xi. 28; Luke xii. 15-21; Phil. iv. 11-13; I Tim. vi. 6-10.

"How hardly shall they that have riches enter into the kingdom of God!"

"Thou shalt take no bribe, for a bribe blindeth them that have sight and perverteth the words of the righteous."

Is money, then, such a bad thing to have? Few persons will really believe this, and still fewer will from choice be without it. Does the Bible actually condemn the possession of wealth? This matter needs most careful thought, especially by young people who have to fix their ideals and life purposes and choose the path they will follow without having had the benefit of extended experience. There is grave danger on the one side of fanatical narrowness and bigotry and on the other of a lax conformity to the standards of the unchristian world around.

Thrift is commended and commanded in all parts of the Bible, and especially is it enjoined on the Christian in the practical parts of the New Testament. With this is coupled frugality. Wherever these are practiced there naturally follows a surplus of products over the immediate needs for use, and hence wealth is begun. This is not an evil and is not condemned. It is the plain path to human betterment.

The instinct to be grasped is the insect sentiment, one has toward this accumulation, the estimate which is put on the riches and the intention regarding their use. The danger is not in the stuff, but in the man. It is not the goods of the man, but the man's good that is important. Character acquisition and not cash accumulation is the end to be sought. We are to make men, and the making of money is of value only as it assists in this.

The secret in a surplus is of great moment to every young person. It was John Wesley who used to say, "Make all you can and save all you can." But he also said in connection with it, "Give all you can." Every young man and woman at the very beginning of money earning should begin also the practice of economy and the laying aside of some part of the income. A part should be sacredly devoted to church expenses and benevolence, but another part should be saved and laid up for future needs and uses. This will be one of the most powerful forces in counteracting the tendency to avarice, which is an undue estimate of riches.

There is scarcely another evil of which we are in greater danger at the present time than this same spirit of avarice. The haste to be rich infects the whole body of society. The recent amassing of enormous fortunes by many poor people in many different ways, the increase of luxuries and changes in mode of living, all tend to increase the effort for means to gratify desires.

Settle one thing securely in mind, that no amount of goods and wealth will satisfy the soul's desires. Settle your estimate of the value of money to you and limit yourself to that. Keep the heart under control and rule your desires for things rightly as you restrain every other impulse to evil. What others may have or may lack is no standard for you. Master your spirit and get only that in quality and quantity which will be of benefit. Gluttony in eating and intemperance in drinking you avoid. Shun more carefully the intoxication of riches, for it is more deadly and less curable. What shall be your limit? As well ask how much you ought to eat at a meal. Find out your needs and capacity; that is your task. But beware of an overestimate.

Special Promise to Christians.

Christians are brethren. With a community of interests, they have common needs and wants. Here is our Lord's special promise to them when they meet together to ask what they in common desire. There are promises to private prayer, to family prayer, to public prayer. This promise is to the harmony of prayer. Giving the smallest number that could form a union, Christ gives the largest encouragement to united prayer. Very sweet is the assurance of His presence then. That is enough. He is the shekinah in this body of holies. It is He who binds the saints together when they say "our." When He is one of a praying company, what wonder that "it shall be done for them?" As Westcott says, "Their prayer is only some form of teaching transformed into a supplication, and so it will necessarily be heard." They ask in His name. That pleads His authority and His wisdom. Christ has omnipotence and omniscience. We have neither. It were not to be considered if their prayer preceded the first and not the second. Let us therefore have faith and "keep not silence till He establish Jerusalem."—John Reid.

Sun and Shadow.

It is the sun that makes the shadows possible, beloved; do not forget that. So shall thou learn the first of all needed lessons for dark days. When it is midnight even the sun has not gone out; the dark old earth has rolled its own bulk between its face and the sun; it is dark because of its own shadow.

How often, O my soul, hast thou turned thy back upon God and moved ed because thou were in the darkness! Thy sun shall not go down, however dark the clouds above thee. Nay, as the moon and earth light each other because they face a common sun so shalt thou give God's reflected light to other souls in present need, as then thyself shalt see God's light in other darkness.—Rev. W. E. Barton, D. D.

BOROUGH TO EXPERIMENT

Will Expend $1,000 to Ascertain Merits of Hassam Pavement on Somerset Street.

P. S. C. GIVES $100

Pave to Be Laid Between Tracks—Only Two Dissenting Votes in Council Meeting.

In response to a request from the Public Service Corporation, the borough Council voted Friday to place Hassam pavement between the trolley rails on Somerset street, in connection with the improvement contemplated on the thoroughfare between Park and Lincoln places. A resolution to this effect brought out a lengthy discussion and it was finally passed with Councilman Van Winkle and Krewson voting against it.

A petition was received from George F. White and J. B. Stewart asking that a short stretch of Giraud avenue, between Willow and Myrtle avenues, be macadamized. The estimated cost is $150 and they expressed their willingness to pay a third. The work was ordered done under this agreement.

Elvin Smalley, who has been acting tillerman in Hose Company No. 1 for the past months, was appointed to the place permanently.

NORTH BRANCH.

The Christian Endeavor Society, which has been holding meetings in the Presbyterian church, has effected an organization as follows: President, J. Marion Van Derveer; vice president, Miss Margaret Van Derbeek; recording secretary, Miss Carolyn Lane; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Charles E. Corwin; treasurer, Mrs. J. Marion Van Derveer; organist, Mrs. E. Wade Clark.

R. V. Todd, principal of the Fairview School, near Neshanic Station, has gone to his home in McAllisterville, Pa., to spend the summer. He was accompanied by his cousin, Miss Keturah Apgar, of Lebanon, who will visit there for some time.

Rev. Thomas D. Wesley, pastor of the Presbyterian church at Pluckemin, exchanged pulpits yesterday morning with Rev. C. R. Keubler, of Hackensack.

Rev. Isaac Sperling, pastor of the Reformed church at South Branch, lectured in the schoolhouse at Cedar Grove yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Williamson, of North Branch, have returned from a visit to Mr. and Mrs. Skillman Hageman, at Blawenburg.

Mrs. Matilda Higgins, of South Branch, is spending a week in Plainfield with her daughter, Mrs. George Strathie.

INDUSTRIAL ITEMS.

The same force that moves a ton on a smooth highway will move eight tons on a railway or thirty-two tons on a canal.

There are more pulp mills in northern New York than in all of the rest of the country combined, and last year 3,646,693 cords of wood were chewed up in them.

Women compositors of Christiania and Bergen, Norway, are to be paid the same rates as men after five years' apprenticeship and passing a test of full qualifications.

Paper pails are the latest sanitary device for the delivery of milk in London and other large English cities. They are used only once, are made of pulp and sterilized.

Too Much Culture.

"Aunt Penelope Wiggins," as everybody called her, was visited one summer by a niece, a Vassar college graduate. Aunt Penelope was one of the most hospital souls alive, by she was not greatly impressed by the superior learning of her young relative and one day she freed her mind about her thus:

"Talk to me about what a college education does for a girl! What do you suppose Matilda said to me the first day she came? She said: 'I'm so glad to meet you aunty! You account your name as one of Aunty Penultimate, don't you?' Did you ever hear such nonsense? I had to tell her my name wasn't Aunty Penultimate, but Aunty Penelope, and I thought she would die a-laughing!"

Tampering With the Truth.

A school teacher trying to explain to his class the meaning of the word "conceited" said:

"Suppose I would go around saying, 'Look how good I am to my class,' or bragging about how much I know or how good looking I am—what would you say I was?"

"A liar," instantly responded his class.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Randolph, of Myrtle avenue, have been spending a few days at Lake Minnewaska.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dunavan and daughter, of Rochester, N. Y., spent Saturday in town with relatives.

Mrs. James Petrie and daughter, Mrs. Grace Williams, of East Sixth street, are sojourning at Asbury Park.

Edwin DeGraw, of Philadelphia, has been spending several days with his brother, Charles DeGraw, of West Front street.

VERSE WORTH READING.

Breezes of the Prairie.

Oh, the scent of the sage comes drifting down on the breath of a prairie breeze,
From the plains where the bunch-grass ripples brown, like the waves of the summer seas,
And the dear, sweet smell of the hillside pines and the cotton woods that grow
In canyons deep comes home to me when the west winds gently blow.

I can see the bulk of a milling herd in the rain clouds massing black
(By the angry breath of the storm wind stirred) and riders on its track;
I can hear the rush of a mad stampede when the lightnings flash and glow,
And wild hoofs beating the prairie sod when the stirring west winds blow.

Oh, for the feel of a braided rein and the thrum of a prairie steed,
And the brave, true hearts that the open plain and the wind-swept mountains breed,
Oh, for the days on the long divides and nights by the camp fire's glow,
Hard on the trail of the herds that roam where the prairie breezes blow.

Man Who's Down and Out.

A song for the down and blue boys.
The fellow who plods the road
And tries to win in the battle's din,
And loses, and loses his load.

A song, I say, for the man who toils
And laughs in the endless fight—
Who does his best 'neath the clouded skies,
And tries to win with right.

A song for the man who labors
With never a grouch or frown—
Who seeks no fame or lofty name,
Though fate comes down on him down.

The man who bends unto his task,
Though fate has been unkind,
And does his best to reach the crest
With thongs that chafe and bind.

A song for the man who loses,
No matter where he may be—
Who knows the cost of efforts lost,
And grouches not for his misery.

It isn't much, the song I give.
His life is short, no doubt;
But a word of cheer for the fellow here
Who lost—who's down and out!
—Will F. Griffin, in Milwaukee Sentinel.

His Old-Time Religion.

Old-time religion, people, is the kind that suits me best—
Sweet fields of Eden there, invitin' you to rest!
Now and then a tempest on Jordan's waves and banks,
But all of us enlisted in the hallelulah ranks!

Old-time religion, people, made flowers in wintry ways,
An' lifted soul to the music of the old camp-meetin' days;
'Twas then the brighter, country was beamin' on the night—
"Sweet fields arrayed in livin' green, an' rivers of delight!"

Old-time religion, people, is what I want to know—
To sprinkle with the fire of faith the new religion's snow!
An' when this life is over, with its sorrows an' its sighs,
The old-time religion to light me to the skies!
—Atlanta Constitution.

The Old-Time Games.

I want to go back to the home nest,
And swing on the sycamore tree;
I want to go home again and rest
And let my heart grow free;
And play the games with the old-time zest
With the boy that I used to be:
"Chicka-ma-chica-ma-cra-nee-crow,
Went to the well to wash her toe,
When she got back her chickens were gone!
What time, old witch?"

I want to play hide and seek again,
And climb in the old hay loft.
Oh, the world is empty and all in vain
Its riches, and oft and oft
I turn aside from the path of pain
To be a wiser soft:
"One zall, two zall, zickerzall, zan,
Bobtail, vinegar, tickerzil, tan,
Hare, scarum, Irish, scarum
Swingerum, Swangerum,
Washumbuck."
—Celia Mayver Robinson, in New York Sun.

A Brutal Reminder.

A string of harness once did draw
A circus chariot gay.
The foremost looked behind and saw
The others on their way.
Quoth he, "The real work is mine,
Those others simply walk in line;
Just think how they would feel my loss!"
Fool hoss!

A man once stood before a crowd
Who cheered his words full oft.
He spoke to them in accents loud
And oft they laughed and laughed.
And to himself he sometimes said,
"Mine is the only thinking head—
The one exception of the class."
Fool man!
—Washington Star.

Still Waters.

I have been silent, dear, you say, for long,
Ayes, yet reproach for this I reckon wrong.
Does not the proverb say
That quiet waters run not loud, but still?
The shallow babblings of my rhyming rill
Content me not to-day:

My happy heart beats to rhythm sweeter
Than can be bound a slave to rhyme and meter.
Why prate should I employ
When to the music of your love so strong
My life is vocal with the sweetest song?
I live the poem joy.
—Maud Scofield Beeson, in the Century.

The Old Man on Deck.

Say, I'm a ol' rheumatic—
An' it tickles me in spring.
But you jes' play a fiddle,
An' I'll hit the "pigeon-wing."

They say the old man's done fer—
A-goin' down the hill;
But you jes' play a fiddle,
An' I'll "double-shuffle" still!

That's life an' joy amazin'
In this ol' worl'—left an' right;
Ef that's Cain yit fer the talkin'
The ol' man's yit a fightin'!
—Atlanta Constitution.

Sweet Sunset.

Give me bright eyes at sunset,
And silence o'er the scene,
With deeper shades and softer hues
Than through the day have been.

Give me bright eyes at sunset,
And music on the sea,
Give me those fairy siren strains,
Of Nature's melody.

Give me bright eyes at sunset,
That in the waning light
They'll grow in dreams of beauty,
And speak a sweet "good night."
—La Touche Hancock, in New York Sun.

BANK PRESIDENT ASKS A FAVOR.

"Mr. Smithly," said the bank president as he called the cashier into his private office and motioned him to be seated, "I want to ask you a few questions. Is it true that you just purchased a home at a cost of $35,000?"

"I have, sir," replied the cashier, as he turned pale.

"And that you own an automobile worth $5,000?"

"Y-yes, sir."

"And a yacht worth $7,000?"

"Y-yes, sir."

"And three race horses valued at $15,000?"

"I—I do, sir."

"And a dog worth $2,000?"

"Y-yes, sir."

"And that you sometimes lose vast sums at poker?"

"Y-yes, sir."

"And live at the rate of $50,000 a year?"

"P-pretty near that, sir."

"Mr. Smithly," continued the bank president as he lowered his voice, "I want to ask you a favor. Your salary is $2,000 a year, is it not?"

"It is, sir," replied the cashier as he arose from his seat and sighed and wiped the perspiration from his forehead. "I—I suppose I am to hand in my resignation at once, sir?"

"Not at all, my boy—not at all! I just want to ask if you won't change jobs with me for a few years. I don't seem to be able to make much headway in this institution on my measly salary of $20,000 a year."—A. B. Lewis, in Judge.

Judicial Flattery.

"On what ground, sir," sternly asked the Judge, "do you seek to evade your duty as a citizen?"

"On the ground, your honor," responded the man who had been summoned as a juror, "that I am 65 years old and no longer legally liable to jury service."

"You don't look it by 20 years, sir," said the judge, "but your excuse is sufficient, and, of course, I shall not—"

"Still, your honor," interrupted the other, "inasmuch as your honor puts it before me in the light of my duty as a citizen, I am willing to waive my claim to exemption and will serve with pleasure."—Chicago Tribune.

Wild Scramble.

"How many courses do they have?" whispered a fly guest to a fly maid who was about to take his first meal in the country boarding house.

"Only one," replied the old boarder, "and we call that the 'race course.'"

"Race course? That's a queer name."

"Not at all. You have to race or you don't get anything at all."—Chicago News.

Grand Larceny Again.

Eva—Have you confess that you kissed Ethel?

Jack—Most assuredly.

Eva—But when I asked you if you had ever kissed another girl didn't you say "No, honestly?"

Jack—Of course I did. You see I always kiss them dishonestly. It is no harm to steal a kiss, you know.—Chicago Daily News.

TOO BUSY TO TALK.

Mistress—How is it I never hear say talk in the kitchen, Jane, when your young man visits you?

Jane—Oh, ma'am, he's that modest that he does nothing but eat when he calls on me.

An Observation.

The man who has the softest snap (It's saying nothing rash)
Is he who almost always sure
To have the most hard cash.
—Judge.

Enough to Last.

"Are you going to the seashore this summer?"

"Nothing doing this summer."

"Why not?"

"I was done last summer."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Why He Stays Away.

Mrs. Jones—Do you feel that when your husband is away from home he is thinking of you?

Mrs. Smith—Yes. He thinks of me, and that's why he stays away.—Judge.

Beats Some Men.

"Is Tompkins's wife intellectual?"

"Is she! That woman knows all about a railroad time table."—Milwaukee Sentinel.

Time to Break.

Miss Ascum—Have you really broken your engagement to him?

Miss Flyte—Oh, yes. I just had to. He was getting too sentimental—began to talk to me about matrimony.—Philadelphia Press.

WITH THE SAGES.

Every man stamps his own value on himself.—Schiller.

Never mind so much where your work may lie, do it.—Spurgeon.

As every thread of gold is valuable, so is every moment of time.—J. Mason.

You do not learn that you may live —you live that you may learn.—John Ruskin.

There is no trait of human character so potential for, weal or woe as firmness.—Greatrix.

The time of life is short,
To spend that shortness basely, 'twere too long.—Shakespeare.

The virtue of a man is measured, not by extraordinary exertions, but by every day conduct.—Pascal.

Our grand business is not to see what lies dimly at a distance, but to do what clearly lies at hand.—Carlyle.

The world is a looking-glass. Laugh at it and it laughs back; frown, and your own gloom is recast.—George Eliot.

STOP THAT RACE!

No matter what the Legislature may do, it is a serious question whether the foolish New York autoists will be able to quell all their dangerous speed spending contest in this State. Certainly among the ranks of our law-abiding and sensible citizens, there are men who will use every effort to have the courts restrain the promoters of the race from carrying out their plans. And there are lawyers who will fight the matter for them without a big legal retainer first being produced.

As we understand it, the proposition is not only to divert the public highways from the purposes to which they are dedicated but to call out the militia to guard the course. That there are constitutional barriers to both of these schemes is the argument made by lawyers of experience. Article 1, paragraph 12, of the Constitution, says that "The militia shall be in strict subordination to the civil power." This, it is argued, would prevent the militia from coming into Union county unless the local authorities are unable to cope with the situation. Another provision of the Constitution appears to serve as insurmountable obstacle to the idea of turning the highways into a race course. Article 4, section 7, paragraph 11, of that instrument, says: "The Legislature shall not pass private, local or special laws in any of the following enumerated cases, that is to say: Laying out, opening, altering and working roads or highways; vacating any road, town plot, street, alley or public grounds, &c."

We hope and expect that, if it comes to the worst, the law will be resorted to to prevent disgrace being cast on New Jersey by such an exhibition.

If the Freitlughysen law is good for one day of the year it is good for every day in the year; if it is good for the taxpayers, it is good for non-taxpayers, and furthermore, if the race is not good in New York is it not good in New Jersey?

The Gloucester race track is an unpleasant memory. Then why substitute it here? Let us not bring the State's name into disgrace again, even if for one day?

NEWEST APRONS.

They May Be Daintily Trimmed With Lace and Ribbons.

The dainty aprons which appeal so strongly to a woman can be made to be both useful and ornamental. Both for fancy work and afternoon tea or for a chafing dish party a pretty apron is a very necessary as well as an attractive addition to one's dress.

Every one likes a novelty, and even the work apron can be cut in a new shape, while those for afternoon tea or to be used with the chafing dish can be made as charming as possible.

They may be very elaborate with lace and embroidery, and bright ribbons to add to the beauty or quite simple of fine sheer material, with a featherstitched ruffle, edged with valenciennes lace, as the only decoration.

Some women wear fancy aprons when they are dressed for an afternoon at home, and a fine white one can be changed in appearance by having several shades of delicate ribbons to use on different occasions.

These aprons are big scales, just large enough to serve the purpose and preserve the shape. The most useful work apron should be of generous proportions, as it is not generally used for dress occasions.

Colored embroidery is used frequently upon fancy aprons with dainty effect and is a welcome change from the all white embroidery.

Attractive little aprons of colored lawn or dimity are shown to be worn with light dresses. One of pale blue lawn, embroidered in white mercerized cotton, will be quite effective. The ruffle on this is graduated in shape and lies perfectly smooth along the sides.

The hem is finished with featherstitching, also in white, and edged with valenciennes lace. Large polka dots are embroidered around the edge of the apron where the ruffle is joined, and this hem may also be finished with featherstitching.

The band for the pocket is of wide cambric beading, through which pale blue satin ribbon is run for the strings.

Any light color, also white, can be used for this apron.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS.

If you wish to obtain a high luster on your kitchen range, rub your stove polish with very strong cocoanuts.

When trimming lamps use a pair of old manicure scissors. They round out the ends of the wick and prevent it from smoking.

ON ACCOUNT OF A MAN

By ALBERTA S. BROWNELL.

(Copyright, by Daily Story Pub. Co.)

It was when I was waitin' on in Robinson's cafe that I first got to know Rose Noonan and Mame McMann.

Robinson's, yer know, is noted for its good food and pretty waitresses, if I do say it. No women is allowed in there at all, and yer can bet us girls used to thank our stars for that. A woman 'll come in, yer know, and set down and look at the menoo say where from ten to 20 minutes. Then she'll say, 'I guess I'll have a ice cream—no, a Charlotte ruche,—and does bread and butter go with it?' and then when yer git half way out to the kitchen she'll shout at yer, "Say, come back a minute; I changed my mind. I guess I will have ice cream after all."

Well, Mr. Robinson, he said he couldn't be bothered by nothin' like that, so he just catered to the business men, an' say, he done a pile of business. They'd flock in there sometimes as thick as women to a bargain sale.

As I said, we had the best lookin' waitresses in town and though we was all fair-lookers, Rose Noonan and Mame McMann was the prize beauties of the bunch. They was also of a prettiness, the one bein' light and the other dark complected.

Rose was an awful pretty girl, just like a dawl, pink and white, but it was Mame that had the tongue for yer. Say, she'd keep her customers in roars. And as soon as they got to be too fresh, she'd lean over and give 'em a good swipe across the face with her hand.

Well, this Mr. Leighton that used to come was Mame's customer, and a real nice gentleman he was, too. I don't know how he done it, but he was some kind of a broker, I think. Some of the men that come in there used to be kind of rip with the girls askin' insinuatin' questions, and tellin' stories. This Mr. Leighton was never like that. I guess he wasn't afraid of a good, fat tip, neither.

Well, one day he come in and Mame's seats was all full, so he goes up and sits down by Rose. The next thing I notice, he is settin' there all the time, and Rose and Mame ain't speakin'.

He got in a way of comin' after the rush hour was over, and sittin' way up at the end of the counter, and while he was eatin' he'd talk to Rose as serious, and she'd listen as earnest to everything he said. I used to wonder what in time they were babblin' about, and I used to go slow just 'em to hear. It seemed to be mostly about books, and every now and then he was bringin' her a new book.

Rose always was awful studious. She was always tryin' to learn something. I could see it in her eye that she didn't mean to be a waitress the rest of her life.

Mr. Leighton had a way of bringin' her a flower, too, pretty near every day—one of them big chrysanthemum or cabbage-roses. Once I heard him sayin' to her, "This is the kind of rose that puts me in mind of you. You ain't like a wild rose, nor a tea rose, but you're strong and vig'rous and lovin' like this one," and, say, he was smart, Mame was.

And Rose, they say she's got a lovely home, and a nigger waiter right at her elbow all the time. I heard that Leighton asked her to marry him before ever she left Robinson's, and she said no, she wa'n't good enough for him, not havin' no education to speak of. He wouldn't hear to that, but she held out, an' at last he said he'd like to send her to school for the winter and then marry her in the spring and that's where she was all that year when we didn't know nothin' about her.

Before His Time.

A well-known New Yorker who evinces a keen interest in all that pertains to the history of our country was desirous recently, while in Boston, of visiting certain localities interesting by reason of their connection with revolutionary events.

One morning when he was going down the elevator of the Hub's biggest hotel he said to the man at the wheel:

"I wish to visit the wharf where the tea was thrown overboard."

The conductor looked somewhat mystified. "You'd better inquire at the office, sir," he said. "I guess that happened before I came here. I've been in Boston only about a year."—Puck.

Products of Andaman Islands.

The local produce of the Andaman islands consists of edible birds' nests, trepang, tortoise shells, ledj beads and resin. Of other local products in the islands it appears that the collection of India rubber has been abandoned, the cost of extraction having turned out prohibitive, while in connection with mother-of-pearl a prospecting license granted for a year to a syndicate has produced disappointing results.

AT THE DENTIST'S.

"Do you give gas here?" asked a wild-looking man who rushed into a dentist's.

"We do," replied the dentist.

"Does it put a fellow to sleep?"

"It does."

"Sound asleep, so you can't wake him up?"

"Yes."

"You could break his jaw or black his eye and he wouldn't feel it?"

"He would know nothing about it."

"How long does he sleep?"

"The physical insensibility produced by inhaling the gas lasts a minute, or probably a little less."

"I expect that's long enough. Got it all ready for a fellow to take?"

"Yes. Take a seat in this chair and show me your tooth."

"Tooth nothing!" said the excited caller, beginning rapidly to remove his coat and vest. "I want you to pull a porous plaster off my back."

SEMI-FINALS AT P. C. C.

Morgan and Glenney Win In Play For Club Championship

PLAY AT PARK CLUB

Day of Low Scores; Not One Over 90 Returned in Any of the Competitions.

The events of the greatest interest at the Plainfield Country Club on Saturday were the semi-finals for the club championship, semi-finals and finals for the consolation cup, second eight and semi-finals for the third eight cup, in addition to the weekly play for the Golf Committee and Green Committee and Scratch cups. The day was ideal for good golfing and many low scores were returned during the day.

In the semi-finals for the club championship, C. B. Morgan beat J. Whitney Baker, 3 up and 2 to play, and W. Lester Glenney beat Frank Ott Reinhart, 1 up, the match being one of the best of the day, being very close throughout.

For the consolation cup, Charles A. Stover beat L. L. Tweedy by default and Morris J. Dumont beat W. T. Glenney, 1 up, which was another very close match. Afterward Dumont and Stover in the finals and beat him, 5 up and 4 to play.

In the semi-finals for the third eight cup, L. A. Chase beat Roger F. Murray, 3 up and 2 to play, and W. B. Tyler beat Edward J. Patterson, 3 up and 2 to play. The finals for the club championship and third eight cup will be played on Saturday.

In the weekly competition for the Golf Committee cup, C. B. Morgan won first honors with a net score of 74, while his gross score of 76 gave him a leg on the Scratch cup. Leighton Calkins won second honors for the Golf Committee cup with a score of 78, while W. Lester Glenney received the one point with a 79. The scores:

C. B. Morgan, 76, 2—74; Leighton Calkins, 81, 3—78; W. Lester Glenney, 78, plus 1—79; Charles A. Stover, 93, 9—84; Stuart H. Patterson, 95, 10—85.

George E. Cathcart won first honors for the Green Committee cup, with a net score of 75. J. P. Murray finished second with a score of 79, while W. T. Merrill came in third with an 83. These scores were returned for the cup:

George E. Cathcart, 82, 7—75; James P. Murray, 84, 15—79; W. T. Merrill, 105, 22—83; T. W. Maxwell, 105, 21—84; A. E. Barclay, 102, 15—87.

In addition to the weekly competitions for the President's and Golf Club cups, play was started on Saturday for the July cup. C. B. Corning, with a net score of 73, one of the lowest of the season, won first honors for the President's and July cups, and with a gross score of 88 won first honors for the Golf Club cup, scratch event.

Low scores were the rule of the day, not a one of 90 or over being returned for the three trophies. Charles B. Morse finished second with a low score of 75, winning second honors for the President's and July cups and second for the scratch cup with a gross score of 96. W. V. Byard finished third for the President's and July cups, while Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll won the one point for the scratch cup. These scores were returned:

C. B. Corning, 88, 15—73; Charles B. Morse, 96, 21—75; W. V. Byard, 101, 25—76; Miss Lydia Loizeaux, 101, 17—84; Leon R. Thurlow, 101, 16—85; Rev. Dr. H. K. Carroll, 100, 11—89.

Funeral of Mrs. Mills.

The funeral of Mrs. William W. Mills, who died at her home on Stone street, was held from the late residence Saturday afternoon. It was conducted by Rev. Dr. George B. Shaw, pastor of the Seventh-Day Baptist church, and was attended by a gathering of relatives and friends. Interment was made in the Methodist cemetery, the bearers being four members of Perseverance Lodge, No. 74, F. of P. They were J. B. Higgins, Robert Jahn, Asa D. Pope and William Baker.

Elevating Railroad Tracks.

During the progress of the work of elevating the tracks eight inches in front of the North Avenue station, the east and westbound trains are operated on the outside tracks at that point. Before the roadbed is put back in condition again, a concrete covering will be laid over the underground tunnels with a view to making them perfectly water-tight. While this work is going on the concrete platforms at both stations are being raised to correspond with the elevation in the tracks.

Fitzsimmons Training.

Bob Fitzsimmons is training hard to get himself in condition. He has been running up and down West Front street daily for two weeks. Several battles in which he may figure have been talked of in the sporting world for a month or more.
